

Madison County Outreach

Green Living Expo

September 5th, 2013

By: Chris Story, Soil Conservation Technician, NRCS, Madison County, AL

Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) Soil Conservation Technician Chris Story and Intern Jack Lee represented the field office at the 2013 Green Living Expo at the Alabama A&M Agribition Center.

Sponsored by The Alabama Cooperative Extension System's Urban Affairs and New Nontraditional Programs unit, the Green Living Expo was an excellent outlet for information about NRCS programs.

Landowners from all over the county attended to hear various speakers and visit the many exhibits focusing on the theme of the expo-- Green Living, Green Families, and Green Communities.

"Auntie Litter" provided interactive activities for those in attendance to show the importance of natural resource conservation and keeping the environment free of litter.

Through excellent outreach opportunities like the Green Living Expo, NRCS hopes to continue efforts to educate the people of Madison County and surrounding areas about NRCS programs and natural resource conservation.
