

LT Robert P. McFall
Watch Officer
White House Military Office

Lieutenant Robert McFall assumed duties as a Watch Officer in the White House Military Office in August, 2009 where he provides direct support to the Military Aides to the President and Vice President of the United States and the Director of the White House Military Office.

Lieutenant Robert P. McFall was raised in Roanoke, VA, and enlisted in the United States Navy in October of 2000. He was then accepted to attend the United States Naval Academy the following fall. He graduated from USNA with a Bachelor of Science in Political Science, and was Commissioned in May of 2005.

Prior to his tour in the White House Rob served four years aboard the AEGIS guided missile destroyer USS WINSTON S. CHURCHILL (DDG 81) where he made two deployments to the Persian Gulf. His first tour was as the Force Protection and Anti-Terrorism Officer and his second tour was as the Training, Administrative, and Visit Board Search and Seizure Officer. He is slated to report aboard USS CURTIS WILBUR (DDG-54) as the Operations Officer in May 2013.

Additionally, in 2010 LT McFall was selected as a part of the 2010-2011 Class of Next Generation National Security Leaders at the Center for a New American Security (CNAS) and currently he is on the Editorial Board and Junior Officer Advisory Group for the United States Naval Institute (USNI), and the Board of Directors and Scholarship Committee of the Surface Navy Association (SNA).

Lieutenant McFall is married to the former Lea Ternes of Waynesboro, PA.

