Factor 2. Supervisory Controls

Level 2-2, 125 points

The supervisor provides work assignments indicating what is to be done, applicable policies, procedure and methods to follow, priority of assignments, and deadlines.

While the incumbent carries out recurring assignments independently; the supervisor is consulted on problems or situations which are not covered by instructions or standard operating procedures.

The work is reviewed upon completion for compliance with established procedures. Closer review is exercised on more difficult assignments or if the employee has not previously performed similar assignments. As experience and training on the job progresses, the incumbent will independently plan and carry out all aspects of the assignment and resolve the full range of problems.
