RefGrab-It – Import Web Page Information to Your RefWorks Account

With RefGrab-It, you can quickly import web page information to your RefWorks account. RefGrab-It allows you to easily create citations for web pages. Here is how to get started:

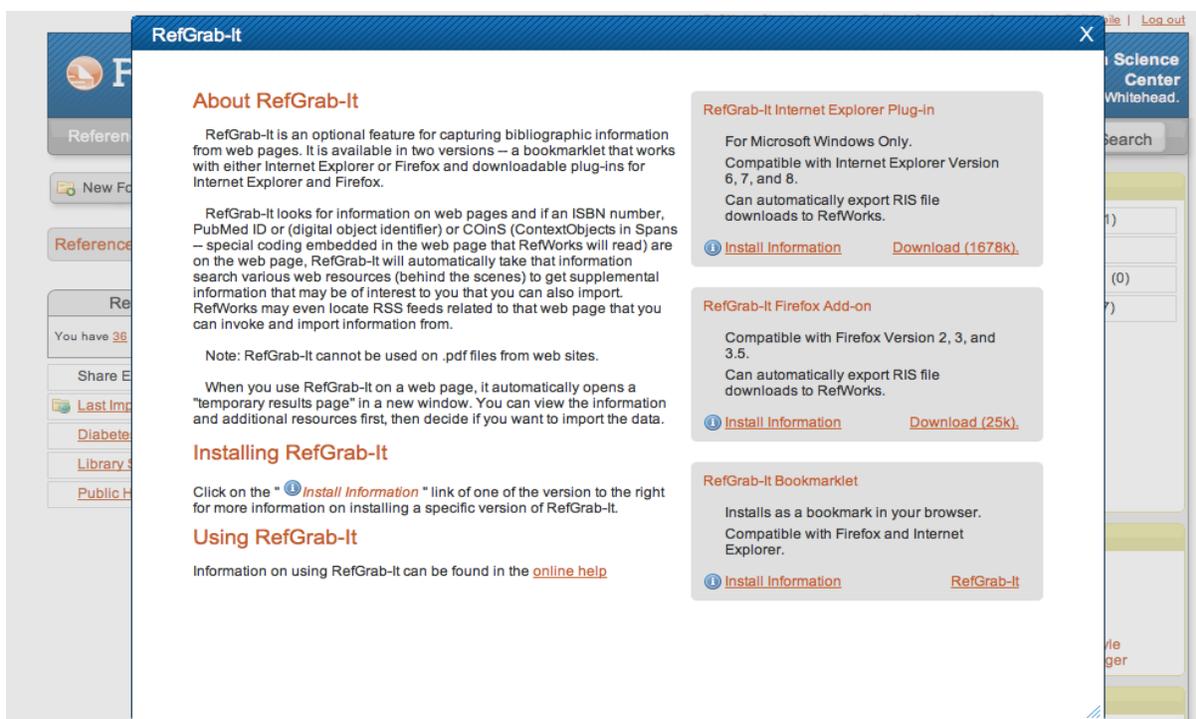

Installing RefGrab-It

1. Sign in to your RefWorks account.
2. Go to Tools and select RefGrab-It.
3. A new window will open with instructions for downloading RefGrab-It. Choose the appropriate user type:

RefGrab-It Internet Explorer Plug-in

RefGrab-It Firefox Add-on

RefGrab-It Bookmarklet (Internet Explorer and Firefox compatible)

4. You may get a security challenge telling you that you may be adding something that is unsafe. Please say "yes".
5. If you want the RefGrab-It link in your toolbar, you can simply add it to your Links folder in the IE Favorites area.

Please Note: RefGrab-It was designed for capturing Bibliographic information from a web page and cannot be used inside of a PDF!

Using RefGrab-It

Note: You may need to temporarily disable any pop-up blockers while accessing the RefGrab-It results.

1. When you are viewing a web page you want to add to your RefWorks account, simply click on the RefGrab-It link in your toolbar or bookmark list.
2. Next, you will see this RefWorks temporary results page that displays the web page information. When it is available, more complete reference information may be found by clicking "show details"

The screenshot shows the RefGrab-It interface with the following elements:

- At the top, there are radio buttons for "Selected" (selected), "All", and a button for "Import To RefWorks".
- The first section is titled "The Web Page Selected: 0/1" and includes a "Select All In Section" checkbox. It lists "Gibson D. Lewis Library - UNTHSC" with a "show details" link and a small icon.
- The second section is titled "Gibson D. Lewis Library - UNTHSC RSS Selected: 0/2" and includes a "Select All In Section" checkbox. It lists "Welcome to the New Lewis Library Website!" with a "show details" link and a small icon. Below it, it lists "Rand Texas Statistics" with "Crenshaw, Clayton;" and "Gibson D. Lewis Library - UNTHSC" with a "show details" link and a small icon.
- At the bottom, there is a "Done" button and the "RefGrab-It" logo.

3. Click the check box on the left side of the web page information you want to add to your RefWorks account or the radio button for "All"
4. If the web page also contains RSS feeds, you will also have the option to extract that information and import it as a separate citation in your RefWorks database. To do this, click the check box on the left side of each feed.
6. You may import the web page information or the full citation for an RSS feed by clicking "Import To RefWorks"
7. You may be prompted to log-in to your RefWorks account.
8. You should receive a message that the import was successful. After importing any new information, you will be able to move it to a folder.
