ELVIS ROCKS ARENA FOR ARIZONA

Elvis, wearing his trademark gold lame suit and lei, performs at Bloch Arena at Pearl Harbor on March 25, 1961. The concert was a fundraiser for the Arizona Memorial.

According to Moffatt, it was Elvis' first concert since he had been discharged from the Army. The king of rock and roll first performed in Hawaii in 1957 at the old Honolulu Stadium.

Back in 1961, efforts to raise money for a memorial were moving slowly. Col. Tom Parker, Elvis' manager, found out and he and Elvis decided to give the fundraising efforts a much-needed boost.

"We're going to do a benefit concert, and everyone has to pay and that money goes to the memorial," Moffatt remembered the colonel saying as plans geared up for the fundraiser.

The 4,000 seats for the show ranged in price from $3 to $10. There were also a number of $100 tickets that were reserved for a special ringside section of the arena.

"Every cent went for charity. Every cent went to the Arizona," Moffatt said.

As Elvis gyrated and rocked on the stage at the jam-packed arena the night of the concert, teenage girls in the crowd swooned, screamed and yelled. Wearing his legendary gold lame jacket and adorned with floral lei, the "king" started the program with "Heartbreak Hotel" and ended with "Hound Dog," performing a total of 15 favorite Elvis songs. Among those who joined Elvis on stage were female comedian Minnie Pearl, Scotty Moore and the Jordanaires.

Norma Villarmia, who lives in Pearl City, was one of those teenagers who had a ticket for the concert. She shared that her father worked some extra hours at his job to make enough money to buy her the ticket.

Memories came flooding back as Villarmia talked about that night in the arena. "I was in awe. My jaw was hanging, seeing him in his gold lame suit. He was the most beautiful person. And what a gentleman! My girlfriend was a fanatic fan."

She remembered that there were a lot of screaming girls. She said that she also en-

It was the evening of March 25, 1961 and a crowd of thousands thronged Bloch Arena at Pearl Harbor—waiting for a glimpse of Elvis Presley, the "king of rock and roll."

But this wasn't just any Elvis concert. It was a benefit fundraiser for the USS Arizona Memorial.

Elvis, who was in the islands at the time to film his movie "Blue Hawaii," wanted to do something to help to make the Arizona Memorial a reality, not just a dream.

"It was important to him because so many lost their lives defending their country, and he wanted to do what he could," said Tom Moffatt, local entertainment promoter who was instrumental in bringing Elvis to the islands.

joyed the other acts performing with Elvis, including Minnie Pearl. "Minnie Pearl came out on stage and said 'How-DY' and wore her hat with all of the price tags. Pearl really held her own. She was awesome," Villarmia said.

"I can still see him on stage, and I took pictures of him with a dumpy old box camera. The thing that really grabbed me was when he walked on stage in his gold lame suit and started shaking his leg. And then he started singing." She noted that Elvis sang all of his songs from when he first became popular.

"He was so into the audience. He was with us, like he knew us. I can still see him in my mind, standing on that stage. I remember it so vividly," Villarmia reflected.

Villarmia said she was mesmerized by the performer.

"He was so charismatic—just reaching out—so powerful. You couldn't help but be mesmerized. He didn't have to do much — it was his presence, his smile with the curling lip, his sexy way of talking," she said.

The benefit concert raised more than $64,000 to begin building the Arizona Memorial, which spans the sunken USS Arizona battleship, torpedoed during the Imperial Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. It marks the final resting place of many of the Sailors and Marines who were killed when the battleship was sunk where it was moored on Battleship Row.

It wasn't until three years after its dedication that Elvis had his first opportunity to visit the completed memorial in 1965. He and Col. Parker placed two 5-foot high, red-white-and-blue carnation wreaths aboard the shrine. On one of the wreaths, a gold-ribbon inscription said, "Gone but not forgotten" and was made with exactly 1,177 carnations, one to honor each of those lost on the Arizona.

The Arizona Memorial has been the site of many commemoration ceremonies since its dedication on Memorial Day on May 30, 1962. Pearl Harbor survivors return for the ceremony and throughout the year to pay respects to their shipmates.

Lou Conter, at age 93, is the youngest of the USS Arizona survivors. There are eight known living survivors from the Arizona; the oldest is 99.

Conter explained that at the time of the attack, he was a quartermaster third class and was on the ship's quarterdeck with the USS Vestal located outboard. When the bomb hit the powder magazine, about a million pounds of powder blew up. Conter remembered that he helped get burned men into lifeboats.

Coming back to Hawaii to visit the Arizona was difficult for Conter as he remembered the devastation after the attack and loss of so many lives. "The first few times, it was a little hard to stand and look at the wall [in the shrine room of the Arizona Memorial]. Now I stand up and salute and say a prayer for the 1,177 casualties," Conter said.

"In May 1951, there was only a platform over the Arizona. I was with the admiral and after starting out for the Arizona, I told him I wanted to go back to shore," Conter reflected. He made his first visit to the memorial in 1965.

Explaining that he is happy to have the opportunity to visit the memorial, Conter talked about Elvis' contribution in making it happen. "We have to thank Elvis because he helped with funds for the Arizona Memorial. It was the forerunner of what it is today," Conter said.

"The memorial is the greatest thing. It's better each year," he added.

These days, there are people around who don't know about Elvis' generosity as he stood on the stage at Bloch Arena, belting out his rock and roll hits for the excited teenage girls in the audience, all to benefit the construction of the Arizona Memorial.

But there are reminders that remain today. A glass display case filled with Elvis photos, a newspaper clipping and "Elvis" in gold script letters—a tribute to his Bloch Arena benefit concert—remains alone and almost forgotten on the wall in the lobby of the arena.

Once upon a time, a plaque dedicated to Elvis and his contributions to the Arizona Memorial was also displayed at the arena. But according to Moffatt, the plaque was damaged and is no longer there.

But the biggest reminder is the 184-foot long, Arizona Memorial that straddles the sunken Arizona — the place where those who were lost during the Pearl Harbor attack rest in eternal slumber and where drops of oil, the "tears of Arizona," still seep from the battleship and float to the surface.

It's the place where thousands of Pearl Harbor survivors—in their dwindling numbers—have returned for the past 52 years to remember their lost shipmates.

It's the place where the legacy of Elvis and his fans—who still support the USS Arizona Memorial—is perpetuated. "Elvis fans still support the Arizona in whatever way they can," Moffatt said.

Elvis has left the building — but his legacy to the Arizona Memorial lives on.

Jeff Dunham brought his show to Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam on May 24 and gave his fans a free comedy show at Ward Field.

Even with the heavy rain and flash flood warning, thousands of fans braved the rain and came out early to get the best seats in the house for the event, billed as the "Disorderly Conduct" show.

Lauren Saenz, alongside her two friends, waited on the field for the comedy show to start.

"I'm looking forward to lots of laughs and to bust a gut," Saenz said. She said she has been a fan of Dunham for the past five years, so this comedy show was something she was excited about.

Another fan of Dunham who was also excited to see his show was family member Katy Perry.

"I never thought I would be able to see him live at his show, so this is really exciting for me to see him in Hawaii," Perry said.

Perry said the rainy weather would not deter her thoughts about attending.

"Absolutely not, I'm excited," she said.

She added that her favorite Dunham character is Achmed the Dead Terrorist "because he tells it like it is."

Dunham started his show with a video montage of all his characters getting arrested and interrogated.

Dunham greeted all his fans with a joke about the weather.

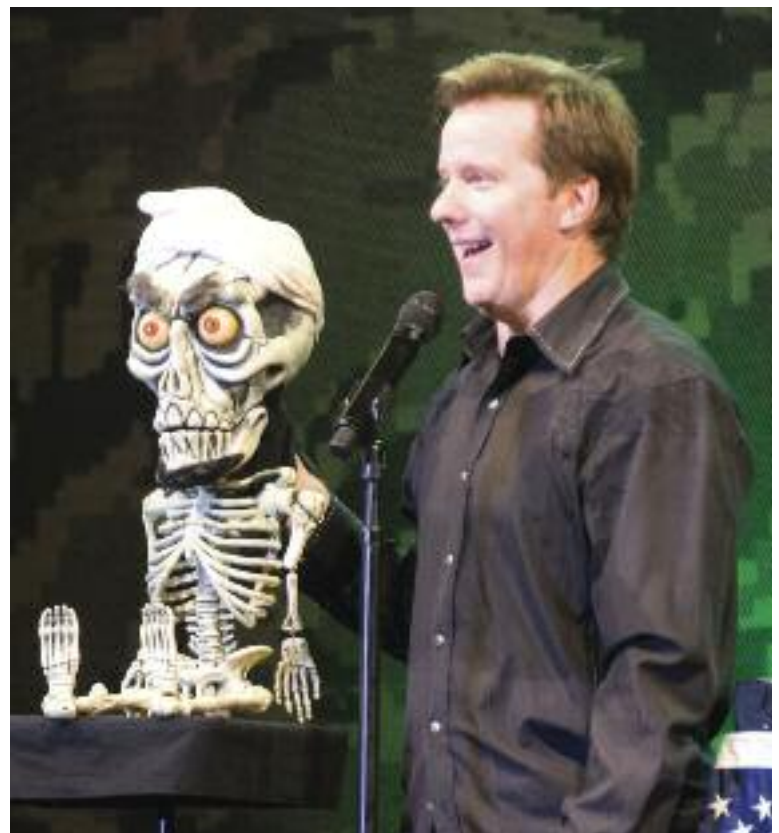

Two fans, Dee Snyder and Kathleen Brill, were able to meet Dunham after his show after winning a meet and greet pass on Great Life Hawaii's Facebook page.

Team Law and Order overturns 692nd ISRG Warriors

The recent rainy weather may have interrupted the softball season on base, but it did nothing to cool off the hot bats of Team Law and Order.

After having to sit out last week while the elements forced a cancellation of White Division games, Team Law and Order quickly shook the rust off their bats and slugged their way to a 20-5 mercy-rule win on May 27 over the 692nd Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Group (692 ISRG) Warriors at Millican Field, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

The win put Team Law and Order at .500 with a 3-3 record, while the Warriors, who entered the game in third place, fell to 4-3.

"It's fantastic," said Team Law and Order pitcher Col. Chris Grazzini, who went the distance to pick up the win. "Having a group of guys behind you to back you up, that's what the military is all about. That's why we bring it on the field here, it gives you a chance to practice that."

In the first inning, Team Law and Order got to work right away and jumped out to a 6-0 lead on five hits.

The big hit of the inning came off of the bat of Jose Flores, a Department of Defense civilian, who blasted a line shot through the outfield for a standup triple that drove in two runs.

"A good hit like that gets everybody motivated," said Flores about three-base knock. "When the bats are hot, that gets everybody pumped. It definitely opened up new doors for us."

Jose Flores slides safely into second base after hitting a double.

Later in the same inning, Grazzini helped his own cause by slicing a single to drive two more runs en route to the six-run rally.

While the Warriors cut the lead down to half with three runs in the bottom of the second inning, Flores got Team Law and Order started on another rally by bashing a double to place runners on second and third.

An error loaded the bases and a walk drove in a run before Grazzini stepped up to the plate and delivered another two-run single and a 9-3 advantage.

"The thing is I just don't try to overpower it," Grazzini said about his second clutch single. "All I want to do is just make contact and get it over the infield."

Team Law and Order tallied another run in the top of the third to make it 10-3, but back came the Warriors with two runs in the bottom of the fourth to pull to within five at 10-5.

The Warriors were on the verge of adding more runs during the fourth, but Flores made a spectacular diving catch in left field to retire the side.

Then in the top of the fifth, Team Law and Order put the game away for good by marching up 16 batters to the plate to score 10 runs for the final score.

Grazzini hit a Texas-league single that loaded the bases with no outs, and Brandon Zimmerman smashed a triple to drive in two runs during the game-breaking rally.

"We played a great game," Flores said. "Communication, everybody had a great attitude and we just went out to have fun. It was a good day."

Although Grazzini had an outstanding game on the mound and at the plate, he said that it took teamwork to get the win.

"There was a lot of guys that made some great catches and snags," he noted. "But the other part was that everyone was calling out and communicating with each other."

Following the team's biggest win, Flores said that while Law and Order has struggled in their first few games, he believes that the players are ready to turn the corner.

"I think we're at full throttle right now," he said. "Gloves are hot, the bats are hot and it showed."

Kraken holds on to defeat NIOC Sup by single run

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

The Naval Sea Systems Command (NSSC) Kraken took a 5-1 lead after four innings and then hung on to squeak past Navy Information Operations Command (NIOC) Sup, 5-4, on May 27 in a White Division intramural softball game at Millican Field, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

Up by two runs going into the seventh inning, Kraken pitcher Culinary Specialist 1st Class Jordan Michalowicz allowed one run before recording the final out for the complete-game win.

Kraken, which entered the game in fifth place, moved up in the standings by improving to 4-2, while NIOC fell one game under .500 at 3-4.

"It was solid defense. That's all we were doing today," Michalowicz said after hanging on for the win. "I was just kind of throwing inside, outside pitches. I'd throw them a good pitch and then throw a bad pitch."

Michalowicz got the Kraken off to a good start in the top of the first inning by allowing only a single in tossing a shutout.

Then in the bottom of the first, the Kraken drew first blood when Command Master Chief Electronics Technician Marcus Hensley drew a walk and was immediately driven home on a base hit by Chief Electronics Technician Mike Heffner.

The Kraken would go on to plate two more runs on an error and force out to take a 3-0 lead going into the second inning.

Michalowicz seemed to be on his way to another shutout inning when he retired the first two batters in order, but Lt. Timberon Vanzant ripped a three-bagger before coming home on a single to cut the lead down to 3-1.

Chief Yeoman Marshall Megnan, second baseman for Naval Sea Systems Command (NSSC) Kraken, waits for the throw to complete the putout at second base.

The Kraken went back up by three after Hensley hit into a fielder's choice with the bases loaded to drive in a run in the bottom of the second.

In the third, the Kraken added their fifth and final tally of the game when Chief Yeoman Marshall Megnan knocked in a run on an infield grounder to drive in a runner from third.

Meanwhile, NIOC inched closer in the top of the fourth on an RBI single by Vanzant and sacrifice fly to make it 5-3.

The momentum shift seemed to continue for NIOC in the top of the fifth, when the team had runners on first and second with only one out.

Although the next hitter lined a single to load the bases, the batter was called for using a non-approved bat.

Cryptologic Technician (Interpretive) 3rd Class Zac

Metz then lined out to first to end the inning and threat.

"It is what it is," said NIOC first baseman Cryptologic Technician (Maintenance) 1st Class Robert Peterson about the potential rally being squashed by the illegal bat. "Blue made a good call. He picked up the bat and saw no sticker. The player had his bat checked, but the sticker fell off. It happens. We're not going to argue the rules."

While Michalowicz admitted that the call might have hurt NIOC's chances of a comeback, he didn't believe that it would have changed the outcome.

"It was a help, but I think we had it under control pretty well," Michalowicz said.

With the win, the Kraken continues to make their push to the top of the division, but Michalowicz pointed out that the team is still a work in progress.

Peterson, on the other hand, said that NIOC would be back.

"We're hoping," he said. "We had a lot of missing players today, but we come out, we hit, we play and have a lot of fun. That's what we do."

Naval Health Clinic Hawaii realigns medical home port teams

Naval Health Clinic Hawaii

Effective June 1, Naval Health Clinic Hawaii's (NHCH) Makalapa Clinic will transition from four to three medical home port teams.

As the operational tempo continues to wind down following 11-plus years of war and multiple deployments, NHCH is now slightly over-staffed given its current enrolled population.

Certain contracts for primary care providers will not be renewed which will then facilitate full and efficient utilization of permanent Navy active duty and federal civil service providers.

In addition to transitioning from four to three medical home port teams at the Makalapa Clinic, pediatrics will merge with family practice to form blended teams.

Some military and civilian providers are rotating out of the command and, some will move to different medical home port teams within the command.

For those beneficiaries who are enrolled in a provider leaving NHCH, a new primary care manager (PCM) will be assigned and notification will be made by letter. Beneficiaries have an option of changing a provider by contacting the TRICARE Service Center at www.tricare.mil or calling UnitedHealthCare Military and Veterans toll-free call center at 1-877-988-9378.

As part of the "Your Health, Your Choice" initiative, non-active duty TRICARE beneficiaries may opt to enroll at any open military treatment facility regardless of service affiliation.

The Missoula Children's Theatre (MCT) will host a free, week-long camp for first through 12th graders from June 9 to 14 at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam. Auditions and the camp will be held at Hickam Memorial Theater.

MCT brings performing arts opportunities to communities, most notably to kids who might not have access to them. They send out teams of touring artists, also known as tour actors/directors or TADs, who cast kids in a children's musical, which they perform after only six days of rehearsal.

They strive to use participation in the performing arts as a vehicle to develop social skills, self-discipline, a strong work ethic, an understanding of the team concept and self-esteem.

Open auditions will run from 10 a.m. to noon June 9. Youth must be present the whole two hours. Space is limited with no guarantee that everyone who auditions will be cast.

The cast will be decided immediately following the auditions, and the first camp session will start at 12:30 p.m.

The camp will run the remainder of the week and end on June 14 with a production of "Blackbeard the Pirate," at a time to be determined. The camp schedule will also be determined at a later time. Youth are encouraged to be available most of the week.

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) will host MWR Movie in the Park beginning at 7:15 p.m. tonight at Hickam Harbor. The free event, presented by the MWR Outdoor Recreation program (ODR), will be held on the waterfront lawn in front of Sam Choy's Island Style Seafood and Grille.

Tonight's movie is the family-friendly "Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Dog Days." Patrons are welcome to bring blankets and beach mats to sit on the grass. They are also allowed to bring their own coolers and snacks. Alcohol is prohibited.

This is the second MWR Movie in the Park provided by ODR this year. The first one in March drew hundreds of people, and many arrived early to claim their spot on the lawn. Others had an early dinner at Sam Choy's before walking over to the movie area.

Due to customer feedback, ODR asks that customers who bring lawn or folding chairs sit in the back or on the sides so as not to obstruct the views of those sitting on mats or blankets. For more information, call the Hickam Harbor office at 449-5215.
