

JOINT BASE CELEBRATES FUN FOURTH

Karen S. Spangler
Managing Editor

Military families celebrated the Fourth of July in grand style on Sunday at events at Ward Field and Hickam Harbor at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

A variety of water and beach activities highlighted the 52nd Annual All-American Beach Blast at the harbor. Family-oriented events included a rock-climbing wall, inflatable play structures, rides, magic shows and hot dog and pie-eating contests.

Families also had an opportunity to test their boat-building skills at the "build-a-boat" competition. Armed with duct tape and cardboard, participants did their best to construct seaworthy boats which could float two people without the boat sinking.

Headlining the main stage oceanside were some of Hawaii's entertainers, including Black Square, Kings of Spade and The Throwdowns. The Air Force Band of the Pacific, Hana Hou, added their own special styling to the music venue.

Meanwhile, back at Ward Field, families enjoyed a medley of fun but competitive activities during the outrageous contests and games. With potato sack races, a frozen T-shirt contest, water relay, balloon shaving, donut eating on a string and tug-o-war, there was something for just about everyone.

Keiki were treated to pony rides, a petting zoo an Xpress

Train and could also try out the batting cage.

Other featured events included a Texas hold 'em poker tournament and exhibitions by the gals from Pacific Roller Derby.

Michelle Branch, Grammy-award winning singer and songwriter, and comedian and actor Sinbad topped the list of entertainment at the main stage of the July 4 Fireworks Spectacular.

At the end of the day's activities, separate fireworks shows lit up the skies over JBPHH, treating spectators to a dazzling presentation and reminders of the reasons for the July 4 celebrations.

Early merry-go-round lifts Reagan to softball title

USS Reagan (CVN 76) captured the first of two softball tournaments in the 2010 Rim of the Pacific (RIMPAC) games by beating Navy Information Operations Command (NIOC) Hawaii, 25-1, in the championship showdown at Millican Field, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, on July 1.

A second tournament will be on July 31 to Aug. 1. Wins in the first round of games count toward the RIMPAC Cup. Competition points are awarded for teams or individuals winning selected tournaments or competitions.

The win was the second mercy-rule victory of the day for Reagan, which subdued USS Chancellorsville (CG 62), 25-8, in a semi-final game, before it went on to defeat NIOC.

In that semi-final, Reagan hitters ended the top of the fifth by scoring 12 runs with the big blow coming off the bat of cleanup hitter Kirk Myers, a retired senior chief electronics technician who now works on the Reagan as a member of the fleet systems engineering team.

With one out and bases jammed full of teammates, Myers launched a deep fly ball that sailed over the left-field fence and into the parking lot for a grand slam.

Riding the momentum of its final at-bat against Chancellorsville, Reagan picked up right where it left off by scoring 23 runs in the first inning against NIOC.

In the breakout inning, Reagan batted around the order three times and rapped out 21 hits that included 18 singles to go along with two doubles and an inside-the-park home run.

A total of 15 players stepped up to the plate and scored 13 runs, before Reagan recorded its first out of the inning.

Leadoff hitter Fire Controlman West Gordon got three hits in his three at-bats in the first. Gordon's second hit of the inning was a bases-clearing, three-run double that put Reagan up by a score of 10-0.

"If everyone gets a base hit, that's how you win games," said Gordon about the team's huge first inning.

Myers, who got two singles and also drove in three runs in the first, said that once the team got on a roll, things just snowballed from that point on.

"I was surprised about the way we started," said Myers. "We hadn't been hitting the ball well, but that first inning was something."

The lead was all Ensign Caleb Tucker, pitcher for Reagan, needed as he allowed only three singles and a walk in posting three scoreless innings against a tough NIOC batting order before taking himself out of the game.

Tucker admitted that while that large advantage helped him relax and focus on the mound, he wasn't about to take anything for granted.

"I know it's a big hole to look up from, but the thing to remember is that it's softball," noted Tucker. "We did it and they (NIOC) could do it. They're a good team. They got here for a reason."

In building up its commanding lead, Tucker stated that Reagan hitters took note of the windy conditions at Millican and followed a simple strategy: hit the ball to the open spaces.

"With the wind, you're not going to try and hit the long ball," said Tucker. "So it was to get the little base hits. One base at a time allowed us to go all the way around the bases."

Cryptologic Technician (Maintenance) 1st Class Darrell Herschel, who was pitcher for NIOC, gave Reagan batters credit for getting their team off to a great start, but added that he would love to play them again.

"Anytime you can get to the championship game, it's a feat in itself," said Herschel, whose NIOC squad is in first place in the Ashore Intramural Softball League. "It was fun to play those guys (Reagan). Hopefully, we'll see them again in the second tournament."

Meanwhile, Gordon summed up Reagan's title by saying that he felt the team had a good chance of winning it all, as it prepared to do battle in the four-day, single-elimination tournament.

"Everyone has played together for awhile," said Gordon. "This is the best team I've ever played on."

VA Secretary Eric Shinseki to keynote WWII 65th anniversary ceremony

USS Missouri Memorial Association

The Battleship Missouri Memorial will mark the 65th anniversary of Imperial Japan's formal World War II surrender with a free public ceremony, titled "The End of World War II," from 8 to 9:30 a.m. Sept. 2 at the Battleship Missouri Memorial in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Keynote remarks will be provided by U.S. Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinseki, retired four-star Army general, former Army chief of staff and combat veteran. U.S. Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, who received the Medal of Honor for his service in WWII, will also address attendees, sharing his thoughts and memories of the war.

The ceremony will be the centerpiece of a week of commemorative events, providing an opportunity to remember the end of history's most devastating war in the presence of the USS Arizona Memorial and the Battleship Missouri — symbolic "bookends" of America's role in WWII.

"Commemoration Week is a unique opportunity to memorialize one of the most significant dates in world history with a pilgrimage to Pearl Harbor, an experience that in recent years has grown well beyond a single day and now includes five distinct historic sites," said Michael Carr, president and chief operating officer of the Battleship Missouri Memorial. (In addition to the USS Arizona Memorial and Battleship Missouri Memorial, Pearl Harbor historic sites include the USS Bowfin Submarine Museum and Park, Pacific Aviation Museum — Pearl Harbor and USS Oklahoma Memorial.)

Carr added, "Just in time for the 65th anniversary commemoration, the Missouri returned from drydock in spectacular shape and fortified against the elements to stand the test to time as a floating memorial, watching over the nearby Arizona. We invite first-time and returning visitors alike to explore the new features of our historical and educational visitor experiences."

Commemoration Week events will also include the "Lessons of War and Peace" history conference from Aug. 27 to 29, "Night of American Heroes" celebration dinner on Sept. 3 from 5 to 9 p.m., and more.

The Battleship Missouri Memorial's summer operating hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Reagan decks Reuben James for hoops title

Randy Dela Cruz

Contributing Writer

USS Ronald Reagan (CVN 76) built upon a 19-10 lead at halftime to beat USS Reuben James (FFG 57), 46-25, in the championship game of the 2010 Rim of the Pacific (RIMPAC) games basketball tournament at Bloch Arena, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, on July 2.

Reagan took control of the game in the first half on the play of its backcourt duo of Culinary Specialist 3rd Class John Smith and Aviation Boatswain's Mate (Fuel) Airman Rodrick Williams, whose two-man game accounted for 12 of the team's 19 first-half points.

Then in the second half, Reagan big man Aviation Boatswain's Mate (Equipment) 3rd Class Anthony Armstrong led the team's half-court attack by controlling the paint with his size and quickness.

Armstrong's intimidating presence under the hoop almost single handedly kept Reuben James from mounting a comeback in the second half.

The Reagan post-player led all scorers with 13 points, with nine of his total coming in the closing minutes of the game.

"The guards were playing their game, so the big men had to step up and rebound and put the ball back in," said Armstrong. "Every time we get the ball, we want to push. It's dependent on our big men to get the ball out to our wing so that we can get out and run."

Smith, who chipped in with two huge three-point bombs in the first half, said that the Reagan wanted to keep the pressure on from the opening bell, after seeing that the Reuben James had just finished its semi-final game just prior to the title showdown.

Although Reuben James twice narrowed the margin

Culinary Specialist 3rd Class John Smith of USS Ronald Reagan (CVN 76) sails into the lane for two of his nine points against USS Reuben James (FFG 57) during the championship game of the 2010 Rim of the Pacific (RIMPAC) games basketball tournament at Bloch Arena, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, on July 2. Reagan defeated Reuben James, 46-25, to win the title.

down to four points in the first half, players on the Reagan answered each time with clutch shots to maintain its lead.

"Everybody played with heart," said Smith. "We didn't give up on any possession. Everybody wanted to win everything."

In the second half, Reuben James opened up by immediately scoring two baskets to cut the lead down to 19-14.

However, Williams threw down a basket to break the short run by Reuben James. Reagan then went on to score 10 unanswered points to gain full control of the game.

Armstrong's basket and one with 6:52 remaining on the clock extended Reagan's lead to 14 at 32-18 and the rout was on.

Operations Specialist Seaman David Smith of Reuben James said that, in the end, Reagan had too much firepower to overcome.

"They had a lot of athleticism on their squad," noted Smith, who led all Reuben James scorers with 11 points. "They (Reagan) got us tired and was able to get fast-break points on us. They out-hustled us."

While David Smith offered no excuses for the loss, John Smith praised Reuben James for its all-out effort despite playing back-to-back games.

"I have to give it up to them," stated Smith, who pumped in a total of nine points. "They were probably a little fatigued."

In looking over the strong field of teams in the five-day tournament, Armstrong said that it felt very satisfying to walk away with the event's championship trophy.

Armstrong pointed out that the title is a reflection of the way things are done aboard the Reagan.

"This says a lot about the Reagan," said Armstrong. "That's the way we practice and that's the way we play. And we train just as hard."

Hickam Community Housing to receive brand makeover

Hickam Community Housing LLC

On Aug. 2, Hickam Community Housing will re-invent itself. It will be re-named "Hickam Communities" and debut a new logo and graphic brand elements. The re-branding is part of a nationwide initiative taking place at military residential communities in the Actus Lend Lease portfolio, which is intended to create a family of Actus brands.

"Changing our name to Hickam Communities and adopting a new logo will identify and refresh our brand while retaining identification with Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

Our new logo and graphic brand elements truly reflect the beauty of our location and help position us as a desirable private community for military families," said Jerry Schmitz, project director.

Associated with the re-branding will be a new advertising tag line, "Exclusive coastal living within your reach." With family-oriented neighborhoods, private beach access and recreational amenities, Hickam Communities hopes to communicate a peaceful and serene, yet fun community for Airmen and their families.

Actus is the nation's leader in public/private community development with a portfolio that includes 11 military privatization projects across the country.

Forest City encourages residents to complete CEL resident satisfaction surveys

Natasha N. Jackson

Community Services

Forest City Residential
Management, Inc. Navy Family
Housing

Forest City Residential Management (FCRM) thanks everyone who participated in the 2010 CEL & Associates resident satisfaction survey. Now they encourage residents to turn the surveys in as soon as possible. The postage is pre-paid, so residents can simply drop the completed surveys into the mail. Residents also have the option of leaving completed surveys at their local resident services office (RSO) and, at the same time, enjoy freshly baked cookies.

Forest City took resident satisfaction into their own hands, literally, when Forest City employees hand-delivered 4,500 CEL & Associates resident satisfaction surveys in three days. Kari Diaz, general manager, encourages residents to "Strive for five way up high." According to FCRM, this year is no exception. FCRM is committed to pushing the envelope all year, every year, with improved services for their valued residents.

Survey season was also a time for departments that would not normally have direct contact with the residents to meet and greet in the community. This massive delivery effort was made possible because of the Forest City's shared mission of resident satisfaction across all departments.

The CEL survey will allow residents to grade Forest City on management, landscaping, maintenance, security and more. A score of five is the best mark on the survey; therefore, Forest City, 'strives for 5.'

Last year Forest City, received eight A-list awards which represent the highest in real estate customer satisfaction. FCRM hopes to exceed last year's satisfaction numbers.

The Forest City Residential Management (FCRM) team was pleased with the feedback from valued residents. "The residents we connected with during deliveries provided extremely positive feedback and some great neighbors even offered to put on their tennis shoes and help deliver the surveys," said Diaz.

"Our team had a tremendous time engaging with residents during the delivery process. This fun survey process is something we all look forward to each year. Resident feedback is vital to the success of the program because it helps us truly understand where improvements have made a positive difference in quality of life for our residents. Receiving constructive comments and suggestions from residents allows us to analyze where we can improve moving forward," she said.

Resident participation and submission of the surveys are the most important parts of the survey process. The residents are encouraged to make their voices heard by submitting their surveys by mail or returning surveys into their RSO as soon as possible. The delivery is an opportunity for FCRM to address immediate needs and they want to begin work on resident concerns right away.

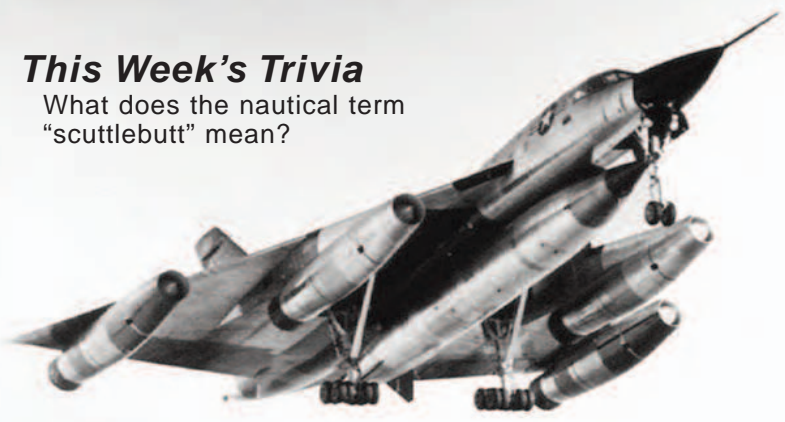

Resident comments will serve as the play list for resident satisfaction and exceptional service throughout the year. Their goal is 100 percent resident participation which will make this effort a joint success. If residents have any questions, they should call their resident services office for assistance at any time.

Operation 'Hele On' gives military children a chance to 'ship out'

Story and photos by

Contributing Writer

For many military families, deployments can be a difficult fact of life. But thanks to Operation "Hele On," a Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Warfighter and Family Services initiative, military children are given a chance to better understand what many of their active duty parents face by becoming a military member for a day.

Since 2004, Operation "Hele On" has become an annual youth deployment day that gives children of Air Force and Navy families an opportunity to go through a mock deployment processing line at a simulated Air Force base. The term "Hele On" is Hawaiian, meaning "ready go."

This year's event will be held on Aug. 20 from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will begin at Makai Recreation Center on Kuntz Avenue near Hickam Shoppette at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

According to Anna Flowers, flight chief for Warfighter and Family Services office, the mission of Operation "Hele On" is to expose military youth to the active duty lifestyle, so many can emerge with better coping skills when dealing with the difficulties associated with a parent's deployment.

"The focus of Operation 'Hele On' is to help children get a better understanding of what their parents go through when they deploy," Flowers said. "One of the most difficult things families experience during deployments is that of keeping a strong connection over distance. We have found that if children can relate to the process, they are able to understand more and cope better when it is time for their parents to leave."

Flowers said that according to a survey taken last year, 98 percent of children who participated in Operation "Hele On" felt they were better able to identify with the deployment process and what their parents go through when they deploy.

"By going through this process, children are having a great time and are learning how to relate to their parents," she explained. "We want them to have that experience so when their parents deploy, their kids will understand and can say 'I did that, too.'"

Flowers said that children who participate in Operation "Hele On" will be issued dog tags and mobility bags and will have numerous military experiences such as going through a mobility processing line, boarding a cargo aircraft, and visiting a medical moulage.

"It is going to be a full day, jam-packed with lots of great activities and demonstrations," she said. "In the morning, we will have Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam deputy commander, Col. Charles [Rusty] Baumgardner, 'welcome' the troops. Then the kids will be issued their dog tags and get to do things like having secret intelligence briefings or see a bomb squadron demonstration. We hope this will be a great opportunity for them to learn what many of their parents experience firsthand," she added.

The program, traditionally held for only Air Force children, has been opened up this year to include the youth of Navy families.

"Last year, we had 160 children participate," she said. "So this year, we are accepting applications for the first 200 children. It is a first come, first served process, so please get your applications in as soon as possible."

Flowers also added that Operation "Hele On" would not be possible without the help of numerous active duty personnel who are able to serve as volunteers.

"We are looking for at least 100 volunteers that will help out with everything from being training instructors (TIs) to lunch preparation or photography or the initial setup and breakdown of the event," she said.

Flowers said she hopes that this year interested Navy ship and shore commands will step forward to give the program more diversity as well as incorporate naval traditions into the event.

"We want to encourage any kind of partnership between Air Force and Navy," she said. "We are in need of any seasoned non-commissioned officers [NCOs] or E7s and above that can serve as training instructors and E-6s that could serve as team leads [TI assistants]. They will be instrumental in helping lead the troops and teaching them drills."

Flowers also thinks the program could be beneficial to family members of individual augmentees (IAs).

"The IA process is similar to the deployment process of the Air Force," she noted. "Traditionally, the Navy has deployed entire ships or [vessels] of people at one time. But recently, there has been an increase of IAs the Navy has been sending out in support of Army missions. Understanding that deployment process may be of interest to their family members."

Operation "Hele On" is free of charge to participants. Eligible participants must be children of active duty Air Force or Navy families and be between the ages of nine and 14 years old. Registration deadline for participants and volunteers is Aug. 6. For application packets, visit www2.hickam.af.mil/units/15mssaafrf.

Application packets must be dropped off at Warfighter and Family Service Centers located at 655 Vickers Ave., building 1105 at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam or at the second floor receptionist's desk at Moanalua Service Center (formerly FFSC), located at 4827 Bougainville Drive. For more information on Operation "Hele On," visit www.greatlifeohawaii.com. To volunteer for Operation "Hele On," contact Warfighter and Family Services at 449-0300.
