

Biblioteca Benjamín Franklin

Servicio Cultural e Informativo de los Estados Unidos

Educación Bibliografía

Para información sobre estos títulos, comuníquese al Departamento de Circulación. Email: garciae@state.gov, teléfono: 5592-3483 ext. 5240.

Visite nuestra página: www.usembassy-mexico.gov/biblioteca

Si desea recibir este boletín por correo electrónico, escriba a: outreachbbf@state.gov

Achievement testing in U.S. elementary and secondary schools

Baker, Joan M.
New York, NY : P. Lang, 2006.

371.262 BAK

Explains the complicated concepts in a clear and user-friendly way to beginning teachers and students, as well as to experienced teachers who are looking for guidance in the ever-changing educational landscape. The history of testing, the process for developing a formal test, testing abuse, misuse, and limitations are not widely known or understood even though we realize that testing is critical and here to stay.

Adolescents at school : perspectives on youth, identity, and education

Edited by Michael Sadowski ; foreword by Deborah Meier
Cambridge, MA : Harvard Education Press, 2008.

373.181 ADO

Builds and expands on the strengths and insights of the much acclaimed previous edition. Drawing from the perspectives of teachers, researchers, and administrators, and adolescents themselves, it examines the complex, changing identities young people manage while they confront the challenges of school.

The Almanac of American Education, 2006

Edited by Deirdre A. Gaquin and Katherine A. DeBrandt
Lanham, MD : Bernan Press, 2006.

REF 370.21 ALM 2006

This new edition is very useful as a guide to address high priority education needs by comparing the quality of education at the national, state, regional, and county levels.

America's public schools: from the common school to "No Child Left Behind"

William J. Reese
Baltimore, MD : Johns Hopkins University Press, 2005.

371.01 REE

Examines why citizens have repeatedly turned to the schools to improve society and how successive generations of reformers have tried to alter the curriculum and teaching practice to achieve their goals.

The American college town

Blake Gumprecht
Amherst, MA : University of Massachusetts Press, 2008.

378.1 GUM

The college town is a unique type of urban place, shaped by the sometimes conflicting forces of youth, intellect, and idealism. The hundreds of college towns in the United States are, in essence, an academic archipelago. This book identifies the distinguishing features of college towns, explains why they have developed as they have in the United States, and examines in depth various characteristics that make them unusual.

The American research university from World War II to world wide web :

web : governments, the private sector, and the emerging meta-university

Charles M. Vest
Berkeley, CA : Center for Studies in Higher Education, University of California Press, 2007.

001.4 VES

This volume provides a unique opportunity to explore the current state of the research university. This multifaceted view shows that the American research university is complex in its mission and funding, its international openness is challenged by new security concerns, and its ability to contribute to worldwide opportunity through sharing and collaboration has been dramatically expanded by the Internet and the Web.

American special education : a history of early political advocacy

Gerard Giordano
New York, NY : P. Lang, 2007.

371.9 GIO

Account of the epic struggle for special education in America's schools. It chronicles the actions of community leaders, families, caregivers, instructors, physicians, scientists, lawyers, judges, lawmakers, businesspersons, journalists, social activists, and persons with disabilities. It details the creation of facilities in which special learners would be safe, productive, independent, respected, and self fulfilled.

The art of school leadership

Thomas R. Hoerr
Alexandria, VA : Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, 2005.

371.2 HOE

Offers invaluable advice on running a school. From evaluating teachers to working with parents, from managing meetings to make a difference, the author addresses the challenges of school leadership and shares his proven strategies for success.

Assessment in science : practical experiences and education research

Edited by Maureen McMahon ... [et al.]
Arlington, VA : NSTA Press, 2006.

507.1 ASS

Collection of up-to-date reports by authors who are practicing k-16 classroom teachers and university-based educators and researchers. Working in teams, they tried out and evaluated different assessment approaches in actual classrooms.

Beats, rhymes, and classroom life: hip-hop pedagogy and the politics of identity

Marc Lamont Hill
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2009.

370.9173 HIL

For over a decade, educators have looked to capitalize on the appeal of hip-hop culture, sampling its language, techniques and styles as a way of reaching out to students. In this revelatory new book, the author shows how a serious engagement with hip-hop culture can affect classroom life in extraordinary ways.

Best technology practices in higher education

By Les Lloyd
Medford, NJ : Information Today, 2005.

378.1 BES

A handful of progressive teachers and administrators are integrating technology in new and creative ways at their colleges and universities, raising the bar for all schools. In his latest book, editor Les Lloyd (Teaching with Technology) has sought out the most innovative and practical examples in a range of key application areas, bringing together more than 30 technology leaders to share their success stories.

Between speaking and silence : a study of quiet students

Mary M. Reda.
Albany, NY : State University of New York Press, 2009.

378.125 RED

Why are students silent? Using written reflections and interviews, Mary M.

Reda examines students' perceptions of speaking and being silent in a first-year composition classroom, and explores how their teachers, classroom relationships, and their own sense of identity shape their decisions to speak or be silent. By challenging many firmly held beliefs about those quiet students in the back of the classroom, Between Speaking and Silence offers the new vision that silence is not necessarily problematic.

The big book of jobs

By the Editors of McGraw-Hill & the United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics
New York, NY : McGraw-Hill, 2009.

Detailed information on hundreds of exciting careers
Techniques to skills training
Information on the latest trends
Illustrations of the latest trends

REF 650.14 BIG

Combines a concise overview of the job-search process with all the latest government statistics on more than 250 jobs. Whether you are a recent graduate just entering the job market, a work veteran looking to change careers, or just keeping watch on your own job's future, this book offers everything you need to make informed choices about your career.

Bilingual and ESL classrooms : teaching in multicultural contexts

Carlos J. Ovando, Mary Carol Combs, Virginia P. Collier
Boston, MA : McGraw-Hill, 2006.

370.117 OVA

This classic text integrates theory and practice to provide comprehensive coverage of bilingual and ESL education. The text covers the foundations of bilingual and ESL education and provides a strong focus on what the teacher needs to know in a bilingual classroom. Woven throughout the text are quotes from bilingual and ESL students and teachers that illuminate the bilingual/ESL learning and teaching experience.

Bilingual education in the 21st century: a global perspective

Ofelia García ; with contributions by Hugo Baetens Beardsmore
Malden, MA ; Oxford : Wiley-Blackwell Pub, 2009.

370.117 BIL

Examines languages and bilingualism as individual and societal phenomena, presents programs types, variables, and policies in bilingual education, and concludes by looking at practices, especially pedagogies and assessments.

Blogs, wikis, podcasts, and other powerful web tools for classrooms

Will Richardson
 Thousand Oaks, CA :
 Corwin Press, 2006.

371.33 RIC

This book brings teachers a bold vision and on-the-ground Monday morning practicality. It will move educators to think differently about technology's potential for strengthening student's critical thinking, writing, reflection, and interactive learning.

Bringing Equity Back : Research for a New Era in American Educational Policy

Edited by Janice Petrovich, Amy Stuart Wells
 New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2005.

379.260 BRI

This book examines the shifting terrain of educational policy and why equity must be brought back to the center of educational reform. It is also reviewed the historical, economic, and political conditions that generate inequalities in educational opportunity.

Bringing reading research to life

Edited by Margaret G. McKeown, Linda Kucan.
 New York, NY : Guilford Press, 2010.

428.4072 BRI

Assembles some of the world's foremost literacy scholars to discuss how scientific inquiry affects what teachers actually do in the classroom. Contributors presents ideas and findings on literacy processes in children of all ages, from the earliest stages of reading development through advance levels of learners from text. Coverage ranges from basic research to applied work and the design and implementation of instructional approaches.

California in a time of excellence : school reform at the crossroads of the American dream

James Andrew LaSpina.
 Albany, NY : SUNY Press, 2009.

370.9794 LAS

Follows the Golden State's efforts to reform its public school system from 1983 to the present. Beginning with progressive curriculum reform initiatives that were launched even before the National Commission on Excellence in Education (NCEE) issued A Nation at Risk in 1983. The author traces these reform efforts through recurring culture wars, major clashes of personality, and a conflict between the state's tradition of progressive educational policy and a culture of conservatism.

The career chronicles: an insider's guide to what jobs are really like : the good, the bad, and the ugly from over 750 professionals

Michael Gregory
Novato, CA : New World Library, 2008.

331.702 GRE

Draws on insider testimonies to describe the day-to-day, nitty-gritty responsibilities for hundreds of professions from lawyers and dentists to teachers and computer programmers. Is a guide that shares complementary information on the educational background for cited professions as well as average starting and median salaries.

The Chicago guide to your career in science : a toolkit for students and postdocs

Victor A. Bloomfield and Esam E. El-Fakahany
Chicago, IL : University of Chicago Press, 2008.

502.3 BLO

Designed to help scientists not just cope but excel at this critical time in their careers. Authors have combined their experience to create a guidebook that addresses the challenges today's beginning scientists face: from deciding whether to pursue a PhD and the skills essential to conducting and presenting research, to time-management, motivation, and effective communication with peers at academic conferences.

The Chicago School : how the University of Chicago assembled the thinkers who revolutionized economics and business

Johan Van Overtveldt
Chicago, IL : Agate, 2007.

330.15 OVE

In-depth history of the Chicago School of Economics, which sprang from the economics departments at the University of Chicago and its business school in the mid-20th century and went on to revolutionize how we think about economics and business.

Child and adolescent development for educators

Judith L. Meece
Boston, MA : McGraw-Hill, 2002.

370.1 MEE

This text focuses entirely on the development of school-age children and youth. It provides deep, research-based coverage on topics of most immediate concern to teachers. These include cognitive development, social and emotional development, language development, literacy, individual differences in development, and children with special needs.

Children's language: connecting reading, writing, and talk

Judith Wells Lindfors
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2008.

372.6 LIN

The more teachers understand about how children learn to talk, the more they can help children become avid joyful readers and writers. Drawing on a large body of research and her own volunteer work at a family shelter, the author identifies several important commonalities across oral and written language and traces children's emergent literacy from infancy through the early school years.

Children's literature and learning : literary study across the curriculum

Barbara A. Lehman
New York, NY :

Teachers College Press, 2007.

372.64 LEH

Shows how to create meaningful, intellectually stimulating programs of literary study that are developmentally appropriate for student's needs, interests and experiences. Offers practical ideas for creating programs that accomplish curricular goals in literary ways.

Civic literacy through curriculum drama, grades 6-12

Catherine A. Franklin
Thousand Oaks, CA : Corwin Press, 2009.

300.712 FRA

Curriculum Drama is a student-centered, inquiry-based teaching method by which the teacher facilitates dramatic activities that engage student's interest and imagination, develop critical thinking skills, and promote collaboration. This book transforms civics instruction into a dynamic, student-driven discourse that will help your students become informed, critically minded, and socially conscious citizens.

Classroom teacher's survival guide : practical strategies, management techniques, and reproducibles for new and experienced teachers

Ronald L. Partin

San Francisco, CA : Jossey-Bass, 2005.

371.102 PAR

Offers a practical source of ready-to-use tips and strategies for solving the everyday problems teachers face while organizing and managing a classroom. Includes tested suggestions and techniques to help you save time and handle problems in scores of specific areas such as classroom routines, motivation, supplies, parent conferences, lesson plans, etc.

CLEP : official study guide, 2012 : College-level Examination

378.1664 CLE

This College Level Examination program gives students the opportunity to receive college credit by earning scores on any one or more of 33 examinations. Includes detailed descriptions of the exams so you can familiarize with the types of questions to help you choose your study resources.

Computer resources for people with disabilities : a guide to assistive technologies, tools and resources for people of all ages

Alliance for Technology Access Alameda, CA : Hunter House, 2004.

004.087 COM

This book was written for a community that has much to gain from the power of technology. The community includes people with disabilities, but it also includes family members, advocates and friends of people with disabilities. It includes thousands of professionals in the fields of education and rehabilitation who are concerned about quality-of-life issues and options for children and adults with disabilities.

Collaborative strategies for teaching reading comprehension : maximizing your impact

Judi Moreillon
Chicago, IL : American Library Association, 2007.

Association, 2007.

372.47 MOR

Offers a clear, rigorous roadmap to the task of teaching reading comprehension with a proven collaborative process. This book is packed with practical ways to streamline the co-teaching lesson-planning process, encourage collaboration with a flexible design and delivery framework, strengthen partnering techniques to improve reading comprehension, and increase reading scores and lower student-teacher ratios using collaborative approaches.

Congress and the classroom : from the Cold War to "No Child Left Behind"

Lee W. Anderson
University Park, PA : Pennsylvania State University Press, 2007.

379.73 AND

This book analyzes the passage of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, and compares it to other federal education policies of the last fifty years. Shows that this act is an indicator of how and why conservative and liberal ideologies are gradually transforming. This is a fascinating story about the changing direction of policies today, and it will intrigue anyone interested in the history and politics of education reform.

Connecting leadership with learning : a framework for reflection, planning, and action

Michael A. Copland and Michael S. Knapp
Alexandria, VA :

Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, 2006.

371.20 COP

What kind of leadership makes learning possible for all students? How can school leaders help teachers increase their knowledge and improve their instructional abilities? This book gives educational leaders a new way to answer these questions and find solutions perfect for their particular school environment. The framework provides different vantage points to help leaders reflect on their strengths and weaknesses, plan for improvement, and take actions to foster learning for students, teachers and professionals, and school and district leaders.

Contemporary perspectives on science and technology in early childhood education

Edited by Olivia N. Saracho and Bernard Spodek

Charlotte, NC : IAP-Information Age Pub, 2008.

372.35 CON

Knowledge about science and technology is an important requirement for all in contemporary society. An increasing number of professions require the use of scientific concepts and technological skills, and society as a whole depends on scientific knowledge. The purpose of this book is to present a critical analysis of reviews of research on science and technology education in early childhood education.

Creating a class: college admissions and the education of elites

Mitchell L. Stevens
Cambridge, MA : Harvard University Press, 2007.

371.1 STE

Explains how elite colleges and universities have assumed their central role in the production of the nation's most privileged classes. He finds that the individualized evaluation protocols that are a point of pride at top colleges do not create equal educational opportunity, but subtly reinforce class privilege.

Creative careers in museums

Jan E. Burdick
New York : Allworth Press, 2008.

069.023 BUR

From the traditional museum position to the alternative jobs that support the museum world, learn from the skills, education, and interests of dozens of individuals who hold a diverse array of jobs. Creative Careers in Museums also details how to land that life-changing museum job: where to look, how to put together a successful résumé and cover letter, and what to expect at interviews.

Deaf Education in America : voices of children from inclusion settings

Janet Cerney
Washington, DC :
Gallaudet University
Press, 2007.

371.91 CER

This volume provides a detailed examination of the complex issues surrounding the integration of deaf students into the general classroom. The author begins by stressing to parents, educators, and policymakers the importance of learning the circumstances en which mainstreaming and inclusion can be successful for deaf students, and offers concrete information on steps that can be taken.

Declining by degrees : higher education at risk

Edited by Richard H.
Hersh and John
Merrow
New York, NY :
Palgrave Macmillan,
2005.

378.73 DEC

Sixteen essayists offer unique perspectives about the inadequate quality of college and university education and argue that the multi-billion dollar enterprise of higher education has gone astray. At the same time, these essays offer specific prescriptions for change.

Developing university-industry relations : pathways to innovation from the West Coast

Robert C. Miller, Bernard
J. Le Boeuf, editors
San Francisco, CA :

Jossey-Bass, 2009.

371.195 DEV

Draws on the experiences of some of the most renowned research universities on the U.S. West Coast and in Canada. Each campus has a solid record of providing a vital resource for the growth of their regional economies through innovative technology transfer and commercialization initiatives with companies such as Hewlett-Packard, Google, Discovery Parks, and Cohen Boyer.
Authors offer a wealth of exemplary best practices and proven strategies from these forward thinking institutions.

Diary of a bilingual school : how a constructivist curriculum, . . .

Sharon Adelman Reyes &
James Crawford (2012)
370.117 REY

By bringing together children from diverse backgrounds to learn each other's languages in a natural setting, it has proved far more effective at cultivating fluency than traditional approaches. The book focuses on Chicago's Inter American Magnet School.

One of the Nation's most acclaimed dual immersion programs, where children thrive in an environment that unlocks their intellectual curiosity and enthusiasm for learning.

Differentiation for the adolescent learner accommodating brain development, language, literacy, and special needs

Glenda Beamon Crawford
Thousand Oaks, CA : Corwin Press, 2008.

371.394 CRA

Provides keys to curriculum design, instruction and assessment within the context of a developmentally appropriate, differentiated approach. Translating the latest brain research into practical classroom strategies, the author focuses on the adolescent learner and outlines brain-compatible instructional strategies applicable to all students, including English language learners, gifted population, and others with special needs.

Differentiating instruction in the regular classroom : how to reach and teach all learners, grades 3-12

Diane Heacox
Minneapolis, MN : Free Spirit Pub, 2002.

371.394 HEA

Presents a menu of strategies any teacher can use to reach and teach all learners.

Drawing on Benjamin's Bloom's taxonomy of educational objectives, Howard Gardner's theory of multiple intelligences, her own experience as a classroom teacher, and the seasoned advice of teachers she has worked with, she explains how to differentiate instruction across a broad spectrum of scenarios.

Discounted dreams [videorecording] : high hopes and harsh realities at America's community colleges

Producers, Carrie Glasser, Shae Isaacs
United States : PBS Home Video, 2007.

DVD 378.03 DIS

Community colleges represent the fastest growing segment of American higher education, their open admissions, low tuition, and flexible scheduling draw students. The government though spends five times as much on prison inmates as it does with community colleges.

Diversity and the new teacher : learning from experience in urban schools

Catherine Cornbleth
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2008.

370.9173 COR

Examines one of the most challenging issues for new teachers: how to effectively teach a diverse student population, and weaves the voices and experiences of student teachers from urban elementary and high schools into the analysis. The author invites new and prospective teachers to draw on these experiences to explore working more constructively with students different from themselves, and to succeed in schools different than their own.

Dropouts in America : confronting the graduation rate crisis

Edited by Gary Orfield
Cambridge, MA :
Harvard Education
Press, 2004.

373.12 DRO

The goal of this book is to raise public awareness of this issue, and to make improving high school graduation rates as a central component of national educational reform efforts.

Educating the other America : top experts tackle poverty, literacy, and achievement in our schools

Edited by Susan B. Neuman

Baltimore, MD : Paul H. Brookes, 2008.

371.826 EDU

Breaking the cycle of poverty by improving education and literacy: that's the ultimate goal of this trailblazing book from top experts. Brings together more than 30 of the biggest names in education to tackle the challenges faced by children who live below the poverty line, and offers fresh, cutting-edge ideas for closing the achievement gap. This is an in-depth, research-based understanding of how poverty affects children's literacy, school achievement, social success, physical health, and future economic well-being.

Educating engineers: designing for the future of the field

Sheri D. Sheppard ... [et al.]

San Francisco, CA :
Jossey-Bass, 2009.

620.0711 EDU

Focuses on the practice of teaching and learning that shape future engineers. The book considers the strengths and weaknesses of current curricular goals and teaching practices, in light of the major changes in professional practice in this new global era. Also addresses concerns about declining enrollment, under representation of women and minorities, and perceived inadequacies in the preparation of graduates for the shifting roles of practicing engineers.

Education and the making of a democratic people

Edited by John I. Goodlad, Roger Soder, and Bonnie McDaniel

Boulder, CO :
Paradigm Publishers,
2008.

370.115 EDU

Regards the challenge of inclusiveness as a fundamental and nonnegotiable educational agenda since America's public schools are a public forum in which people can learn to preserve and actively protect American democratic process.

Education for thinking

Deanna Kuhn
Cambridge, MA : Harvard University Press, 2005.

372.011 KUH

Author argues that teachers should teach students to use their minds well, in school and beyond, and maintains that inquiry and argument should be at the center of a "thinking curriculum" that makes sense to teachers as well as students and develops the skills and values needed for life-long learning.

Education is translation : a metaphor for change and teaching

Alison Cook-Sather
Philadelphia, PA : University of Pennsylvania Press, 2006.

2006.

371.102 COO

The author argues that education can be understood as a process of translation through which every learner is both, the translator and the subject of her own translation. This book presents in a serious and inviting way the metaphor of translation to anyone who wants to understand more deeply and support more constructively the ways humans interact, learn, and change.

The education mayor : improving America's schools

Kenneth K. Wong ... [et al.]
Washington, DC : Georgetown University Press, 2007.

379.1 EDU

Presents evidence that suggests that integrating city and educational governance under a mayor-appointed school board can bring about significant, positive changes in a school district. Mayors can use their political capital to buy time for professional educators to implement long-term programs in the school district.

The educational morass : overcoming the stalemate in American education

Myron Lieberman
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Education, 2007.

371.01 LIE

This book is about elementary and secondary education (K-12) in the United States. The topics that are discussed are intended to explain various obstacles to raising the quality and lowering the real costs of K-12 education.

Educational rankings annual, 2006: 4600 rankings and lists on education

Lynn C. Hattendorf
Westney, editor
Detroit, MI : Gale
Research, 2006.

REF 378.73 EDU
2006

This guide is published in response to the enormous concerns expressed by students, parents, teachers, librarians, guidance counselors and others for reliable rankings based on intellectually defensible criteria. These rankings include reputation, faculty publications, tuition rates, tests scores, alumni achievement, faculty salaries, and admission selectivity.

Encyclopedia of American education

Harlow G. Unger
New York, NY : Facts
On File, 2007.

REF 370.973 UNG

Easy-to-use reference for the entire educational community. With more than 2,500 entries, the encyclopedia was honored by the American Library Association as one of the best new reference works. The encyclopedia also presents in-depth examinations of the many complex problems facing American educators, such as illegal immigrants, bilingual education, campus crime, etc.

Empowerment starts here : the seven principles to empowering urban youth

Angela Dye (2012)
370.9173 DYE

This book provides insight on how educators can increase the efficacy and achievement of urban youth. Angela Dye shares instructional methodologies and stories to help the reader develop an intimate understanding of the empowerment principles in action. Through these principles and methods, individuals can increase their capacity to combat the psychological, social, and political challenges associated with student achievement and real school reform.

Engaging adolescents in reading

John T. Guthrie, editor
Thousand Oaks, CA :
Corwin Press, 2008.

428.4071 ENG

This accessible instructional text links key instructional practices with current research on reading motivation, engagement, and classroom context to help reluctant learners become active readers. The writers discuss teaching frameworks, student activities, and textbooks, and demonstrate how to use classroom-tested motivational approaches.

Engaging classrooms and communities through art : a guide to designing and implementing community-based art education

Beth Krensky and Seana Lowe Steffen

Lanham, MD : Altamira Press, 2009.

700.71 KRE

Convincing guide for all those who see the art as foundational to communities, provides readers with a different way of knowing and creating effective community arts partnerships, and challenges the notion that art is a luxury reserved for elites and practiced by the gifted. In this book, art education becomes a democratic, transformative tool for invigorating blighted communities, reducing student drop out and alienation and inspiring participants to solve social problems.

English learners left behind : standardized testing as language policy

Kate Menken
Tomawanda, NY : Multilingual Matters Ltd, 2008.

306.44 MEN

This book explores how tests have become the facto language policy in schools, shaping what is taught in school, how it is taught, and in what language. This research documents how tests are a defining force in the daily lives of ELLs and the educators who serve them.

Enseñanza virtual sobre la organización de recursos informativos digitales

Roberto Garduño Vera
México : UNAM, Centro

Universitario de Investigaciones Bibliotecológicas, 2005.

S 371.358 GAR

Analiza las principales características, posibilidades y retos que implican los aspectos teóricos de la educación virtual, y como incluirlos en el diseño teórico de un modelo de enseñanza virtual cuya estructura general comprenda un modelo académico y la estructura lógica de una plataforma tecnológica de apoyo, con base en un aula virtual y una biblioteca digital que sustenten los procesos de interactividad entre los sujetos del acto educativo.

Equity and excellence in American higher education

William G. Bowen [et al]
Charlottesville, VA : University of Virginia Press, 2005.

379.26 BOW

Employing historical research, examination of the most recent social science and public policy scholarship, international comparisons, and detailed empirical analysis of rich new data, the authors study the intersection between excellence and equity objectives.

The essential school board book : better governance in the age of accountability

Nancy Walser.
Cambridge, MA : Harvard Education Press, 2009.
353.8 WAL

This book highlights

effective practices that are common to high-functioning boards around the country, boards that are working successfully with their superintendents and communities to improve teaching and learning. It features stories of sixteen diverse boards and the policies and procedures they have employed to enhance student achievement.

libraries, archives, learned societies, research institutes, museums and art galleries in more than 190 countries throughout the world.

Experiencias de educación a distancia en México y en el mundo.

S 371.35 EXP
Revisión exhaustiva de experiencias tanto

nacionales como de otros países que permitan documentar y enriquecer un proyecto de integración de un sistema nacional que ofrezca opciones diversas y flexibles de educación, capacitación y certificación de conocimientos y que se apoye en las tecnologías modernas de información, aprendizaje y comunicación.

Estrategias para aprender a aprender

María Edith Araoz Robles ... [et al.]
Hermosillo, Son ; Universidad de Sonora, 2008.

S 372.4 EST

Texto dirigido a estudiantes de educación superior. En él coinciden diversas formas para estimular y desarrollar competencias comunicativas que permiten al estudiante ser parte más activa en su aprendizaje. A través de las estrategias propuestas, se desarrollan las competencias personales, colaborativas, metodológicas y técnicas, acordes con las nuevas necesidades y el perfil del profesionista actual.

A fair chance in the race of life : the role of Gallaudet University in deaf history

Brian H. Greenwald, John Vickrey Van Cleave, editors
Washington, DC : Gallaudet University Press, 2008.

378.1 FAI

These studies do more than simply illuminate the university, and they confront broad issues that deal with the struggles of social conformity versus cultural distinctiveness, and gender discrimination. "Deaf" themes, such as the role of English in deaf education, autism, and the paternalism of hearing educators, receive analysis as well.

The Europa world of learning. 2010.

London : Routledge, 2009.
REF 060 EUR 2010
Contains full directory details for over 30 000 universities, colleges, schools of art and music,

Finding the right texts : what works for beginning and struggling readers

Edited by Elfrieda H. Hiebert, Misty Sailors
New York : Guilford Press, 2009.

372.414 FIN

Meets an important need by reviewing the best available research on the role of specific text features, including linguistic and conceptual content, in supporting the development of proficient reading. Also explored are ways that teacher scaffolding can help students who have difficulties with particular aspects of types and texts.

Five Miles Away, a World Apart : One City, Two Schools, and the Story of Educational Opportunity in Modern America

James E. Ryan.
Oxford ; New York, NY :

Oxford University Press, 2010.

344.73 RYA

Weaving together court opinions, social science research, and compelling interviews with students, teachers, and principals, Ryan explains why all the major education reforms since the 1970s--including school finance litigation, school choice, and the No Child Left Behind Act--have failed to bridge the gap between urban and suburban schools and have unintentionally entrenched segregation by race and class. As long as that segregation continues, Ryan forcefully argues, so too will educational inequality.

Flannelboard stories for infants and toddlers

Ann Carlson & Mary Carlson
Chicago, IL :
American Library Association, 2005.

371.33 CAR

This book features 33 developmentally appropriate stories, chants, songs, and nursery rhyme adaptations for children 12 to 30 months old. All the text is presented in English and Spanish and may be reproduced for library and noncommercial story times without copyright concerns.

Formative classroom assessment: theory into practice

Edited by James H. McMillan

New York, NY :
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
2007.

371.26 FOR

Presents a state of the art review of formative assessment in the classroom. World renowned experts examine what is currently known about formative assessment and its application to teaching. The book balances theory and research with practical applications that will work today's high-stakes accountability testing.

Free voluntary reading

Stephen Krashen.
Santa Barbara, CA :
Libraries Unlimited, 2011.
418.4 KRA

Everyone is in agreement that children must develop strong reading skills in order to become successful students, and later, effective adults. This book provides an accessible examination of topics, such as free voluntary reading.

From higher aims to hired hands :
the social transformation of American business schools

Rakesh Khurana
Princeton, NJ :
Princeton University
Press, 2007.

650.071 KHU

Shows that university-based business schools were founded to train a professional class of managers in the mold of doctors and lawyers but have effectively retreated from that goal, leaving a gaping moral hole at the center of business education and perhaps in management itself.

The future of the First Amendment: the digital media, civic education, and free expression rights in America's high schools

Kenneth Dautrich, David A. Yalof, and Mark Hugo Lopez
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield
Publishers, 2008.

342.7308 DAU

The authors identify a number of important connections and relationships that education reformers should consider as they seek to raise the status of the First Amendment among the nation's youth. The data point to a simple, yet important, premise: education makes a difference.

Governance and the public good

Edited by William G. Tierney
Albany, NY : State
University of New York Press, 2006.

378.05 GOV

Provides a framework for discussing the trend toward politicized and privatized postsecondary institutions while acknowledging the parallel demands of accountability and autonomy places on sites of higher learning.

Grading education : getting accountability right

*Richard Rothstein, Rebecca Jacobsen,
Tamara Wilder*
Washington, DC ; New York : Economic Policy Institute : Teachers College Press, 2008.

379.1 ROT

Describes a new kind of accountability plan for public education. It relies upon both higher-quality testing and professional evaluation. This new plan is practical and builds on capacities we already possess. It requires a big commitment, but one necessary to fulfill responsibilities to provide for our youth and the nation's future.

A guidebook to human service professions : helping college students explore opportunities in the human services field

Edited by William G. Emener [et al]
 Springfield, IL : Charles C Thomas, 2009.

361.973 GUI

The twenty-one chapters in this second edition poignantly review a variety of different careers designed for individuals undecided about their future, beyond a desire or "a calling" to work with people, and provide excellent cutting edge information about a large variety of human service professions and occupations, wrapped in the authors' "real passion for helping people."

Handbook of online education
Shirley Bennett ; with Debra Marsh and Clare Killen.
 New York, NY : Continuum, 2007.

371.334 BEN
 Provides a range of practical, innovative ideas to promote active learning online. It offers teachers, trainers and course writers a selection of ready-made, adaptable activities which can be used as a basis for e-learning on a course or as a departure point for development, independent work, and/or discussion.

High expectations : the cultural roots of standards reform in American education

William A. Proefriedt
 New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2008.

306.43 PRO

This fascinating historical account sheds much-needed light on the ideas and assumptions of the current standards and accountability movement by focusing on essential questions in education: Who is to be educated? What knowledge is of most worth? How shall we teach? How do students learn? And, Education toward what ends? The author then compares and contrasts how present reformers have answered these questions and how educational thinkers have addressed them.

Higher education and international student mobility in the global knowledge economy

Kemal Gürüz
 Albany, NY : State University of New York Press, 2008.

University of New York Press, 2008.

378 GUR

Discusses how the international mobility of students, scholars, programs, and institutions of higher education has evolved over time. He explores the contributions it has made to civilization, scientific and technological progress, and the ways in which it is occurring in today's global knowledge economy.

The history of special education : a struggle for equality in American public schools

Robert L. Osgood
Westport, CT : Praeger, 2008.

371.9 OSG

Describes and interprets the nature and characteristics of special education. It carefully examines the human aspects of identification and placement; the nature of work and play in the classroom, and the impact of school experiences on the lives of these children beyond school.

Humanities, Culture and Interdisciplinarity: the Changing American Academy

Julie Thompson Klein
Albany, NY : State University of New York Press, 2005.

001.307 KLE

Investigates the relationship of three ideas in the American academy-humanities, culture and interdisciplinarity. Part I establishes a framework for two subsequent sets of case studies, parts II and III explore the trajectories of interdisciplinarity in specific disciplines and fields.

How universities promote economic growth

Editors, Shahid Yusuf, Kaoru Nabeshima
Washington, DC : World Bank, 2007.

378.01 HOW

With the competitiveness of firms in an open and integrated world environment increasingly reliant on technological capability, universities are being asked to take on a growing role in stimulating economic growth. Beyond imparting education, they are now viewed as sources of industrially valuable technical skills, innovations, and entrepreneurship. Developed and developing countries alike have made it a priority to realize this potential of universities to spur growth, a strategy that calls for coordinated policy actions.

If You Teach It, They Will Read : Literature's Life Lessons for Today's Students

807.1273 MAC

Students can read substantive literature for what its authors intended: an insight into the human condition. Students, even those who appear indifferent, struggle with questions of right and wrong, good and evil, love and loss, self-interest and self-sacrifice. Using literature he has used with his students, the author insists that asking the right questions, discussing ideas that still matter, will show students that others have wrestled with the same issues, expressing that struggle in timeless stories. For the teacher of literature, the student of literature, the lover of literature, this book is a reminder of why, in the words of Maya Angelou, "we stumble and fall, and how, miraculously, we can stand up."

Improving schools for Latinos : creating better learning environments

Leonard A. Valverde
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Education, 2006.

371.829 VAL

Contents that it is imperative to reinvent schools in order to provide a viable education for these students. This book starts with the past, points out the present, and speaks to the future. It exposes the negative mental models and practices that must be discarded and proposes what favorable elements need to be put in place.

Improving multicultural education: lessons from the inter-group education movement

Cherry A. McGee Banks

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2005.

370.117 BAN

The publication of this book marks a significant development in the field of multicultural education and satisfies an important need: focus in the history of the inter-group education movement as a vehicle to inform and improve multicultural education today.

Improving literacy in America : guidelines from research

Frederick J. Morrison, Heather J. Bachman, and Carol McDonald Connor
New Haven, CT : Yale University Press, 2005.

372.6 MOR

The authors of this book shows that improving literacy also requires an understanding of complex and interrelated social issues that shape a child's learning. More than twenty years of research demonstrate that literacy success is determined by a combination of socio-cultural forces, including parenting, preschool attendance, classroom instruction, and other factors that have a direct impact on a child's development.

Improving teacher quality : the U.S. teaching force in global context

Motoko Akiba and Gerald LeTendre.

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2009.

371.144 AKI

Using data from 15 countries, this groundbreaking work examines teacher quality, work norms, and professional learning opportunities. The authors compare and contrast the United States with two high-achieving countries: Japan and Australia that have implemented very different approaches to improving teacher quality.

Improving the odds : developing powerful teaching practice and a culture of learning in urban high schools

Thomas Del Prete ; foreword by Ann Lieberman.
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2010.
373.110 DEL

Offers a nuanced depiction of the challenges and possibilities at the school and classroom level. Through the experiences of urban high school teachers who partner with their local university, Del Prete provides unique insight into teaching and learning in the midst of reform.

Indigenous Storywork : educating the heart, mind, body, and spirit

Jo-Ann Archibald (Q'um Q'um Xiiem)
Vancouver : UBC Press, 2008.

398.2089 ARC

Indigenous oral narratives are an important source for, and component of, Coast Salish knowledge systems. Stories are not only to be recounted and passed down; they are also intended as tools for teaching. The author worked closely with Elders and storytellers, who shared both traditional and personal life-experience stories, in order to develop ways of bringing storytelling into educational contexts.

The infinite gift : how children learn and unlearn the languages of the world

Charles Yang
New York, NY : Scribner, 2006.

401.93 YAN

Drawing on cutting-edge developments in biology, neurology, psychology, and linguistics, the author takes the readers inside the astonishingly complex but largely subconscious process by which children learn to talk and to understand the spoken word.

Intercultural student teaching: a bridge to global competence

Edited by Kenneth Cushner, Sharon Brennan
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Education, 2007.

370.711 INT

Educators play a critical role in facilitating a greater understanding of the conditions under which we all live, and play a vital role in enhancing the skills of individuals so they are better prepared to collaborate with others in the resolution of our global problems.

International Perspectives in Education

Edited by Albert Rolls
Bronx, NY : H. W. Wilson, 2007.

306.432 INT

Contains articles that analyze the ideas that have always been associated with the value and purpose of education but in the context of a world that is growing even smaller as globalization spurs greater interdependence among the world's societies.

can result in remarkable improvements in student achievement.

Language and cultural diversity in U.S. schools: democratic principles in action

Edited by Terry A. Osborn
Westport, CT : Praeger, 2005.

370.117 LAN

This work explains how diversity is an essential element in classroom settings.

The need for the public to understand how shifts in population affect schools, makes this work a vital resource for anyone concerned with education today.

Introduction to academic writing

Alice Oshima, Ann Hogue
White Plains, NY : Longman, 1997.

808.042 OSH

Helps students master the standard organizational patterns for paragraphs and essays. The text's approach integrates the study of rhetorical patterns and the writing process with extensive practice in grammar, mechanics, and sentence structure.

Language, literacy, and power in schooling

Edited by Teresa L. McCarty
Mahwah, NJ : L. Erlbaum Associates, 2005.

302.224 LAN

This is a book oriented toward social action. The authors seek not only to build new knowledge, but to inform and transform the pedagogies and policies that limit human potentials. Part I examines tensions between the local and the general in literacy development and use; Part II considers face-to-face interactions surrounding literacy practices in ethnically diverse classrooms, and Part III widens the ethnographic lens to position literacy practice in the context of globalization and contemporary education policies.

It's being done : academic success in unexpected schools

Karin Chenoweth.
Cambridge, MA : Harvard Education Press, 2007.

372.11 CHE

Takes readers into schools where educators believe, and prove, that all children, even those considered "hard to teach" can achieve high standards. Their teachers and principals refuse to write them off and instead show how thoughtful instruction, high expectations, stubborn commitment, and careful consideration of each child's needs

Laptops and literacy : learning in the wireless classroom

Mark Warschauer
New York, NY :
Teachers College
Press, 2006.

371.33 WAR

Analyzes the types of learning that take place in one-to-one wireless classrooms where all the students use laptop computers. With a particular focus on student's literacy practices, the text covers reading and writing, information use, and multimedia development. New ways in using authentic materials in the classroom are analyzed.

model of humor, along with practical examples for use in schools and classrooms. He demonstrates that humor is a natural and fundamental activity that teachers and administrators need to utilize properly to maximize their effectiveness.

Learning from L.A : institutional change in American public education

Charles Taylor Kerchner
... [et al.]
Cambridge, MA : Harvard
Education Press, 2008.

370 LEA

Captures the sweep of institutional change in American education. Drawing on a four-year study of the last forty years of education reform in Los Angeles, it puts forth a provocative argument: while school reformers and education historians have tended to focus on the success or failure of individual initiatives, they have overlooked the fact that, over the past several decades, the institution of public education itself has been transformed.

A larger sense of purpose: higher education and society

Harold T. Shapiro
Princeton, NJ :
Princeton University
Press, 2005.

306.432 SHA

This book explores the role the modern university should play as an ethical force and societal steward. Based on the 2003 Clark Kerr Lectures, the book draws from Shapiro's twenty-five years of experience in leading major research universities, and takes up key topics of debate in higher education.

Leaving no child behind?: options for kids in failing schools

Edited by Frederick M.
Hess and Chester E.
Finn, Jr.
New York, NY :
Palgrave Macmillan,
2004.

379.1 LEA

This pioneering evaluation of the implementation and effects of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 during its first two years, provides both a bird eye view of developments across the nation and a closer look at developments in selected states, communities and schools.

Laughing and learning : an alternative to shut up and listen

Peter M. Jonas.
Lanham, Md. : Rowman &
Littlefield Education, 2010.
371.102 JON

Explores the ways in which humor can enhance the learning environment. He presents a theoretical

Linking Teacher Evaluation and Student Learning

Pamela D. Tucker & James H. Stronge
Alexandria, VA :
Association for Supervision and Curriculum
Development, 2005.

371.144 TUC

Shows that including measures of student achievement in teacher evaluations can help schools focus their efforts to meet high standards, documenting how desired learning outcomes translated into actual student learning, tracking progress on key content standards, setting annual quantifiable goals for students' academic progress, and analyzing changes in student's achievement test scores.

Literacy with an attitude: educating working-class children in their own self-interest

Patrick J. Finn.
Albany, NY : State
University of New York
Press, 2009.

371.826 FIN

Concerned with educating working-class children, this book dares to define literacy as a powerful right of citizenship. The author persuasively debunks the time-honored paradigm for teaching poor and working-class students. The job, argues the author, is not to help such students to become middle class and live middle class lives, most don't want it. Education rather should focus on a powerful literacy, that enables working-class and poor students to better understand, demand, and protect their civil, political, and social rights.

Making the transition to E-learning: strategies and issues

Edited by Mark Bullen, Diane P. Janes
Hershey, PA :
Information Science
Pub, 2007.

378.1 MAK

Provides insights and experiences on e-learning from experts around the world; it addresses the institutional, pedagogical, and technological issues that higher education institutions are grappling with as they move from conventional face-to-face teaching to e-learning in its diverse forms.

Making writing matter : composition in the engaged university

Ann M. Feldman
Albany, NY : State
University of New
York Press, 2008.

808.042 FEL

Explores how changing scholarship at engaged metropolitan universities offers an opportunity to redesign first-year writing classes in ways that make students better writers. An engaged university commits to a relationship with its surrounding metropolitan area, with faculty members undertaking collaborative research with community partners. This newly focused and contextualized research shows students how discourse and writing matter in new days.

Managing to change : how schools can survive (and sometimes thrive) in turbulent times

Thomas Hatch.
New York , NY; London :
Teachers College Press,
2009.

371.207 HAT

Shows how school improvement efforts are often undermined by the changing conditions around school, as well as by some of the very policies and programs designed to help them make improvements. Argues that schools cannot wait around for conditions to improve or for policymakers to figure out how to provide the right support.

Manga High: literacy, identity, and coming of age in an Urban High School

Michael Bitz
Cambridge, MA :
Harvard Education
Press, 2009.

373 BIT

Explores the convergence of literacy, creativity, social development, and personal identity in an after-school comics club at one of New York City's largest high schools. The book highlights the lives and creations of students involved in the club and explores their passion for this highly stylized and wildly popular Japanese form of comic art.

Meaningful learning using technology : what educators need to know and do

*Edited by Elizabeth
A. Ashburn, Robert E.
Floden*

New York, NY : Teachers College Press,
2006.

371.33 MEA

National experts use concrete examples to describe specific knowledge, beliefs, and strategies that will enable teachers and district leaders to support meaningful learning using technology. Chapters examine the intersection between course content, types of technology, and the supports and professional development required to effectively implement technology in the K-12 classroom.

Measuring up : what educational testing really tells us

Daniel Koretz
Cambridge, MA :
Harvard University
Press, 2008.

371.26 KOR

Bringing statistical terms down to earth, Daniel Koretz takes readers through the most fundamental issues that arise in educational testing and shows how they apply to some of the most controversial issues in education today, from high-stakes testing to special education.

Mexican roots, American schools: helping Mexican immigrant children succeed

Robert Crosnoe
Stanford, CA :
Stanford University Press, 2006.

371.82 CRO

This book offers the first ever national study of the school readiness of Mexican immigrant children. It examines how various aspects of their lives help or hurt their performance in the first years of elementary school. Its social policy recommendations will be essential reading for educators, policymakers, and parents alike.

MLA handbook for writers of research papers

New York : Modern Language Association of America, 2009.

808.02 MLA

The MLA Handbook is published by the Modern Language Association, the authority on MLA documentation style. Widely adopted by universities, colleges, and secondary schools, the MLA Handbook gives step-by-step advice on every aspect of writing research papers, from selecting a topic to submitting the completed paper.

Music education at a crossroads : realizing the goal of music for all

Edited by Janet R. Barrett.
Lanham, MD : [Reston, VA] : Rowman & Littlefield Education; Published in partnership with MENC, The National Association for Music Education, 2009.
780.71 MEN

Addresses from the Centennial Congress of MENC, The National Association for Music Education, held in Orlando, Fla. June 25-28, 2007. Noted leaders in music education joined in addressing the challenges and opportunities faced by music educators today. The Centennial Congress renewed a shared professional commitment to a comprehensive music education for all students and discussed the impediments to the vision of the Centennial Declaration: "It is the right of every child to receive a balanced, comprehensive, sequential music education taught by qualified music teachers."

My word! : plagiarism and college culture

Susan D. Blum
Ithaca, NY : Cornell University Press, 2009.

808 BLU

In a book that dismisses hand-wringing in favor of a rich account of how students actually think and act, the author discovers two cultures that exist, often uneasily, side by side in the classroom. She also presents the voices of today's young adults as they muse about their daily activities, their challenges and the meanings of their college lives.

Multicultural and multilingual literacy and language: contexts and practices

New York, NY :
Guilford Press, 2004.

370.117 MUL

This book explores ways that teachers, reading specialists, administrators and teacher educators can provide more effective literacy instruction to K-9 students from diverse ethnic, cultural and linguistic backgrounds. Cutting edge theory and research is interwoven with detailed case studies that bring to life complexities of teaching in today's multicultural classroom.

Multicultural strategies for education and social change : carriers of the torch in the United States and South Africa

Arneitha F. Ball
New York, NY :
Teacher College
Press, 2006.

370.117 BAL

Describes a different approach to teacher education, designed to create "carriers of the torch" : teachers who have a sense of efficacy, and the attitudes, dispositions, and skills necessary to teach students from diverse racial, ethnic and linguistic backgrounds

Multicultural issues in school psychology

Edited by Bonnie K.
Nastasi
Binghamton, NY :
Haworth Press, 2006.

371.4 MUL

Presents theoretical and empirical models that provide a framework for addressing cross-cultural concerns and introducing culturally specific services in school psychology practice. Connects scientific knowledge with practical applications to address issues related to assessment, intervention, consultation, systems/community intervention, home-school partnerships and the adoption of evidence-based interventions.

Music Education in the United States : contemporary issues

Edited by J. Terry
Gates
Tuscaloosa, AL :
University of Alabama
Press, 2005.

780.7 MUS

This book stands as the most important and far-ranging professional overview of the discipline since the appearance of the landmark published in 1958: "Basic Concepts in Music Education." Sixteen major theorists and practitioners in the field of music education have contributed an essay on the topic of the symposium to which they had been invited, stating what issues confront and suggesting ways that the field should meet the challenges of resolving these issues in the near future.

National differences, global similarities: world culture and the future of schooling

David P. Baker and Gerald K.

LeTendre
Stanford, CA : Stanford Social Sciences, 2005.

370.9 BAK

Using American schools as a reference point, this book provides a comprehensive, comparative description of schooling as a global institution. Each chapter develops a story about a particular global trend: continuing gender differences in achievement, new methods to govern schools, the increasing use of private tutoring, school violence, the development of effective curricula, and the everyday work of teachers.

New learning : elements of a science of education

Mary Kalantzis and Bill Cope
New York, NY : Cambridge University Press, 2008.

370.15 KAL

Analyses the state of education today and presents an exciting vision of what schools could be like. It addresses the fundamental questions: what kinds of workers, citizens and individuals will our future need, and how can schools refashion themselves and become more relevant? The focus is on learners and their learning, the extraordinary diversity of their backgrounds and interests, and the dynamics of educational environments which can engage all to fully maximize the effectiveness of learning.

New ways in teacher education

Donald Freeman with Steve Cornwell, editors
Alexandria, VA :

Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1993.

418.007 NEW

Focuses on activities that help teachers come to make sense of what they do. Offers teacher educators a departure from the knowledge-transmission model of teacher education, in which learners-of-teaching are told what to do in their classrooms.

New ways in teaching adults

Marilyn Lewis, editor
Alexandria, VA : Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1997.

420.7 NEW

Offers teachers new ways of looking at tasks for adult learners by organizing the activities according to the sources of input. These sources range from the formal input of direct teaching to language collected by students in out-of-class tasks. They include print, graphics, and sound.

New ways in teaching culture

Alvino E. Fantini, editor
Alexandria, VA : Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1997.

370.117NEW

More than 50 articles and activities focus on effective ways to teach cultural and intercultural dimensions of ESOL. Teacher and students can investigate together the interconnectedness of language and cultural issues with these challenging and thought-provoking essays and activities.

New ways in using authentic materials in the classroom

Edited by Ruth E. Larimer and Leigh Schleicher

Alexandria, VA : Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1999.

420.7 NEW

Demonstrates how a wide variety of authentic materials can be adapted into interesting and innovative lessons for language learners. Each activity centers around an audio, visual or written text from an English language environments. These include samples from many different television genres, books, magazines, cards, recipes, schedules, and brochures.

New ways of classroom assessment

James Dean Brown, editor

Alexandria, VA : Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1998.

418.007 NEW

Offers activities that provide a way of observing or scoring students' performances and giving feedbacks that enlightens students and teachers about the effectiveness of the learning and teaching involved. Includes editor's notes at the beginning of each chapter, a users' guide, and a key to activities at the end of the volume.

New ways of using computers in language teaching

Tim Boswood
Alexandria, VA :

Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 1997.

420.785 NEW

Language teachers show others how to maximize the potential of computer software packages to help learners develop their language and communication skills. The activities present ways of using the software that teachers are likely to find on any workplace computer system.

No Child Left Behind : past, present, and future

William Hayes
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Education, 2008.

379.1 HAY

As Americans are currently engaged in a national debate about the future role of the federal government in the field of education, it is essential that people become better informed about the history, content, and results of No Child Left Behind. This book is a valuable tool informing the current discussion on the reauthorization of this law.

No excuses : lessons from 21 high-performing, high-poverty schools

Samuel Casey Carter.
Washington, DC : Heritage Foundation, 2000.

379.1 CAR

All children can learn. The principals and schools profiled in this book have overcome the bureaucratic and cultural obstacles that keep low-income children behind in most public schools. No Excuses schools have created a culture of achievement among children whom most public schools would condemn to a life of failure.

Not for profit : why democracy needs the humanities

Martha C. Nussbaum.
Princeton, NJ : Princeton University Press, 2010.
370.115 NUS

Philosopher Martha Nussbaum makes a passionate case for the importance of the liberal arts at all levels of education. Nussbaum argues that we must resist efforts to reduce education to a tool of the gross national product. Rather, we must work to reconnect education to the humanities in order to give students the capacity to be true democratic citizens of their countries and the world.

The official guide for foreign-educated allied health professionals

Edited by Barbara L. Nichols, Catherine R. Davis
New York, NY : Springer, 2010.
610.696 OFF

Provides a wealth of insight on how to address the challenges of being a foreign-educated health professional in the United States. Health professionals can learn what is expected of them, how to prepare for the journey to this country, and how to adapt to their new communities.

101 Careers in Public Health
362.1023 SEL
Provides an overview of the numerous options in public health and the many different roads to get there. Whether you are a student who wants to launch a career or a professional looking to change careers, this guide offers an easy introduction to the field. It details the training, salary ranges, and degree requirements for each job, and alerts readers to alternative pathways beyond the traditional MPH.

Online Learning : Personal Reflections on the Transformation of Education

Greg Kearsley, editor
Englewood Cliffs, NJ : Educational Technology Publications, 2005.

371.33 ONL

The main point of this book is to present a comprehensive history of the field of online education as told by many pioneers who created it. Each of the contributors discusses their work in online education and presents a personal perspective of the field. Collectively, the chapters portray the major themes and issues that have characterized the past development of online education and will likely dictate its future.

Open doors : report on international education exchange, 2006

Hey-Kyung Koh Chin
New York, NY : IIE, 2006.

378.35 INS 2006

A comprehensive information resource on the almost 565,000 international students in the United States in 2005/06 and on the nearly 206,000 U.S. students who studied abroad in 2004/05. Features graphic displays, data tables and figures, and to the point policy oriented analysis.

Our worlds in our words : exploring race, class, gender, and sexual orientation in multicultural classrooms
 Mary Dilg.

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2010.

370.117 DIL

The book explores what happens when we introduce students to the words of a broad spectrum of American scholars, writers, and artists and then invite them to examine, debate, and negotiate the ideas presented. Provides an account of teaching in a culturally and linguistically diverse classroom, including practical strategies to engage and motivate adolescents. It features a model for integrating issues of race, class, gender, and sexual orientation into the English curriculum and into classroom instruction.

The paradoxes of high stakes testing: how they affect students, their parents, teachers, principals, schools, and society

George Madaus,
 Michael Russell,
 Jennifer Higgins
 Charlotte, NC :
 Information Age Pub., 2009.

371.26 MAD

This book's goal is to clarify for parents, the public, and policy makers what high stakes tests are and how their use affects our schools, children, and society. It explores the various uses, limitations, and paradoxical consequences of high stakes testing.

Patlani : encuesta nacional de movilidad estudiantil internacional de México
 Secretaría de Educación Pública
 (2012)

S REF 378.72 PAT 2012

Este reporte presenta los resultados más significativos del levantamiento estadístico sobre la situación de movilidad internacional de estudiantes matriculados en instituciones de educación superior mexicanas durante el periodo de agosto 2010 a julio 2011. Incluye indicadores tales como: estudiantes internacionales en y desde México, género de estudiantes en movilidad, distribución de estudiantes internacionales por tipo de institución, distribución de estudiantes mexicanos en el extranjero, principales regiones y países destino de los estudiantes mexicanos, y áreas de estudio.

Peterson's graduate schools in the U.S., 2009.

Lawrenceville, NJ :
 Peterson's, 2008.
 Physical Description:
 652 p. ; 24 cm.

REF 378.1 GRA 2009

Includes detailed profiles of institutions offering regionally accredited master's and doctoral programs, an overview of the admission process, including what accreditation means and why it is important, financial support at the graduate level: what is available and how to get it, and advice for international and minority students.

Planning for learning : collaborative approaches to lesson design and review

Mary Renck Jalongo, Sue A. Rieg and Valeri R. Helterbran
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, Columbia University, 2007.

371.3028 JAL

Presents an approach to lesson planning and evaluation that will work in today's diverse school settings. A rich resource for professional development, this book demonstrates collaborative lesson planning for teachers at particular career phases-pre-service, novice, and experienced.

The politics of inquiry education research and the "culture of science"

Benjamin Baez and Deron Boyles

Albany, NY State University of New York Press 2009.

370.72 BAE

Authors contend that the entire discourse on education science reflects a number of distinct but mutually constitutive political forces of movements that use science and education to shape what we can think, and thus, what we can become. These forces include the attempts to restrict democracy via scientism; the uses of academic classifications for organizing the world into social groups; the imperatives of the informational society, which seek precision in order to convert the world into "data" for easy governing; and the effects of transnational capitalist exchanges, which convert everything into a cost-benefit analysis, and which make us all complicit in ways we do not fully grasp.

Portraits of teacher preparation : learning to teach in a changing America

Edited by Patrick M. Jenlink, Karen Embry Jenlink

Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield, 2005.

370.71 POR

The portraits presented in the chapters explore new ways of learning to teach, set against the backdrop of a changing America. Present a narrative window that reflects a re-imagining of teacher education as culturally and ethically responsive. The contributors demonstrate an understanding on the need to set aside conventional practices for new mediums of expression and learning and constructing new and alternative pedagogies for learning.

The power of critical theory : liberating adult learning and teaching

Stephen D. Brookfield
San Francisco, CA : Jossey-Bass, 2005.

374.001 BRO

The author makes a powerful case for how critical theory can illuminate the everyday practices of adult educators, presenting powerful arguments for the importance of critical theory in fostering the kind of learning that leads to a truly democratic society, and it explores a number of tasks for adult learners.

Powers of the mind : the reinvention of liberal learning in America

Donald N. Levine
Chicago, IL : University of Chicago Press, 2006.

378.012 LEV

Proposes fresh ways to think about liberal learning with ideas more suited to our times. He does so by defining basic values of modernity and then considering curricular principles pertinent to them. The principles he favors are powers of the mind, disciplines understood as fields of study defined not by subject matter but by their embodiment of distinct intellectual capacities.

Practical evaluation guide : tool for museums and other informal educational settings

Judy Diamond, Jessica J. Luke, and David H. Uttal.
Lanham, MD : AltaMira Press, 2009.

069.5 DIA

Discusses specific methods for analyzing audience learning and behavior in museums, zoos, botanic gardens, nature centers, camps, and youth programs. This new edition incorporates the many advances in the burgeoning field of informal learning that have been made over the past decade. Serves as a basic easy-to-follow guide for museum professionals and students who want to understand the effects of such public institutions on the people who visit them.

Preparing teachers for a changing world: what teachers should learn and be able to do

Edited by Linda Darling-Hammond

[et al]

San Francisco, CA : Jossey-Bass, 2005.

370.711 PRE

Written for teacher educators in both traditional and alternative programs, university and school system leaders, teachers, staff development professionals, researchers and educational policymakers, the book addresses the key foundational knowledge for teaching and discusses how to implement that knowledge within the classroom.

Presidential transitions : it's not just the position, it's the transition

Patrick H. Sanahhan,
[et al]

Westport, CT : Praeger : American Council on Education, 2008.

378.111 SAN

A Presidential transition has a major impact on the life of an institution, and the authors offer practical guidance in this book, which is designed to provide assistance to presidents, trustees, faculty, and other important stakeholder groups and help them avoid the pitfalls of poorly managed transitions.

The price we pay: economic and social consequences of inadequate education

Clive R. Belfield, Henry M. Levin, editors
 Washington, Dc :
 Brookings Institution Press, 2007.

338.4737 PRI

Highlights costs of inadequate education attaching hard numbers to the relationship between educational attainment and critical indicators as income, health, crime, dependence on public assistance, and political participation. Explores policy interventions to boost the education system's performance and explains why demographic trends are so challenging to educating the nation's youth.

Promise and betrayal: universities and the battle for sustainable urban neighborhoods

John I. Gilderbloom and R. L. Mullins
 Albany, NY : State University of New York Press, 2005.

307.141 GIL

With this book, the authors want to start a revolution in higher education, calling on partnerships between "town and gown" to create sustainable urban neighborhoods. They detail how higher education institutions can play an important role in helping to revitalize poor neighborhoods by forming partnerships with public, private, and nonprofit groups.

Privatization and public universities

Edited by Douglas M. Priest and Edward P. St. John Bloomington, IN :
 Indiana University Press, 2006.

378.1 PRI

Experts explore the challenges of improving the quality of education and research while facing reduced financial support. They examine several approaches borrowed from private institutions and the corporate sector that might help address this fiscal crisis.

The race between education and technology

Claudia Goldin, Lawrence F. Katz
 Cambridge, MA :
 Belknap Press of Harvard University Press, 2008.

338.4737 GOL

Argues that technological change and education have been involved in a kind of race. During the first eight decades of the twentieth-century technological change boosted the demand for educated workers, while the supply of them kept pace. Educational attainment grew at exceptionally rapid rates, thereby lowering inequality at the same time incomes increased. The authors discuss the complex reasons for this and what might be done to ameliorate it.

Raising student achievement through rapid assessment and test reform

Stuart S. Yeh
New York, NY :
Teachers College
Press, 2006.

371.262 YEH

In this book, Stuart Yeh suggests specific changes in test design, implementation, and policy that could greatly improve the benefits and reduce the educational costs of high-stakes accountability policies. Includes a review of meta-analyses and key research studies regarding the effectiveness of rapid assessment systems, and a proposal to change high school exit exam systems in order to provide appropriate incentives for all students without unfairly denying diplomas.

Reading is funny! : motivating kids to read with riddles

Dee Anderson
Chicago, IL :
American Library Association,
2009.

027.8 AND

Dee Anderson offers innovative ways to use riddles to make reading fun and keep readers coming back for more. Based on her work with children in schools and public libraries, she shares hundreds of riddles on popular subjects, plus tips to help you encourage children to read more through puppetry, bookmaking, and a variety of games and activity sheets.

Reading more, reading better

Edited by Elfrida H. Hiebert
New York, NY: Guilford
Press, 2009.

428.43 REA

Bringing together leading scholars, this book focuses on how teachers can improve both quality and quantity of reading experiences in K-12 classrooms. Essential topics include factors that make reading tasks more or less productive for different types of learners, ways to balance independent reading with whole-class and small-group instructions, how to choose appropriate texts, and the connection between reading engagement and proficiency.

Reading the media in high school: media literacy in high school English

Renee Hobbs
New York, NY :
Teachers College,
Columbia University,
2007.

302.23 HOB

Provides the first empirical evidence of the impact of media literacy on the academic achievement of adolescents. Chronicles the practice of high school teachers who prepared their students to critically analyze all aspects of contemporary media culture.

Reconstructing the university : worldwide shifts in academia in the 20th century

David John Frank, Jay Gabler
Stanford, CA : Stanford University Press, 2006.

378.199 FRA

Provides an examination unprecedented in scope and scale of changes in academia. The authors document the changing emphases accorded the branches of learning, the applied and basic divisions, and the disciplinary fields.

"To remain an Indian" : lessons in democracy from a century of Native American education

K. Tsianina Lomawaima, Teresa L. McCarty
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2006.

371.829 LOM

What might we learn from Native American experiences with schools to help us forge a new vision of the democratic ideal-one that respects, protects, and promotes diversity and human rights? In this fascinating portrait of American Indian education over the past century, the authors critically evaluate U.S. education policies and practices, from early 20th-century federal incarnations of colonial education through the contemporary standards movement. In the process, they refute the notion of "dangerous cultural difference" and point to the promise of diversity as a source of national strength. This book features the voices and experiences of Native individuals that official history has silenced and pushed aside.

Research, advocacy, and political engagement : multidisciplinary perspectives through service learning

Edited by Sally Cahill Tannenbaum
Sterling, VA : Stylus Pub, 2008.

378.103 RES

This volume presents inventive approaches to using service learning to introduce students to political engagement. The chapters in this book describe how teachers in Politics, Education, Urban and Regional Planning, Business, Economics, etc., have created effective activities that advance disciplinary knowledge, develop collaboration with communities, and engage students in the political process.

Researching second language classrooms

Sandra Lee McKay
Mahwah, NJ : Lawrence Erlbaum, 2006.

418.007 MCK

This text introduces teachers to research methods they can use to examine their own classrooms in order to become more effective teachers. Each chapter includes activities to help readers apply the methods described in the chapter, often by analyzing research data.

Rethinking education in the age of technology : the digital revolution and schooling in America

Allan Collins, Richard Halverson ; foreword by John Seely Brown.

New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2009.

370.285 COL

In Rethinking Education in the Age of Technology, Allan Collins and Richard Halverson argue that the knowledge revolution has transformed our jobs, our homes, our lives, and therefore must also transform our schools. This groundbreaking book offers a vision for the future of American education that goes well beyond the walls of the classroom to include online social networks, distance learning with "anytime, anywhere" access, digital home schooling models, video-game learning environments, and more.

Rethinking preparation for content area teaching: the reading apprenticeship approach

Jane Braunger ... [et al.]
San Francisco, CA :
Jossey-Bass, 2005.

428.4 RET

The authors make the case for incorporating the Reading Apprenticeship instructional model into secondary teacher preparation programs. Arguing that teacher education programs need to foster a broader understanding of adolescent literacy, especially if teachers are to help their students read in discipline-specific ways.

Rewriting : how to do things with texts

Joseph Harris
Logan, UT : Utah State University Press, 2006.

808.042 HAR

Joseph Harris draws the college writing student away from static ideas of thesis, support and structure, and toward a more mature and dynamic understanding. Harris wants college writers to think of intellectual writing as an adaptive and social activity, and he offers them a clear set of strategies or a set of moves for participating in it.

The rise and fall of American public schools: the political economy of public education in the twentieth century

By Robert J.

Franciosi
Westport, CT : Praeger, 2004.

371.01 FRA

This volume provides a comprehensive and balanced survey of the state of American public education. It examines the trend in the quality of the public schools over the past 100 years, and reviews the possible reasons for a decline in quality. The work focuses on the importance of local control in American public education and how it has been steadily eroded. Franciosi advocates school choice as a way of restoring greater control by parents over their children's schools. This work is distinct among calls for reform in that it takes a skeptical attitude towards the centralized school reform movement that has culminated in the No Child Left Behind Act. It discusses important topics that have been the subject of research including the effect of teachers unions, Tiebout competition and local control, and school finance reform.

Road map for graduate study : a guide for prospective graduate students

Donald C. Martin
United States : Donald C. Martin, 2008.

378.161 MAR

Having visited over 60 countries on every continent, Dr. Martin has worked with thousands of prospective and current students of varying nationalities, backgrounds, beliefs, interests and goals. He continues to work with students, speaking about the value of education, the importance of having a dream and the motivation to follow that dream.

The SAGE handbook of performance studies

Edited by D. Soyini Madison and Judith Hamera
London : SAGE, 2006.

306.484 SAG

Brings together, in a single volume, discussions of the major research in performance studies and identifies directions for further investigation. It is the only comprehensive collection of the theories, methods, politics, and practices of performance relating to life and culture.

Save the world on your own time

Stanley Fish
Oxford ; New York, NY : Oxford University Press, 2008.

378.12 FIS

Argues that the only appropriate goal to the academy is the transmission and advancement of knowledge, and when teachers offer themselves as moralists, political activists or agents of social change rather than as credentialed experts in a particular subject and the methods used to analyze it, they abdicate their true purpose.

The school choice hoax : fixing America's schools

Ronald G. Corwin, E. Joseph Schneider
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Education, 2007.

379.1 COR

Exposes the misleading hyperbole that has been driving the school choice movement and shows how charter schools can become more effective in public school districts. Authors provide an unusual blend of academic and practical knowledge derived from long careers as a sociologist and former Deputy Executive Director of the American Association of School Administrators.

Schoolhouses, courthouses, and statehouses : solving the funding-achievement puzzle in America's public schools

Eric A. Hanushek and Alfred A. Lindseth.
Princeton, NJ : Princeton University Press, 2009.
379.122 HAN
Spurred by court rulings requiring states to increase public school funding, the United States now spends more per student on K-12 education than almost any other country. In this book, the authors trace the history of reform efforts and conclude that the principal focus of both courts and legislatures on ever increasing funding has done little to improve student achievement. Instead, they propose a new approach: a performance based system that directly links funding to success in raising student achievement.

The self-directed teacher : managing the learning process

David Nunan, Clarice Lamb
Cambridge, MA : Cambridge University Press, 1996.

418.007 NUN

Prepares teachers to make independent decisions in key areas such as lesson planning, teacher talk, group work, error correction, resource management, and evaluation. The text uses a task-based approach, and the material presented is well supported by theory and research.

So you want to be a scientist?

Philip A. Schwartzkroin.
New York, NY : Oxford University Press, 2009.
502.3 SCH

Offers the reader a glimpse into the job of being a research scientist. It is not intended to be step-by-step "how to" book. Rather, it is intended to fill a hole in the education of most would-be scientists, addressing explicitly many issues that are rarely addressed directly in training programs.

Spin cycle : how research is used in policy debates : the case of charter schools

Jeffrey R. Henig
New York, NY : Russell Sage Foundation : Century Foundation, 2008.

371.01 HEN

One important aim of social science research is to provide unbiased information that can help guide public policies. However, social science is often construed as politics by other means. The author draws on extensive interviews with researchers, journalists, and funding agencies on both sides of the debate, as well as data on federal and foundation grants and a close analysis of media coverage, to explore how social science research is "spun" in the public sphere.

Story solutions : using tales to build character and teach bully prevention, drug prevention, and conflict resolution

Kevin Strauss.

Santa Barbara, CA : Libraries Unlimited, 2011.

372.677 STR

The author has carefully laid out background information, traditional stories, and skill-building activities that will enable librarians and other educators to help their students master bullying and drug prevention, self-control, and conflict resolution, as well as establish healthy self-esteem and optimism.

Strategies for teaching students with learning disabilities

Lucy C. Martin
 Thousand Oaks, CA :
 Corwin Press, 2009.

371.9 MAR

This resource draws on the author's 30 years of teaching experience to help teachers gain a greater understanding of students' learning differences and meet individual needs. Strategies are organized by skills, including attention, reading, writing, math, organization, and test taking, helping teachers quickly identify the best techniques for assisting each student and encouraging independent learning.

Strengthening the African American educational pipeline: informing research, policy, and practice

Edited by Jerlando F. L. Jackson

Albany, NY : State
 University of New York
 Press, 2007.

378.1 STR

Explores the challenges of recruiting more African American youths to postsecondary education that results in the four -year degree. These scholars examine the multiple factors that thwart African American youths from pursuing four-year college and university education. They also look at individual, institutional, and social forces that in turn help us understand what the numbers really mean.

Succeeding as an international student in the United States and Canada

Charles Lipson
 Chicago, IL : University of Chicago Press, 2008.

378.1 LIP

This guide includes a comprehensive glossary explaining academic terms and common phrases as well as information on succeeding academically, living on and off campus, learning English, avoiding plagiarism, working and managing money, and meeting with instructors, as well as engaging in student life.

Success With Struggling Readers: the Benchmark School Approach

Irene West Gaskins
 New York, NY :
 Guilford Press, 2005.

372.43 GAS

This book presents a proven approach for helping struggling students become fully engaged readers, learners, thinkers, and problem solvers. The author demonstrates ways to teach effective strategies for decoding words and understanding concepts, and to give the students the skill to apply these strategies across the curriculum based on their individual cognitive styles and the specific demands of the task at hand.

The sustainable learning community: one university's journey to the future

John Aber, Tom Kelly, and Bruce Mallory, editors.
 Durham, N.H. : Hanover [N.H.]: University of New Hampshire Press ; University Press of New England, 2009.

378.742 SUS

With the oldest endowed campus wide sustainability program in the country, established in 1997, the University of New Hampshire has become a leader in advancing a campus culture of sustainability. The UNH experience provides a unique window into the development of a new and integrated approach to teaching, learning, research, and operations. It is also a valuable guide for other institutions that aim to enhance the quality of campus life while reducing their environmental footprint. The book's organization along four functional domains (curriculum, operations, research, and engagement) allows faculty, staff, students, and managers to focus on sections of particular relevance to their university roles. Each chapter develops standards of best practices and presents interesting case studies to humanize the larger effort.

Tapping the riches of science : universities and the promise of economic growth

Roger L. Geiger and Creso M. Sá
 Cambridge, MA : Harvard University Press, 2008.

378.103 GEI

Offers a rigorous and far-sighted explanation of his controversial and little-understood movement. Drawing from a range of social science analyses, campus interviews, and examples of university-industry partnerships, the authors reveal the ways that economic development has been incorporated into university commitments.

Teacher man : a memoir

Frank McCourt
 New York, NY : Scribner, 2005.

371.1 MCC

In this tribute to teachers everywhere McCourt records the trials, triumphs and surprises he faces in public high schools around New York City. His methods anything but conventional, McCourt creates a lasting impact on his students through imaginative assignments, sing along and field trips. As he struggles to find his way in the classroom, he spends his evenings drinking with writers and dreaming of one day putting his own story to paper. The book shows McCourt developing his ability to tell a great story as he works to gain the attention and respect of unruly or indifferent adolescents.

Teachers and reform : Chicago public education, 1929-1970

John F. Lyons
 Urbana, IL : University of Illinois Press, 2008.

371.01 LYO

Examining teachers' unions and public education from the bottom up, Lyons shows how they helped to shape one of the largest public education systems in the nation. This study analyzes how the teachers' attempts to improve their working lives and the quality of the Chicago public school system were constrained by internal divisions over race and gender as well as external disputes between the Chicago Teachers Union and the school administration, state and local politicians, and powerful business and civic organizations.

Teaching for intelligence

Edited by Barbara Z. Presseisen
 Thousand Oaks, CA: Corwin Press, 2008.

372.11 TEA

This collection of articles includes contributions from important scholars, encouraging educators to examine their perspectives about the nature of intelligence, standardized testing, and curriculum requirements.

Teaching Harry Potter : the Power of Imagination in Multicultural Classrooms

Catherine L. Belcher, Rebecca Herr Stephenson

(2011)

820.712 BEL

The authors examine why teachers choose to read Harry Potter, how they use the book in multicultural elementary and secondary classrooms, and the resulting teacher-student interactions. Its unique research methodology is part ethnographic, part practitioner research, and serves as an analytical commentary on current school culture and policy.

Teaching for social justice? : voices from the front lines

Connie E. North
 Boulder, CO : Paradigm Publishers, 2009.

370.115 NOR

Examines the process of four K-12 educators and a university based researcher discussing, studying, and acting on the potential power of social justice. Through frequent, lively, and complex meetings, these educators examine their varying educational philosophies, practices and teaching sites. Using experimental writing methods and qualitative methodology, North bridges the great divide between teacher and academic discourse.

Teaching history with film : strategies for secondary social studies

Alan S. Marcus ... [et al.]
 New York, NY : Routledge, 2010.

907.12 TEA

Along with the textbooks, movies are one of the most prominent teaching aids in the history classroom, and this book provides a fresh, engaging, and clear overview of teaching with film to effectively enhance social studies instructions. Using cases of experienced teachers, offers a deeper understanding of the thorny issues involved in the process of teaching this way.

Teaching immigrant and second-language students: strategies for success

By Michael Sadowsk
Cambridge, MA:
Harvard Education

Press, 2004.

371.97 TEA

This volume draws on the work of teachers, administrators, and researchers to identify the practices that reach immigrant and second-language students most effectively.

develop a love of reading. Author shows the importance of establishing a non threatening environment and provides teaching strategies that truly engage students and help them build phonemic awareness, manipulate patterns to improve reading skills, improve reading fluency, increase vocabulary, etc.

Teaching, the Hardest Job You'll Ever Love! : Helpful Ideas for Teachers in and out of the Classroom

371.102 SON

Includes ways to maintain one's health, how to balance one's personal and school life, and how to interact in a better way. In order to become successful, it is important for high school teachers to include personal fulfillment so that students will ultimately learn not only the subject matter but also how to be self-sufficient and self-accountable and how to learn with others.

Teaching literacy through the arts

Nan L. McDonald, Douglas Fisher
New York, NY : Guilford Press, 2006.

372.6 MCD

Addresses the "whats," "whys," and "how-tos" of integrating literacy instruction and the arts in grades K-8. Even teachers without any arts background will gain the skills they need to bring music, drama, visual arts, and dance into their classrooms.

Teaching transformation : transcultural classroom dialogues

Ana Louise Keating
New York, NY : Palgrave Macmillan, 2007.

370.1 KEA

This book is a must-read for everyone who believes that the classroom is a dynamic place where complex conversations about challenging issues like race, sexuality, class, and the human spirit, can be established with student from all level.

Teaching the brain to read : strategies for improving fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension

Judy Willis
Alexandria, VA : Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, 2008.

428.4 WIL

Offers a unique perspective on how to help students not only learn the mechanics of reading and comprehension, but also

Teaching writing with Latino/a students : lessons learned at Hispanic- serving institutions

Edited by Cristina Kirklighter, Diana Cárdenas, and Susan Wolff Murphy
Albany, NY : State University of New York Press, 2007.

808.042 TEA

Brings together the eclectic voices of two-year and four-year writing teachers at Hispanic Serving Institutions (HSIs) throughout the United States to explore the complexities of teaching writing with Latino/a students. Made up of narratives, qualitative studies, and conversations, the book presents the theories and practices of these experienced teachers.

Technology-enhanced learning environments

Edited by Elizabeth Hanson-Smith
Alexandria, VA : Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages, 2000.

420.785 TEC

Presents case studies from Europe, North America, and the Middle East in which teachers have adapted and pioneering teaching innovations that range from simple additions to traditional classroom teaching to radical alternatives that change the nature of language learning and teaching.

Testing student learning, evaluating teaching effectiveness

By Williamson M. Evers and Herbert J. Walberg
Stanford, CA: Hoover Institution Press, 2004.

371.14 TES

More than ever, parents want to know how their children are achieving and how their children's school ranks compared to others. And even though education experts and some testing experts may disagree, Congress, state legislators, and citizens are increasingly insistent that objective testing and accountability are needed to measure the results of teaching. This book takes a hard look at the professional, technical, and public policy issues surrounding student achievement and teachers effectiveness-the controversial issues that often divide educators from parents and their elected representatives.

Tests that teach: using standardized tests to improve instruction

Karen Tankersley
Alexandria, VA : Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, 2007.

371.262 TAN

The author guides you with proven tips and instructional strategies to help your students perform to their potential. Also included are a wealth of online resources for lesson plans, daily classroom activities, and virtual field trips, as well as links to every state's released materials on its own assessment.

Tools for matching readers to texts : research-based practices

Heidi Anne E. Mesmer
New York, NY : Guilford Press, 2008.

372.41 MES

This unique reference helps teacher choose from a wide array of approaches and implement them effectively. Provided is a thorough, integrative review of recently developed applications such as Lexiles, as well as traditional readability formulas and systems for beginning readers.

Transforming schools with technology : how smart use of digital tools helps achieve six key education goals

Andrew A. Zucker
Cambridge, MA : Harvard Education Press, 2008.

371.0285 ZUC

Argues that technology can and will play a central role in efforts to achieve critical education goals and reforms. This book is destined to be recognized as the crucial book on digital technology and education and it will be essential reading for school leaders and teachers, and policymakers.

Training of the American actor

Edited by Arthur Bartow
New York, NY : Theatre Communications Group, 2006.

792.028 TRA

The chapters in this book represent ten frequently studied approaches to actor training. Most of these approaches, or variations of them, are widely taught throughout the United States. The chapters roughly follow the chronological order in which the approaches came to full prominence.

The true genius of America at risk: are we losing our public universities to de facto privatization?

Katharine C. Lyall
and Kathleen R. Sell
Westport, CT : Praeger, 2006.

378.05 LYA

Describes market political and fiscal forces that are eroding the traditional partnership between states and public universities, and explains how the search for new revenue sources is refocusing the basic goals of public universities. The authors manage to clarify what has gone wrong and what can be done to save these valuable American institutions.

Uncovering our history : teaching with primary sources

Susan H. Veccia
Chicago, IL :
American Library Association, 2004.

973.071 VEC

Susan Veccia offers readers practical ways to incorporate into their curriculum, the use of primary sources to teach history, using the resources of the Library of Congress's American Memory website. Experience shows that immersion in the stories of our nation using primary documents illuminates the past and builds genuine interest in a way that textbooks cannot.

Undergraduate education in psychology : a blueprint for the future of the discipline

Edited by Diane F. Halpern
Washington, DC :
American Psychological Association, 2010.

150.711 UND

This book presents the findings and recommendations of the 2008 National Conference on Undergraduate Education in Psychology. Chapters explore nine critical questions, for example, why do we need to rethink how we educate students in psychology? Who is teaching psychology and what is the quality of instruction? How can we promote learning with new technologies? The book integrates its findings with five key quality principles and practical recommendations in every chapter.

Understanding literacy development: a global view

Biblioteca Benjamín Franklin
Abierto de Lunes a Viernes de 9:00 a 19:00 hrs.

Edited by Anne McKeough ... [et al.]

Mahwah, NJ : L.
Erlbaum Associates, 2006.

302.224 UND

Brings together leading experts from around the world to explore ways to best provide teaching and learning opportunities, tailored to specific educational needs, to help all children become better readers. This volume, compiling critical research on a wide spectrum of literacy concerns, is an invaluable tool for scholars, teacher educators, professional and graduate students in the fields of literacy education, early childhood education, educational psychology, educational policy, and related areas.

Videogames and education

Harry J. Brown
Armonk, NY : M.E.
Sharpe, 2008.

794.8019 BRO

Videogames and education are not necessarily antithetical. In this mind-expanding work, the author shows how videogames have become a powerful form of political, ethical, and religious discourse that influences the way we teach, learn and create. He traces the major trends in game design, the public controversies surrounding videogames, and the major positions in game criticism. The book speaks to thoughtful educators, parents, and players who seek a fuller understanding of this cultural phenomenon.

Video games and learning : teaching and participatory culture in the digital age

794.82 SQU

Can we learn socially and academically valuable concepts and skills from video games? How can we best teach the 'gamer generation'? This accessible book describes how educators and curriculum designers can harness the participatory nature of digital media and play. The author presents a comprehensive model of games and learning that integrates analysis of games, game culture, and educational game design.

Virtual Schools : Planning for Success

Edited by Zane L. Berge and Tom Clark ; foreword by Julie Young
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2005.

371.358 VIR

This important volume features contributions by top virtual school administrators and experts in the field, who talk about what virtual schools can do to plan for success. Providing an overview of virtual schooling and e-learning, along with detailed case studies, this volume features chapters written by real practitioners and leading experts.

Washington internships : how to get them and use them to launch your public policy career

Deirdre Martinez
Philadelphia, PA : University of Pennsylvania Press, 2009.

331.2592 MAR

Invaluable guide to landing that crucial first position in America's capital. This book is the only career publication focused on entry-level policy and government work. It covers all branches of government, federal agencies, lobbying firms, advocacy organizations, and think tanks. Whether you are a young activist or a future power broker, this book will help you grab the first rung of the public service career ladder.

What works in K-12 online learning

Edited by Cathy Cavanaugh and Robert Blomeyer
Eugene, OR : International Society for Technology in Education, 2007.

371.334 WHA

Provides a comprehensive overview of effective online teaching and learning practices. Based on extensive experience and research, chapters cover a full spectrum of topics including virtual course development, online learning in elementary classroom, instructional assessment and differentiating online instruction, professional development for teachers of virtual courses, and the challenges that virtual schools will face in the future.

What's happening to public higher education?

Edited by Ronald G. Ehrenberg
Westport, CT :
Praeger Publishers,
2006.

378.050 WHA

The author invited a wide-ranging team of experts to examine changes in public higher education over the last quarter century, and to present their findings at a conference at Cornell University in May 2005. These leading researchers have studied the causes of the changing finances of public higher education and the ways in which these changes have affected institutions, their students, and their potential students.

Who benefits from special education? : remediating (fixing) other people's children

Edited by Ellen A. Brantlinger
Mahwah, NJ : L.
Erlbaum Associates,
2006.

371.9 WHO

Addresses the negative consequences of labeling and separating education for students with "disabilities," the cultural biases inherent in the way that we view children's learning difficulties, the social construction of disability, the commercialization of special education, and related issues.

When research matters : how scholarship influences educational policy

Edited by Frederick M. Hess
Cambridge, MA :
Harvard Education
Press, 2008.

Press, 2008.

379.1 WHE

Considers the complex and crucially important relationship between education research and policy, and focuses on a number of critical issues: the history of the federal role in education policy, the evolving nature of educational policy research, the role of research in debates about reading, and "out of field" teaching, and the incentives that help explain the behavior of researchers and policymakers.

Why don't students like school? : a cognitive scientist answers questions about how the mind works and what it means for your classroom

Daniel T. Willingham
San Francisco, Calif :
Jossey-Bass, 2009.

370.1523 WIL

Cognitive scientist Dan Willingham has focused his acclaimed research on the biological and cognitive basis of learning and has a deep understanding of the daily challenges faced by classroom teachers. This book will help teachers improve their practice by explaining how they and their students think and learn, revealing the importance of story, emotion, memory, context, and routine in building knowledge and creating lasting learning experiences.

Why our schools need the arts

Jessica Hoffmann Davis
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2008.

700.71 DAV

Leads the way to a new kind of advocacy, one that stops justifying the arts as useful to learning other subjects, and argues instead for the powerful lessons that the arts, like no other subjects, teach our children. Offers a set of principles and tools that will be invaluable to advocates already working hard to make the case and secure a strong place for the arts in education.

influential scientific mind and educational reformer of the nineteenth century. The author recounts the largely unknown story of one man's ideas and how they gave way to the creation of one of America's premier institutions of higher learning.

Within our reach: how America can educate every child

Edited by John E. Chubb
Lanham, MD : Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, 2005.

379.73 WIT

The book represents a midterm assessment of NCLB act that closely examines its core elements and offers recommendations for practical reforms to save the law and strengthen some of its key principles: high standards, result based accountability, parental options, and research based practices.

Why we teach

Edited by Sonia Nieto
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2005.

371.1 WHY

The teachers in this book, like so many across the country, do the kind of work that many not grab headlines but is far more important than even the highest test score: these teachers listen closely to their students and they share in their students' struggles and successes.

Working from within : Chicana and Chicano activist educators in whitestream schools

Luis Urrieta, Jr.
Tucson, AZ : University of Arizona Press, 2009.

371.829 URR

Combining approaches from anthropology and cultural studies, this book examines how issues of identity, agency, and social movements shape the lives of Chicana and Chicano activist educators in U.S. schools. The author skillfully utilizes the cultural concepts of positioning, figured worlds, and self authorship, along with Chicano Studies and Chicana feminist frameworks, to tell the story of twenty-four Mexican Americans who have successfully navigated school systems as students and later as activist educators.

William Barton Rogers and the idea of MIT

A.J. Angulo
Baltimore, MD : Johns Hopkins University Press, 2009.

378.0092 ANG

Exploring the intersection of Rogers's educational philosophy and the rise of technical institutes in America, this biography offers a long-overdue account of the man behind MIT, who was a highly

Working world : careers in international education, exchange, and development

Sherry L. Mueller, Mark Overmann

Washington, DC : Georgetown University Press, 2008.

331.702 MUE

This is the perfect resource for making sound career choices, and is particularly valuable for those interested in exploring a career in international education, exchange and development. It provides annotated lists of selected organizations, websites and further reading, along with profiles of twelve professionals, from promising young associates to presidents and CEOs, to illustrate the wide range of career possibilities.

You gotta be the book : teaching engaged and reflective reading with adolescents

Jeffrey D. Wilhelm
New York, NY : Teachers College Press, 2008.

372.4 WIL

Through textured case studies of engaged and reluctant readers, this book addresses enduring issues, such as: What do highly engaged adolescent readers do as they read?, What is it about traditional schooling and reading instruction that deters engaged reading and serves to disenfranchise young readers?, What types of interventions can be used in the classroom to help all students, specially reluctant ones, become successful readers?

Wounded by school: recapturing the joy in learning and standing up to old school culture

Kirsten Olson

New York ; London : Teachers College Press, 2009.

371.1523 OLS

Brings to life the devastating consequences of an educational approach that values conformity over creativity, flattens student's interests, and dampens down differences among learners. The author shows that current institutional structures do not produce the kinds of minds and thinking that society really needs. Instead, the system tends to shame, disable and bore many learners.