Instructions for the Employee

Why You Received this Notice to Employee of Tentative Nonconfirmation (TNC Notice)

Your employer participates in E-Verify, a program managed by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Social Security Administration (SSA). E-Verify compares the information you gave on Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification, with the government's records to verify that you are permitted to work in the United States.

You received this TNC Notice because E-Verify indicated that the information entered into E-Verify from your Form I-9 does not match SSA's records. This is known as an SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation or TNC. This does not mean that you gave incorrect information to your employer or that you are not permitted to work in the United States.

An SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation may occur if:

- Your citizenship or immigration status changed since you received your Social Security number.
- You did not report a name change to SSA.
- Your name, Social Security number or date of birth was recorded incorrectly in SSA records.
- There is another type of mismatch with your SSA record.
- Your employer did not enter your information correctly in E-Verify.

IMPORTANT

This TNC Notice does not mean that you are not permitted to work or that there is incorrect information on the document(s) you presented for Form I-9. If you choose to contest the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation, you will need to visit an SSA field office. SSA will then review and update or correct its records, if appropriate. If you decide not to contest this SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation, your employer may terminate your employment.

What You Must Do

Ensure the name, Social Security number and month/year of birth on the first page of this TNC Notice are correct. Tell your employer immediately if there is incorrect information. If your information is correct, you must decide whether to contest the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation and inform your employer of your decision.

If you Contest (take action) the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation, you must visit an SSA field office. Your employer will send your case to SSA through E-Verify and give you a Referral Letter. The Referral Letter will explain how to find an SSA field office and what documents you need to bring. You will have 8 federal government workdays from the date your employer refers your case in E-Verify to visit an SSA field office. In certain instances, U.S. citizens who receive an SSA TNC may contact DHS to resolve the TNC.

It is important to know that your employer cannot take negative action against you or terminate you based on your decision to contest the TNC. The next page of this TNC Notice outlines your rights.

If you do Not Contest (do not take action) the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation, you are making the choice to give up your opportunity to resolve the TNC. Your case will automatically become a Final Nonconfirmation, which means that your employer may terminate your employment.

IMPORTANT

Know your rights: Read the next page for important information about your rights under the law.

I choose to: (check one)

- CONTEST the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation. I understand that I must visit a Social Security Administration field Office within 8 federal government workdays from the date on the SSA Referral Letter.
- NOT CONTEST the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation. I choose to give up my opportunity to contest the SSA Tentative Nonconfirmation. I understand that my employer may terminate my employment.

Know Your Rights

- Employers cannot use E-Verify selectively or to pre-screen job applicants. E-Verify must be used for all new employees regardless of national origin, citizenship or immigration status.
- Employers cannot use E-Verify to verify current employees unless the employer is currently a federal contractor with the FAR (Federal Acquisition Regulation) E-Verify Clause in its federal contract.
- Employers are required to clearly display the 'Notice of E-Verify Participation' and the 'Right to Work Poster(s),' in both English and Spanish.
- Employers must give an employee who receives a Tentative Nonconfirmation (TNC) a copy of the 'Notice to Employee of Tentative Nonconfirmation.' The TNC Notice contains information about how to contest a TNC.
- Employers cannot take any adverse action against an employee, including: terminating, suspending, withholding pay or training, delaying a start date or otherwise limiting employment based on the employee's decision to contest a TNC or because the employee's case is still pending with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) or the Social Security Administration (SSA).
- Employers must give an employee a Referral Letter to DHS or SSA, if the employee decides to contest a Tentative Nonconfirmation. The Referral Letter contains instructions and agency contact information for the employee.
- Employers must allow the employee eight federal government workdays to visit an SSA field office or contact DHS to contest the Tentative Nonconfirmation from the date the case is referred in E-Verify.
- Employers may terminate employees only after receiving a Final Nonconfirmation, or after an employee has decided not to contest a Tentative Nonconfirmation.
- Employers may not use E-Verify to re-verify existing employees whose employment authorization has expired. Instead, employers must complete Section 3 of Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification or complete a new Form I-9.
