

Michael L. Brosnan
Senior Deputy Comptroller
Large Bank Supervision

Michael L. Brosnan is Senior Deputy Comptroller (SDC) for Large Bank Supervision in the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC).

As SDC for Large Bank Supervision, Mr. Brosnan is responsible for supervision activities in the largest national banks and federal branches and agencies, and oversees operations of the International Banking Supervision group and the OCC's London Office. In addition, he serves as a member of the OCC's Executive Committee and the Committee on Bank Supervision. He assumed these duties in December 2010.

Previously, Mr. Brosnan served as Deputy Comptroller for Large Banks, where he was responsible for line supervision of a portfolio of large banks, ensuring that risk-based strategies and staffing are effectively aligned and executed.

Mr. Brosnan rejoined the OCC in 2008 from Bank of America, where he served as the Enterprise Operational Risk Executive. He also served as the Risk Manager for the Global Technology and Operations, Chief Administrative Office, and Supplier Risk Management organizations of the bank. Mr. Brosnan previously served as Compliance Executive for Bank of America Card Services, and he oversaw the Operational Risk Management Division of MBNA America.

Before joining MBNA (which subsequently was acquired by Bank of America) in 2004, Mr. Brosnan spent 21 years with the OCC, most recently as Examiner-in-Charge for Bank of America. In 2003, he was named Senior National Bank Examiner, the highest honor and designation available to bank examiners.

In previous roles at the OCC, Mr. Brosnan served as Deputy Comptroller for Risk Evaluation and as Director of Treasury and Market Risk. He also served as Chairman of the OCC's National Risk Committee and the OCC's Steering Committee representative on the President's Working Group for Financial Markets. He first joined the OCC in 1983 in Miami, and was commissioned as a National Bank Examiner in 1986.

Mr. Brosnan holds a bachelor of arts and a master's degree in business administration from Lynchburg College in Virginia. He has also earned the Chartered Financial Analyst designation.

