Frequently Asked Questions

What does it mean to have a Bachelor of Business Administration degree?

A Bachelor of Science degree and Bachelor of Art degree are very similar and are typically viewed as equal in status. Some degrees may be designated as a Bachelor of Business Administration to signify a broad foundation in business with a major in a specific field of study.

Does UNT Dallas have any online degree programs?

There are no Business degrees that are 100% online. While some programs may have a few courses that are offered online, the majority of Business courses are in a classroom setting.

Is a minor required for a Business degree?

A minor is not required for Business students. However, a student can choose to pursue a minor, if desired, which would add between 12-21 credit hours to the degree program.

Can I get experiential credit towards my degree program based on current or previous employment?

Experiential credit is not granted or applicable to Business programs. However, a student may seek to get internship credit for a new job, position, or project that is gained while the student is taking courses at UNT Dallas.

Is an internship required for my degree?

An internship is not required for any BBA degree, although a student may seek internship credit. Internships are only applicable after the junior year as there are specific criteria that a student must meet. Advisor and department approval required. Credit for a current or previous work experience is not applicable. See advisor for more details.
