

U.S. Export Administration Regulations

These regulations are issued by the Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS) under laws relating to the control of certain exports, re-exports, and activities. In addition, the EAR implement antiboycott law provisions requiring regulations to prohibit specified conduct by United States persons that has the effect of furthering or supporting boycotts fostered or imposed by a country against a country friendly to United States.

The export control provisions of the EAR are intended to serve the national security, foreign policy, nonproliferation, and short supply interests of the United States and, in some cases, to carry out its international obligations. Some controls are designed to restrict access to dual use items by countries or persons that might apply such items to uses inimical to U.S. interests. The EAR also include some export controls to protect the United States from the adverse impact of the unrestricted export of commodities in short supply.

The EAR offers authoritative guidance on issues such as:

- When is an export license necessary and when is it not?
- How do you obtain an export license?
- What policies are followed in considering license applications?
- How do you know when the policies change?
- What are the latest restrictions on exports to certain countries and certain types of goods and services?
- Where are restrictive trade practices and boycotts prohibited?
- If necessary, where can you obtain further help?
