

WOUNDED WARRIOR PAIN CARE PHYSICIANS

JAMES S. HOUSTON, M.D. CDR, MC, USN

Staff Anesthesiologist, WRNMMC

Director, Wounded Warrior Pain Management Initiative

Chief, Division of Pain Medicine and Director, Interventional Pain Clinic

Dr. Houston currently serves as the Director of the Wounded Warrior Pain Management Initiative and Chief of the Division of Pain Medicine and Director of the WRNMMC Interventional Pain Clinic. CDR Houston's current research and program interest include wounded warrior care, multidisciplinary perioperative pain management, IV ketamine, cancer pain collaboration, percutaneous intradiscal therapies, implantable devices, and DOD-wide training and certification of acupuncture specialist. In serving as Chair on the Sole Provider Committee, WRAMC he is dedicated to helping expand the program and ensuring that others will understand the importance of such a program in continuity of care for medications. Also, in 2005 through the Helms Medical Institute he received accreditation at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA for Medical Acupuncture. In 2005 and 2006, Dr. Houston developed and implemented the first inpatient Acupuncture Pain Service at John Hopkins Hospital.

WOUNDED WARRIOR PAIN CARE PHYSICIANS

DR. JOAN ORDMAN, MD

Director of Integrative Medicine, Wounded Warrior Pain Initiative, Chief of Acupuncture Services

Dr. Ordman serves as the Director of Integrative Medicine, Chief of Acupuncture Services in the Wounded Warrior Pain Initiative Program at WRNMMC. She is certified in Internal Medicine, Holistic Medicine, and Acupuncture and maintained her own private practice for over 20 years. Dr. Ordman is very active in the American Association of Medical Acupuncture-Maryland Chapter and currently the President of this society. Also, since 1998 she has done numerous lectures and presentations on the topic of Integrative Medicine.

AUBREY VERDUN, MD

Staff Anesthesiologist and Pain Specialist at the WRNMMC

Dr. Verdun is currently a staff Anesthesiologist and Pain Specialist that provides services in the Interventional Pain Clinic and Wounded Warrior Clinic in WRNMMC, Bethesda. He completed his fellowship at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, MD. His work experiences spans from rotations in adult and pediatric cardiac anesthesia and regional pain for orthopedic procedure. He has been involved in a variety of presentation concerning medical and interventional therapies for pain.

