

When you look at something in your hand,
you look at nothing out your windshield.

