Dear Madam Chair:

We write to express our hope that the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) will properly consider public concerns raised in response to the proposed Business Opportunity Rule (R511993). We share your interest in consumer protection and are committed to protecting the public from unfair and deceptive business practices.

As you know, the proposed Business Opportunity Rule generated approximately 17,000 comments from the American public to the FTC. It is our understanding that the vast majority of comments were opposed to the rule as presently proposed. We are also troubled by the potential for this proposed rule to overregulate legitimate business activities. Many stakeholders have conveyed to us that the proposed rule has the potential to harm many long-standing and legitimate companies and to impair the ability of many Americans to engage in legitimate business opportunities. In particular, many of the raised concerns state that the proposed rule would severely restrict the legitimate activities of American businesses, including direct selling companies.

We encourage the FTC to work with those potentially affected individuals and business groups to develop a proposal that achieves the FTC's desired goals of consumer protection, while not adversely affecting legitimate business ventures or the benefits they provide the U.S. economy.

We appreciate your consideration of this important matter.

Sincerely.

COME CORRES. BRANCH

The Honorable Michael Crapo United States Senate Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Crapo:

Thank you for your letter to the Federal Trade Commission concerning the Commission's proposed Business Opportunity Rule. As you know, the rulemaking proceeding is ongoing, and members of the Commission staff are currently reviewing comments submitted in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Your letter and this response will be made part of the public record of that rulemaking proceeding, and I am happy to provide you with an overview of the proposed rule, as well as an update on the status of the rulemaking proceeding.

The Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning the proposed Business Opportunity Rule on April 12, 2006. The version of the rule that the Commission initially proposed was designed to prevent deception inflicted on prospective purchasers of a given business opportunity by ensuring that they receive a one-page disclosure document that provides essential material information concerning that business opportunity. The requirement to provide this disclosure document would cover all types of business opportunity sellers, including those employing the multi-level marketing – or "direct sales" – model. In the Commission's enforcement experience, fraudulent businesses have often passed themselves off as legitimate companies that use this business model. Specifically, many pyramid schemes have masqueraded as legitimate multi-level marketing companies.²

¹See 16 CFR Part 437: Business Opportunity Rule: Federal Trade Commission: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 71 Fed. Reg. 19054 (April 12, 2006).

²The Commission has a long history of law enforcement action against pyramid schemes. FTC v. Sun Ray Trading, Inc., No. 05-20402-CIV-Seitz/Bandstra (S.D. Fla. 2005); FTC v. NexGen3000.com, No. CIV-03-120 TUC WDB (D. Ariz. 2003); FTC v. ICR Servs., No. 03 C 5532 (N.D. Ill. 2003); FTC v. Trek Alliance, Inc., No. 02-9270 SJL (AJWx) (C.D. Cal. 2002); FTC v. As your letter correctly notes, the Commission received more than 17,000 comments in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Many comments express support for the proposed rule and the need to weed out fraudulent actors from the marketplace, but many comments also posit that the proposal would impose unintended compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies.

Members of the Commission staff are currently considering whether the proposed definition of business opportunity achieves the proper balance – in its attempt to curb abuses inflicted on the public by pyramid schemes that purport to be business opportunities – while at the same time avoiding any unnecessary compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies. These concerns are articulated very clearly and in detail in many of the comments the Commission has received. The staff appreciates these concerns and will carefully consider them as it determines what steps to recommend that the Commission take next in the ongoing Business Opportunity rulemaking proceeding.

I should note that the portion of the Federal Trade Commission Act that governs Commission promulgation of trade regulation rules, 15 USC 57a et seq., provides numerous opportunities for public comment and oral participation with respect to any rulemaking proposals. I should also note, without prejudging any aspect of this matter in any way, that the final rule adopted at the conclusion of a Commission rulemaking proceeding often differs in various ways from the initial version proposed at the beginning of the proceeding.

We appreciate receiving your comments on this important consumer protection issue. If you or your staff have additional questions or comments or wish to provide additional information, please feel free to contact me or Jeanne Bumpus, the Director of our Office of Congressional Relations, at (202) 326-2195. The Honorable John McCain United States Senate Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator McCain:

Thank you for your letter to the Federal Trade Commission concerning the Commission's proposed Business Opportunity Rule. As you know, the rulemaking proceeding is ongoing, and members of the Commission staff are currently reviewing comments submitted in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Your letter and this response will be made part of the public record of that rulemaking proceeding, and I am happy to provide you with an overview of the proposed rule, as well as an update on the status of the rulemaking proceeding.

The Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning the proposed Business Opportunity Rule on April 12, 2006.¹¹ The version of the rule that the Commission initially proposed was designed to prevent deception inflicted on prospective purchasers of a given business opportunity by ensuring that they receive a one-page disclosure document that provides essential material information concerning that business opportunity. The requirement to provide this disclosure document would cover all types of business opportunity sellers, including those employing the multi-level marketing – or "direct sales" – model. In the Commission's enforcement experience, fraudulent businesses have often passed themselves off as legitimate companies that use this business model. Specifically, many pyramid schemes have masqueraded as legitimate multi-level marketing companies.¹²

As your letter correctly notes, the Commission received more than 17,000 comments in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Many comments express support for the proposed rule and the need to weed out fraudulent actors from the marketplace, but many comments also posit that the proposal would impose unintended compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies.

Members of the Commission staff are currently considering whether the proposed definition of business opportunity achieves the proper balance — in its attempt to curb abuses inflicted on the public by pyramid schemes that purport to be business opportunities — while at the same time avoiding any unnecessary compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies. These concerns are articulated very clearly and in detail in many of the comments the Commission has received. The staff appreciates these concerns and will carefully consider them as it determines what steps to recommend that the Commission take next in the ongoing Business Opportunity rulemaking proceeding.

I should note that the portion of the Federal Trade Commission Act that governs Commission promulgation of trade regulation rules, 15 USC 57a et seq., provides numerous opportunities for public comment and oral participation with respect to any rulemaking proposals. I should also note, without prejudging any aspect of this matter in any way, that the final rule adopted at the conclusion of a Commission rulemaking proceeding often differs in various ways from the initial version proposed at the beginning of the proceeding.

We appreciate receiving your comments on this important consumer protection issue. If you or your staff have additional questions or comments or wish to provide additional information, please feel free to contact me or Jeanne Bumpus, the Director of our Office of Congressional Relations, at (202) 326-2195. Thank you for your interest in the Commission.

The staff appreciates these concerns and will carefully consider them as it determines what steps to recommend that the Commission take next in the ongoing Business Opportunity rulemaking proceeding.

I should note that the portion of the Federal Trade Commission Act that governs Commission promulgation of trade regulation rules, 15 USC 57a et seq., provides numerous opportunities for public comment and oral participation with respect to any rulemaking proposals. I should also note, without prejudging any aspect of this matter in any way, that the final rule adopted at the conclusion of a Commission rulemaking proceeding often differs in various ways from the initial version proposed at the beginning of the proceeding.

We appreciate receiving your comments on this important consumer protection issue. If you or your staff have additional questions or comments or wish to provide additional information, please feel free to contact me or Jeanne Bumpus, the Director of our Office of Congressional Relations, at (202) 326-2195. The Honorable John Cornyn United States Senate Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Cornyn:

Thank you for your letter to the Federal Trade Commission concerning the Commission's proposed Business Opportunity Rule. As you know, the rulemaking proceeding is ongoing, and members of the Commission staff are currently reviewing comments submitted in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Your letter and this response will be made part of the public record of that rulemaking proceeding, and I am happy to provide you with an overview of the proposed rule, as well as an update on the status of the rulemaking proceeding.

The Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning the proposed Business Opportunity Rule on April 12, 2006.²³ The version of the rule that the Commission initially proposed was designed to prevent deception inflicted on prospective purchasers of a given business opportunity by ensuring that they receive a one-page disclosure document that provides essential material information concerning that business opportunity. The requirement to provide this disclosure document would cover all types of business opportunity sellers, including those employing the multi-level marketing – or "direct sales" – model. In the Commission's enforcement experience, fraudulent businesses have often passed themselves off as legitimate companies that use this business model. Specifically, many pyramid schemes have masqueraded as legitimate multi-level marketing companies.²⁴

²³See 16 CFR Part 437: Business Opportunity Rule: Federal Trade Commission: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 71 Fed. Reg. 19054 (April 12, 2006).

As your letter correctly notes, the Commission received more than 17,000 comments in response to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. Many comments express support for the proposed rule and the need to weed out fraudulent actors from the marketplace, but many comments also posit that the proposal would impose unintended compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies.

Members of the Commission staff are currently considering whether the proposed definition of business opportunity achieves the proper balance — in its attempt to curb abuses inflicted on the public by pyramid schemes that purport to be business opportunities — while at the same time avoiding any unnecessary compliance burdens on legitimate multi-level marketing companies. These concerns are articulated very clearly and in detail in many of the comments the Commission has received. The staff appreciates these concerns and will carefully consider them as it determines what steps to recommend that the Commission take next in the ongoing Business Opportunity rulemaking proceeding.

I should note that the portion of the Federal Trade Commission Act that governs Commission promulgation of trade regulation rules, 15 USC 57a et seq., provides numerous opportunities for public comment and oral participation with respect to any rulemaking proposals. I should also note, without prejudging any aspect of this matter in any way, that the final rule adopted at the conclusion of a Commission rulemaking proceeding often differs in various ways from the initial version proposed at the beginning of the proceeding.
