I. Legislative Language

This document responds to the language set forth in House Report 113-481, accompanying the Fiscal Year (FY) 2015 Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Appropriations Act, (P.L. 114-4).

House Report 113-481 states:

In 2013, 36,007 aliens with criminal records were released from ICE detention and placed on bond, order of recognizance, order of supervision, ATD, or parole. These releases were either at the discretion of ICE officers based on assessments of flight risk and risk to public safety; as a result of an order from an immigration judge from the Executive Office for Immigration Review at DOJ; or because a release was required under the Zadvydas Supreme Court decision, which applies to long-term detainees with removal orders for whom ICE can find no country willing to accept them.

ICE is directed to expeditiously provide a report of its official findings regarding the circumstances of each of these releases from detention and to post the findings on its public-facing website.

II. Background

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) is the principal criminal investigative arm of DHS and one of the three Department components charged with the civil enforcement of the Nation's immigration laws. ICE's primary mission is to protect national security, public safety, and the integrity of the Nation's borders through the criminal and civil enforcement of federal laws governing border control, customs, trade, and immigration. In order to effectively and efficiently pursue its immigration mission, ICE must prioritize the use of its enforcement personnel, detention space, and removal resources.

ICE makes custody determinations on a case-by-case basis, taking into consideration various factors to determine if an alien poses a threat to national security, a risk to public safety, or a flight risk. Aliens released from ICE custody in an exercise of the agency's discretion and in accordance with existing laws, regulations, court orders, and policies, may be released either due to eligibility for bond - pursuant to Section 236 of the Immigration and Nationality Act - or for reasons such as deteriorated health, advanced age, or another case-specific reason. Individuals released from ICE custody may be required to post bond, enroll in the Alternatives to Detention Program, or be subject to other conditions of release, such as travel restrictions.

ICE manages all pending cases in removal proceedings and after issuance of a final order of removal, but the detention and release framework outlined within the Immigration and Nationality Act is complex and multi-faceted. Both DHS and the Department of Justice's Executive Office for Immigration Review have considerable discretion in deciding whether individual aliens should remain in custody pending their removal from the United States.

ICE exercises discretion with regard to custody and release determinations in accordance with its enforcement priorities, which place top priority on national security threats and convicted felons, as well as those apprehended at the border or ports of entry while attempting to enter the United States unlawfully.<sup>1</sup> In cases where the decision to release an alien from ICE custody is not based on ICE's discretion, an alien may be released pursuant to an individual court order or in accordance with legal precedent, such as the

<sup>1</sup> Ensuring that ICE's enforcement policies and procedures are as well suited as possible to protect national security and public safety is paramount. To this end, Secretary Johnson directed ICE to review its policies and procedures for making custody determinations for individuals previously convicted of a criminal offense. As a result of this review, in March 2015, ICE implemented enhanced oversight procedures requiring additional supervisory review prior to the discretionary release of Level 1 criminal aliens from ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations custody. ICE also has implemented regular Headquarters reviews of certain Level 1 criminal alien releases to ensure compliance with current guidance and procedures pertaining to such determinations.

U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678 (2001).<sup>2</sup> Regardless of the reason for the release, any alien not detained in ICE custody who fails to depart the United States following the issuance of a final order of removal, deportation, or exclusion is deemed a "fugitive alien." ICE locates and arrests ICE fugitives consistent with the Agency's enforcement priorities.

Between October 1, 2012, and September 30, 2013, ICE released 36,007 criminal aliens from its custody, either as a matter of discretion or controlling law, pending removal proceedings or the removal process. Of the 36,007 released, 3,652 were released pursuant to Zadvydas (10 percent); 10,532 were released pursuant to an immigration judge's order (29 percent); and the remaining 21,823 were released at ICE's discretion (61 percent). ICE used several different release mechanisms to book aliens out of custody in FY 2013, including orders of supervision, orders of release on recognizance, and bond. Each of the released aliens had case-specific supervision requirements, such as enrollment in the Alternatives to Detention Program, travel restrictions, and/or in-person office visits. ICE continues to monitor and make use of appropriate supervision mechanisms to ensure public safety in such cases. For FY 2013, the vast majority of criminal convictions associated with the 36,007 individuals were for either general traffic offenses (17,229) or driving under the influence of liquor (15,635).

<sup>2</sup> The Supreme Court's decision in Zadvydas v. Davis, in effect, limited the Agency's authority to detain aliens with final orders of removal to that period of time when removal is significantly likely in the reasonably foreseeable future. As such, after a presumptively reasonable 180-day period, detention is generally only permissible if there is a significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.

III. Data Report

A. Data and Analysis

Please see Appendix A for a list that includes the following information as it pertains to ICE's findings with regard to the 36,007 criminal aliens released from ICE custody in FY 2013:

- Country of Citizenship
- Most Serious Criminal Conviction
- Category of Release
- Release Reason/ Book Out Code
- State of Detention Facility Tied to Latest Release
- Whether the individual was subject to a final Order of Removal

In summary, of the 36,007, 3,652 were released pursuant to Zadvydas (10 percent); 10,532 pursuant to an immigration judge's order (29 percent); and the remaining at ICE's discretion (61 percent). A total of 87,818 specific criminal convictions were associated with the 36,007 criminal aliens released; see Appendix B for a breakdown of the types of specific criminal convictions associated with these aliens.

B. Data Sources

The Enforce Alien Removal Module is the principal source of data for this report. It provides both deportation officers and administrators with support to manage dockets and caseloads effectively. The system is maintained by electronic data systems with servers located at the Stennis Data Center in Gulfport, Mississippi, and the Rockville Data Center in Rockville, Maryland.

The Enforcement Integrated Database (EID) is an ICE case management system that captures and maintains information related to the investigation, arrest, booking, detention, and removal of persons encountered during immigration and criminal law enforcement investigations and operations conducted by ICE and U.S. Customs and Border Protection. The ICE Integrated Decision Support System is a reporting sub system of EID, which enables comprehensive reporting about criminal aliens throughout the alien identification, apprehension, and removal process. The Enforce Alien Detention Module is an application that draws data from EID and supports ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations by collecting, tracking, and storing data on subject detention records and detention facilities.

Notes:

Zadvydas data is based on the following methodology: 1. All active cases booked out with a final order of removal and a release reason of "Order of Supervision" and for which the final order was issued 90 days prior to the release and 2. All active cases with citizens from recalcitrant countries that have been booked out of detention with a release reason of "Order of Supervision."

The "ICE Discretion" category of release includes cases in which a travel document could not be obtained by an ICE officer or agent, but which do not fit the definition of releases pursuant to Zadvydas.

"Release Reason/Book Out Code" refers to and is based upon the release reason code noted by ICE officers and agents as the reason of release in ICE's system of record.

Cases classified with "Prosecutorial Discretion" and "ATD" release reasons were placed on an Order of Recognizance or an Order of Supervision.

ATD Types are defined as Full Service (FS) component or Technology Only (TO) component.

Due to data entry errors, an earlier breakdown of criminal convictions associated with criminal aliens released in Fiscal Year 2013 incorrectly listed that one alien associated with a most serious criminal conviction of treason/sabotage had been released. This alien had actually been convicted of a nonviolent crime, Obstructing Justice, and was released pursuant to an immigration judge's determination. Similarly, an earlier breakdown incorrectly listed that one alien associated with a most serious criminal conviction of Homicide-Willful Kill-Public Official-Gun had been released. This alien had actually been convicted of Homicide-Negligent Manslaughter-Weapon and was released pursuant to Zadvydas. This chart has been updated accordingly.

Appendix B. Breakdown of the Types of Specific Criminal Convictions Associated with Criminal Aliens Placed in a Noncustodial Setting in Fiscal Year 2013

The following table provides a breakdown of the types of specific criminal convictions associated with the 36,007 criminal aliens placed in a noncustodial setting in Fiscal Year 2013. An alien may have more than one criminal conviction. As such, the total number of criminal convictions is greater than the total number of criminal aliens released from ICE custody.
