MEMORANDUM FOR: CAROL H. RASCO
Domestic Policy Council

Attention: Roslyn Miller

FROM: Don Kulick Don Kulick
Department of Labor

SUBJECT: IN and WV Consolidated State Plan Proposals for Children, Youth, and Families

As requested, the Department of Labor poses the following questions/comments regarding the proposals:

1. Please elaborate--perhaps by using three or four Federal grant programs as an example--as to how, at the operational level, you will coordinate the delivery of services, yet maintain separate financial management systems and separate financial and program data reporting systems for each grant.
2. Please elaborate--again, by illustration if possible--as to how you will ensure that the eligibility criteria for each grant will be met.
3. The Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) has several distinct titles with distinct (albeit relatively broad) target groups. Do you intend to include all JTPA titles in the consolidated plan and operations?
4. The West Virginia proposal states: "A Family Resource Network also includes individuals who are representative of the organizations providing public and private job training. . . . It is not necessary for each category to be represented on the Family Resource Network." Is it a local call as to whether the local JTPA program (or Private Industry Council) or the State Employment Service local or area office is represented on the Network? For practical purposes, does it matter much if JTPA or ES is an "official" member of the Network?

FROM: Shay Bilchik

SUBJECT: Next Consolidated State Plan Meeting; Areas of Inquiry

- 1) Can you give examples of specific program development and implementation situations which would be impacted by the Federal coordination and cooperation you contemplate?
- 2) If it were possible, which administrative regulations or statutory provisions would you like modified to assist you in working with your consolidated plan?
- 3) What level of Federal involvement in the development of a Consolidated State Plan do you contemplate?
- 4) Would the reallocation proposals present potential intraprogram conflicts with grant allocation provisions built into the OJJDP statute?
- 5) Have the issues of potential auditing and accounting problems been addressed in relation to aggregating of funds?
- 6) Is Executive Order 12372 a sufficient authority upon which to base the objectives of the proposed plans? E.O. 12372 revoked OMB Circular 95, which applied to the grant clearinghouse plan.

I look forward to seeing you next Tuesday.

SUBJECT: QUESTIONS FOR WEST VA. AND INDIANA ON CONSOLIDATED
PLANS

1. Please explain, as concretely as possible, how you intend to achieve the cost sharing and joint delivery of services that you describe in your plan. For example, what accounting or other methods will you use to achieve such integration while complying with reporting and program requirements applicable to each agency and funding stream involved? Will each contributing social service agency keep its own records to meet reporting and other requirements? Will the state assume responsibility for such accounting?
2. Can you provide a drawing or diagram which reflects the anticipated mechanisms or structures you describe in answering question 1?
3. Are you certain that your plans present no legal obstacles, even at the implementation stage. Why, precisely? What measures will you take to ensure that the implementation of your plan is consistent with all federal laws and regulations?
4. What potential obstacles could arise at the implementation stage that might, although currently not contemplated, require a waiver?

REMARKS/COMMENTS

COMMENTS FROM USDA REGARDING THE WEST VIRGINIA AND INDIANA PLANS FOR THE CONSOLIDATION OF SERVICES TO CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

We support the overall concept of improving the targeting and coordination of services to children and families at the delivery level. We agree that states and local communities can go a long way toward meeting this goal within current federal laws and regulations and USDA looks forward to working with the states to help them accomplish this challenging goal.

QUESTIONS:

o How do the states anticipate dealing with any barriers which may emerge as a result of existing federal rules? For example, one would anticipate that a common application form, unless extremely lengthy or computer-assisted could require some adjustments of current program rules. How can we facilitate consideration of issues which cross program and agency lines?

o Is there a plan for phasing in each of the 199 programs?

o Do the states plan on providing more detail on program and service priorities or would the details be left up to the local planning process?

o How will the states ensure the local plans are consistent with federal statutes and regulation?

o How would the states propose to evaluate the success of this effort? Do the states intend to assess changes in client outcomes as well as changes in the service delivery system?

MEMORANDUM FOR: Maureen A. Kennedy, Deputy Assistant Secretary,
Office of Policy Development and Research, TP

FROM:  Joseph F. Smith, Acting Director, Policy Coordination
Unit, COOP

SUBJECT: West Virginia and Indiana - State Consolidated Planning
Proposal

Comments on the West Virginia/Indiana Consolidated Planning
Proposal

1. Overall it appears to fit in very nicely with the Department's and CPD's goal of streamlining planning, application and reporting requirements.
2. As Assistant Secretary Stegman indicates, the role of CPD programs is unclear. The states' laws indicate that this plan would be complimentary to existing federal requirements for State and local governments.
3. State and Entitlement CDBG programs, both included in this package have State and local planning requirements. This plan would clearly supplement those documents, but it may be an additional burden on individual recipients.
4. Are the States looking for waivers for these planning requirements?
5. The CDBG programs fund activities that support more than children and families. It would be difficult to waive the requirements for these programs (State and Entitlement) due to the narrow focus of these State plans.
6. Since this is clearly in line with CPD's thinking, we certainly favor the concept envisioned by the States of West Virginia and Indiana.

1991 and 1992, it no longer exists. The Housing and Community Development Act of 1992 combined that program with another nationally competitive program, Supportive Housing.

One homeless program not mentioned by the States, which could be a candidate for such an approach, is the Emergency Shelter Grants Program. Cities and States receive ESG funds by formula and have local control over which activities to fund within general eligibility guidelines. Homeless families with children and homeless youth may be assisted through this program.

Questions

It is not clear from my reading of the proposal why the nine particular HUD programs were chosen for inclusion in this effort. Perhaps if more details were provided, we could offer additional suggestions for ways in which these and other HUD programs could be used to support this effort.

The Office of Community Planning and Development, which is responsible for administering six of the nine programs mentioned, is in the process of preparing comments on the proposal. I will forward those comments as soon as I receive them.

As I am sure Mike pointed out during your meetings, HUD is limited in its ability to waive program requirements. Unlike other departments, we have no authority to waive statutory provisions, such as those relating to planning. Given this reality, I offer the following comments on the proposals:

Reliance on Executive Order 12372

Both proposals rely heavily on Executive Order 12372. As you know, this Executive Order was issued in 1983 as part of the Reagan Administration's New Federalism. The Executive Order and its regulatory implementation by HUD at 24 CFR Part 52 emphasize the role of States in order

"to foster an intergovernmental partnership and a strengthened Federalism by relying on State processes and on State, areawide, regional and local coordination for review of proposed Federal financial assistance and direct Federal development."

Both the West Virginia and Indiana consolidated plans apparently seek to build on the Executive Order by requesting HUD approval of those plans under the Executive Order within existing statutory and regulatory requirements. We strongly support such efforts and, as mentioned earlier, HUD has already begun a similar process by consolidating the planning and application requirements for the CDBG Entitlement and State programs with those of other programs.

Unfortunately, not all of the nine HUD programs identified by these two States require the submission of plans. For example, CDBG Special Purpose Grants and Technical Assistance, the Work-Study Program, and the Public Housing Resident Management program do not require a plan. For this reason, relying on the substantive provisions of the Executive Order may provide little practical benefit.

Nationally Competitive Programs

The proposals offered by Indiana and West Virginia are short on details as to how this approach would be implemented. Particularly, with regard to how the HUD programs identified by the States which are competitive and not within local control would be made a part of this collaborative effort. For example, Drug Elimination is a fairly targeted program which is competitive. Individual PHAs who are the applicants for this program, could submit proposals consistent with the strategies suggested by Indiana and West Virginia, but each PHA must compete with all other PHAs nationally. Unfortunately, because these programs are statutorily competitive, we cannot grant a waiver to channel funds to those organizations outside of that process.

Although SAFAH, the other competitive program mentioned, was targeted to homeless families with children ready to move from transitional to permanent housing in

MEMORANDUM FOR: Carol Rasco, Assistant to the President

FROM:  Maureen A. Kennedy, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy Development

SUBJECT: Request for Comments on Proposals from the States of West Virginia and Indiana.

This is in response to your request to Michael Stegman that we review West Virginia and Indiana's proposals to prepare consolidated State plans. The proposed plans would help these two States better coordinate the 199 separate Federal programs serving children, youth, and families. West Virginia and Indiana have identified nine HUD programs to be included in this effort:

1. Housing Counseling Assistance Programs;
2. Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Entitlement Cities;
3. CDBG Small Cities Program;
4. CDBG State Program;
5. CDBG Special Purpose Grants (Technical Assistance);
6. Community Development Work-Study Program;
7. Supplemental Assistance for Facilities to Assist the Homeless (SAFAH) Program;
8. Public Housing Resident Management Program; and
9. Public and Indian Housing Drug Elimination Program.

The idea of State-wide coordinated efforts across all programs serving children, youth, and families so that they do not face a fragmented system of service delivery is a good one. In fact, this effort is consistent with the Department's efforts to streamline planning, application, and reporting requirements.

HUD is currently working in partnership with States and localities to reduce unnecessary paperwork, simplify Federal requirements, and reduce administrative burdens by consolidated and simplifying planning, application, and reporting requirements for HOME, CDBG, Emergency Shelter Grants (ESG) and Housing for Persons with AIDS (HOPWA). This will be achieved through coordinating program year schedules and by combining the various application, planning, and reporting requirements for each of the programs.

It was a pleasure to speak with you earlier today. This letter serves as confirmation of our meeting on Tuesday, November 9, 1993, from 1:30-4 P.M. at the White House, with Carol Rasco, the Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy, other Core Group participants on Families and Children's Initiatives, within the Administration, and other Foundation representatives whom you are coordinating.

We look forward to your presentation and sharing of information. Both Barbara Dyer and Margaret Siegel have informed me that you have made contact with them as well.

The meeting will be held in the Old Executive Office Building, Room 472. We will need names, social security numbers and dates of birth for each of those who will be in the meeting.

Thank you for your help and attention.

Sincerely,

Suzan D. Johnson Cook,
