| On November 10, 2010, the Department of Labor launched an online system for filing TAA petitions. DOL expects that the online tool will become the primary means by which TAA petitions are received, but the options to mail or fax a hard-copy petition will remain open. While using the online application process will result in a time savings for the applicant, it will not lead to a petition being given precedence over those that are mailed or faxed. In addition to the new online petition, the Office of Trade Adjustment Assistance Web site has been updated to better reflect the program. It will include fiscal year 2010 to-date individual participant data. The new information is the result of Recovery Act amendments to the TAA program that require additional data collection. | |
