

AVANT-GARDE

THE COLLEGE OF VISUAL ARTS AND DESIGN NEWSLETTER

The Art of Work: UNT Grad's Images Of Immigrant Laborers Heralded.

Recent alumnus Jonathan Molina-Garcia has been awarded a $100,000 scholarship to the California Institute of the Arts, where he plans to pursue a master's degree in fine arts. The award comes from the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation, which supports those who "work hard, stay focused and defy the stereo-type that poverty precludes high achievement."

<http://www.dallasnews.com/news/metro/20140609-the-art-of-work-unt-grads-images-of-immigrant-laborers-heralded.ece>

Designing a Space for Unique Clients.

Last September, associate professor of design Bruce Nacke was asked if his students wanted to help design a boutique for a community that offers refuge for abused and homeless women and "everything fell into place."

<http://inhouse.unt.edu/designing-space-unique-clients>

Texas Fashion Collection Shows Off 170 Years of Wedding Gowns.

The free exhibition, a collaboration between the Texas Fashion Collection and the Greater Denton Arts Council will be shown at the council's Patterson-Appleton Center for the Visual Arts, June 28 to Oct. 24, at 400 East Hickory St. in Denton.

<http://inhouse.unt.edu/texas-fashion-collection-shows-wedding-gowns-spanning-more-100-years>

Constructs: 2014 CVAD MFA Showcase.

A summer tradition at the UNT Art Gallery, this exhibition features recent works in various media by artists enrolled in the graduate Studio Art programs at CVAD. Focused on process, criticism and ideology, the CVAD MFA showcase presents an open environment in which to consider works by emerging artists of our time.

<http://gallery.unt.edu/exhibitions/4/2967>