JOINT BASE PEARL HARBOR-HICKAM TO OBSERVE

AFRICAN AMERICAN

History Month

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Public Affairs

National African American History Month is an annual celebration of achievements by African Americans and a time for recognizing the central role they have played in the history of the United States.

In observance of African American History Month, celebrated each year during the month of February, Navy Region Hawaii and Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) will celebrate this month's theme "Hallowed Grounds: Sites of African American Memories."

Today, the JBPHH diversity and special observance committee will present a cultural awareness observance at Nelles Chapel at 10 a.m. Following the observance, a special meal will take place at the Silver Dolphin Bistro from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The meal is open to U.S. military, Department of Defense civilians and active duty family members with a valid ID card. The cost of the meal is $5.55 per person.

Menu items will include shrimp and chicken gumbo soup, Moroccan Shabbat catfish, bobotie (meatloaf), Southern fried chicken, barbecue pork spare ribs, mashed potatoes, baked macaroni and cheese, herbed green beans and glazed carrots. The meal will also include a salad bar and fresh fruit, hot sweet cornbread, dinner rolls and assorted desserts.

In the upcoming weeks, a Gospel Fest and a Taste of Soul will be held at the Nelles Chapel on Feb. 27 at 1 p.m.

According to the Defense Equal Opportunity Management Institute, to commemorate and celebrate the contributions to the nation made by people of African descent, Black History Month had its origins in 1915 when American historian and author Dr. Carter G. Woodson founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. Known as the "Father of Black History," Woodson founded the celebration he called "Negro History Week" in 1926. He selected the second week of February because it fell between the birthdays of the famed orator and abolitionist Frederick Douglass and President Abraham Lincoln. In 1976, the celebration expanded to include the entire month.

Hickam CDDAR team raises P-3 Orion at Kalaeloa Airport

154th Wing Public Affairs

Airmen from the Hawaii Air National Guard 154th Maintenance Squadron (MXS), and active duty 15th MXS successfully completed a lift of a P-3 Orion Aircraft at Kalaeloa Airport, Jan. 27.

Lifting of the P-3 was part of an annual training exercise for Hickam's Crash, Damaged, Disabled Aircraft, Recovery (CDDAR) team.

"It (CDDAR) is a team of highly trained and specialized maintainers who work to quickly remove and recover a disabled aircraft with the goal of minimizing additional damage," said Maj. Brian S. Mix, 15th MXS commander. "By doing so we can re-open the airbase or airport as quickly as possible while hopefully maintaining the aircraft in such a condition that it can be fully repaired and returned to service."

Once investigative and safety operations have been completed, the CDDAR team utilizes a wide range of techniques and equipment to safely remove a disabled aircraft.

"The team's capabilities cover the full spectrum of incident responses from simply towing an aircraft out of the dirt to lifting it off the ground with specialized air bags and cranes," said Mix.

Lifting the P-3 required close coordination and constant communication between the personnel operating five separate lift bag stations and six tethering positions. The exercise provided an opportunity for both initial and recurrent training as well as the inspection of CDDAR equipment.

"The P-3 lift included challenges such as multiple lift stations, wing angle, weight and balance, and multiple team coordination," said Chief Master Sgt. Edward Essman, 154th MXS Aircraft Maintenance Manager. "Assigned team chiefs for the training had to safely coordinate the stations to evenly lift the P-3 to a working height that would allow a successful recovery."

According to Essman, no one lift or recovery operation is the same; each situation requires a tailored approach.

"Every scenario is different so what type of aircraft, where the incident occurred, and what type of incident happened would factor into our response posture," said Essman. "In most instances, we would be responding with the crash investigators and help them preserve any evidence to be used in their investigation."

In addition to guard and active duty airmen, exercise participants included Army, Coast Guard, and civilian personnel.

"Total force integration enjoyed here is important," said Essman. "We enjoy working and training with multiple services and are able to share lessons learned and improve response capability by building off each other's knowledge."

According to Essman, Hickam's CDDAR team has been called to respond to a few real world instances. In each of those cases, training such as January's P-3 lift has proven invaluable.

"Few functions require more precise individual and team actions, yet are provided even fewer occasions in which the individual and team can become proficient through actual hands on experience," said Essman.

Naval Air Museum Barbers Point provided the decommission P-3 aircraft used in the exercise.

25th ASOS Airman saves drowning civilian

Staff Sgt. Christopher Stoltz
15th Wing Public Affairs

Air Force Staff Sgt. John E. Kinsley III, tactical air control party specialist (TACP) of the 25th Air Support Operations Squadron recently rescued a kayaker from potential drowning off the coast of Waialua on the North Shore.

"I was enjoying a day on the beach with my family when we noticed a kayaker practicing in the waves, then all of a sudden, we saw the kayak coming into shore, but the kayaker wasn't inside," said Kinsley.

"I heard a cry for help and saw the kayaker caught in a riptide. Immediately, I grabbed my child's boogie board and swam towards the kayaker as I battled 10 to 15 foot waves in the process," Kinsley added.

"As I got closer to the kayaker, he got a burst of motivation and started making his way toward me," said Kinsley. "I grabbed onto him, gave him the boogie board and made sure he got his breath back before we headed back to shore."

Calvin, who did not provide his last name, was the person in the kayak and shared his perspective of the experience.

"I was kayak surfing a few hundred feet off the beach when my kayak was overturned and swept away. I immediately started swimming toward shore, battling the currents with waves constantly crashing on me," said Calvin. The two swam east along the shore until they were freed from the riptide's grasp. Once they arrived back on the beach, Kinsley made sure Calvin was OK before heading back to his family.

"I guess I didn't even realize what just happened, it was just a relief to see that he was OK," said Kinsley. "I think as a TACP, when you're going through training, they instill the fundamental value of 'never give up,' Kinsley explained. "I was at the right place at the right time."

At the end of the day, Calvin exchanged information with Kinsley and was able to send an email to his chain-of-command, thanking him for his efforts.

"Honestly, I'm not shocked to hear that John didn't hesitate one second when he saw that man's life in danger," said Lt. Col. Russell J. Hall, 25th ASOS commander. "I'm very proud of what Kinsley did. He is a role-model in the 25 ASOS and proves it each day with selfless actions like these."

Ashes of Pearl Harbor survivor scattered at the USS Utah Memorial

Brandon Bosworth

Assistant Editor, Ho'okele

The ashes of Coxswain John Pidcock, a survivor of the Dec. 7, 1941 attack on Pearl Harbor, and his wife, Bonnie, were scattered in the waters near the USS Utah Memorial on Ford Island, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH), during a ceremony held Jan. 27.

"John's loving wife Bonnie thought it would be a great idea to save his remains until after she died, have the family bring both his and hers here to Pearl Harbor to be scattered in these waters so they could be together again, forever," said Jim Taylor, Pearl Harbor survivor liaison, who spoke at the ceremony. "She knew deep in her heart John would want to return to Pearl Harbor and be with his friends and shipmates lost that fateful day in 1941."

Pidcock was born on Jan. 21 1924 in West Virginia. He joined the Navy shortly after his 17th birthday and served throughout World War II.

On Dec. 7, 1941, Pidcock was serving aboard USS Tangier, which was berthed right next to the USS Utah.

"The Tangier's guns were firing immediately after the beginning of the attack," Taylor said. "The crew could actually see the planes dropping their bombs and follow the bombs from the planes to where they hit. Many landed very close to the Tangier but luckily they all missed. John said the Japanese aircraft were so low they could actually see the pilot's faces smiling at them. The crew could also see the rescue efforts of the sailors cutting through the skin of the overturned USS Utah trying to rescue sailors who were trapped inside."

Pidcock's son, Ron "Frog" Pidcock, and Ron's wife, Paulette, flew in from Oklahoma to attend and speak at the service.

"My father was proud of his service aboard the Tangier," he said. "Tangier got three of the Japanese planes that were downed on Dec. 7."

John Pidcock was honorably discharged from the U.S. Navy on Oct. 22, 1945. After the war, he worked in a steel mill for 32 years. He died on New Year's Day, 2008.

The Jan. 27 service

featured a gun salute and the presentation of the burial flag to the family by the Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Honors and Ceremonial Guard. Cmdr. George Mendes, command chaplain at JBPHH, provided the benediction.

"I was overwhelmed," said Ron Pidcock. "This was a wonderful ceremony."

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam supports Military Saves Week

Military and Family Support Center

As part of Military Saves Week 2016, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam urges the community to participate in the program by taking the Military Saves pledge at www.militarysaves.org, Feb. 22-27.

Military Saves Week is an opportunity for service members and their families to set a goal, make a plan and save automatically.

The Military and Family Support Center (MFSC) is partnering with the Veteran Administration (VA), Home Ownership Center, a certified financial planner, and the Social Security Administration to help people save more successfully and encourage more people to save.

This program focuses on helping military families and Department of Defense civilians improve their financial well-being by attending events, workshops and classes offered.

The MFSC is offering a number of free events in support of Military Saves to help people build wealth, not debt.

Upcoming events include:

- A financially savvy retirees event will be held on Feb. 10 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Military and Family Support Center Pearl Harbor. A guest speaker from the Social Security Administration will be present.

- A 5K run/walk will take place on Feb. 20 across from the Hawaii Air National Guard at Hickam. Registration begins at 6:30 a.m. Run time starts at 7:30 a.m. Families are welcome. Register online and bring the waiver form to participate. Registration and waiver forms will also be available on site.

- An investing for retirement event will be held on Feb. 21 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Military and Family Support Center Pearl Harbor. A certified financial planner will participate

- A military saves workshop will take place on Feb. 23 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Military and Family Support Center Pearl Harbor. Speakers from Veteran Affairs and Hawaii Home Ownership Center will participate.

To register for classes, visit www.greatlife-hawaii.com or call 474-1999.

Military Saves Week is coordinated by America Saves and the Consumer Federation of America in partnership with the Department of Defense. The Week is an annual opportunity for organizations to promote good savings behavior and a chance for individuals to assess their own saving status.

Abandoned bicycles to be removed beginning Feb. 12

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam has been experiencing numerous issues with personnel abandoning privately owned bicycles near barracks and other facilities throughout the base.

In early January, Security began placing notices on abandoned bicycles, and those bicycles not claimed after the 30-day period will be removed beginning Feb. 12.

The abandoned bicycles will be sent to the base recycling center.

Reflect on African American History Month

Barack Obama

President of the United States of America

President Barack Obama

America's greatness is a testament to generations of courageous individuals who, in the face of uncomfortable truths, accepted that the work of perfecting our Nation is unending and strived to expand the reach of freedom to all. For too long, our most basic liberties had been denied to African Americans, and today, we pay tribute to countless good-hearted citizens—along the Underground Railroad, aboard a bus in Alabama, and all across our country—who stood up and sat in to help right the wrongs of our past and extend the promise of America to all our people.

During National African American History Month, we recognize these champions of justice and the sacrifices they made to bring us to this point, we honor the contributions of African Americans since our country's beginning, and we recommit to reaching for a day when no person is judged by anything but the content of their character.

From the Revolutionary War through the abolitionist movement, to marches from Selma to Montgomery and across America today, African Americans have remained devoted to the proposition that all of us are created equal, even when their own rights were denied. As we rejoice in the victories won by men and women who believed in the idea of a just and fair America, we remember that, throughout history, our success has been driven by bold individuals who were willing to speak out and change the status quo.

Refusing to accept our Nation's original sin, African Americans bound by the chains of slavery broke free and headed North, and many others who knew slavery was antithetical to our country's conception of human rights and dignity fought to bring their moral imagination to life.

When Jim Crow mocked the advances made by the 13th Amendment, a new generation of men and women galvanized and organized with the same force of faith as their enslaved ancestors. Our Nation's young people still echo the call for equality, bringing attention to disparities that continue to plague our society in ways that mirror the non-violent tactics of the civil rights movement while adapting to modern times.

Let us also not forget those who made the ultimate sacrifice so that we could make our voices heard by exercising our right to vote. Even in the face of legal challenges, every eligible voter should not take for granted what is our right to shape our democracy.

We have made great progress on the journey toward ensuring our ideals ring true for all people. Today, African American high school graduation and college enrollment rates are at an all-time high. The African-American unemployment rate has been halved since its Great Recession peak. More than 2 million African Americans gained health insurance thanks to the Affordable Care Act.

The incarceration rates for African-American men and women fell during each year of this Administration and are at their lowest points in over two decades. Yet challenges persist and obstacles still stand in the way of becoming the country envisioned at our founding, and we would do a disservice to all who came before us if we remained blind to the way past injustices shape the present. The United States is home to 5 percent of the world's population, but 25 percent of the world's prisoners—a disproportionate number of whom are African American—so we must find ways to reform our criminal justice system and ensure that it is fairer and more effective.

While we've seen unemployment rates decrease, many communities, particularly those of color, continue to experience significant gaps in educational and employment opportunities, causing too many young men and women to feel like no matter how hard they try, they may never achieve their dreams.

Our responsibility as citizens is to address the inequalities and injustices that linger, and we must secure our birthright freedoms for all people. As we mark the 40th year of National African American History Month, let us reflect on the sacrifices and contributions made by generations of African Americans, and let us resolve to continue our march toward a day when every person knows the unalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Cast your vote for an accurate COLA survey

Rear Adm. John Fuller

Commander, Navy Region Hawaii and Naval Surface Group Middle Pacific

The Defense Travel Management Office is conducting a Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) Living Pattern Survey (LPS) from now until March 1. It's our opportunity to accurately portray how much it costs to live and work here in Hawaii.

In the 2014 survey, fewer than ten percent of us responded (4,800 of more than 49,000 Sailors). Consequently, the survey was not fully representative, and COLA rates were reduced for most of Hawaii.

This month we have an opportunity to set the record straight and ensure accurate representation. Service members here on Oahu should take the survey at: <http://ow.ly/XRLfj>.

I encourage military spouses to participate in filling out the survey, especially if they are involved in shopping for groceries, clothing, furnishings, entertainment, etc. They can access the survey from a home computer.

The comprehensive but simple survey may take up to an hour to complete. Questions such as "Have you or any member of your household purchased seafood in the past year?" are followed by a fill-in-the-blank section to determine percentages as to where goods are purchased off base.

Like voting, the survey is voluntary and confidential. I consider it a civic duty for our shipmates and their families.

Also like voting, the results are in the hands of the people—our critical enablers—who participate in the process.

U.S. Senator John H. Chafee, namesake to our

Rear Adm. John Fuller

USS Chafee (DDG 90), and a United States Marine veteran of Guadalcanal and Korea, said in 1999, "The Constitution is a document that provides each citizen with broad rights. The right to assemble peacefully; the right to speak and publish freely; the freedom to worship without interference; freedom from unlawful search and seizure; freedom from slavery and involuntary servitude; the right to vote. It is these freedoms that define what it means to be an American."

We who defend the Constitution have a right and a say in our participatory democracy. We have the right to vote even when deployed. And we have the right to cast our vote for the laws that impact our readiness and ability to serve.

The opportunity we have to participate in this month's COLA survey is in accordance with laws 10 USC 136 and 37 USC 403 (c).

Let's be precise and let's be thorough: only completed surveys are counted.

This is our chance to ensure the 2016 COLA results—and subsequent Retail Price Report—are as accurate as possible. Thanks for doing your part.

Carter announces 12 weeks paid military maternity leave, other benefits

Lisa Ferdinando

Department of Defense News, Defense Media Activity

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department is increasing military maternity leave and instituting other changes in an effort to support military families, improve retention and strengthen the force of the future, Defense Secretary Ash Carter said Jan. 28.

Women across the joint force can now take 12 weeks of fully paid maternity leave, Carter told reporters at the Pentagon. The 12-week benefit is double the amount of time for paid maternity leave from when he became defense chief nearly a year ago, he noted.

“This puts the Department of Defense (DoD) in the top tier of institutions nationwide and will have significant influence on decision-making for our military family members,” Carter said.

While being an incentive for attracting and retaining talent, the secretary said, the benefit also promotes the health and wellness of mothers through facilitating recovery and promoting feeding and bonding with the infant.

“Our calculation is quite simple—we want

Defense Secretary Ash Carter discusses reforms to his Force of the Future program to improve the quality of life for military personnel during a briefing at the Pentagon, Jan. 28.

our people to be able to balance two of the most solemn commitments they can ever make: a commitment to serve their country and a commitment to start and support a family,” he said.

The announcement builds on previously announced initiatives on strengthening the force of the future, he said. Those previous reforms, he added, included opening all remaining combat occupations to women.

The maternity leave decision applies to all service members in the active duty component and to reserve-component members serving in a full-time status or on definite active duty recall or mobilization orders in excess of 12 months.

To better support new mothers when they return to work, Carter said, he is requiring that a mothers’ room be made available in every DoD facility with more than 50 women. In addition, the Defense Department is seeking legislation to expand military paternity leave from the current 10-day leave benefit to a 14-day noncontinuous leave benefit, he said.

Navy awards $19.6 million to build new SEAL operations facility in Hawaii

Denise Emsley

Naval Facilities Engineering Command Hawaii

PEARL HARBOR—Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) Hawaii awarded a $19.6 million firm-fixed-price task order under a multiple award construction contract to Bethel-Webcor JV-1, a small business in Anchorage, Alaska, Jan. 25.

The project will construct a waterfront support facility for Naval Special Warfare Group 3 (NSWG-3) at Pearl City Peninsula.

The new facility is to support Navy divers and technicians by providing work space for operations, training, planning and mission support in addition to equipment storage and load out areas.

“We are very pleased that this contract has been awarded and construction will be moving forward,” said Command Master Chief David Salisbury, NSWG-3. “Space has been at a premium for many years and the new structure and renovation will afford us some much needed room to work.”

Facility space will also be provided in support of NSWG-3 Holistic Human Performance Center.

This project will include renovations to Building 987 and construction of a second floor space in the building’s high bay area.

“The additional space being created by NAVFAC Hawaii in this combined effort will greatly enhance our capability to support training,” said Salisbury. “With our ever increasing workload and limited land here on Oahu, this project is a welcomed addition to our community.”

Work is expected for completion by February 2018.

Hickam shoreline closure for mangrove removal continues this month

NAVFAC Hawaii Public Affairs

As part of the Navy’s mission to restore and improve the natural habitats at Joint Base Pearl Harbor Hickam (JBPHH), mangrove removal began Nov. 17 along the Hickam shoreline. The area includes the beach starting at the Navy’s Fort Kamehameha Wastewater Treatment Plant to the Air National Guard parking lot (to include Kamehameha Beach Park, commonly known as Dog Beach).

This closure is necessary as a public health and safety precaution due to the use of heavy machinery such as chainsaws, chippers and large work trucks. The whole area, including the parking lot, is closed until Feb.

29, 2016, or until NAVFAC Hawaii Natural Resources staff determines that conditions are safe.

All dogs, even those on a leash, are not permitted in the parking lot, on the shoreline, or in the waters from the Navy treatment plant to the Air National Guard parking lot throughout the removal process.

Please observe all posted signs and do not enter the work area designated by the orange safety fencing, both into the parking lot and along the shoreline. JBPHH security will be patrolling the area to ensure compliance.

While the Hickam shoreline is closed, dog owners have a number of locations to take their dogs for exercise. There are several dog parks in the area, including Moanalua dog park at 2900 Moanalua Rd., Kamila dog park at 7250-7288 Ohana Nui Circle, Pearl City Peninsula dog park on Lehua Avenue, and Ford Island dog park at 1275 Saratoga Blvd. In addition, the Hawaiian Humane Society’s web page at www.hawaiianhumane.org/Dog-Friendly-Beaches.html lists dog-friendly beaches.

Call NAVFAC Hawaii Environmental at 471-1171 ext. 243, to report any issues regarding this mangrove removal action.

Work is continuing along the Hickam shoreline to remove mangroves. All those in the area are advised to keep dogs and children away from workers and equipment.

Military supports 2016 NFL Pro Bowl

Staff Sgt. Chris Hubenthal

Defense Media Activity Hawaii News Bureau

ALOHA STADIUM — Military members volunteered their time to support the 2016 NFL Pro Bowl, Jan. 31. A joint honor guard detail rendered honors as the American flag was displayed across the field, followed by the U.S. Air Force conducting a C-17 Globemaster flyover.

Aside from the military's involvement in the pregame performance, hundreds of military volunteers also worked together behind the scenes to move the pregame show logistics on and off the field in support of Rachel Platten's performance of her song "Fight Song."

U.S. Air Force Staff Sgt. Xenia Dillon, 15th Aerospace Medical Squadron, explained her role as a Pro Bowl volunteer.

"There were 13 or 15 different moving pieces and over 200 volunteers with the military," Dillon said. "We did the pregame first show for the singer that came out to do it, Rachel Platten, we set up her stage and crew. All the big pieces that were coming through the tunnel that were all lined up, we all had to push them out coordinating together."

Dillon said that the volunteers spent extra time practicing the quick stage set up to be better prepared for game day.

"We did a bunch of practices late at night," Dillon said. "The military all just pulled together. It was really easy honestly because everyone said 'OK so, one, two, three, go' and it was just seamless."

Team Irvin defeated Team Rice 49-27 and once the game was over NFL players took the time to thank the military for their service.

"Thank you so much for everything you all do," said Derek Carr of the Oakland Raiders. "You are all the true heroes. Everyone watches football and looks up to us but you guys are the true heroes and we know it so thank you so much and God bless."

Michael Irvin, former NFL football player for the Dallas Cowboys and former ESPN broadcaster, made a shout out that echoed Carr's statement of what a hero is.

"I am Michael 'The Playmaker' Irvin, three-time Super Bowl champion with the Dallas Cowboys and I am an NFL Hall of Famer but I tell you this... there are no greater Hall of Famers than the troops," said Michael Irvin. "We appreciate all you do that allows us to live the life and do the things that we do. We get to play a game and have fun because you play the real game and keep us safe."

Medical Group controls FACSFAC PH in big win

Story and photos by
Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

Last season, the 15th Medical Group (15 MDG) came up short with a second-place finish in their division.

Against Fleet Area Control and Surveillance Facility (FACSFAC), the 15 MDG unveiled their latest version and if it is a preview of things to come, the team should be among the select group of squads headed to the playoffs.

In the season opener for both teams, the 15 MDG took control early and kept the pressure on throughout the game in gaining a decisive 52-30 victory on Feb. 1 in a battle of Gold Division running mates at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Fitness Center.

A total of nine players tallied points for the 15 MDG, which interchanged players at a steady pace in order to keep FACSFAC from gaining traction.

"Last season, we kind of slowed the ball down and it kind of burned us," 15 MDG head coach Staff Sgt. Tyrone Shannon admitted. "This year, we kind of want to get out and run a little more."

A basket by guard Senior Airman Ronnie Patterson gave the 15 MDG an 18-6 lead at the half-way point of the first half and allowed Shannon the luxury of working on the team's game the rest of the way.

"Since it was a big lead, we just wanted to come out and run our plays," Shannon said. "We wanted to break down and get some practice out of this game."

With 2:10 remaining in the first half, Senior Airman Christopher McCloud finished off a breakaway fast break with a lay-up to make it 24-10 en route to a 29-10 lead at the break.

Not wanting to lose momentum in the second half, Shannon said that he told the players to keep doing the same thing and don't slow down.

The players must have taken the instruction to heart, as within seconds of the second half Staff Sgt. Matthew Flowers connected on a basket-and-one to give the 15 MDG its first 20-point-plus lead at 32-10.

At 6-foot-9-inches tall, Flowers gives the team the kind of post presence it sorely needed last season, Shannon said.

"Last year, our tallest player was like 6 foot," Shannon pointed out. "So to have a 6-9 player, I'm happy."

Due to the runaway nature of the game, Shannon gave both potential all-star players McCloud and the recently retired Rick June a lot of rest, but stated that people should not get used to seeing that, as he expects the duo to play huge roles in the team's run this season.

"They will be important," Shannon noted. "As long as they keep their heads in and don't shoot any wild threes and take it to the hole, we'll be good."

McCloud, who has been a stand-out player for the past few seasons with MDG, said that while it's been frustrating to come up short, he believes that this year's edition has what it takes to win it all.

"I feel like we have a great team," McCloud said. "We just need to slow down and run our fundamentals.

As long as we're fundamentally sound, we can make a deep run this year."

As one of the leaders, McCloud said that he will do all he can to make sure that the team stays focused.

"I just try to do my part, but my main thing is as long as you give 100 percent, I cannot complain," he said. "Our motto this year is, we rather shoot the ball than turn the ball over. If we have a good lead, we just want to push the ball."

Naval Sea Systems Command crushes Lo Life

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

A couple of runs in the first half was all Naval Sea Systems Command (NSSC) needed to seize control and cruise to a 66-19 victory over Lo Life on Feb. 1 in a Gold Division matchup at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Fitness Center.

Tied at 3-3 early in the first half, NSSC, triggered by back-to-back baskets by Logistics Specialist 2nd Class Jerry Acosta, went on a 7-0 run to take a 10-3 advantage.

Then after giving up a basket, NSSC scored another 11 straight points to take a 21-5 lead, before going on to the lopsided win.

"The good thing about this year is we have a bunch of young people and that helps us keep the pedal to the metal," said Acosta, who also serves as the team's head coach. "It's fun and we hope to have a good year."

NSSC picked up their 21st point on a trey by Machinist's Mate 3rd Class Devyn Gibson and then increased their lead by 20 on a basket-and-one by Legalman 1st Class Kevin Harrison to make it 26-6 with 3:41 remaining before halftime.

Up by a score of 29-8 at the break, the onslaught continued into the second half as Culinary Specialist 3rd Class Kali Pettigrew pulled up behind the arc and sank a three-pointer on the first shot after halftime to make it 32-8.

Then as the clock struck 12:52, Gibson knocked down his second big three of the game to elevate the team's lead to 31 at 44-13.

However, with only 2:34 left in the game, Pettigrew scored on a putback under the basket to give NSSC their first 40-point lead of the game at 59-19, before going on to win by 47 points.

Although nine players got on the scoreboard for NSSC, Pettigrew was among the top play-makers of the game by chipping in with a game-high 18 points, with most of his production coming in the second half.

Pettigrew, who pumped in two shots from beyond the three-point arc, said that he was surprised by his offensive output.

"Today, I thought I'd be more of a defensive player," he said. "But the team's energy carried me a little more so it made me elevate my game more. My teammates carried me, so I carried them."

Besides Pettigrew's 18, the team also got solid scoring contributions from Acosta with eight, Harrison with 10 and Yeoman 2nd Class Brian Haygood with seven.

Pettigrew credited the well-rounded attack to the savvy of Acosta, who seems to have a knack of placing people where they are needed the most.

"The coach keeps this team together," Pettigrew pointed out. "I have to give credit to him for knowing how I play and for my teammates as well."

With a group that is so talented and deep, Acosta explained that in order to get the most out of every player, he must pay attention and put them in places in which they can excel.

"I'm all about putting people in at the right time," Acosta said. "If his strength is cutting and shooting, another guy might be to just stand at the three-point line. If I need someone to hustle, I'll put in some hustle guys to put some pressure on the other team."

Regardless of what combination he puts on the floor, Acosta said that it's all done with the notion of preparing the team for the big prize at the end of the season.

"I think we can win it all," he admitted. "Everybody is good on this team. They all got a lot of experience and I'm looking forward to it."

Dry Dock comes back to win to stay undefeated

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

For the second week in a row, Dry Dock trailed at halftime, but got hot in the second half to earn another comeback victory with a 43-30 decision over the 747th Communication Squadron (747 CS) on Feb. 2 in a 30-and-above White Division intramural basketball game at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Fitness Center.

The game was almost a mirror image of Dry Dock's win over the Old Bulls in the season opener a week ago, when the team trailed by a point at halftime, but turned up the heat in the second half.

The win improved Dry Dock's record to 2-0, while the hard-luck 747 CS fell to 0-2.

"Maybe due to our age we don't warm up until the second half," said Dry Dock's post man Electronics Technician 1st Class Richard Wheeler, who was the team's leading scorer for the second week in a row. "I'm just glad we didn't let them pull too far ahead. The game stayed close and because of the second-half momentum, we brought it all together and came out with a victory."

Wheeler, who may be one of the division's senior players at age 40, continued to play with the vigor of a much younger player in pacing Dry Dock with 17 points.

Dry Dock guard Culinary Specialist 2nd Class James Baylis gets fouled by Staff Sgt. Larry Best, while going for a lay-up.

More importantly, Wheeler kept Dry Dock within striking distance by sinking 11 of the team's 16 total points in the first half.

The 747 CS saw a six-point advantage evaporate in the first half, but came back with a basket at the buzzer by Tech. Sgt. Rickey Nance to inch ahead at 17-16 at halftime.

Following the break, Dry Dock immediately opened on a 6-0 run to take the lead at 22-17.

However, the 747 CS staged a comeback, and when Tech. Sgt. Quinton Ridges topped off a fast break on an assist from Staff Sgt. Larry Best, the team trailed by only a point at 25-24 with less than 10 minutes remaining in the game.

After the basket by Ridges, Dry Dock pushed the ball upcourt and found Machinist's Mate 1st Class Alan Mason standing all alone from beyond the three-point arc.

Without hesitation, Mason pulled up for the shot and swished a long-range trey to give Dry Dock some much-needed breathing room at 28-24.

The shot seemed to spark life into Dry Dock's perimeter game, as the team followed up Mason's clutch bomb with three more in succession to take a commanding 37-24 lead with only 7:04 left on the clock.

During the team's torrid outside run, Mason accounted for another trey, while teammate Culinary Specialist 2nd Class James Baylis chipped in with two from downtown.

"It's just momentum I guess," said Baylis as he tried to explain the turning point of the game. "I think what we figure out is that we tire them out in the first half, so now it's just let's have fun. We start seeing the holes and weaknesses in the team and we take advantage."

Although Dry Dock has yet to put together strong halves back-to-back, Baylis said that he feels it's just a matter of time.

"We need to practice more," Baylis admitted. "It's really hard to practice because we're a submarine community."

Wheeler agreed with Baylis, but added that the team had better start putting things together really soon, as he expects the action in the division to heat up.

"We know that the teams are only going to get better as the season goes on," Wheeler acknowledged. "We haven't had a better start because we haven't played together. Our first game was the first time we played together."

NEX gives back to students with its A-OK student reward program

Navy Exchange Service Command

The Navy Exchange Service Command (NEXCOM) has been offering students a chance to help pay for college through its A-OK Student Reward Program since 1997. The A-OK Student Reward Program offers all qualified students to participate in a quarterly drawing for monetary awards of $2,500, $1,500, $1,000 or $500 for a total of $5,500 per quarter. The next drawing will be held at the end of February 2016.

Any eligible full-time student that has a

B-grade point average equivalent or better, as determined by their school system, may enter the drawing. Home-schooled students can also qualify with acknowledgement that the student has a "B" average or equivalent record of accomplishment.

Eligible students include dependent children of active duty military members, Reservists and military retirees enrolled in first through 12th grade. Dependent children without an individual Dependent Identification Card must be accompanied by their sponsor to submit their entry. Each student may enter only once each grading period and must re-enter with each qualifying report card.

Patrons can stop by any NEX with a current report card or progress report and have a NEX associate verify the eligibility, to enter the drawing. Then, they can fill out an entry card and obtain an A-OK ID which entitles the student to 19 discount coupons for NEX products and services.

Along with the award, each winner will receive a lapel pin, certificate and medallion ribbon "In Honor of Academic Excellence."

IRONS table + tavern opens at Navy-Marine Golf Course

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Morale, Welfare and Recreation

Navy-Marine Golf Course now has a full-service restaurant. After some delay, IRONS table + tavern is open and serving lunch and dinner overlooking the rolling hills of the course.

The restaurant opened in phases. Dinner service started on Jan. 23, and lunch began this week. The opening was just a few days later than the originally scheduled Jan. 18 date.

General Manager Mike Wells said some last-minute issues delayed the opening, and he wanted to make sure the new staff was trained properly before opening.

"First impressions are everything," said Wells.

"We wouldn't have been able to do a good job (without the staff suitably trained). Now everything is great."

Described as casual upscale dining, Wells said IRONS is the type of place that will appeal to a variety of diners.

"We've had families come in where everyone is having burgers and kids meals," he said. "But at the same time we have someone all dressed up, on a date with a nice bottle of wine. They're ten feet away from each other and they're all comfortable. It's a nice feel. We're able to achieve this without being pretentious or stuffy."

IRONS opened with a relatively small menu that has expanded in response to customer feedback.

"We've probably doubled our menu already since we opened," said Wells. He added that a kid's menu is available, and the staff is trained to be aware of customer's dietary needs. "We've already had several requests for lactose-free, gluten-free options, and we're on top of that."

Wells said customer response has been really good.

"Of course, we'll continue to grow off of the feedback. It's just a matter of training the servers to get familiar with what the guests' needs are."

With Valentine's Day around the corner, Wells said IRONS is a great option for those who haven't made their plans yet. While not set at the time of the interview, Wells added there would be a few surprises appropriate for the occasion.

Regardless of the occasion, Wells wanted everyone to know that the wait for IRONS table + tavern is worth it. "We're excited to be up and going, and ready for everyone to come in and enjoy."

IRONS table + tavern is located on the second floor of the Navy-Marine Golf Course clubhouse and is open daily. Lunch is offered from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinner is served from 5 to 8 p.m. The tavern is open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.
