Incirlik Air Base

Incirlik Air Base is located seven miles from Adana, Turkey. About 1,500 military members are assigned here.

The mission of the 39th Air Base Wing is to support and protect U.S. and NATO assets and people throughout Turkey while providing a full spectrum of capabilities to the warfighter. The 39 ABW also supports two geographically separated units.

Winning teamwork, strategic location and robust infrastructure combine to ensure the success of Team Incirlik.

Close to many of the world's potential trouble spots, Incirlik is an important base in NATO's Southern Region.

The 39 ABW helps protect U.S. and NATO interests in the Southern Region by providing a responsive staging and operational air base ready to project integrated, forward-based air power.

Although the 39th Air Base Wing has no permanently assigned U.S. Air Force aircraft, it provides excellent facilities and supports various training deployments and regional exercises, serves as a key communications link for National Command Authority taskings and provides hub support for various units.

An Air Mobility Command tenant unit at Incirlik, the 728th Air Mobility Squadron, provides air transport of passengers and cargo. It moves 70 percent of all air sustainment cargo going into Afghanistan.
