Re: Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment

Dear Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council members and staff,

Thank you for your commitment to protecting forage species. The Unmanaged Forage Amendment is a responsible plan to ensure that managers consider the impacts to the species, ecosystem, and economy before expanding existing fisheries or creating new ones. A robust forage base can help ensure abundant predator populations, a healthy Atlantic Ocean, and a thriving, sustainable fishing economy in our region. It is essential to examine the potential impacts before directed fishing occurs, especially when so little is known about the many forage species listed in the amendment. Your proactive work to create protections for these crucial species, and the ecosystem they support, sets an example for modern fisheries management.

Please keep the unmanaged forage amendment moving forward without delay, and pass the strongest protections for every species on the proposed list. They are all important prey for predators in our region and deserve protection.

Chub mackerel has already become a large fishery, so the council should set a temporary cap on catch at the lowest level being considered and initiate full federal management now. For the other species on the list, set a limit on the combined catch of these species for each fishing trip (without any loopholes that could allow the limit to be easily changed) that prevents large-scale fishing. The council should require a permit for retention of any listed species as well as detailed reporting. Finally, the council should review any proposals for additional fishing of species on the list, even on an experimental basis, and there must be full federal management in place before any large-scale fishing begins.

I appreciate your leadership in forage protections and urge the MAFMC to pass precautionary protections for all forage species under consideration. Please protect these valuable fish and the Atlantic Ocean ecosystems and coastal economies they support.

Sincerely,

In my own state, big factory trawlers have undermined attempts to properly regulate the fisheries, including foraging species, we are facing real problems because they have enough funds to buy our politicians at a state and national level. Do your best to protect the Atlantic from similar 'predators'. |

| Norma     | Campbell   | Campbell          | CA | US | forage fish must be protected and for the use of sea creatures whose lives depend upon them for food. We can go to the store. Its really as simple as that, humans should not have access to everything, we do not need everything we only think we do. Spoiled species. |

ANIMAL LIVES MATTER!!!
Kindness and compassion toward all living things is the mark of a civilized society. -- Cesar Chavez
Albert Einstein eloquently said, "Our task must be to free ourselves by widening our circle of compassion to embrace all living creatures and the whole of nature and its beauty." ....May this world be a safe place to call home for ALL Living Beings during our temporary stay.... â€œNon-violence leads to the highest ethics, which is the goal of all evolution. Until we stop harming all other living beings, we are still savages.â€ â€œThomas A. Edison Until he extends the circle of compassion to all living things, Man will not himself find peace. --Dr. Albert Schweitzer
â€œKindness and compassion toward all living things is the mark of a civilized society. -- Cesar Chavez Under hypnosis, Bob Luca, said this when asked how do animals fit in? He answered, Man will be very surprised to find where animals fit in I told you: All that is done is recorded, and many foolish people think the harm they've done to animals will not count. It will! All that the Creator's made is not to be taken lightly. (from a passage in the book The Watchers II by Raymond Fowler) We can judge the heart of a man by his treatment of animals. -- Immanuel Kant ,The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated. - Mahatma Gandhi ,The assumption that animals are without rights, and the illusion that our treatment of them has no moral significance, is a positively outrageous example of Western crudity and ba...

Julie Fisher Encinitas, Ca CA US

It is long past due that agencies whose job it is to protect the oceans start being far more aggressive in doing just that. Our oceans and its species are dying around the globe. We need massive changes in how we use the oceans, how it is fished, and how it is regulated. We need to protect the health of the marine ecosystems, expand protections for all marine species, and limit how and where and how much fisherman can extract. We need to vastly reduce resource extraction, especially fossil fuel extractions in the oceans. We need to push for changes in shipping to greatly reduce the damage that ships cause, including the extreme noise pollution that ships produce, which is heavily damaging marine life around the globe. We need to put healthy ecosystems and species protections first. We need not just sustainable ocean management, we need RESTORATIVE ocean management to bring all wild marine species and their habitats back into great health and diversity, as it was over 500 years ago when our human exploitation started.

Soda pop bottles, water bottles, plastic jugs, also now wine bottles are made from single use plastics, plastic bags (which California passed a law making it illegal to use single use plastic bags, and yet, I see that we are STILL using them in this state), also, plastic coated paper cups in all their forms, plastic cups in general, plastic eating utensils and plastic drinking straws. Go back to wax coated paper straws. We NEED the oceans to be healthy so WE can be healthy...so Mother Earth can be healthy. Life can adapt, but the human race cannot...not fast enough. We can pollute ourselves into oblivion and Mother Earth will heal herself, it will take time, but Mother Earth has all the time in the world because she IS the world. Humans are only a fractional blip of time in the history of this planet. Are we this ignorant and GREEDY and MATERIALISTIC that we cannot or will not make the decision to live in harmony with nature? What do YOU choose? What do you choose for your children and grandchildren? |

| Kali     | Zulu       | Santa Maria      | CA | US | I volunteer at MMC in CA. Forage fish make up the base of the ocean food web. Bigger fish, seabirds, and marine mammals all depend on forage fish as a food source. The MMC has already seen (by admission numbers) the impact of fishing on wildlife. |

| Patricia | Rain | Santa Cruz | CA | US | Your decision to develop a plan to protect unregulated forage fish is excellent! I live on the California coast and know how important forage fish are for the overall health and environment of the oceans and bays. As our waters become increasingly acidic and warmer, it will require for us to be incredibly vigilant in order to protect marine plants and animals. Each component of the ecology of our oceans has a critical role to play and unfortunately much is seriously out of balance. Please make sure that you pass strong protections for the forage fish species. |

| Norm | Gallagher | Borrego Springs | CA | US | We must do everything we can to avoid stripping the planet of all life. Over fishing has long been a major destructive force against ocean life, and like coal, the obsolete and destructive business practices must be brought into line with our long term planetary planning. |

| Stacy   | Martin    | Soquel         | CA | US | As a resident of the Santa Cruz/Monterey Bay area in California, I have witnessed the decline of both our sardine and now anchovy fishing industry - and the impact the loss of forage fish has had on the sea mammals. It's a domino effect that is reversible if you act now! Monterey went through this in the 1960's after overfishing of sardines - and bounced back after a moratorium. I can work, it just needs to be implemented before it's too late - and that time is now. |

| Nanci    | Sullivan | Mariposa         | CA | US | It is essential to keep the eco-systems in our oceans safe. Forage fish are at the bottom of the food chain. That means if the numbers of forage fish, ALL forage fish, are depeleted, the effect will be felt all the way up the food chain - which ends with us. Please extend protection/management of all forage fish species. It's important to all of us. |

This plan, so far as it goes, seems well thought-out, but for the species not covered in it, moderation should be the guideline. Don't allow overfishing and then be sorry - set limits now and adhere to them. |

We are in desperate need of managing the entire food chain in the ocean, starting with krill. It is too easy to decimate a species with today's technologies. It is up to you to take a strong stand here! Many thanks in advance, Jeremy Frost

First, thank you for the requirements that you enacted for observers on the mid-water trawlers last year. I hope that all trips are observed this year. Please do what is needed to leave adequate stocks of river herring and menhaden in the water for forage - let's let abundance back into the NE Atlantic!

| Alyson | Myers | Washington | DC | US | As an owner of an aquaculture company, our staff is in our creeks and bays daily and sees the depletion of our forage fish stocks. These fish are extremely important for their role in the ecosystem--for food, for filtration. We video underwater, and you would be stunned how few fish there are. This is an overdue action for our Commons which will in turn produce economic, recreational and health benefits for many. |

| David   | Marshall  | New Port Richey  | FL | US | Founder FishThe importance of feeder fish to the larger varieties of fish and land animals , including humans can not be measured. If we do not regulate and protect those founder fish we will loose the much needed seafood staples necessary to supplement the entire ecosystem.Even the crustations, and shellfish would suffer from the lack of fertilization from fish droppings needed by the microscopic nutritional plant species. Need I go further. There is a never ending chain that supports all life on Earth.To destroy a level of the food chain also jeopardizes the levels above that which larger fish, human, and other animals need for sustenance. It is wrong thinking to remove a rung in the ladder that will end up depriving even you as a human of a nutritional souce that may not be replaceable.rdmars8shall |

Our human population has outgrown the capacity of our planet's natural ecosystems to provide us with sufficient quantities of clean air, clean water, and healthy food. Therefore, we need to manage our impact on our planet's ecosystem or else dire consequences will occur such as global food shortages, etc.

This action is essential for the sustainability of our (and the world's) fisheries, as well as helping to maintain the balance of an increasingly out of balance ecosystem. We are already losing this fight. But industry managers and politicians need to recognize that capitalism cannot succeed without strong regulation and restrictions. Plundering our oceans is having long term disastrous consequences.

| William | Carbley   | Largo              | FL | US | On principle, I'm not an advocate for management, however, the realities of overfishing, overhunting, and generally over-everything which is occurring worldwide, makes it absolutely necessary to manage all of our remaining animal species in order to keep them from extinction. If we fail in this, our species will become extinct. Do what needs to be done. Thank you W. Carbley |

| Babette | Lewis | Lake Worth | FL | US | Hunters and fishermen are all alike, it's for the sport, the fish doesn't really matter except as a trophy for these people. I wish they would find something less deadly to play with, maybe some rocks or their boats, leave the fish alone. They don't enjoy the game! |

| Lynn  | Lawler | Vero Beach  | FL | US | I am very worried that the life support food staples of the oceans are being rapidly depleted by big business (pharmaceuticals ) in their eternal quest for the almighty buck. Krill is what I am thinking of, specifically. The large marine mammals, like whales depend on them solely as their source of food. If the vitamin doctors have their way, they will annihilate them for profit as a questionable health supplement. Tell them they don't have the right to do this. They didn't make them, so they shouldn't overfish them. Starve whales??Make them farm them out in the middle of the ocean like they do for salmon...the clean and conscionable way!! |

Thank you for your service. Please keep in mind the cycle of life in the water... We are seeing the worst of the break in cycle with our baby seals starving to death on the west coast. It is the most importance.

Put simply: no forage fish means no larger fish for fisheries to catch and the rest of us to eat. This means local economies collapse and a lot of people will begin to go hungry.

| Bryan                 | Bennett  | Kennesaw   | GA | US | The geological record of natural history shows 5 great mass extinctions in earth's 4.5 billion years. When huge numbers of species become extinct, the biological role that they perform in maintaining any ecosystem is compromised and therefore the health of the ecosystem itself is compromised. These ecosystems throughout our planet are our life support system, as well as that of all other aquatic and terrestrial species. When the health of these ecosystems is compromised, our ability to survive on this planet effectively is also compromised. Many biologists are saying that we are presently living in the sixth great mass extinction because biodiversity on the earth is disappearing at a rate that is much faster than the natural rate (estimated to be about 1000 times faster than the natural rate). This is mostly due to human activity (such as human development of natural environments resulting in the loss of habitats for many wildlife species and therefore the loss of many of those species). |

| Ann       | Raven      | Chicago        | IL | US | We are ruining the ecosystem creating holes in the circle of life so that all species suffer. Some become extinct. Why are humans so greedy and/or clueless and careless? Please protect the forage fish, do not over-fish, do not pollute the water where the fish live, etc! Thank you. |

| Mark      | Hodie     | Munster     | IN | US | As other countries have proven time and time again that they don't care about protecting the ocean's creatures, the USA can and must take the lead in saving them. We cannot afford to wait and must make sure that the fish and marine animals are protected from man-made harm. So many species are under threat and if nothing is done they could become extinct. Humans cause much of the damage, and so we must help to fix things. Please remember....Extinction is forever!! |

The forage fish are the basis of a food web for larger fish, marine mammals and other sea life. If they are overfished or wiped out, their absence unravels the ecosystem where they and other marine life co-exist. It's important to me that your staff works to protect these fish and their ecosystems.

It is extremely dismaying to realize that not all forage fish species are being protected, not to mention that which these forage fish, such as plankton and krill, feed on. New England's forests on our seacoasts kept the oceans healthy, as the decomposition of their leaves, floating into the ocean, released that which fed plankton. All must be protected!! |

I live on the MA coast and fish at least 60 days per season. I have personally noticed over the years a decline in both forage fish and the larger species that depend on them for sustenance. Thank you.

To : Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council members and staff, Lady and or Gentleman Good day I am truly excited about what you are going to do .Finally something will be done and we are happy that you are developing a plan to prohibit large-scale directed fishing on a long list of unregulated forage fish species and create a common-sense process to ensure that any new fisheries on them are sustainable. Forage fish make up the base of the ocean food web. Bigger fish, seabirds, and marine mammals all depend on forage fish as a food source. Conserving these important species is essential for the overall health of the marine ecosystem and for the sustainability of fishing, seafood, and wildlife tourism on the Atlantic coast. The conservation should scale a higher number because all the forage fish species are part of the functional health and life for the fishes and other creatures of the ocean. Please Protect the ocean and all that depend on it and in it. The more species, are protected the better the ocean ecosystems work with their help. Please Pass Strong Protections for All Unmanaged Forage Species Thank you. Sincerely, Ms. Maria Celia Hernandez

Dear MAFMC--

As the author of In Pursuit of Giants: One Man's Global Search for the Last of the Great Fish, published by Viking/Penguin, I spent five years and traveled 75,000 miles to trouble spots around the world to understand the causes of the decline of the ocean's great fish--marlin, bluefin tuna, and swordfish.

I drew the same conclusions in places as far-flung as Japan, Australia, the Mediterranean, Mexico, and Nova Scotia: government regulation that is compromised by the mandates of business equals inevitable decline for oceanic species.

The way forward is clear: we must protect the base of the food chain if there is to be any future for other species and for people who make their living from the sea.

Please take a more precautionary approach to protect forage species. Collectively, we should be instituting approaches that aid in rebuilding not just one or two species, but entire ecosystems. That begins with forage species and re-establishment of habitat.

Matt Rigney

| Michael          | Morris    | West Newbury    | MA | US | Forage fish are the foundation of our marine ecosystem & fishery here in New England. The overfishing & mismanagement of this resource is one of the major factors in the decline of our fishery. Please take the necessary steps to protect east coast herring, menhaden, mackerel, sand eels and other forage fish species that used to inhabit our New England waters in great numbers. The sizable decline in my lifetime alone is unacceptable. |

Pat Parran Baltimore MD US

This is very a very important action to protect the health of our forage fish in addition to that of the marine life that consume them. The present lack of regulatory measures has allowed fisherman to massively reduce the supply of many important small species of fish. This is not sustainable! There is growing evidence that much of our marine life is washing ashore either dead or at least malnourished due to starvation. Many sea animals and large fish are dependent upon various unprotected forage species. We must prevent the escalation of uncontrolled fishing of these fish.

Our oceans are dying under the assault of human pollution and abuse, it is past time to start protecting them, if we want to have a healthy planet to live on.

We need to be more protective of our food resources--both on land and in our waters. We must seriously cut back the use of poisons, and burning of fossil fuels. Health care costs are soaring because of it!

It sounds like this is very important to the food chain of all species so we can continue to fish for the ones that we eat. I support anything that keeps the ecosystem healthy and working to keep everything in balance.

Please do all you can to save and protect forage fish. There is concern forth food and sport fish but little is done to protect the food that feeds them and other marine life and birds.

This does not bode well for the species that depend on these fisheries, including all of humanity, of which myself and my children are a part. Please don't jeopardize our future; please pass strong protections for forage species. |

Prohibit large scale directed fishing on unregulated forage fish species. Create a common-sense process to ensure that any new fisheries are sustainable.

| Howard   | Booth        | Boulder City    | NV | US | Even from here in the desert, many of us follow the efforts and effectiveness of Fishery Management Councils in keeping the long time viability of the fishery industry going---and your efforts in the mid Atlantic at doing this are so much appreciated. We here are watching to see how your efforts pan out! Thanks for your far-sighted efforts. |

| Barbara   | Jones       | West Islip      | NY | US | We have to stop looking at anything and everything as a commodity. There is a delicate balance here on earth and we need to respect it, not plunder it. We have done so much damage already. Can we really imagine living in a Mad Max world in the near future? Is this what we want for our children? Greed has to step aside for the planet to heal. We are heading down a path of doom if we don't take heed now! I have no children, but my heart and soul weep for all the species mankind has had so little regard for though out our history. Please stop the madness now and allow the planet to heal itself. Where we should be putting our attention it slowing the growth of the human species. Our numbers have grown exponentially and the planet can't support it's demands much longer. Wise up or be washed away. Have we learned nothing form our past? |

| Vic       | Tiship     | Putnam Valley | NY | US | The health of our oceans and marine fisheries are paramount to a vibrant economy. Integral with that goal are forage fish that feed numerous species. For far too long we have allowed decimation of forage fish by corporate factory ships - this must be stopped. For far too long we have allowed polluting factory farms to pollute bays and estuaries, the nurseries of the seas, and that must be stopped as well. For far too long money and influence have caused regulatory agencies and policies to turn a blind-eye to destruction of our priceless resources and marine environment - and all of these things MUST be changed and now! |

| Kathy     | Napolitano    | Port Chester    | NY | US | we need to protect all that is part of the fishes lives. We need to nderstand how the ecosystem works and make very serious decisions, which will not impact the fish, the Atlantic or ecosystem. This means mindful inspection of what each move would mean to all the above. Ever action must be carefully made with consideration of the impact it would have on all every aspect of all involved. |

| Laura       | Barmack      | Bronx             | NY | US | Preserving forage fishes preserves the food chain on which all larger biological forms -- both marine and terrestrial -- depend. Failing to protect these forms would be as unthinkable as burning all the trees on the planet: all the life processes that depend on them would cease and our planet -- as we know it -- would be destroyed. Protecting these species is the least we can do . Please support this effort. We need the strongest protections possible. |

It is critical that serious measures are taken in the US to rebuild a devastated fishery. Your action will have a rippling effect on fisheries across the globe, and no action will turn the tide for the worst.

The time to act is now.

We need these small fish to feed other larger ones. Our world population is getting so large we can't keep up with the demand for fish. We can't keep pulling them all out of the ocean. If we do that we will doom ourselves. We need healthy oceans to survive.

| Jan       | Elliott   | Portland       | OR | US | When we take too many forage fish, we upset the ecology of the ocean and take away food from animals that cannot survive without it. (Seals, whales) I used to take Krill in supplement form for painful joints. I found alternatives. Humans should not take Krill away from whales or other fish or mammals that need them. Same goes for sardines. I no longer eat sardines. Most people will not willingly do this, so limits must be set. |

Strong corrections are needed to protect and ensure viable oceans. Regulating sustainable forage fishing is part of the solution. |

| Leslie   | Roessler  | Bethlehem    | PA | US | Forage fish are the unsung heroes of the sea, underappreciated by the public but essential to the overall health of our oceans. It is heartening to see that the MAFMC acknowledges the great importance of all forage fish to our environmental and economic security, and I strongly urge you to stick to the science that underlies your proposal by extending full protection to all the species you've included. Those businesses which may object to these protections for their own short-term gain must be made to understand that without them, there will be no more fish to catch. |

Dear Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council members and staff, Thank you for your commitment to protecting forage species. The Unmanaged Forage Amendment is a responsible plan to ensure that managers consider the impacts to the species, ecosystem, and economy before expanding existing fisheries or creating new ones. A robust forage base can help ensure abundant predator populations, a healthy Atlantic Ocean, and a thriving, sustainable fishing economy in our region. It is essential to examine the potential impacts before directed fishing occurs, especially when so little is known about the many forage species listed in the amendment. Your proactive work to create protections for these crucial species, and the ecosystem they support, sets an example for modern fisheries management. Please keep the unmanaged forage amendment moving forward without delay, and pass the strongest protections for every species on the proposed list. They are all important prey for predators in our region and deserve protection. Chub mackerel has already become a large fishery, so the council should set a temporary cap on catch at the lowest level being considered and initiate full federal management now. For the other species on the list, set a limit on the combined catch of these species for each fishing trip (without any loopholes that could allow the limit to be easily changed) that prevents large-scale fishing. The council should require a permit for retention of any listed species as well as detailed reporting. Finally, the council should review any proposals for additional fishing of species on the list, even on an experimental basis, and there must be full federal management in place before any large-scale fishing begins. I appreciate your leadership in forage protections and urge the MAFMC to pass precautionary protections for all forage species under consideration. Please protect these valuable fish and the Atlantic Ocean ecosystems and coastal economies they sup...

The video Secrets Police Don't Want You To Know at <http://youtu.be/B3nok7Cby28> is 2.5 hours long but it's totally worth your time to watch the whole entire thing because it exposes how the cops, judges, prosecution attorneys, politicians, and car insurance salesmen have stolen BILLIONS from the common people as well as the secrets that anyone can follow to prevent them from stealing that money. Also check out the scripts related to the video at <http://logoradionetwork.com/tao/>

This video can help put a stop to tyranny and in turn bring freedom and higher consciousness to all! So please help me in my crusade to spread this info like wildfire on a global scale.

Without enough forage fish, the predators of the sea cannot survive, and the environmental balance of the sea will be upset. Sustainable fishing cannot survive under these conditions, and we all suffer. Please keep the Unmanaged Forage Amendment moving forward without delay, and pass the strongest protections possible.

***The marine food chain cannot sustain the human demand for such vast quantities of biomass as industry interests would wish to take for cheap livestock feed. The higher-trophic wildlife of the oceans and coasts are already starving for their traditional food sources, and ASMFC must not allow any more of the marine mid-trophic links to be vacuumed out. We are obligated to take only what the marine food chain can spare, not to monopolize it to the exclusion of everything else, from sharks to seabirds, that need what we casually call 'forage fish' for their survival.***

| Gail        | Reaben    | Houston     | TX | US | Every change in our environment affects something else, either positively or negatively. For our food sources in our oceans, great care needs to be taken to keep our waters healthy and the fish that live in them. You and Pew seem to understand the importance of evaluating potential risks. We citizens are counting you both of you to keep our oceans, and the fish who life there, safe and balanced for our food supply! |

| Richard   | Gingras    | Quinton        | VA | US | Our fisheries must be recovered from the brink of a tragedy of the commons - we are in danger of losing them to the point where it will take decades for them to recover, just as has happened with the haddock and halibut that was so plentiful when I was a child 60-odd years ago. Because of that overfishing, the New England fleets in New England were hard-hit and economies were devastated. We are on the road to doing it again because greed knows no bounds and only strict regulation will keep it in check. |

| Pamela     | Nowell    | Lynchburg      | VA | US | Given this situation, it is critical to assure that all species of forage fish are included in the proposal. The impact on the marine ecosystem and assuring sustainability for the economy depends on assuring the strongest measures possible. It is a win-win for all. Thank you, |

The problem of habitat loss or damage, pollution, and harvest, have all had a degrading impact on Forage Fish health and abundance. How you can allow so much harvest on forage fish, on top of the existing losses and limitations on these fish, is not realistic. We need to do better. We need to do more. We have not done enough. |

| Sigrid | Asmus | Seattle | WA | US | It is crucial that forage fish be protected, both in marine environments, and in places like California's rivers, where their survival is threatened by officials who will not allow enough water in the rivers for fish like smelt to survive. The scarcity of forage fish means every higher species is at greater risk of starving. Please insist on the strongest possible protections for forage fish. |

Hello, I hold a management position at a major manufacturer of commercial fishing equipment. I have also fished commercially for years. From this background, I implore you to manage all fish, lest they be removed from the ocean completely. All life is connected, and the more species we push to extinction, the closer we come to extinction ourselves.

Forage fish are critical to the ocean's ecosystem and food system structure, so making sure our fisheries are sustainable a plan is necessary to regulate those species.

| Christina | Ciano          | Madison         | WI | US | Sea lion pups are starving because humans are overfishing crucial forage fish populations that these marine mammals greatly need to survive. Adult sea lions disappear for days and weeks, unable to find food in their traditional habitat, so they must search farther and farther afield. In the meantime, their youngsters are left to wait for their parents' return, suffering from hunger and starvation. This is totally unacceptable. Fishermen have overfished and wildlife are paying the price. You need to protect them. |
