

Special Documentation Requirements for Export License Pertaining to Low Observable/Counter Low Observable and /or Anti-Tamper Technology

Companies whose export licenses deal with technology related to LO/CLO and/or anti-tamper technology may be contacted by officials of DoD's Defense Technology Security Administration with regard to clarifying special support documentation requirements for license requests. Companies should follow the guidance provided and ensure their submissions contain this additional information. Given the sensitivity of this technology, these requests are afforded special scrutiny and the additional information will assist the Department of Defense technical review process in adjudicating these cases.
