

Lesson Plan Five

OBJECTS IN TIME

RECOMMENDED GRADE LEVEL: Grades 7 to 12

OVERVIEW:

This activity is designed to accompany the Artifacts section of the Women in Congress Web site (<http://womenincongress.house.gov/artifacts/index.html>). Students have the opportunity to analyze artifacts associated with the careers of women who have served in Congress. Students are encouraged to think about the role that artifacts can play in the study of past events and people.

CURRICULUM CONNECTION:

- U.S. history, American government, women's history, social studies, art
- Women's rights movement, civil rights movement, material culture

OBJECTIVES:

1. Students should be able to define, describe, and analyze artifacts.
2. Students should be able to analyze the relationship between artifacts and the historical record
3. Students should be able to analyze the relationship between artifacts and the careers of women who have served in Congress.

LESSON PLAN:

1. To help introduce students to the upcoming activity, lead a brief discussion using the questions below:
 - a. What are artifacts?
 - b. Who makes them and why?
 - c. How can artifacts be utilized by historians to study past events and people?
2. Based on the class discussion, devise a definition for the word artifact.
3. Divide the class into small groups. Each group will choose, or be assigned three artifacts, from the Artifacts section on the Women in Congress Web site, <http://womenincongress.house.gov/artifacts/> or the accompanying document <http://womenincongress.house.gov/educational/artifacts.pdf>. Instruct students that only one of the three objects should be a campaign button.
4. Distribute the "Artifact Analysis" worksheet (located at the end of this document). Review the directions and ask students to complete the worksheet.
5. Have each group read the Women in Congress profiles for the Members highlighted in the artifacts, <http://womenincongress.house.gov/profiles/>. Distribute the "Congressional Snapshot" worksheet (located at the end of this document). Review the directions and ask students to complete the worksheet.

6. Have students choose one artifact and one of the options below to present their findings from the “Artifact Analysis” and “Congressional Snapshot” exercises to the class:
 - a. An exhibit for a museum or historical society featuring the artifact and Congresswoman or Senator.
 - b. A unique artifact designed by students to distribute to people for an event honoring the Congresswoman or Senator.
 - c. An interactive timeline featuring the artifact and Congresswoman or Senator.
 - d. A two-page narrative with images for a history magazine entitled, “If This Artifact Could Talk...” which explains the relationship between the object and the Congresswoman or Senator.
7. If time permits, conduct one of the optional extended activities.

SUGGESTED EXTENDED ACTIVITIES:

1. Invite a curator to speak to your class about the historical value of artifacts.
2. Organize a history fair to display products created by students (timelines, exhibits, artifacts, and narratives).
3. Have students perform a series of skits which use artifacts to describe the careers of the highlighted Representatives and Senators.

ARTIFACT ANALYSIS WORKSHEET:

A box of artifacts has been found in the basement of the Capitol. Historians need assistance in identifying, describing, and explaining the significance of the objects. Carefully analyze each of your three congressional artifacts and then answer the questions below.

Description (each object)

- What is the shape, size (educated guess), and color of the object?
- Who is featured on the object?
- What is written on the object?
- What are some of the unique features of the object?

Purpose (each object)

- How was the object used?
- Is the purpose of the object the same today as when it was first made? Explain.
- Are there multiple functions/uses for the object? If so, please list.

Inference (each object)

- Why was the object created?
- When do you think the object was made? Is this the same time period that the object represents?
- What can the object tell us about the time period that it represents?
- How could historians use this object to learn more about the featured Representative or Senator?
- How could historians use this object to learn more about women's politics?

Comparison (three objects)

- What are three similarities between the objects?
- What are three differences between the objects?
- Collectively, how can these three objects help historians better understand the past?

CONGRESSIONAL SNAPSHOT:

Choose one of the women Members highlighted in your artifacts. Then use her Women in Congress profile and your completed artifact analysis worksheet to answer the questions below.

1. When and where was the Representative or Senator born?
2. Describe her educational background and employment before her congressional career.
3. When was the Representative or Senator elected?
4. Did she serve in the House of Representatives, the Senate, or both?
5. When did she serve in Congress?
6. Which district and/or state did she represent?
7. On which committees did she serve?
8. List some of the issues she advocated during her congressional career.
9. What were some of her significant legislative accomplishments in Congress?
10. List and analyze one quote from the profile. What does this quote tell us about her career in Congress?
