TNR: Information Dominance

Leadership Focus Points

Chief of Navy Reserve:

CNR discusses 'Information Dominance: Our Newest Warfighting Pillar' in her October Focus on the Force column in TNR. "These are interesting times, to say the least. Nonetheless, there continue to be opportunities for RC Sailors to serve in emerging mission areas, as Navy leadership works to bring new technologies and platforms online in the most cost effective manner possible. That means that we must continuously work to find the optimum mix of AC and RC force structure for each of our mission areas and make the best use of every AT and ADT dollar spent."

FORCM:

FORCM says farewell to RC Sailors in his October Focus on the Force column in TNR: "No matter where I went or who I spoke with, I was always impressed by the quality of our Sailors. Everyone I met helped me to better understand and address the concerns and issues facing you, our Navy Reserve Sailors."

Commander Navy Reserve Forces Command:

CNRF Blog: Facing The Fiscal Challenges Ahead "I'm sure you have all felt some of the effects of sequestration. But, with the new fiscal year comes even greater financial challenges for the Navy and Navy Reserve Force. This year, we face a Continuing Resolution of uncertain duration. It will be an all-hands effort to maintain mission readiness and continue to provide the operational support the Fleet has had over the past decade." Continue reading here.

Commander Navy Reserve Air Force:

VR-62 is truly 'World Famous' VR-62 completed a record-breaking year with 3,100 flying hours and 207 missions, lifting in excess of 2.7 million pounds of cargo, in every geographic combatant command.

"We know that a Reserve sailor is about 1/3 of the cost of an active duty sailor. Currently, we need every sailor we have."

Vice Admiral Robin Braun, Chief of Navy Reserve, May 18, 2013
