Dear Carol:

I wasn't quite sure how to get a letter to you, so I hope you receive this. I wanted to let you know I am coming to National Geographic's Instructional Leadership Institute from June 29 - July 28. The goal of the institute is the training of teacher advocates for education, especially geographic education, and I hope world-class students. We have been assigned Chester Finn's We Must Take Charge Now as one of several readings, and the culminating activity is a presentation on Capitol Hill. The seminars, lectures, and activities on our agenda look most stimulating. Needless to say, I am quite excited and honored to be part of this group.

I just learned this week that you are involved in the national standards process. If at all possible during the time that I am in Washington, I would love the chance to visit with you - regarding education and as just plain friends. I spoke with Lee Ann yesterday who always seems to have at least a little news of you. I watch the news with interest for glimpses of you and your work.

If you have any time, I will be staying at Thurston Hall, George Washington University. I don't yet have a phone number for the dorm but will be at National Geographic during most days. I can be reached through the office of Lydia Lewis in the Geography Education Division at 828-6646. I hope it works out that we can see each other at least briefly. If not, I continue to wish you all good things. I'm very proud of your accomplishments.

Sincerely,

Virginia White
