The Fall of Womenland

The Mosuo people, a small minority situated in the southwest of China, are one of the last remaining matriarchal societies in the world. Without a formal marriage contract, the Mosuo traditionally build relationships based on free love and sexual satisfaction. But can the sexual liberty and power of the Mosuo women survive as modern Chinese society slowly encroaches their ancestral land? (2009, 46 min.)

The screening will be followed by a discussion session conducted by Porshe Chiles.

Porshe Chiles is a Master's student in the Department of Higher Education. Her professional interests are in International and Multicultural Affairs.
