

Robert E. Ray

Special Agent
Environmental Protection Agency
Office of Inspector General

Robert E. Ray is a Special Agent with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Office of Inspector General. He is detailed to the Inspector General Criminal Investigator Academy (IGCIA), where he serves as a Program Manager for Basic Training. Prior to his assignment at the IGCI, Mr. Ray served in several positions at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC), including Deputy Assistant Director for Training Operations and Chief of the Training Management Division. As Chief of the Training Management Division, Mr. Ray was the Program Manager for the FLETC's three flagship basic training programs, including the Criminal Investigator Training Program.

Mr. Ray's law enforcement career also includes ten years as a Special Agent with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Inspector General, where he served in the Southeast and Midwest Regions. While assigned to the Indianapolis, Indiana field office, Mr. Ray was as a member of the Indianapolis Safe Streets Gang Task Force and a Special Deputy with the Marion County Sheriff's Department. He also served as a firearms instructor and defensive tactics instructor.

Mr. Ray earned a Bachelor of Science in Police Administration from Eastern Kentucky University. He has also completed the Senior Executive Fellows Program at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, the Leadership for a Democratic Society Program at the Federal Executive Institute, and the DHS Senior Executive Service Candidate Development Program.