History of Fort Hood

Fort Hood was named after John Bell Hood, a famous Confederate Army General who commanded the Texas Brigade during the American Civil War. In 1861, John Hood resigned his commission in the Union Army to join the Confederate Army where he was quickly promoted to Brigadier General. At Gettysburg he commanded under General Longstreet and was severely wounded. At the Battle of Chickamauga, General Hood lost his right leg. Not one to give up, he had himself strapped in his saddle and continued leading his troops. A fighting leader who always took the fight to the enemy, General Hood was placed in command of the Army of Tennessee and aggressively opposed Union General Tecumseh Sherman during the infamous "March to the Sea".

The original site for Fort Hood, then called Camp Hood, was selected in 1941. In January 1942, the War Department announced the selection of Killeen; the site for the Tank Destroyer Tactical and Firing Center, where the primary mission was the training of the Army's tank destroyer battalions. As this mission declined the posts massive training resources shifted to field artillery battalions and the Infantry Replacement Training Center. The total camp population on the last day in 1944 was 50,228 Soldiers, a figure very close to today's Soldier population. In 1950, during the Korean buildup, Camp Hood was designated as Fort Hood, a permanent installation. During the Korean War years, the post continued its training mission and provided individual replacements for many of the units involved in the conflict. In 1953, Congress approved the additional 50,000 acres to Fort Hood.

In 1961, Fort Hood again became the home of III Corps. In 1967, Fort Hood was officially designated a two-division post with the stationing of both the 1st and 2nd Armor Divisions at Fort Hood. In October 1969, Killeen Base was re-designated as West Fort Hood and the airfield's name was changed to Robert Gray Army Airfield. During the late 1960's Fort Hood trained and deployed 137 units and a large number of individual replacements for duty in Vietnam. As the United States ended its role in that conflict, thousands of returning Soldiers completed their active duty with one of the Fort Hood Divisions. In 1971 the 1st Cavalry Division came to Fort Hood from Vietnam and replaced the 1st Armor Division when “Old Ironsides” deployed to Germany.

Today Fort Hood comprises 340 square miles. The post stretches 26 miles from east to west and 24 miles from north to south. Fort Hood is approximately 60 miles north of the state capital and 50 miles south of Waco. The city of Killeen borders Fort Hood to the east and Copperas Cove to the west.

Once in the field, Soldiers find themselves in a semi-arid terrain that has 413 miles of paved roads and 449 miles of dirt roads. Live-fire exercises take place on fifty ranges and two scaled-down ranges located throughout the post’s maneuver area. Fort Hood is the “Great Place” and what makes the “Great Place” great? The People!

III Corps History

III (Phantom) Corps was organized on March 30, 1918, at Langres, France. During World War I, the Corps participated in the Aisne-Marne, Oise-Aisne, Meuse-Argonne, Champagne, and Lorraine campaigns.

During World War II the Corps earned the nickname “Phantom Corps” by hitting the enemy when least expected. III Corps was awarded campaign streamers for Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central Europe campaigns. Assigned to Patton’s Third Army during the relief of Bastogne, III Corps liberated more than 100 towns, including Bastogne halting the German bulge offensive. III Corps then established the Remagen Bridgehead securing the initial foothold in Germany.

Inactivated 10 October 1946 at Camp Polk, Louisiana, III Corps was reactivated 15 March 1951 at Camp Roberts, California. III Corps again inactivated 5 May 1959, and reactivated 1 September 1961 at Fort Hood, Texas, during the Berlin Crisis. Reorganized and re-designated 24

September 1965 as Headquarters, III Corps; Headquarters Company, III Corps, concurrently constituted and activated at Fort Hood, Texas.

During the Vietnam era, III Corps trained and deployed two Field Force Headquarters to provide combat assistance to the South Vietnamese and to control US military operations in the Central Highlands. III Corps supervised the training and deployment of more than 137 units and detachments to Southeast Asia.

Post Vietnam, III Corps would take part in a number of tests of organizations and tactical concepts, and was on the leading edge of the Army's modernization effort with the introduction of new organizations and equipment. III Corps supported operations worldwide, to include Grenada, Panama, Honduras, Saudi Arabia, and Kuwait. III Corps also supported Stabilization Force (SFOR) operations in Bosnia, humanitarian support for Operation Restore Hope in Somalia, and numerous humanitarian missions in the United States and Central America. III Corps units would also participate in major exercises such as REFORGER (Return of Forces to Germany) and disaster relief operations in the United States and Central America.

In the decade of the 1980's, III Corps units have been on the leading edge of the Army's modernization effort with the introduction of new organizations and equipment like the M1 Abrams Tank, M2/3 Bradley Fighting Vehicle, AH64 Apache Helicopter, Multiple Launch Rocket System (MLRS), and Mobile Subscriber Equipment (MSE). In 1987, III Corps also conducted the largest deployment of forces to Germany since World War II. This demonstrated the Corps' ability to perform one of its primary wartime missions. III Corps also plays an important part in the training and support of active and reserve component units. This support involves training guidance, resources, and the maintenance of relationships that extend to wartime affiliations.

In response to the invasion of Kuwait in 1990, III Corps deployed the 1st Cavalry Division, elements of the 13th Corps Support Command and elements of the 6th Air Cavalry Brigade in support of Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, playing a critical role in the liberation of Kuwait.

Throughout the 90's, III Corps would provide forces in support of humanitarian operations in Central America, Kurdish relief operations in Northern Iraq, peace keeping and security operations in Eastern Europe, stability operations on the Arabian Peninsula and disaster relief operations here at home.

With the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, III Corps was called upon to provide forces and equipment in support of Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan and a Brigade Combat Team in support of increased security operations in Kuwait. In late 2002, early 2003, III Corps began preparing its organic, assigned and attached units for major combat operations.

During Operation Iraqi Freedom 2004 to 2005, III Corps replaced Combined Joint Task Force-7 and transformed into Multinational Corps-Iraq. III Corps' mission was to conduct offensive operations to defeat remaining non-compliant forces and neutralize destabilizing influences in Iraq in order to create a secure environment as part of the Iraqi Governance Campaign. During Operation Iraqi Freedom from 2006 to 2008, the Iraqi Surge Campaign, III Corps as Multinational Corps-Iraq conducted operations to secure the Iraqi population and break the cycle of violence. During Operation Iraqi Freedom 2010, III Corps once again was part of a headquarters transformation becoming the nucleus of United States Forces-Iraq. During the Iraqi Sovereignty Campaign, III Corps assisted the Iraqi government and military during the national elections. The Phantom Warriors planned and executed operations at every level from tactical to strategic, setting the improved security conditions which allowed the U.S. forces to begin the drawdown and transition from combat operations to an advise and assist role. On September 1, 2010, III Corps Soldiers marked the official end of combat operations in Iraq as Operation Iraqi Freedom and transitioned to Operation New Dawn. III Corps, as America's Armored Corps, is our country's premier heavy maneuver force: mobile, lethal, and Army Strong

III Corps is "America's Hammer!"

Military Customs and Courtesy

Courtesy among members of the Armed Forces is vital to maintain military discipline. Respect to seniors will be extended at all times. All military personnel in uniform shall salute when they meet and recognize persons entitled to the salute.

Courtesy is respect for and consideration of others.

a. In the Army the various forms of courtesy have become customs and traditions. It is important to render these courtesies correctly.

b. The exchange of a salute is a visible sign of good discipline and mutual respect. Saluting is an outward sign of unit pride and esprit de corps. IAW AR 600-25 each salute shall be rendered with a greeting and response. The Fort Hood greeting is your “Unit Motto, Sir or Ma’am” The response from the officer will be your “Unit Motto”. When approaching an NCO the appropriate greeting of the day will be rendered, “Good morning Sergeant” the response from the Sergeant will be your “Unit Motto”. No silent passing.

(1) Be alert for general officers and other senior officer vehicles, which are identified with plates depicting their rank attached to the front of the vehicle. Proper military courtesy requires that you render a salute to these officers as they pass.

c. The following rules apply in most situations you are likely to face.

(1) Unit headquarters, orderly rooms, supply rooms, dayrooms, and squad rooms. The first person to see an officer who is higher in rank than the officer present in the room should call “Attention.” The senior Soldier present in the area should then report to the visiting officer. In smaller rooms, containing one or two enlisted Soldiers, the Soldier(s) should rise and stand at the position of attention when an officer enters the room.

(2) Offices, shops, hangars, and medical treatment facilities. When an officer enters personnel who are working do not come to attention unless the officer speaks to them.

(3) Dining facilities. The first person to see an officer who is senior in rank to any present in the dining facility he/she will call “At Ease” so that their presence is known and necessary action can be taken. The Soldiers should fall silent, remain seated, and continue to work or eat. The senior dining facility MC or NCOIC should report to the officer. Soldiers will call “At Ease” IAW Dining Facility SOP.

(4) Hallways. The first person to see an officer who is senior in rank to the unit commander or officers on the floor will call “Attention”. When a senior non commissioned officer enters a room/area, “At Ease” will be called.

(5) During conversations. All Soldiers, Officer or Enlisted, will come to the position of attention facing a senior officer when spoken to. In an official capacity normally the senior officer will direct “At Ease” or “Carry On” if the situation merits. When an enlisted Soldier is speaking to an NCO, the Soldier will stand at “Parade Rest”, unless otherwise directed by the NCO. A subordinate shall stand when spoken to by someone senior in rank unless the superior directs otherwise. When walking with a senior Soldier, the junior officer or enlisted Soldier will walk to the senior’s left side.

(6) In formation. When an officer approaches Soldiers in a formation, the person in charge calls, “Attention” and renders a salute for the entire group. When an officer of senior rank approaches a group of individuals not in formation, the First person to see the officer calls “Group Attention” and everyone in the group faces the officer and renders a salute with the appropriate greeting. However, Soldiers working as part of the detail or participating in some other group activity, such as athletics do not salute. The person in charge, if not actively engaged, salutes for the entire detail or group of Soldiers.

(7) In a field/tactical environment. Leaders must take a common sense approach as it relates to observing this courtesy. Saluting should not be required when it conflicts with the task(s) that Soldier(s) are charged with performing.

(8) Salutes will be exchanged outside the PX, post theater, and other congested areas to include under overhangs. All Soldiers, officer and enlisted, will render the necessary salute, unless the act would be impractical i.e., arms full of packages, at which time you would render the appropriate verbal greeting.

(9) The US flag as distinguished from “The Colors” is not saluted except during the ceremonies of raising (Reveille) and lowering (Retreat) the flag and when it is passing in a parade.

The US flag trimmed on three sides with golden yellow fringe is “The Colors” and is saluted as it passes or you pass it within six paces.

(10) Retired military personnel should be given the respect normally afforded by their active duty rank.

(11) Soldiers should acknowledge senior NCOs and officers when not in duty uniform, even if both are in civilian clothes. The general rule of thumb is, “No silent passing”. Always address the superior with greeting of the day.

d. Reveille and Retreat Ceremonies.

(1) Reveille: When outside in uniform, not in formation and you hear “Reveille”, you should face towards the US flag, if visible. If the US flag is not visible, face towards the music, assume the position of attention, and salute on the first note of the music. During “Reveille” all vehicles in the area will stop, where military occupants will dismount their vehicle and render the proper courtesy. When required, the senior Soldier should bring the formation to attention and salute. If you are in civilian attire and hear “Reveille” you are expected to remove all headgear and place your right hand over your heart.

(2) Retreat: When outside in uniform, not in formation and you hear “Retreat” you should face towards the US flag, if visible. If the US flag is not visible, face towards the music and assume the position of attention. You will then salute upon hearing the first note of “To the Colors”. While in a formation, the senior Soldier should bring the formation to parade rest during “Retreat” and then bring the formation to attention and present arms during the playing of “To the Colors”. During retreat ceremonies all vehicles in the area will stop, where military occupants will dismount their vehicle and render the proper courtesy.

a. If you are in civilian attire and hear “To the Colors” or the National Anthem, you are expected to remove all headgear and place your right hand over your heart.

b. When indoors, not in a formation, personnel will stand at attention but will not present arms. If in civilian clothes, you will remove your headgear and stand at attention.

c. Soldiers will stand at attention and sing “The Army Song” whenever it is played.

Personal Conduct

General. We are all professionals and represent our service, our units, and all of those who came before us. We are expected to conduct ourselves professionally regardless of our duty status whether on or off post in or out of uniform. The observance of military customs and courtesies show we honor our country, the service in which we serve, and the sacrifices of those Soldiers who came before us. We do this by taking time to stop and pay respects to the flag, saluting those Officers senior to us. We should stand at the proper position when talking to those senior to us and use the proper greeting when addressing those senior to us. We need Soldiers who know, and comply with standards, and we need leaders who know, comply with, enforce, and inspect their Soldiers. Leaders have a responsibility to return service members salutes and greetings. All service members are entitled to having a good time and enjoy their off duty time. When an individuals or a groups good time begins to interfere with others ability to have a good time; a line has been crossed. Examples of Soldiers crossing this line are loud music in motor vehicles, using loud and profane language in public places, as well as having functions at home which will disturb our neighbors. We are professionals; our teammates, our units, and our Army is expecting us to conduct ourselves in a disciplined and professional manner.

Public Establishments:

a. When visiting on post and off post public establishments, service members must be especially courteous and conduct themselves in a manner that does not bring discredit upon themselves, Fort Hood, or the Armed Forces.

b. Consumption of alcoholic beverages off the installation while in duty uniform is strictly prohibited. Soldiers in uniform may not purchase alcoholic beverages until after 1630 on normal duty days.

Refer to: III Corps and FH Regulation 210-65.

c. Off-Duty Appearance: Service members shall know and comply with the dress codes of the establishments they visit. In general, the professional atmosphere and high standards of appearance maintained by uniformed military personnel in III Corps and Fort Hood should carry over into the selection of civilian attire. Wear of appropriate attire avoids public embarrassment and promotes a sense of community. It also assists in the orderly accomplishment of the installation's mission and fosters loyalty, discipline, and morale of Soldiers. The following articles of civilian clothing and appearance are inappropriate for wear in service and off-post facilities:

(1) Clothing worn as an outer- garment which is obviously intended to be worn as an undergarment. This does not include T-shirts.

(2) Clothing with obscene, slanderous, or vulgar words or drawing to include clothing which makes disparaging comments concerning the US Government.

For drivers under the age of 21, and any detectable amount of blood alcohol, which typically equates to a .02% BAC, exceeds the legal limit for driving while intoxicated. Service members under the age of 21 shall not consume alcohol on or off post.

Radios, Stereos, MP3, CD Players:

a. Loud playing of any audio device in public places, housing areas, billets, on and off post, may violate Texas statutes, local ordinances, and Fort Hood policies. Also, when your music is too loud, it's a safety issue for Soldiers because they can't hear anything else. It will be considered a violation of Texas Penal Code, Section 42.01 (a) (5) and this regulation when:

(1) Music, vibrations, or other sounds emanating from a vehicle with its windows closed can be heard from 10 or more feet from the vehicle.

This includes vehicles at the halt on an active road way, i.e. at stop lights and signs. The wearing of portable headphones, earphones, ear or other listening devices while jogging/running, bicycling, or skating/skateboarding on or adjacent to roadways or roadway intersections on DOD installations is prohibited. Headphones are authorized on approved secure running paths but must be removed prior to entering any area adjacent to roadways.

d. Soldiers will not wear headphones while conducting PT between the hours of 0630-0745 while wearing the IPFU in the gym.

Privately Owned Vehicles:

a. Vehicles will not display any stickers, decals, ornaments, etc. which are offensive or sexually explicit. To avoid distracting other drivers and reduce the likelihood of accidents, the display of offensive bumper stickers, windows signs or other markings, items or accessories on or in a motor vehicle which are visible to other drivers is prohibited. The privilege to operate a vehicle on this installation is reserved for persons of maturity, responsibility, sobriety, and to those who show good judgment.

b. At no time will POVs enter the motor pool without approval from the first O-5 in the Chain of Command. In addition POVs are not authorized in training areas without the necessary Range Pass from Range Operations.

Composite Risk Management

Composite Risk Management is the process of identifying Hazards and controlling Risk to protect the force. Its five steps represent a logical and systematic thought process from which users develop tools, techniques and procedures for applying risk management in their areas of responsibility. It is a continuous process applicable to any situation and environment.

RISK MANAGEMENT CARD

Risk management is a part of everything we do. Risk Management is the process of identifying and controlling hazards and making risk decisions to protect the force. It is applicable to any mission or environment, on or off duty.

THE FIVE STEP RISK MANAGEMENT PROCESS

1. IDENTIFYING HAZARDS to the force. Consider all aspects of current and future situations, environment, and known historical problem areas.
2. ASSESS HAZARDS to determine risk. Assess the impact of each hazard in terms of potential loss based on probability and severity.
3. DEVELOP CONTROLS AND MAKE DECISIONS that eliminate the hazard or reduce risk.
 - A. Reassess hazards given the controls.
 - B. Determine the proper decision authority.
4. IMPLEMENT CONTROLS that will eliminate the hazard or reduce its risk.
5. SUPERVISE AND EVALUATE. Enforce standards and controls. Evaluate the effect of controls and adjust or update as necessary.
