The new 947,000 square foot medical facility, which is approximately 60 percent larger than the existing 45-year old hospital, specifically addresses Fort Hood's most pressing needs in the areas of behavioral health, medical/surgical specialty clinics and pediatric primary care.

The new medical center will have multiple portals of care with a six-story hospital tower, two two-story out-patient clinics, one three-story out-patient clinic, and three four-level parking garages all connected by an easy-to-navigate concourse.
