FORT BENNING: THEN AND NOW

The United States Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., traces its creation to the beginnings of the Continental Army during the War for Independence. George Washington appointed Captain “Baron” von Steuben Drillmaster of the Continental Army in 1778. The Prussian veteran instituted a single manner of Infantry drill for the Continental Army by consolidating all junior officers into platoons and companies, and drilling them together to create a body of instructors for the entire Army. Later, von Steuben convinced Washington to create a model company of Infantry to demonstrate drill and maneuvers to the rest of the Army. These were the origins of an American School of Infantry. After the War for Independence, Congress undid most of the fine instrument created by Washington and von Steuben by reducing the Army to an 85-man company for a year and allowing commanders of the Active Army and the militia to use whatever drill suited them.

In 1813, the Army adopted a form of Duane’s Tactics during the War of 1812 to reduce the Infantry drill to one standard drill. On March 4, 1826, Maj. Gen. Edmund P. Gaines established the first Infantry training post at Jefferson Barracks near St. Louis, Mo. The Infantry School of Instruction began training enlisted men and small units and quickly expanded to training Infantry officers in their duties. By Nov. 24, 1828, the post closed as all the troops and Infantry units were needed across the nation. Though what became known as the Infantry School of Practice lasted only two years, the overall efficiency of the United States Infantry improved immensely and the idea of recreating a similar school was not lost on those in attendance.

In 1881, the Army created a military post-graduate program for officers at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., known as the School of Application for Infantry and Cavalry. This same program is now the Command and Staff School. In 1892, the School of Application divided into a School for Cavalry at Fort Riley, Kan. and a School for Artillery at Fort Sill, Okla., leaving the Infantry without a formal school.

After the Spanish-American War, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur ordered that a school be established. The first commandant, Capt. Frank L. Winn, later commented, “From this idea the plan developed into a school of experiment and theory in the use of the rifle in battle and of improvement, by testing, in the rifle itself.”

As a result, the War Department approved the establishment of the School of Musketry, Pacific Division, at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif. Though the original intent was the development of small arms use in the Infantry, the scope of development and instruction soon grew to include, “all subjects connected with small arms, ammunition and tactics.” The latter directive allowed the instructors to pursue research and training methods to prepare Infantrymen for modern warfare.

Initially, the school staff consisted of Winn as the officer in charge, an assistant instructor, one company from each of the two divisions in the department and a machine-gun platoon. Each quarter, the rotating student body consisted of two officers from each of the Infantry, Cavalry and Artillery regiments in the division, one enlisted man from each company, troop and battery, additional officers and enlisted men as selected by the division commander. The school cadre arrived March 25, 1907 and replaced the 2nd Squadron, 14th Cavalry in garrison. The new school opened for business April 1, 1907.

Outgrowing the limited ranges at the Presidio in Monterey, Calif., the School of Musketry co-located with the School of Fire at Fort Sill, Okla., in 1913. Both schools languished within a few years as both instructors and students were needed to secure the border with civil war-torn Mexico and for the Punitive Expedition of 1916. Upon the Declaration of War with the Central Powers on April 6, 1917, it became apparent that the Infantry, Field Artillery and the 35th Division could not continue to train on the same ranges at Fort Sill. The War Department needed dozens of new facilities to muster and train the millions of Doughboys required in Europe as soon as possible. By the summer of 1918, the Infantry cast about for a new home.

In an attempt to lure an Army training camp to the Columbus area, the Encampment Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Columbus, Ga., presented a "Proposal for the Lease of Land to the U.S. Government for Establishment of School of Musketry," Jan. 17, 1918 to representatives of the U.S. Army. Included in the original proposal are endorsements from the Muscogee County Commissioners to build access roads and the Columbus Power Company to build electrical transmission lines if the government accepted the property for a training camp. With options secured on 7,400 of the 9,000 acres proposed at $2 per acre, total estimated construction costs for the cantonment came to $706,000. A formal plan dated January 23 lists a total of 2,008 students, instructors and permanent party to be housed and headquartered in 67 buildings. While the original proposal for the camp envisioned a lease on the land, the Army decided later to convert the cantonment to a permanent facility and continue training there after World War I.

On Aug. 17, 1918 a telegram arrived in Columbus, confirming the selection of the area for the new site of the Army's Infantry School of Arms. By October 6, troops transferring from Fort Sill, Okla., stepped off the train and stood in formation on October 19, christening the new post "Camp Benning" in honor of a local Confederate General, Henry Lewis Benning. Unlike most temporary training facilities created in haste during the Great War, Camp Benning survived post-war budget cuts to become a permanent Infantry school in 1920. In 1921, the Army formally designated the post as the Infantry School and changed the name to Fort Benning in 1923.

During the 1920 to 1921 school year, the new school graduated hundreds of lieutenants and captains from the Active, Reserve and National Guard components. In addition to instructors, Camp Benning included demonstration units to support training, an Army Air Corps detachment, the 32nd Balloon Observation Company at Lawson Field and the Infantry Tank School. While the Tank School moved to Camp Meade, Md., within a year, the Infantry tanks moved back to Fort Benning in 1932. In addition to training leaders, Fort Benning became an important center for testing weapons and tactics, publishing professional journals and manuals and developing maneuver doctrine—roles it continues into the twenty-first century. As the home of the largest branch of the Army, Fort Benning continued to grow in facilities and troops assigned through the lean years of the Great Depression.

From 1927 to 1932, Lt. Col. George Marshall served as the Assistant Commandant of the Infantry School. In this role, Marshall instituted a rigorous training program known as the "Benning Revolution," preparing thousands of officers for higher command in World War II. The Infantry tank units grew through the 1930s until Col. George S. Patton, Jr. and others formed and trained the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Benning, before deploying overseas for combat in World War II. Numerous divisions and smaller units were either federalized or created at Fort Benning during peacetime draft buildup in 1940 and throughout World War II.

In 1940, the Airborne "test platoon" initiated the Airborne School that still graduates thousands of parachutists for the United States military each year. The Officers Candidate School (OCS) began graduating Infantry lieutenants in 1941 and now operates as the only OCS program in the Army. More than 100,000 Soldiers entered the Army as privates or lieutenants at Fort Benning during World War II and the post earned the nickname: "The Benning School for Boys." At the end of the Second World War, Fort Benning remained a vibrant facility as Ranger training began, the Infantry developed a mechanized component and the Infantry prepared troops and leaders for the Korean War, Vietnam and other Cold War commitments. To date, the U.S. Army Infantry School and Fort Benning have more troops assigned as cadre or in training than any other facility in the United States military.

From 1945 to 1965, Fort Benning transformed to its standard role as an education, testing and doctrine development center. While recruit and officer training increased during the Korean War, 1950 to 1953, the next major expansion took place during the Vietnam War. The concept of helicopter-borne air assault was tested at Fort Benning for two years before the 11th Airborne (Test) Division became the 1st (Air Assault) Cavalry Division prior to deployment to Vietnam in 1965. In addition to greatly expanded OCS, the Non-Commissioned Officer Candidate Course trained thousands of Infantry sergeants from 1967 to 1972, forming the basis for the current noncommissioned officer education system. On several occasions since 1965, brigades and smaller units were formed and trained at Fort Benning to deploy around the world to serve as part of NATO, Desert Storm, Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Iraqi Freedom and various other missions.

MANEUVER CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

Since 1918, Fort Benning has served as the Home of the Infantry. Since 1940, Fort Knox, Ky., has served as the Home of Armor. Fort Benning's transformation to the Maneuver Center of Excellence is the result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Commission's decision to move the Armor School from Fort Knox to Fort Benning. The Maneuver Center of Excellence transformation began as a result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure Commission's (BRAC) decision to move the Armor School to Fort Benning. The MCoE ground breaking ceremony was held in February 2008.

This historic move has resulted in an immense planning effort to transform Fort Benning into the MCoE by Sept. 15, 2011. The MCoE will combine mounted and dismounted combat training and doctrine development at one location for the Army. When complete, the Maneuver Center will train 52 percent of the Army's Soldiers including basic training, airborne, Ranger, Officer Candidate School, functional courses and all Infantry and Armor lieutenants, captains and noncommissioned officers. The number of courses taught on the installation will increase from 61 to 100.

More than $3.5 billion in construction will be invested on Fort Benning from 2007 through 2016. Construction will include a massive build-up in the Harmony Church cantonment area, where the Armor School will be located. Sand Hill, Kelley Hill and Main Post will also see new facilities, upgrades and renovation. Building 4, formerly known as Infantry Hall, is being renovated to house headquarters for the MCoE and the Infantry and Armor schools.

The MCoE transformation is primarily, but not solely, related to the move of the Armor School, though the vast majority of construction and expansion anticipates an increased training demand and population. An Armed Forces Reserve Center and Equipment Concentration Site, scheduled for construction in Harmony Church in 2010, is the result of the BRAC Commission's decision to close Fort Gillem, GA. The number of motorized pieces of equipment to be housed at the site, roughly 1,200, is equal to the number being transferred from Fort Knox.

The growth and expansion associated with the transformation will result in a population increase of about 28,000, including Soldiers, Civilians, contractors, trainees, retirees and their families, and an increase in the annual training population of 30,000. Conservative estimates put the number of jobs created by the move to 10,000, including military and government service positions, private contractors and service sector positions.

COMMAND GROUP

The U.S. Army has been the upholder of freedom and a defender of integrity and rights for more than 234 years. Army history is embedded with their countless acts of heroism and sacrifice.

The Maneuver Center of Excellence at Fort Benning has the crucial role in developing and training war fighters—Infantry and Armor Soldiers.

Fort Benning provides trained, adaptive, and ready Soldiers and leaders for an Army at war, while developing future requirements for the individual Soldier and the Maneuver Force, and providing a world class quality of life for our Soldiers and Army Families!

Fort Benning covers more than 182,000 acres of land, predominately situated in west central Georgia with a small percentage in bordering Alabama. It is the sixth largest installation in the United States, with the third largest troop density of any installation. Roughly 115,000 Soldiers and service members from all branches of the Armed Forces and allied nations train at Fort Benning each year.

The MCoE is a two-star command comprised of a mixture of Infantry and Armor branch personnel. Additionally, the command has four other senior leadership positions. The Deputy Commanding General and Infantry and Armor School Commandants are one-star billets. The director of the Capabilities Development and Integration Directorate is a senior executive service position (one-star equivalent).

The command currently has six priorities which continue to be refined as the MCoE effort matures. They are: fully support an Army at war; prepare for the future; enhance the quality of life for Soldiers and Army Families; operate in a command climate of teamwork; discipline and standards and safety; and fully transition to the MCoE and demonstrate inspired leadership.

Outside the gates, Fort Benning shares a strong relationship with our surrounding neighbors. The Chattahoochee Valley Region of Alabama and Georgia offers an exceptional quality of life with big-city excitement and small-town charm. Fort Benning is also an active part of the Valley Region Partnership, dedicated to creating and sustaining opportunities for business success, optimizing public and private partnerships, developing and supporting industry growth, improving employment opportunities, supporting educational excellence and lifelong learning opportunities and creating a diverse, family-friendly environment with a high quality of life.

The continual support received from the surrounding communities, the best possible training environments for the maneuver forces and the unbeatable quality of life is the main reason so many Soldiers, Civilians and their families choose to call Chattahoochee Valley Region home. Fort Benning is the home of Infantry and Armor, and the Soldiers, leaders and Families from the Best Army in the World.

THE U.S. ARMY MANEUVER CENTER OF EXCELLENCE BAND

For over 50 years, the Maneuver Center of Excellence Band has taken great pride in entertaining the Soldiers, military families and civilian audiences of the Fort Benning, Columbus and Phenix City communities. The Band's performances create esprit de corps among Soldiers and Veterans, as well as provide patriotic spirit within the civilian community. As a promoter of the Army's Strategic Outreach, the Band is involved in Soldier Support, Family Support, Recruiting Support, Public Diplomacy, Community Relations and Education.

The Band's eight performing groups (Ceremonial/Marching, Concert and Big Bands, Brass and Woodwind Quintets, Jazz and Dixieland Combos, and Show Band) set the standard for musical excellence and combined, perform in excess of 400 missions a year. The Band annually performs a patriotic tour of cities in neighboring Florida, and supports parades, festivals and programs throughout Georgia and Alabama.

Each Soldier assigned still has to maintain proficiency in physical and mental fitness as well as Army Warrior tasks while preparing for the next performance. Being able to successfully balance these requirements and being given the opportunity to lead an ensemble are among the most rewarding aspects of being a military musician assigned to Fort Benning.

Considered by some to be the "Best Job in the Army," all musicians must meet and maintain expertise on their chosen instrument, a skill that must already be attained prior to enlisting. These skills are fine tuned at the U.S. Army's School of Music in Norfolk, Va., following basic training, and a career musician may find him/herself back at the school for one or two more times throughout his career.

The Band also prides itself in being a self contained company, managing its own administrative duties, safety and security, operations, training, and supply activities. Non-commissioned Officers assigned are given even more opportunities to lead or supervise the operations of one of these functional areas. The Maneuver Center of Excellence motto, "One Force, One Fight" is alive and well in the Maneuver Center of Excellence Band.

CAPABILITIES DEVELOPMENT AND INTEGRATION DIRECTORATE

The Capabilities Development and Integration Directorate determines and develops future force capabilities and future Infantry and Armor requirements across the doctrine, training, leader development, organization, materiel, personnel and facilities domains, resulting in a trained and ready maneuver force fully integrated into the Army combined and joint war-fighting environment. For more information, call (706) 545-7504.

THE ARMOR SCHOOL

THE 192ND INFANTRY BRIGADE

The 192nd Infantry Brigade trains Soldiers in Basic Combat and Infantry-specific skills in order to provide combat-ready Soldiers and leaders to the Operational Army.

Basic Combat Training 2-47 IN and 3-47 IN

The 2nd Battalion, 47th Infantry Regiment and 3rd Battalion, 47th Infantry Regiment are responsible for basic Soldier skills instruction, as well as the health and welfare of the trainees. The battalions are composed of five or six, four-platoon companies and a drill sergeant leads each platoon, usually 55 to 60 trainees.

The training requirements for a Soldier include: instruction on the M4A1 and M16A4 rifles, physical training, hand grenades, nuclear, biological and chemical training, as well as squad level tactics. Soldiers of the 192nd are also instructed in first aid, map navigation, military operations in urban terrain, convoy operations, military communication systems, check point operations and improvised explosive devices. The foundation of all training is the seven Army values—Loyalty, Duty, Respect, Selfless Service, Honor, Integrity and Personal Courage. Drill sergeants—the standard bearers of the U.S. Army—teach these core values for Army living, as well as most of all training of Soldiers.

The 14-week Infantry One Station Unit Training (OSUT) course produces well-trained, highly motivated Infantry Soldiers. These Soldiers proudly earn the right to wear the coveted blue cord of the Infantry and are fully prepared to take their place defending liberty in Army units around the world.

The transition from civilian to Infantryman is significant and remains a benchmark for excellence in the Army. Turning civilians into well-disciplined, highly skilled Soldiers is a mission of vital importance to our Army and our nation. Nowhere is it done better than at the Home of the Infantry.

30th Adjutant General Battalion

The 30th Adjutant General Battalion is responsible for beginning the process of turning civilians into Soldiers. They also rehabilitate injured Soldiers in order to complete training and separate Soldiers that do not meet Army standards.

The battalion begins the transformation with three days of processing, which includes medical and dental screening, haircuts, the issuance of military clothing, the preparation and issue of identification cards and tags, physical fitness screening, complete pay and personnel in-processing, orientation briefings and immunizations. The entire process is designed to prepare over 30,000 new Soldiers each year to begin their training.

Drill Sergeants and cadre assigned to the processing companies instruct new Soldiers on basic military subjects during waiting periods in the evening and on weekends and holidays. Soldiers who are injured during training or who require convalescent leave are assigned to the 30th AG to be rehabilitated and returned to complete training. Soldiers who do not meet the Army standards are also assigned to be processed out of the Army.

During the summer months, the battalion serves as host to reserve component reception battalions. They help the battalion process the increased number of trainees and receive training and professional development for their own cadre.

There are more than 100 military and civilian personnel assigned to the battalion. The tenant activities—medical, dental, finance, optometry, audiology, personnel affairs, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Army Reserve, National Guard and Old Guard Liaisons, Columbus Bank and Trust, photography, community mental health services, AAFES and clothing initial issue point—each have more than 125 personnel assigned. All of these supporting agencies are responsible for the mission of the battalion.

192nd History

The 192nd Infantry Brigade was established on June 24, 1921, in the Organized Reserves and assigned to the 96th Division in Seattle, Wash. In 1942, they were converted and re-designated as the 96th Reconnaissance Troop of the 96th Infantry Division. In 1944, the 96th Infantry Division led the “Return to the Philippines Assault.” They seized Leyte beaches, Hill 120 and Catman Hill before moving inland and defeating major Japanese resistance and attacks at Tabontabon and the Central Leyte Valley airfields.

The brigade landed again with the 96th Infantry Division during the amphibious assault landings on Okinawa in April 1945. They completed the Okinawa mop-up in late July 1945 and sailed to Mindoro Island in the Philippines to prepare for the planned invasion of Japan.

The division returned to the United States in January 1946 and was disbanded. The cavalry troop was inactivated in February 1947 and was reorganized and re-designated over the next 15 years, before the brigade was finally rested from the 96th Infantry Division in November 1962.

Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 192nd Infantry Brigade remained inactive until withdrawn February 2007 from the Army Reserves and allotted to the Active Army as Headquarters, 192nd Infantry Brigade and reactivated at Fort Benning, Ga.

194TH ARMORED BRIGADE

The 194th Armored Brigade’s primary mission is to conduct Initial Entry Training for new Soldiers, cadets and Marines. Active duty and reserve component personnel programs include: One Station Unit Training for 19D (Cavalry Scout), 19K (Armor Crewman) and 63 A/M (Abrams/Bradley Mechanic), the Marine Armor Crewman Course, the Marine Mechanic Course and the Advanced Leader Course for Bradley/Abrams Mechanics.

The history of the 194th Armored Brigade dates back to 1921 when the unit was called the Organized Reserves, as Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 194th Infantry Brigade, assigned to the 97th Division. It was organized in June 1922 at Concord, New Hampshire.

Over the years it has been reorganized, redesignated and converted, with its last deactivation in 1995 at Fort Knox when it was known as the Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 194th Armor Brigade. Nov. 9, 2006, the unit transferred to the United States Army Training and Doctrine Command.

The headquarters was reactivated July 10, 2007 on Brooks Field at Fort Knox, Ky. Oct. 1, 2009, the Armor School reorganized under the Manuver Center of Excellence at Fort Benning, Ga. where it is now the 194th Armored Brigade—having taken the place of the 1st Armor Training Brigade while at Fort Knox. The unit will systems. Armor crewman training takes advantage of some of the most state of the art simulation technology available, including the Tank Driver Simulator and Conduct of Fire Trainer. Soldiers going on to units equipped with the advanced M1A2 SEP Abrams receive additional training on the upgraded systems of the M1A2 SEP main battle tank. The 1st Battalion, 81st Armor also teaches One Station Unit Training for armored vehicle mechanics in MOS 63A and 63M. During these 21 and 23-week training programs, Soldiers receive all BCT training and additional training on maintaining tracked vehicles including the M1A1 and M1A2 Main Battle Tank, the M3A2 and M3A3 Bradley Fighting Vehicle, and the M88 recovery vehicle. Within 1-81 Armor, there is also a Marine Corps Detachment that trains Marine Corps Armor Crewmen and mechanics.

The 3rd Battalion, 81st Armor supports the Brigade. They provide instructors for a number of common skills such as first aid, NBC, land navigation, communications, basic rifle marksmanship, pistol marksmanship, individual tactical movements, hand grenades, operate the Tank Drive Simulator, provide weapons and ammunition support, as well as run and provide instruction on numerous ranges.

Soldiers for MOS 19D are trained in the 5th Squadron, 15th Cavalry. 19D OSUT consists of a 16-week program in which Soldiers are trained in a variety of reconnaissance and security skills. Training includes the same skills taught in BCT, as well as the maintenance and operation of the M3A2 Bradley Cavalry Fighting Vehicle (CFV), the High Mobility Multipurpose Wheeled Vehicle (HMMWV), and their associated weapon systems. A heavy emphasis is placed on reconnaissance skills, including map reading, land navigation, and use of the global positioning system (GPS). Soldiers assigned to serve in units with the Stryker Reconnaissance Vehicle remain for additional training on these systems after successfully completing 19D OSUT.

316TH CAVALRY BRIGADE

The 316th Cavalry Brigade began its service to the nation when it activated at Camp Hood on Oct. 13, 1942 as Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 8th Tank Destroyer Group and took its role amongst the newly created Tank Destroyer Force. The brigade served much of World War II with III Corps and participated in combat operations in Northern France, the Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace, and Central Europe.

continue the fine tradition of the 1st ATB by producing the world's finest 19 series Soldiers.

The brigade is organized into three battalions. These include the 1st Battalion, 81st Armor (19K OSUT); the 3rd Battalion, 81st Armor (Training Support); and the 5th Squadron, 15th Cavalry (19D OSUT).

Those Soldiers arriving for training in MOS 19K will report to 1st Battalion, 81st Armor for 15 weeks of training. Here, they are taught basic skills as well as subject unique to their MOS. These skills consist primarily of the proper operation and maintenance of the M1A1 Abrams Main Battle Tank and its associated weapons

Prior to returning from Europe the Tank Destroyer Force was abolished, the brigade was re-designated HHT, 316th Cavalry Group on Aug. 27, 1947 and assigned to the reserves. The brigade saw several reorganizations, re-designations, and conversions until its formal activation as HHC, 316th Cavalry Brigade on Aug. 27, 2007 at Fort Knox, Ky. where it assumed the training functions previously associated with the 16th Cavalry Regiment.

The 316th Cavalry Brigade mission is to train mounted force leaders in the operation, training, and maintenance of armor and cavalry weapons, equipment, and units from platoon, through brigade, to meet the Army's full spectrum War-fighting requirements for the 21st century. At any particular time, more than 500 students are attending one of the brigade's 10 core and combat skills courses which train Armor Force leaders from brigade commander to tank commander. The brigade also provides technical over watch and subject matter expertise in the development and evaluation of mounted force doctrine, training development, and force development. The brigade demonstrates excellence in mounted operations, capabilities, tactics, techniques, and procedures for the Armor Force.

The brigade is composed of four subordinate units including the 1st, 2nd and 3rd squadrons and the Brigade Headquarters Troop. Its 1,700 Soldiers and civilians are the backbone of world-class instruction and personnel support to the Armor School, the Maneuver Center of Excellence and the local community.

The 1st Squadron, 316th Cavalry Brigade performs the important mission of providing Soldier and equipment support to the Armor School while keeping Armor and Cavalry Soldiers trained and ready for the future. The squadron is organized into six ground troops comprised of more than 750 Soldiers and civilians dedicated to the success of all Armor and Cavalry leader training at Fort Benning. Additionally, the squadron is frequently called upon to highlight armor's role as an essential element of the Army's combined arms team. The Army's largest cavalry squadron accomplishes this by participation in exercises, displays, and community events such as the Armor Conference, Reconnaissance Summit and the ROTC Leader Training Course.

The 2nd Squadron trains and supports the Brigade's Core Course, The Basic Officer Leader Course Armor (BOLC-B), the Instructor Operator Course, and the M1A2 New Equipment Training Team. The squadron's core mission is to train newly commissioned Army armor lieutenants, selected Marine Corps Officers, and foreign allied officers in the profession of mounted warfare. The New Equipment Training Team provides individual, crew, and collective training in support of unit transition to the latest technology and Army combat systems.

The 3rd Squadron trains and professionally develops mounted officers to command at the battalion/squadron and brigade/regimental levels. The squadron is responsible for the execution of programs of instruction for the Armor Pre-Command Course, the Army Reconnaissance Course, the M1A2 and Stryker MGS Master Gunner Courses, and the Cavalry Leader's Course. In addition to these courses, the squadron provides professional development, combat support, and combat service support instruction to the Armor Officer Basic Course and the Army National Guard.

The Brigade Headquarters and Headquarters Troop provides administrative and logistical support to the regiment. The Observer/Controller Team executes the Virtual Training Program for National Guard and active component armor, mechanized infantry, and cavalry units from platoon through brigade using live virtual and constructive venues. The O/C Team also facilitates the Urban Operations Gauntlets for Armor BOLC. They support the ARNG SIMNET-Rehost Project, the Joint Training Experimentation Program (JTEP), AFIST-XXI development, and NGB-ART Virtual-Collective-Live training initiatives.

The International Student Training Detachment manages and implements all Department of Defense directed security assistance training programs at Fort Benning to facilitate the accomplishment of the DoD's security assistance objectives. The ISTD processes more than 700 students yearly, representing more than 100 different nations.

The ISTD dates back to 1921, when officers from allied nations began Infantry training at Fort Benning with U.S. officers. The needs of these allied officers and their families were taken care of by volunteer personnel within the student brigade. It wasn't until 1949 that Fort Benning established the allied liaison section, led by a staff section chief of the student brigade. Later, the allied liaison section came under the office of the director of instruction, U.S. Army Infantry School.

The mission of the section was to render academic and administrative assistance to allied students selected to attend courses of instructions at Fort Benning and to conduct programs designed to acquaint the students with American military and Civilian social and home life. The section also introduced allied Soldiers to local business practices. Members of the staff and faculty were encouraged to take a personal interest in the welfare of the allied students and their families.

The 197th Infantry Brigade trains and supports training of United States Army Infantry Center/School (MCoE/USAIS) Infantry Soldiers and Infantry leaders through subject matter expertise, doctrine development and experimentation, while supporting Outside of the Continental United States (OCONUS) personnel replacement requirements in order to provide the Army with Soldiers and leaders prepared to fight and win. The more than 2,000 Soldiers and Civilians of the 197th also provide subject matter expertise regarding the development and evaluation of doctrine and are the proponents for a variety of training manuals. The 197th Infantry Brigade's battalions conduct training at 43 firing ranges and 25 training areas on Fort Benning, as well as provide mobile training teams in support of the Global War on Terrorism. These battalions have also deployed Soldiers in support of Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. Two of the battalions still retain their lineage to the 29th Infantry Regiment.

The Brigade's AG battalion, the CONUS Replacement Center, prepares deploying personnel for OCONUS Theater operations and conducts Theater-Specific Individual Readiness Training for all non-unit associated personnel deploying OCONUS.

1st Battalion, 29th Infantry

The 1st Battalion, 29th Infantry, located in Building 5500, the Collins Training Center, trains Stryker and Bradley Fighting Vehicle operators, vehicle commanders and master gunners on operations, maintenance and the tactical employment of these fighting vehicles. The battalion's new equipment training team provides resident training to active and reserve units throughout the world. These trainers provide vital instruction for Soldiers and Soldier leaders of all mechanized, cavalry and Stryker units receiving the battle proven M2 Bradley and Stryker vehicles.

2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry

The 2nd Battalion, 29th Infantry, located in Building 73, Kyle Hall, trains Soldiers, non-commissioned officers and officers on various light Infantry weapons systems and tactics. Basic trainees are taught to use small arms, antitank weapons and mortars. Furthermore, trainees receive instruction on individual and squad tactics, as well as a number of general subjects. The battalion's instructors also conduct training to support several Infantry School courses, providing further training to our Army's Soldiers and Soldier leaders. The battalion is also the home of the U.S. Army Sniper School and provides subject matter experts to support new and improved small arms fielding plans. Finally, the battalion is the home of the U.S. Army Combatives School and provides subject matter experts to train and certify combatives students and instructors.

CONUS Replacement Center

The CONUS Replacement Center, located in the Harmony Church area, receives and processes non-unit related personnel-Soldiers and civilians-for deployment to and redeployment from 34 different destinations. They annually train more than 30,000 Soldiers for deployment. The battalion also provides command and control, logistical support and scheduling for Individual Ready Reserve Soldiers and executes theater specific individual readiness training.

Throughout the spectrum of Infantry Soldier and Infantry Leader training, including materiel and doctrine development and testing, the 197th Infantry Brigade continues to support the U.S. Army Infantry and live up to its motto: "Forever Forward."

198TH INFANTRY BRIGADE

The mission of the 198th Infantry Brigade is to transform civilians into disciplined INFANTRYMEN who possess the Army Values, fundamental Soldier skills, physical fitness, character, confidence, commitment and the Warrior Ethos to become adaptive and flexible Infantrymen ready to accomplish the mission of the Infantry.

One Station Unit Training

One Station Unity Training (OSUT) combines Basic Combat Training (BCT) and Advanced Individual Training (AIT) to create a 16 week, uninterrupted, training cycle. Within the brigade there are five OSUT battalions with approximately six companies each. These companies conduct up to three class cycles per year, training up to 240 Infantrymen per class.

Each cycle consists of five phases, each one building on the skills and abilities attained from the previous phase. The final two phases consist of a grueling Field Training Exercise (FTX) where each Soldiers must demonstrate not only the physical skill set but the intangible embodiment of the Warrior Ethos. Upon completion of the FTX, the Soldier is welcomed into the ranks of the Infantrymen with the awarding of the coveted Blue Cord and is then recognized formally during a graduation ceremony.

198th History

The 198th Infantry Brigade was formed in the Organized Reserves in Erie County, Pa., on June 24, 1921. The unit became an organic element of the 99th Infantry Division.

The unit was reorganized and redesignated as the 3rd Platoon of the 99th Cavalry Recon Troop; and on Nov. 15, 1942 was ordered to active military service at Camp Van Dorn, Miss. During World War II, the troop fought with the 99th Infantry Division and received campaign credit for operations in the Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central Europe. The troop was also cited by the Belgian Army for action at Elsenborn and in the Ardennes, and was awarded the Belgian Fourragere. The 99th Cavalry Recon Troop was inactivated on Sept. 29, 1945 at Camp Myles Standish, Mass., and assigned as a reserve component of the 99th Infantry Division.

On Aug. 1, 1962, the 99th Cavalry Recon Troop was relieved from its assignment to the 99th Infantry Division and withdrawn from the Army Reserve. At the same time, the 3rd Platoon of the Troop was converted and redesignated as Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 198th Brigade, and allotted to the Regular Army. The unit began training at Fort Hood in May 1967 where trained jungle fighting techniques and air mobility.

In October 1967, the brigade shipped from Oakland, Calif., to Da Nang, Vietnam. After arriving in Da Nang, the "Brave and Bold" Soldiers boarded troop ships for transportation to Chu Lai, where they arrived on Oct. 22, 1967. Four days later they became a part of the reactivated Americal Division.

On March 18, 1969, the "Brave and Bold" of the 198th Brigade and the 6th ARVN Regiment embarked upon Operation Geneva Park. The mission was to eliminate the enemy forces within the area of operation while stressing pacification and combined US/ARVN operations. The reconnaissance troop was inactivated on Nov. 30, 1971 prior to being transferred on Nov. 9, 2006 to the United States Army Training and Doctrine Command. 198th Infantry Brigade Headquarters was reactivated May 18, 2007 at Fort Benning.

198th Battalions:

- 1st Battalion, 19th Infantry
- 2nd Battalion, 19th Infantry
- 1st Battalion, 50th Infantry
- 2nd Battalion, 58th Infantry
- 2nd Battalion, 54th Infantry

199TH INFANTRY BRIGADE

The 199th Infantry Brigade is comprised of four battalions. The 199th is focused on training and educating Soldiers, noncommissioned officers, officer candidates and junior officers in the enduring principles of warfare tempered by recent experiences in the contemporary operating environments. The desired end state is to send the most technically and tactically proficient, physically and mentally tough and adaptable warriors capable of fighting and winning in any environment out to the operational force.

The 199th Infantry Brigade was established on June 24, 1921, in the Organized Reserves and assigned to the 100th Division. After redesignating several times before World War II, the unit became 3rd Platoon, 100th Reconnaissance Troop, 100th Division. It was ordered into active military service Nov. 1942 as the 100th Cavalry Reconnaissance Troop, 100th Infantry Division. It became mechanized during the war and was inactivated Jan. 1946.

The unit was reactivated June 1966 at Fort Benning as the 199th Light Infantry Brigade. The motto was "Light, Swift and Accurate" and the brigade would live up to this motto. Pressed for rapid deployment to Vietnam, it was swiftly formed and rushed into training. On Nov. 28, 1966, a 280-man advance party arrived in Vietnam followed by the rest of the unit in December.

The unit's special training in counter intelligence helped turn the tide of the Tet offensive in 1968. After four years in Vietnam, the unit was moved to Fort Benning, Ga. and was deactivated in October 1970.

The 199th was reactivated in February 1991 and inactivated July 1992 at Fort Lewis, Wash. The 199th Infantry Brigade was reactivated once again in June 2007 at Fort Benning, Ga. as a training unit for Officers and Paratroopers.

DCC

The Direct Commission Officer Course mission is designed to train on the fundamental skills that will enable successful completion of the Basic Officer Leader Course. The training will establish a foundation in leadership, physical fitness, mental toughness and tactical and technical proficiency.

2nd Battalion, 11th Infantry Regiment

The 2nd Battalion, 11th Infantry Regiment educates and trains Infantry lieutenants to become competent, confident and professional leaders; able to lead platoons to fight and win in any operational environment. They train more than 1,300 lieutenants annually.

BOLC-B

Over the years the battalion has seen many changes, but the mission remains the same, to prepare Soldiers to train and lead an Infantry platoon into combat. Though a simple mission statement, success involves a lot of hard work, dedication and preparation. Becoming a competent professional Infantryman begins with preparation months prior to reporting to Fort Benning. It is essential that Soldiers report ready to face the mental and physical challenges. The four areas of proficiency prior to reporting to BOLC-B are physical fitness, tactics, land navigation and swimming.

BOLC-A

The 3rd Battalion, 11th Infantry, is the active Army's only Officer Candidate School. Its mission is to train, educate and commission officers to provide the Army with leaders of character who live by the Warrior Ethos and Army Values. The battalion, which consists of five training companies and a headquarters company, conducts battle-focused training and develops leadership, which is grounded in leader attributes, skills and actions. They commission more than 1,800 lieutenants annually.

During the summer of 1940, Gen. George Marshall recognized the absolute criticality of establishing rigorous training facilities for new officers. The first Infantry OCS class began with 204 candidates and on Sept. 27, 1941, graduated 171 second lieutenants.

Each company trains up to 160 officer candidates in each class and conducts up to three classes a year. This increased operational structure is a reflection of OCS' ability to transform and execute its mission to meet the needs of a changing Army.

The mission of OCS will always remain constant: train selected personnel in the fundamentals of leadership, basic military skills, instill professional ethics, evaluate leadership potential and commission those who qualify as second lieutenants in all 16 basic branches of the Army.

1st Battalion, 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment

The 1st Battalion (Airborne), 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment has the responsibility to conduct the U.S. Army Airborne basic course, jumpmaster course and pathfinder course. Airborne school instructors are the world renowned "Black Hats" and are from the U.S. Army, Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force.

Students are trained in the use of static line deployed parachutes. The battalion mission is to train paratroopers, jumpmasters and pathfinders to provide the Department of Defense with qualified personnel to conduct airborne operations as well as to forge the paratrooper and Warrior Ethos in the junior combat leadership of the Army.

Students are trained by the same platoon sergeants, section sergeants and squad leaders for all three phases of training—ground, tower and jump. The execution of this teaching philosophy strengthens unit cohesion, discipline and supervision while providing quality paratroopers throughout the force.

The airborne course is a comprehensive three-week course that qualifies students as static-line parachutists. The first week of training, ground week, students learn how to don the parachute harness, exit an aircraft and execute a parachute-landing fall. Then during second week, tower week, students practice mass exits from a 34-foot tower, landings from the swing landing trainer and practice riser and canopy control on the suspended harness for the T-10D and T-11C parachutes. Students also conduct one drop from the 250-foot tower. The third week is jump week. Students must execute five qualification jumps from a C-130 or C-17 U.S. Air Force aircraft.

1-507th History

The history of the battalion dates back to the end of World War I when Gen. Billy Mitchell proposed that parachuting troops from aircraft into combat could be effective. During the demonstration of his concept at Kelly Field at San Antonio, Texas, six Soldiers parachuted from a Martin Bomber, safely landed and in less than three minutes after exiting the aircraft had their weapons assembled and were ready for action.

Spurred by the successful employment of airborne troops by the Germans in their invasion of the low countries, U.S. military branches began an all-out effort to develop this new form of warfare. Controversy surrounded the effort and the various branches made several colorful proposals. The Air Corps made the most unique proposal. Its staff proposed that the Air Infantry be called "Air Grenadiers" and be members of the "Marines of the Air Corps."

In April 1940, the War Department approved plans for the formation of a test platoon of Airborne Infantry to form, equip and train under the direction and control of the Army's Infantry Board. In June, the Commandant of the Infantry School was directed to organize a test platoon of volunteers from Fort Benning's 29th Infantry Regiment. Later that year, the 2nd Infantry Division was directed to conduct the necessary tests to develop reference data and operational procedures for air-transported troops.

In July 1940, the task of organizing the platoon began. Based on high standards of health and rugged physical characteristics, 48 enlisted men were selected from a pool of 200 volunteers. Quickly thereafter, the platoon moved into tents near Lawson Field and an abandoned hangar was obtained for use as a training hall and for parachute packing.

Lt. Col. William C. Lee, a staff officer for the Chief of Infantry, was intently interested in the test platoon. He recommended the men be moved to the Safe Parachute Company at Hightstown, N.J. for training on the parachute drop towers used during the New York World's Fair. Eighteen days after organization, the platoon was moved to New Jersey and trained for one week on the 250-foot free towers.

The training was particularly effective. When a drop from the tower was compared to a drop from an airplane, it was found that the added realism was otherwise impossible to duplicate. The drop also proved to the troopers that their parachutes would function safely. The Army was so impressed with the tower drops that two towers were purchased and erected at Fort Benning on what is now Eubanks Field. Later, two more were added. Three of the original four towers are still used to train paratroopers at Fort Benning.

Less than 45 days after organization, the first jump from an aircraft in flight by members of the test platoon was made from a Douglas B-18 over Lawson Field on Aug. 16, 1940.

Command Exhibition Parachute Team

The Silver Wings are the official Fort Benning, Ga., Command Exhibition Parachute Demonstration Team, an airborne tradition since 1958.

The mission of the Silver Wings is to demonstrate advanced freefall techniques, while being available for research and development of state-of-the-art precision freefall techniques and equipment, and to represent the U.S. Army Infantry Center and School at both on and off-post parachute demonstrations and competitions.

Since the first demonstration jump on Aug. 31, 1965, the Silver Wings have inspired countless airborne students, supported Fort Benning events with their demonstrations and have been ambassadors of the Airborne School, Fort Benning and the Army throughout the United States and the world.

The team is comprised primarily of NCOs and enlisted Soldiers stationed at Fort Benning. These paratroopers proudly undertake the responsibility of representing not only the great Soldiers stationed at Fort Benning, but also those who serve and sacrifice every day, past, present and future in our great Army.

RANGER TRAINING BRIGADE

The Ranger Training Brigade, located approximately 10 miles from main post in the Harmony Church area, is the home of the U.S. Army Ranger School and the Reconnaissance and Surveillance Leaders Course. The Ranger course develops the combat arms-related functional skills of officers and enlisted volunteers who are eligible for assignment to units whose primary mission is to engage in the close combat, direct fire battle.

The course also returns to the Army a mentally and physically tough leader able to plan and conduct small unit combat operations in any environment. The course requires students to perform individual, as well as collective tasks and missions in a realistic environment under mental and physical stressors that approach those found in combat. Emphasis is placed on the development of individual abilities to apply established doctrine while further developing leadership, military skills in planning and conducting Infantry, airborne, air assault and amphibious squad, platoon and company operations.

The Ranger course is 61 days long with an average of 19.6 hours of training per day, seven days a week. It is divided into three phases of training, with each phase being conducted at a different geographical location. The first phase, Benning Phase, is 20 days long and the 4th Ranger Training Battalion, at Fort Benning, conducts it. The second phase, Mountain Phase, is 21 days long and the 5th Ranger Training Battalion, at Camp Frank D. Merrill near Dahlonga, Ga., conducts it. The third phase, Florida Phase, 18 days long and it is conducted by the 6th Ranger Training Battalion at Camp James F. Rudder, Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

The Reconnaissance and Surveillance Leaders Course, conducted by the 4th Ranger Training Battalion at Fort Benning, is designed to train reconnaissance leaders throughout the U.S. Army to plan and execute reconnaissance, surveillance and target acquisition missions in support of an intelligence collection plan. It is 26 days in length, with an average training day of 15 hours, seven days a week. It teaches leaders the tactical and technical techniques of communications, special insertion and extraction techniques, intelligence and threat identification, land navigation, surveillance and reconnaissance planning and execution by the train-the-trainer mode. The course end state is to develop leaders who are flexible and can adapt to any environment, trained in finding the enemy; who have the ability to collect, accurately report and communicate intelligence to their maneuver commander.

Given increased Army wide demand for trained, skilled and proven reconnaissance professionals, the RSLC has significantly enhanced its program of instruction, class capacity and class frequency to meet the needs of an Army. Course curriculum is primarily designed to train leaders in Infantry, heavy and Stryker Brigade Combat Team reconnaissance battalions and squadrons, Infantry battalion reconnaissance platoons, long-range surveillance units, USMC reconnaissance units and Special Operations Forces personnel.

The Ranger Training Brigade also conducts the David E. Grange Jr. Best Ranger Competition annually. The Best Ranger Competition began in 1982 to salute the best two-man "buddy" team in the Ranger Department at Fort Benning. Since then, the competition has been refined to determine the best two-man Ranger team from the entire U.S. Armed Forces. The Best Ranger Competition is held on Fort Benning and is open to the public.

DIRECTORATE OF TRAINING

MCCC

The Maneuver Captains Career Course focuses on combined arms warfighting at the tactical level across the full spectrum of combat. The instruction provides realistic and tough training in a number of different environments that will enhance combat leader skills. Career Course instruction is designed to teach the Armor Infantry Officer "how to think" and not "what to think." Small-group learning is the method for training in the MCCC.

NONCOMMISSIONED OFFICER ACADEMY

HENRY CARO NONCOMMISSIONED OFFICER ACADEMY

The Henry Caro Noncommissioned Officer Academy is named after its first enlisted Commandant, Command Sgt. Maj. Henry Caro. The former Sgt. Maj. of the Army, Julius W. Gates, dedicated the NCO Academy on Jan. 24, 1989.

The Maneuver Center of Excellence (MCoE) Noncommissioned Officer Academy provides the education, training and experience necessary to enhance leader development by conducting tough and demanding Warrior, Advanced and Senior Leader Level Courses which develop adaptive, self-confident leaders who provide inspired leadership to solve complex problems, while operating in a full spectrum environment in an army transforming into the future force while providing an exceptional quality of life for our Soldiers, DA Civilians and their families.

NCO Academy courses are professional development courses and part of the NCO Education System. The academy currently trains about 4,500 NCOs per year, but is projected to grow to more than 7,500 per year by 2012.

Organized with four instructional branches, the academy has a Headquarters Detachment that provides all the training coordination, planning, administrative and logistical support. Each NCO development course divides the students into small groups of 12 to 16 upon arrival. The academy maintains group integrity throughout the course in physical training, movement, messaging, field training exercises and other activities.

Warrior Leader Course (WLC)

The Warrior Leader Course is 15 days long with 72 students per class, 13 classes per year. It is military occupational specialty immaterial and trains male and female students. The program of instruction is developed by the Sergeant Major Academy and approved by Training Doctrine Command.

It is identical to all NCO Academies worldwide.

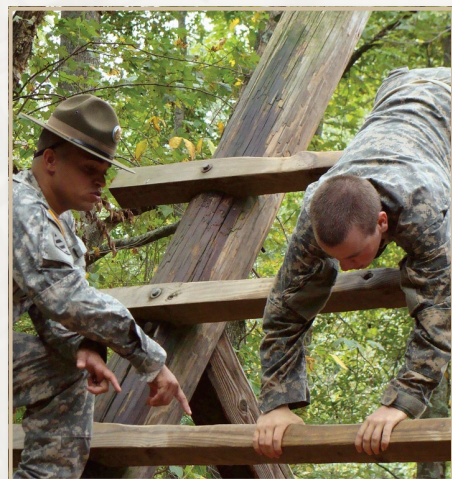

Advanced Leader Course (ALC)

The Advanced Leader Course consists of two Phases. Phase I is an MOS Army common core and will be completed through Distributive Learning (DL). The 11B Phase II is a four-week three-day MOS specific technical phase. The 11C Phase II is six weeks long and is recognized as an Infantry Mortar Leader Course equivalent.

The program of instruction builds upon the training the Soldier received in the WLC.

Maneuver Senior Leader Course (M-SLC)

The Maneuver Senior Leader Course is seven weeks long with 192 students per class, six classes per year. It was the first course established under the proponent of the Maneuver Center of Excellence concept. Students can take M-SLC either at Fort Benning or at Fort Knox, Ky.

M-SLC provides training to prepare NCOs to lead and train platoons in either the Infantry or Armor career fields. The program of instruction builds upon the training students received in ALC, prepares students to be platoon sergeants and introduces students to the duties and responsibilities of the first sergeant.

Battle Staff NCO Course

The Battle Staff NCO Course trains battalion and brigade staff noncommissioned officers to serve as integral members of the battle staff and manage the day-to-day operations of battalion or brigade command posts. Noncommissioned officers will learn their specific staff duties and become familiar with the duties of other staff sections. This course prepares staff sergeants through sergeants major for a rewarding and demanding position in staff operations. The course consists of two phases. Phase I contains 23 self-study lessons with an examination upon completion. Phase II includes interactive small-group instruction and is conducted by video tele-training from the Fort Bliss Sergeant's Major Academy. The Battle Staff NCO course is four weeks long and is offered three times per year.

First Sergeant's Course

The First Sergeant's Course educates senior noncommissioned officers to perform first sergeant duties, both tactical and garrison related, with battle-focused emphasis on training, support of tactical operations, daily problem solving, Soldier's family care and communications skills.

This fast-paced course prepares sergeants first class and master sergeants for the rewarding and demanding position of first sergeant in a company, battery or troop. The course consists of two phases.

Phase I contains 31 self-study lessons and an examination upon completion.

Phase II includes three weeks of interactive small group instruction and is conducted by VTT from Fort Bliss Sergeants Major Academy.

Major subjects of study include training management, unit administration, communicative skills, discipline and morale, logistics and maintenance, tactical operations and physical fitness training. Fort Benning offers this course four times per year.

The programs of instruction for all courses are in a constant state of transformation and evolution as we attempt to keep the content abreast with a changing contemporary operating environment. They are continually assessed and updated with current doctrine and technical advances. The Henry Caro Noncommissioned Officer Academy motto reflects the basic responsibility of all NCOs.

"Maintain the Standards!"

TENANT UNITS

3RD HEAVY BRIGADE COMBAT TEAM, 3RD INFANTRY DIVISION

The heritage of the 3rd Brigade Combat Team, 3rd Infantry Division is a unique blend of two proud lineages. The unit traces its roots to the foundation of the 3rd Infantry and to a long-term affiliation with Fort Benning and the Home of the Infantry.

The 3rd Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division was organized on Dec. 1, 1917 at Camp Greene, N.C. From there, the brigade deployed to the First World War's European battlefields and received battle streamers for participation in the following campaigns: Aisne, Champagne-Marne, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne and Champagne in 1918. The brigade was disbanded on Oct. 12, 1939 at Fort Douglas, Utah. During World War II, each regiment represented in the 3rd Brigade fought as part of the 3rd Infantry Division, where they were known as the Blue and White Devils. It was reconstituted on April 18, 1963, as 3rd Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division in Aschaffenburg, Germany, where it served until relocating to Fort Benning in 1996.

The brigade's special association with Fort Benning began when the 197th Separate Infantry Brigade was organized in September 1962 as a separate brigade to support the Infantry school. The brigade was later assigned a worldwide rapid deployment mission as part of the XVIII Airborne Corps. In October 1990, the 197th deployed to Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm as part of the 24th Infantry Division. The 3rd Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division was attached to the 1st Armored Division alongside the 197th and together they spearheaded the coalition attack to the Euphrates River.

In June 1991, upon return from the Operation Desert Storm, the 197th was re-designated as the 3rd Brigade, 24th Infantry Division.

In 1996, the 3rd Infantry Division (Mechanized) colors came home from Germany to Fort Stewart, Ga. On April 24, 1996, the Brigade Combat Team at Kelley Hill assumed the proud lineage of the 3rd Brigade, 3rd Infantry Division.

In January 2003, the 3rd Brigade Combat Team deployed to Kuwait in support of the Global War on Terrorism.

On March 20, 2003, the brigade spearheaded the coalition ground attack into Iraq, leading the 3rd Division's attack during three major battles. Over 21 days and 600 km of continuous offensive combat operations, 3rd Brigade's drive culminated in the isolation and seizure of northwest Baghdad, setting the conditions for the removal of Saddam Hussein's regime. The Sledgehammer Brigade redeployed to Fort Benning in June 2003 and almost immediately began transformation into a Brigade Unit of Action. In January 2005, the 3rd Brigade deployed to Iraq as part of Operation Iraqi Freedom III. The brigade spent 2005 conducting full spectrum operations in Diyala Province, parts of Sal ad Din Province and in the western city of Rammadi. In March 2007, the 3rd Brigade deployed to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom V. After three deployments, totaling 42 months deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, 3rd Brigade trained and deployed as a Advise and Assist Brigade in 2009. This is the unit's fourth deployment to Iraq and the Brigade closely partnered with attached Transition Teams and the Iraqi Security Forces during the deployment. The Hammer Brigade is scheduled to return to Fort Benning in late 2010 and receive the latest equipment in preparation for training.

11TH ENGINEER BATTALION

The 11th Engineer Battalion has engaged enemy forces from the Battle of Cambrai France to the Battle for Baghdad International Airport. Sergeant First Class Paul Ray Smith was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor (Posthumously) when he distinguished himself in action with an armed enemy near Baghdad International Airport, Baghdad, Iraq on April 4, 2003. The Jungle Cats have fought on three continents against enemies in five major conflicts. The battalion reactivated at Fort Benning in January 2007 and stands ready to deploy in order to provide flexible command and control over modular engineer units in support of maneuver forces.

The 11th Engineer Battalion maintains two deployable command posts capable of providing command and control to five to seven separate engineer mission teams. It provides unique skill sets to supported commanders. They include assault and fixed bridging, road and airfield construction, vertical and Forward Operating Base construction, demolition expertise, disaster relief, and route clearance.

This past summer 63rd Engineer Company (Horizontal Construction) returned from a 15-month deployment from Iraq. The 60th Engineer Company (Vertical Construction) are currently deployed in support of contingency operations in Afghanistan. The 362nd Engineer Company Multi-Role Bridge (MRBC), Headquarters and Headquarters Company, and the Forward Support Company continue to train at Fort Benning in preparation for future missions. The 60th EN CO (VERT) provides vertical construction capabilities building new command centers and barracks space for maneuver troops occupying new positions as well as renovating the living and working conditions of troops deployed to austere conditions. The 63rd EN CO (HORZ) improves roads, builds runways, and supports combat arms forces with mobility, counter-mobility, and survivability. Originally designed to support Corps level gap crossings in a linear battlefield, the 362nd EN CO (MRBC) provides crossing options over dry and wet gaps during full spectrum operations. The 11th Engineer Battalion supports the maneuver force, as the Engineers always have. With companies deployed in support of operations OIF and OEF, the 11th Engineers continue to deploy with maneuver forces in support of contingency and war, both abroad and at home.

Their history dates back to World War II, having been organized on Jan. 13, 1941 in the Active Army. The 13th CSSB participated in World War II, Korean War, Operation Continue Hope, Operation Joint Forge, Hurricane Mitch Relief Efforts and to Kuwait and Saudi Arabia for Intrinsic Action. Currently 13th CSSB has supported deployments in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom I, III and V. Realistic field training and readiness deployment exercises maintain combat readiness.

The 13th CSSB is comprised of the Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 497th Movement Control Team, 104th Transportation (Medium Truck), the 598th Maintenance Company (Direct Support) and the 4th Platoon 233rd Transportation Company (Heavy Truck).

The 497th Movement Control Team provide around the world coordination, to expedite, and supervise the transportation support of units, cargo, and personnel into, through, and out of air or water ports, or assigned geographical areas. The unit was deactivated in Vicenza, Italy in the spring of 2009 and reactivated at Fort Benning, in Sept. 2009. The 497th MCT has deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom III, Operation Enduring Freedom OEF 08-08, and Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom OEF 08-10.

The 104th Transportation Company provides Medium Truck/Lift over-the-road transport service to all FORSCOM and Fort Benning units.

During their numerous deployments they utilized heavy equipment transport systems to maneuver units and relocate them throughout Iraq.

Successfully completing over 105 missions, driving over 1,750,000 miles, during their last deployment; the company currently trains for their next deployment in the spring of 2010. While in garrison they provide Heavy Truck/Lift support to the Maneuver Center and Schools.

The 598th Maintenance Company provides direct support level maintenance to units at Fort Benning and during Operation Iraqi Freedom III supported more than 550 customer units in the Baghdad area of operations. In addition, they provided back up support to 1st Cavalry Division and 3rd Infantry Division.

The Headquarters and Headquarters Company deployed to Joint Base Balad, Iraq on June 27, 2007 in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom (07 to 09) providing command and control to ten subordinate units and attachments.

During that time the 13th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion executed logistic support to Multi-National Corps-Iraq forces by operating the major distribution activities at Joint Base Balad, including the Corps Storage Area, Corps Distribution Center, Central Receiving and Shipping Point, Central Issue Facility, Aerial Delivery, and Mortuary Affairs Collection Point. 13th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion provided reinforcing maintenance, water, and cargo handling support through forward-echeloned team operating at 11 Forward Operating Bases through the Iraqi theater. 13th Combat Sustainment Support Battalion provided Combat Service and Support training with Logistics Training and Transition Teams to the Iraqi Security Forces to support the transition to national Iraqi control.

14TH COMBAT SUPPORT HOSPITAL

The 14th Combat Support Hospital serves as a major subordinate command at Fort Benning, Ga., although its tactical higher headquarters, the 44th Medical Command, is located at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The 14th CSH is the medical task force headquarters for all corps level FORSCOM medical units on Fort Benning. "Task Force 14" is currently comprised of the 14th CSH, which is broken into Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, A Company and B Company; 926th Preventive Medicine Detachment; the 690th Medical Company (Ground Ambulance), the 19th Medical Team (Optometry) and the 172nd Preventive Medicine Detachment, currently garrisoned at Hunter Army Air Field.

The 14th CSH was the first deployable Army hospital to convert into an Echelon Above Corps Combat Support Hospital on Oct. 16, 2004 from a Field Hospital configuration. 14th Combat Support Hospital deploys to a joint/combined operational area and provides flexible, responsive, and effective Level III Health Service Support and Force Health Protection to supported forces conducting full spectrum operations and/or contingency operations.

The 14th CSH served in support of OEF VII from Jan. 31, 2006 to Jan. 30, 2007. Their tenure in Afghanistan was characterized by compassion, education and innovation. The highly specialized staff was directly responsible for decreasing the patient mortality rate from previous OEF rotations. The staff also produced the lowest in-house infection and ventilator-associated pneumonia rates in the CENTCOM Theater of Operations. Additionally, the staff treated more than 22,000 outpatients and 850 inpatients, performed more than 1,200 surgeries, filled more than 67,000 prescriptions, regulated more than 750 air evacuations, conducted more than 11,000 radiological exams, administered more than 25,000 lab exams and treated more than 2,400 dental patients. All totals far surpassed those of previous rotations and resulted from increased efficiency and a tireless work ethic.

690th Medical Company

In October 2006, the 690th Medical Company returned from its second tour in support of OIF, where the unit was separated among four different Forward Operating Bases and were assigned a mission area of responsibility that consisted of more than 100,000 miles of battle space. They provided medical support for more than 1,500 Combat Logistics Patrols and they evacuated approximately 264 critical patients from those patrols alone. The company encountered more than 147 Improvised Explosive Devices during convoy patrols.

These Soldiers logged in more than 250,000 accident-free miles and maintained a fully mission capable equipment rate of more than 95 percent for 40 pieces of rolling stock.

926th Preventive Medicine Detachment

The mission of the 926th is to provide reliable corps-level preventive medicine services in order to minimize the medical and environmental health threats to the War fighter and those they support on the battlefield. The 926th PM was deployed in support of OIF from July 2007 to October 2008.

19th Medical Team (Optometry)

19th Medical Team (Optometry) activated on Oct. 16, 2008, and began their optical services and optical fabrication mission in support of Fort Benning tenant units, as well as FORSCOM directed missions. Key highlights for this reporting period include the activation of this new unit and the establishment of the new Headquarters and Team Building. On order 19th OPTO, deploys to joint/combined operational area and provides eye care and optical fabrication services to supported forces in the area of operations while simultaneously providing command and control to two eye teams.

75TH RANGER REGIMENT

The 75th Ranger Regiment is the U.S. Army's premier light Infantry unit with a primary mission of planning and conducting special operations missions in support of U.S. policy and objectives. While serving with the Regiment is one of the most physically and mentally demanding assignments in today's Army, Rangers believe in their mission and recognize the volatile nature of the world. Rangers are ready to go anywhere at any time, with zero notice; to meet and to defeat the enemies of the nation.

The Ranger Regiment is one of the greatest producers of talented leadership and combat training in the Department of Defense, and continues to select and attract only the brightest, most talented, disciplined, and toughest Soldiers in the U.S. Army. The Regiment is one of the very few 100 percent volunteer units in the military. Every Soldier—from the line infantryman to the supply sergeants to the cooks—assigned to the 75th must volunteer for, be assessed to and selected by the Regiment to be assigned to it.

Since the onset of the Global War on Terrorism in October 2001, Rangers have conducted a myriad of complex joint special operations in a wide spectrum of terrain and conditions from the 10,000-foot mountains in Afghanistan to the urban sprawl of Baghdad. As the Army's premier raid force, they have led hundreds of air assault raids and thousands of direct action raids in which Rangers successfully conducted to destroy or capture our nation's worst enemies. Rangers are always combat ready. The 75th Ranger Regiment is proud to fight as a part of a team of teams and ready to answer the call to duty.

Fort Benning is home to Regimental Headquarters, Headquarters staff, the 3rd Ranger Battalion, and the Regimental Special Troops Battalion. Also a part of the Regiment, but geographically separated, are 1st Ranger Battalion at Hunter Army Air Field, Ga. and 2nd Battalion stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

1st and 2nd Ranger Battalions were reformed in 1974 by then Chief-of-Staff General Abrams, after being disbanded after their successful use during operations in Europe during WWII. On Oct. 25, 1983, Rangers of 1st and 2nd Battalions “Led the Way” by conducting the highly successful airborne assault to seize Point Salines Airfield in Grenada and the rescue of American students. The 75th Ranger Regiment and 3rd Battalion were activated on Oct. 3, 1984, creating the largest unified Ranger force in the U.S. Army since World War II. The entire Regiment conducted a combat jump and operations in Panama in 1989 as a part of Operation Just Cause, effectively highlighting the strategic importance of maintaining a highly mobile and rapidly deployable infantry force to conduct forcible entry operations. In 1993, elements of the 3rd Battalion deployed to Somalia to conduct missions in support of Task Force Ranger. The Rangers captured several enemy leaders responsible for launching attacks on United Nations forces. In 1991, elements of the Regiment deployed to Southwest Asia where they conducted operations in support of Operation Desert Storm.

With Rangers conducting daring airborne parachute assaults and subsequent combat operations across Afghanistan and Iraq, the Regiment once again has shown its strategic relevance in the current conflict. The Regiment has maintained a continuously deployed combat force in the Middle-East with distinction since the start of the Global War on Terror. It continues to conduct combat operations in support of ongoing national security objectives.

UNITED STATES ARMY MARKSMANSHIP UNIT

The U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit was established March 1, 1956, at the direction of President

Dwight D. Eisenhower, to raise the standards of marksmanship throughout the U.S. Army. The USAMU enhances the Army’s recruiting effort, raises the standard of the Army’s Marksmanship proficiency, and supports the Army’s small arms research and development initiatives in order to raise the Army’s overall combat readiness. Since 1956, members of the USAMU have gained worldwide respect by winning hundreds of individual and team national titles, more than 40 World Championships and 23 Olympic medals.

Additionally, the unit has the responsibility to promote the U.S. Army by heightening public trust and confidence in Army marksmanship. These efforts are accomplished through active public information awareness programs, which assist the U.S. Army Recruiting Command’s increasing requirement for top quality new recruits. The basis for these efforts focuses on the accomplishments and capabilities of USAMU shooters and technicians. USAMU Soldiers also serve to enhance the public trust and confidence in the Army’s lethality with small arms.

Likewise, the USAMU enhances combat readiness through the unit’s provision of technical and advisory assistance in the development of military match-type small arms, equipment and ammunition. Upon request, USAMU will coordinate and conduct basic rifle and pistol marksmanship train-the-trainer clinics for small arms proponents, U.S. Army Infantry School, and other service marksmanship training units to translate marksmanship skills of competitive shooting into useful combat marksmanship training tools.

The USAMU is deployed to Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom, where the Soldiers have brought their expertise and professionalism to the Afghan Security Forces in a partnership that will continue for as long as it is needed.

USAMU is composed of six competitive shooting sections utilizing world-class facilities for both training and competition. Facilities consist of more than 260 acres with seven ranges and 18 buildings. Service Rifle, Service Pistol, International Rifle, International Pistol, Action Shooting and Shotgun comprise the shooting sections and are renowned as the “best in the world.” Of these teams, only International Rifle, International Pistol and Shotgun are Olympic sports. Support is provided to these Soldier-athletes through the Custom Firearms Shop and the support branches of supply, operations and administration.

The unit also makes or customizes small arms and ammunition through the Custom Firearms Shop. The Custom Firearms Shop, made up of gunsmiths, machinists, range technicians and ammunition loaders, could be called the “backbone” of the unit. In fact, it was the first section formed when the unit was established. To compete successfully, it was determined better arms and ammunition were required. Here, gunsmiths build top-quality competitive-grade rifles and pistols for the competitive teams, many from the ground up.

The Custom Firearm Shop's research and development efforts have led not only to enhanced accuracy and reliability of our competitive weapons systems and ammunition, but have intensified the combat effectiveness of the entire Army. It is here that the M-21 and M-24 Sniper Systems and Special Reaction Team Rifles were developed and tested. The extraordinary combined efforts of the assigned Soldiers and Civilians of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit are why they have come to be known as "The Home of Champions."

WARRIOR TRAINING CENTER

The Army National Guard Warrior Training Center (WTC) is located at Camp Butler in the Harmony Church area of Fort Benning. The ARNG WTC mission is to train Soldiers in critical functional and special skills which include Pre-Ranger, Air Assault, Pathfinder, Bradley Pre-Master Gunner, Bradley Crew Evaluator, Combatives courses, Abrams Pre-Master Gunner and Vehicle Crew Evaluator Courses in order to provide the Army National Guard with highly skilled and qualified personnel imbued with the Warrior Ethos and ready to conduct operations in support of the Global War on Terror.

Formed originally as an organization designed solely to prepare potential U.S. Army Ranger Course students from the Army National Guard, the WTC has since grown to include four training companies and a headquarters and headquarters company. With the creation of the MCoE and the merging of the U.S. Army Infantry and Armor at Fort Benning, the WTC will add a new training company in 2010 to train ARNG Soldiers needed skills to improve readiness in our heavy formations.

Alpha Company conducts Pre-Ranger and Combatives Level I and II courses. The Pre-Ranger Course consists of 17 days of training. The first week is designed to mirror the first week of Ranger School's (Benning) phase. The second week is designed to coach, teach, and mentor students during the patrol phase of the course. The purpose of the Pre-Ranger Course (PRC) is to prepare Soldiers to succeed at the U.S. Army Ranger Course. Pre-Ranger accomplishes this by assessing the Soldiers' physical and mental capabilities, training the Soldiers on troop leading procedures, combat orders and reconnaissance/combat patrols to the same standards conducted at the U.S. Army Ranger Course. Pre-Ranger is designed to verify that all medical/dental and administrative paperwork is complete for course attendance, and fix deficiencies that the Soldier may have. Students must pass the Ranger Physical Fitness Test (RPFT) consisting of 49 push-ups, 59 sit-ups and five mile (release) run in 40 minutes or less. In addition to the RPFT, students will be evaluated at the combat water survival test, land navigation, road march, ranger stakes, obstacle course, patrols and peer evaluations.

Bravo Company conducts both the Air Assault and Pathfinder courses. The Air Assault course teaches Soldiers the various types of missions performed by rotary wing aircraft, aircraft safety, aero-medical evacuation procedures, pathfinder operations, principles and techniques of combat assaults, rappelling techniques, and sling-load operations. Instruction is conducted in both classroom and field environment.

The Pathfinder course provides unit commanders with a Soldier who possesses technical expertise in planning and executing air movement, air assault, airborne, and air re-supply operations for rotary or fixed wing aircraft; interfaces between Army Aviation/USAF units and supported commander; prepares air mission brief and air movement annex; provides technical advice, inspects and supervises the execution of sling-load operations; provides trained personnel to assist with the mission of USAF combat control team; selects, marks, and controls helicopter day and night landing and pick-up zones; selects, marks, and controls fixed-wing day and night drop zones for airborne personnel and equipment; provides air traffic control and navigational assistance to aircraft within an operational site control zone; provides USAF aircraft terminal guidance for deployment of the airborne force; conducts Drop Zone Survey operations; certify in the use of Ground Marker Release System (GMRS), Computed Air Release Point (CARP), and Verbally Initiated Release System (VIRS) for rotary and fixed-wing aircraft airdrop operations.

Charlie Company conducts multiple courses with respect to the Bradley Fighting Vehicle (BFV) platform including the Pre-Master Gunner and Bradley Crew Evaluator. Additionally Charlie Company provides Soldiers with New Equipment Training (NET) on small arms simulators. The Pre-Master Gunner Course provides Soldiers with training on the M242 25mm chain gun (open & closed book), Surface Danger Area Diagram (SDAD) and Short Range Training Plan (SRTP). The Bradley Crew Evaluator course is designed to prepare Soldiers to evaluate BFV crews during BFV gunnery. This course includes training in scoring, engaging, and searching with the BFV. The mission of the Simulations New Equipment Training Team (NETT) in Charlie Company is to train Soldiers and support ARNG units with Bradley Fighting Vehicle and small arms simulator new equipment training (NET). This is accomplished through the Senior Instructor Operator (SIO) and Instructor Operator (IO) resident and MTT courses. The Simulation team also conducts government testing and fielding for the Tabletop Full Fidelity Trainers (TFT), Conduct of Fire Trainers (COFT), Advanced Bradley Fully Interactive Skills Trainer (AB-FIST) and the Fire Arms Training System (FATS).

Delta Company conducts multiple courses involved with the Abrams Fighting Vehicle platform including Abrams Pre-Master Gunner and Vehicle Crew Evaluator Courses. Additionally Delta Company provides Soldiers with New Equipment Training (NET) on Abrams platform simulators. continues to transform to serve the United States and its partner nations throughout the Americas.

WHINSEC offers 27 courses each year, most in residence at Fort Benning, Ga.—from cadet and NCO courses to Counterdrug Courses to a Command & General Staff Course to Civil Affairs Operations Courses. Military, law enforcement and civilians come from all around the hemisphere, including the U.S. and Canada. Every course is taught in Spanish; the NCO Professional Development Course is also taught in English for the Caribbean basin nations.

WHINSEC has the most complete human rights program available to the militaries and police forces of the Western Hemisphere. The institute devotes at least 10 percent of each course's content to Human Rights-specific issues.

Not only has WHINSEC fulfilled its Congressional mandate to provide education and training and to foster openness and relationships among the nations, it has expanded its contributions both to the U.S. and to the world. In 2009, 20 U.S. ROTC cadets came to a Cadet Course and for four weeks were immersed in the language and culture of their Colombian military cadet classmates. This initiative has now been formally included in Cadet Command's Cultural Understanding and Language Proficiency (CULP) internship program.

The institute is a part of the U.S. Army Training & Doctrine Command; all courses are accredited by TRADOC. That means every course is doctrinally sound, legally correct, and relevant to the needs of our country and of our neighbors. Reports from around the region show that skills learned or knowledge gained has been put to good use, particularly in the counterdrug efforts, and the focus on democracy and human rights support the democratically-elected leadership of the nations of the Organization of American States. WHINSEC plays a crucial role in support of the security strategies of U.S. Southern Command and U.S. Northern Command. It is a unique forum for developing relationships among neighbors. WHINSEC is considered an indispensable instrument for U.S. policy efforts in the region: supporting democracy, security and the strengthening of the Inter-American community.

With a staff and faculty of around 250 people, the institute serves more than 1,200 students per year. With annual budgets totaling around $13 million—about the price of one UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter (or put another way, 1/50,000th of the Defense budget)—that's a lot of "bang for the buck" by any measure.

The institute is open to visitors every workday. Anyone may sit in on classes, talk with students and faculty, and review our instructional materials. Every year more than 1,000 visitors come to the institute.

HOUSING ASSISTANCE

Privatized Housing

Family housing on Fort Benning was privatized on Jan. 1, 2006, under the Residential Communities Initiative. Through privatization, property management responsibilities were transferred from the government to a company called Interstate Realty Management (IRM). IRM is proud to be a part of the Fort Benning team. Their goal is to provide a high standard of living for military families at Fort Benning. One of the many benefits of the RCI Program will be revitalized with the replacement or renovation of nearly all family housing at Fort Benning. Numerous amenities such as parks, playgrounds, tot lots, community centers and swimming pools will be added to the housing areas as well. Additionally, only residents of on-post family housing are eligible to enroll their children in on-post schools.

Families choosing to live in RCI housing receive a basic allowance for housing and their monthly rent is equal to their BAH. Payment for the monthly rent is set-up as an allotment and is automatically taken out of the Soldier's pay. This eliminates the need to write a monthly check. Other than rental payments, there are no additional move-in expenses, no credit check fees and no security or pet deposits. Additionally, because the rent currently includes utilities, the decision to live on-post is easy on the pocket book. Eligibility for neighborhoods is determined by grade and the eligibility for home size is determined by family size. For more information, visit The Villages of Benning Welcome Center located at 601 Lumpkin Road or call (706) 685-3939. You may also visit the Web site <http://www.villagesofbenning.com>.

Housing Services Office (HSO)

The HSO Office provides assistance to all military, their family members and Department of the Army civilians moving to the tri-community areas of Columbus, Phenix City and Fort Benning in securing off-post living accommodations.

All military personnel assigned to Fort Benning are required to report to this office before entering into any lease, rental or purchase agreement for off-post housing. Current listings of furnished and unfurnished apartments and houses for rent or sale is maintained and updated weekly. Prior to arriving to this area, you can access via the internet the Automated Housing Referral Network (AHRN), where you can see what properties are available. For assistance in planning your move, visit the DoD Web site, Military HOMEFRONT or Military OneSource. There are numerous apartment and single-family housing complexes in the Tri-community area, some are complete with sports and recreation facilities. Most require a one-year lease for houses and a six-month lease for apartments; however, some offer short term leases. Several motels in the area provide special rates for military and civilians either on an overnight visit or on a permanent basis.

The HSO Office is located in Building 2619, in Soldiers' Plaza.

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For more information, call (706) 545-3921/6610.

Centralized Barracks Management (CBM)

Centralized Barracks Management program was officially implemented at Fort Benning on Nov. 15, 2005. The initial contract was awarded to C E McKenzie and Associates, LLC. The program started with five buildings at Dixie Road, Yeager Avenue and in the MEDDAC area. The program now encompasses more than 42 buildings and 3365 troop billet spaces for housing permanent party single Soldiers.

The contractor assigns/terminates residents' rooms, assesses and documents condition of rooms and furnishings, validates occupancy rate for Certificates of Non-Availability, submits and tracks Service Orders and between occupancy repairs, prepares Barracks Utilization Reports, controls keys, performs weekly common area and monthly room inspections with reports and prepares Statements of Charges and Cash Collection Vouchers for damages.

The Program relieves the military chain of command of the responsibility of assigning/terminating Soldiers in the troop billets and focus on their unit missions. This concept allows better utilization of government facilities and furnishings. In addition, the program assists the command in having better control of the assets and improves building maintenance providing for a better quality of life for single Soldiers. The CBM Offices are located in Buildings; 2896 (Main Post) and 9180 (Kelley Hill).

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information call (706) 545-7197.

They require no credit check, no application fee, no security deposit and no pet deposit. Renter's Insurance is included in the rental payment.

Families choosing to live in family housing receive a BAH (Basic Allowance for Housing) and their monthly rent is equivalent to their BAH. DENTAL

The U.S. Army Dental Activity (DENTAC) is a subordinate command of the U.S. Army Dental Command. The "Follow Me" DENTAC operates four dental treatment facilities on Fort Benning and one dental clinic in Fort Rucker, Ala. The Dental Activity also conducts a post-doctoral, 12 month advanced educational program in general dentistry, which provides comprehensive training and supervised clinical experience in all major specialty areas of dental practice to recent dental school graduates. Members of the uniformed services receive routine dental care during normal duty hours at the clinic designated to support their unit.

The operating hours for the dental clinics are Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Soldiers must wear their duty uniform for sick call. Local civilian dentists provide dental care for family members. A list of participating dentists is available at all dental facilities. The TRICARE Dental Plan (TDP) was instituted April 1, 1993. In Army clinics, Other Than Active Duty (OTAD-family members/retirees/family members of retirees) are only eligible for care if installation dental readiness rates surpass 95 percent and only on a space available/stand-by basis. Due to the GWOT and multiple deployments over the past few years, this standard is met very infrequently and normally there is no space available. Emergency care will be provided only for relief of emergency conditions, which are normally defined as swelling, bleeding, traumatic injury or acute pain of sudden onset. Active duty Soldiers are expected to report to their respective clinics for dental emergencies during regularly scheduled sick call hours. Please call your respective clinic for sick call hours. After duty hours care is available through the Emergency Room at Martin Army Community Hospital (706) 544-1502. For more information, view the DENTAC web page: <http://www.martin.amedd.army.mil/dentac2/den-frms.htm>.

MEDICAL

Off-Post Care

The Chattahoochee Valley area offers a wide variety of medical facilities, including an orthopedic/sports medicine teaching hospital, dialysis treatment clinics, several psychiatric facilities providing inpatient and outpatient care, chemical dependency rehabilitation centers, cancer research and treatment center, a specialized coronary care hospital offering cardiovascular surgical procedures and local/regional critical care hospitals and trauma centers.

On-Post Care

Martin Army Community Hospital at Fort Benning is a medical facility providing an extensive variety of inpatient and outpatient medical services to eligible military medical beneficiaries, which includes all active-duty Soldiers. Patients who are eligible for care include all active-duty family members, military retirees and their family members and surviving spouses who are enrolled in TRICARE Prime or TRICARE Prime Plus. The main hospital and most outpatient clinics are located at 7950 Martin Loop (Building 9200) directly off the Marne Road exit near the Main Post Exchange.

Martin Army Community Hospital provides comprehensive medical services and is a 72-bed facility. Within the hospital's 10 floors are four patient wards, a surgical suite with same-day capabilities, a labor and delivery suite and more than 30 ambulatory care clinics. The hospital maintains a fully accredited laboratory service, diagnostic radiology with computerized tomography and nuclear medicine, pharmacy and many other ancillary support services.

To provide these varied medical services, the MEDDAC employs approximately 1,287 civilian and 490 military staff members. Daily, the hospital provides inpatient care to approximately 37 patients and averages nearly 1,876 outpatient visits. On average, there are two babies born every day and the hospital's outpatient pharmacy dispenses more than 2,600 prescriptions. In addition to its medical mission, the MEDDAC has an extensive professional teaching/ training mission. MACH established the Army's first Family Practice Residency Program in 1972. This three-year program trains approximately 30 residents who provide medical services throughout the hospital. Other specialty training programs include the clinical portion of the Army's Physician Assistant Program, a residency in healthcare administration, training in several military occupational specialties and numerous clinical rotations or externships in cooperation with local colleges and universities.

In addition to MACH, a reception station clinic and nine troop medical clinics support training activities on the installation and two additional troop medical clinics are located at Dahlonge, Ga. and Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., in support of the Ranger Training Program. Also, external to the main hospital are the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Program, Physical Examination Service, Social Work Service, Community Mental Health Service, Preventive Medicine Service and Veterinary Service.

In March 2007, a new outpatient Combined Troop Medical Clinic opened on Main Post, replacing Troop Medical Clinics One and Two, as well as the Aviation Medical Clinic.

The new CTMC serves more than 10,500 active duty troops—providing sick call, primary care, immunizations, audiology, pharmacy services, physical therapy, digital radiology and minor procedures and treatments.

The MEDDAC also has command and control of the Warrior Transition Unit, which is responsible for Warriors in transition as they heal and recover from their wounds and injuries.

All appointments, cancellations and reschedules are made through the CARE line. It is extremely important that patients arrive 15 minutes prior to medical appointments, in order to avoid a breakdown of the appointment schedule. If it is impossible to keep an appointment, please call the CARE line in advance to reschedule or cancel the appointment. To make or cancel an appointment, call (706) 544-2273. TRICARE Prime access standards for appointments are as follows:

Access to Care

Primary Care Managers

The primary pathway to care is through the Primary Care Manager. All active-duty Soldiers are enrolled in TRICARE Prime and assigned to a troop medical center or the Family Medicine Clinic upon arrival at Fort Benning. Active-duty Soldiers with dependents are given a Family Member enrollment packet during in-processing. Completed packets must be turned in at the TRICARE Service Center located in Building 9204 next to MACH to enroll their family members in TRICARE Prime here. Once enrolled, TRICARE will assign a PCM to all family members.

Emergency Room

The next pathway to care is through the Fort Benning MEDDAC Emergency Room.

The ER is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Though the ER should be reserved for emergency service, all DoD eligible beneficiaries may visit the ER at any time.

Referrals

There are times when the primary care manager determines there is a need for a referral to a specialist. The PCM must request this referral. Once the PCM determines that a referral is necessary, he/she will enter a referral request into the TRICARE system. Patients are then contacted by phone or mail with the details of the referral appointment. The referral may be with a specialist in the Fort Benning MEDDAC, or with an outside TRICARE Network civilian provider.

Seeking Medical Care Away From Home

TRICARE understands travel away from the primary care manager is a necessary part of life. To access care while traveling, patients must contact their PCM at (888) 293-2148 to receive authorization for medical care in the civilian sector. By calling this number, patients are ensured maximum TRICARE reimbursement and less out-of-pocket expense. If a medical emergency occurs when traveling, please report to the nearest Emergency Room (military or civilian) with military ID card or dial 911. Patients need to contact their PCM within 24 hours of receiving medical attention in order to receive an authorization code. If this does not occur, patients are responsible for all costs incurred.

Patient and Family Advocates

Patients with questions concerning hospital procedures or wishing to voice a complaint may visit the hospital's Patient and Family Advocate (PFA) Offices, in Rooms 103A and 103B, across from the Information Desk at Martin Army Community Hospital or call (706) 544-2788/1817. Individuals with suggestions or desiring to compliment a staff member, a particular service, ward or clinic should contact the PFA Office. Patient and Family Advocates are available during duty hours to offer assistance, provide information and promote communications between patients and staff. An answering machine is available 24 hours a day to take calls when the patient representative is not available.

Volunteers play an important part at Martin Army Community Hospital. Every week, hundreds of volunteer hours are logged in hospital clinics, wards and administrative area through the American Red Cross. Each summer, the ARC sponsors a youth program, which allows teens the opportunity to work within the hospital.

Individuals who would like to gain valuable healthcare experience and donate their time are encouraged to contact the hospital volunteer coordinator at (706) 544-3213, or call the Red Cross at (706) 545-5194.

TRICARE

TRICARE is the Department of Defense's worldwide health care program available to active duty and retired members of the uniformed services, their families and survivors.

The Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System determines eligibility for TRICARE.

The options are TRICARE Prime, TRICARE Standard and TRICARE Extra. The Prime Program involves enrolling and selecting a Primary Care Manager who will oversee the member's medical care. TRICARE Prime offers fewer out-of-pocket costs than any other TRICARE option. TRICARE Extra and TRICARE Standard are available to eligible beneficiaries who are unable to, or who choose not to, enroll in TRICARE Prime. Enrollment is not required for either option and there are no annual enrollment fees. Beneficiaries are responsible for annual deductibles and cost-shares. Information on enrollment into TRICARE Prime can be obtained at the local TRICARE Service Center (TSC). The TSC is located in Building 9204 Stairwell C, adjacent to Martin Army Community Hospital. TRICARE information is available by calling (800) 444-5445. MACH Health Benefits Advisors are available to assist patients with questions regarding TRICARE benefits and billing concerns. For more information, call (706) 544-3461/1347.

NATIONAL INFANTRY MUSEUM

Prior to June 2009, the Infantry Museum was housed in an old Army hospital on post. The collection was the envy of all military historians, however space was limited and the old building's lighting and air quality couldn't adequately protect the tens of thousands of artifacts inside. The National Infantry Foundation raised money to build the new, state-of-the-art facility and partnered with Fort Benning and the Army to operate it. In its first year, 400,000 people from all over the world visited the new museum.

The brand new National Infantry Museum and Soldier Center at Patriot Park honors the oldest and largest branch of the U.S. Army. The $100 million facility includes era galleries tracing Infantry history from the Colonial period to the desert wars of today. Two unique galleries highlight the training of an Infantryman and honor the sacrifices made by those who loved an Infantryman. There is a five-acre parade field on which Infantry School students graduate every week, and an authentically recreated World War II Street where visitors can learn what it was like to be in the Army during the 1940s. Soldier Center includes an IMAX Theatre and the Fife and Drum Restaurant, as well as a Soldier Store that sells gifts and souvenirs. A weapons simulator gives visitors of all ages a chance to fire weapons on a virtual range.

LAUNDROMAT

We have added 40lb+ washers and stacked dryers! You won't ever need to carry a pocket full of quarters with our new CCI card system. Simply put wash credits on your card and insert into the machines. LOCAL COMMUNITIES

COLUMBUS, GEORGIA

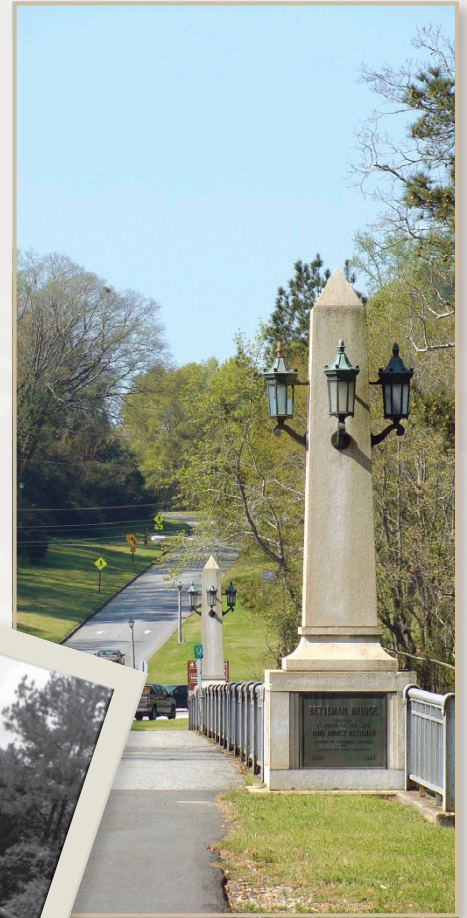

People from around the country are discovering the many fascinating things to see and do in Fort Benning's home town, Columbus. An authentic river-town, the peaceful waters of the Chattahoochee have provided food, energy, employment and recreation for the citizens of Columbus throughout the years. Columbus is a vibrant and growing community of 250,000 people, and is Georgia's third largest city. Less than an hour away from Georgia's most popular statewide attractions, Columbus is centrally located where five major highways intersect, providing access to popular visitor destinations including nationally-renowned Callaway Gardens, Roosevelt's Little White House and the Westville Village of 1850. Visitors also find that the Coca-Cola formula originated in the city of Columbus and that it is home to the largest producer of denim in the nation, Swift Denim.

Locally, Columbus offers a variety of fine attractions, such as the State Theatre of Georgia, the historic Springer Opera House, Port Columbus Civil War Naval Center, the National Infantry Museum, which displays a large collection of military art and artifacts, and the Columbus

Museum, which is one of the newest and largest state-of-the-art facilities in the Southeast and the beautiful Historic District. Columbus' neighboring river is home to the 15-mile trail known as the Chattahoochee RiverWalk. The RiverWalk provides an excellent facility to bike, in-line skate, jog, or just take a leisurely stroll and enjoy the scenery.

Fort Benning's home city also boasts the historic Columbus Iron Works, now the Columbus Georgia Convention and Trade Center, which was once a munitions factory during the Civil War and still displays its early wares including items from Civil War cannons to iceboxes. Today, the facility is recognized as one of the nation's finest examples of "adaptive reuse." The Columbus Civic Center sits as the centerpiece to the finest collections of sports facilities to be found at one location, the South Commons Complex. Opened in 1996, this 10,000 seat venue is a true multi-purpose facility.

Southern hospitality is alive and well in Columbus. It's just "the way we are down here." It's a community that takes pride in preserving the past while maintaining a vision for the future. Come to Columbus and let us share that vision with you!

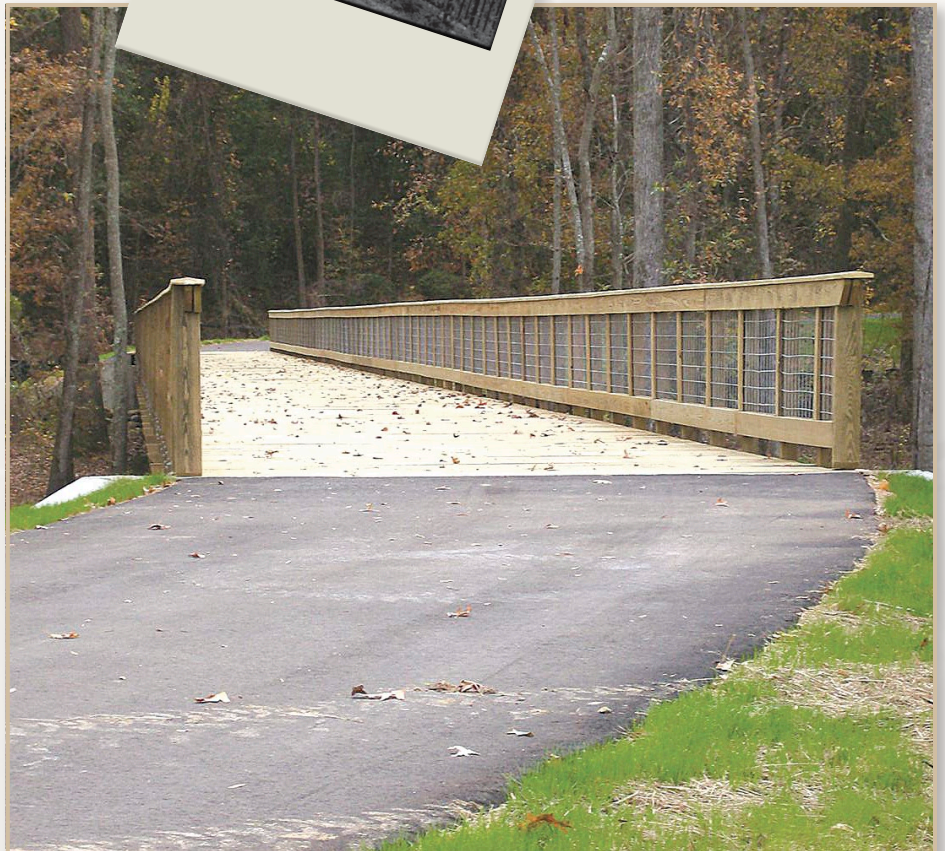

PHENIX CITY, ALABAMA

Neighboring Fort Benning is Phenix City, Ala. Phenix City was combined with the city of Girard in 1923, and now has a population of around 29,000. The city is located on the western banks of the Chattahoochee River and is home to many of Fort Benning's civilian and military personnel.

Phenix City plays hosts to many visitors looking to travel to Callaway Gardens, a 2,500 acre woodland garden and resort featuring golf, tennis, fly-fishing, trails and home to the Cecil B. Day Butterfly Center, the Sibley Horticultural Center and Mr. Cason's Vegetable Garden. Carmike Cinema's Hollywood Connection is also located near Phenix City; Georgia's largest indoor family entertainment center complete with video arcade, 10 movie theaters, carousel, electric train, mini-golf course, bumper cars, laser tag, Xanadu Skating and more. There are excellent educational opportunities through the local public school systems, area private schools and secondary education at area vocational and technical schools, colleges and universities.

The area is known for its rich history, hospitable people and supportive business climate. Phenix City, much like its neighboring city, Columbus, and the personnel at Fort Benning, epitomizes what true Southern hospitality is all about.
