RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.222 Tribal Colleges Endowment Program; 10.500 Cooperative Extension Service

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: 1) Increasing the Capacity of FDLTCC to offer STEM Programming in Sustainability

Students, faculty and staff developed a plan to add campus gardens to provide fresh food and traditional medicine for the college and attract pollinating insects. Environmental science majors planted native flora to support wildlife diversity during spring and summer of 2015. The college will begin an apiary science program in partnership with the Northeastern Minnesota Beekeepers Association.

2) Community Health and Vitality: Expanding career opportunities and student success in the STEM fields

This equity funding supports upper level math and science courses that student must pass to earn an associates in natural science. On average, no more than three student annually have the skills and confidence to take these classes, and equity funding is instrumental to these students getting their degree. Four did so in 2014. In 2015, Leech Lake will explore adding an earth science degree that would have a transfer agreement with the University of Duluths four-year degree track.

3) Continuing A Culturally Relevant Environmental Science Program

The college will continue to add classes as faculty work towards the goal of creating the first degree program in the sciences. The equity grant funds a recruiter, a lab technician and a scholarship program where students could build their research competencies through internships.

4) SCC Native in Future America (NIFA) Project

College uses its equity fund to support its students, who are often the first in their family to attend college (81%), mostly poor (90%) and may have limited English proficiency (77%). Students with talent in math or science earn Equity stipends by mentoring pre-college students from Box Elder High School and Rocky Boy High School.

5) IAIA Seed Library Project

This project centers on academic programs at the college with a focus on environmental science and conservation. In 2015 the focus will be on how several native species of milkweed sustain migrating monarch butterflies. Students will increase monarch populations through butterfly gardens on campus that illustrate the symbiosis between plant and insect species. Fiscal Year 2016: 1) Promoting Student Success through Experiential Learning in Environmental Science

The project promotes student participation, learning and success by providing engaging and relevant experiential learning activities across Aaniiih Nakoda College's Integrated Environmental Science (IES) curriculum.

2) Experiential Learning at Blackfeet Community College

The Goal of this four-year project is to incorporate student experiential/nature-based learning across all curriculum's at Blackfeet Community College to increase student retention by 30 percent by the end of this program.

3) Native Food Pathways: An Ojibwa Approach to Food Science

The College seeks to expand offerings within the environmental science program to include food science. Topics will include organic gardening, fruit production, maple syrup and honey production.

4) Education in Sustainability

The main goal of the project is to give students, faculty and staff the tools needed to increase environmental sustainability on campus. Capacity in sustainability will be built through experiential learning experiences for students and professional development for faculty and staff. The impact of this project will be campus wide, as even students who aren't participating in sustainability initiatives benefit from this work. Haskell will save money on energy, water, and waste disposal and those resources can be directed elsewhere.

5) Revised Curricula in Agriculture and Initiation of Foods and Nutrition Programs for Health and Wellness

Project provides a rodeo program which involves about 150 students each year. The project also provides an equine assisted learning program. Fiscal Year 2017: Information is not available. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

Cambio: Climate-change Adaptation and Management for Biodiversity to promote Inclusion and Opportunities for Hispanic students in the Fields: Humboldt State University, Reedley College and Bakersfield College will offer students scholarships to pursue degrees in forestry, range management, or soils at Humboldt with an emphasis on climate change impacts.

Florida-Caribbean Consortium for Agriculture Education and Hispanic Workforce Development: to establish a multi-institutional consortium in Florida and Puerto Rico for training underrepresented students in biological and natural sciences for career placement in USDA and other federal agencies. Fiscal Year 2016: RISE: Pathways to Diversity in Food Science Careers will invest in the dissemination of opportunities in the Food Safety field providing information and student experiential learning to undergraduate and graduate students interested in entering graduate programs leading to the MS and the Ph.D. in Food Safety. The student experiential learning is a tool to cultivate and develop the next generation of scientist, leaders and increase the opportunities to support the future highly-skilled workforce needs of the food and agriculture sector, including the area of Food Safety.

LEADERS: A collaborative project between an institution in Texas and another one in New Mexico focuses on improving underrepresented student success at animal science programs to become well-rounded leaders who address food security. The purpose of this project is to increase numbers of Hispanic leaders in animal science by developing experiential learning activities that increase retention and graduation rates and enhance scientific skills and professional development of an audience of underrepresented B.S. (n=15) and M.S. (n=10) students. The LEADERS program will produce experienced underrepresented graduates who are well qualified to enter the work force and provide human capital necessary to enhance the nations food supply.

BE AWARE: This project proposes five thrust activities: (1) attracting, recruiting and retaining students; (2) implementing a novel multidisciplinary career development and mentoring model; (3) provide students with inter-institutional laboratory exchanges and experiential learning; (4) developing workshops and seminars; and (5) developing instructional material. The beneficiaries are minority students enrolled at institutions in Texas and Puerto Rico, students from Community Colleges, faculty members from HSIs and USDA-ARS/FS agencies. The students supported in Year 2 (2016-2017) are 15 at the Associate of Science level, 6 at the Bachelor of Science level, 4 at the Master of Science/Doctoral level.

IFSEEN: Based on the progress and foundation established in Year 1, the IFSEEN consortium is going to enhance the created educational linkage for collaboratively generating future Hispanic food safety/science professionals and leaders. The IFSEEN team will continue:

- (1) to attract, retain and graduate underrepresented students in food and agricultural sciences;
- (2) to strengthen institutional educational capacities to serve the needs of students in the four HSIs;
- (3) to strengthen research capabilities;
- (4) to facilitate collaboration and partnership among the four HSIs, USDA agencies, agricultural institutions and external scientists;
- (5) to build the network of Hispanic students and professionals of food science.

To accomplish these objectives in Year 2, the IFSEEN team will continue to outreach to local high schools, develop new course materials, target incoming students and train them as cohorts as they matriculate through their undergraduate education. The IFSEEN program further promote activities including career in scientific research academic advising, cross-disciplinary laboratory technique courses, food science laboratory research with mentors at the four HSIs, external summer internship at USDA agencies and Tier 1 agricultural institutions, presenting at national conferences, and attending workshops.

Southwest Natural Resource Career Track Program: This Collaboration proposal is a partnership among 12 Hispanic Serving Institutions in the southwest focused on the USDA Priority Area of Natural Resources and Climate Change. We address the primary USDA educational need area of student experiential learning by mentoring students in our Southwest Natural Resource Career Track (NRCT) Program to prepare them for careers in natural resource management. This program will serve a minimum of 44 undergraduate & 6 graduate students annually across partner institutions. Fiscal Year 2017: On FY 2017, funds will support four Collaboration-continuation and four STANDARD continuation awards.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the Request for Application (RFA).

10.225 COMMUNITY FOOD PROJECTS

Community Foods

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Community Food Projects Competitive Grants Program (CFPCGP) legislative authority is located in Section 25 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2034), as amended by the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008 and Section 4402 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 (Pub. L. 110-246), which authorizes a program of federal grants to establish and carry out Community Food Projects., 7 U.S.C 2034.

OBJECTIVES:

To support the development of community food projects designed to meet the food needs of low-income people; increase the self-reliance of communities in providing for their own needs; and promote comprehensive responses to local food, farm, and nutrition issues.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Community food projects are intended to take a comprehensive approach to developing long-term solutions that help to ensure food security in communities by linking the food sector to community development, economic opportunity, and environmental enhancement. Comprehensive solutions may include elements such as:

- (1) Improved access to high quality, affordable food among low-income households;
- (2) support for local food systems, from urban gardening to local farms that provide high quality fresh food, ideally with minimal adverse environmental impact; and
- (3) expanded economic opportunities for community residents through local business or other economic development, improved employment opportunities, job training, youth apprenticeship, school-to-work transition, and the like. Any solution proposed must tie into community food needs.

Successful applicants must provide matching funds, either in cash or in-kind amounting to at least 50 percent of the total cost of the project during the term of the grant award. 1. Construction and Renovation: With prior approval, and in accordance with applicable Federal cost principles, grant funds may be used to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land; and for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land or buildings, necessary to carry out a funded project under this program. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are essential to achieving the major purpose for which the grant request is made.

2. Indirect Costs: Full Negotiated Rate.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent.

Applicant Eligibility:

Proposals may be submitted by private nonprofit entities. Because projects must promote comprehensive responses to local food, farm, and nutrition issues, applicants are encouraged to seek and create partnership among public, private nonprofit and private for-profit organizations or firms.

To be further eligible for a grant, a private nonprofit applicant must meet three mandatory requirements:

1. Have experience in the area of:

- (a) community food work, particularly concerning small and medium-sized farms, including the provision of food to people in low-income communities and the development of new markets in low-income communities for agricultural producers; or
- (b) job training and business development activities in low-income communities;

2. demonstrate competency to implement a project, provide fiscal accountability and oversight, collect data, and prepare reports and other appropriate documentation; and

3. demonstrate a willingness to share information with researchers, practitioners, and other interested parties.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Low income people.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

All RFAs are published on the Agency's website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process. Please see the following Grants.gov link for more information: http://www.grants.gov/applicants/get_registered.jsp. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov. .

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
- (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;

(d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;

(e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and

(f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

Evaluation Criteria will be delineated in the RFA.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Appeals:

2 CFR Part 200 Subparts D & E apply to this program.

Renewals:

Specific details are provided in the Request for Applications (RFA) each fiscal year.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 100%. Successful CFP applicants and PP award applicants MUST provide matching on a dollar-for-dollar basis (100%) for all federal funds awarded.

Matching funds are not required for T & TA grants.

The legislation establishing the FSLC requires that as a condition to receiving a grant from NIFA, the NGO must contribute in-kind resources toward implementing the grant. To comply with this provision, NIFA has determined that applicants must provide at least 25 percent of total project resources on an in-kind basis during the term of the grant award. The Federal share of FSLC costs can be no more than 75 percent of total project costs. CFP, PP and FSCL grantees may provide matching funds through cash and/or in-kind contributions, including third-party in-kind contributions fairly evaluated, including facilities. The non-federal share of the funding may come from state government, local government, other non-profit entities, or private sources. Examples of qualifying matching contributions may include direct costs such as: rent for office space used exclusively for the funded project; duplication or postage costs; and staff time from an entity other than the applicant for job training or nutrition education.

SPECIAL NOTES:

(1) Use of Indirect Costs as In-Kind Matching Contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent. (2) Matching funds are not required for training and technical assistance (T & TA) grants. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The term of competitive project grants and/or cooperative agreements under this program may not exceed three (3) years.

2 CFR Part 200, Subpart D applies to this program. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.572 WIC Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (FMNP)

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The Farms to Food Bank program addresses the issue of poverty by working with socially disadvantaged farmers in Strikeforce counties to grow fresh produce for regional food banks. All the produce grown by the farmers are donated. Socially disadvantaged farmers in the region lack the infrastructure and resources needed to expand their retail markets. The premise of the planning grant is to expand the Farms to Food Bank program beyond its preliminary stages into a viable business model that can be replicated in other counties in and outside the initial target region of the Carolinas. Fiscal Year 2016: Families, Food & Farms: Connecting Food Resources:

As partners of the Rogue Valley Food system Network, Access and the Family Nurturing Center will collaborate to increase food self-sufficiency and improve nutritional health in the context of local food system efforts through innovative solutions. The partners will work to increase access to healthy, locally produced food for underserved community members and specifically families recovering from substance abuse.

Linking Mobile Markets and Urban Farms Initiative: Funding for this proposal will increase Foodlinks ability to meet the food needs of low-income individuals and improve food access in underserved communities by strengthening the connections between programs, reducing waste and distributing more fresh produce through the Curbside market. The Curbside Market is an innovative program that links local farmers with consumers in low-income and low-food access communities. The program is the areas largest urban farm, serving over 200 Nepali and Burmese gardeners. Fiscal Year 2017: Information is not yet available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the Request for Application (RFA). 1. The applicability and merit of the proposed project in regard to its ability to: Meet the food needs of low-income people in the proposed community for providing for its own food needs; and promote comprehensive responses to local food, farm, and nutrition needs; 2. the capacity to become self-sustaining once Federal funding ends; and 3. organizational and staff qualifications and experience; and 4. additional criteria will be considered relative to the extent the proposed project contributes to: (a) developing linkages between two or more sectors of the food system; (b) supporting the development of entrepreneurial projects; (c) developing innovative linkages between the for-profit and nonprofit food sectors; (d) encouraging long-term planning activities and multi-system, interagency approaches; and (e) incorporating linkages to one or more ongoing USDA themes or initiatives referred to in the program guidelines and/or annual proposal solicitation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds may be used only in targeted areas, e.g., curricula design and materials development, promotion of teaching competencies, promotion of agriscience and agribusiness career information, instruction delivery systems, student experiential learning, and educational activities that increase the diversity of students pursuing degrees in agriscience and agribusiness. NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities. Tuition remission not allowed. Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions: Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution.

Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;

10.001 Agricultural Research_Basic and Applied Research; 10.200 Grants for Agricultural Research, Special Research Grants; 10.202 Cooperative Forestry Research; 10.203 Payments to Agricultural Experiment Stations Under the Hatch Act; 10.205 Payments to 1890 Land-Grant Colleges and Tuskegee University; 10.207 Animal Health and Disease Research; 10.219 Biotechnology Risk Assessment Research; 10.250 Agricultural and Rural Economic Research; 10.652 Forestry Research

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Water and Tribal Environment Research (WATER)

During each year of the grant ten students per trimester will conduct research on the relationship between water and soil quality. Students will identify a research question or hypothesis, which they will test at one of five water sites identified by tribal government. Students will learn to take samples and conduct environmental field work. They will, under the project directors guidance, also learn to analyze samples and report data. Oklahoma State University Institute of Technology will provide instruction as their contribution to the project.

Generating Research in Agriculture for Students in STEM (GRASSTEM)

The GRASSTEM project will fund students research s on the effects of invasive Kentucky blue grass on a native prairie ecosystem over a two-year period. This research project will be conducted at the pasture study area of the USDA-ARS Northern Great Plains Research Laboratory (NGPRL). The location is idea for students as it is just ten miles from the United Tribes Technical College (UTTC) campus. This research project is designed to be a collaboration to further and enhance previous research that has been conducted by the NGPRL staff. It will give students training in research field work and data gathering as well as give them important professional contacts as they build a career in agricultural research.

Stream Bank Best Management Practices on Tribal Lands in Northeastern Kansas

The project is intended to quantify the environmental benefits of USDA-sponsored stream bank stabilization and restoration projects in northeastern Kansas, primarily on Indian Reservations. Over 20 stream bank stabilization projects have been installed in this region over that past 15 years, with very little follow-up monitoring of the effectiveness of these practices. In particular, this project will evaluate the effect of revetments, sloping structures placed on banks or cliffs in such a way as to absorb the energy of incoming water. Assessments will include erosion rates, water quality and riparian vegetation. As part of the educational component, students will assess the effect of stream bank stabilization efforts (riparian buffers) on aquatic habitat and biological communities in the area. Wherever possible, undergraduates will conduct these investigations under the mentorship of Haskell faculty. The project team also intends to include youth from the involved tribe(s) in the investigations, particularly during a Youth Conservation Day toward the end of the grant period. This project builds on an earlier TCRGP project entitled Stream Bank Inventory and Stabilization on Tribal Lands in Kansas. The grant review panel suggested revisions to this application or had additional questions which the applicant has addressed.

Developing a research common garden to study climate change impacts on pinyon pine (Pinus edulis)

This project will test whether drought resistant pinyon pine trees from Sunset Crater near Flagstaff, Arizona can thrive in drought conditions on the eastern Navajo Nation. Navajo Technical University will develop a new 600 tree research garden on campus to compare drought tolerance in native and hybrid pinyon trees. Projects such as this pinyon experimental forest are increasing viewed as important facilities for long term research and for finding ways to mitigate the impacts of climate change.

Determining and Developing Native Pollinator Habitat and Diversity for Improved Pollination of Amelanchier Cultivars

This research will identify indigenous pollinators of Amelanchier (Juneberry) plant species in an effort to increase their prevalence and thereby ensure increased reestablishment of Juneberries on the reservation lands, a priority set by elders and the greater community. Students will learn techniques of pollinator collecting, identifying, and promoting and about the research processes in general, from literature reviews to data analysis and report writing. South Dakota State University (SDSU) faculty will conduct workshops on insect sampling, preserving, and identification for the tribal colleges faculty and students. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

Turtle Mountain Community College, Anishinabe Campus Student Research Experience. Using Biological Indicators as Measures for Water Quality

Turtle Mountain Community College students will use biological indicators to measure water quality in Belcourt Lake. This project builds off of previous student research projects, which also used macroinvertebrates to evaluate water quality in Ox Creek, a waterway fed by the spill way of Belcourt Lake. The previous project found high levels of lead in sloughs north and west of Belcourt Lake. The project director expects six students to have an intensive training in research and leadership skills.

An Undergraduate Research Experience to Develop Improved Forest Carbon and Biomass Models for the Salish-Kootenai & Nez Perce Inventory Programs

The project supports sustainable silviculture of indigenous forests and bioenergy production. It will also train students through hands-on experiences in forestry research. The collaborators are the University of Montana College of Forestry and Conservation, a McIntire-Stennis institution. Tribal partners are the forestry departments of the Nez Perce, Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes.

Conservation Bison Herd Health and Well-Being

This research will evaluate the effect of diet, parasites and disease on the reproductive fitness of Fort Peck Tribes bison herds. The Fort Peck Tribes Yellowstone conservation herd had a calving rate of essentially 100 percent in 2015. However, in the same year, the tribes commercial herds calving rate was only 75 percent. This study whether herd health is the deciding factor in the calving rates. The project director reports that the Fort Peck Tribes conservation herd offers a rare opportunity to conduct this evidence-based research, as its genetics are devoid of cattle DNA introgression. The work will be conducted with direct involvement of three Fort Peck Community College students supervised by faculty from that institution.

Plant Phenology as an Indicator of Forest Community Resilience and Adaptive Capacity

This research will evaluate how climate changes affects how plants emerge, flower, produce seed and go dormant. Observing changes in plant life cycles and their reproductive fitness could provide strong indicators of changing climate conditions and assist natural resource managers in responding to change. In particular, this project will identify which plant species can provide early warning indicators of climate change in Northeastern Wisconsin.

New Discovery: Atmospheric Mercury Loading In The St. Louis River Watershed And Potential Correlation With Dragonfly Bioaccumulation

The project director will guide students as they measure the mercury deposition in the St. Louis River watershed. Students will test for correlation between dry deposition and bioaccumulation of mercury in dragonfly larvae. The data will help tribal natural resource managers and health officials to protect those who rely on the watersheds fish and plant life food. This student, which builds on previous student research, is also timely in that recent studies find that one in ten infants on the North Shore of Lake Superior have unsafe levels of mercury in their blood. Fiscal Year 2017: Data is not yet available. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. .

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: In FY 2015, approximately $3.194 million was appropriated for the ANNH Program. After legislatively authorized set-asides, the amount available for awards to the states of Alaska and Hawaii was $3,057,603.

Each state was awarded 50:50 according to the legislative authority that mandates the ANNH Program. All proposals are peer panel reviewed together according to the ANNH RFA requirements and awarded until their respective state funds run out. A total of 2 proposals were received from both states and all were processed: Hawaii was awarded: $1,502,801 and Alaska was awarded: $1,528,802

The ratio was: 100%. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016 ANNH award cycle, a total of $3,056,928 was available for awards after deducting legislatively authorized set-asides.

Project types are Regular ($150,000 - $450,000) and Consortium Grant ($300,000 - $1,500,000) applications.

Each eligible individual institution, independent branch campus, and branch institution of State system may receive, or be a party to, a maximum of two grant awards one Regular Grant and one Consortium Grant. A total of 3 ANNH applications were received:

- (1) consortium project of nine (9) institutions in Alaska;
- (2) consortium project of nine (9) institutions in Hawaii; and,
- (3) regular application from one institution in Hawaii.

As evaluated by a peer review panel, the 3 applications requested a total amount of $3,478,786.68 which exceeded the award balance of $3,056,928 by at least 12%. Hence, the regular application was not funded and referred to the Hawaii consortium project for future potential partnership.

The funding ratio for the ANNH Program in FY 2016 is 67%. Fiscal Year 2017: For FY 2017 the projected budget for the ANNH Program is approximately $3.2 million. It is projected that approximately $3 million will be divided equally between the two states after the legislatively authorized set-asides are deducted.

10.217 Higher Education Challenge Grants; 10.220 Higher Education Multicultural Scholars Program; 10.223 Hispanic Serving Institutions Education Grants

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: University of Hawaii Agribusiness Education, Training and Incubator Project (AETI)- focuses on building capacity among Hawaii's rural agriculture communities.

Drumbeats Alaska-Tradition and Science - delivers coursework and supports students in Veterinary Science, Ethnobotany, Environmental Studies and High Latitude Range Management. Fiscal Year 2016: University of Hawaii (UH) Agribusiness Education, Training and Incubation (AETI) Project

The purpose of this project is to:

- (1) develop and strengthen the local agricultural and food production workforce through education and training and
- (2) expand local agricultural and food production through more productive agribusinesses.

This partnership of 8 UH campuses. the UHs Agribusiness Incubator Program provides educational programs that target a variety of degree levels, including Associate of Science, and Bachelors of Science. Also, the program emphasizes Student Experiential Learning, and Student Recruitment, Retention, and Educational Equality, with focus on developing student leadership skills, and building capacity among Hawaiis rural agriculture communities, including a large number of NH and other traditionally underserved minority populations. Project outcomes include a higher number of graduates in agricultural sciences; and increased productivity and profitability of Hawaii agribusinesses. Drumbeats Alaska: Tradition and Science, Year 3

Tradition and Science, Year 3, has two main thrusts plan for sustainability of indigenous knowledge and usage paired with Western science programs to strengthen career pathways for Alaska Native and rural students. Subsistence knowledge and usage is a term based on the Alaska National Interest Land Conservation Act (ANILCA) and used to refer to those target USDA sciences that assist individuals and communities to better understand and improve food, shelter, transportation and other material aspects of rural/village life. The proposed plan of work continues to build on the accomplishments of earlier funding to deliver coursework and support students in Ethnobotany, Environmental Studies (including sustainable energy), High Latitude Range Management and continued development of new opportunities in tribal natural resource management. Funding will also support the continued development of a coastal resource science program at UAS Ketchikan and a continued marine science career pathway at UAS Sitka. Fiscal Year 2017: Traditionally, Alaska and Hawaii institutions partner to apply for this grants program. NIFA projects that both Hawaii and Alaska will renew the actual applications for the same amount of funds awarded in FY 2016.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: ERS research on the farm and rural economy found the following:

- Rural employment loss and recovery during and after the Great Recession varied widely across rural counties
- While production more than doubled from 2000 to 2010 in three emerging energy industries; shale gas, wind power, and corn-based ethanol. Employment effects in the local and regional economies varied, with the greatest impact from gas production.

--While farm business debt rose from 1992 to 2011, the average farm debt-to-asset ratio declined over the period, as did the share of highly leverage farm businesses.

--ERS farm income indicators and forecasts measure the financial performance of the U.S. farm sector.

--Rural wealth creation offers a way to achieve sustainable economic growth through a variety of development strategies based on community and regional assets.

ERS research and analysis of U.S. agricultural markets found the following:

--ERS published multiple products providing highlights and economic implications of the new programs and provisions of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (2014 Farm Bill).

--About half of total cropland is now planted to genetically engineered (GE) corn, cotton, and soybeans. The adoption of insecticide-resistant (Bt) seeds has led to higher yields and net returns, while outcomes for adoption of herbicide-tolerant (HT) varieties are more mixed.

--Discrepancies or non-convergence between futures and cash prices in wheat, corn, and soybean markets in the mid-to-late 2000s were primarily associated with contract design and market conditions rather than financial speculation.

--ERS provided new information on pollinator markets.

--Data from the 2010 Agricultural Management Resource Survey (ARMS) show considerable variation in corn yields, cropping practices, costs, and returns.

--Risk management programs that lock in a fixed margin between dairy prices and feed costs show the potential to reduce downside risks for dairy producers.

--ERS provided a new breakout of dairy industry commercial sales.

--ERS analysis on the costs incurred by farmers prior to planting helps the USDA Risk Management Agency (RMA) establish prevented planting insurance premiums and indemnities.

--ERS conducted a comprehensive study on the scope of, and trends in, local and regional foods.

ERS research on climate change found the following:

--Consumer and producer welfare will be reduced over the next several decades if temperatures rise as suggested by several climate change scenarios.

--Climate disruptions to agricultural production have increased in the past 40 years and by several possible climate change scenarios suggest increasingly negative impacts on most crop and livestock production the U.S. by mid-century.

ERS research on conservation, water, and environmental issues found the following:

--Conservation payments can encourage farming practices that improve environmental quality, but their efficacy varies by type of practice and program design.

--The cost of achieving water quality goals under EPA's 2010 Total Maximum Daily Load limits for the Chesapeake Bay depends heavily on which policy choices are selected and how they are implemented.

--Implementation of the Evidence and Innovation Agenda is moving forward as interagency research teams cooperate to develop experiments to test existing and new approaches to program delivery.

--Pesticide use, including the use of herbicides, insecticides, and fungicides, tripled from 1960 to 1981, but has since trended downward to 516 million pounds in 2008.

ERS research on technological innovation and investment found the following:

--World population and income increases will drive future demand for agriculture, but impacts on prices and land use depend largely on the rate of agricultural productivity growth.

ERS research on the organic sector found the following:

--Although ERS analysis finds that the net returns for organic crops may exceed those from conventionally grown crops such as corn, organic production has not kept pace with demand.

ERS research on global food security found the following:

--Food security is projected to improve for most developing countries.

--ERS finds that new policies in India improved domestic food security but did not shelter poor residents from all market shocks in the late 2000s.

ERS research on global agricultural markets found the following:

--USDA Agricultural Projections to 2023 suggest long run increases in global consumption, world trade, and agricultural commodity prices.

--A proposed Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) could spur growth in U.S. agricultural exports in Asia-Pacific markets, including a diverse array of U.S. agricultural exports to Japan and Vietnam.

--China's average corn yield is roughly 40 percent less than the U.S. average.

Fiscal Year 2016: ERS research explores how investments in rural people, business, and communities affect the capacity of rural economies to prosper in the new and changing global marketplace. The agency analyzes how demographic trends, employment opportunities, Federal policies, and public investment in infrastructure and technology enhance economic opportunity and quality of life for rural Americans. Equally important is ERS's commitment to help enhance the quality of life for the Nation's small farmers who increasingly depend on these rural economies for employment and economic support, as well as to analyze new developments in the linkages between these farmers, consumers, and local economies.

ERS continues to monitor changing economic and demographic trends in rural America, particularly the implications of these changes for the employment, education, income, and housing patterns of low-income rural populations. The rural development process is complex and sensitive to a wide range of factors that, to a large extent, are unique to each rural community. Nonetheless, ERS assesses general approaches to development to determine when, where, and under what circumstances rural development strategies will be most successful.

ERS research and analysis provide insight into market conditions facing U.S. agriculture, avenues for innovation, and market expansion to help farmers and ranchers manage risk. ERS produces USDA's estimates of farm income. In addition, the ERS program identifies and analyzes market structure and technological developments that affect efficiency and profitability, and examines developments in the linkages.

The ERS climate change research program develops models and other analytical techniques to predict responses of farmers to greenhouse gas mitigation options, analyze the impact of mitigation options on domestic and global agricultural markets and land and water use, and evaluate adaptation by farmers to a new climate regime through use of alternative technologies. The ERS climate change research program builds on extensive expertise on the economics of land use and land management, technology adoption, conservation program design, economics of biofuels, and value and dissemination of public investment in research and development.

In addition, ERS is continuing to contribute to USDA's efforts to improve the science behind Federal environmental, water and air quality regulations and programs. As part of its analysis of environmental regulations and conservation incentive policies, ERS research continues to provide insight into developing policies for controlling nonpoint source pollution. More generally, ERS research analyzes the economic efficiency, environmental effectiveness, and distributional implications of alternative designs of resource, conservation, environmental, and commodity programs and their linkages.

ERS conducts research on technological innovation in agriculture, the economic performance, structure and viability of the farm sector and of different types of farms, and the state of global food security. ERS effectively communicates research findings to policy makers, program managers, and those shaping the public debate. The research program identifies key economic issues and uses sound analytical techniques to understand the immediate and broader economic and social consequences of alternative policies and programs related to the sustainability and use of biotechnology in U.S. agriculture, including policies to promote trade of U.S. products.

ERS has a broad program of work examining the production and marketing characteristics of the U.S. organic sector. Ongoing activities include research on the adoption of certified organic farming systems across the U.S., analysis of consumer demand and prices in specific markets, and several nationwide surveys of organic producers and markets.

The ERS research program includes an ongoing assessment of global food security. ERS provides research, analysis, and information on food security, including factors affecting food production and ability to import food, in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean, and the Commonwealth of Independent States to decision makers in the United States and throughout the world. An annual report provides an up-to-date assessment of global food security. Fiscal Year 2017: ERS research explores how investments in rural people, business, and communities affect the capacity of rural economies to prosper in the new and changing global marketplace. The agency analyzes how demographic trends, employment opportunities, Federal policies, and public investment in infrastructure and technology enhance economic opportunity and quality of life for rural Americans. Equally important is ERS's commitment to help enhance the quality of life for the Nations farmers who increasingly depend on these rural economies for employment and economic support, as well as to analyze new developments in the linkages between these farmers, consumers, and local economies.

ERS is also investigating conceptual and measurement challenges inherent in assessments of undernourishment at the country, household, and individual level with experts in academia and international organizations. An annual report provides ERS up-to-date assessment of global food security.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: ERS research on food choices and health outcomes showed the following:

- An estimated 85.7 percent of American households were food secure throughout the entire year in 2013, meaning that they had access at all times to enough food for an active, healthy life for all household members.
- An estimated 1,249 Calories per capita per day are lost from the food supply.
- Consumption of food-away-from-home (FAFH) in terms of total daily calories, share of daily calories, and the number of restaurant meals declined during the 2007-09 recession.
- Menu labeling allows consumers to make finer adjustments in their food choices and behavior

ERS research on USDAs food and nutrition assistance programs found the following:

- Inflation and higher food prices kept food insecurity rates relatively high after the 2007-09 recession.
- SNAP households must balance multiple priorities to achieve a healthful diet.

ERS research on the safety of the nations food supply found the following:

- Cost estimates of foodborne illnesses data provide Federal agencies with consistent, peer-reviewed estimates of the costs of foodborne illness that can be used in analyzing the impact of Federal regulations.
- Establishments that bid on contracts to supply the USDAs National School Lunch Program had relatively higher levels of food safety performance, as measured by fewer samples of meat testing positive for Salmonella, than other establishments supplying ground beef to the commercial market. Fiscal Year 2016: ERS studies the relationship among the many factors that influence food choices and health outcomes. At the household level, research focuses on food price trends, income, and individual characteristics such as age, race and ethnicity, household structure, knowledge of diet and health, and nutrition education. At the industry level, research focuses on the interaction among firms, consumers, and government programs and policies. Childrens food access, food security, and child and adult obesity continue to be important foci of the ERS research program. ERS research related to adult and child obesity includes approaches taken from behavioral economics to investigate how psychological mechanisms related to food choices might contribute to poor dietary quality and obesity.

Through its food assistance and nutrition research and by working closely with USDAs Food and Nutrition Service, ERS studies and analyzes the Nations nutrition assistance programs. These programs receive substantial Federal funding and affect the daily lives of millions of Americas children. Long-term research themes include dietary and nutritional outcomes, food program targeting and delivery, and program dynamics and administration. ERS research is designed to meet the critical information needs of USDA, Congress, program managers, policy officials, the research community, and the public at large.

ERS food safety research focuses on enhancing methodologies for valuing societal benefits associated with reducing food safety risks, understanding consumer response to food safety incidents, assessing industry incentives to enhance food safety through new technologies and supply chain linkages, and evaluating regulatory options and change. ERS research also investigates the safety of food imports and the efficacy of international food safety policies and practices. Fiscal Year 2017: ERS studies the relationship among the many factors that influence food choices and health outcomes. At the household level, research focuses on food price trends, income, and individual characteristics such as age, race and ethnicity, household structure, knowledge of diet and health, and nutrition education. Fiscal Year 2016: ERS will identify key economic issues affecting food prices, food access and availability, food consumption patterns, and food safety. ERS will use sound analytical techniques to understand the immediate and long-term efficiency, efficacy, and equity consequences of alternative policies and programs aimed at ensuring access by children and adults to safe, nutritious, affordable, and adequate meals. ERS ongoing research will also explore factors that can improve the effectiveness and efficiency of USDA Food and Nutrition Assistance programs. ERS will effectively communicate research results to policy makers, program managers, and those shaping efforts to promote abundant, safe, and healthful food at home and abroad. Examples of these activities include the following:

Providing economic analysis of the food marketing system to understand factors affecting the availability and affordability of food for American consumers.

Providing annual estimates of the quantity of food available for human consumption, and measures of disappearance and loss in the food system.

Providing economic analysis of how people make food choices, including demands for more healthful, nutritious, and safer food, and of the determinants of those choices, including prices, income, education, and socio-economic characteristics.

Conducting analyses of the benefits and costs of policies to change behavior to improve diet and health, including nutrition education, labeling, advertising, and regulation.

Conducting economic analyses of the impacts of the Nations domestic nutrition assistance programs, including the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP); the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children; and the Child Nutrition Programs.

Conducting research on food program targeting and delivery to gauge the success of programs aimed at needy and at-risk population groups, and to identify program gaps and overlaps.

Conducting research on program dynamics and administration, focusing on how program needs change with local labor market conditions, economic growth and recession, and how changing State welfare programs interact with food and nutrition programs.

Conducting food safety economics research, with the goal of providing a science-based approach to valuing food safety risk reduction, assessing industry costs of food safety practices, and understanding the interrelated roles of government policy and market incentives in enhancing food safety.

Providing decision makers and the public with food safety information through publications, web materials, and briefings that address the economics of food safety, including consumer knowledge and behavior, industry practices, the relationship between international trade and food safety, and government policies and regulations.

Working with Federal food safety agency partners to evaluate available food borne illness data related to meat, poultry and egg products, and to develop more accurate measures of the effectiveness of regulatory strategies in reducing preventable food borne illness.

Building food-price and food-consumption databases to provide a basis for analyzing the impacts of food policy. Also in FY 2016, an Interagency Agreement between the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) and the Economic Research Service (ERS) was initiated to provide funding for the recompetition of a grant to establish a Research Center to administer the Research Innovation and Development Grants in Economics (RIDGE) Program. The recompetition will (1) provide renewed focus on economic aspects of food and nutrition assistance research, (2) stimulate new and innovative research on domestic food and nutrition assistance issues by providing small grants for new analyses of the USDA major food and nutrition assistance programs, food security, and smaller, less studied programs such as the Summer Food Service Program, (3) broaden the support of both established and emerging scholars to increase the number and diversity of researchers who collaborate in tackling the unique food and nutrition challenges that exist across communities, regions, and States, and (4) achieve cost savings through administration of program activities at a single center. Fiscal Year 2017: The Research Innovation and Development Grants in Economics (RIDGE) Program encourages new and innovative research on food and nutrition assistance issues and broadens the participation of social science scholars in such research. RIDGE is funded by ERS and administered in partnership with:

The RIDGE Center for National Food and Nutrition Assistance Research at the Institute for Research on Poverty, University of Wisconsin-Madison, and The RIDGE Center for Targeted Food and Nutrition Assistance Research at the Center for Regional Development, Purdue University.

The RIDGE Centers oversee the application, peer review, award, and performance processes of the research grants provided through the RIDGE Program. Each center serves as a hub for mentoring and training researchers interested in food and nutrition assistance issues and provides a source of timely and accessible information on new research findings.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: One project was funded to develop theoretical and empirical models of Renewable Identification Number price determination, its relation to the various means of overcoming the blend wall (including expanded E85 sales), and the impact of the Environmental Protection Agency's adjustment of the annual Renewable Fuel Standard downward since 2014. The findings will be presented at a professional conference and submitted for publication in a professional journal.

Another project was funded to develop environmental markets issue papers that will inform discussion among public and private stakeholders and assist in the establishment of integrated approaches for emerging environmental markets. In particular, the project will identify the factors that explain the emergence of in-lieu fee programs over other forms of compensatory offsets as well as the extent to which in-lieu fee programs have facilitated or hindered the use of off-site compliance projects and the emergence of private offset markets. The findings will be published and presented to the public.

And another project was funded to develop new theoretical and empirical frameworks for analyzing optimal hedging horizons in the dairy sector, to provide the Agency with a detailed interactive tool for examining regional costs, benefits and impacts of the Margin Protection Program for Dairy Producers, and to provide dairy producers with insights that can improve their dairy risk management programs. The findings will be published through the extension program and popular dairy publications as well as through a webinar for the public. Fiscal Year 2016: No current data available. Fiscal Year 2017: No current data available.

OBJECTIVES:

GENERAL:

NIFA Integrated Programs provide support for integrated research, education, and extension activities. Integrated, multi-functional projects are particularly effective in addressing important agricultural issues through the conduct of problem-focused research that is combined with education and extension of knowledge to those in need of solutions. These activities address critical national, regional, and multi-state agricultural issues, priorities, or problems. Integrated Programs hold the greatest potential to produce and disseminate knowledge and technology directly to end users while providing for educational opportunities to assure agricultural expertise in future generations. See individual program Requests for Applications for additional information about the topics.

SEVERAL PROGRAMS ARE FUNDED UNDER CFDA 10.303. SPECIFIC

OBJECTIVES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

(1) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: National Integrated Water Quality Program

The goal of the National Integrated Water Quality Program is to improve the quality of our Nation's surface water and groundwater resources through research, education, and extension activities. Projects funded through this program will facilitate achieving this goal by advancing and disseminating the knowledge base available to agricultural and rural communities. Funded projects should lead to science-based decision-making and management practices that improve the quality of the Nation's surface water and groundwater resources in agricultural and rural watersheds. See RFA for priority areas.

(2) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: National Integrated Food Safety Initiative

The purpose of the National Integrated Food Safety Initiative is to support food safety projects that demonstrate an integrated approach to solving problems in applied food safety research, education, or extension. Various models for integration of applied research, education, and extension will be considered for funding. Applications describing multi-state, multi-institutional, multidisciplinary, and multifunctional activities (and combinations thereof) are encouraged. Applicants are strongly encouraged to address at least two of the three functional areas of research, education, and extension (i.e., research and extension, research and education, or extension and education).

(3) Integrated Research, Education, And Extension Competitive Grants Program: Regional Integrated Pest Management Centers

The goal of the Regional Integrated Pest Management Centers (IPM Centers) is to promote the development and implementation of IPM by facilitating collaboration across states, disciplines, and purposes. IPM Centers will establish and maintain information networks, build partnerships to address pest management challenges and opportunities, evaluate the impact of IPM implementation, communicate positive outcomes to key stakeholders, and manage funding resources effectively. Successful applicants to this program will demonstrate the capacity and commitment necessary to advance the goals of the National Roadmap for Integrated Pest Management (www.ipmcenters.org/IPMRoadMap.pdf), and evaluate the progress of this advancement. The IPM Roadmap addresses pest management needs for production agriculture, natural resources and recreational environments, and residential and public areas.

(4) Integrated Pest Management: Crops at Risk Program

The goal of the CAR program is to enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically based sustainable IPM system(s). Preferably, this should involve a diversity of tactics and approaches for a single or specific food or fiber commodity in commercial production for pre- and/or post-harvest system(s). The program addresses either a major acreage or high value crop commodity such as key fruits and vegetables. The primary emphasis is on crop productivity and profitability, while addressing critical environmental quality and human health issues. The CAR program will fund integrated multifunctional/multidisciplinary research, education, and extension projects for crops with high priority IPM needs as identified by stakeholders.

(5) Integrated Pest Management: Risk Avoidance and Mitigation Program

The goal of the Risk Avoidance and Mitigation (RAMP) program is to enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically based sustainable IPM strategies and system(s) for (a) multi-crop food and fiber production systems; (b) an area-wide or a landscape scale agroecosystem; or (c) a documented pesticide impact on water, human or environmental health. RAMP applications may address major acreage agricultural production systems, high value crops such as key fruit and vegetable systems, or other agroecosystems. The primary emphasis of the application should be on productivity and profitability while addressing critical environmental quality and human health issues. The intent of RAMP is to fund medium-term projects that emphasize systems approaches.

(6) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: Integrated Pest Management: Methyl Bromide Transitions Program
The goal of the Methyl Bromide Transitions (MBT) program is to support the discovery and implementation of practical pest management alternatives to methyl bromide uses or minimize methyl bromide emissions for which the United States is requesting critical use exemptions. The program is focused on integrated commercial or field scale research that targets short- to medium-term solutions.

(7) Integrated Organic Program

The purpose of the Integrated Organic Program is to solve critical organic agriculture issues, priorities, or problems through the integration of research, education, and extension activities. The Organic Transitions Program (ORG) funds the development and implementation of research, extension, and higher education programs to improve the competitiveness of organic producers and producers who are adopting organic practices. Funding opportunities for the ORG Program is included in the same Request for Applications (RFA) as the Organic Research and Extension Initiative (OREI).

PLEASE NOTE: THIS PROGRAM DOES NOT FUND START UP BUSINESSES.

(8) Regional Rural Development Centers (RRDCs):

The RRDCs play a unique role in USDA's service to rural America. They link the research and educational outreach capacity of the nation's public universities with communities, local decision makers, entrepreneurs, families, and farmers and ranchers to help address a wide range of development issues. They collaborate on national issues that span regions-like e-commerce, the changing interface between rural, suburban, and urban places, and workforce quality and jobs creation. Each tailors programs to address particular needs in its region.

A total of 21 applications, requesting a total of $10,310,980, were received.

In June 2015, an 8-member peer review virtual panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty from land grant universities, researchers from USDA Agricultural Research Service and a non-profit stakeholder group. Funds were available to support a total of 7 new awards. The funding ratio for this program in FY 2015 was 33.3%.

Continuations from FY 2013 and FY 2014 were also funded.

Funded projects seek to support the development and implementation of research, extension and higher education programs to improve the competitiveness of organic livestock and crop producers, as well as those who are adopting organic practices by studying and documenting environmental services provided by organic farming systems in the area of soil conservation and climate change mitigation, including greenhouse gases. Projects were also funded to develop cultural practices and other allowable alternatives to substances recommended for removal from the National Organic Programs National List of Allowed and Prohibited Substances.

All projects integrate research, education and extension activities.

(H) Regional Rural Development Centers:

NIFA announced the availability of grant funds and requests applications for the Regional Rural Development Centers (RRDC) Competitive Grants Program for fiscal year (FY) 2016 to link the research and educational outreach capacity of the nation's public universities with communities, local decision makers, entrepreneurs, families, and farmers and ranchers to help address a wide range of development issues for prosperity for sustainable and secure communities will always be a matter of public interest. RRDCs leverage land-grant resources in pursuit of USDas rural development mission by bringing together the most innovative minds, from inside and outside universities, to address cutting-edge issues without regard to state boundaries. They respond to emerging issues, generate credible science-based information to clarify these issues, and create public-private partnerships to address them.

The amount available for support of this program in FY 2016 was $950,400 ($237,600 per center). The grant deadline was June 2, 2016. Four (4) proposals were reviewed and recommended for funding.

A $380,721 award will develop practical fumigant and nonfumigant alternatives to methyl bromide (MB) for strawberry production and will deliver to California strawberry growers a sustainable system to manage soilborne pests. The project focuses on allyl isothiocyanate (AITC), and soil disinfestation with steam to suppress soilborne pests in a diverse and sustainable pest management system.

A $335,521 award will perform large-scale field trials at commercial sites in Florida growing small fruit and vegetables to: i) demonstrate the effectiveness of treatments while integrated into the grower-cooperator's standard operation, ii) evaluate the impact of grower soil preparation and fumigation practices on efficacy of supplemental fumigation strategies, and iii) better assess the economic costs and benefits from treatments.

A $499,998 award will investigate cost-effective methyl alternative treatments for dry cured ham producers so that there are as many tools as possible available to them to minimize and control ham mite infestations without impacting their economic viability or compromising product quality. Alternative treatments will include liquid smoke and propylene glycol in conjunction with ham nets to control ham mites.

A $492,450 award will research two alternative fumigant products, sulfurlyl fluoride (SF) and phosphine (PH₃) as options for fumigation of logs for export from the US that would provide effective quarantine level control of wood pests with minimal disruption to current industry practices, infrastructure, product quality and economics. This integrated project will combine research on alternative fumigants and engagement with commercial fumigators to perform scaled-up trials, conduct economic analyses and facilitate the use of fumigant alternatives for important wood export commodities.

(G) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program-Organic Transitions(aka ORG):

Quantifying and predicting the effects of ecological weed management strategies on organic agroecosystems to inform farmer decision making. This proposal will address critical needs in weed management. More specifically, it will provide farmers with a decision support tool along with the necessary outreach to farmers and extension professionals that should lead to enhanced adoption of ecological weed management strategies and more effective weed management in organic cropping systems.

Organic Decision Tools to Manage N for Production and Climate. The proposal aims to develop decision support tools for organic farmers to inform nitrogen availability and greenhouse gas emissions. The proposed decision support tools are a critical need for farmers and the team is well positioned to carry out the project. Stakeholders integration throughout the development of the project will greatly increase the chances of farmer adoption of such decision support tools.

Tradeoffs between soil carbon sequestration and greenhouse gas emissions in organic pastures under management intensive grazing. The project addresses a timely issue: the impact of integrated crop-livestock management strategies on soil carbon sequestration and the interactions between managing soil carbon, nitrogen cycling, and potential greenhouse gases emissions. This was a very well written proposal with clear objectives and methodology. The project compiled a comprehensive suite of metrics to evaluate cropping system performance and make good use of existing infrastructure. Use of farmer-presenters at workshops is innovative and will greatly improve adoption. The project links with the USDA Northeast Climate Hub.

Reinventing sustainable protection systems for cucurbit production. This is a multidisciplinary, two state proposal with strong research and outreach elements. The projects builds upon completed and ongoing research on cucurbit production in the region. The project has a high probability for impact given the expertise of the team of PDs and the evidenced stakeholder involvement and engagement.

Assessing the resiliency of integrated crop-livestock organic systems under current and predicted climate. This is a very well developed project from a strong team of investigators. The central goal of the proposal, using livestock (sheep) to replace tillage is novel, and makes a strong contribution to the concept of crop-livestock integration. The specific objectives focus on important aspects, including weed ecology, greenhouse gases emissions, and plant disease.

(H) Regional Rural Development Centers:

(1) Location 1: Focused on three priority areas: Fostering Civic-Minded Communities by strengthening the engagement of people within the communities through Turning the Tide on Poverty; Building Economically Vibrant Communities will advance the economic health of rural places in the region; and Expanding Opportunities for Distressed and Low-Wealth Communities. It will maintain focus on disaster preparedness in rural places, mental health, and advancing poverty research by examining opportunities.

(2) Location 2: Plans to continue work as a regional catalyst to strengthen rural communities by sharing scientific discovery and application of sustainable practices with researchers, extension educators, and community development practitioners via conferences, trainings, workshops, and publications. The overarching goal is to help rural communities prosper, thrive economically, and become self-sustaining.

(3) Location 3: Plans to continue efforts networking with land-grant university stakeholders and other agencies including nationally. Will focus on key subject matters: entrepreneurship and job creation including workforce development; community, local and regional food systems as related to childhood obesity, food safety, food access and capacity to feed the region and world; and land use and balanced use of resources, addressing trade-offs between alternative forms of energy use and development, invasive species, and other issues.

Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2002, a panel of USDA scientists knowledgeable in the Nation's plant and animal disease diagnostic capability, recommended to the Secretary a plan of initiating a comprehensive national network of laboratories for the rapid detection and diagnosis of plant and animal diseases. The institutions selected by the panel for initial inclusion in the network were recommended using the following criteria:

- (1) Existing scientific capacity;
- (2) Existing laboratory capacity which could be modified to meet Biosafety Level 3 requirements;
- (3) Both animal and plant diagnostic capabilities;
- (4) Geographical location meeting one or more of the following requirements: located in an area with a high risk of disease/pest incursions; located in an area with high concentration of vulnerable agricultural activity; complements or supplements regional Federal laboratory activity or is in an area not effectively served by an existing Federal facility;

(5) State-of-the-art communication and information technology systems. Must be capable of managing secure communications with other laboratories and central reporting unit; and

(6) An effective outreach/extension system.

These recommendations were utilized to select the original cooperative agreement recipients and are annually evaluated by USDA/NIFA in network planning.

Proposals are subject to a merit review process conducted by NIFA staff members.

(Pertinent details regarding Progress Reports are provided above.). A final Financial Status Report (SF-269) or Federal Financial Report (SF-425) is due within 90 days of the expiration date of the grant and should be submitted to the address listed below, in accordance with instructions contained in 2 CFR 3430.55 (also refer to Section 3015.82 of the Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations).

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. In accordance with 2 CFR Part 400 - Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards, Subpart F Audit Requirements nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more during the non-Federal entity's fiscal year in Federal awards must have a single or program-specific audit conducted for that year in accordance with the provisions of this part. A non-Federal entity that expends less than $750,000 during the non-Federal entity's fiscal year in Federal awards is exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 200.503. Relation to other audit requirements, but records must be available for review or audit by appropriate officials of the Federal agency, pass-through entity, and Government Accountability Office (GAO).

This program is also subject to audit by the cognizant Federal audit agency and the USDA Office of Inspector General.

Records:

In accordance with 2 CFR Part 400 - Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards, 200.333 Retention requirements for records. Grantees shall maintain separate records for each grant to ensure that funds are used for authorized purposes. Grant-related records are subject to inspection during the life of the grant and must be retained at least three (3) years. Records must be retained beyond the three (3) year period if litigation is pending or audit findings have not been resolved.

Account Identification:

Obligations:

(Cooperative Agreements) FY 15 $6,432,000; FY 16 est $6,432,000; and FY 17 est $9,600,000 - The difference between the appropriation and obligation numbers reflects legislative authorized set-asides deducted as appropriate, and in some cases the availability of obligational authority from prior years.

SPECIAL NOTE:

FY 2017 increase represents proposed increases in the President's Budget. Funding for FADI will support NPDN, EDEN, and NAHLN.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the annual program announcement or Request for Application (RFA). It is anticipated that awards will range from $250,000 to $1,000,000.

TAFS Codes:

Fiscal Year 2015: For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) National Plant Diagnostic Network for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (NPDN):

Six (6) applications were received and awarded. The awards for NPDN totaled $3,032,200.

(B) National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (aka FADI):

All 23 NIFA-funded NAHLN labs maintained accreditation with the American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians (AAVLD) or ISO-17025 in FY 2015.

Critical surveillance and suspect-sample testing was supported to address the mission of safeguarding public health, enhancing the health of all animals, and improving the economic well-being of livestock producers nationwide.

Thousands of samples were processed testing for high-consequence livestock pathogens and tens of thousands of samples for some of more common disease organisms. Member laboratories have completed or maintained proficiency certification for several important endemic and foreign animal diseases, including: avian influenza, Newcastle disease, John's disease, classical swine fever, foot and mouth disease, bovine spongiform encephalopathy, leptospirosis, bovine leukemia virus, bluetongue, chronic wasting disease, and equine infectious anemia.

Several NAHLN labs were activated in FY 2015 to respond to the most costly ($3.3 Billion) outbreak of disease in agricultural animals, in US history, Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza (HPAI). NAHLN lab capacities and capabilities played a critical in containing, and ultimately ending, this outbreak that resulted in the destruction of 50 million head of poultry.

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

The Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN) project further integrated and expanded the Cooperative Extension System's educational role before, during and after a disaster, using the all-hazards approach adopted by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. This project enabled EDEN to provide strategic guidance and support to USDA NIFA, other federal agencies, and non-government organizations in disaster education. Specifically, EDEN continued use of its network and communication tools to distribute educational materials and information aimed at reducing the impacts of disasters. This project made Extension a more effective partner in food and agricultural defense education by continuing maintenance, promotion, and use of previously developed EDEN materials and the development of new materials.

One (1) award was allocated to this network for $370,800. Fiscal Year 2016: For Fiscal Year 2016:

(A) National Plant Diagnostic Network for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (NPDN):

Six (6) applications were received and awarded. The NPDN awards totaled $3,032,200.

(B) National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (aka FADI):

For FY 2016, the Food and Agriculture Defense Initiative (FADI) will continue to support three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network.

All three (3) networks will continue to help prepare, prevent, detect, respond and recover from high-consequence disease threats and other disasters. During 2016, the NAHLN implemented a restructure plan that employs enhanced metrics and other semi-quantitative criteria to determine level-specific NAHLN membership eligibility. The agency is in the process of making 16 new awards to support NAHLN labs.

While it appears that NIFA drastically reduced the number NAHLN Labs supported in FY 2016, investments were the same as the previous fiscal year (FY). The difference is that, due to the NAHLN restructure, there was a re-assortment of which NAHLN labs are funded by NIFA and which are funded by APHIS which collaboratively funds NAHLN. For FY 2016, NIFA is supporting a larger number of Level-1 labs (largest awards size under the NAHLN tier structure), hence the smaller number of total labs in FY 2016.

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

This program continues to support three (3) multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. The agency is in the process of making awards. EDENs allocation is anticipated to be $370,800. Fiscal Year 2017: For Fiscal Year 2017:

(A) National Plant Diagnostic Network for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (NPDN):

It is projected that six (6) applications will be received and awarded in FY 2017 with the NPDN awards totaling $3,032,200

Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

(B) National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (aka FADI):

It is projected that the Food and Ag Defense Initiative (FADI) will continue to support three (3) multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network.

A new cooperative agreement was established in 2016 for the National Plant Diagnostic and National Animal Health Laboratory Networks so FY 2017 will represent the first award renewal cycle under the new cooperative agreement. It is anticipated that the changes in lab membership in each network from FY 2016 into FY 2017 will be minor since continuity is an important consideration in sustaining agrosecurity preparedness.

Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date...

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

The EDEN program projects to continue support for three (3) multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.310 Agriculture and Food Research Initiative (AFRI) ; 10.500 Cooperative Extension Service

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) National Plant Diagnostic Network for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (NPDN):

The IT & Data Management Center and 5 regional centers were funded. These centers enhance agricultural security by protecting the health and productivity of agricultural plants and natural ecosystems through the U.S. They provide a cohesive, distributed system to quickly detect and identify pests and pathogens of concern. Results are reported to appropriate responders and decision-makers. The centers have the appropriate laboratory infrastructure and training, they have developed an extensive network of first detectors and have enhance communication among public agencies and stakeholders in order to respond to and mitigate new outbreaks of pest and diseases of importance.

(B) National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (aka FADI):

NIFA made 23 awards supporting National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) laboratories. The NAHLN has implemented national surveillance systems for highly pathogenic avian influenza, classical swine fever, bovine spongiform encephalopathy, and other important animal diseases. These surveillance programs have been used, among other things, to demonstrate freedom from disease in support of international trade, resulting in increased trade income. A NAHLN award was made to one of the states hardest hit by the HPAI outbreak. These funds were essential to assuring the states ability to control and eventual end the outbreak.

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

The following are examples of strategies supported through EDENs funding: EDEN Website was maintained for an extension disaster education internet presence that targets EDEN delegates, cooperative extension personnel, cooperators, and the general public with the latest science based homeland security information.

Administration was provided for a central point of programmatic, budgetary, social media, graphical, and other support for extension disaster education efforts in furtherance of diverse homeland security capabilities.

Agrosecurity planning courses were facilitated in 30 states with local government, state government, federal government, industry officials, and other key stakeholders.

National level exercises were implemented for disaster preparedness, response, mitigation, and recovery.

Information was disseminated on human, animal, and plant health threats, bolstered with linkages to existing science-based education. Fiscal Year 2016: For Fiscal Year 2016:

(B) National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) for the Food and Agricultural Defense Initiative (aka FADI):

NIFA expects to fund 16 cooperative agreement applications supporting National Animal Health Laboratory Network (NAHLN) laboratories. The NAHLN will continue its national surveillance for, and rapid response to, suspected or actual cases of highly pathogenic avian influenza, classical swine fever, bovine spongiform encephalopathy, and other important animal diseases. These surveillance programs have been used to ensure early detection of high-consequence livestock disease, and to demonstrate freedom from foreign animal disease in support of international trade, resulting in increased trade income.

Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

The scope of the Extension Disaster Education Network will continue to focus on using the all hazards approach to disasters adopted by U.S. Department of Homeland Security. The project emphasis is primarily to expand on the work already established with strategically positioning the network to expand its reach responding to increased disasters in the U.S.

Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2017: For Fiscal Year 2017:

For FY 2017 The Food and Agriculture Defense Initiative (FADI) is expected to continue to support three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. The agency expects to make 20 to 30 award renewals.

Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

(C) Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN):

EDEN is strategically planning for continuing to address disasters through education. Funding level will determine how and whether the network is able to expand to further combat reducing the impact of disasters through education.

Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2002, a panel of USDA scientists knowledgeable in the Nation's plant and animal disease diagnostic capability, recommended to the Secretary a plan of initiating a comprehensive national network of laboratories for the rapid detection and diagnosis of plant and animal diseases. The institutions selected by the panel for initial inclusion in the network were recommended using the following criteria:

- (1) Existing scientific capacity;
- (2) Existing laboratory capacity which could be modified to meet Biosafety Level 3 requirements;
- (3) Both animal and plant diagnostic capabilities;
- (4) Geographical location meeting one or more of the following requirements: located in an area with a high risk of disease/pest incursions; located in an area with high concentration of vulnerable agricultural activity; complements or supplements regional Federal laboratory activity or is in an area not effectively served by an existing Federal facility;
- (5) State-of-the-art communication and information technology systems. Must be capable of managing secure communications with other laboratories and central reporting unit; and
- (6) An effective outreach/extension system.

These recommendations were utilized to select the original cooperative agreement recipients and are annually evaluated by USDA/NIFA in network planning.

10.305 INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE AND EDUCATION GRANTS

(ISE)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 229 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA) amended Section 1459 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. Section 3292b) to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make competitive grants to colleges and universities in order to strengthen United States economic competitiveness and to promote international market development. Section 7141 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (7 U.S.C. 8701 note) authorized the International Science and Education Competitive Grants Program (ISE).

, 7 U.S.C 3292b.

OBJECTIVES:

The purpose of ISE is to support the internationalization of food, agriculture and related programs at U.S. universities and colleges. It is intended that ISE will improve the ability of American students, business people, and community members to compete more effectively in the global world of agriculture. ISE projects are to strengthen the global competence and competitiveness of American colleges, universities and businesses in the food, agriculture, and related sectors. In addition, ISE projects must be directed to agricultural research, extension, and/or teaching activities that enhance the capabilities of American colleges and universities to conduct international collaborative research, extension and teaching. Our success in the global arena will increasingly require U.S. colleges and universities to produce graduates who can operate competently in domestic and international settings. Through their outreach efforts, universities and colleges also play a critical role in helping U.S. producers successfully operate in foreign markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funded projects will respond to specific needs and strengths of the university or college that will enable it to strengthen the global competence of students, faculty and staff in agriculture and related areas and enhance business performance in international agriculture and related sectors through extension, research and/or teaching programs. Each institution may submit no more than two proposals as the lead institution. No institution acting as the principal or lead institution will receive more than one grant during the current competition.

Therefore, institutions are encouraged to establish on-campus quality control mechanisms to ensure that only the highest quality proposals are submitted for consideration.

Program funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities (i.e., greenhouses, laboratories, or other structures).

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, amended the National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), limiting indirect costs to 22 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by colleges and universities and defined in section 1404 of NARETPA. The terms college and university mean an educational institution in any State which (1) admits as regular students only persons having a certificate of graduation from a school providing secondary education, or the recognized equivalent of such a certificate; (2) is legally authorized within such State to provide a program of education beyond secondary education; (3) provides an education program for which a bachelor's degree or any other higher degree is awarded; (4) is a public or other nonprofit institution; and (5) is accredited by a nationally recognized accrediting agency or association.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Colleges and universities; public or other nonprofit institutions.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs).

Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

All RFAs are published on the Agencies website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process. Please see the following Grants.gov link for more information: http://www.grants.gov/applicants/get_registered.jsp. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA.

Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.Gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA.

Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
- (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;
- (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;
- (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and
- (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

Evaluation Criteria will be delineated in the RFA.

(Biodiesel Fuel Education Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 9006 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (Public Law 110-246), amended the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8101 et seq.) to re-establish the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program which requires that the Secretary make competitive grants to eligible entities to educate governmental and private entities that operate vehicle fleets, other interested entities (as determined by the Secretary), and the public about the benefits of biodiesel fuel use. The Secretary delegated this authority to the Chief Economist, who in turn delegated this authority to the Director of the Office of Energy Policy and New Uses (OEPNU). OEPNU has joined with NIFA for assistance in administering Biodiesel Education under the authorities found in the Economy Act (31 U.S.C. 1535) and Section 1472 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3318). Specific Biodiesel Education administrative provisions are found in 7 CFR 2903., 7 U.S.C 3318.

OBJECTIVES:

The goals of the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program as originally established in Section 9004 of the Farm Security Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8104) were to stimulate biodiesel consumption and to stimulate the development of a biodiesel infrastructure. The information and outreach activities to raise awareness of the benefits of biodiesel fuel use complemented the incentives provided by the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (EPAct) (Public Law 109-58), and the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (Public Law 110-140). As a result of increased awareness and consumption of biodiesel over the past 5 years, the FY 2008 Biodiesel Education program will focus on educational programs which will support advances in infrastructure, technology transfer, fuel quality, fuel safety and increasing feedstock production.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This funding is used for education and outreach activities. Program funds may not be used for renovation or refurbishment or research space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition or construction of buildings or facilities. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved research and extension objectives. Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Funds made available under Biodiesel Education shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligibility is restricted to nonprofit organizations or institution of higher education (as defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001)).

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Nonprofit organizations or institutions of higher education (as defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001)).

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
- (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;
- (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;
- (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the Request for Application (RFA).

10.307 ORGANIC AGRICULTURE RESEARCH AND EXTENSION INITIATIVE

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7206 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) amended section 1672B of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade (FACT) Act of 1990 (7 U.S.C. 5925b) amending and re-authorizing the Organic Agriculture Research and Extension Initiative (OREI). The FACT Act, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture, in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board (NAREEEAB), to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities regarding organically grown and processed agricultural commodities for eight legislatively-defined goals. See RFA Part I.B. for further general information and specific details. , 7 U.S.C 5925b.

OBJECTIVES:

Facilitate the development of organic agriculture production, breeding, and processing methods.
Functionally identify soil microbial communities and ways to manage microbial dynamics to enhance nutrient cycling and disease suppression;
Develop systemic approaches to weed, insect and disease management;
Prevent, control, and treat internal and external parasites in various livestock species; and Breed crops for disease and insect resistance, good yield in a biologically diverse system, compatibility with intercrops, good response to organic fertility sources, horizontal resistance (traits determined by multiple genes).
Evaluate the potential economic benefits to producers and processors who use organic methods.
Analyze potential economic costs, returns and risks of organic production systems;
Use environmental valuation tools to quantify externalities of producing food, and compare externalities of producing organic and conventional food; -
Analyze price and market structures, including ability of small, medium-, and large-scale growers to access different markets, in order to frame policies that minimize concentration within the industry; and Analyze marketing channels to document how organic food is distributed, what share of the organic food dollar is returned to the farmer, and the implications of large-scale manufacturers entering the organic market.
Explore international trade opportunities for organically grown and processed agricultural commodities.
Compare compatibility of certification standards used in different parts of the world, with the ultimate goal of harmonization and reciprocity;
Undertake marketing studies of international consumer demand for U.S. produced organic goods; and Perform Welfare analyses (quantified gains and losses for producers and consumers) of trade policies affecting international competitiveness, including implementation of the National Organic Program, domestic support programs such as the Conservation Security Act, country of origin labeling, GMO labeling, etc.
Determine desirable traits for organic commodities.
Examine relationships between nutrients in the soil and nutrients in the food grown on that soil, including long-term soil nutrient and crop nutrient profiles under conventional and organic management;
Perform comparisons of nutrient levels between organic and conventional crops and relationship, if any, between taste and nutrient profile; Investigate the role of post-harvest handling and treatment in the maintenance of quality in fresh market organic products; and Determine the reasons for consumer preferences for organic goods. Identify marketing and policy constraints on the expansion of organic agriculture.
Analyze opportunities and constraints to organic agriculture resulting from provisions of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002;
Investigate specific barriers to markets, such as scale-based regulations that restrict family farm access to processors and/or markets;
Study negative lender perception of organic farming and ways to change this; and Analyze regulatory barriers, such as lack of access to Federal farm programs, and developing solutions to these challenges.
Conduct advanced on-farm research and development that emphasizes observation of, experimentation with, and innovation for working organic farms, including research relating to production and marketing and to socioeconomic conditions.

(Note: Many topics from other goal areas can be conducted on working farms.)

Develop rigorous on-farm systems research designs; and Conduct long-term, interdisciplinary systems research.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Integrated Organic Program is particularly interested in proposed projects that emphasize research and outreach that assist farmers and ranchers with whole farm planning and ecosystem integration.
Projects should plan to deliver applied production information to producers. Fieldwork for both program areas must be done on certified organic land or on land in transition to organic certification, as appropriate to project goals and objectives. Refer to the USDA National Organic Program (<http://www.ams.usda.gov/nop>) for organic production standards. NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities. Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act amended section 1462 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310), increasing the limit on recovery of indirect costs from 19 percent to 22 percent of total Federal funds provided under the award. Therefore, the recovery of indirect costs on awards made by NIFA under this program area may not exceed the lesser of the institution's official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals. For both ORG and OREI, all award recipients may subcontract to organizations not eligible to apply provided such organizations are necessary for the conduct of the project.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

A total of 68 applications, requesting a total of $ 54,599,382.00, were received in the FY 2015 competition.

Funds were available to support a total of 20 new awards.

The funding ratio for this program in FY15 was 29%.

Funded projects seek to solve critical organic agricultural issues, priorities, or problems through the integration of research, Education and extension activities. They include high priority research, Education and extension projects that will enhance the ability of producers and processors who have already adopted organic standards to grow and market high quality organic agricultural products. Priority concerns include biological, physical, and social sciences, including economics. Fiscal Year 2016: For the FY 2016 award cycle, approximately $17 million was available for awards after deducting legislatively authorized set-asides.

A total of 101 applications, requesting a total of $84,624,106.00, were received in this years competition.

In June 2016, a 21-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty from land grant universities and representative from non-profit stakeholder groups.

Funding decisions are not yet made; but, it is anticipated that 18 new awards totaling approximately $17.5 million will be made in FY 2016 representing a 18% success rate. Fiscal Year 2017: The FY 2017 RFA will focus on the following eight (8) legislatively-defined goals:

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.303 Integrated Programs

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: 2015-07450: The novel use of light to suppress a broad group of plant pathogens affecting sustainable production of organically grown crops. The long-term goal of this project is to exploit light as a natural and non-chemical means of controlling powdery mildews. Powdery mildews are internationally important pathogens attacking a variety of crops. Disease management is problematic due to widespread resistance to most fungicides, and a lack of stability in resistant cultivars. Organic production is particularly challenged by the need to suppress powdery mildews. All powdery mildews have evolved to use light to regulate their development. Light can be used in ways that attack these evolutionary traits to disrupt fundamental processes and thereby suppress disease. This research team has pioneered a non-chemical means to disrupt sporulation, and have extensive preliminary data to show that UV-B lamps and Light-Emitting Diodes producing specific wavebands can disrupt sporulation within diverse powdery mildews affecting rose, grapevine, strawberry, tomato, and cucumber, and provide control superior to that of conventional fungicides.

2015-07406: Creating the cover crops that organic farmers need: Delivering regionally adapted varieties across America. Legume cover crops are essential to the long-term sustainability of organic cropping systems because they fix nitrogen, improve soil health, suppress weeds, and provide resources for beneficial organisms such as pollinators. Unlike cash crops, however, cover crops have not been bred to optimize the traits that organic farmers need. This multi-institutions team of cover crop experts will work with non-profit organizations, private sector companies, governmental agencies, and leading organic farmers to breed new varieties of hairy vetch, Austrian winter pea, and crimson clover through traditional, participatory, and marker-assisted methods. Results will improve organic production systems by addressing persistent challenges with legume cover crop performance and consistency. Through the creation of an Eastern Cover Crops Council, the research team will ensure that efforts can continue beyond the duration of this project.

2015-07409: Fine-tuning supplementation strategies on organic dairies during the pasture season to improve productivity. Feeding management practices are one of the biggest economic drivers on dairies, yet feeding guidelines to aid producers as a decision-making tool do not currently exist. The goal of this work is to develop economically sustainable feeding strategies to be used during the pasture season, a period of nutritive variability.

2015-07403: Development and implementation of systems-based organic management strategies for spotted wing drosophila. Currently Spotted wing drosophila (SWD) management is particularly challenging for organic producers due to lack of approved effective materials. The long-term goal of this project is to develop, implement, and evaluate systems-based organic SWD management programs that are organically acceptable and true to the ethos of organic agriculture. Major objectives of this proposal are to 1) Develop semiochemical-based behavioral management tactics for SWD; 2) Develop cultural control tactics and evaluate their efficacy and feasibility for reduction of SWD damage; 3) Develop effective chemical control strategies that minimally disrupt biological suppression of pest complexes; and 4) Develop an integrated outreach approach to evaluate and implement organic SWD management strategies.

2015-07411: A modular curriculum to teach critical concepts in organic agriculture across regions. The long-term goal of this project is to create skilled, agriculturally literate college students nationwide who apply the critical concepts of organic agriculture to their lives. The team will build innovative curriculum that addresses critical priorities, accomplishing relevance across regions while leaving flexibility for instructors to adjust modules to best fit into their program goals. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: We anticipate making about 18 awards in 2016. Fiscal Year 2017: For FY 2017

We anticipate making about 20 awards in 2017.

10.308 RESIDENT INSTRUCTION GRANTS FOR INSULAR AREA ACTIVITIES

Grants for Insular Areas - Resident Instruction Grants for Insular Areas (RIIA)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

This program is administered under the provisions of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (Section 7501 of Public Law 107-171) as reauthorized in Section 7143 of Public Law 110-246, which amended the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3101 et seq.) by providing for a program of resident instruction grants for insular areas (7 U.S.C. 3363). Funds are available for a program of competitive grants, with funds to be awarded to one or more individual, eligible institutions of higher education in Insular Areas (Insular Area Institutions) or consortia of such eligible institutions, to carry out teaching and education programs in the food and agricultural sciences., 7 U.S.C 3363.

OBJECTIVES:

In General. -The Secretary of Agriculture shall make competitive grants to eligible institutions to-

- (1) strengthen institutional educational capacities, including libraries, curriculum, faculty, scientific instrumentation, instruction delivery systems, and student recruitment and retention, in order to respond to identified State, regional, national, or international education needs in the food and agricultural sciences;
- (2) attract and support undergraduate and graduate students in order to educate them in identified areas of national need in the food and agriculture sciences;
- (3) facilitate cooperative initiatives between two or more insular area eligible institutions, or between those institutions and units of State Government or organizations in the private sector, to maximize the development and use of resources such as faculty, facilities, and equipment to improve food and agricultural sciences teaching programs; and
- (4) conduct undergraduate scholarship programs to assist in meeting national needs for training food and agricultural scientists.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The purpose of the Resident Instruction Grants Program for Institutions of Higher Education in Insular Areas (RIIA) is to promote and strengthen the ability of Insular Area Institutions to carry out teaching and education programs within the broadly defined food and agricultural sciences-related disciplines. Food and agricultural sciences include programs in agriculture, food and fiber, renewable energy and natural resources, forestry, aquaculture, veterinary medicine, family and consumer sciences, home economics, nutrition and dietetics, rural human ecology, rural economic and community development, and other higher education activities and fields of study related to the production, processing, marketing, distribution, conservation, utilization, consumption, research, and development of food and agriculturally-related products and services. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research, extension and education objectives to address food and agricultural sciences.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

The use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility is not allowed under this program. With prior approval, and in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, some grant funds may be used for minor alterations, renovations, or repairs deemed necessary to retrofit existing teaching or research spaces in order to carry out a funded project.

However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that the alterations, renovations, or repairs are essential to achieving the major purpose of the project.

Grant funds may not be used for endowment investing. Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award.

Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

The Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that each eligible institution, prior to receiving grant funds under subsection (a), shall have a significant demonstrable commitment to higher education programs in the food and agricultural sciences and to each specific subject area for which grant funds under this section are to be used.

The Secretary of Agriculture may require that any grant awarded under this section contain provisions that require funds to be targeted to meet the needs identified in section 1402.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that each eligible institution, prior to receiving grant funds under subsection (a), shall have a significant demonstrable commitment to higher education programs in the food and agricultural sciences and to each specific subject area for which grant funds under this section are to be used.

The Secretary of Agriculture may require that any grant awarded under this section contain provisions that require funds to be targeted to meet the needs identified in section 1402.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). RELATED PROGRAMS:

Not Applicable.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The final seven (7) RIIA awards ranged from the lowest of $149,757 to the highest of $162,136.

An RIIA project offered a hybrid course on Climate Change of which six (6) students completed the course with grade A or B. As part of the course, the students lead a one-week workshop on Biotechnology in Agriculture which reached middle and high school students and teachers. Agriculture-related STEM presentations were also part of the workshop.

Further, the students led the 2015 CariPac Summer Camp in exploring food and agricultural sciences, for example, covering topics of biochemical engineering, horticulture, food chemistry, plant biotechnology, and animal science. At the end of the semester, the students developed the website for the Biotechnology in Agriculture course. The course has been revised and offered during Spring 2016.

NOTE: Also see CFDA # 10.322 for pertinent information regarding Insular Area Grants. Fiscal Year 2016: The final eight (8) RIIA Awards will range from the lowest of $120,979 to the highest of $175,000.

Developing Resident Instruction in Food & Agricultural Related Sciences

The purpose of this project is to:

- (1) increase the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural related sciences;
- (2) enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs;
- (3) to provide off-island scholarships for students pursuing Bachelors degrees in food and agricultural related sciences; and
- (4) to provide financial assistance for faculty and staff professional development.

Our goal is to increase the enrollment or the number of students who declare ACNR as major. The number of students who continue to use the student lab is at a steadily increasing rate.

Increase in the number of ACNR graduates, continue the funding source for faculty and staff, and increase in the number of students continuing their education at the Bachelors level. We are actually providing these activities: Summer Internships and Summer Institute financial assistance.

Working in Agricultural Training: Education by Research (WATER)

The main objective of the present proposal is to enhance the agriculture, natural sciences and engineering curriculum through the involvement of students and faculty in research projects related to reuse of water resources for agriculture, including experiential learning and K-12 outreach and extension activities.

Audience: Five (5) undergraduates and one graduate student will participate including seven faculty and one-extension personnel. An estimated of 100 K-12 students and 30 K-12 students and teachers will be impacted by the outreach and extension activities.

Activities/Products WATER products involves outreach materials, workshops for training students in research projects, research projects related to wastewater reuse, summer research experiences for undergraduate and graduate students for participating institutions, students internships at USDA, K-12 teachers workshops, K12 students motivational career workshops. Envisioned activities will be aimed at students development as well as the consolidation of a robust pipeline to attract, retain and graduate talented minority students from PR and USVI while preparing them for placement in Agriculture-related positions.

Promoting local research and internship experiences in the US for undergraduate students

This project will address the need to provide new learning paradigms and research skills through an undergraduate research program (URP), and a summer internship what will continue increasing the number of applications, enrollments and the retention rates on two campuses of the University of Puerto Rico (UPR). UPR-Mayaguez has the capacity (faculty, laboratory space and equipment) to admit additional students and increase enrollments in the graduate programs, especially in food, agriculture, renewable natural resources and environment fields. Students from UPR-Ag majoring in STEM disciplines will be exposed to the opportunities of applying their basic knowledge to research problems related to FARNRE. Two mid-career young faculty members will be given the opportunity to renew their theoretical and applied knowledge and skills in the areas of assisted reproductive techniques, one, and food science microbiology, the other. They will be able to incorporate the obtained knowledge in their courses and research as well as in their activities as mentors of the URP funded by the project as well as enhance professional relations with the hosting institution. This project is aligned with UPR-M long range goals as they are contained in its mission statement. The present tight fiscal situation at UPR, which is expected to continue, poses a challenge for the funding needed to accomplish the institutional goals established. This project will facilitate the development of inter-institutional partnerships and collaborations between at least three institutions.

Integrated Sustainable Small Farm Training in the Pacific Islands

The proposed project will train students by establishing a field-based experiential learning program with utilization of the existing UOG Triton demonstration farm. Five (5) objectives of the proposed project are:

- (1) Increase in students knowledge and skills of farm management and sustainable agriculture;
- (2) Increase in opportunities for students and public to gain knowledge of sustainable agriculture by attending workshops;
- (3) Develop students leadership skills, service learning, and oral communication skills of farm management and sustainable agriculture;
- (4) Develop students written communication skills of farm management and sustainable agriculture; and

- (5) Increase the number of deliverables for agriculture education and extension program.

Proposed project addresses Educational Need Areas (ENA): Curricular Design, Materials Development, Library Resources; Student Experiential Learning; and Student recruitment, retention, and education equity.

For ENA, the manual and handouts created in the proposed project will be used as instructional materials to learn about sustainable agriculture as a farm tour guide or in classroom. For ENA, the proposed project offers the farm-based work study practicum and experiential learning by interaction of trainees with faculty to produce extension materials. The proposed project will also address ENA, student recruitment and retention by providing students job opportunities as financial supports.

Enhancing career opportunities in agricultural sciences for Pacific Islanders

The proposed project will enhance agriculture education at secondary schools by offering workshops to secondary school teachers in Guam and delivering agricultural related STEM instruction materials. The proposed project will increase undergraduate students opportunities to conduct agricultural research projects and participate in experiential leaning programs. The proposed project will also provide support for Pacific Island students to pursue advanced degrees in agriculture by offering scholarships to qualified recipients. The proposed project supports University of Guam's long-term goals in two Educational Need Areas: (# e) Student Experiential Learning: to develop student scientific and professional competencies through experiential learning programs that provide students with opportunities to solve complex problems in the context of real world situations; and (# f) Student Recruitment, Retention, and Educational Equity: to strengthen student recruitment and retention programs to ensure the future strength of the Nations scientific, professional, and technical work force in the food and agricultural sciences.

NOTE: Also see CFDA 10.322 for pertinent information regarding Insular Area Grants. Fiscal Year 2017: For FY 2017, it is projected that approximately 15-20 applications will be received, and approximately seven (7) to eight (8) awards will be made.

Specific data is not yet available. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. .

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: For the FY 2015 award cycle, approximately $49 million was available for the Specialty Crop Research Initiative (SCRI) program and $23 million was available for the Emergency Citrus Research and Extension Program (CDRE).

Pre-applications were solicited separately for each program and subject to separate stakeholder relevancy reviews.

A total of 119 pre-applications were received for SCRI and 48 pre-applications were received for CDRE.

Following the relevancy review processes, 59 full applications were solicited for SCRI and 21 for CDRE.

Separate scientific merit panels were then convened to evaluate the scientific quality of the applications and to combine that evaluation with the results of the relevancy review. Panelists included faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, industry scientists, and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

NIFA made 15 new SCRI awards (approximately $38 million), which translates into a 25% success rate for full applications. When the pre-application success rate is included, the combined success rate for applicants is 12.6%. In addition, 5 SCRI continuation awards were made for approximately $10 million.

NIFA made 7 new CDRE awards (approximately $20 million), which translates into a 33% success rate for full applications. When the pre-application success rate is included, the combined success rate for CDRE applicants is 14.6%. Fiscal Year 2016: For the FY 2016 award cycle, approximately $48 million was available for the SCRI program and approximately $22 million for CDRE.

Pre-applications were solicited separately for each program and subject to separate stakeholder relevancy reviews.

A total of 120 pre-applications were received for SCRI and 38 pre-applications were received for CDRE.

Following the relevancy review processes, 61 full applications were solicited for SCRI and 22 for CDRE.

Separate scientific merit panels were then convened to evaluate the scientific quality of the applications and to combine that evaluation with the results of the relevancy review. Panelists included faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, industry scientists, and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

NIFA made 19 new SCRI awards (approximately $36 million), which translates into a 31% success rate for full applications. When the pre-application success rate is included, the combined success rate for applicants is 15.8%. In addition, 7 SCRI continuation awards were made for approximately $12 million.

For CDRE, the FY 2016 merit review panel has not convened, so information is not yet available for new awards. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date. NIFA anticipates funding one continuation award (approximately $6 million). Fiscal Year 2017: For the FY 2017 award cycle, NIFA approximately $48 million is projected to be available for the SCRI program and $22 million for CDRE.

Relevancy review of pre-applications will be followed by a scientific merit review of solicited full applications. These sequential review steps are conducted separately for SCRI and CDRE.

NIFA anticipates funding five continuation awards for SCRI (approximately $7 million) and two continuation awards for CDRE (approximately $4 million).

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: DEVELOPING SUSTAINABLE POLLINATION STRATEGIES FOR U.S. SPECIALTY CROPS

Responding to declines in honey bees and native bees and the increasing need for crop pollination, this project integrates entomology, pollination biology, sociology, economics, and extension approaches to address priority issues of specialty crop pollination identified from commodity groups, and surveys. We will develop region- and crop-specific Integrated Crop Pollination (ICP) management approaches to diversify pollination sources and maintain consistent crop yields. We will focus on the value of pollination, use and perception of habitat enhancements, and roles of alternative managed bees to inform a broad range of stakeholders regarding the costs and returns of different pollination practices for increasing farm profit and reducing inter-year variation in crop yield. Education and outreach will use well-established communication pathways to integrate ICP strategies into crop production approaches and cooperative extension initiatives; it will also develop an electronic archive of regionally-specific recommendations for specialty crop growers. We will develop recommendations on how to manipulate farm landscapes to support native bee and honey bee populations.

PRECISION VINEYARD MANAGEMENT: COLLECTING AND INTERPRETING SPATIAL DATA FOR VARIABLE VINEYARD MANAGEMENT

Commercial vineyard management practices are currently inefficient because soil, vine, and crop management decisions are applied uniformly across entire production blocks without measurement or response to spatial variation in soil or vine characteristics. We propose to use GPS technology, off-the-shelf soil and canopy sensors, and new project-developed sensors to collect, validate, and map spatial data within commercial vineyards. In perennial systems, like grapes and apples where soil as well as plant production in one year will influence plant growth in the second year, layering and integrating multiple maps is necessary to make appropriate management decisions, but dealing with multiple large spatial data sets can be complex and challenging for the end-user. To overcome this technological limitation, this project proposes to develop a mechanism for the validation, processing, and mapping of spatial vineyard data so that raw data files can be turned into useful information. The integrated vineyard maps will then be used to create different management zones across vineyard blocks indicating where different and more efficient management operations can be performed. To show the potential horticultural, environmental, and economic impacts of this technology, the project team proposes to test and evaluate the effect of data-driven variable rate management against traditional uniform applications in commercial vineyards. The research and development results, the introduction to a web-based spatial data processing application, and the positive impacts of variable rate management will be delivered to grape producers across the U. S. through a defined outreach plan.

CUCCAP: LEVERAGING APPLIED GENOMICS TO INCREASE DISEASE RESISTANCE IN CUCURBIT CROPS

The Cucurbitaceae family includes many high-value, flavorful, and nutritious crops, consumed as vegetables and fruits in the American diet. Cucurbit growers, shippers and processors consistently identify fungal/oomycete pathogens and insect-transmitted viral diseases as their major production constraints. The most cost-effective and environmentally desirable solution to these problems is disease-resistant cultivars. Resistant cultivars reduce production costs and application of potentially environmentally damaging fungicides and insecticides used to combat insect-transmitted diseases, while increasing yields and improving product quality. CucCAP will create a collaborative, national initiative to develop and deliver breeder-friendly genomic tools for accelerated development of cultivars with resistances to critical diseases threatening production of cucurbit crops. This project will undertake an integrated research and extension approach to:

- (1) Develop genomic approaches and tools for accelerated crop improvement of cucurbit species;
- (2) Use these tools to perform genomic-assisted breeding to facilitate efficient introgression of disease resistance into commercially valuable cucurbit cultivars; and
- (3) Perform economic impact analyses with respect to cost of production and disease control, and provide readily accessible information to facilitate disease control. The results of this project will contribute to stronger cucurbit industries by helping to deliver superior cultivars with genetic resistance against major diseases.

LAUREL WILT OF AVOCADO: MANAGEMENT OF AN UNUSUAL AND LETHAL DISEASE.

Laurel wilt has spread throughout Florida and caused the abandonment of avocado production wherever expensive control measures have not been used. Cost-effective measures to manage laurel wilt are needed, but will require new information in several key areas. The proposed work will fill critical data gaps, utilize new information to manage this problem, and inform stakeholders in Florida and California of the disease's status and advances in its management. Information will be presented in diverse formats in both English and Spanish due to a significant Hispanic clientele, some of whom are not bilingual. Substantial stakeholder engagement will ensure broad and timely dissemination of project output, as well as stakeholder input on project goals and objectives.

Fiscal Year 2016: MANAGEMENT OF BROWN MARMORATED STINK BUG IN US SPECIALTY CROPS

The brown marmorated stink bug (BMSB) is an invasive insect that first appeared as a severe economic pest of specialty crops in the Mid-Atlantic in 2010. It has since spread to 43 states and is now a threat to specialty crops across much of the US. This project will improve our knowledge of BMSB risk to crops through enhanced understanding of agroecology and landscape ecology, implement widespread biological control of BMSB with an exotic Asian parasitoid and native natural enemies, and develop management tools and strategies compatible with biological control and informed by risk from landscape factors. We will continue to determine the economic consequences of BMSB damage and how it is reduced by specific management strategies, and deliver science-based information with a robust and diversified outreach program.

PROTECTING POLLINATORS WITH ECONOMICALLY FEASIBLE AND ENVIRONMENTALLY SOUND ORNAMENTAL HORTICULTURE

Recent scientific and public awareness about the status of domesticated and native pollinators in North America has led to consumers intentionally planting pollinator-friendly plants. Identifying ornamental horticulture plants that support pollinator populations will open new markets for growers. This address threats to specialty crop pollinators by:

- (1) identifying pollinator attractiveness of top selling crops;
- (2) filling specific regulatory data gaps for pollinator risk assessment of systemic insecticide residues within ornamental horticulture crops;
- (3) comparing current pest management practices with alternative strategies;
- (4) providing guidance to growers and landscape managers with updated Best

Management Practices; and

(5) developing outreach tools for multiple stakeholder audiences.

Ultimately, this project will aid in reaching the President's goal of 7 million acres of restored or enhanced pollinator habitat by providing growers and landscape managers the knowledge to address pests while producing high quality plants for pollinator forage.

SOLID SET CANOPY DELIVERY SYSTEMS: AND EFFICIENT, SUSTAINABLE AND SAFER SPRAY TECHNOLOGY FOR TREE FRUIT
This multi-region project has a national scope completing the development and delivery of Solid Set Canopy Delivery Systems (SSCDS) for high-density tree fruit production and evaluate SSCDS spray coverage for additional perennial fruit crops. SSCDS consist of a network of microsprayers positioned in the tree canopy/trellis and connected to a pumping/mixing station. SSCDS application virtually eliminates applicator exposure common to tractor-based sprayers, while increasing farmers ability to apply sprays during critical weather periods. SSCDS would make frequent applications at low rates possible for modern agricultural chemicals, including nutrients and reduced-risk pesticides, to improve efficacy of soft impact IPM programs and reduce soil fertilizer levels. The specific objectives for this proposal are:

(1) Optimize SSCDS technologies for modern orchard architectures for improved spray material application efficacy;

(2) Determine and test SSCDS applications for standard and novel fruit production operations;

(3) Determine the economic benefits and costs associated with SSCDS and identify non-economic barriers to grower adoption of SSCDS; and

(4) Develop and deliver extension and outreach activities and materials including field scale and on-farm demonstrations to increase producer knowledge and adoption of SSCDS technologies.

FOOD SAFETY INNOVATIONS AND PREVENTIVE CONTROLS DURING FRESH AND FRESH-CUT PRODUCE WASHING, PACKING, AND RETAIL DISPLAY

Foodborne illness outbreaks associated with contaminated produce negatively impact public health, consumer confidence, the produce industry's economic well-being, and progress toward national nutritional goals. To reduce food safety risk, this project holistically addresses key steps in the supply chain where risk factors profoundly impact food safety, and controls are also feasible. Specifically, we will:

(1) develop and validate preventive controls for cross-contamination during packinghouse and fresh-cut processing operations;

(2) evaluate food safety improvement in nonimmersive fresh-cut washing;

(3) advance scientific understanding of fresh-cut washing and sanitizing processes, and develop novel technologies to improve efficacy;

(4) field-test, in cooperating retail stores, an energy-efficient approach to improve temperature control and prevent pathogen proliferation in fresh-cut leafy greens; and

(5) perform cost-benefit analysis and outreach to stakeholders to facilitate technology adoption.

Project outcomes will enable development, validation, and adoption of science- and risk-based food safety standards and control limits, support implementation of the Food Safety Modernization Act, and benefit consumers, processors, packers, and retailers.

ACCELERATING THE DEVELOPMENT, EVALUATION, AND ADOPTION OF NEW APPLE ROOTSTOCK TECHNOLOGIES TO IMPROVE APPLE GROWERS PROFITABILITY AND SUSTAINABILITY

The deficiencies of current apple rootstocks create an urgency to develop and adopt new improved rootstocks. Through this project, we seek to accelerate the development, evaluation and adoption of improved apple rootstocks by targeting research areas, not currently being addressed, which will result in more efficient rootstock development and improved implementation by growers and nurseries. We will focus on both evaluating new candidate rootstocks and identifying genetic makers for difficult to phenotype complex root traits like replant disease tolerance, nutrient uptake and partitioning (especially calcium), low/high soil pH and salinity to improve tolerance of rootstocks to these biotic and abiotic stresses, and improve fruit quality of high value cultivars such as Honeycrisp.

Fiscal Year 2017: BIOLOGICAL AND ECONOMIC IMPACTS OF EMERGING POTATO TUBER NECROTIC VIRUSES AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF COMPREHENSIVE AND SUSTAINABLE MANAGEMENT PR

Our overall goal is to reduce the impact of tuber necrotic viruses by working with all sectors of the potato industry to develop and implement new practices leading to a healthier potato crop and higher farm income. Virologists and plant pathologists will develop improved diagnostic methods to rapidly determine the type of virus and amount of disease on a farm. Technologies will be transferred to growers and seed inspectors so they can better make appropriate disease management decisions. Virologists and potato breeders will work in concert to develop molecular markers to shave years and considerable cost off the development and release of new virus resistant potatoes. Entomologists, vector biologists, plant pathologists, and horticulturists will work to better understand the factors contributing to the spread of viruses onto and within a farm, and how the viruses impact tuber quality and processing traits during harvest and storage. This information will lead to regionally appropriate disease management strategies, as well as reduce the amount of virus in the crop and its impact on tuber quality.

ROSBREED: COMBINING DISEASE RESISTANCE WITH HORTICULTURAL QUALITY IN NEW ROSACEOUS CULTIVARS

The Rosaceae crop family (including almond, apple, apricot, blackberry, peach, pear, plum, raspberry, rose, strawberry, sweet cherry, and tart cherry) provides vital contributions to human health and is economically significant in communities across the U.S. Rosaceous crop breeders have responded to the need for genetic solutions by using resistance from wild and/or unadapted germplasm, but few have achieved commercial success because of difficulties breeding cultivars with both high fruit quality and disease resistance. This project addresses this need through a national coordinated effort that will enable breeding programs of U.S. rosaceous crops to routinely apply modern genomics and genetics tools to efficiently and effectively deliver cultivars with producer-required disease resistances and market-essential horticultural quality.

CLEAN WATER³ - REDUCE, REMEDIATE, RECYCLE: INFORMED DECISION MAKING TO FACILITATE USE OF ALTERNATIVE WATER RESOURCES AND PROMOTE SUSTAINABLE

Stakeholder reluctance to use recycled water for irrigation is motivated by the presence of pathogens and agrichemical contaminants, and the lack of readily available information about treatment technologies in terms of economic viability and efficacy. Our objectives are to:

(1) publish an online decision support system (system-wide model) to aid growers with identification and implementation of innovative technologies to recycle water for reuse or release from containerized crop production systems;

(2) reduce contaminant loading into recycled water sources;

(3) identify and develop biological and physical treatment technologies; and

(4) effectively communicate project outputs to stakeholders to encourage adoption of defined practices to reduce, remediate, and recycle production runoff.

Direct project outcomes include development of a decision support system model(s), a web-based clearinghouse, treatment technologies installed at grower facilities, and informed and educated stakeholders and students.

NON-TRANSGENIC, NEAR TERM RNA INTERFERENCE-BASED APPLICATION STRATEGIES FOR MANAGING DIAPHORINA CITRI AND CITRUS GREENING HUANGLONGBING

Effective techniques to reduce the rate of Huanglongbing (HLB) spread are key to slowing its incidence, especially for new citrus plantings. RNA-interference (RNAi) is a natural regulatory and anti-viral response in eukaryotes and can be manipulated to target mRNA/gene expression, including to control insects. Our on-going collaboration has found that RNAi inducers, expressed in citrus trees using the Citrus tristeza virus (CTV) vector, reduce the survival of adult Diaphorina citri moving onto the trees, and greatly reduce their reproduction and acquisition of Candidatus Liberibacter asiaticus by psyllid progeny. Our goal is to further improve RNAi activity such that it can be used to help manage D. citri and HLB, allow reductions in pesticide use, and lower grower costs for U.S. citrus. A second strategy for applying RNAi towards D. citri takes advantage of insect viruses that could be modified to deliver interfering RNAs directly to D. citri. This approach offers a non-modified plant alternative that could complement the use of CTV to express RNAi inducing sequences against psyllids and help manage HLB spread.

A NOVEL ANTIMICROBIAL APPROACH TO COMBAT HUANGLONGBING DISEASE

Florida growers have assumed a total infection (symptomatic or asymptomatic) of all producing groves across the state. Novel strategies directed to eliminate the bacteria from infected trees, and to protect new groves are needed. The goal of this proposal is to assess the efficacy of this antimicrobial therapy in active HLB-infected groves. We have designed an efficient treatment plan that is cost effective and scalable, two aspects that will be essential for any treatment discovery intended for large-scale application. We will achieve this goal by:

- (1) Optimizing the antimicrobial treatment in HLB-infected citrus seedlings in small scale field trials;
- (2) Evaluating the antimicrobial treatment in large-scale field trials. We will assess the economic, ecological, and environmental impact of each treatment; and
- (3) Testing the antimicrobial activity of alternative organic compounds that have chemical scaffolds similar to those of the active compounds.

Our research team is working directly with citrus growers and groves in active production. An effective antimicrobial treatment will have an immediate positive impact on the economic and social aspects of the citrus industry.

Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution.

Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

(F) AFRI: Childhood Obesity Prevention Challenge Area:

Approaches to enhancing wellness policy implementation in schools to promote healthy behaviors and prevent obesity

The long-term goal of this integrated project is to create health promoting school environments that support healthy growth/development of children to prevent obesity. The approach is through school-level implementation of existing Local Wellness Policies (LWPs). LWPs are federally mandated to create healthy school environments/opportunities for healthy eating and physical activity for all students. Policy implementation may occur through diffusion ("letting it happen"), dissemination ("helping it happen"), or implementation ("making it happen"). We propose a school-level LWP implementation strategy ("making it happen") that relies on educating/training teachers and students to be wellness champions. The researchers will examine: (1) the impact of a school-level intervention to enhance LWP implementation by training teachers to be wellness champions/providing technical assistance to support wellness team goals and activities (Wellness Champions for Change, "WCC") and (2) the added benefit of training students to be wellness champions/creating a student-led wellness teams trained in the tenets of health literacy (WCC-students, "WCC-S") on student-level outcomes (diet, physical activity, and obesity) through a randomized controlled trial. We will also examine

(3) the differential impact of LWP implementation on student-level outcomes by home and school-neighborhood environment. In the final years, the WCC and WCC-S curricula will be prepared for (4) dissemination through a partnership with the Healthy Food Choices in Schools Community of Practice (eXtension). Dissemination strategies, including online continuing education for teachers and toolkits for students, will be tested for fidelity and reach.

Through research, education and extension, this project will promote fruit and vegetable (F&V) purchases and consumption by families in under-resourced communities, thus reducing health disparities, improving human nutrition, and preventing unhealthy weight gain among children. Specifically, this project aims to evaluate the success of promoting F&V purchases among low-income and SNAP-eligible families and children living in a rural Maine community through a double value coupon, supermarket-based incentive program combined with Cooking Matters at the Store education. Education and extension efforts based on our study findings will contribute to meeting USDA Childhood Obesity Prevention Challenge Area Goals of generating new knowledge; developing, assessing and expanding effective interventions; and increasing the number of skilled and informed professionals and consumers to address the complex problem of childhood obesity. The research team will partner with a large national retail grocery chain (Hannaford Brothers), Cooking Matters, University of Maine Cooperative Extension, eXtension Communities of Practice, Maine SNAP-Ed, and The Food Trust to accomplish our objectives.

CONSERVE: A Center of Excellence at the Nexus of Sustainable Water Reuse, Food, and Health Priority: A8101
Type: CAP; Awarded Center of Excellence

As climate variability escalates, depleting highquality groundwater, the exploration of nontraditional irrigation water sources has become a national priority. Within this context, they established CONSERVE: A Center of Excellence at the Nexus of Sustainable Water Reuse, Food, and Health. The longterm goal of CONSERVE is the adoption of transformative onfarm solutions that enable the safe use of nontraditional irrigation water on food crops. CONSERVE is led by a transdisciplinary team engaged in research, extension and education in the MidAtlantic and Southwest, addressing five objectives:

- (1) Evaluate the availability of nontraditional irrigation water sources;
- (2) Identify social, behavioral, economic and regulatory factors that impact the use of these sources and implementation of onfarm treatment technologies;
- (3) Develop, implement and evaluate onfarm treatment technologies;
- (4) Integrate this knowledge into preeminent extension and outreach programs; and
- (5) Translate this knowledge into highquality educational programs that will teach, train, and inspire the next generation of water reuse leaders.

To accomplish these objectives, they will conduct GISbased research, field and lab studies, human subjects research, and extension, outreach and education. All activities are supported by three Cores, our stakeholderrich Advisory Committee and leveraged resources. Our systems approach will result in the adoption of sustainable onfarm solutions that support the safe use of nontraditional irrigation water on food. This will enable food production to thrive despite our erratic climate, furthering our societal quests to solve water resource problems and sustain food production in arable land across the nation.

Sustaining Agriculture through Adaptive Management to Preserve the Ogallala Aquifer under a Changing Climate
Priority: A8101 Type: CAP

The Ogallala Aquifer, one of the largest freshwater aquifers in the world, supports 30% of U.S. crop and animal production, increases agricultural production by more than $12 billion annually, and impacts global food supplies. However, much of the Ogallala is rapidly declining and climate change will only compound this challenge. Their long-term goal is to optimize use of groundwater in the Ogallala Aquifer Region (OAR) to sustain food production systems, rural communities and ecosystem services. Achieving this goal requires integrated management to improve use of the right water (blue or green) at the right time in the right place across the OAR. Objectives are to:

- (1) integrate hydrologic, crop, soil, and climate models;
- (2) develop the best irrigation technologies, tools, and crop management practices;
- (3) analyze social, policy, and economic frameworks to identify incentives and policies for adaptive management; and
- (4) enable the adoption of tools and strategies to improve water conservation.

Their systems-based approach will foster water conservation through the development of cost-effective, adoptable and sustainable practices and technologies for agricultural producers and processors. They will work in close collaboration with local groundwater management districts and utilize a network of research and extension sites to ensure an integrated, aquifer-wide approach and build long-range capacity for adaptive management. The team represents a wealth of experience and this proposal represents an opportunity to leverage ongoing work to develop a framework that will create wide-scale changes in the management of the OAR and serve as a global model for groundwater management.

Understanding the hydrologic and socioeconomic impacts of water use and resource allocation in agricultural regions under different climate and policy scenarios
Priority: A8102
Type: Standard Grant

Understanding the hydrologic and socioeconomic impacts of environmental and policy change in agricultural regions requires knowing how farmers adapt. Few models used for water management incorporate farmers' behavior because it is difficult to capture. They will develop a transformative decision support tool that allows policymakers and natural resource managers to understand the incentives that drive farmers' adaptation to changing natural conditions, as well as the environmental consequences of adaptive behavior. Three innovations in the approach permit such insight and overcome limitations of current water management tools:

- (1) Incorporation of recent advances in satellite-based retrievals of agricultural activity capable of guiding models for statewide and possibly subcontinental applications;
- (2) Use of recent advances in data-model blending algorithms and data assimilation methods that permit recursive model refinement as new data become available; and
- (3) Synergistic use of agro-economic and hydrologic models that permit the study of the spatial nature of agricultural activities and its impact on the regional hydrology.

They leverage their groups previous work and extend it with these innovations to produce a satellite-guided hydroeconomic model that can capture previously underappreciated constraints on decision making, allowing them to calibrate response functions that are used to simulate the observed behavior of farmers. Once calibrated, the model can predict farmers' reaction to changes in external factors such as drought, policy and risk, as well as the hydrological implications of those decisions. The model is demonstrated across county and field scales in Montana, and designed for transferability to the agricultural systems of the interior western USA.

Implementing California's Sustainable Groundwater Management Act:

Farmer Perceptions and The Balance of Groundwater and Economic Sustainability
Type: Standard Grant

This project's goal is to develop and apply a decision making framework that can be widely used to reconcile decisions and behaviors made at farm level with policy driven by natural resource concerns. The context is California agriculture's response to the FY 2014 Sustainable Groundwater Management Act (SGMA). With a focus on a high priority groundwater basin in northern California, the objectives are

- (i) to understand farmer behavior in light of the SGMA,
- (ii) develop a shared mental model for the study area using quantitative models embedded within formal participatory processes, and
- (iii) to develop a program of outreach and communication to increase the impact and scalability of both process and outputs. The overall approach utilizes the principles of Robust Decision Making (RDM). Specific tools used in implementing RDM include integrated water resources and economic models that are developed and driven by a stakeholder process involving farmer surveys, focus groups and an advisory committee.

Municipal Wastewater Application to Forests: Participatory Science to Understand Human Exposure and Risks to Contaminants of Concern.
Type: Standard Grant

Their project goals are to characterize chemical contaminants of concern (COCs) and their human health risks for land-applied, secondary municipal wastewater onto forested lands and to better understand community values and perceptions of alternative wastewater reuse to agricultural lands. The proposed work will identify human health COCs for secondary, municipal wastewater that is currently land-applied to mature forests but could be land-applied to other agricultural lands. The study site is a 7,200 acre managed forest irrigated with secondary-treated municipal wastewater at agronomic irrigation rates of 50 inches per acre per year. Population growth and non-existent land-expansion opportunities within the nearby city are driving municipal discussions for alternative means to expand the land application system (LAS) capacity in the rural county. Because municipal wastewater LAS are an undefined source of COC entry into soils and waters, non-targeted and targeted screening will provide COC characterization for hazard identification. Hydrometric and stable water isotopes measurements will define wastewater composition in COC samples and pathways of human exposure to assess risk. COC characterization at catchment, subwatershed, and watershed scales will be implemented using a community-engagement framework and a Participatory Leadership Group (PLG). A Community Involvement Group (CIG) will work with the PLG to understand public perceptions of current, non-traditional wastewater use and risks, public values and perceptions for alternative water reuse in the future, and appropriate strategies to communicate these findings to the broader public. Project findings will be integrated as modules into graduate and undergraduate capstone courses. Requested funds will support community engagement training for a post-doctoral researcher and undergraduate research internships.

ROBOTIC HARVEST-AIDING ORCHARD PLATFORMS

Next-generation, robotic harvest-aid orchard platforms will function as co-bots that collaborate with fruit pickers by physically carrying them and intelligently adjusting their vertical positioning with respect to the canopies in the orchard. The proposed machines will use advanced sensing to estimate incoming fruit yield and worker picking speeds. Based on these data they will modulate the incoming fruit flow by optimally adjusting their own travel speed, and dynamically elevate each picker to a fruit zone that matches her/his speed and maximizes the overall platform throughput. Improved picker safety and ergonomics will also be incorporated in robotic platform design and operation. By addressing robotic platform operation researchers are paving the way to fully mechanized selective harvesting.

ROBOT SWARMS AND HUMAN SCOUTS FOR PERSISTENT MONITORING OF SPECIALTY CROPS

This project aims to address the problems of (a) obtaining timely estimates of yield; (b) diagnosis of crop stress; and (c) detection of pests to enable efficient utilization of resources such as labor, water, fertilizers, and pesticides, as well as risk management and financial planning for specialty crops. The focus is on three representative crops - blueberries, tomatoes, and citrus - each with a different approach to farming (trellis-based, close-to-ground rows, and trees respectively), but representative of other crops such as apples, peaches, and strawberries. We propose the synergistic use of a swarm of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles that operate with human scouts in orchards. Customized sensors carried by low-flying co-robots working synergistically with human scouts will enable production of high resolution, multidimensional maps, which can be used to monitor large farms at unprecedented spatio-temporal resolutions, greatly improving the efficiency and yield of farm operations.

SURVEYING AND SERVOING AS CANONICAL TASKS TO ENABLE FUTURE FARMS WITH COMMERCIAL OFF-THE-SHELF ROBOTS

The work focuses on two sets of problems. First, surveying problems require planning the trajectory of a sensor to collect information about objects of interest. Such sensor planning problems in three-dimensional, complex environments are provably hard. The proposed work introduces new sensor planning problems in environments which are both:

- (1) general enough to capture the complexity of objects encountered on small farms (e.g., trees); and
- (2) sufficiently constrained so that their visibility properties can be exploited to design efficient algorithms.

For the second set of problems involving end-effector placement, we introduce new visual servoing path planning techniques utilizing multiple arms for operation in cluttered environments with obstacles, such as the branches of a fruit tree. These algorithms will be implemented and tested in the context of two field studies involving quality inspection to collect harvest related data. These studies, combined with the surveying and servoing algorithms, open possibilities for developing new metrics, tools and techniques for agricultural sciences by enabling data collection in scales not possible for humans.

(1) Microbe-mineral interactions and the fate of carbon along soil climo-chronosequences: This project will introduce of more rigorous process equations or sub-models into soil and ecosystem models for incorporation into earth system models will improve model predictions of future climate change which will help in both mitigation and adaptation strategies and reduce risks associated with a changing climate.

(2) Integrated Belowground Greenhouse Gas Flux Measurements and Modeling: Soils and wetlands are significant sources and sinks for atmospheric CO₂, CH₄ and N₂O and greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions from these sources are likely to play a significant role as biotic feedbacks to climate change. The main objective is to improve understanding of and modeling capacity for interactions of belowground temperature, moisture, and substrate supply as controllers of net soil emissions of CO₂, CH₄, and N₂O. Intense and verified observations and multiple GHG measurements will be made of a wetland-to upland site with ongoing work funded by DOE and NASA. These observations of soil and ecosystem fluxes of multiple GHGs will be used to develop and validate the merged model, as well as to quantify the uncertainties, providing a new approach to simulation of climate-dependent responses of terrestrial ecosystems at both short (hourly to seasonal) and long (annual to centennial) time scales. The parsimonious structures of these models are designed to be applicable to both site-level analysis and Earth system models.

(3) C-cycling in native vs. non-native dominated systems: This project will address a fundamental knowledge gap on how belowground C-cycling is impacted by the replacement of native rangelands with non-native communities under ambient or altered rainfall patterns in a unique long-term experiment. Results from the study will be useful to modelers and land managers by quantifying the costs and benefits of planting native vs. non-native species under an altered climate, considering effects the exotics, biodiversity, and management in grassland systems on rooting depth, C₃-C₄ biomass proportions, and aboveground biomass production (peak biomass).

(4) Soil Organic Carbon Interactions with Organic Matter Additions: Mechanisms and Models: Inform decisions of policy related to land management; and enhance our ability to predict future climate change and understand the consequences of land management practices in terms of productivity and GHG emissions.

(5) Reducing uncertainty in carbon cycle science of North America: a synthesis program across United States and Mexico: Improved understanding of the interactions and gradients across all of North America, from central America to the arctic regions on Alaska and Canada, allowing for better models and predictions with reduced uncertainty

(6) Improved Observation of Effects of Hydrology and Micro-topography on Belowground C Cycling and Net Ecosystem Exchange in Natural and Managed Forested Wetlands in the Southeast U.S. to Improve Ecosystem Models: Improved earth system models and ability to project effects of climate change and sea level rise and to allow society to mitigate and adapt to reduce risks associated with climate change.

(7) Carbon cycle dynamics within Oregon's urban-suburban-forested-agricultural landscapes: An important impact will be to identify policies and management strategies that can sustain ecosystem function while addressing land use changes that are intended to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. This observation-driven modeling approach will provide an invaluable policy analysis tool for other regions as it projects integrated impacts of land use decisions and climate change on ecosystem carbon and water processes and climate feedbacks.

(M) Innovation at the Nexus of Food, Energy and Water Systems (aka INFEWS):

There are four awards scheduled to be funded by USDA NIFA for this program.

One project, jointly funded with NSF, will look at how coordinated management of physical and non-physical water storage systems across the food, energy, and water systems in the Pacific Northwest will promote resilience in the region. Another project will develop a novel, human computation-based decision support system that will enable local and regional community stakeholder to enable robust adaptation decisions for natural resources management in FEW systems. The third project, jointly funded with NSF, will use modelling efforts to learn how to better monitor and manage California's stressed interdependent food, energy and water systems. These models will provide insights into agent behaviors, crop responses, infrastructure and long-term trends in the supply and demand of resources. The last NIFA sponsored project will address food, energy, and water system challenges in the Wisconsin dairy industry by combining multi-scale systems analysis and experimental research to create a powerful technology evaluation and decision-making platform.

(N) Agricultural Greenhouse Gases:

No further action is required. NIFA decided not to participate in the European Research Area Net (ERA-NET) Solicitation as instructed by the Office of the Secretary of Agriculture.

(O) National Robotics Initiative:

RAPID: ROBOT-ASSISTED PRECISION IRRIGATION DELIVERY

This project will investigate a co-robotic approach where a team of humans and robots move through fields to adjust low-cost adjustable drip irrigation emitters at the plant level. The project will involve the design, development, and evaluation of a series of prototypes of low-cost, robust co-robotic systems compatible with existing drip irrigation infrastructure in vineyards and orchards. The project will build on prior work in irrigation modeling and develop feedback algorithms compatible with available sensing technologies using diffusion models to optimize desired emitter settings. The project will also extend results in Orienteering Planning to advise humans and guide robots about when, where, and how to act to achieve desired field conditions at the plant level.

PRECISION POLLINATION ROBOT

In this project, a multi-disciplinary team of researchers propose to develop a prototype of precision pollination robot for bramble (e.g. blackberry and raspberry) pollination in a greenhouse environment. Computer vision algorithms will be used to estimate the flower position, size, orientation, and physical condition, and to guide the robotic arm to capture and interact with flowers. A set of soft brush tips, mimicking bees hairs (i.e. scopa) and motion, will then be used to pollinate flowers. The design parameters of the delicate robot-flower interface will be driven by a series of insect pollination experiments. The precision rover navigation, mapping, and localization of individual flowers within complex greenhouse environments will be provided through a fusion of GPS, Lidar, camera, inertial sensor, and wheel encoder measurements. A human operator collaborates with the robot through supplying agriculture domain knowledge, providing high-level decisions, and correcting mistakes made by the robot

ROBOT-ASSISTED FIELD-BASED HIGH THROUGHPUT PLANT PHENOTYPING

High-throughput phenotyping technologies that can quickly and repeatedly scan tens of thousands of individuals using an array of advanced sensor and data analytics tools are critical to improving the ability of scientists to dissect the genetics of quantitative traits such as yield and stress tolerance. The proposed project, to develop a robot-assisted field-based high throughput phenotyping system that integrates both ground and unmanned aerial elements to quantitatively measure a suite of key traits iteratively throughout the growing season, is expected to unmask plant responses that will inform a new level and quality of decision making in selection of crop genotypes for specific production conditions. The task coordination between ground and aerial vehicles will result in new discoveries in the area of partitioning and coverage control. Employing the proposed high throughput phenotyping system to acquire data on an unprecedented scale could address challenges that are unique to improvement of cotton (the focal crop), as well as general constraints leading to improvement of most crops.

SALIENCY-DRIVEN ROBOTIC NETWORK FOR SPATIO-TEMPORAL PLANT PHENOTYPING

The objective of this project is to build a network of ground robots that can collect multi-modal data in research farms for high throughput modular plant phenotyping. The robotic network will have the following capabilities:

- (i) Navigate in a farm to collect data with minimal human intervention during operation;
- (ii) Autonomous decision making i.e, it can take its own decisions for maximizing the value of information of the acquired data;
- (iii) Scalable in terms of the size of the farmland; and
- (iv) Work in collaboration with humans to improve their situational awareness in multi-dimensional genome wide studies. The approach will leverage opportunistic sensing, task partitioning and scout-task allocation and spatio-temporal importance map building, to enable resolution of the above science questions that cannot be addressed without the use of robotic systems.

AT THE WATERS EDGE INSTALLATION AND OPTIMIZATION OF ROBOTIC SENSING SYSTEMS

Wetlands are critical to the water cycle, yet they are a difficult environment to safely and effectively monitor. Robot systems have the potential to transform our understanding of complex wetlands systems by not only allowing faster and higher density sensing, but also by enabling new types of measurements and sample collections that cannot currently be performed without significantly disrupting these sensitive systems. This project proposes expanding current unmanned aerial vehicle systems, developing novel water monitoring systems, and designing algorithms in order to enable:

- (1) accurate measurement of the dynamic wetlands channels, including topography and flow, without prior knowledge;
- (2) adaptive and autonomous installation of static and limited-mobility sensors; and
- (3) optimization of the overall robot and sensor system to improve information gain while constrained by limited energy and communications.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.500 Cooperative Extension Service

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Thirty-three (33) projects that began in FY 2012 were completed at the end of FY 2015. Examples include:

A collaborative effort of 22 organizations in 14 states that use the farmer-to-farmer Farm Beginnings curriculum, to share approaches to training and program evaluation, in order to strengthen each others results.

An urban agriculture training project in Chicago that provided workshops and short courses to nearly 500 people and trained over 100 youth; an intercultural training collaborative serving Latino and Hmong immigrants in Minneapolis; and projects serving women farmers in Iowa, Nebraska, and Pennsylvania. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

The Farm Answers national clearinghouse of information (FarmAnswers.org) launched a digital library with over 4,200 documents, web site, apps, and other tools (as of July, 2016).

Other projects include a dairy grazing apprenticeship program, developed with BFRDP support in Wisconsin, that is expanding to Missouri and then nationally; a program that is teaching new organic farmers, particularly military veterans, in Delaware; and a program that is continuing and expanding the successful Armed to Farm program for military veterans to learn poultry, livestock, and agroforestry practices. Fiscal Year 2017: Similar projects serving beginning farmers and ranchers in a range of farming and ranching systems are expected in FY 2017. Further, additional accomplishments from multi-year projects funded in earlier years are anticipated.

By legislative statute, at least 5% of funding will be used for projects that serve military veterans, and at least 5% for projects that serve limited-resource, socially-disadvantaged, or farm worker audiences.

10.312 BIOMASS RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE COMPETITIVE GRANTS PROGRAM (BRDI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Collaboration between Department of Energy (DOE) and Department of Agriculture (USDA) on a Biomass Research and Development Initiative is directed under various statutory authorities, primarily the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) and the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (EPA) (Public Law 109-58; Section 941). USAs authorization appears in Section 9008 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) which replaced section 9008 of the Farm Security, and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (FSRIA) (Public Law 107-171) [7 U.S.C. 8108]; thereby amending section 307 of the Biomass Research and Development Act of 2000 (BRDA) (7 U.S.C. 7624 note, and 7 U.S.C. 8101 note; Public Law 106224). Pursuant to Executive Order 13134, BRDA can be found at (7 U.S.C. 8601 et seq). BRDA authorizes the Biomass Research and Development. , Public Law 109-58, 7 U.S.C 8606.

However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution.

Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Matching Requirements: 20% for Research and Development Projects / 50% for Demonstration and Commercial Projects.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: One project proposes to convert poplar to ethanol and polyurethane via pretreatment and lignin polymer synthesis. The Co-solvent Enhanced Lignocellulosic Fractionation is expected to extract nearly 90% of native lignin for utilization, ash-free, which exceeds the current Kraft lignin used in catalytic conversion.

Another project will provide comprehensive life cycle economic and environmental understanding of the production of willow and forest biomass for the use in heat and power, combined heat and power, and biofuels from hot water extraction. This project will assist in mitigating investment risk in the bioenergy sector.

The objectives of one project are to optimize production parameters and educate growers to prepare them to support cellulosic ethanol bio-refineries. The aims are:

- (1) biomass sorghum variety evaluation;
- (2) optimize agronomic production practices;
- (3) develop economic model and budgets;
- (4) evaluate models for delivery logistics to identify operating efficiencies; and
- (5) investigate silage storage to optimize harvest and extend bio-refinery utilization of feedstock. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

No new awards were made through the Biomass Research and Development Initiative (BRDI) in FY 2016.

The program will be competed in FY 2017.

NOTES FROM PROGRAM:

(1) The Farm Bill does not provide funding past FY 2017.

(2) There are no new projects planned for FY 2016 as those funds will be rolled into the FY 2017 funds to provide a more robust funding opportunity. This action been approved by NIFA Senior Leadership. Fiscal Year 2017:

Anticipated projects will focus on the mandated three (3) technical areas as described in the Farm Bill:

- Feedstock Development;
- Biofuels and Bioproduct Development; and
- Biofuels Development Analysis.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the RFAs.

Preapplication Coordination:
Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA.

Applications must follow the instructions provided per the VMLRP website at www.nifa.usda.gov/vmlrp.
Qualified individuals interested in participating in the VMLRP should visit the VMLRP website for all application forms and requirements.

The application will be evaluated by a peer review panel, convened for this purpose by the NIFA. In selecting applicants for participation in the VMLRP, the panel will consider eligibility status, quality of the applicant, and the applicants career plan focus. All selections are subject to final approval by the VMLRP manager.

The NIFA will notify the State Animal Health Official and the applicant of the outcome of the review.

Several Federal statutes and regulations apply to VMLRP applications considered for review and to service agreements awarded under this program. Please refer to Section # 140 for specific details.

Award Procedure:

Once the applicant is selected to participate in the VMLRP, the applicant and the NIFA Director (or Secretary of Agriculture) will sign a written binding contract stating the terms and conditions for participating in the VMLRP.

The effective date of the contract will be the date it is signed by the NIFA Director, or the date employment/service begins at an NIFA-designated veterinary shortage area, whichever is later.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Dates for specific deadlines are announced in the RFAs or guidelines for each fiscal year.

Rural Technology Program (RTP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Subtitle K of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977, Public Law 110-246, 7 U.S.C 3319e; Section 1405 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act (NARETPA) of 1977, as amended (7 U.S.C. 3121), 7 U.S.C 3121.

OBJECTIVES:

To establish a competitive grants program to provide funding for technology development, applied research, and training to aid in the development of an agriculture-based renewable energy workforce.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements (Discretionary Grants); Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

In General:

In carrying out this section, the Secretary shall establish a program to make grant funds available for approved technology development, applied research, and training to aid in the development of an agriculture-based renewable energy workforce. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct the program. The initiative shall support the following fields:

- (A) bioenergy;
- (B) pulp and paper manufacturing; and
- (C) agriculture-based renewable energy resources.

Grant Priority:

In providing grants under this section, the Secretary shall give preference to eligible entities working in partnership

- (1) to improve information-sharing capacity; and
- (2) to maximize the ability to meet the following requirements for funding delineated in (A), (B) and (C) of Section :081 below. Pursuant to Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (P.L. 110-246), indirect costs are limited to 22 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Indirect costs for Conference/Planning grants are not allowed. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by either: (1) public or private nonprofit community colleges, or (2) advanced technological centers. Must see RFA (Part III.A) for specific eligibility requirements.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by either: (1) public or private nonprofit community colleges, or (2) advanced technological centers. Must see RFA (Part III.A) for specific eligibility requirements.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. All RFAs are published on the Agency's website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process.

Please see the following Grants.gov link for more information: http://www.grants.gov/applicants/get_registered.jsp.

Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.Gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors: (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities; (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields; (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs; (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations; (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application. 10.318 WOMEN AND MINORITIES IN SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, AND MATHEMATICS FIELDS

WAMS; Women and Minorities in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics Fields (STEM) program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7204 of the Food Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) amends section 1672 of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (FACT) (7 U.S.C. 5925) to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities. The Secretary shall make these grants in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education, and Economics Advisory Board.

OBJECTIVES:

The Women and Minorities (WAMS) in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Fields program was authorized to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary.

The goal of the WAMS program is to develop and implement robust partnerships to increase the representation, participation, and entrepreneurship of women in STEM careers, thereby contributing to national economic prosperity.

The purpose of the grant program is to support projects that: Provide STEM knowledge, skills and competency to Women and Minorities from Rural Areas with successful placement (a) in the workforce in STEM fields, or (b) as innovators and entrepreneurs adding value to the STEM fields in areas that have relevancy to the USDA Secretary's priorities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research and extension grants to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary. Program funds may only be used for research and extension activities in the training, outreach and mentoring of rural women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in STEM fields relevant to USDA mission.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Funds made available for grants in this program shall not be used for scholarship or fellowship purposes, the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (P.L. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution.

Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Examples of funded projects are:

(1) Restructure some of the underlying database so that the data will be more accessible to researchers; provide training on enhancing data integrity and uniformity and developing greater efficiencies delivering farm financial analysis to producers; develop a file repository that will simplify the process of reviewing farm level files for accuracy and allow real-time uploading of the files to the database; develop formal protocols to allow researcher access to the database; and redesign the user interface for the entire website.

(2) Partnerships between farm business management associations and land grant universities focusing on improving the knowledge of U.S. farmers and ranchers, improving long-term profitability and producer risk management decision through the use and development of the national database.

(3) Major objective is to increase the number of farms that complete financial data analyses on their farms which are then submitted to the national database. Growing farmer participation builds solid foundation for research and outreach education for farmers, industry and students on benchmarking and profitability indicators. Increasing participation from livestock and crop producers who will utilize the resulting benchmarks to increase their individual farm profitability and risk management skills; especially important given the current volatile economic environment.

(4) Collective partnership with five organizations that plan to improve the profitability and risk management capabilities of agricultural producers through farm financial analysis and benchmarking by working with individual farms to complete quality financial and production analyses, and contribute uniform data into a national database. Strategies include providing training to farm management staff on completing uniform financial analysis, working with peer groups to improve profitability. Fiscal Year 2016: FBMB Review Panel recommended four awards; these will not be announced until the Awards Management Division makes awards.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The impact of torrefaction on the quality of bio-oil obtained from fast pyrolysis was examined. The total carbon yield from catalytic pyrolysis was 1.45 times that of untreated pine.

BioSAT, an optimization model for siting short rotation woody crops, was developed and updated. This model will assist in risk mitigation and decision making regarding where to site energy plantations.

Research should that a combination of pigeon pea, sun hemp, and red clover has the potential to replace synthetic fertilizer. This will reduce costs for landowners interested in establishing biomass such as switchgrass for biofuels and biobased products. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

The program will continue to support research, education, and extension activities that focus on improving rural economic development through the production of sustainable biomass feedstocks for biofuels and biobased products. Fiscal Year 2017: The program will continue to support the work of the regional centers identified through the merit review.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.308 Resident Instruction Grants for Insular Area Activities

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: A DEG project provided an online academic degree or certificate program in agriculture throughout the Caribbean region, and to other Insular institutions. The online degree/certificate program enabled the creation of a quality education that is delivered to traditionally underrepresented groups in the unique and isolated environment of the Insular Areas. It enabled determination of necessary learning resources, student and community demand, and institutional support from the academic component as well as research and extension services.

Distant Education Grant for Institutions of Higher Education in Insular Areas (DEG): A Hybrid Approach for Insular Areas at the University of the Virgin Islands.

Distance Education a Tool for Shortening the Gap between Two Campuses of the University of Puerto Rico.

Developing Distance Education in Food and Agriculture Sciences Program at Palau Community College. Fiscal Year 2016: The following represent recommended awards, which should be finalized prior to September 30, 2016:

Developing Distance Education in Food & Agriculture Related Sciences

This projects purpose is to:

- 1) Encourage use of Distance Education (DE) and computer-lab equipment;
- 2) Enhance capacity of ACNR student lab and quality of instruction program;
- 3) Provide distance education scholarships; and
- 4) Provide funding for faculty & staff professional development

Audience: American Samoan students, ACNR faculty & staff

Products:

- a) Increase in the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural sciences, or other STEM fields closely related to the food and agricultural sciences. Also to encourage study in areas that contribute to any of the five NIFA Priority Areas listed above; and
- b) Enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs

Promoting Distance Education by Offering Out-of-Classroom Experiences for Students

The purpose of this project are to improve wireless networking capability in the University of Puerto Rico Mayaguez (UPR-M) AES and the University of Puerto Rico - Agricultural College (UPR-Ag), and acquire distance education technology for UPR-Ag and the AES (mobile and portable videoconference systems, respectively). On- and off-campus faculty will be trained in the use of portable videoconference systems, and instructional material will be developed for synchronous delivery of agricultural practices to supplement our courses from the AES. In addition, the portable systems will be used to increase off-campus mentoring in our undergraduate research program, and to promote AES learning experiences at open houses in UPR-M and UPR-Ag. This project perfectly aligns with DEG goals because it will contribute to better undergraduate students education and research experiences by providing support for the proposed DE technology. Use of DE technology during open houses for online synchronous promotion of agricultural experiences (e.g. AES) will motivate more high school students to apply to our academic programs; therefore, increasing student recruitment to agricultural sciences. Collectively, this proposal will also improve efficient use of resources (faculty, facilities and transportation) at UPR-M and UPR-Ag; therefore, enhancing cost-effectiveness at both institutions.

Developing a High Quality Human Capital in Agribusiness through a Long Distance Program

This proposal requests funds under the DE Program to design a Long Distance Program in agricultural economics and agribusiness. This project is based on Goal 2 of the DEG RFA: Develop and enhance educational services (including faculty development) to prepare students or faculty seeking a degree or certificate that is approved by the State or a regional accrediting body recognized by the Secretary of Education. This project works on the Needs Areas such as Curricula Design, Materials Development, and Library Resources and Instruction Delivery Systems. This project will developing inter-institutional and inter-disciplinary cooperative linkages with the Department of Economics and the College of Business Administration (hereafter, CBA) of the UPR-M and the Chamber of Marketing, Industry and Distribution of Food of Puerto Rico (MIDA) in order to develop sound online master degrees in agricultural economics and agribusiness. Hispanics are underrepresented in graduate student population in the U.S. (American Community Survey, 2015).

Developing Distance Education Capacity in Food and Agricultural Related Sciences

The College of Micronesia-FSM (COM-FSM) project will provide a resource base of at least 30 agriculture and food science related training materials for students, agents and the lifelong learners of the region through training lessons made available on-line.

Training programs based on tropical small island examples is not readily available. In addition, the training programs would add to the eXtension resource base. COM-FSM requires a strong internet service to facilitate instructional sharing across the six campuses. The project will provide web management assistance and improved connectivity at the two most limited campuses. Through the improved internet services, COM-FSM will be able to provide distance learning capacity to faculty and teachers of the local schooling system. For this, the project also designates scholarships for qualified professionals.

Innovative Educational Approaches to Addressing Climate Change in the Caribbean

This project will develop an innovative hybrid online/in-class course addressing climate change in the Caribbean. The project will develop will facilitate communication and collaboration among a multidisciplinary mix of faculty and outside experts working in consultation with the regional and local agencies working on climate change adaptation. The course will develop a cadre of students well versed in the issues of climate change and how agricultural, marine, and environmental sciences can help inform the development of adaptation strategies. These students will be prepared to help their communities respond and adapt to the impacts of climate change in the Caribbean. The course will be offered as an undergraduate and graduate level course, developed as a multidisciplinary and multidisciplinary collaboration with faculty at the University of the Virgin Islands (UVI) in agriculture, marine, and environmental sciences. The course will be developed in consultation with leading subject matter experts across the U.S., including leading scientific originations such as the American Society for the Advancement of Sciences. The course will be developed in interactive consultation with local and regional stakeholders. Fiscal Year 2017: For FY 2017, it is projected that approximately 10-15 applications will be received, and approximately six (6) awards will be made.

Specific data is not yet available. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. .

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The Capacity Building for Agricultural Sustainability on the Central Coast Through Research

This project sought to increase capacity among higher institutions, resource conservation districts, and research agencies in central coast of this state. The project develops and enhances existing capabilities through education and research activities that will leverage and strengthen existing partnerships between multiple colleges/departments of the institution, Cooperative Extension, federal agencies in the state including USDA. The project is coming through with its goals in addressing issues pertaining to the states agricultural sustainability and water quality. It has made extensive progress towards accomplishing the primary project objectives for both research and education. For example, the project has formed partnerships with tow agricultural companies and identified 3 research sites on commercial farms. The project team trained 6 undergraduate students and two graduate students on the use and maintenance of wireless sensor networks to measure soil moisture, applied irrigation, drainage, precipitation, and meteorological conditions at each site. Dissemination of project results is scheduled in its second year in 2016. Project results have already been presented at scientific conferences and workshops for students and growers.

Green Thumbs, Green Plates, And Green Attitudes For A Well-Fed Fut: Address.Food Sustain Through Campus Multi-Discipl. Educ. Res.& Outreach
The overarching goal is to utilize education, research and community outreach activities to address food and nutrition sustainability and accompanying natural resource degradation or depletion by developing opportunities for university researchers and students to focus on such key issues. This project will link education, experiential-based learning, research, and applied technologies to a campus-based gardening, nutrition and food sustainability effort and enhance the University's capacity and programming across disciplines by developing 1) an agriculture sustainability studies initiative and 2) establishing core partnerships within and beyond the campus community. Specific goals include: 1) Foster educational activities that inform agriculture students, the campus community and neighboring peri-urban populations; 2) support research activities that advance the body of Green knowledge for vegetable and fruit cultivation and consumption; 3) provide enhanced educational opportunities to students outside agricultural majors and minors; 4) facilitate problem and experiential-based learning at local and international sites; 5) recruit greater numbers of students, especially minorities, to careers in agriculture production, education, research and outreach; and 6) provide novel outreach programs to the campus community and general public that raise awareness of food and nutrition sustainability issues.

Integrating Agricultural Remote Sensing, Landscape Flux Measurements, And Agroecosystem Modeling In Agricultural Research And Teaching
The overall goal of this project is to construct a research and teaching paradigm utilizing collaborative research projects as the foundation for enhancing the educational capacity across several agricultural institutions (both land grant and non-land grant) in the southern U.S. and using this joint venture to 1) enhance the scientific understanding of how different agroecosystems will function and respond to the changes in climate, land uses, and water availability; 2) better educate both graduate and undergraduate agricultural students to learn environmental science and sustainable agroecosystem science. The tangible teaching products will include 12 renovated agricultural courses in three southern universities.

Investigating The Extent Of Antibiotic Resistance Reservoir In Urban Agricultural Production

Antibiotic resistance is a global public health issue as well as a serious food safety concern. The purpose of this project is to investigate the nature and extent of antibiotic resistance reservoir in the urban agricultural environment and train the next generation of food science students in the comprehensive analysis of soil bacteria and soil DNA using traditional microbiology techniques and modern genomics tools. The products to be generated are research data on baseline measurements of antibiotic resistance phenotypes and gene compositions associated with urban agricultural production and new training materials in food and agricultural sciences addressing antibiotic resistance in the environment. Measurable impacts will be seen in the increased knowledge of the environmental reservoir of antibiotic resistance, the prevalence and dissemination of antibiotic-resistant bacteria in urban food production environment, and risk factors impacting antibiotic resistance. Students will have gained increased knowledge, analytical and experiential skills in food science and food safety. They will be able to integrate microbiological skills and genomic analysis methodologies in solving complex food and agriculture problems. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

Bridging the Gap Between Farmers and Consumers Through Research, Education and Outreach

This project would achieve 2 goals:

- (1) to bridge the gap between the states agricultural producers/farmers and consumers by analyzing how farmers markets in urban communities could play a role in improving both farmer livelihoods and the nutrition of low-income consumers with limited access to fresh fruits and vegetables; and,
- (2) to strengthen food and agricultural research, education, and outreach through community engagement and Service-Learning at the university.

The project anticipates achieving the following objectives:

- (1) identify the factors to influence farmer behavior in Direct-to-Consumer (DTC) marketing channels, including their financial incentives, revenue targets for farmers markets, and they choose certain DTC channels over others;
- (2) Assess the consumer preferences of low-income community residents and their willingness to pay for local fruits and vegetables at farmers markets; and,
- (3) Expand educational opportunities in food and agricultural sciences by creating curricular materials and by promoting higher education and careers in these fields to under-represented students and underserved communities. This project aligns with the strategic goals of the USDA and NLGCA Program.

Managing Nutrient Inputs to Enhance the Sustainability of Forage-Based Beef Systems

Project focuses on nutrient management in pasture-based beef production systems and enhance the research and outreach capacities of the university faculty through a collaborative partnership with faculty of the two partner institutions within the state. PDs will study the impact of using supplemental feed or annual legumes as a nitrogen source on forage and cattle productivity, nitrogen use, and economics in stocker and feeder cattle systems. Research will be conducted during 2017 and 2018 at the institutions Shealy Farm and Forage Systems Research Center. Results will be shared with stakeholders via field days at the two participating institutions, other products include printed materials and a website featuring the project. Student interns will be hired from both partner institutions to participate in both research and outreach functions of this multidisciplinary project, enhancing their undergraduate experience through experiential learning and faculty mentoring. The project anticipates further partnership with other agricultural institutions in the region.

Establishment of a Hydrologic Observatory to Support Long-Term Agro-ecosystems Research, Education, and Outreach in the Upper River Basin Projects primary goal is the establishment of a Long-Term Hydrologic Observatory in the upper reaches of the Fever River Watershed, supporting the Long-Term Agro-systems Research (LTAR) program within the USDA Agricultural Research Service. The project will not only provide discharge data, but will evaluate two real-time, in situ water quality monitoring methods currently employed in the LTAR network. The two in situ systems (NITRATAX and S::CAN) will be compared with laboratory analyzed discrete samples to determine if concentration estimates are significantly different. Synergy will be created in the collaboration and each partner will benefit from each other including recipients of the Cooperative Extension Service in the community. Further, the students in this project will benefit from the much needed experiential, hands-on agricultural research opportunity preparatory for their respective professional careers. Moreover, the hardware and monitoring methods will be incorporated into classroom and laboratory learning activities.

Education and Research Cap. Building Through Investigation of Long-Term Anthropogenic and Climatic Effects on Water Quality in Agricultural Watersheds

This projects critical concern is cropland soil loss and associated transport of nutrients from croplands. The severity of cropland soil loss is associated with land management and climatic changes. The research component of this project will investigate the long-term effect (>30yrs) of agricultural practices and climate on water driven non-point source pollution loads using USDA-supported AnnAGNPS pollution model. Historic land management information will be generated using integrated machine learning and remote sensing methods to disaggregate county-level surveys into field-level datasets. Future climatic estimates will be used to evaluate the potential changes in sediments and nutrient loads due to long-term projected precipitation variations.

The two institutions in the project will coordinate efforts to develop agricultural modules involving geospatial topics and concepts in undergraduate and graduate courses. A new joint hybrid field-classroom course will be offered in the second year of the project. Students will learn and use geospatial skillsets in positions supporting modern agriculture practices. A training workshop will reach the stakeholders, watershed managers, and conservationists on the latest technology in assessing the impact of farming practices at the watershed scale. Fiscal Year 2017: It is projected the number of applications will continue to increase into the future and funding may increase to more than $5 million.

10.327 COMMON BEAN PRODUCTIVITY RESEARCH FOR GLOBAL FOOD SECURITY COMPETITIVE PROGRAM

Bean Productivity Research

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Economy Act, 31 U.S.C 1535; Consolidated Appropriations Act 2010, Public Law 111-117; Section 632(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, 22 U.S.C 2151.

OBJECTIVES:

To develop approaches and/or methods that can address challenges to common bean production among small holder producers in food insecure countries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

In collaboration with and using funding provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development, NIFA is seeking research proposals to develop approaches and/or methods to address challenges to common bean production among smallholder producers. Applications are being solicited for the BPR under the following areas:

- (1) Reducing Production Constraints from Soil Borne Pathogens: Soil borne pathogen pressure on common bean is a significant constraint to production. Such pathogens and associated root rots already reduce production in areas with high rainfall. As rainfall increases, as is expected around the equatorial zone in Africa, in particular East Africa, pathogen-related production constraints may become even more limiting.
- (2) Improving Transformation Technologies in Common Bean: Although success in transforming common bean has been limited to date, it is a promising strategy to address key production constraints. Developing and/or improving the methodologies and approaches necessary to efficiently transform this recalcitrant species is necessary to removing roadblocks to transformation. Grant funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established (i.e., approved) by its cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a current negotiated rate, the applicant should request a rate from the Federal agency from which the applicant receives the most funding. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible U.S. public or private research or educational institutions or organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

U.S. organizations or organizations in Feed the Future countries.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

10.328 NATIONAL FOOD SAFETY TRAINING, EDUCATION, EXTENSION, OUTREACH, AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE COMPETITIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance (aka FSMA)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Drug Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. 391 et seq. Section 209 of FSMA added section 1011, Subsection (d) entitled National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach and Technical Assistance Program. Paragraph (d)(1) requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services to enter into a Memorandum of Understanding or cooperative agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to establish a competitive grant program within the National Institute of Food and Agriculture. This program will award competitive grants to organizations to provide food safety training, education, extension, outreach, and technical assistance to owners and operators of small and medium-sized farms, beginning farmers, socially-disadvantaged farmers, small processors, or small fresh fruit and vegetable merchant wholesalers. The authority for the National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance Competitive Grants Program is under Section 405 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7625).

OBJECTIVES:

The National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance Program will award grants that increase the understanding and adoption of established food safety standards, guidance, and protocols. Grants awarded through this program will be carried out in a manner that facilitates the integration of food safety standards and guidance with a variety of agricultural production and processing systems, including conventional, sustainable, organic, and conservation and environmental practices carried out by the eligible entities. The assistance provided by these programs shall be coordinated with and delivered in cooperation with similar services or assistance by other federal agencies or programs serving those eligible entities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The new National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance proposals are expected to describe Regional Centers that have a leading role in coordinating the development of FSMA-related training, education, and outreach programs and resources for small and medium-sized farms, beginning farmers, socially disadvantaged farmers, small processors, and/or small fresh fruit and vegetable merchant wholesalers. An outreach plan for conducting education and training to a cadre of regional FSMA trainers must be developed, along with an implementation plan for extending both training and technical assistance to the targeted audiences of farmers, processors and vendors in the respective regions.

In addition, the Regional Centers must work collaboratively with a National Coordination Center for Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance to ensure that training curricula and resources cover core competencies across all funded regional centers, and to provide annual reports to NIFA on overall program objectives. Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriation Act, 2014, limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their request for the recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of the institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

When NIFA is not the cognizant Federal agency. The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established by its cognizant Federal agency (the agency that provides the most funds). If awarded, the applicant will be required to produce a negotiated indirect cost rate agreement from the cognizant agency in order to recover indirect costs. Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the Request for Application, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. NIFAs indirect cost website provides several sample indirect cost rate calculations. NIFAs website is found at: http://nifa.usda.gov/business/indirect_cost_process.html.

During the application process, the applicant is not required to complete the entire indirect cost package identified on NIFAs website. Rather, the applicant need only calculate an indirect cost rate to serve as a basis for requesting indirect costs. If awarded, the applicant will be required to submit a complete Indirect Cost Proposal (ICP) package as explained on NIFAs indirect cost website.

Grantees may not use grant funds awarded under this authority to renovate or refurbish research, education, or extension space; purchase or install fixed equipment in such space; or the plan, repair, rehabilitate, acquire, or construction of buildings or facilities. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). 10.329 CROP PROTECTION AND PEST MANAGEMENT COMPETITIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

Crop Protection and Pest Management (CPPM)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2014 (H.R. 3547) provided NIFA with funding for competitive grants programs authorized under section 406 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7626), including the Crop Protection and Pest Management Program. These funds are available to support integrated, multifunctional agricultural research, extension, and education activities. Subject to the availability of appropriations to carry out this program, the Secretary may award grants to colleges and universities (as defined by section 1404 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. 3103)), as amended, on a competitive basis for projects that address priorities in United States agriculture and involve integrated research, education, and extension activities, as determined by the Secretary in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board. , 7 U.S.C 7626.

OBJECTIVES:

CPPM was created to consolidate five previous NIFA programs with related purposes. CPPM will provide funding to address critical state, regional and national integrated pest management (IPM) needs to ensure food security and effectively respond to other major societal challenges.

The CPPM program supports projects that address high priority IPM challenges with coordinated state, regional, and national research and extension efforts. The impact of these research and extension efforts will be increased by the establishment of communication networks and stakeholder participation in setting priorities.

Effective FY 2014, the CPPM program provided support for projects to conduct applied research and development, extension implementation, and regional coordination.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The new CPPM program provides support for three linked programs that emphasize research (discovery), extension (translation) of that knowledge, and enhanced coordination, collaboration and communications among related CPPM programs and grantees. The three program areas are:

Applied Research and Development Program Area (ARDP)

To enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically-based, sustainable IPM tactics and strategies that address regional and/or national IPM priorities.

Extension Implementation Program Area (EIP)

To assure the implementation of IPM through extension activities and coordination with other EIP grantees and other CPPM program areas based on defined state, multi-state, regional, national, or international needs.

Regional Coordination Program Area (RCP)

To increase coordination and improve efficiency of IPM research and extension efforts; facilitate collaboration across states and disciplines; and promote further development and adoption of IPM through regional pest management information networks, collaborative team building and broad-based stakeholder participation. Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriation Act, 2014, limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, you should limit your request for the recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of your institutions official Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the Request for Application, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the RFAs.

10.331 FOOD INSECURITY NUTRITION INCENTIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive Program (FINI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Agricultural Act of 2014 (Pub. L. 113-79) amended Section 4405 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (7 U.S.C. 7517) and established the competitive grant program, the Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive program (FINI).

OBJECTIVES:

The Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive (FINI) grant program is a competitive program. Projects funded under this program provide incentives to low-income consumers participating in the supplemental nutrition assistance program (SNAP) to purchase fruits and vegetables at the point of sale. The projects supported by this program have the support of State agencies and include use of effective and efficient benefit redemption technologies that can serve as a replicable model for benefit redemption.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The FINI grant program projects will provide incentives to low-income consumers participating in SNAP to increase their purchase of fruits and vegetables. These projects will be evaluated for their success in increasing the purchase of fruits and vegetables and improving nutrition and health outcomes. Proposals must have the support of the State agency, provide incentives at the point of sale, and include effective and efficient technologies for benefit redemption systems that could be replicated.

All FINI grant program recipients will be required to participate in a comprehensive FINI program evaluation conducted by an independent evaluator and conduct a self-evaluation of their own project. The applicant shall perform a substantive portion of the project and no more than 50 percent of FINI Projects (FP), FINI Pilot Projects (FPP), and FINI Large Scale Projects (FLSP) as determined by budget expenditures, may be subawarded.

NIFA will allow applicants to indicate in their proposal if they intend to subgrant more than 50% of the award. This deviation will require NIFA approval.

Projects may divide their budget allocations between partners as it fits their work plan. (For additional knowledge or expertise that is not available within the applicant organization, funds for expert consultation may be included in the All Other Direct Costs section of the proposed budget.)

When preparing budgets, applicants should limit their request for the recovery of indirect costs to the official negotiated indirect cost rate or the de minimis rate of 10% of modified total direct costs (MTDC).

Any non-Federal entity that has never received a negotiated indirect cost rate may elect to charge a de minimis rate of 10% of modified total direct costs (MTDC). (2 C.F.R. 200.414(f)).

When NIFA is not the cognizant Federal agency. The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established by its cognizant Federal agency (the agency that provides the most funds). If awarded, the applicant will be required to produce a negotiated indirect cost rate agreement from the cognizant agency in order to recover indirect costs. Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the RFA, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. NIFAs indirect cost website provides several sample indirect cost rate calculations. NIFAs website is found at: http://nifa.usda.gov/business/indirect_cost_process.html.

During the application process, the applicant is not required to complete the entire indirect cost package identified on NIFAs website. Rather, the applicant need only calculate an indirect cost rate to serve as a basis for requesting indirect costs. If awarded, the applicant will be required to submit a complete Indirect Cost Proposal (ICP) package, as explained on NIFAs indirect cost website

In the case of a for-profit entity, the non-Federal share of the award cannot include services of an employee, including salaries paid or expenses covered by the employer.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible entities include governmental agencies and nonprofit organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Eligible entities include governmental agencies and nonprofit organizations.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

All Requests for Applications (RFAs) are published on the Agencies website and Grants.gov.

Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process.

All applicants must have the support of the State agency prior to submitting a proposal. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA.

Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

(a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;

(b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;

(d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;

(e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and

Fiscal Year 2015: Mandela/Credibles SNAP Incentive Project:

Increase the purchase of locally-sourced fruits and vegetables by SNAP consumers through provision of Credibles, a technologically-elegant, online direct-to consumer incentive system for use at a network of Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) authorized retailers, including healthy retail corner store conversions and market booths operating as part of Mandela Health and Wealth Network locally-owned food system. The match is .35 cents on the dollar, the total for the SNAP incentives $250,000 over a period of three years.

Washington State Department of Health FINI Grant Project:

Offer a variety of cash incentives in 21 counties to SNAP shoppers at supermarkets and farmers markets to increase their purchases of a variety of fruits and vegetables; a social marketing and promotional campaign will raise awareness about the incentive programs. More than 50% of the funding is towards incentives and the program involves 168 Safeway stores, 86 Farmers Markets and CSAs and includes a fruit and vegetable prescription program, known as Veggie RX, at participating stores. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: The Healthy Incentive Program, is working in conjunction with other community partners to develop a farmers market incentive program, known locally as Fresh Fund. The program enhanced low-income families ability to access fruits and vegetables (FV) at local farmers markets in San Diego, places where they had previously never been able to shop. By arming SNAP participants with an EBT card, hundreds of thousands of incentive dollars were made available to increase SNAP participants; fruit and vegetable purchases at farmers markets. UCSD, is working in conjunction with Northgate Gonzalez Markets and other partners will develop innovative technologies that will enable the expansion of the incentive program to 40 Northgate retail markets in Los Angeles, Orange, and San Diego counties. SNAP participants who purchase FV at these markets will receive financial incentive credits that they can use toward the purchase of additional FV. When SNAP participants purchase fruits and vegetables, they receive a $1 for $1 incentive match with a maximum of up to $10.00/month.

The Double Up Oklahoma (DUO) is the expansion of a successful incentive program piloted in 2012. DUO engages nine statewide partner farmers markets and the Cherokee Nation Tribal locations, and SNAP beneficiaries to increase the purchase of fruits and vegetables by providing incentives at the point of purchase (tokens); increasing the consumption of fruits and vegetables; and improving the livelihoods of local farmers and sell that produce at local markets. The intent is to increase the SNAP transactions at farmers markets in fruits and vegetables from a baseline of $43,000 to $90,000. The Double Up Oklahoma project relies primarily on a token-based reimbursement system (mobile app at the pilot sites). The tokens will have Double Up Oklahoma on one side, and a market insignia on the other. SNAP purchases of federally eligible items will be incentivized by $1 DUO token up to $20.00 per market visit for the purchase of locally grown fruits and vegetables. Fiscal Year 2017: For FY 2017:

Information is not yet available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The Request for Applications (RFA) will identify the criteria to be evaluated for selection. NIFA will give priority to projects that maximize the share of funds used for direct incentives to participants; use direct-to-consumer sales marketing; demonstrate a track record of designing and implementing successful nutrition incentive programs that connect low-income consumers and agricultural producers; provide locally or regionally produced fruits and vegetables; or are located in underserved communities (particularly Strike Force and Promise Zone areas).

Applications will be scored on the following factors: (1) The presence and extent of leveraged assistance for the units that will serve RHS income-eligible tenants at basic rents comparable to those if RHS provided full financing, computed as a percentage of the RHS total development cost. A minimum of ten percent leveraged assistance is required to earn points; however, less than ten percent and the proposal includes donated land, two points will be awarded for the donated land, (0 to 20 points); (2) Seasonal, temporary, migrant housing (5 points for up to and including 50 percent of the units; 10 points for 51 percent or more); National Office initiative will be based on the presence of and extent to which a tenant services plan exists that clearly outlines services that will be provided to the residents of the proposed project. Deadlines:

deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 60 to 90 days. RHS uses a two-stage application process for the Farm Labor Housing Program. First, applicants submit preapplications, which are used to determine preliminary eligibility and feasibility. RHS then invites some applicants to submit formal applications. Section 514/516 funds are divided between off-farm housing and on-farm housing. The off-farm program provides loans and grants to organizations that assist farm workers at off-farm locations with no restrictions that workers be employed on a particular farm. Under new regulations effective June 1999, preapplications for the off-farm program funds must be submitted in response to a Notice of Solicitation of Applications (NOSA) published in the Federal Register every year. RHS scores the preapplications, using a ranking process to determine which applicants will be invited to submit formal applications. The on-farm program makes loans to eligible farmers (or a group of farmers) to provide Housing, usually for their own laborers. Preapplications for on-farm units, or for repair and rehabilitation of existing off-farm units, may be submitted at any time and are processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

10.415 RURAL RENTAL HOUSING LOANS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Rural Housing Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Housing Act of 1949, as amended, Section 515 and 521, Public Law 102-550, 42 U.S.C. 1485, 1490a.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide economically designed and constructed rental and cooperative housing and related facilities suited for rural residents.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT LOANS; PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Loans can be used to construct, or to purchase and substantially rehabilitate rental or cooperative housing or to develop manufactured housing projects. Housing as a general rule will consist of multi-units with two or more family units and any appropriately related facilities. Funds may also be used to provide approved recreational and service facilities appropriate for use in connection with the housing and to buy and improve the land on which the buildings are to be located. Loans may not be made for nursing, special care, or institutional-type homes. Grants are in the form of rental assistance for some units within the underwritten property. The term for an initial Section 515 loan is 30 years with a 50-year amortization period. However, the term for subsequent loans and loans for special types of properties, such as manufactured housing, may be made for a shorter term based on the projects expected useful life. Each loan is made at a note rate established by the Agency as prescribed in RD Instruction 440.1. Borrowers approved for initial and/or subsequent loans receive interest credit, which reduces the effective interest rate for the Agency's financing, thereby lowering the property's rents. In return for this below-market rate financing, the borrower agrees to lease the projects rental units to income-eligible households at rents approved by the Agency. Borrowers operate on a nonprofit or limited-profit basis.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applicants may be individuals, cooperatives, nonprofit organizations, State or local public agencies, profit corporations, trusts, partnerships, limited partnerships, and be unable to finance the housing either with their own resources or with credit obtained from private sources. However, applicants must be able to assume the obligations of the loan, furnish adequate security, and have sufficient income for repayment. They must also have the ability and intention of maintaining and operating the housing for purposes for which the loan is made. Loans may be made in communities up to 10,000 people in MSA areas and some communities up to 20,000 population in non-MSA areas. Applicants in towns of 10,000 to 20,000 should check with their local Rural Development; office to determine if the agency can serve them. Assistance is available to eligible applicants in States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana's, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Occupants must be very low-, low- or moderate-income families households, elderly, handicapped, or disabled persons.

Applicants must furnish evidence of the following: (a) A comprehensive market analysis showing the need for such service; (b) a legal capacity to incur the obligation and operate the housing; (c) a sound budget; (d) good credit history; (e) inability to obtain necessary funds from other sources on terms and conditions that would enable the applicants to rent the units for amounts that are within payment ability of eligible very low, low-, or moderate-income family, households, elderly, handicapped, or disabled occupants. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

10.435 STATE MEDIATION GRANTS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Farm Service Agency, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

To assist States in establishing and administering mediation programs and services for agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable), and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are to be used for the operation and administration of a State's mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of the Farm Service Agency (FSA) as meeting the requirements of Section 501 (c) of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (U.S.C. 510), as amended. A grant will not exceed 70 percent of the total fiscal year funds that a qualifying State requires to operate and administer its mediation program, or $500,000, whichever is less. Eligible costs are limited to those that are reasonable and necessary to carry out the mission of the State's mediation program and may include activities related to the intake and scheduling of cases, the provision of background and selected information regarding the mediation process, financial advisory and counseling services, and the mediation session.

Applicant Eligibility:

State governments.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable) and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

Have a mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of FSA, and for which certification has not been withdrawn; provide evidence to justify the estimated costs of operating and administering the State's mediation program. The Governor of a State or head of an entity designated by the Governor of a State must make a written request to FSA on or before August 1 of each year to receive a matching grant during the fiscal year commencing on October 1, of that same year. Request for certification are accepted after August 1 of each year; however, the State will be considered in order of date received for reserved grant funds. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. To be certified as a qualifying State, the mediation program of the State must mediate issues involving agricultural loans (regardless of whether the loans are made or guaranteed by the Secretary of Agriculture or made by third party); and may provide mediation services for disputes involving wetlands determinations, compliance with farm programs including conservation programs, rural water loan programs, grazing on National forest system lands, pesticides, and such other issues, under the jurisdiction of the Secretary meeting the requirements of Section 501 of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (7 U.S.C. 510), as amended. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

If, however, when funds for a fiscal year become available, there are not sufficient funds to give all qualifying States 70 percent of their justified estimated expenses for the fiscal year, the percentage allocation will be reduced so as to give all States the same percentage of their expenses. FSA views the use of grant funds to provide financial advisory or other services in an advocacy context to be inconsistent with the premise of a mediation program, which is to provide a neutral forum for resolution of disputes.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

10.450 CROP INSURANCE

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Risk Management Agency, Department of Agriculture

OBJECTIVES:

Risk Management Agency's (RMA) mission is serving America's agricultural producers through effective, market-based risk management tools and solutions to strengthen the economic stability of agricultural producers and rural communities. To carry out this mission, RMA operates and manages the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

FCIC provides crop insurance and risk management strategies to American producers. Private sector insurance providers, approved by FCIC, sell and service the policies. RMA develops and/or approves premium rates, administers the premium and expense subsidies, approves and supports products, and reinsures the Approved Insurance Providers (AIPs). In addition, RMA sponsors educational programs and seminars on risk management.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

INSURANCE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) is a wholly owned government corporation created February 16, 1938 (7 U.S.C. 1501.) The program was amended by Public Law (P.L.) 96-365, dated September 26, 1980, to provide for nationwide expansion of a comprehensive crop insurance plan. FCIC is administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA), and promotes the national welfare by improving the economic stability of agriculture through a secure system of crop insurance. FCIC provides an actuarially sound risk management program that protects against agricultural production losses due to unavoidable causes such as drought, excessive moisture, hail, wind, hurricane, tornado, lightning, and insects. In addition to these causes, revenue insurance programs are available under which producers of certain crops are protected against loss of revenue stemming from low prices, poor yields, or a combination of both. Federal crop insurance is available to producers through private insurance companies that market and service policies and also share in the risk. Thus, the program delivery is a joint effort between the Federal government and the private insurance industry. Federal government subsidizes insurance premiums at a variety of levels depending on level of insurance coverage.

Applicant Eligibility:

Unless otherwise restricted by the insurance policy, owners or operators of farmland, who have an insurable interest in a crop in a county where insurance is offered on that crop, are eligible for insurance.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

In general, crops and acreage must be reported to establish insurance coverage for crop insurance and, if not eligible for crop insurance. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

The insurance contract becomes effective upon issuance of a Notice of Acceptance by the insurance company. Notices of Acceptance for insurance coverage are issued upon a determination that the applicant is eligible.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Fiscal Year 2015: Over the past seven decades, Federal crop insurance has been the primary product provided by the FCIC (administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA)) and consists of various alternatives designed to improve the economic stability of agriculture. Recent legislative mandates have prompted significant program growth and the development of many large and complex new programs. RMA continuously strives to provide adequate risk protection for our Nations agricultural producers and to identify and address concerns about Federal crop insurance.

RMA continues to evaluate risk management products, review and approve private sector products to be reinsured by FCIC, and ensure delivery of these products to agricultural producers. Risk management products can help producers protect themselves from yield risks, market risks, or both. Examples of more recent, new and innovative insurance tools are Stacked Income Protection (STAX), Supplemental Coverage Options (SCO), whole farm, and Pasture Rangeland and Forage (PRF).

For 2015, with over 1.20 million policies on over 283 million net acres, the program provided nearly $101.40 billion in risk protection.

Beginning in 2016 (July 2015), Whole Farm Revenue Protection is available in every county in the United States a first for the crop insurance program. In addition, eligibility for Whole Farm Revenue Protection was expanded to include beginning farmers and farms that are exclusively livestock or greenhouse. Whole Farm program was enhanced to require more accurate record keeping, development of record keeping tools, and to allow for expanding farm operations. (f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC
Sections 208 of the District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act provides, in pertinent part, that In the administration of the Act of August 30, 1890 (7 U.S.C. 321-326, 328) (known as the Second Morrill Act), the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301-305, 307, 308) (known as the First Morrill Act); and the term "State", is used in the laws and provisions of law listed in the preceding paragraphs of this section shall include the District of Columbia. In the administration of the Act of May 8, 1914 (7 U.S.C. 341-346, 347a-349) (known as the Smith-Lever Act) the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301- 305,

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act

The Renewable Resources Extension Act of 1978 (P.L. 95-306, 92 Stat. 349, 16 U.S.C. 1671 et seq.) provides for an expanded and comprehensive extension program for forest and rangeland renewable resources. The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects which have served to expand comprehensive extension programs for forest and rangeland renewable resources on a national, regional, or multi-institutional scale through better program coordination, innovative technologies, and extension models that can be easily duplicated.

(b) Rural Health and Safety
The authority for this program is under Section 502 (i) of Title V of the Rural Development Act of 1972, as amended (7 U.S.C. 2662). The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I. The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Program addresses the Individual and Family Health Education component of the authorization.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions
This program is authorized under Section 534(b) of the Equity in Educational Land-Grant Status Act of 1994 (7 U.S.C. 201 note), as amended by the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA) (7 U.S.C. 7601). This section amends Section 3 of the Act of May 8, 1914 (Smith-Lever Act) (7 U.S.C. 341 et seq.), as amended. Under this authority, appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions (hereinafter referred to as 1994 institutions) for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions
Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)
Title VI Section 604 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7642) states that -The Secretary of Agriculture shall continue operation of the Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database program (referred to in this section as the FARAD program) through contracts, grants, or cooperative agreements with appropriate colleges or universities.

L. 110-246) grants will be awarded under the Facilities Grants Program to the 1890 land-grant institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 appropriates funds under Division A, Title I.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnership Grants Program (aka ARPA and RME):

Section 133 of the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 (ARPA), (Pub. L. 106-224), amended the Federal Crop Insurance Act to add section 524(a)(3); [7 U.S.C. Section 1501 as amended by section 132(a) and section 524]; which requires the Secretary, acting through the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), to establish a competitive grants program for the purpose of educating agricultural producers about the full range of risk management activities.

OBJECTIVES:

GENERAL: [As reflected in Part I.B. of the Request for Applications (RFA) or Capacity Requests for Applications (Capacity RFA)]

I. Smith-Lever (3b) & (c) Capacity Grants (formerly known as Formula Funds)

a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (formerly known as 3b & c Formula Funds)

These funds are used by institutions eligible to receive funds under the Act of Congress approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled An Act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts (Twelfth Statutes at Large, page five hundred and three) (1862 Land-grant Institutions), for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending or resident in 1862 Land-grant Institutions in the several communities, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

The purpose of this funding is to conduct agricultural extension work.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs)

The purpose of this funding is to increase the level of agricultural extension work. These funds are used to support extension activities identified in the eligible institutions approved 5-Year Plan of Work. Special Needs funds are allocated to a State Cooperative Extension Service to fulfill a purpose or overcome a condition peculiar to the State, as compared to the country as a whole, or for a purpose not normally a part of the continuing extension program.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program

Funds support innovative extension education approaches to addressing risks, hazards and disasters. The Cooperative Extension Service (CES) has an important role in reducing the impact of disasters through extension education. The Extension Special Needs program sponsors targeted projects that enable CES to assist in preparing for, providing an educational response to, and recovering from disasters. Education programming funded by this program will help communities, families and individuals become more self-sustaining by strengthening and increasing their resiliency to disaster. Some types of hazards and disaster related events funded in previous years include uncertainties caused by losses of economic infrastructure, severe weather or other natural disasters, security breaches, human disease, or high consequence animal diseases and plant pests.

There has been an increase in public awareness regarding the number and severity of disaster type critical incidents involving earthquakes, tsunamis, tornadoes, wildfire, drought, contagious disease, and terrorist events. The National Academy of Sciences Committee on Environment and Natural Resources and the Subcommittee on Disaster Reduction of the National Science and Technology Council have acknowledged the many effective roles that the Cooperative Extension System (CES) has played in disaster preparedness, response and remediation.

Within the states and territories, the CES has repeatedly served as the trusted community organization that has helped to enable families, communities, and businesses to successfully prepare for, respond to and cope with disaster losses and critical incidents. Once a disaster has occurred, the local extension outreach includes: 1) Communicating practical science-based risk information, 2) Developing relevant educational experiences and programs, 3) Working with individuals and communities to open new communication channels, and 4) Mitigating losses and facilitating recovery. Never was this more evident than after hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma in 2005 and during the 2008 Midwestern Summer flooding. During and after these incidents, local Extension agents served as a critical communication node throughout affected urban and rural areas, particularly when traditional communication systems were temporarily overwhelmed or destroyed.

The Extension Special Needs RFA encourages proposals that specifically address one or more of the following six key target areas:

1. Education and Technical assistance through inter-disciplinary and multi-state disaster training programs and demonstration projects for problem solving, especially those which build upon already existing strengths, contribute to or expand the EDEN and/or eXtension educational materials related to disaster preparation, mitigation, response and recovery;

2. Collaboration with Federal, state and local agencies and other disaster relief organizations to support education and service activities that enhance recovery of impacted rural communities, schools, businesses and agricultural-based activities;

3. Long range family, community and regional planning projects that will enhance implementation of programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after emergency situations within impacted States and across impacted regions;

4. Communication delivery of key information that meets end-users needs in a timely fashion with consideration of potentially limited communication channels due to disaster situations;

5. Dissemination of credible, science-based information that is reliable and easily accessible even if electronic access is compromised; and

6. Integrated Research and Extension Planning Projects (up to $15,000) are intended to provide assistance to applicants in bringing together teams for the development of highly competitive grant proposals where extension personnel would apply for large grants (in excess of $250,000) from other grant programs (e.g., the Agriculture and Food Research Initiative and etc) and lead nationally important disaster prevention, protection and mitigation projects.

Fundable projects should support education and extension activities which:

1. Reduce risk through planning, disaster preparedness and emergency response by improving communication between the public, community leaders, state and Federal agencies;

2. Develop strategies and educational materials and/or programming in the area of emergency planning, infrastructure design and disaster recovery operation;

3. Develop community networks that provide real-time disaster education information; and/or

4. Develop or expand educational materials regarding disaster issues suitable for use and distribution by the Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN) or the eXtension Community of Practice working with disaster planning.

(d) CSRS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET CSRS Retirement) Capacity grants (formerly known as "Formula") authorized under the CSRS Retirement Contributions Program. These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

Fiscal Year 2014 represented the last year that NIFA published a RFA for this program.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement) These grants are used to defray the FERS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

(f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC

These funds are used by the University of the District of Columbia for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending the University of the District of Columbia, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

2. Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and (newly designated) Central State University (Section 1444)

The purpose of this funding is to support agricultural and forestry extension activities at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and Central State University.

These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

Funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2007. The amount available for this program is reduced each fiscal year by $1,473,658 and the same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individuals appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staffs time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12-month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division (HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team within Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002) to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) The Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FGLI);
- 3) The Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) The Federal Employee Retirement System (CSRS);
- 5) The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) The Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institutions annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FELGI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

Fiscal Year 2014 represented the last year that NIFA published a RFA for this program.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement):

Federal funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated to the 1862 land-grant institutions with former Schedule A Appointments based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2008. The amount available for this program is reduced each year by $376,826 and this same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land-grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individual's appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staff's time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12 month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land-grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division (HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team with Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002), to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) The Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FEGLI);
- 3) The Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) The Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS);
- 5) The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) The Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institution's annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FEGLI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

(f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC:

These funds are used by the University of the District of Columbia for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending the University of the District of Columbia, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

Sections 208 of the District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act provides, in pertinent part, that in the administration of the Act of August 30, 1890 (7 U.S.C. 321-326, 328) (known as the Second Morrill Act), the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301-305, 307, 308) (known as the First Morrill Act); and the term "State", is used in the laws and provisions of law listed in the preceding paragraphs of this section shall include the District of Columbia. In the administration of the Act of May 8, 1914 (7 U.S.C. 341-346, 347a-349) (known as the Smith-Lever Act) the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301-305, 307, 308); and the term "State" as used in such Act of May 8, 1914, shall include the District of Columbia, except that the District of Columbia shall not be eligible to receive any sums appropriated under section 3 of such Act. In lieu of an authorization of appropriations for the District of Columbia under section 3 of such Act of May 8, 1914, there is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to provide cooperative agricultural extension work in the District of Columbia under such Act. Any reference in such Act (other than section 3 thereof) to funds appropriated under such Act shall in the case of the District of Columbia be considered a reference to funds appropriated under this subsection.

Therefore, this grant funds the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending the University of the District of Columbia, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

Notwithstanding [redistributing the funds], the Secretary may waive the matching funds requirement ... above the 50 percent level for any fiscal year for an eligible institution of a State if the Secretary determines that the State will be unlikely to satisfy the matching requirement.

4. OTHER EXTENSION ACTIVITIES -- Funding Restrictions:

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA)

The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects (RREA-NFF).

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(b) Rural Health and Safety

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

Indirect costs are unallowable costs, and no funds will be approved for this purpose. Costs that are a part of the institutions indirect cost pool may not be reclassified as direct costs for the purpose of making them allowable.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development or RYD Grants)

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of facility space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Pursuant to Sec. 604 of the Agricultural research extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 [7 USC 7642(d)], applicants requesting recovery of indirect costs should limit their requests to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect costs rate or the equivalent of 19 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(f) Federal Administration (DIRECT APPROPRIATION) - Extension Activities

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447):

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2009 NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No.

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities.

In accordance with NARETPA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

Further, in accordance with Section 7129 of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (House Conference Report 113-333, to accompany H.R. 2642), Central State University has the Designation as 1890 Institution.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnerships Grants Program (aka ARPA, ERME & RME)

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date. Some funds are Fully Discretionary. Some funds are Mandatory. Some funds are formula-based.

For Capacity Programs:

Application packages complement, rather than duplicate, the information collected via the Plan of Work (POW) system and the Research, Extension, and Education Project Online Reporting Tool (REReport), and together satisfy all legislative and regulatory pre-award requirements.

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

(a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;

(b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;

(c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;

(d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;

1. SMITH-LEVER 3(b) & (c):

(a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [(aka 3b & c Capacity Grants (formerly known as "Formula" Funds))]:

States are eligible for funds appropriated under this Act according to the following formula: Out of each annual allocation, each State will be entitled to receive a sum of money equal to the sums available from Federal cooperative extension funds for the fiscal year 1962, and subject to the same requirements as to furnishing of equivalent sums by the State, except that amounts heretofore made available to the Secretary for allotment on the basis of special needs shall continue available for use on the same basis. Further, the University of Guam and the University of the Virgin Islands will receive $100,000 each in addition to the sums appropriated for the several States of the United States and Puerto Rico under the provisions of sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act. Of the remainder so appropriated for each fiscal year 20 per cent will be paid to the several States in equal proportions, 40 per cent will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the rural population of each bears to the total rural population of the several States as determined by the census, and the balance will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the farm population of each bears to the total farm population of the several States as determined by the census. Any appropriation made under sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act will be allotted in the first and succeeding years on the basis of the decennial census current at the time the appropriation is first made, and as to any increase, on the basis of decennial census current at the time such increase is first appropriated.

Cost Sharing or Matching

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1)) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4)) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirement of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marianas Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section..... The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs) :

Funds will be distributed to the institutions on a quarterly basis. See Appendix A of the Capacity Request for Applications (RFA) for the specific allocation.

Cost Sharing or Matching

1862 Land-grant Institutions in the 50 States must match 100 percent of the Special Needs funds they receive with funds from non-Federal sources such as State or county appropriations. The matching must be in the form of cash. Matching funds must be used for extension activities approved in the eligible institutions 5-Year Plan of Work.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program :

Cost Sharing or Matching

Pursuant to rules and policies governing Section 3(b) & (c) of the Smith-Lever Act, as amended through Public Law 107-293, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work.

1. To comply with the matching requirements of the Special Needs Program, applicants are required to provide 100 percent matching funds from non-federal sources for all proposed federal funds sought in the application. In-kind and third party contributions are not allowed for the Smith-Lever Special Needs program. Grant awards cannot be issued until ALL required matching has been documented and verified.

2. Matching Alternative. Extension Directors may certify an offset of guaranteed non-Federal funds to your application. The signed certification of offset must be scanned and included as a PDF attachment (see Part IV .B.,2.,c.,(1) for specific instructions).

3. Matching Exception. Insular Areas: In lieu of the matching funds requirement, the insular areas of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the grants awarded. The Secretary may waive this matching fund requirement for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year. Insular applicants may submit a waiver request as a PDF attachment to the application (see Part IV .B.,2.,c.,(2) for specific instructions).

For all projects:

Matching: Applications shall include written verification of commitments of matching support from non-federal sources. Written verification means:

The sources and the amount of all matching support from outside the applicant organization should be summarized on a separate page and placed in the application as a part of the Budget

Justification attachment (see Field K on the Form SF 424 (R&R) Budget). Include the matching amount, the budget category for the match, and detail how the matching support, from each source, will be used (e.g., salary and position supported). Additionally, all pledge agreements must be included as a PDF attachment in Field K as well.

The value of applicant contributions to the project shall be established in accordance with the applicable cost principles. Applicants should refer to OMB Circulars A-21, Cost Principles for Educational Institutions; A-87, Cost Principles for State, Local, and Tribal Governments; 2 CFR Part 215, Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Agreements With Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and Other Non-Profit Organizations (OMB Circular A110); for further guidance and other requirements relating to allowable costs.

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1)) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4)) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirements of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marianas Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section. The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

Fiscal Year 2014 represented the last year that NIFA published a RFA for this program.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement):

Federal funds are distributed according to an administrative formula described in the Capacity Request for Applications (RFA). See Appendix A of the RFA for specific allocations.

Cost Sharing or Matching

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. 2. Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University (Section 1444):

The 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University, are eligible for funds appropriated under this Act according to the following formula: Any funds annually appropriated under NARETPA section 1444 up to the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1978, pursuant to section 3(d) of the Act of May 8, 1914, as amended, for eligible institutions, will be allocated among the eligible institutions in the same proportion as funds appropriated under section 3(d) of the Act of May 8, 1914, as amended, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1978, are allocated among the eligible institutions. Of the funds in excess of that amount, 20 per cent will be allotted among the eligible institutions in equal proportions; 40 per cent will be allotted among the eligible institutions in the proportion that the rural population of the State in which each eligible institution is located bears to the total rural population of all the States in which eligible institutions are located, as determined by the last preceding decennial census current at the time each such additional sum is first appropriated; and the balance will be allotted among the eligible institutions in the proportion that the farm population of the State in which each eligible institution is located bears to the total farm population of all the States in which the eligible institutions are located, as determined by the last preceding decennial census current at the time each such additional sum is first appropriated. For purposes of computing the distribution, the allotments to Tuskegee University and Alabama A&M University will be determined as if each institution were in a separate State.

Cost Sharing or Matching

NARETPA section 1449 (7 U.S.C. 3222d) states that the State shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources. Such matching funds shall be for an amount equal to not less than ... 100 percent of the formula [capacity grant] funds to be distributed to the eligible institution for fiscal year 2007 and each fiscal year thereafter. ... Notwithstanding [redistributing the funds], the Secretary may waive the matching funds requirement ... above the 50 percent level for any fiscal year for an eligible institution of a State if the Secretary determines that the State will be unlikely to satisfy the matching requirement.

7 CFR 3419.1 defines matching funds as funds from non-Federal sources made available by the State to the eligible institutions ... [for] programs or activities that fall within the purposes of agricultural research and cooperative extension under sections 1444 and 1445 of NARETPA ...or [for] qualifying educational activities. Matching funds means cash contributions and excludes in-kind matching contributions. It defines non-Federal sources as funds made available by the State to the eligible institution either through direct appropriation or under any authority (other than authority to charge tuition and fees paid by students) provided by a State to an eligible institution to raise revenue, such as gift acceptance authority or user fees. Finally, it defines qualifying educational activities as programs that address food and agricultural sciences components of an eligible institution.

7 CFR 3419.6 states that The required matching funds for the formula programs shall be used by an eligible institution for agricultural research and extension activities that have been approved in the plan of work required under sections 1444(d) and 1445(c) of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977... or for .. qualifying education activities.

Further, in accordance with Section 7129 of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (House Conference Report 113-333, to accompany H.R. 2642), Central State University has the Designation as 1890 Institution.

4. For fiscal year (FY) 2009 10 percent of funds appropriated for EFNEP in excess of funds appropriated in FY 2007 will be allocated to the 1890 Institutions in an amount that bearing the same ratio to the population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level (as prescribed by the Office of Management and Budget and as adjusted pursuant to section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C.9902(2))) in the State where the 1890 Institution is located; bears to the total population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level in all States where 1890 Institutions are located; as determined by the most recent decennial census at the time when the appropriated amount first exceeds levels appropriated for EFNEP in FY 2007. This FY 2009 rate of 10 percent is to increase by 1 percentage point annually until FY 2014 maxing out at 15 percent and remaining at that level for every year thereafter.
5. The remainder will be allocated to each 1862 Land-Grant Institutions in an amount that bears the same ratio to the total amount allocated as the population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level in the State; bears to the total population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level in all States; as determined by the most recent decennial census at the time at which each such additional amount is first appropriated.

4. OTHER EXTENSION ACTIVITIES:

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA):

The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects. (RREA-NFF).

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

(b) Rural Health and Safety (RHSE):

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (TCEP):

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (RYD):

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447):

NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No. 95-113).

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities. In accordance with NAREPTA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

Further, in accordance with Section 7129 of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (House Conference Report 113-333, to accompany H.R. 2642), Central State University has the Designation as 1890 Institution.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions:

Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions was allocated $286,171,980 to support Extension activities. Awards ranged from $1,043,433 to $13,183,693. The total amount of required matching funds in FY-2015 was $279,171,980. Both programs have matching requirements; with over 98 percent of the organizations that receive funds having to match 100% of the award amount. Combined appropriation for both programs is $287,201,959.

(B) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions - (Special Needs):

Special Needs program was allocated $1,029,979 to support individual projects that may be initiated under this program. Awards ranged from $11,347 to $111,504. The total amount of required matching funds in FY 2015 was $1,029,979.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program :

National Institute of Food and Agriculture funded Smith Lever Special Needs projects to implement applied scientific programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after local or regional emergency situations or disasters. The program received seven (7) applications, and the total allocation was $460,494. The range of proposals funded was from $15,000 for a planning grant to $225,000.

(D) Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and Central State University (aka 1890 LGIs Section 1444):

In FY 2015, $43,920,000 was appropriated for this program. Funds in the amount of $42,163,200 were provided to support the Extension programs at the 18 1890 Land-Grant Universities, in 17 states. Funds are distributed on a formula basis.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) (aka ENUT: Nutrition Education) - Represents Smith-Lever 3d funds:

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) brings together federal, state, and local resources to target two (2) primary audiences: low-income families with young children and low-income youth. The program is delivered by the 1862 and the 1890 Land-Grant Institutions. Since 1969, EFNEP has reached more than 32.5 million low-income families and youth, improving their diets and food-related behaviors. Each year EFNEP enrolls more than half a million new program participants.

In FY 2015, EFNEP received $67,934,000 in federal funding. EFNEP reached 119,351 adults and 377,702 youth directly; and more than 340,000 family members, indirectly. There were 85% of EFNEP participants who reported income at or below 100% of poverty, earning $24,250 a year or less for a family of four (4). At least 74% of all EFNEP adults are minorities. This is significant because poor health disproportionately affects minority and low-income populations. As well, educational opportunities and resources are limited.

EFNEP consistently demonstrates strong results. FY 2015 data confirms adult graduates:

Improve their diets:

95% report more closely following dietary recommendations, including consuming an extra 1/2 cup of fruits and vegetables;

Improve their nutrition practices:

89% improve nutrition practices, such as making healthier food choices and reading nutrition labels;

Stretch their food dollars farther:

84% improve food resource management practices, such as planning meals and shopping with a grocery list;

Handle food more safely:

65% improve food safety practices, such as storing and thawing food properly; and

Increase their physical activity rates: 38% increase their physical activity level by 30 minutes or more.

In FY 2015, approximately $4,610,000 was available to support Farm Safety (i.e., AgrAbility) and Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification (YFSEC) programs.

Of this amount, $150,000 was made available for YFSEC (i.e. SAY project) to continue the work performed through the FY 2013 and FY 2014 funding.

The work includes: continuation of a national steering committee to identify curriculum and testing gaps, certification needs and industry-recognized credentials; placing curriculum materials for formal and non-formal settings on the eXtension website in the Ag Safety and Health CoP; continue outreach to promote use of the curriculum from youth and farm safety instructors to parents and 4-H youth programs; and determine the resources required to sustain a clearinghouse for national youth farm safety and education curriculum, state certification requirements and testing.

Of the $4,610,000 available in FY 2015, approximately $3,732,450 was available to support eighteen (18) AgrAbility continuation awards (17 State/Regional AgrAbility Projects SRAPs, and one (1) National AgrAbility Project - NAP) and $540,000 was available for new State AgrAbility awards. Every other year eligible institutions can complete for Tribal Colleges Extension - Special Emphasis (TCEP-SE) which funds pilot projects for informal, community focused learning.

Extension capacity and Extension Special Emphasis both fall under continuations which means applicants complete once and receive annual allotments of funding for multiple out years that conclude in a set timeframe. At the conclusion of a funding cycle a new grant competition is held. TCEP capacity grants provide a baseline of funding for extension operations over a four-year period. TCEP special emphasis provides funding for pilot projects over a two (2) year cycle.

In FY 2015, both TCEP capacity and special emphasis were in a continuation cycle. Capacity grants were in their second year of a four (4) year cycle. Special emphasis were in the final year of two (2) year cycle.

The program awarded $4,268,160 to states, with 32 of the 1994 Land Grants receiving extension capacity and 14 institutions receiving additional funding through special emphasis. - (4) Information about and access to health promotion and educational activities; and
- (5) Training for volunteers and health services providers concerning health promotion and health care services for individuals and families in cooperation with state, local and community partners.

Proposed projects are expected to have a health education focus and Extension outreach strategy guided by an existing health framework/model (e.g., Cooperative Extensions National Framework for Health and Wellness), as well as to identify health outcome indicators and lead to measurable changes in health knowledge, attitudes and behaviors for project participants. Prospective applicants were also encouraged to coordinate efforts with State offices of rural health to avoid duplication of activities, partner with Regional Rural Development Centers on outcome indicators, measures, and communication of project impacts, and to enlist for their projects evaluators/individual skilled in conducting program outcome evaluations and reporting.

Of the 16 proposals that will be reviewed by the FY 2016 RSHE Panel, the regional distribution is as follows:

- two (2) proposals from North East;
- six (6) proposals from North Central;
- four (4) proposals from South; and
- four (4) proposals from West.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions:

INCREASING OPPORTUNITIES FOR FAMILIES AND YOUTH

The Extension Get Fit Program uses a volunteer delivery model to expand access to group exercise classes across the state. In 2015, this program reached 54,395 participants with twice-weekly sessions. Participants improved upper body strength (77%), lower body strength (75%), aerobic endurance (69%), upper body flexibility (70%), lower body flexibility (76%), and agility and balance (73%). Participants also increased overall physical activity levels (93%), increased energy (89%), and decreased pain (50%). Extension Get Fit programs aim to improve overall fitness through strength training, which is shown to also increase bone density and reduce fall risk. Based on fitness test results, we estimate that Extension Get Fit programs contributed to healthcare cost savings totaling $8.3 million for 2015, including hospitalization, treatment and rehabilitation cost savings from reduced fall risk alone.

WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

- (1) Increased knowledge among citizens and stakeholders of the social and economic benefits and practical applications of broadband technology.
- (2) New opportunities to connect business and education stakeholders.
- (3) Increased knowledge among young people about the negative impacts of early exit from high school, the rewards available through technical careers, and entrepreneurship opportunities.
- (4) Increased Extension capacity for meeting facilitation, public deliberation, and strategic planning.

ECONOMIC AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Participants were asked to respond to an online evaluation survey immediately after the workshops. Workshop participants in Arkansas included farmers; farmers' market or community supported agriculture (CSA) managers; university, government agency and nonprofit employees; K-12 school food service personnel, and economic development or farmers market volunteers. 37% of respondents indicated they had never before applied for grant funding of any type and 78% had never applied for funding from AMS. Respondents were asked to rank their level of understanding of training topics prior to and after attending, including technical requirements of the program, the submission process and grant writing best practices. Results indicate that most participants increased knowledge in nearly every topic area.

BUILDING CAPACITY IN POST-HARVEST AND FOOD PROCESSING TECHNOLOGY FOR LIMITED RESOURCE FARMERS

How have the results been disseminated to communities of interest?

Information is disseminated through meetings and workshops as well as the website of the Post Harvest Education Foundation and presentation to client groups.

What do you plan to do during the next reporting period to accomplish the goals?

NIFA completed the training of two (2) groups of "Trainers" in April of 2016 and convened a postharvest training and workshop. NIFA will also complete the postharvest survey and document losses among 10 small fruits and vegetables and prepare bound modules for training of farmers in post-harvesting.

MAINTAINING POSTHARVEST QUALITY AND EXPANDING MARKETS OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

What was accomplished under these goals? We have continued our work to develop treatments to control Fuller Rose Beetle and various mite pests on citrus fruit destined for export to South Korea. Ethyl formate treatment can be used as a pre-shipment phytosanitary treatment as soon as it is registered in the U.S., and may be also used as an on-arrival treatment in South Korea. Registration of Vapormate (ethyl formate with CO₂ in cylinderized formulation) has been delayed until at least 2016 or 2017. Fruit tolerance studies with navel oranges have also been conducted, revealing fruit tolerance to concentrations of 2% ethyl formate or less. We also know that damage after fumigation develops slowly and therefore, fumigation on arrival may be feasible at higher concentrations if fruits are marketed quickly.

What was accomplished under these goals?

We have continued our work to develop treatments to control Fuller Rose Beetle and various mite pests on citrus fruit destined for export to South Korea. Ethyl formate treatment can be used as a pre-shipment phytosanitary treatment as soon as it is registered in the U.S., and may be also used as an on-arrival treatment in South Korea. Registration of Vapormate (ethyl formate with CO₂ in cylinderized formulation) has been delayed until at least 2016 or 2017. Fruit tolerance studies with navel oranges have also been conducted, revealing fruit tolerance to concentrations of 2% ethyl formate or less. We also know that damage after fumigation develops slowly and therefore, fumigation on arrival may be feasible at higher concentrations if fruits are marketed quickly.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program :

The following are examples of funded projects:

- (1) Preventing Outbreaks of Avian Influenza Science Through Timely Dissemination of Practical Science-Based Information;
- (2) Enhancing and Extending Hail Damage and Recovery Information for Crops in Traditional and Social Media;

(D) Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and Central State University (aka 1890 LGIs Section 1444):

Each institution received approval of an administrative project that supports the respective five-year plan of work. Activities carried out by some institutions during FY 2015 include:

The issues of declining numbers of small-scale producers, land loss by small-scale producers, lack of resources, lack of marketing opportunities, low profitability, dying communities and globalization are critical to small-scale agriculture. This Program emphasizes appropriate technologies in the following initiatives: (a) Small farmers, Landownership, and Agribusiness Cooperatives, (b) Horticulture and Community Gardens, and (c) Livestock Production and Marketing.

Financial literacy is a major concern being addressed by Cooperative Extension Programs. One (1) effort is the collaborative work among extension partners and stakeholders, whereby faculty developed a long range plan for early intervention in financial, literacy and consumer education in targeted areas throughout the State. Monthly training of trainers in financial literacy and consumer education was conducted. Resources and materials (financial literacy fact sheets, etc.) from like-minded consumer advocacy organizations were disseminated as appropriate.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) (aka ENUT: Nutrition Education) - Represents Smith-Lever 3d funds:

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All seventy-six (76) 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed-behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: Lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Upon participant entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

(G), (H), & (W) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification:

AgrAbility program increases the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbility customers) become more successful. The program provides up to 4 years of funding to support cooperative projects in which State Cooperative Extension Services (CES) based at either 1862 or 1890 land-grant universities or the University of the District of Columbia subcontract to private, non-profit disability organizations. Measures of success may include improvements in customers financial stability or access to life activities and in the capacity of the states and regions to deliver services this population requires in a timely and satisfying manner.

To address the specialized needs of AgrAbility customers, the program builds service capacity on national, regional, state, and local levels through education and networking. In the absence of capacity, projects provide assistance to customers. In any given year, the program funds approximately 20 State/Regional AgrAbility Projects (SRAPs) and 1 National AgrAbility Project (NAP). Primary function of NAP is to support the state and regional projects in developing their capacity to meet these objectives. All AgrAbility Projects use marketing activities to direct the public to AgrAbility initiatives in the areas of education, networking, and direct assistance.

In FY 2015, Farm Safety funding line supported 3 new SRAPs and continued support for 17 previously approved SRAPs and 1 NAP, as well as continued funding for 1 Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification (YFSEC) project.

FY 2015 AgrAbility Continuation Awards:

One (1) continuation award to support 4th (final) year of the National AgrAbility Project originally funded in FY 2012;

(J), (U), (V) Children, Youth, and Families At-Risk (aka CYFAR):

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk and/or CYFAR) and (U) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP)

The Parent-child Reading Enhancement Program (PCREP) seeks to help parents help their children succeed in life by teaching parents how to teach children to read.

The Parent-child Reading Enhancement Program (PCREP) utilizes three (3) classrooms within the Child Development Center. The overall goal of the project within the center is to equip the center with needed technology, facilitators, and student volunteers that will assist in teaching parents various reading strategies with the intent of training parents to better assume responsibility and provide guidance in helping their children increase their reading skills while indirectly impacting parents' overall behavior and attitude. The program indicates 79% of program participants developed coping skills.

Juntos: Together for a Better Education and Success for At-Risk Youth Communities.

This project involved 5 cohorts of middle school youth to help them achieve academic success in middle school and throughout high school. The first year will involve middle school youth who are part of the project participating in bi-weekly 15-30 minutes sessions of one-on-one academic mentoring by a project staff person (i.e., Success Coach) to help youth set goals and identify action steps to do better in school. Youth will also participate in group-based educational activities every other week to further strengthen their self-confidence and life skills. Youth and their parents/primary caregivers will also be invited to participate in the Juntos Family Workshop Series, followed by monthly Family Nights scheduled throughout the year. The program reports 80% of participating youth improved their GPA.

Positive Parenting Practices is a program to educate pregnant and parenting teens and emerging adults on positive parenting, child development, conflict management, nutrition, and professional skills. The short-term goals are that after participation in the program teens will report more progressive beliefs in their parenting and child-rearing attitudes and show improved workforce preparation skills. The long-term outcome is that the community organizations will develop a social support system for pregnant and parenting teens that is sustained over time. The project reports higher scores indicated better workforce preparation skills.

The Very Important Parents program works with teen parents, their families, and their childcare providers. The goal of the program is to cultivate knowledge of child development, develop parenting skills, and develop personal life skills. With a blend of face-to-face instruction and frequent technological contacts, the program is helping teen parents make better parenting and education choices for themselves and their children. Improved communication between teen parents and their childcare providers, as well as fostering greater parental involvement in their children's academic success, are key goals of the project. The project reports high scores with teen parents learning about and changing their perceptions about appropriate parenting practices.

The MSU SCP Project is designed to provide parent education and critical support to high-context parents of children ages 0-3 through traditional face to face group educational sessions and on-line "virtual" classes. Through these venues participants will learn key parenting skills and early childhood development information, as well as find friendships and grow critical community supports designed to encourage discussion of real life situations, moderated by a trained Extension Educator. The Project reports increases in emotionally-supportive parenting.

(V) Children , Youth, and Families at Risk- Professional Development and technical Assistance (aka CYFAR-PDTA):

For the FY 2015 award cycle, the CYFAR PDTA Center was developed and served as a mechanism to support the success of the CYFAR initiative through the development and provision of:

Project Coaching, Proactive evaluation & technical assistance; Resources and Tools. Strategic Leadership Team, Advisory Committee, and Subject Matter Experts serve as representatives across the land-grant system representative of 1862, 1890, 1994 and Hispanic-serving Institutions. The PDTA Center supports CYFERnet.org and CYFERnetSEARCH.org websites.

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education - Professional Development (aka SARE-PD and/or SARE Chapter 3 Program):

Project types formerly funded under this line are supported and reported under CFDA 10.215

(L) Federally Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

The Northwest California Tribal Communities Extension Program <http://m.northcoastjournal.com/NewsBlog/archives/2016/04/30/garden-tours-wi-th-homeland-security>

UC Davis cooperative extensions partnerships with community members. Those involve programs to both educate people about nutrition starting young, in many cases and provide them with food, plants and skills to grow and cook them. The garden is an impressive array: bee hives, more than 100 fruit trees, including apples, pears, plums and peaches as well as pineapple, guava, kiwi, artichokes and a host of vegetables. In addition to a farmers market and free plant starts for UIHS clients, the garden provides food for ceremonies, funerals and other community events. Its all part of various efforts by FRTEP cooperative extension to decrease high local diabetes rates and bring nourishment to so-called food deserts communities or neighborhoods where access to fresh food is limited or nonexistent. Many local tribal communities are considered food deserts

Promoting Healthy and Thriving Tribes in Remote, Interior Alaska <http://news.uaf.edu/teaching-rural-alaska-to-farm-is-raders-passion/>

The Extension Educator is developing a mobile app called Grow & Tell, which allows individuals in Alaska and other parts of North America to note where they are growing a particular variety of vegetable and see what varieties others are growing and how well they have done. The educator is working with a Boston software company on the app, with funding from an Extension foundation. Its basically citizen science agricultural variety trials, Some 30 to 50 Alaska volunteers are beta testing the app, with hopes that will be available to the public in 2016.

Tri-State/Navajo Nation Window Rock Extension Program https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SQ_s5zuk0yo&feature=youtu.be

The FRTEP program is working with national beef processor and tribal cattle producers to increase beef quality and market nation-wide under the brand Navajo Beef sales of the product are providing Navajo ranchers with increased profits.

USDA-NIFA Fort Hall Agricultural Extension Program

A total of 2,400 farmers and ranchers were served in addition to 900 tribal youth. Approximately 800 producers have learned how to effectively manage voles in crop and rangeland through vole management. Implementation of these strategies is estimated to save Indian producers $1 million a year in lost revenue due to vole predation. Fifty-five (55) producers learned about bovine female reproductive anatomy to improve calving success for the 2016 calving season and 42 clients learned how to safely handle and apply pesticides and monitor for reduced use of these chemicals.

Bimaadiziwin - A Healthy Way of Life in Minnesota Tribal Lands-

The FRTEP program leveraged outside funding to complete and publish a Field Guide to traditional plants and knowledge along the Leech Lake Tribal lands. This publication is the first of its kind and will prove very valuable as a repository of traditional plant knowledge and language.

(M) Tribal Colleges Extension Program (aka TCEP):

Engaging Community Assets to Propagate and Sustain Agriculture

The program provided tilling for 90 gardens to enhance food security and nutrition. Educators provided 27 workshops on nutrition and health attended by 270 people, including 102 on-campus students.

Bay Mills Extension Services

The program provides health and fitness programs for the Mukwa Health and Fitness Education Center. The colleges Waishkey Bay Farm is a community resource for family gardens and community based poultry production. The demonstration farm also provides education on honey bee production and pasture-raised beef.

Manoomin, Food that Grows on the Water

The project centers on sustainable wild rice production as a means to feed reservation communities. The college will hold a wild rice camp in mid-September where students will harvest and process wild rice. Community members will be able to participate in the fall harvest feast of traditional plants.

Preparing Students for Financial and Academic Success

This special emphasis program teaches financial literacy skills while promoting the importance of post-secondary education among tribal youth.

Dine Youth Horse Safety Program

Navajo Technical University Land Grant Department expanded its Extension programming by developing the Dine Youth Horse Safety Program.

(N) & (O) Renewable Resource Extension Act -National Focus Fund Projects (aka RREA-NFF):

Congress appropriated $3,597,600 for the RREA Capacity Program in FY 2015. These funds supported a total of 72 1862, 1890, and insular land-grant universities.

Examples of project impacts include:

A new collaboration with the American Forest Foundation/Shortleaf Pine Initiative is providing access to 12,000 forest landowners in the South. Landowners gain knowledge about sustainable forest management, the hortleaf pine initiative, and invasive plant identification and control.

Participants at a Burn Workshop held in 2015 said they were more confident about conducting a prescribed burn after attending the workshop, which covered such topics as the benefits of burning, burning concerns, safety, equipment, fire breaks, burn plans, and state smoke prediction models. Based on the post workshop evaluation, the participants learned the proper width of a firebreak, the importance of weather, and sources for good weather information.

An Eyes on the Forest extension program has trained volunteers to scout forests and be on the lookout for invasive insect pests that can do grave damage to forests. Sentinel trees have been identified and are monitored throughout the growing season for signs of destructive invasive pests.

A state extension forestry program focused on private, family forest owners directly reached more than 3,800 landowners through field days, presentations, and a multi-state landowner conference.

An extension program working with a Native American reservation provided focused educational opportunities focused on native plants of special significance that grow in the forest. A 360-acre tract of forestland is being developed into a learning center that will be used in perpetuity.

(P) Rural Health and Safety (aka Rural Health & Safety Education and/or RHSE):

RHSE projects funded in FY 2015 are focusing on a diversity of rural health and safety issues, from diabetes education, health literacy, cancer prevention, community capacity and caregiver education.

Health Literacy And Emergency Preparedness Programs For Medicaid Recipients In Rural Areas:

The overall purpose of this project is to educate rural residents with limited resources and low health literacy so they can effectively advocate and participate in their own health care, ultimately improving health for themselves and their families. The overall goal of this project is to improve individual and family health literacy around the domain of communication with healthcare providers. We aim to address this goal by adapting How to Talk to Your Doctor materials for low health literacy levels and implementing the adapted program to improve health communication confidence and skill among participants.

A Community Approach to Care Education: Empowering Rural Hospitals and Caregivers to Engage in Exceptional Care of Rural Elders:

This health education project is aimed at improving health literacy among three (3) groups; FCS Educators, rural hospital discharge planners and family caregivers. Applying the socio-ecological model and resources across six (6) research-based domains, this team is developing a comprehensive health education curriculum to address the complex issues of rural caregiving. The anticipated impacts include increased confidence among family caregivers and discharge planners in their service to rural elders, increased awareness and utilization of services administered through the aging network, increased numbers of inquiries through the rural FCS Extension network, along with decreased rates of re-hospitalizations, lower rates of depression and anxiety among rural caregivers.

Increasing Diabetes Education in Rural Areas:

Diabetes is a chronic, lifelong disease that affects the way the body uses food for energy and causes many complications that can be very costly to treat. The Dining with Diabetes program is an evidence-based program that has proven that community education emphasizing A1C and blood pressure, consumption of fruits and vegetables, and increasing physical activity can be achieved by individuals at risk for diabetes. According to the CDC, research indicates that improved control of LDL blood lipids can reduce cardio-vascular complications by 20-50%. The goal of this project is to expand the Dining with Diabetes program into rural counties not currently served by the program.

Balanced Living with Diabetes: Impacting Rural Community Health through Evidence-Based Program Implementation by Cooperative Extension:

Adult onset diabetes is a prevalent and increasing health issue. The Balanced Living with Diabetes project will create the capacity for sustained, effective community lifestyle education for the prevention and management of diabetes the state Cooperative Extension. Capacity for implementation of the Balanced Living with Diabetes (BLD) program in rural communities in the state will be created through training of Extension Agents in implementation of the BLD program and the Master Food Volunteer (MFV) Program. Trained Master Food Volunteers expand the capacity and reach of Extension Agents by assisting in the food demonstration and education component of the BLD program, and linking them to the communities in need of the program. A Balanced Living with Diabetes curriculum kit will be developed for dissemination to interested Extension programs in the Nation.

Addressing Cancer Health Disparities in Rural Areas through Education and Building Community Capacity for Action:

The dual purposes of this project are to increase the health literacy and access to services in rural residents in the area of cancer education and treatment while building capacity in health-focused coalitions to address rural health disparities. This will be accomplished by empowering individuals to make informed health decisions and adopting healthier lifestyle choices, strengthening collaborations across communities and sectors and measuring the impact of prevention activities at both the individual and community levels. Key to this effort is taking to statewide scale an established rural cancer education program, Cancer Clear and Simple (CC&S) to 33 rural counties with high cancer incidence and morbidity.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program (Renewals):

19 Renewal applications were received for the third year of the Five-Year Plan of Work (FY 2013-FY 2017). The funds were used to support on-going facilities improvements and/or construction at the respective institutions. Examples of funded projects follow:

One Project will expand research, teaching and Extension capabilities through the acquisition of state-of-the art equipment as identified in the following objectives. Objective/Outcome 1: Purchase/Acquire state-of-the art equipment to advance research in chemistry, reproductive physiology and endocrinology, engineering /processing, food product development, and mammalian cell culture. Objective/Outcome 3: Acquire and utilize state of the art equipment in GIS, water resources, soil analysis and Plant physiology, cell biology to infuse technology in hands-on learning in teaching laboratories and smart classrooms. Objective/Outcome 4: Strengthen the molecular biology research and education program in the College of Agricultural, Life and Natural Sciences by incorporating recent advances in genome sequencing and bioinformatics technologies. Objective/Outcome 6: Expand Extensions capabilities through distance education and virtual learning.

Another project supported the construction of a new facility needed at a farm purchased in FY 2012. This farm is purposed to support various needed facilities. A major facility is the new show arena and kidding barn during lambing season. The facility will be used for teaching animal handling to students. This project will also support continual repairs and improvements to existing research and extension facilities. Repairs may include painting, roofing repairs, floor covering replacements, repairs to plumbing/electrical systems, etc.

Another project reports improvements to existing facilities. These improvements included testing and removal of asbestos and lead based paint, demolition of dilapidated structures, and site grading and seeding.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

Funded Project Network Node 1:

Coordinated national program, develop pharmacokinetic modeling approaches and provided pharmacokinetic support to FARAD components, and on a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provided responses to emergency queries (telephone, internet) from the FARAD Hotline.

Funded Project Network Node 2:

Funded Project 2: maintained the pharmacokinetic, bibliographic and call center databases and web-based access to the kinetic and bibliographic citation files. On a rotating basis with other network nodes, this node also provided responses to drug and contaminant residue questions submitted to FARAD.

Funded Project Network Node 3:

Collected and entered data for the US Approved Animal Drugs Database (US-AADD), maintained internet websites for FARAD, created and supported platforms for mobile devices to access the Veterinarian's Guide to Residue Avoidance Management (VetGRAM) and other mobile-friendly applications, and distributed electronic alerts and updates via email, Twitter and other electronic formats.

Funded Project Network Node 4:

On a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provided responses to emergency telephone calls from the FARAD hotline.

Collaboration between all institutions occurred on research.

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development Grants Program and/or RYD Program):

No Action Needed (N/A/N):

Program has not been funded for several years.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnership Competitive Grants Program(aka RME and/or ARME):

Examples of funded projects are:

Empower the strengths and skills of individuals in the Southern region who are involved in the management of agricultural production, marketing, financial, legal and human resource risks. Strive to improve producers ability to manage risk and increase profitability of southern agriculture by delivering programs designed to change risk management behavior among key producer populations.

Provide technology support to regional centers. Continue to develop and expand the delivery of risk management education through the online Ag Risk and Farm Management Library. Provide electronic support to provide Results Verification System. Provide public access to a searchable archival database of the results of all risk management education funded projects so risk management education providers can better collaborate and learn from one another.

Deliver risk management education to help agricultural producers to manage risks and position their farm or ranch for future growth and success. Identify and assess producer risk management education needs and emerging issues through efforts with several producer and stakeholder groups, including special emphasis audiences. Building on the needs assessment results, the Center will implement an annual competitive grants program for both educational and exploratory projects that deliver or lead to producer-focused, results-based risk management education. Will conduct educational programming to train applicants and grant recipients to improve project proposals and educational programs and will work with other ERME partners to deliver national programming and address emerging issues as appropriate. The Center will implement a comprehensive communications plan to administer the regional competitive grants program, to document results, to promote the ERME program, and to maintain a strong national linkage with other ERME partners.

Provide U.S. agricultural producers and their families, as appropriate, with knowledge, skills and tools needed to make informed risk management decisions that may enhance the profitability of their operations. Will continue to conduct the producer-focused, results-based ERME Competitive Grants Program, which provides funding to both public and private organizations for educational projects designed to improve the ability of agricultural producers to effectively manage risk.

Provide leadership in activities to create environments that support learning, collaboration, and partnerships to develop and deliver programs that improve agricultural producers' ability to manage risk in increasingly uncertain climate and economic environments. A recent stakeholder survey identified that the increasing occurrence and severity of drought has greatly affected production risk. Will develop targeted risk management programs on drought management by making it a regional priority and expanding work in this risk area.

Dine Youth Horse Safety Program

Navajo Technical University Land Grant Department expanded its Extension programming by developing the Dine Youth Horse Safety Program.

(CC) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (aka DCPPERA):

Master Gardener Program

Participants go out in the field and teach plant clinics. The program also has beautification projects in all areas of the state including schools, places of worship, nursing homes and parks. The Master Gardeners give back 9,000 hours to the state annually. The program provides interested individuals with extensive training in topics such as plant pathology, entomology, urban soils, plant propagation, and pruning clinics. In return, participants dedicate volunteer time to teach horticultural information, answer questions, speak at public events and participate in community gardening programs.

In FY 2015, 276 (which includes 42 trainees) Master Gardeners and Trainees provided 9,000 hours of horticultural expertise to the state. The value of volunteer time is $39.86 per hour according to www.independentsector.org with a total value of $358,740 in savings to the state. In addition, 41,194 direct contacts were served by the Master Gardener Coordinator/Extension Agent. Forty-two (42) Master Gardener Trainees completed 50 hours of basic horticulture training, a final exam and 50 hours of volunteer hours.

Nutrition Education for Youth

The program provides nutrition education conducted by nutrition educators youth on the following topics: nutritional needs and cultural heritage of audience; nutrition knowledge, skills, and attitudes necessary to improve diets; planning for daily food needs; knowledge and practice in food selection and preparation; knowledge of financial management relating to family food budget, uneven incomes, and local food resources; use and care of equipment used for food preparation, storage, and utilization; food safety, health, and sanitation practices; gardening and food production techniques; food preservation practices; food intake and health and fitness. The direct education provides a series of classes in groups of 15-20 students in classrooms and community settings. Youth completing the series of classes receive a certificate of completion.

A Taste of African Heritage Diet

The Center for Nutrition, Diet and Health (CNDH) piloted the nutrition curriculum specifically designed for African-Americans and descendants of Africans across the diaspora. The purpose of the program is to reduce health disparities by reconnecting African-Americans to the history, culture and food traditions of their African ancestors. Moreover, the program's foundation lies in the extensive research conducted by physicians, dietitians, and historians and evidence-based eating model - the African Heritage Pyramid an evidence-based eating model that serves as a guide to teach healthy cooking using traditional foods that are familiar to African-Americans. Participants completed the A Taste of African Heritage classes over the course of three (3) months. The participants learned about the history of traditional African heritage cuisines while being reintroduced to natural foods formerly enjoyed by their ancestors. Participants improved their eating habits and started to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables. Participants experienced weight loss and lowering of blood pressure. 100% of the participants will recommend the program to their friends.

Farmers Market

The institution, with USDA funding, established and operated two (2) Farmers' Markets in the state. The markets operated for 24 Saturdays from May-November, provided vending space for 10 independent entrepreneurs and welcomed over 6,000 visitors who purchased produce, supported community marketing initiatives and participated in cooking and sampling demonstrations. Six (6) volunteers from two (2) local universities also received community nutrition experience and entrepreneurship skills. Each week over 300 people purchase fresh, healthy foods from independent vendors. Patrons can also sample foods and participate in community demonstrations and events at the market. The market employs three (3) students and offers weekly spaces to farmers and other independent entrepreneurs.

Youth Program

LifeSmarts, a unique consumer knowledge game show competition is designed for teenagers in grades 9 through 12. LifeSmarts concentrates on several crucial areas of real life: Personal Finance; Health and Safety; Environment; Technology; and Consumer Rights and Responsibilities. Coaches worked with DC youth in teams of five (5). Fifteen (15) teams began the competition stage of the program learning about the Environment. Technology information was gained through interactions with information secured from Microsoft, Legal Rights and responsibilities and Health and Safety. Nine (9) teams qualified to participate in the state competition and competed to represent the state at the National Competition in Seattle, Washington. Participants were surveyed and asked to agree or disagree with various statements about the program. The results were that 82% of participants agreed with the statement: I have made more positive decisions for myself because of things I learned in LifeSmarts. 93% agree: LifeSmarts has made me a smarter, more responsible consumer.

80% agree: LifeSmarts has taught me valuable lessons about my rights as an employee.

75% agree: I have shared the information I gained through LifeSmarts with my friends and family.

95% agree: I would recommend LifeSmarts to High School students.

82% agree: I gained valuable experience working as a team, and interacting with adults through LifeSmarts.

92% agree: LifeSmarts has had a moderate to great effect on me.

(DD) Healthy Homes Partnership:

The program included:

Implementing the Healthy Homes educational toolkit curriculum;

Conducting webinars to coincide with resource information in the Healthy Homes toolkit and the Help Yourself to Healthy Homes educational materials;

Training state project managers and regional/county extension educators within targeted states in using the Healthy Homes materials (train the trainer model);

Utilizing information from the Healthy Homes toolkit to develop messaging for general public through using technology via social media applications to include, but may not be limited to Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Pinterest, Tumblr, and Google+; and

Coordinating Healthy Homes Advisory Committees working with state coordinators in the eight (8) targeted states for guidance in project implementation and identification of emerging needs; and
(6) Evaluating the Healthy Homes project implementation in the targeted eight (8) states. These strategies support the federal interagency priorities for Advancing Healthy Housing A Strategy for Action. Fiscal Year 2016: For Fiscal Year 2016:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions:

Forestry Extension Outreach

Project will conduct site visits on private/communal land with invasive species concerns and write-up management plans for specific sites and for specific invasive plant species. The Extension personnel will disseminate knowledge to the landowner/land manager. Project will conduct education outreach on butterfly biology and conservation. Project will collaborate to create up-to-date vegetation maps through the use of unmanned aerial vehicles, high-resolution multispectral cameras, remote sensing technology, and image analysis software. Personnel will continue to propagate and distribute seedlings of agroforestry plants to the general public. Extension personnel will propagate and care for the plants and promote their use by land owners and land managers.

Health and Wellness

The prevalence of obesity among children and adolescents is about 34% and 17%, respectively. Healthful behaviors are difficult to follow for multiple reasons, some of which include: fast food restaurants use pervasive advertising; small neighborhood grocery stores have a limited availability of healthy food choices; public parks are not conducive to informal physical activities, and the environment is automobile-centrally built. Together with collaborators, project plans to introduce proven and culturally acceptable dietary and physical activity interventions aimed at 2-to8 year olds and their caregivers. Project will promote affordable, nutritious, and sustainably grown local fruits and vegetables as well as increased consumption of water. Additionally, project will promote locally grown produce and caught seafood, while discouraging overconsumption of sugar sweetened beverages, imported red meat and processed food. Project will provide guidance so that individuals and families can make informed, science-based decisions about their health and well-being.

Sustainable Energy

Project faces diminishing and more costly supplies of energy even as the demand for energy continues to rise as a result of population growth and increased world consumption. Demands from the public for renewable sources of energy and more energy-efficient agriculture and food production will have a major impact on food production and transportation. To improve energy security and green technologies, projects role is to: (1) support innovative new production technologies that minimize fossil fuel energy consumption and use renewable energy sources throughout the projects food production system; (2) Develop innovative new technologies and marketing, genetic, genomic, engineering, and agronomic techniques to produce sustainable biofuels from forest, waste, and agricultural resources for renewable energy production, including genetic and biotech innovations from scientists; (3) form highly interdisciplinary teams across the project, agency, and private-sector partners to generate energy savings in food and waste systems and create innovations in biofuel production; (4) develop science-based policy-relevant research and information to guide lawmakers on issues related to energy.

Social and Economic Opportunity

Extension and research conducted at this program will work to improve the capacity of communities to enhance the economic opportunities and quality of life of their citizens. Focus will be on engaging local citizenry to identify local assets, community needs assessment, development of tourism, including agritourism, entrepreneurship, and ecommerce. Program will continue to support small and minority business development trainings and technical assistance.

Program is working in collaboration to develop community garden projects that are coupled with entrepreneurial development in both rural and urban communities. Program is enhancing its capacity in international outreach for agriculture and sustainable development.

Also, it is engaging with various locations to develop collaborative efforts to increase knowledge of production processes and cultural adaptations that affect agricultural and sustainable development.

Program will continue to promote opportunities for development of value-added products for low-income farmers and entrepreneurs.

Childhood Obesity

Approximately 25% of children within this project are overweight or obese, and the problem is even more severe among Hispanic youth, with over 34% of these youth categorized as overweight or obese. Although others have more serious problems, one (1) specific state is in the fourth quintile of overweight and obese youth, the problem is significant and demands a concerted response. Left unresolved, overweight or obese youth are more likely to have higher risk factors for cardiovascular disease, including high blood pressure, high cholesterol, dyslipidemia, and type 2 diabetes.

Other complications include asthma, sleep apnea and liver damage.

Additionally, obese youth are more likely to become obese adults and experience greater risk of early death. This project will undertake three (3) major outreach efforts to reduce the incidence of overweight and obese youth. (1) Through our nutrition education programs supported by the national headquarters, project will reach limited resource households with training and support leading to greater awareness of obesity-related problems and behavior and dietary habit changes that can mediate and prevent obesity. (2) Work in 4-H Youth Development Program highlights increased physical activity for youth.

(B) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions - (Special Needs):

Forestry Extension Outreach

Project will conduct site visits on private/communal land with invasive species concerns and write-up management plans for specific sites and for specific invasive plant species. The Extension personnel will disseminate knowledge to the landowner/land manager. Project will conduct education outreach on butterfly biology and conservation. Project will collaborate to create up-to-date vegetation maps through the use of unmanned aerial vehicles, high-resolution multispectral cameras, remote sensing technology, and image analysis software. Personnel will continue to propagate and distribute seedlings of agroforestry plants to the general public. Extension personnel will propagate and care for the plants and promote their use by land owners and land managers.

Health and Wellness

The prevalence of obesity among children and adolescents is about 34% and 17%, respectively. Healthful behaviors are difficult to follow for multiple reasons, some of which include: fast food restaurants use pervasive advertising; small neighborhood grocery stores have a limited availability of healthy food choices; public parks are not conducive to informal physical activities, and the environment is automobile-centrally built. Together with collaborators, project plans to introduce proven and culturally acceptable dietary and physical activity interventions aimed at 2- to 8-year olds and their caregivers. Project will promote affordable, nutritious, and sustainably grown local fruits and vegetables as well as increased consumption of water. Additionally, project will promote locally grown produce and caught seafood, while discouraging overconsumption of sugar sweetened beverages, imported red meat and processed food. Project will provide guidance so that individuals and families can make informed, science-based decisions about their health and well-being.

Sustainable Energy

Project faces diminishing and more costly supplies of energy even as the demand for energy continues to rise as a result of population growth and increased world consumption. Demands from the public for renewable sources of energy and more energy-efficient agriculture and food production will have a major impact on food production and transportation. To improve energy security and green technologies, projects role is to: (1) support innovative new production technologies that minimize fossil fuel energy consumption and use renewable energy sources throughout the projects food production system. (2) develop innovative new technologies and marketing, genetic, genomic, engineering, and agronomic techniques to produce sustainable biofuels from forest, waste, and agricultural resources for renewable energy production, including genetic and biotech innovations from scientists. (5) form highly interdisciplinary teams across the project, agency, and private-sector partners to generate energy savings in food and waste systems and create innovations in biofuel production. (6) develop science-based policy-relevant research and information to guide lawmakers on issues related to energy.

(D) Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and Central State University (aka 1890 LGIs Section 1444):

Cooperative Extension Program (CEP) will be geared towards the needs of small scale and limited resource farmers and will focus on farm financial management, business planning and the marketing of agricultural products. In the area of Economics of Agricultural Production and Farm Management, the CEP will assist small scale agricultural producers by conducting economic analyses that will assist them to be economically profitable and sustainable. The Cooperative Extension Program will conduct programming in the areas of farm and home planning including farm income, debt and spending as it addresses the area of Business Management and Finance, and Taxation.

The Extension Food Smart Impact Team will focus on programming to help residents become educated consumers who can make informed decisions about buying, storing, and preparing food to maximize health and safety; about use of locally grown, fresh food; through home and community food production; and safe handling practices. In addition, a focus will be on helping fruit and vegetable producers understand the need for and adopt Good Agricultural Practices (GAP).

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) (aka ENUT: Nutrition Education) - Represents Smith-Lever 3d funds:

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All seventy-six (76) 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed- behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: Lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Upon enrollment, participants entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

Two (2) 30 KVA backup generators have already been installed and capable of using bio-diesel fuel. The research will be conducted with a focus on the reduction of methane emissions, the replacement of fossil fuels, and the production of biogas. Composting to grow soils, the use of renewable solar and wind energy to pump water for high tunnel farming irrigation is a model that will continue to be developed and tested as in support of a global food production system.

Food Safety

The Center for Diet, Nutrition, and Health (CNDH) is working to reduce the incidence of food poisoning for the residents of the state through Food Handlers training and certification for small commercial businesses as well as providing safety tips for elder residents. The training program promotes personal responsibility for practicing food safety and enhances the community's access to information and services. Food Handler education is also offered to small non-commercial service agencies in the city to increase the food handler's compliance with food safety principles, hazard analysis, and critical control points.

OBJECTIVES:

-The Food and Nutrition Services Supplemental Nutrition assistance Program (SNAP) provides funding for the SNAP Nutrition Education Program (SNAP-Ed). SNAP-Ed is central to SNAPs efforts to improve nutrition and prevent and reduce obesity among SNAP recipients. The goal of SNAP-Ed is to improve the likelihood that persons eligible for SNAP will make healthy food choices within a limited budget and choose physically active lifestyles consistent with the current Dietary Guidelines for Americans and MyPlate.

FNS encourages States to center their efforts on the following behavioral outcomes for SNAP-Ed participants:

Make half your plate fruits and vegetables, at least half your grains whole grains, and switch to fat-free or low-fat milk products.

Increase physical activity and reduce time spent in sedentary behaviors as part of a healthy lifestyle.

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for cash assistance is set forth in section 4 of the Child Nutrition Act, 42 U.S.C. 1773, on a performance basis by: (1) multiplying the number of paid breakfasts served to eligible children during the fiscal year by a National Average Payment (NAP) prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture; (2) multiplying the number of breakfasts served free to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for free breakfasts; and, (3) multiplying the number of reduced price breakfasts served to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for reduced priced breakfasts. The amount of Federal funds given the grantee is the sum of the products obtained from these three computations. Schools with a high percentage of needy children may receive additional payments. The statistical factors used in this formula are: (1) The NAPs; (2) the number of paid breakfasts served; and (3) the number of breakfasts served free or at reduced price to eligible children. The NAPs are prescribed by the Secretary and adjusted each July 1, in accordance with the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. School food authorities must submit a written application to the State agency for any school in which it desires to operate the lunch program. At the local level, households may apply for free or reduced price meals under the lunch program by submitting an application furnished by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) or the State agency, as applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-102 and OMB Circular No. A-110 apply to this program. Public schools/school food authorities in all States apply to the State educational agency, unless an alternate agency is designated as the administering agency. Appropriate application forms may be obtained from the administering agency. Nonprofit private schools and institutions should also apply to the State educational agency in most States. In some States, however, the State education agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application will be referred to the alternate State agency or the appropriate Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) Regional Office.

Award Procedure:

The State agency reviews the written application submitted by a school food authority/school or a residential child care institution and, upon determination of eligibility, makes a written agreement with the school or institution for participation in the lunch program.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Effective upon approval by the State agency or FNS regional office as applicable.

Appeals:

The State agency or FNS regional office, as applicable is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for the general cash for food assistance phase of this program is set forth in section 4 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1753; the formula for special cash assistance is described in section 11 of the Act, 42 U.S.C. 1759a. This program is funded on a performance basis. For every lunch served during the applicable fiscal year, the State receives a payment from funds made available under section 4. In addition, the State receives a payment from section 11 funds for each lunch served to a child eligible for free or reduced price lunches. The amounts of such per lunch payments are determined by "National Average Payment" (NAP) factors. The amount due the State under this program is obtained by: (1) multiplying the total number of eligible paid lunches and free and reduced price lunches served during the fiscal year by the applicable section 4 NAP factor for lunches; (2) multiplying the number of free lunches served by the section 11 NAP factor for free lunches; (3) multiplying the number of lunches served at reduced price by the Section 11 NAP factor for reduced price lunches; (4) multiplying the total number of lunches served during the fiscal year in school food authorities which served 60 percent or more free or reduced price lunches in the second preceding school year by $.02; and (5) adding together the four products obtained thereby. The NAP factors are prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with sections 4 and 11, respectively, of the Act; the numbers of lunches are obtained from programmatic reports submitted to FNS. In addition to the NAP factors, lunches certified as meeting updated meal patterns and nutrition standards receive an additional 6 cents in reimbursement. The funding formula for snacks in after school care programs is described in section 17A of the Act, 42 U.S.C. 1766a. Section 11(a)(3) of the Act requires that the NAP factors be adjusted annually, according to changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers; the source is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Each State must appropriate from State revenues and use, for program purposes, an amount equal to 30 percent of the section 4 funds made available to the State in the 1980-81 school year. Also, commodity schools are eligible to receive donated commodities equal in value to the sum of section 6 and section 4 assistance rates, except that up to 5 cents of this amount may be received in cash for processing and handling commodities. In addition, commodity schools are eligible for section 11 free and reduced price meal reimbursements.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 30%. State revenue matching must be not be less than 30 percent of the funds received by the State agency under section 4 of the National School Lunch Act during the school year.

This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. See funding agency for further details.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement on a fiscal year basis. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

State agencies and schools file monthly reports on the number of meals served, by type, to claim program funds. School food authorities must submit final meal claims to the State no later than 60 days after the claiming month, and States must submit final program reports to FNS no later than 90 days after the claiming month. States must submit final fiscal year grant close out reports to FNS within 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. Annually, school food authorities must report, to their State agency, the most common charge for lunches served to children who do not qualify for free or reduced price lunches. School food authorities report the price charged at the elementary, middle and high school levels, as applicable. In turn the State agency submits this information to FNS for publication. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. States must submit final fiscal year grant close out reports to FNS within 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133.

Records:

Schools/school food authorities must maintain full and accurate records of their nonprofit food service operation, including --but not limited to-- records pertaining to finances, the price of paid lunches in relation to food costs, menu planning and production, and meal counting and claiming. TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available to State agencies to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children in public and private nonprofit schools of high school grade and under, public and private nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar nonprofit institutions devoted to the care and training of children, except Job Corps centers, provided that these schools and institutions do not participate in a meal service program authorized under the National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. The Child Nutrition Amendments of 1986 expanded eligibility to include children in split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs in nonprofit schools and institutions that do not have access to the Federal meal service program operating in schools the children attend. Disbursement to States is made on the basis of the number of half-pints of milk served to non-needy children, using a reimbursement rate specified by law. Milk served free to eligible needy children is reimbursed at the average cost of a half-pint of milk. Please refer to regulations: 7 CFR Part 215 -- Special Milk Program; 7 CFR Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense; 7 CFR Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

Russell National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. This generally includes nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses and summer camps. Schools with split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs can receive subsidies for milk served to children in the split session kindergartens and pre-kindergartens that do not have access to another meal service program operating in the school. All schools and child care institutions that participate must agree to operate this program on a nonprofit basis for all children without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, age or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The reimbursement rate for each paid half-pint of milk served to children is adjusted each school year to correspond to the change in the Producer Price Index for Fluid Milk Products published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The statistical factor used for beneficiary eligibility for free milk is 130 percent of the poverty line and the source is the Federal income poverty guidelines. The cost of milk in excess of the Federal reimbursement must be borne by sources within the States (7 CFR Part 215). Disbursement to States is based on the number of half-pints served to children.

10.557 SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS, AND CHILDREN

(WIC Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17, 42 U.S.C. 1786. Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 7 U.S.C 1746.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide low-income pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children to age five who have been determined to be at nutritional risk, supplemental nutritious foods, nutrition education, and referrals to health and social services at no cost. WIC also promotes breastfeeding as the feeding method of choice for infants, provides substance abuse education and promotes immunization and other aspects of healthy living.

For Formula Grants, the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) makes funds available to participating State health agencies and Indian Tribal Organizations (ITOs) that, in turn, distribute the funds to participating local agencies. State and local agencies use WIC funds to pay the costs of specified supplemental foods provided to WIC participants, and to pay for specified nutrition services and administration (NSA) costs, including the cost of nutrition assessments, blood tests for anemia, nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion, and health care referrals.

For Project Grants, funding for the competitive Loving Support grant is available for formative research and educational material development in the campaign for breastfeeding promotion and support. This project will effectively build on the successes of the existing Loving Support campaign to inform, motivate and persuade the audience in an effective manner that continues to increase breastfeeding rates among WIC participants and increase support for breastfeeding among those who most influence breastfeeding mothers (their family and friends, health care providers, WIC staff, and relevant community partners).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS; Project Grants (Discretionary)

Funds are expended to pay for supplemental foods, nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion and support, health care referrals for participants, and other client services including certification, as well as administrative costs. State agencies are provided Federal funds according to legislative and regulatory formulas. Only local agencies qualifying under State agency applications with formal agreements may operate WIC programs.

The Loving Support Project grant is available to small businesses, nonprofits having a 501(c)(3) status with the IRS, WIC State agencies, institutions of higher education and for profit organizations other than small businesses, public and State controlled institutions of higher education and private institutions of higher education. The campaign update will be based on a comprehensive social marketing plan with an emphasis on formative research, appropriately framed educational messages, innovative campaign strategies, and updated promotional materials. WIC breastfeeding training curricula for staff fall under the umbrella of the Loving Support campaign. Grant awards are contingent upon availability of funding.

Applicant Eligibility:

Funds are also made available to the States for expenses associated with CACFP administration.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible institutions to reimburse their costs in providing meals and snacks to children and adults enrolled in nonresidential day care, children attending afterschool care programs, and children residing in emergency shelters. Adult day care centers receive reimbursement for up to two meals and one snack served each day to enrolled adults who are functionally impaired or age 60 and older. This program also provides reimbursement to emergency shelters for up to three meals served each day to residents age 18 and younger. In at-risk afterschool care programs, reimbursement is available for one snack and an additional meal served each day, during the regular school year, to children through the age of 18. All program meals must meet the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to States for administrative expenses related to program staffing and oversight, as well as for audit expenses associated with CACFP administration.

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each institution that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Institutions must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children and adult participants regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Approved institutions providing nonresidential day care services may participate in this program. Eligible public and nonprofit private organizations may include day care centers, outside-school-hours care centers, settlement houses, family and group day care homes, Head Start programs, and institutions providing day care services to children with disabilities. Private for-profit centers may also participate if at least 25 percent of the children in care (enrolled or licensed capacity, whichever is less) are eligible for free or reduced price school meals or receive benefits under Title XX of the Social Security Act. Also eligible for participation are nonprofit centers which provide nonresidential adult day care, and private for-profit centers if the center receives compensation under Title XIX of the Social Security Act or Title XX, and at least 25 percent of the adults enrolled in the center receive benefits under Title XIX, Title XX, or a combination of both. Emergency shelters which provide shelter and meals to children experiencing homelessness, and at-risk after school care programs in low-income areas are also eligible. Any eligible institution may participate in this program upon request with State agency approval.

Award Procedure:

When the application is approved, the institution signs an agreement with the administering State agency.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Appeals:

The administering agency must provide a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Section 17(b) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1766, describes the funding formula for cash assistance. Program funds are provided to the States through letters of credit. The States, in turn, use the funds to reimburse institutions for costs of food service operations and to support State administrative expenses. Appropriate rates of reimbursement, multiplied by the number of meals served to enrolled participants, represent the basic program payment that an institution receives for each meal served. The assigned rates of reimbursement are adjusted annually on July 1. For child care centers, adult day care centers, emergency shelters, and at-risk after school care programs, the annual adjustment reflects changes in the Food Away from Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. For day care homes, the adjustment reflects changes in the Food at Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Donated foods or cash in lieu of donated foods are also made available. Program payments to child care or adult day care centers depend on the number and types of meals served to enrolled participants, multiplied by the appropriate rate of reimbursement. Rates for meals served to enrolled children and eligible adults in day care centers are determined by the participants' eligibility for free, reduced price, or paid meals using USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines. All resident children age 18 and younger in eligible emergency shelters receive free meals without application. At-risk after school care programs, which must be located in low-income areas, are reimbursed at the free rate for all meals and snacks served to children through age 18. Sponsoring organizations of day care homes are reimbursed at a national administrative rate based on the number of homes they operate. The level of reimbursement for meals served to enrolled children in day care homes is determined by economic need based on either the location of the day care home, the income of the day care provider, or the income of an individual child's household. Meals served in day care homes to the provider's own children are reimbursable only if those children are determined eligible for free and reduced price meals, and at least one other nonresident child is participating in the meal service. The reimbursement for food service is passed on by the sponsoring organization to the day care facility. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

Institutions file monthly reports on program operations to claim reimbursement for meals served. They must submit final meal claims no later than 60 days after the claiming month. States must then submit final program reports to the Food and Nutrition Service no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. No expenditure reports are required. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133. For-profit institutions are subject to audit by their administering State agencies.

Records:

Institutions must maintain full and accurate records of program operations for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. However, where there are unresolved audit findings, records must be retained until there is satisfactory resolution of all audit issues.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: In FY 2015, the peak participation attendance in CACFP was approximately 4.5 million children and adults increase from the peak participation of 3.7 million in FY 2014. Of 3.86 million children in average daily attendance in FY 2015, approximately 3.1 million were in child care centers and approximately 0.76 million were in family day care homes. On average, in FY 2015, a CACFP child care center had approximately 52 children in attendance on an average day, and received about $35,429 a year in meal reimbursement (compared to almost 50 children and $32,769 in FY 2014). By comparison, on average a family day care home cared for and fed almost seven children daily, and received slightly more than $6,981 a year in meal reimbursement (compared to seven children and slightly more than $6,565 in FY 2014). Total meal service increased 1.7 percent from FY 2014 to FY 2015, a total of approximately 2.014 billion meals were served in FY 2015. In FY 2015, approximately 81.4 percent of total meals served were provided free or at a reduced price, about the same level as in 2014. Fiscal Year 2016: FNS estimates an increase of 2.2 percent increase in meals provided in centers, with most of the growth in free meals (23.5 million increase, or 2.3 percent) plus paid meals (7.9 million increase over FY 2015, or a 2.2 percent increase). Tier I day care homes continue a modest increase, with a 0.3 percent growth in meals (1.2 million more than in FY 2015), while meals reimbursed in tier II day care homes continue to decline (down 2.3 million meals, a reduction of 4.0 percent from FY 2015). Fiscal Year 2017: Forecasting ahead, FNS anticipates a 2.9 percent increase in meals provided in centers, with most of the growth in free meals (a 28.8 million meal increase, or 2.7 percent) plus paid meals (11.8 million increase over FY 2016, or a 3.2 percent increase). For tier I day care homes, an increase is projected, with a 1.6 percent increase in meals (1.2 million more than in FY 2016), while meals reimbursed in tier II day care homes are also projected to rise in FY 2017, continuing the current trend (up 1.2 million meals, an increase of 1.6 percent from FY 2016).

10.559 SUMMER FOOD SERVICE PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN (SFSP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, Sections 9, 13, 14, and 26, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1758, 1761, 1762a, and 1769g; Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 2010, P.L. 111-80, Section 749(g)(1).

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States, through grants-in-aid and other means, to conduct nonprofit food service programs for children. This program operates in partnership with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), State agencies, and local organizations to provide free meals to eligible children during the summer months and at other approved times, when school is not in session.

In addition there are discretionary grant initiatives to improve access and test alternative methods for feeding children over the summer. The methods that have been tested through these demonstrations include:

1. Extending Length of Operation: Eligible SFSP sponsors received an additional 50 percent lunch served if they operated for 40 or more days during the summer.
2. Activity Incentive: Eligible sponsors received a mini-grant of varying amounts to provide activities to children at their SFSP meal service sites.
3. Summer Home Delivery: Meals are delivered to homes or community drop-off sites for children eligible for free or reduced-price school meals to consume at home during the summer.
4. Food Backpacks: Bags containing meals are provided to children attending SFSP sites for them to take home to consume on the days that traditional SFSP sites are not open, typically weekends and holidays.
5. Summer Electronic Benefits Transfer for Children (SEBTC)-Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP): Free and reduced-price eligible children receive a monthly benefit modeled on SNAP EBT technology that their families can use to purchase food during the summer.
6. SEBTC-Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC): Free and reduced-price eligible children receive a monthly benefit modeled on WIC EBT technology that their families can use to purchase food during the summer.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible service institutions (sponsors) which provide free meals to children in areas where at least 50 percent of the children meet the income eligibility criteria for free and reduced price meals. Meals may be served to children 18 and younger, and to individuals over 18 who participate in State-approved school programs for persons with disabilities.

This program generally operates during the months of May through September at site locations where regularly scheduled food services are provided for children. Sites may also participate in this program from September through May if an area school is closed because of an emergency situation. Sponsors operating food programs for children on school vacation under a continuous year-round calendar may apply for participation in other months.

Reimbursement may be paid for one meal and one snack or two meals per child each day. Camps and sites primarily serving children of migrant workers may be approved to serve up to three reimbursable meals each day. Meals must meet USDA standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to participating State agencies for administrative expenses related to program staffing, operation, and oversight.

Summer demonstration projects either address funding limitations that restrict participation or provide an alternate approach to summer meals needed by children unable to access traditional congregate meal service sites. Assistance must be used for specific activities authorized by Child Nutrition legislation. There may be restrictions as required by the legislation.

1. Extending Length of Operation: Only sponsors operating for 40 or more days during the summer were eligible.
2. Activity Incentive: SFSP sponsors were required to apply for selection by the State to receive the mini-grant.
3. Summer Home Delivery: Sponsors had to apply for a competitive grant selection process conducted by FNS. Sponsors in three States were selected to participate in this demonstration project. Only children certified eligible for free and reduced-price school meals were eligible to receive meals through this demonstration.
4. Food Backpacks: Sponsors had to apply for a competitive grant selection process conducted by FNS. Sponsors were only eligible if they had successfully operated SFSP the previous year. Sponsors in three States were selected to participate in this demonstration project.
5. SEBTC-SNAP: Only States that formally applied and were selected by FNS were eligible to implement this demonstration to provide benefits to free and reduced-price eligible children whose families consented to participate.
6. SEBTC-WIC: Only States that formally applied and were selected by FNS were eligible to implement this demonstration to provide benefits to free and reduced-price eligible children whose families consented to participate.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each sponsor that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Sponsors must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A service institution that conducts a regularly scheduled program for children from areas in which poor economic conditions exist is eligible to participate as a sponsor in this program. Sponsors include public or private nonprofit school food authorities; public or private nonprofit colleges or universities operating the National Youth Sports Program during the months of May to September; units of local, municipal, county, or State governments; and other faith or community-based private nonprofit organizations.

Public or private nonprofit residential or nonresidential summer camps may also participate. However, at camps, reimbursement will only be paid for meals served to enrolled children who are individually determined to be eligible for free and reduced price school meals under USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicants that are not public institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Service institutions may apply directly to the responsible State agency.

Award Procedure:

When an application is approved, the sponsor signs an agreement with the administering agency.

States were selected for the Summer EBT for Children (SEBTC) SNAP and WIC models based on a formal grants selection process.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The State agency must make a decision within 30 calendar days of receiving a complete and correct sponsor application. If an incorrect application is received, the State agency must notify the applicant within 15 days and provide technical assistance to complete the application.

Appeals:

The State agency must have a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Sections 13(b) and (k) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1761, describe the funding formulas for cash assistance. Cash reimbursement to States under this program is the product obtained by multiplying the number of meals served by maximum rates of reimbursement established by USDA. State agencies use the cash assistance to reimburse sponsors for eligible meals served to eligible children. Since all meals are served free, all meals of the same type are funded at the same rate. Rates are adjusted annually on January 1, to reflect changes in the "Food Away from Home" series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Assistance is available for the period covered by the agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

Sponsors file monthly reports on program operations to claim reimbursement for meals served. States must then submit final program reports to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. No expenditure reports are required. No performance monitoring is required.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: During 2015, 164.1 million meals were served, 2.6 percent over 2014 at 160.1 million meals. During FY 2015, 47,585 feeding sites provided 164 million meals to needy children through the SFSP. There were increases in all types of meals, but the largest numerical increases were in breakfasts (1.2 million) and lunches (1.7 million). Suppers increased 5 percent (0.3 million). Compared to FY 1990, meals have increased 80.0 percent from 91.2 million. In FY 2015, approximately 56.8 percent of the meals served were lunches (57 percent in FY 2014), 27.5 percent were breakfasts (27.4 percent FY 2014), and the remaining 15.7 percent were suppers and supplements (15.6 percent in FY 2014). In summer 2015, SEBTC was implemented in six States (Connecticut, Delaware, Michigan, Missouri, Nevada, and Oregon) and two Tribal Nations (Cherokee and Chickasaw). Evaluations of this project show impressive results providing $60 of benefits per child per month eliminated very low food security in children for about one-third of the children who would otherwise have experienced it. Analyses of related measures of food security indicate similarly large proportional reductions. SEBTC reduced the prevalence of food insecurity among children by 19 percent, and the prevalence of very low food security among children, the most severe category, by 33 percent. Fiscal Year 2016: The current FY 2016 estimate projects 177.4 million meals, which would be a 5 percent increase above the FY 2015 estimate. FNS will focus on sustaining SFSP expansion through targeted efforts at the State and local level, efforts to improve access in rural and tribal communities. An increase in SEBTC funding in FY 2016 will help participating States reach the large number of low-income children who do not have access to SFSP and will enable FNS to evaluate whether SEBTC is a viable option to address childhood hunger during the summer over an expanded area. Fiscal Year 2017: SFSP will require a 13.1 percent funding increase in FY 2017 above the estimate for FY 2016. The current estimate projects 199.2 million meals, which is an increase of approximately 18.0 million meals (or 10.0 percent) above the estimate for FY 2016. Additional funding in FY 2017 will allow FNS to continue SEBTC in existing or additional States, thereby building on the experience and operational expertise already gained. As many as 8,500 additional families could benefit from the additional $3 million requested during the summer of 2017.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Healthy Hunger Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 106 Stat. 281; Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17(m), 42 U.S.C. 1786.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide fresh, nutritious, unprepared, locally grown fruits and vegetables from farmers markets to women, infants, and children who participate in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC); and to expand the awareness and use of farmers' markets and increase sales at such markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are made to State health, agriculture and other agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils or groups recognized by the Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program.

Applicant Eligibility:

All State agencies that desire to receive a FMNP grant must submit, for each Federal fiscal year, a State Plan to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), USDA. New State agencies are selected based on the availability of funds after base grants for currently participating State agencies are funded. Local FMNP sites are selected by participating State agencies based on concentration of eligible WIC participants and access to farmers' markets.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

WIC participants (i.e., pregnant, postpartum or breastfeeding women; infants over 4 months of age; and children up to 5 years of age) and (at the State's discretion) those who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits are eligible to receive FMNP coupons. State agencies may also designate subcategories of WIC participants, e.g., pregnant and breastfeeding women only, to be FMNP recipients.

Credentials/Documentation:

A signed and executed Federal/State Agreement (FNS-339) is necessary before funds can be allocated to a participating FMNP State agency. Costs will be determined in accordance with 7 CFR Part 3016, and FNS guidelines and instructions. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Application is made through submission of a "State Plan of Program Operation and Administration" as required by law. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Farmers or farmers' markets (depending on whether State agencies have agreements with farmers or markets) located in communities with WIC Program sites may apply to be authorized to accept FMNP coupons under the program. The State agency reviews the applications for completeness and compliance with authorization requirements. The State agency contacts the farmer/farmers' market to inform them of qualification. Individual participants apply for FMNP benefits at approved local WIC agencies.

Award Procedure:

Funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies. If the available funds are insufficient to meet the base grant levels for current FMNP grantees, a pro-rata reduction will be applied to the grant levels awarded to all participating FMNP State agencies. If additional funds become available for the FMNP, such funds would first be distributed evenly among the current grantees to make whole their base grants for that fiscal year. Grant payments are made by a letter of credit.

Deadlines:

Nov 15, 2015 FMNP State Plans for the current fiscal year are due to the appropriate FNS Regional office by November 15.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

As required by law (at Section 1786(m)(6)(A) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended), the Secretary must inform each FMNP State agency of the award of funds by February 15 of each year.

Appeals:

All decisions by the FNS are final.

Team Nutrition Training Grants

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Team Nutrition Training Grants are authorized under Public Law 111-296, which amended Section 19 of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

OBJECTIVES:

Team Nutrition is an initiative of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to support their Child Nutrition Programs through training and technical assistance for foodservice, nutrition education for children and their caregivers, and school and community support for healthy eating and physical activity.

Team Nutrition Training Grants for Healthy School Meals have been identified in USDA's national Strategic Plan for Training and Technical Assistance as one of the anchor delivery systems for supporting the implementation of USDA's nutrition requirements and the Dietary Guidelines for Americans in Child Nutrition programs. Team Nutrition's goal is to improve children's lifelong eating and physical activity habits by using the principles of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the USDA Food Guidance System.

FY 2014 (Competitive and Non-Competitive) Team Nutrition Training Grant Objectives

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2014, State agencies were able to apply for competitive and non-competitive Team Nutrition Training Grants. The objectives of the FY 2014 competitive grant included:

1. Develop smarter lunchrooms using environmental cues to increase student choice of whole grains, fat-free or low-fat dairy products, fruits, vegetables, and legumes through the use of behavioral economics.
2. Provide training for National School Lunch Program (NSLP) or Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) foodservice staff on implementing the 2010 Dietary Guidelines for Americans (DGAs), applying for the HealthierUS School Challenge, maximizing the use of USDA Foods, and meeting the requirements for the new meal patterns for school meals mandated by the Healthy Hunger Free Kids Act of 2010.

3. Provide schools or child care centers with technical assistance to create and maintain a healthier school or child care environment, as well as implement and review their wellness policies to align with the requirements set forth in the Healthy Hunger Free Kids Act of 2010, including those for school or child care meals, competitive foods, nutrition education, nutrition promotion, physical education, physical activity, and other school- or child care program-based activities that promote wellness, as appropriate.

The objective of the FY 2014 non-competitive grant was:

1. Increase the number of schools implementing Smarter Lunchrooms strategies.

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are made to State departments such as health, agriculture and aging,

United States territories and Federally-recognized Indian tribal governments, or any other agency approved by the chief executive officer of the State. Grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the SFMNP but no more than ten percent may be used for administrative cost of the program. Ninety percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the SFMNP and ten percent may be used for administrative cost of the program.

Applicant Eligibility:

All State agencies that desire to receive a SFMNP grant must submit for review and approval, for each Federal fiscal year, a State Plan to the appropriate Regional Office of the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), USDA. New State agencies are selected based on the availability of funds after base grants for currently participating State agencies are funded. Local SFMNP sites are selected by participating State agencies based on concentration of eligible senior participants and access to farmers' markets.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Persons eligible for the program are low-income seniors, generally defined as individuals who are at least 60 years old and who have household incomes of not more than 185 percent of the federal poverty income guidelines (published each year by the Department of Health and Human Services). Some State agencies accept proof of participation or enrollment in another means-tested program, such as the Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) or Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), for SFMNP eligibility.

Individual participants apply for SFMNP benefits at approved SFMNP sites.

Award Procedure:

Funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies. If the available funds are insufficient to meet the base grant levels for current SFMNP grantees, a pro-rata reduction will be applied to the grant levels awarded to all participating SFMNP State agencies. If additional funds become available for the SFMNP, such funds would first be distributed evenly among the current grantees to make whole their base grants for that fiscal year. Grant payments are made by a letter of credit.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: In August 2015, FNS completed the National Accuracy Clearinghouse (NAC) pilot project in conjunction with OMB's Partnership for Program Integrity and Innovation and a consortium of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi. The pilot project tested a data clearinghouse that allowed States to conduct a real-time check of whether a SNAP applicant was receiving benefits in another pilot State. The NAC reduced duplicate participation in all five States. Not all cases of duplicate participation are determined to be fraud; however, all cases of duplicate participation can lead to an overpayment claim. Duplicate participation rates were low between pilot States. Not all States were able to obtain the same level of automation to support the system. The pilot demonstrated results in lowering instances of duplicate participation and in providing cost savings by preventing duplicate participation before it occurs. 2. WIC EBT Implementation (non-competitive). Implementation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies to enhance and modify current management information systems to support EBT, conduct cost evaluations, and develop retailer management plans.

3. WIC State Agency Model (SAM) Amendments (non-competitive). 4. WIC EBT Planning Grants (non-competitive). EBT Planning grants funds are provided to WIC State agencies to assess the feasibility of EBT for their State, as well as to perform a cost analysis to verify EBT affordability. The planning process is a WIC requirement prior to EBT implementation and looks at WIC Information System capabilities, retailer capabilities, and baseline paper cost compared to EBT operational cost within the State to better prepare for the challenges of EBT implementation. WIC State agencies must analyze both on-line and off-line EBT technologies to assess the most cost-effective solution.
5. WIC Technical Innovation Grants (competitive). WIC Technical Innovation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies for the development of standardized reporting, retailer certification test scripts, and development of a web-based Internet system that will allow WIC participants to access grocer's websites, select WIC approved foods and purchase them with their EBT card from the convenience of their homes.

6. WIC SAM Transfers Grants (non-competitive). SAM Transfer grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies that have completed their planning activities, and have an approved Alternatives Analysis document that justifies a SAM as their choice of system transfer. Funds are used for implementation activities.

1. WIC Breastfeeding Peer Counseling Funds (discretionary). WIC Breastfeeding Peer Counseling Funds are intended to enable State agencies to implement or maintain effective breastfeeding peer counselor programs. Combining peer counseling with the on-going breastfeeding promotion efforts in WIC agencies has the potential to significantly impact breastfeeding rates among WIC participants. The Food and Nutrition Services long-range vision is to institutionalize peer counseling as a core service in WIC. A portion of these funds may be used to award breastfeeding performance bonuses. These incentives build upon WIC's longstanding efforts to promote and support breastfeeding, and are intended to recognize and award State agencies that have demonstrated successful breastfeeding promotion and support efforts.

2. WIC Infrastructure Grants (discretionary). WIC Infrastructure Grants are awarded to State agencies for special State projects of regional or national significance to improve the services of the program. The goal is to improve and strengthen the effectiveness of WIC Program services. The approved project should focus on one of the following:

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.551 Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: City of New York Human Resources Administration/Department of Social Services (NY) - is developing a mobile application for smartphones and tablets that will make it easier and more efficient for SNAP clients to complete their SNAP applications and recertification, access their case status and benefit issuance information, upload required documents, and communicate with the agency. This project seeks to improve the ways low-income New Yorkers can interact with HRA and will help to address the persistent challenge of clients missing deadlines to complete the SNAP eligibility process. Awarded: $1,548,065

The New Jersey Department of Human Services/Division of Family Development (NJ) - is using grant funds to integrate their Digital Imaging Management System (DIMS) with the New Jersey Tracking and Reporting System (SNAPTrac). This system integration will improve client services by streamlining business processes facilitated by document imaging. This initiative will allow for the incorporation of barcodes in all outgoing SNAP notices, direct links to allow caseworker access to electronic content management and case files, and will allow for Business Process Reengineering (BPR) of new applications, interim reports, and recertification. Furthermore, the DIMS/SNAPTrac Integration Project will leverage existing systems to address gaps that often lead to application processing delays or eventual churn due to flaws in the recertification. Awarded: $1,445,528

SC Thrive (SC) is partnering with South Carolina Department of Social Services (SCDSS) to build SNAP Assist which is: (1) a mobile device Apps so clients can complete SNAP applications on their smart phones, (2) an expansion of the Contact Center to take SNAP applications by telephone (with electronic signature and real-time electronic submission to SCDSS), and (3) a backup system to keep eligibility work flowing through SCDSS in times of outage. The 2 counties that will benefit most from the new services are Oconee and Pickens (the most northwestern counties in SC). The mobile App will support all stages in the application process, from the initial check your eligibility screener through to final application and electronic submission. It will also include a camera-based image scanning of required documents from the clients device (including secure storage) and reminder alerts for recertification and missing data to help reduce churn. Awarded: $911,386

California SAWS Consortium IV Joint Powers Authority (CA) Thirty-nine of Californias fifty-eight counties currently comprise the Statewide Automated Welfare System (SAWS) Consortium IV (C-IV) which have implemented the online application, C4Yourself. This project will provide funding for continued improvement of the C4Yourself application tool by adding technical enhancements through a C4Yourself mobile application. These enhancements include notifications and reminders to clients, the addition of real-time, secured two-way messaging between the eligibility worker and clients, the capacity to check benefit amounts and submit documentation all through the C4Yourself application. These enhancements will enable C-IV to improve and sustain SNAP participation, reduce churn, and increase participation in self-service usage as well as keep C-IV relatively current with technological advances and public expectations. Awarded: $853,326

Jefferson County Department of Social Services (NY) - is using grant funds to purchase 4 Kiosks that will provide a variety of functions for clients and purchase software so that the Kiosks can communicate with their current systems; 2 in the JCDSS lobby, 1 located at the Watertown Urban Mission, and 1 located at the Community Action Planning Council. The Kiosks will enhance the customer experience, improve our systems, and increase efficiency of processing cases through the following functions: 1) Customers will have the option to check-in vs. stand in line, 2) Customers can scan documents into the Kiosks which will be sent directly to their case, 3) Customers can apply/recertify for SNAP benefits on-line and scan documents simultaneously, 4) Applicants will be screened for expedited SNAP benefits, 5) Kiosks will reduce wait time and the number of customers waiting in the lobby and 6) Reduce and measure churning. Awarded: $141,716

Yolo County Department of Employment and Social Services (CA) - is contracting with a telecommunications vendor to create and implement a web platform that the Yolo County DESS will use to send text message directly to CalFresh (SNAP) recipients who opt-in to this communication service. Utilizing the existing Yolo County DESS database, the awarded telecommunications vendor will be responsible for creating, installing, and maintaining the text messaging platform to provide text messaging service and delivery. The vendor will also provide training, technical guidance, and technical support to Yolo County DESS staff. Lastly, the vendor will collect usage data on the Text Alert Program and provide this information to the Yolo County DESS staff for program analysis and evaluation. SNAP applicants and recipients will benefit by receiving text message alerts, in addition to the standard mailed notifications, when action is needed to receive or continue their benefits. The project will also include a marketing and outreach campaign to promote the program during its implementation and to ensure that eligible participants are aware of their opportunity to receive CalFresh renewal notices via text message. Awarded: $99,979. Fiscal Year 2016: Delaware Department of Health and Social Services (DE) will design, develop, and implement a triage solution in each of its 18 local SNAP offices. A Triage Specialist will be stationed in the lobby area of each location to welcome clients as they enter and perform triage on the purpose for their visit. Triage Specialists will be equipped with a tablet that has a camera and wireless access which will enable them to connect to DE Worker Web application and view case status information. The Triage Specialist will be able to take photos of the clients supporting documentation and email the photos to the Document Imaging System (DIS) Inbox, renewals Inbox, or other designated email inboxes. One of the applications available on the tablet will be a cloud-hosted rules-based expert system that will contain rules and decision logic to assist the Triage Specialist in addressing clients needs. The application will prescreen for potential eligibility but will not determine benefit amounts. This will help Triage Specialists accurately address a wide variety of client questions. Awarded: $667,618

Florida Department of Children and Families (FL) will use grant funds to improve the EBT card replacement and address change reporting process for SNAP recipients. System programmers will make changes to existing software to allow clients to report if their EBT card was Lost, Stolen, or Damaged and submit a request for a replacement EBT card in the web-based self-service portal. The EBT vendor will make changes to existing software to interface with the States eligibility system to allow the EBT system to accept the transmission of a replacement card request, change the status accordingly, and also create the necessary logs for tracking and reporting purposes. This will streamline the replacement EBT card process and improve the accuracy of the mailing addresses on file for clients. In turn, this will reduce the amount of returned mail and provide replacement cards to customers in a timely manner. Awarded: $447,282

Maryland Department of Human Resources (MD) will use grant funds to better coordinate case management service across American Job Centers, community-based SNAP E&T providers, and local Departments of Social Services. DHR will pilot the implementation of ICF Incorporateds proprietary tool, wQ, in Baltimore City and the eight Maryland counties that have implemented FNS Able-bodied Adults Without Dependents (ABAWD) time-limit waivers. DHR will integrate wQ with the existing Maryland Workforce Exchange (MWE) and a suite of SNAP E&T tools. By sharing key client information collected in wQ with the MWE system, DHR hopes to increase the rate of referral to MWE by SNAP caseworkers and partners, simplify the registration of clients into MWE, improve the usage of MWE by SNAP clients, and ultimately help SNAP clients meet their work requirements on their pathways to self-sufficiency. Awarded: $723,065

Missouri Department of Social Services (MO) will use grant funds to rewrite the MO Benefit Center platform using Microsoft .NET to enable mobile capability. The project will also expand the customer portal to offer self-service functionality which will include the ability to submit a SNAP application, report changes in household circumstances, and provide the option to receive automated reminder calls or text messages. New geographic information will also be available on the MO Benefit Center website to help clients locate the nearest food bank, resource centers, Veterans Affairs facilities and Workforce Development Job Centers. Awarded: $955,035

Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (NE) this project consists of three initiatives to achieve customer service outcomes to improve access to SNAP benefits by eligible applicants. 1) Workforce optimization software will be purchased to provide information to managers and supervisors needed for scheduling or forecast staffing. 2) Communication boards will be purchased and a network will be developed to connect the dashboard programming to the operating systems (phone, document management, and eligibility). Changes to the N-FOCUS eligibility system will be made to create automated lists of clients who consent to receive text message alerts along with their phone number and a daily file of text messages to be sent. Text reminders will be sent to clients to alert them if verification is needed, if recertification is due, changes in case status, and other changes affecting eligibility. This will serve as a complement to mailed or emailed notices for those who have opted to receive electronic notices through Nebraskas FNS approved Electronic Notice waiver. Awarded: $607,000

Info Line of San Diego 2-1-1 (CA) will use funding to connect three systems as part of the region-wide data exchange. Through this project, the telephone system (inContact), the appointment setting system (TimeTrade), and a new text messaging system will auto-populate information into 2-1-1s Client Management System (Salesforce). This information will interface and ultimately 2-1-1s client records will be accessible to the County of San Diego as part of a community-wide initiative to streamline client access to services and to share client data across stakeholders. The County will be able to see relevant pieces of work completed prior to an application being submitted by 2-1-1 along with relevant data that the client shared. Awarded: $100,000

Washington Department of Social and Health Services (WA) will use grant funds to develop a mobile app that will provide SNAP clients and applicants with the ability to upload documents, review, and update their case information using an app designed for smartphones and tablets. This project will also enable DSHS to use web platforms to send text message alerts and reminders to clients informing them of upcoming appointments or needed documentation. Awarded: $1,500,000. Fiscal Year 2017: Currently unavailable.

10.586 SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS AND CHILDREN; NUTRITION EDUCATION INNOVATIONS

WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, WIC Periconceptional Grant

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C. 3102, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C 3102.

OBJECTIVES:

These awards enable Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to enter into grants and cooperative agreements with States and local governments, universities, hospitals and non-profit organizations to identify, develop, and undertake projects to meet FNS program needs and the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants. The grantees and recipients are expected to work cooperatively with FNS to:

- Support researcher-initiated projects that use a common approach to reporting findings to ensure transparency and facilitate a meta-analysis of all projects;
- Coordinate activities among researchers;
- Effectively use technology and digital media to achieve desired outcomes; and
- Advance communication and coordination to improve target behaviors.

The grants and cooperative agreements plan to enable FNS to be more responsive to program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of FNS program participants.

The objective of the WIC Periconceptional Grant is to establish a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate the impacts of WIC on periconceptional nutrition. FNS focus for this project is the direct and indirect effects of WIC participation by one or more family members during the periconceptional period and the implications for service delivery. During the periconceptional period, the time period immediately prior to conception and in the first few days and weeks following conception, nutrition can impact placental and embryonic development with critical lifelong implications. This project supports a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate WIC impacts on periconceptional nutrition, coordinate activities among researchers, and widely disseminate findings from current research.

The WIC Nutrition Educations Innovations' Grant's objective is to enhance the effort to identify, develop, evaluate, and disseminate innovative and effective WIC nutrition education interventions. This is to be accomplished by providing grant funding for a university-based center with this charge, including a program of sub-grants to support development and evaluation of WIC-focused researcher-initiated innovations from researchers across the nation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For both the WIC Periconceptional Grant and the WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, the following uses and use restrictions apply:

Cooperative Agreement Grants will be made to State and local governments, universities, hospitals, and non-profit organizations for awarding cooperative agreements, and grants to design, develop and evaluate innovative approaches for Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) programs, such as WIC, to meet FNS program needs and to strengthen their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grant and cooperative agreement recipient is task with:

- making sub-grants,
- coordinating efforts among sub-grantees,
- evaluating impact of FNS programs, such as WIC, on food, nutrition and health,
- providing a summary and syntheses of these and related efforts, such as meta-analysis on the results,
- composing and coordinating a conference on observations and findings, and
- providing FNS with cost neutral approaches to improving FNS programs.

FNS' primary objective for these grants and cooperative agreements is to support interest in exploring better ways to improve and assess Food and Nutrition Service program needs and their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grants should enhance knowledge and further research activities by the academic community, FNS and others. See the RFP. The grant and cooperative agreement funds are provided to recipients (grantees) responsible to spend the funds in accordance with what is set forth in the grant or cooperative agreement, and applicable Federal circulars such as A-110. The source and use of the funds for the grants and cooperative agreements will be tied to a project of interest to one or more of FNS' program areas. FNS has the discretion to select (through competition) what institution will receive the funds and to what research endeavors they will be applied, assuming that research is not specified in the law or other directive.

Applicant Eligibility:

The grant is to be used to establish grants and cooperative agreements to identify, develop and undertake projects to meet Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of program eligible participants.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Cooperative agreements are awarded to State and local governments, hospitals, non-profit organizations and accredited colleges/universities offering advanced degrees at the PhD level in biological and social sciences such as sociology, psychology, education, nutrition, public health and economics. This is a requirement for the selected recipient of the grants and cooperative agreements, not the sub-grantees. Cooperative agreement recipients are to award sub-grants to researchers to identify, develop, and evaluate interventions and innovative approaches to strengthen the impact of Food and Nutrition Service programs, such as WIC, on the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants.

Credentials/Documentation:

OMB Circulator No. A-87 applies to this program. Nonprofit organizations are required to submit proof of nonprofit status. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Applicants were required to submit a grant or cooperative agreement proposal, along with an Application for Federal Assistance SF-424(R&R). Requirements, (such as submission, formatting, budget, etc.) for the grant or cooperative agreement proposal were specified in the Request for Application.

All applications had to be submitted electronically through www.grants.gov. Applicants were only allowed to submit paper-copy applications under extenuating circumstances, such as outages of the Grants.gov website that can be substantiated by a valid case number with the Grants.gov support center.

Award Procedure:

Proposals were evaluated on the criteria of research merit, overall approach, feasibility, and staffing/budget/time line. Based on the responses to the criteria, applications were reviewed and scored by panel evaluators. The proposals were ranked by score, starting with the highest score and presented to selecting officials based on this ranking. Selecting officials considered the panel rankings and comments, recommendations from Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) staff, and other pertinent information before deciding which proposals to fund. FNS selecting officials reserved the right to fund proposals out of rank order based on written assessments made by evaluation panel members, information provided by regional office staff, and agency priorities.

10.597 SCHOOL WELLNESS POLICY COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Local Wellness Policy Grant

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 204 of the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010 added Section 9A to the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (NSLA) (42 U.S.C. 1758b), Local School Wellness Policy Implementation, in order to strengthen wellness policies of LEAs by placing greater emphasis on implementation and evaluation efforts.

OBJECTIVES:

The Local Wellness Policy Surveillance System will allow us to monitor, collect, and analyze state law and local district policy data and their effects on the implementation of HHFKA legislation and rules and student health outcomes. This competitive cooperative agreement solicits applications for a national-level surveillance system that will address the current gaps in surveillance by current federally and non-federally funded systems and surveys.

Three major federal-level surveillance systems and surveys are currently in place and are scheduled to continue for at least the next 2-3 years, if not indefinitely. Each of these surveillance systems and surveys is funded by a government agency, and each collects detailed data on the breadth and depth of existing state laws, district policies, and related school practices; the implementation of said laws, policies, and practices; and their effects on student health outcomes. The next section describes the strengths, primary areas of focus, periodicity, and other key characteristics for each of three major national surveillance systems and surveys. In so doing, it also highlights important gaps in what they cover, individually and collectively, and areas where linkage with other relevant surveys or research efforts would provide a more detailed picture of school wellness policies and their effects.

1. School Nutrition and Meal Cost Study/School Nutrition Dietary Assessment

The School Nutrition Dietary Assessment (SNDA) is administered by the USDAs Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) every 5 years and collects and analyzes nationally representative data on school meals and the school meal environment (including competitive foods) at the district- and school-levels, with individual-level dietary information collected every 10 years.¹⁴ SNDA-V will be administered as the School Nutrition and Meal Cost Study (SNMCS) in SY 2014-2015 and will include SNDA-type, meal assessment data as well as data on meal cost, dietary recall, plate waste, and meals compliance with standards.

SNDA/SNMCS is the only assessment that examines specifically the nutritional quality of school meals, how and if those meals are meeting the new standards, and meal cost. Examining SNDA/SNMCS data together with state law and district policy data, which SNDA does not currently collect, has the potential to demonstrate how the laws and policies at the state- and district-level are being implemented in, or affecting, lunchrooms (with regard to meal planning and meal environment) and students (with regard to meal cost and diet).

2. Classification of Laws Associated with School Students

The National Cancer Institutes Classification of Laws Associated with School Students (C.L.A.S.S.) is a policy classification system that can be used to evaluate state-level codified laws for nutrition and physical education in schools across all 50 states and the District of Columbia by grade level. C.L.A.S.S. uses state law as the data source and scores the concordance between state laws and national school wellness policy mandates. Currently, C.L.A.S.S. measures are collected annually, with the next cycle beginning in 2014. C.L.A.S.S. data are publicly available for use by researchers, policy makers, and school administrators to obtain information on state laws associated with childhood obesity, track policy changes over time, test relationships between law and behavior, associate C.L.A.S.S. scores with state- and school district-policies, and link to information about obesity and other cancer-related behaviors. C.L.A.S.S. also offers two data visualization tools: (1) a map function that depicts the strength of specific policy areas by grade level across states, and (2) a profile function that depicts policy scores across grade levels within each state by year.

While C.L.A.S.S. is the only classification system that objectively scores state laws on nutritional and physical activity, it does not identify specific elements of the state laws. Therefore, additional, complementary research is required to parse out and examine relationships between individual policy components (e.g., addressing sugar or fat content in school foods) and related school practices and student outcomes (e.g., diet, physical activity, BMI).

3. School Health Policies and Practices Study

The Centers for Disease Control and Preventions School Health Policies and Practices Study (SHPPS) is a national, comprehensive survey conducted to assess school wellness at the state-, district-, school-, and classroom-levels. SHPPS surveys cover health education, physical education, health services, mental health and social services, nutrition services, healthy and safe school environments, and faculty and staff health promotion. Due to the comprehensive design of SHPPS, wellness policy data may be linked with other school health data. SHPPS data are collected every two years, alternating school- and classroom-level data collection with district-level data collection. In its next cycle (2014), SHPPS will collect school- and classroom-level data, and in the following cycle (2016) it will collect district-level data. Beginning in 2016, SHPPS will no longer collect state-level data.

SHPPS is unique in monitoring both school health policies and school wellness policies, which is essential for linking LWPs to student health outcomes such as services received, safety, and environments. The multi-level aspect of SHPPS assessments presents the opportunity for linking this data with state law data in order to show the effects of state laws on LWPs, and the effects of LWPs on overall health. However, SHPPS data are not collected annually.

Great progress has been made in adopting school wellness policies and in developing surveillance systems to monitor their implementation and impact. Yet continued progress in school wellness, school wellness policy development, and positive impacts will require surveillance that provides a fuller understanding of the strengths and limitations of current policies, and that chart the course for evidence-based improvements. This competitive cooperative agreement solicits applications for a national-level surveillance system that will address the most important gaps in the coverage of the existing school wellness policy surveillance systems and surveys. Applicants seeking funding under this School Wellness Policy Cooperative Agreement should consider, at a minimum, the following specific capabilities when developing their proposals:

The capability to link enacted school district wellness policy and related state law data with data being collected through other existing surveillance systems (e.g., SNDA, CLASS, SHPPS) in 2014-2015 (i.e., data collection occurring at various levels as outlined above);

The capability to conduct a nationwide evaluation of the scope of on-the-books (enacted) school district wellness policies and related state laws;

The ability to collect and analyze qualitative data that can explore the implementation of and compliance with HHFKA policies across various stakeholders (e.g., administrators, school food authorities, parents, children, etc.);

The capacity to develop and disseminate timely policy briefs, fact sheets, and other translation products (e.g., infographics) to inform the USDA, Congress, and the research field of key school wellness policy surveillance results and gaps as well as to produce papers for peer-reviewed publication; and

The focus of single or multiple-entity agency funding for the winning proposal(s) should be minimally to compile on-the-books wellness policy data for a nationally representative sample of public school districts and concomitant state laws using an innovative approach that encompasses the above-listed potential areas of focus and other policy opportunities. The Grantees (Recipients) shall work cooperatively with FNS on the study design and evaluation.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Trade Act of 1974, as amended, Trade Act of 2002, and reauthorized by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009.

OBJECTIVES:

Under the program, the Department of Agriculture (USDA) provides technical assistance and cash benefits to eligible farmers and fishermen if increased imports contributed importantly to a production or price decline of greater than 15 percent. Technical assistance under the program provides access to a wide variety of resources from USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), their county Extension Service, and their education contractor, the University of Minnesota's Center for Farm Financial Management (CFFM), to assist producers in exploring alternative crops or improved marketing techniques for their current enterprise. The program's goal is to help producers respond proactively to import competition through training and cash benefits.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS WITH UNRESTRICTED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This program makes cash payments and provides technical assistance to eligible farmers, ranchers, and fishermen competing with like or directly competitive imported products.

Applicant Eligibility:

The TAA review process is two-tier and consists of a petition application process and a producer application process. First, group petitions must demonstrate, using data for the most recent, full marketing year or full official marketing season, a greater than 15-percent decline in at least one of the following factors: national average price, quantity of production, value of production, or cash receipts. In addition, petitions must also demonstrate that the decline in one of the cited factors be importantly caused by an increase in imports. If a petition is certified, individual producers may apply at their local FSA field office. Producers must demonstrate they produced the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of three preceding marketing years. Producers must also demonstrate that they experienced a decrease in the production or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Producers of raw commodities who have been adversely affected by import competition and are covered by a certification of eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation:

When applying, producers must provide documentation that they produced the commodity during the most recent marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of the three marketing years preceding that marketing year. To be eligible for cash payments, producers also must certify that they experienced a decrease in the quantity or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years. If eligible, a producer may receive no more than $12,000 during the 36-month period following the certification of a group petition. Producers may receive no more than $65,000 in combined counter-cyclical and TAA payments. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.
