

RECP

RESIDENT ENERGY CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The Benefits of RECP

The RECP satisfies the requirement from the Office of the Secretary of Defense for resident payment of utilities for privatized housing.

Careful conservation of resources through less energy consumption contributes to our nation's security and readiness and takes better care of our fragile ecosystem.

- Residents will earn rebates if they conserve more electricity than amounts identified in a normal usage band
- Monitoring usage offers families the chance to see how their conservation turns into savings
- Reduced project costs allow for future improvements to housing and neighborhoods

To learn more about RECP in your neighborhood, contact your privatized housing community manager or your local Housing Service Center.
