Moving Your Kids during PCS Season

Moving to a new area can be hard on you, but it can be especially hard on a child. The stresses of leaving friends, changing schools, and moving to a new place are common. The Military Youth on the Move website ( address at the bottom of article) has advice and tips for kids, pre-teens, teenagers, and parents. This Department of Defense (DoD) website has a page written specifically for each age group and offers advice for all stages of a move.

Packing. Getting packed can be a lot of hard work and frustrating at times. The Moving section of this website has tips to keep organized and make the packing process smooth for your kids.

Saying Goodbye. Saying goodbye to friends is one of the hardest parts of moving. By making goodbyes special for your child and his or her friends, it will make the move easier and more memorable.

On the Road. If you've ever moved before, you probably know how boring traveling to your new home can be. Be sure to brainstorm activities with your child to keep them entertained.

Be sure to guide your child through the moving process. Advice on how parents can help their child move is also included on this website. Resources are also available to ease the process for you as well.

The Military Youth on the Move website extends the moving process past the physical move. Visit the website to explore articles on leadership, money, getting involved in your community, healthy habits for kids, and much more. ## Women's Health Week "It's Your Time"

National Women's Health Week is a weeklong health observance coordinated by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office on Women's Health. It brings together communities, businesses, government, health organizations, and other groups in an effort to promote women's health. The theme for 2012 is "It's Your Time." National Women's Health Week empowers women to make their health a top priority. It also encourages women to take the following steps to improve their physical and mental health and lower their risks of certain diseases:

Visit a health care professional to receive regular checkups and preventive screenings.

- Get active.
- Eat healthy.
- Pay attention to mental health, including getting enough sleep and managing stress.
- Avoid unhealthy behaviors, such as smoking and not wearing a seatbelt or bicycle helmet.

Roth TSP Updated Information

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) will begin processing Roth Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) elections for its civilian and military customers using a phased approach beginning in June 2012 and continuing through October 2012.

As a new choice for retirement investment planning, the Roth TSP will give service members the option to contribute after-tax wages into TSP for the first time. Both the contributions and the earnings will be tax free when withdrawn, as long as the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requirements are met.

The phased implementation will ensure taxable wages and TSP contributions are computed accurately. According to DFAS officials, the schedule will provide time to complete and thoroughly test the complex changes needed to the various civilian, active duty military, and reserve component payroll systems. The complex changes address the unique and multiple pay types in the pay systems including the different requirements of the Army, Navy, and Air Force and the active duty and reserve component requirements.

Implementation will begin with Marine Corps service members in June 2012,

Obama Executive Order Safeguards Military from Predatory Schools

President Barack Obama, who traveled to Fort Stewart, Ga., to unveil the new executive order that is designed to crack down on bad actors who prey on service members and veterans considering higher education, called it vital protection to brave men and women who are often bombarded by schools that provide false or misleading information about things like interest rates on loans, credit transfers, and job placement programs.

The order, he explained, will make it easier for military members and veterans to make informed decisions about financial aid and paying for college and also takes a number of steps to fight deceptive practices by some institutions.

Obama recognized the sad truth that some unscrupulous people are "less interested in helping our men and women in uniform get ahead and more interested in making a buck." They game the system, he said, bombarding potential students with high-pressure tactics and steering them toward high-interest loans and misleading credit transfers and job placement programs.

then all Department of Defense (DoD) civilians, as well as other civilians serviced by DFAS in July 2012, to be followed by the Army, Navy, and Air Force service members in October 2012. ## Top Army General: “Victim of Online Imposters”

General Ray Odierno, the Army chief of staff, took to Facebook to warn folks that he’s being impersonated online, most likely for profit. One of the most common iterations of this scam is when a scammer poses as a soldier, using pictures and details lifted from social media, to trick lonely-hearted women out of their money. Scammers have impersonated average Joes and top officials.

General Odierno states:

“There are numerous instances of impersonation fraud on the internet. Often these consist of criminal elements impersonating military personnel for financial gain. I myself have had individuals attempt to impersonate me online in order to prey on the goodwill of individuals. My online presence consists ONLY of this facebook page, my twitter account (@GenRayOdierno), my blog on Army Live, and my Pinterest page (Ray Odierno). If anyone is being contacted through any other type of account, such as Skype, it is most certainly an imposter. Below is the link to the Internet Crime Complaint Center, which you can use as a resource. Army Strong!”

There are several scammers out there, be cautious when hearing peoples stories. Take the time to verify information before ever sending anyone money or personal information. The link for the Internet Crime Complaint Center: <http://www.ic3.gov/default.aspx>

Beware of Financial Services Scams

A scam to solicit money from Service members and Department of Defense (DoD) civilians has been identified. The letter purporting to be from DFAS asks the fiancée of a Service member to register in "our system," entitling the fiancée to benefits in the event of the Service member's death. The letter even uses the DFAS logo. DFAS does not send unsolicited email messages with attachments or letters asking you to send money to pay for some benefit. This letter is a typical phishing scam used to obtain personal information and often times, money. For more financial tips, please see: <http://www.military.com/money>

DFMWR to Host Softball Tournament

Fort Riley will kick off the softball season with the Spring Fling Softball Tournament.

The double-elimination tournament is set to begin at 8:00am, May 12 at Sacco Softball Complex.

"With most of the brigades back home, I am hoping for 30 teams," said Renee Satterlee, intramural coordinator, Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation.

The tournament will begin two hours earlier than last year's tournament, which had 24 teams participate. Teams also may be separated into divisions based on skill level.

The Spring Fling Softball Tournament originated more than 25 years ago at Fort Riley.

"Events like softball tournaments help promote wellness by alleviating some stress," Satterlee said. "This is important to our military community because deployments are a stressful time, whether for a Soldier or a Family member."

Intramural softball begins May 7, with community life softball starting two days later on May 9.

Both leagues are expected to grow from last year. Satterlee said she expects about 50 teams in the intramural league, up from 28 last year.

"Softball is probably our No. 1 sport," Satterlee said. "We get the most participants out for it."

The intramural regular season is set to end Aug. 1. The community life league will play until July 18.

For more information on the Spring Fling Softball Tournament or intramural sports, visit www.rileymwr.com or call 785-239-2813.

Fort Riley received $250k as the winner of a Bronze award in the 2011 Army Community of Excellence (ACOE) competition, and we want to hear from you on how it would be best utilized.

On www.rileymwr.com, please pick your top choice of these three:

1. Provide upgrades to Barlow Theater
2. Install drinking fountains and bathroom services at Moon Lake
3. Consolidate Outdoor Recreation Services at Camp Funston, to include Rental Center, Paintball Field and Boat and RV Parking all in one location.

Post changes local, short-distance moves policy

Effective June 1, Fort Riley will no longer fund the cost of short-distance, local moves of household goods from off-post to on-post housing, and vice versa.

According to the Joint Federal Travel Regulation, Chapter 5, government-paid short-distance local moves of household goods incident to moving to/from government or privatized housing made to accommodate a member's personal situation, convenience or morale is prohibited.

Military Families are eligible for one government-paid move when (permanent change of station) to the Fort Riley area, however, unless it is a direct move from the previous duty station, moves from off post into on-post housing will not be funded, according to Mick McCallister, housing manager, Fort Riley. This policy also applies if on-post housing is not available at the time of reporting to Fort Riley and for deployed service members.

Exceptions can and will be granted on a case-by-case basis, McCallister said, and requests must be sent to the battalion commander and coordinated through appropriate channels to the garrison commander.

Other Army installations, including Fort Drum, N.Y., Fort Hood, Texas, Fort Bragg, N.C., Fort Campbell, Ky., Fort Carson, Colo., and Fort Stewart, Ga., have already implemented policies similar to the new Fort Riley policy.

For more information about this policy, contact the Residential Communities Initiative Office at 785-239-0650. For waitlist questions or concerns, contact the Picerne Military Housing Leasing and Relocation Office or visit www.RileyPicerne.com.

Running Technique Clinic

Do you want to learn to run more efficiently and with less strain on your back and knees? Do you need to run faster for your next APFT or race? Are your lungs on fire when you run uphill?
