

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOROffice of the Secretary*Coastal Barrier Improvement Act;
Availability of Maps*AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Interior.ACTION: Notice of Availability of maps.

SUMMARY: The Coastal Barrier Improvement Act of 1990 (CBIA), which was signed into law on November 16, 1990, amends the Coastal Barrier Resources Act (CBRA) in several ways. Among other amendments, it substantially expands the Coastal Barrier Resources System established by the CBRA, and amends the National Flood Insurance Act to prohibit the issuance of new Federal flood insurance after November 16, 1991, within otherwise protected areas identified on maps referred to in the CBIA. The purpose of this Notice is to give notice of the filing, distribution, and availability of the maps entitled "Coastal Barrier Resources System" dated October 24, 1990, as required by the CBIA.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Frank McGilvrey, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Division of Habitat Conservation, 400 Arlington Square, Department of the Interior, Washington DC 20240, (703) 358-2201.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Coastal Barrier Improvement Act of 1990 (CBIA) amended the Coastal Barrier Resources Act (CBRA) in several significant ways. In section 4 of the CBIA, Congress approved a revised set of Coastal Barrier Resources System (System) maps, the effect of which was to expand the areas included within the System. The System now includes units in Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Great Lakes States, New Jersey, Maryland and the Florida Keys, as well as many new areas in States that already contained units within the System. The maps of the Coastal Barrier Resources System have been filed with the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, the Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate.

Copies of these same maps have been distributed to the Chief Executive Officer (or representative) of (a) each State and county (or equivalent jurisdiction) in which a System unit is located, (b) each State coastal zone management agency in those States which have a coastal zone management plan approved and in which a System unit is located, and (c) each appropriate Federal agency. Copies are also available for inspection through the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior and appropriate Regional Offices and Field Offices (see addresses in appendix A). Interested organizations and individuals may purchase System maps from the U.S. Geological Survey (see appendix B).

The CBIA assigns four major responsibilities to the Department of the Interior. First, it continues to require the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) to manage the maps adopted by the Congress that depict the System. Second, the CBIA extended the prohibition against new Federal expenditures or financial assistance to all new units added to the System, subject to several exceptions available to Federal agencies only after consultation with the Secretary. Third, section 6 of the CBIA requires the Department to undertake a one year study of areas on the Pacific Coast, south of the 49th parallel, that may be appropriate for inclusion in the system. Following this study, any additions to the System will be a Legislative, not an Executive Branch, responsibility. Fourth, section 8 of the CBIA requires the Department to chair a task force of representatives from 11 Federal agencies that will conduct a 2-year study of the impacts of Federal activities on all coastal barriers, developed and undeveloped, and report to Congress with recommendations.

This document concerns implementation of only the first of the Department responsibilities—the administration of the Coastal Barrier Resources System maps. The Service will manage the maps provided by Congress; consider minor and technical modifications within 2 years; and consider additions of otherwise protected areas to the System within 2 years, at the specific request of those who own or control such property.

Coastal Barrier Resources System Maps

In section 4 of the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act, Congress approved a series of maps entitled "Coastal Barrier Resources System," dated October 24, 1990. These maps identify and depict those coastal barriers located on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes that are subject to the limitations outlined in the CBIA. These maps also depict those undeveloped coastal barriers on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts that are identified as "otherwise protected" areas held for conservation purposes under Federal, State, or local law, or held by an organization within the scope of section 170(h)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 primarily for conservation purposes. Section 9 of the Act amends section 1321 of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, to state that structures built within these otherwise protected areas after November 16, 1991, will not be eligible for Federal flood insurance unless the structures "are used in a manner consistent with the purpose for which the area is protected." These maps are now in the official custody of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. These final maps completely amend and supersede maps of the System dated September 30, 1982 and April 18, 1983.

Sections 3 and 4 of the Act define the Department's responsibilities regarding the System maps. These responsibilities include: Technical revision of maps (subsection 4(a)(1)); distributing copies of the maps (subsection 4(a)(2)); State and local government recommendations for minor and technical modifications to the maps (subsection 4(b)); considering additions to the System at the request of State and local governments or qualified organizations (subsection 4(c)); and at least once every 5 years review the System maps and make such minor and technical modifications to the boundaries of System units as may be necessary to correct for results of natural forces (subsection 3(c)).

(1) Using the original maps submitted to the Department by the Congress, the Department has reproduced these maps for distribution. The boundaries of the Coastal Barrier Resources System on these copies are identical with original boundaries of the set of maps adopted by Congress pursuant to the Coastal Barrier Improvement Act, except for limited technical revisions as provided for in subsection 4(a)(1). "Otherwise protected" areas are depicted with a dot-line boundary and the unit symbol is followed with a "P." The original maps adopted by the Congress are on file within the Department of the Interior, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and may be inspected there. Appendix B has a listing of each unit map by State, county (or other local jurisdiction), name and number.

(2) Pursuant to subsection 4(a)(2) of the CBIA, the Department of the Interior is required to distribute the maps to the States; to each County or equivalent jurisdiction; to State coastal zone management agencies; and to each appropriate Federal agency. Copies of the original maps are being distributed.

(3) As provided in subsection 4(e) of the CBIA, these modifications must be completed within two years from the date of enactment. The Secretary's authority to modify boundaries lapses thereafter, except with regard to changes in the size or location of System units as a result of natural forces (subsection 3(c)). This modification process must be closely coordinated with local governments and States containing System units, with coastal zone management agencies and with the Congress within that period.

With map distribution completed, the initial responsibility to consider minor and technical boundary modifications rests with appropriate localities and States and their State coastal zone management agencies. Each appropriate jurisdiction is provided one year from the date of enactment to submit proposals for such minor and technical boundary modifications to the Secretary. The Secretary has requested by letter that each State with a coastal zone management agency and each local jurisdiction in a State with a coastal zone management agency, provide the Service with its proposals by November 16, 1991. In its consultations with the States, the Service will assure that all local submissions are available to the States.

The Service will then submit proposed modifications to the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate, to the chief executive officer of each State and county or equivalent jurisdiction in which a System unit is located in those States with an approved coastal zone management plan. There will be a thirty (30) day review period. Following the close of that final opportunity for comment, a final decision will be made by the Department. If the Secretary makes any decisions contrary to recommendations of States or local jurisdictions, an explanation for that decision will be provided. Therefore, the maps will be adjusted accordingly and republished as necessary no later than November 16, 1992.

(4) Subsection 4(c) of the CBIA provides for the addition of "otherwise protected" areas to the System. Local governments, States, and qualified organizations with jurisdiction over undeveloped coastal barriers have 18 months in which to notify the Secretary of their intention to add such areas to the System.

The process that the Department of the Interior will follow is governed by the CBIA. The Service will provide maps of areas deemed to be qualified for inclusion in the System under this subsection to the appropriate localities, States and organizations. On the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, those will be areas depicted as "otherwise protected" on the maps of the System. In the Great Lakes States, draft maps of areas deemed suitable for inclusion will be distributed to the States and localities for consideration. The appropriate authorities may elect to add qualified areas to the System by notifying the Secretary of such election. After the close of the election period on May 15, 1992, the Secretary will publish a notice in the Federal Register of all new units added to the System. The new units listed in the Federal Register will be included in the System on the date of the Federal Register Notice.

Dated: May 31, 1991.

Acting Director, Fish and Wildlife Service.
