

What People Are Saying About MCC

I tip my hat to the MCC for not only putting the evaluations out there, but giving us a bunch of useful lessons in the process.

Markus Goldstein
World Bank

This effort will help lead to better programs and policies, which will have an impact on reducing poverty for all.

Chris Vincent
Habitat for Humanity

Development agencies and other organizations spend tens of billions of dollars annually to help the world's poor, with little basis in evidence about which strategies are effective and which are not. MCC's leadership in evidence-based assistance...is addressing that gap.

Jon Baron
Coalition for Evidence-Based Policy

The MCC's release of its first independent impact evaluations has set a high bar for other US agencies and for aid agencies around the world.

Todd Moss
Center for Global Development

MCC's commitment to evaluation, accountability, learning, and transparency is a model not only for donors, but for government policy more generally.

Michael Kremer
Harvard University

The MCC's willingness to share information on both the successes and challenges of its programs and to apply the lessons learned is a model for the aid community.

Sam Worthington
InterAction

From its inception, MCC was designed with a commitment to transparency and evidence-based decision making. The release of these results puts that promise into action.

Jim Kolbe
MFAN Chair