Dear Patsy and Carol:

Thank you for the invitation to participate in the discussion of the structure of the work of the AIDS Policy Coordinator. Unfortunately, I have a meeting on August 16th in San Francisco that I must attend. If the meeting could be moved to the 17th, at anytime during that day I could make the meeting myself. If the meeting date cannot be changed, I will work hard to select a representative who will be the most appropriate substitute.

Thank you for your interest and attention to this office. I think this meeting and these issues are extremely important, and you can count on us to support your efforts.

Dear Bob:

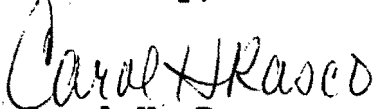

We are writing to thank you for having taken the time to meet with us recently about the future of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator's office. These meetings have provided valuable input to our process -- and we hope that they have contributed to the community's understanding of the role of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator within the White House and our efforts to find the right person for this critical position.

As we said at the meetings, President Clinton is committed to assuring that this Administration has a comprehensive and compassionate policy on HIV/AIDS -- from the White House to every agency of the federal government. Regular discussions with the community, such as those we had last week, are an integral part of assuring that we remain on course.

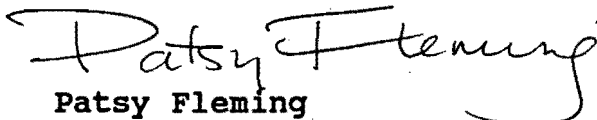

We know how important the National AIDS Policy Coordinator position is to the HIV/AIDS community. But we also heard how important it is to choose the right person. To that end, we want you to know that we intend to fill this position as expeditiously as possible -- while also being thorough in our outreach and consideration of all qualified candidates.

Thanks again for coming to the White House. We look forward to continued communication in the weeks and months ahead.

Sincerely,

Dear Debra:

We are writing to thank you for having taken the time to meet with us recently about the future of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator's office. These meetings have provided valuable input to our process -- and we hope that they have contributed to the community's understanding of the role of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator within the White House and our efforts to find the right person for this critical position.

As we said at the meetings, President Clinton is committed to assuring that this Administration has a comprehensive and compassionate policy on HIV/AIDS -- from the White House to every agency of the federal government. Regular discussions with the community, such as those we had last week, are an integral part of assuring that we remain on course.

We know how important the National AIDS Policy Coordinator position is to the HIV/AIDS community. But we also heard how important it is to choose the right person. To that end, we want you to know that we intend to fill this position as expeditiously as possible -- while also being thorough in our outreach and consideration of all qualified candidates.

Thanks again for coming to the White House. We look forward to continued communication in the weeks and months ahead.

Sincerely,

Regular discussions with the community, such as those we had last week, are an integral part of assuring that we remain on course.

We know how important the National AIDS Policy Coordinator position is to the HIV/AIDS community. But we also heard how important it is to choose the right person. To that end, we want you to know that we intend to fill this position as expeditiously as possible -- while also being thorough in our outreach and consideration of all qualified candidates.

Thanks again for coming to the White House. We look forward to continued communication in the weeks and months ahead.

Sincerely,

Dear Paula:

We are writing to thank you for having taken the time to meet with us recently about the future of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator's office. These meetings have provided valuable input to our process -- and we hope that they have contributed to the community's understanding of the role of the National AIDS Policy Coordinator within the White House and our efforts to find the right person for this critical position.

As we said at the meetings, President Clinton is committed to assuring that this Administration has a comprehensive and compassionate policy on HIV/AIDS -- from the White House to every agency of the federal government. Regular discussions with the community, such as those we had last week, are an integral part of assuring that we remain on course.

We know how important the National AIDS Policy Coordinator position is to the HIV/AIDS community. But we also heard how important it is to choose the right person. SUBJECT: Invitation

Patsy Fleming and I invite you to join us in a small group discussion on August 19, 1994, 2:00-2:45 in the White House Conference Center, Eisenhower Room in Washington.
