Boat, barge removal needed for levee reconstruction

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is looking for owners of 125 vessels that washed onto hurricane-damaged levees. The Corps must remove these vessels in order to restore the levees to pre-Katrina levels of hurricane and flood protection.

"There are literally hundreds of small and large water craft scattered on or near the levees that we must restore," said Don Rawson, project manager for the Corps' Task Force Guardian barge removal efforts. "Over the last few months we've been able to contact 50% of the vessel owners so they could remove them from our work areas," he added.

Areas where watercrafts still need to be removed include St. Bernard, Orleans and Plaquemines Parishes.

If the Corps is unable to contact these owners, they will arrange for the United States Coast Guard to remove the craft.

In some cases boats and barges are far enough from the levees that they will not interfere with restoration. However, once the levees are rebuilt, the vessel owner will have a much more difficult time removing the craft, Rawson said.

If your vessel is listed below, please contact Don Rawson, (504) 862-2952, concerning your salvage plans.
