

Comment no 1 - Briggs

8 April 1947

1. I should like to see a better
defense of why such restrictive
regulations are necessary. -

2. Are we to admit that we are not in a position to pass
any information to any foreign government? -

3. We have few friends in the international field. We had better hold what we have. EO 12958 3.4(b)(6)

4. We have more to lose by cutting off the [REDACTED] than not we have to gain.

Blanket Request for Translations and Other Intelligence Products of Documents Branch

1. Reference is made to your memo of 5 March 1947 concerning the verbal inquiry made of the Acting Chief, Documents Branch, by the [redacted] in that branch as to whether the [redacted] might be supplied a copy of such translation and other intelligence products prepared by the Documents Branch in response to collection directives.

2. It is impossible to give a formal ruling on this request unless it is submitted in writing by the [redacted] concerned, and when submitted it should be routed as indicated in 3 b below. This written statement should provide a clear indication of the extent of the coverage desired. It is desired that Requirements Branch reply to Mr. Sigmall accordingly.

3. Until it is possible to formulate formal policy with regard to the relationship between OIG collection and dissemination activities and foreign agencies, Documents Branch and OGD should be governed by the following general principles:

a. For administrative reasons, blanket requests cannot generally be honored.

b. Translations and other intelligence products asked for by foreign agencies, [redacted] will be honored only if submitted through established channels (Dept. of State; Foreign Liaison Branch, WDCB, and OHI, as applicable).

c. Dissemination of material prepared by the Documents Branch in response to such requests will be routed in accordance with established procedure to the Reading Center, Dissemination Branch. The Reading Center will refer such material to the Control Division, Requirements Branch, OGD, for screening to insure that unauthorized dissemination of material on which any of the I.A.S. agencies may have placed a limitation does not take place.

4. The procedures outlined in paragraph 3 reflect informal views within ID, WDCB and OHI and include the informally expressed views of State-War-Navy Coordinating Sub-Committee for Military Information Control, which has primary responsibility for policy covering the release of classified military information to foreign powers.

4. If the [redacted] raise any question as to why these procedures are necessary, they should be courteously informed that they are in no way intended to cut the [redacted] off from the information which they need have, and to which they are entitled, but will insure their ultimately receiving better service through the proper use of established administrative channels.

5. The [redacted] report of 15 March 1947 is returned herewith.
