Fiscal Year 2016: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

All discretionary (competitive) grant program applications undergo a series of reviews prior to award selection as required in 2 CFR 200.204 and 205. These reviews include: 1) technical review that provides an independent assessment of the technical/programmatic merit of an application. At least three qualified individuals are selected to review each application to ensure diversity of perspective and knowledge. Individuals are selected based on their technical education and experience and the extent to which the individual has engaged in relevant work, the capacities in which the individual has done so, and the quality of such work; 2) suitability review that provides a risk assessment on each applicants organization to ensure the applicant is suitable to receive and manage Federal funds. The risk assessment is conducted in several parts: 1) a debarment and suspension review that included a review of the applicants administrative capability self-certification and a check against the applicants records in the System for Award Management (www.sam.gov); 2) a review of the applicants history with other Federal agencies in the Single Audit Clearinghouse Database; and 3) an evaluation of the applicants Single Audit in accordance with the Single Audit Act; 3) past performance review that provides information that is considered as a possible indicator for predicting future performance. Many applicants for FMCSA programs have received FMCSA funding in the past and will be evaluated against their ability to complete prior year awards on-time, compliance with grant terms and conditions, and results from FMCSA grant monitoring activities. Applicants with no prior FMCSA grant awards will not be eliminated from funding consideration; and 4) budget/cost analysis that provides an assessment of allowable costs in accordance with Federal grant requirements, the cost realism of the budget estimate, appropriateness and reasonableness of resources, and reasonableness and feasibility of the schedule relative to the application timeline. Importantly, the budget evaluation provides initial insight to project-related risk, beyond those dealing with technical uncertainty, which is considered prior to recommendation. Application budgets are evaluated based on the same standards to which recipients will be held after award, which are outlined in the cost principles at 2 CFR part 200.101(c) Subpart E for all non-Federal entities, including commercial organizations.

20.233 BORDER ENFORCEMENT GRANTS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

The Border Enforcement Grant program purpose has been incorporated into the FMCSA Motor Carrier Safety Assistance formula grant program and the FMCSA High Priority grant program due to changes in FMCSAs authorization under the Fixing Americas Surface Transportation Act (Pub. L. No. 114-94, 5101(a) and 5101(c) (2015), 49 U.S.C. 31102(a)-(k), 31104 (2016), as amended). Award Procedure:

The amount of the award to a qualifying applicant will be based on a panel review of all applications received, recommendations of the panel, and funding availability. The panel will prioritize funding request based on the State or entitys performance on previous BEG awards; their ability to expend the awarded funds within the BEG performance year; and, national criteria established by the FMCSA as follows:

Increasing the number of inspections of motorcoaches engaged in international commerce (travel). FMCSA previously established a goal for this effort to be a minimum of five percent of the total BEG inspections to be conducted at or within the commercial zones of international crossings. For FY 2014, FMCSA encourages States examine their data on international motorcoach activity and to use that data to establish reasonable goals that will result in an increase of motorcoach-focused activities. In the application, States must substantiate the goals set and provide the data (or data source references).

Increasing the number of Level 1 and 2 inspections supported by BEG funds. Level 3 inspections are strongly discouraged as part of BEG-supported strategies. Level V inspections are not permitted with BEG funds.

Targeting CMV inspections within corridors where the data indicate that there are a high number of crashes involving vehicles engaged in international commerce.

Improving the capability to conduct CMV safety inspections at remote and other sites near the Canadian and Mexican borders. If included, the application should establish a data-driven reason why non-fixed location inspections will increase the likelihood of reducing crashes, injuries, and fatalities involving vehicles engaged in international commerce.

Other activities or initiatives designed to improve the compliance of CMVs, drivers, and carriers entering the U.S. from Canada or Mexico.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

All discretionary (competitive) grant program applications undergo a series of reviews prior to award selection as required in 2 CFR 200.204 and 205. These reviews include: 1) technical review that provides an independent assessment of the technical/programmatic merit of an application. At least three qualified individuals are selected to review each application to ensure diversity of perspective and knowledge. Individuals are selected based on their technical education and experience and the extent to which the individual has engaged in relevant work, the capacities in which the individual has done so, and the quality of such work; 2) suitability review that provides a risk assessment on each applicants organization to ensure the applicant is suitable to receive and manage Federal funds. The risk assessment is conducted in several parts: 1) a debarment and suspension review that included a review of the applicants administrative capability self-certification and a check against the applicants records in the System for Award Management (www.sam.gov); 2) a review of the applicants history with other Federal agencies in the Single Audit Clearinghouse Database; and 3) an evaluation of the applicants Single Audit in accordance with the Single Audit Act; 3) past performance review that provides information that is considered as a possible indicator for predicting future performance. Many applicants for FMCSA programs have received FMCSA funding in the past and will be evaluated against their ability to complete prior year awards on-time, compliance with grant terms and conditions, and results from FMCSA grant monitoring activities. Applicants with no prior FMCSA grant awards will not be eliminated from funding consideration; and 4) budget/cost analysis that provides an assessment of allowable costs in accordance with Federal grant requirements, the cost realism of the budget estimate, appropriateness and reasonableness of resources, and reasonableness and feasibility of the schedule relative to the application timeline. Importantly, the budget evaluation provides initial insight to project-related risk, beyond those dealing with technical uncertainty, which is considered prior to recommendation. Application budgets are evaluated based on the same standards to which recipients will be held after award, which are outlined in the cost principles at 2 CFR part 200.101(c) Subpart E for all non-Federal entities, including commercial organizations.

The risk assessment is conducted in several parts: 1) a debarment and suspension review that included a review of the applicants administrative capability self-certification and a check against the applicants records in the System for Award Management (www.sam.gov); 2) a review of the applicants history with other Federal agencies in the Single Audit Clearinghouse Database; and 3) an evaluation of the applicants Single Audit in accordance with the Single Audit Act; 3) past performance review that provides information that is considered as a possible indicator for predicting future performance. Many applicants for FMCSA programs have received FMCSA funding in the past and will be evaluated against their ability to complete prior year awards on-time, compliance with grant terms and conditions, and results from FMCSA grant monitoring activities. Applicants with no prior FMCSA grant awards will not be eliminated from funding consideration; and 4) budget/cost analysis that provides an assessment of allowable costs in accordance with Federal grant requirements, the cost realism of the budget estimate, appropriateness and reasonableness of resources, and reasonableness and feasibility of the schedule relative to the application timeline. Importantly, the budget evaluation provides initial insight to project-related risk, beyond those dealing with technical uncertainty, which is considered prior to recommendation. Application budgets are evaluated based on the same standards to which recipients will be held after award, which are outlined in the cost principles at 2 CFR part 200.101(c) Subpart E for all non-Federal entities, including commercial organizations.

The source of funds for this program is a deduction (set-aside) of not more than $2 million per year from the funds authorized for FHWA administrative expenses. Of the amount set-aside, $2 million must be reserved to make grants for intergovernmental enforcement efforts, including research and training. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Funds were obligated for a number of projects at individual State levels. Some of the funding was used for the States to participate in the Joint Operations Center for National Fuel Tax Compliance. The types of initiatives that were undertaken were analysis of Heavy Vehicle Use Tax (HVUT); the Federal Form 637 (registration for tax activities); the Excise Summary Terminal Activity Reporting System (ExSTARS), which compares Federal and State tax return data; and additional initiatives that provide the States with information they would not have on their tax returns. Fiscal Year 2016: Funds will likely also be used to expand auditing and tracking programs, including enhancements to data systems. Fiscal Year 2017: When diesel fuel leaves the bulk terminal, fuel to be used in a non-taxable fashion (off-highway use) is injected with a red dye. At both the Federal and State level, fuel taxes are not imposed on dyed fuel. Many States have enforcement initiatives where vehicles are randomly checked for the presence of red dye in the fuel. Several of the awards will likely be used to start or enhance existing programs. Funds will likely also be used to expand auditing and tracking programs, including enhancements to data systems.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Funds were obligated for a number of projects at individual State levels. Some of the funding was used for the States to participate in the Joint Operations Center for National Fuel Tax Compliance. The types of initiatives that were undertaken were analysis of Heavy Vehicle Use Tax (HVUT); the Federal Form 637 (registration for tax activities); the Excise Summary Terminal Activity Reporting System (ExSTARS), which compares Federal and State tax return data; and additional initiatives that provide the States with information they would not have on their tax returns. The total assessments at the Federal and State levels exceeded $ 57.8 million. For existing grants that spanned several years, initiatives include cooperative programs with Native American tribal agencies; inspection and enforcement for the illegal use of dyed diesel fuel on highway; and enhancements to data systems. Results reported on these projects, including funding for training and research, which are not easily assigned direct returns on investment, exceed $ 5 million. Fiscal Year 2016: Final grants will not be awarded until all applications are reviewed after the July 31, 2016 deadline, and approved by FHWA Administrators. Several of the awards will likely be used to start or enhance existing programs. Funds will likely also be used to expand auditing and tracking programs, including enhancements to data systems. Fiscal Year 2017: It is likely that the awards will involve various enforcement programs and enhancements to data systems. One problem that still causes fuel tax evasion is the use of dyed diesel fuel on the highway. When diesel fuel leaves the bulk terminal, fuel to be used in a non-taxable fashion (off-highway use) is injected with a red dye. At both the Federal and State level, fuel taxes are not imposed on dyed fuel. Many States have enforcement initiatives where vehicles are randomly checked for the presence of red dye in the fuel. Several of the awards will likely be used to start or enhance existing programs. Funds will likely also be used to expand auditing and tracking programs, including enhancements to data systems.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Applicants are encouraged to submit innovative proposals to reduce fuel tax evasion and increase collaboration and coordination among several public agencies. Priority will be given to proposals that involve more than one public agency. FHWA and the IRS will review the proposals using a scoring process that includes consideration of completeness of the application, enforcement potential, innovation, intergovernmental inclusion, and risk of success.

20.321 RAILROAD SAFETY TECHNOLOGY GRANTS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Federal Railroad Administration (FRA), Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 105 of the Rail Safety Improvement Act of 2008 as modified by the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2016, Division L, Title I (Public Law 114-113 (December 18, 2015) , Public Law 114-113, 49 U.S.C 20158.

OBJECTIVES:

To facilitate the deployment of train control technologies, train control component technologies, processor-based technologies, electronically controlled pneumatic brakes, rail integrity inspection systems, rail integrity warning systems, switch position indicators and monitors, remote control power switch technologies, track integrity circuit technologies, and other new or novel railroad safety technology.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Applications for projects that will benefit the overall implementation of PTC on freight, intercity passenger, and commuter railroads. Given that the amount of funding available is not likely sufficient to cover the costs necessary to deploy PTC on any given railroad, applications should focus on development and deployment of technologies that will lower the costs, speed implementation, increase interoperability, and improve the reliability of PTC systems. The FRA is particularly interested in development and deployment on the following topics related to PTC: elimination of PTC communications interference; configuration management of multi-railroad PTC software and firmware deployments; and host-tenant railroad PTC interoperability/system certification.

In addition, the establishment and management of collaborative interoperability coordination groups, that may be used to resolve industry-wide PTC technical and management issues, shall be eligible for funding. Examples of eligible projects include the following:

Costs for implementation, installation, and testing of PTC systems;

Costs for shared PTC infrastructure (e.g., back office systems, CAD systems); and Costs to advance PTC interoperability, such as pilot programs, standardization committees, development of standard processes, and spectrum acquisition, sharing, and desensitization.

Applicants should note that these aspects represent suggested areas of interest by the FRA, and any otherwise eligible applications meeting the criteria above will be evaluated and considered for award. Grant funds may not be used for lobbying or in direct support of litigation. Potential recipients should note these funds are awarded on project-by-project basis and are not block grants. The detailed focus areas are defined in the agency announcement. 100 percent of the funds are discretionary grants.

Applicant Eligibility:

There is no additional information.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Passenger and freight railroad carriers; Railroad suppliers; and State and local governments for projects that have a public benefit of improved safety and network efficiency. To be eligible for assistance, the above entities subject to 49 U.S.C. 20157(a) must have submitted a revised Positive Train Control Implementation Plan (PTCIP) to FRA as required by 49 U.S.C. 20157(a). FRA considers the development and submission of a revised PTCIP under 49 U.S.C. 20157(a) to meet the eligibility requirement related to submitting a plan required under 49 U.S.C. 20156(e)(2) containing an analysis of the impact, feasibility, costs and benefits of implementing PTC system technology. FRA believes that any submission connected to sec. 20156(e)(2), which has yet to be incorporated into a Federal regulation, would merely be duplicative of what a railroad analyzed when it developed and submitted a revised PTCIP. Thus, FRA considers the submission of a revised PTCIP to meet the eligibility requirements in 49 U.S.C. 20158(b)(3) for purposes of this NOFO. If an applicant is not required to comply with either sec. 20157(a) or sec. 20156(e)(2), the applicant must demonstrate that to FRA's satisfaction in its NOFO application Individuals are not eligible for these awards.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 80%. Federal funds for any eligible project shall not exceed 80 percent of the total cost of such project FRA cannot consider any other Federal funds, nor any non-Federal funds already expended (or otherwise encumbered), towards the matching requirement. Additionally, FRA is limiting the method for calculating the non-Federal match to cash contributions only in-kind contributions will not be accepted. Matching funds provided in excess of the minimum requirement will be considered in evaluating the merit of an application.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The FRA anticipates making multiple awards from the funding made available in this notice and is not predetermining any minimum or maximum dollar amounts for awards. However, given the relatively limited amount of funding that is currently available, applicants are encouraged to constrain their Federal funding requests to a maximum of $3,000,000 per application. While this $3,000,000 application limit is a recommendation and not a firm requirement, applicants exceeding this $3,000,000 threshold must explain why any requested funding over $3,000,000 is necessary to implement the proposed project. Collaborative projects that can be proven to benefit more than five (5) entities (e.g. one entity implementing back office systems for multiple [five or more] railroads), may request up to the authorized appropriation limit of $25,000,000. Additionally, the FRA may choose to award a grant for less than the amount requested in the application. FRA will make awards for projects selected under this notice as grants with an 80%-20% federal-non-federal cost share. The funding provided under these grants will be made available to grantees on a reimbursable basis.

Applications will proceed through a three-part review process:

1. Screening for completeness and eligibility;
2. Evaluation of eligible applications by technical panels applying the evaluation criteria; and
3. Project selection by the FRA Administrator applying additional selection criteria.

The FRA intends to award funds to PTC projects that achieve the maximum public benefits possible. Analysis provided by applicants that quantifies the monetary value (whenever possible) of the anticipated public benefits of the proposed project will be particularly relevant to the FRA in evaluating applications. The systematic process of comparing expected benefits and costs helps decision-makers organize information about, and evaluate tradeoffs between, alternative transportation investments. The FRA will consider benefits and costs using standard data and qualitative information provided by applicants and will evaluate applications in a manner consistent with Executive Order 12893 (Principles for Federal Infrastructure Investments, 59 FR 4233), OMB Circular A94 (Guidelines and Discount Rates for Benefit-Cost Analysis of Federal Programs), and OMB Circular A4 (Regulatory Analysis).

Applications for PTC projects will be reviewed by DOT subject matter experts against the following three evaluation criteria:

PTC Deployment Benefits

Technical Merit
Project Development approach

The following factors will be considered in assessing a proposed projects achievement of PTC deployment benefits:

- The degree to which the successful implementation of the proposed idea would advance the technical deployment of PTC, including improvements to reliability, safety, security, and maintainability;
- The degree to which the successful implementation of the proposed idea would decrease PTC implementation and maintenance costs; and
- The degree to which the project maximizes the return on investment (ROI) towards industry-wide implementation efforts.

The following factors will be considered in assessing a proposed projects technical merit:

- The degree to which proposed projects exhibit a sound scientific and engineering basis;
- How well the proposed project could be practically applied in, and would be compatible with, the railroad operating environment infrastructure ; and
- The perceived likelihood of technical and practical success.

The following factors will be considered in assessing how the proposed project was planned and developed to date:

- The technical qualifications and demonstrated experience of key personnel proposed to lead and perform the technical efforts, and qualifications of primary and supporting organizations to fully and successfully execute the proposal plan within the proposed timeframe and budget;
- The degree to which proposed effort is supported by multiple entities (letters of support are encouraged);
- The affordability and degree to which the proposed effort appears to be a good value for the amount of funding requested;
- The reasonableness and realism of the proposed costs; and
- The extent of proposed cost sharing or cost participation under the proposed effort (exclusive of the applicants prior investment).

Preference will be given to projects that can demonstrate an ability to substantially complete work, or otherwise provide benefits to industry, prior to December 31, 2018.

All evaluation criteria, when combined, are significantly more important than cost or price alone. Technical merit is appreciably more important than cost or price and, as such, greater consideration will be given to technical excellence than cost or price alone. An offer must be found acceptable under all applicable evaluation factors to be considered eligible for award. Awards will be made to applicants whose offers provide the best value to the Government in terms of technical excellence, cost or price, and performance risk, to include consistency and accord with the objectives of the solicitation and FRAs expressed areas of interest.

In addition to the evaluation criteria outlined above, the FRA Administrator will apply the following selection criteria to further ensure that the projects selected for funding advance FRAs current mission and key priorities:

- Alignment with the DOT Strategic Goals and Priorities
 - Improving transportation safety;
 - Maintaining transportation infrastructure in a state of good repair;
 - Promoting economic competitiveness;
 - Advancing environmentally sustainable transportation policies;
 - Enhancing quality of life; and
 - Building ladders of opportunity to expand the middle class.
- Proposed projects that demonstrate the ability to provide reliable, safe and affordable transportation choices to connect economically disadvantaged populations, non-drivers, senior citizens, and persons with disabilities in disconnected communities with employment, training and education will receive particular consideration during project selection.

Project Delivery Performance

The applicants track record in successfully delivering previous FRA and DOT grants on time, on budget, and for the full intended scope;

The applicants means for achieving satisfactory continuing control over project assets in a timely manner, including public ownership of project assets or agreements with railroad operators and infrastructure owners at the time of application ; and

The extent to which the proposed project complements previous FRA or DOT awards.

Region/Location

The extent to which the proposed project increases the economic productivity of land, capital, or labor at specific locations, particularly in economically distressed areas;

- Ensuring appropriate level of regional balance across the country;
- Ensuring consistency with national transportation and rail network objectives; and
- Ensuring integration with other rail services and transportation modes.

Innovation/Resource Development

Pursuing new rail technologies that result in favorable public return on investment and ensure delivery of project benefits;

Promoting innovations that demonstrate the value of new approaches to, among other things, transportation funding and finance, contracting, project delivery, congestion management, safety management, asset management, or long-term operations and maintenance.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The grant for Amtrak Sandy Repairs helped Amtrak pay for recovery activities pursued immediately following Superstorm Sandy and begin to pursue projects to replace damages infrastructure and equipment. Immediate repairs to restore service utilized two thirds of the grant, mitigating the economic damage caused by the unavailability of a critical piece of infrastructure along the NEC rail network. The final third was used in projects to begin restoring the damage done by salt water inundation and chloride contamination, which -if left unmitigated- leaves the possibility of further disruptions to public access and major economic viability of the northeast region of the United States. The FRA funding also increased public safety by improving Fire Life Safety systems in the six New York City railroad tunnels, repairing standpipe, pumps, lighting and SCADA systems.

The grant for the Hudson Yards Concrete Encasement Project consists of the construction of an underground, sealed, watertight rectangular structure 800 feet long, 50 feet wide, and approximately 35 feet tall in the Eastern Rail Yard portion of the Hudson Yards rail yard in New York City. Amtrak will furnish all personnel, facilities, equipment, and other materials and services (except as otherwise specified) necessary to implement and cover the cost of reserving the ROW under the Hudson Yards, which includes, but is not limited to, the design and construction of a concrete casing under Hudson Yards, the demolition, relocation and reconstruction of the Long Island Railroad (LIRR) owned Maintenance of Equipment (MOE) facility within Hudson Yards, and associated labor costs, fuel, supplies, contracts, procurement of materials and other costs required to preserve the ROW. 20.500 FEDERAL TRANSIT CAPITAL INVESTMENT GRANTS

New Starts, Small Starts, and Core Capacity

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Federal Transit Administration (FTA), Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

Fixing Americas Surface Transportation Act (FAST), Public Law 114-94, 49 U.S.C 5309.

OBJECTIVES:

The Capital Investment Grant Program is the Federal Governments primary financial resource for supporting transit capital projects that are locally planned, implemented, and operated. The majority of the projects are fixed-guideway transit projects, meaning they use or occupy a separate right-of-way such as rails, catenaries, or exclusive bus lanes. This includes rapid rail, light rail, streetcar, commuter rail, and bus rapid transit (BRT). However, ferry projects and corridor-based BRT projects that do not use an exclusive bus lane but have other characteristics similar to rail transit service are also eligible. Note: Under prior authorizations, this section also included eligibility for the Bus and Bus Facilities and Fixed Guideway Modernization programs. Although these programs are no longer under this section (repealed), a residual amount of funding allocated under previous authorizations may be obligated in grants using that authority.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS; PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

FAST includes three categories of eligible projects under the Capital Investment Grant Program, referred to as New Starts, Core Capacity, and Small Starts projects. New Starts projects are those whose sponsors request $100 million or more in Capital Investment Grant Program funds or have an anticipated total capital cost of $300 million or more. Core Capacity projects are substantial investments in an existing fixed-guideway corridor that is at capacity today or will be in five years, where the proposed project will increase capacity by not less than 10 percent. Small Starts projects are defined as those whose sponsors request less than $100 million in Capital Investment Grant Program funds and have an anticipated total capital cost of less than $300 million.

The Pilot Program for Transit-Oriented Development (TOD) Planning, authorized under Section 20005(b) of the Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century Act (MAP-21), Public Law 112-141, July 6, 2012, with funding provided under 49 U.S.C. 5338(a)(2)(B), as amended by the FAST Act, provides grants for corridor-level comprehensive planning activities conducted in conjunction with the development of Section 5309 Capital Investment Grant program (Core Capacity, New Starts and fixed-guideway Small Starts) projects. The comprehensive planning work must help to enhance economic development, ridership, and other goals established during the project development and engineering processes; facilitate multimodal connectivity and accessibility; increase access to transit hubs for pedestrian and bicycle traffic; enable mixed-use development; identify infrastructure needs associated with the eligible project; and include private sector participation. In FY 2016, a total of $2,177,000,000 was appropriated for the program, of which $2,155,230,000 was available to be allocated to eligible projects.

For the Pilot Program for TOD Planning $20,490,000 was appropriated in total in fiscal years 2014-2016 that was not earmarked and will be awarded by FTA through a competitive grant application and selection process.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Funding was provided to maintain and expand public transit service in rural areas. Examples include the North Central Regional Transit district in Espanola, NM which uses Section 5311 to serve over 50 communities to connect riders without other other means of transportation across 10,000 square miles to jobs, a Veterans hospital, universities, and human services. Another example is Streamline Transportation in Boxeman, MT which uses over $1.1 million in 5311 funds to provide over 325,000 rides annually including support to low income residents living in Belgrade. Funding is provided for transit service in rural areas in all 50 states. Fiscal Year 2016: The Formula Grants for Rural Areas projects will continue to support capital, planning, and operating assistance to states to support public transportation in rural areas with populations of less than 50,000, where many residents often rely on public transit to reach their destinations. The program also provides funding for state and national training and technical assistance through the Rural Transportation Assistance Program. Fiscal Year 2017: The Formula Grants for Rural Areas projects will continue to support capital, planning, and operating assistance to states to support public transportation in rural areas with populations of less than 50,000, where many residents often rely on public transit to reach their destinations. The program also provides funding for state and national training and technical assistance through the Rural Transportation Assistance Program.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The criteria for selecting projects under State allocations is as described by the State designated agency in its procedures or State management plan. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The Section 5310 program gives communities the perfect motivation to examine: Transportation assets in their communities, Mobility needs, Gaps in services, and Strategies to fill the gaps. Projects are then selected to improve mobility for seniors and individuals with disabilities by supporting the transportation services planned, designed, and carried out to meet the special transportation needs of seniors and individuals with disabilities in all areas, large urbanized, small urbanized, and rural. During FY 2015, hundreds of local projects were funded that helped older adults and people with disabilities access health care, jobs, and other vital services in their local communities.

FTA has also launched a specific initiative called Rides to Wellness that promotes services that provide specific transportation links to health care. A series of regional forums have generated significant interest in this program. Fiscal Year 2016: The Section 5310 program is anticipated to continue to fund public transportation projects designed to meet the special needs of older adults and people with disabilities. Projects may include rolling stock, including replacement or expansion of buses and vans, vehicle rehabilitation or overhaul, preventive maintenance, vehicle wheelchair lifts and securement devices; Vehicle shelters; Computer hardware and software; Transit related ITS; Dispatch systems; and Mobility management programs). Public transportation projects that exceed the requirements of ADA (Examples may include:

Expansion of paratransit service beyond the mile requirement; Expansion of current hours of operation for ADA paratransit; Incremental cost of providing same day service; Incremental cost of providing door-to-door service; and Acquisition of vehicles and equipment designed to accommodate mobility aids that exceed the dimensions and weight ratings for wheelchairs). OBJECTIVES:

The Federal Transit Administration's Research, Development, Demonstration, Deployment, Cooperative Research, Technical Assistance, Standards Development, and Human Resources and Training programs are authorized at 49 U.S.C. 5312, 5313, 5314, and 5322 and collectively seek to develop solutions that improve public transportation. Its primary goals are to increase transit ridership, improve safety and emergency preparedness, improve operating efficiencies, protect the environment, promote energy independence, and provide transit research leadership; develop and conduct workforce development activities, training and educational programs for Federal, State, and local transportation employees, United States citizens, and foreign nationals engaged or to be engaged in Government-aid relating to public transportation work; and to sponsor development of voluntary and consensus-based standards to more effectively and efficiently provide transit service, as well as support the improved administration of Federal transit funds. To accomplish this, FTA funds projects to support research and development, demonstration, deployments of various technologies and operational models for transit; a national cooperative research program, a national training institute, national technical assistance centers, and transit workforce development programs. :

The Research, Development, Demonstration, and Deployment Projects program (49 U.S.C. 5312) supports research not generally undertaken by the private sector including studies on transit policy issues, operational efficiency, and travel behavior. These projects will promote the use of clean energy and air quality improvement. The program also funds long-term, high-risk, high-potential payoff investigations of new technologies, which is critical to developing a public transportation system that is efficient, attractive, and reliable. The majority of the funds (75 percent) appropriated under 49 U.S.C 5338 to support this section, must be used for a discretionary Low and No Emission deployment program.

The Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP) (49.U.S.C 5313) funds shorter-term research projects that address immediate operational issues facing the transit industry. These projects are designed to identify immediate improvements in transit safety, equipment and system design, system operations, and the economic development impact of transit investments, among other topic areas. These funds are awarded to the National Academies of Science.

The Technical Assistance and Standards (49 U.S.C. 5314) funds support provide resources and direct assistance to support compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), human services transportation coordination requirements, the transportation needs of elderly individuals, increased transit ridership, transportation equity needs, and any other technical assistance activities deemed necessary by FTA, such as improvements in safety and asset management.

The Human Resources and Training program (49. U.S.C 5322) creates Ladders of Opportunity to help build pathways for job-seekers by leveraging opportunities in the transit industry in manufacturing, operations and maintenance. This program, among other activities, awards grants to transit agencies and other entities for workforce development programs and projects.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use; DISSEMINATION OF TECHNICAL INFORMATION; PROJECT GRANTS; TRAINING

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Technical Assistance: National Center for Mobility Management (NCMM) Ongoing. NCMM was created to facilitate the adoption of mobility management strategies and transportation options at the state and community levels to leverage transportation resources and fill transportation gaps to empower people to live independently to advance health, economic vitality, self-sufficiency, and community. The Center is a collaborative effort of APTA, CTAA and Easter Seals, Inc. The NCMMs goals include improving and enhancing the coordination of Federal resources for human service transportation, especially for people with disabilities, older adults, and people with low incomes. The NCMM has been the primary support of the FTAs Rides to Wellness initiative, which seeks to build partnerships between the health and transportation sectors to improve access to care, and thus better the health of people while reducing costs to the healthcare system. The Center launched the Rides to Wellness initiative in March, 2015, hosting a summit of executives from both industries who came together in Washington DC to learn about, and begin to jointly address the mobility challenges that can keep people from being well and which harm our communities. The NCMM supported FTA by funding $400K in planning grants to 16 communities to support the development of innovative solutions to healthcare access transportation challenges. Local coalitions of cross-industry providers, including consumers, spanning the healthcare, transportation, human service, and other industries, are developing replicable strategies to enhance access to preventive, dialysis, behavioral health, and post-hospitalization care.

Technical Assistance: National Center for Senior Transportation (NCST) Ongoing. NCST was to increase transportation options for older adults and enhance their ability to live independently within their communities throughout the United States. The NCST achieved this mission by gathering and sharing best practices, providing technical assistance and training for a wide range of stakeholders, facilitating strategic partnerships and community engagement to support the development and coordination of senior transportation options, developing and disseminating information including the use of web-based and social media, and administering demonstration grants that supported adoption of promising practices in communities. This project provided technical assistance to states and local communities on the expansion and provision of transportation services for older adult populations. NCST served as a vital bridge between the aging community and the transportation industry, helping both industries understand, respond to, and plan for the unique transportation and mobility needs of an aging population.

Technical Assistance: National Public Transportation /Transit-Oriented Development Technical Assistance ladders of Opportunity Initiative Ongoing.

This project was created to provide technical assistance through the development of tools, guidance, and other resources for enhancing transit-oriented development (TOD) within transportation corridors and around public transportation stations, including economically-distressed communities. Smart Growth America was awarded a cooperative agreement to assist FTA in implementing the Ladders of Opportunity initiative. This project assisted FTA in providing technical assistance to economically-distressed communities and a wide range of local governmental entities, including stake holders beyond FTAs traditional public transportation agency grantees. A forum for communities receiving technical assistance as well as other communities well-versed in TOD activities will be established to begin dialogues and exchange ideas. FTA selected SGA to provide technical assistance, through a variety of forms, to 9 communities to advance transit oriented development principles and projects. In collaboration with FTA, SGA will help communities benefit from existing or planned public transportation projects once the project is completed. SGA will support the efforts of local communities across the country to build compact, mixed-use, equitable development around transit stations.

Technical Assistance: FTA CITY program Summer 2015 Completed. The purpose of the Careers in Transportation for Youth (CITY) program was to attract the best and brightest students who have completed their sophomore and junior years of college at an accredited college or university and who have an interest in a transportation-related career. This 10-week internship program sought to accomplish the following goals: 1) expose college juniors and seniors to career opportunities in public transportation; 2) enhance professional exposure and development of students through internships and mentoring opportunities in public transportation; and 3) advance the strategic goal of the DOT in workforce development, transportation outreach, and building ladders of opportunity to earn a living wage into the middle class. The project provided internship for 17 rising college juniors and seniors majoring in a variety of disciplines including engineering, business, communications, and human development, among others. The students interned in Federal and local government agencies as well as transit agencies in several cities across the country. The project provided on-the-job training experience and expose and information about transit occupations and careers. As a result of participating in the CITY Program, several students obtained permanent positions in transportation agencies and organizations. By attracting the future generation of transportation officials, FTA ensures that the public transportation industry continues knowledge transfer and assures a succession plan. 20.520 PAUL S. SARBANES TRANSIT IN THE PARKS

Transit in the Parks

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Federal Transit Administration (FTA), Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 3021 of the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, Efficient Transportation Equity Act A Legacy for Users (SAFETEA-LU) enacted August 10, 2005 [Public Law 109-59], established the Alternative Transportation in Parks and Public Lands program. The name of the program was changed to the Paul S. Sarbanes Transit in Parks under the SAFETEA-LU Technical Corrections Act, 2008. The Transit in Parks Program was repealed by Congress under MAP-21. Alternative transportation projects formerly eligible under Transit in Parks are now eligible under the Federal Highway Administrations Federal Lands Transportation Program and the Federal Lands Access Program., 49 U.S.C 5320.

OBJECTIVES:

The Paul S. Sarbanes Transit in Parks Program was necessary because it addressed the challenge of increasing vehicle congestion in and around our national parks and other federal lands. Americas national parks, wildlife refuges, and national forests were created to protect unique environmental and cultural treasures, but are now facing traffic, pollution and crowding that diminishes the visitor experience and threatens the environment. To address these concerns, this program provided funding for the planning and capital costs of alternative transportation systems, such as shuttle buses, rail connections and even bicycle trails. The program provided grants to Federal land management agencies, including but not limited to the National Park Service, the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the Forest Service, the Bureau of Reclamation, and to State, tribal and local governments. The Transit in Parks Program was repealed by Congress under MAP-21, and FTA announced the final selection of competitive project awards on February 18, 2013. Alternative transportation projects formerly eligible under Transit in Parks are now eligible under the Federal Highway Administrations Federal Lands Transportation Program and the Federal Lands Access Program.

Although there is no funding for this program, there are currently 42 open grants. An example of a project funded in 2011 is a $1Million grant for the South Central Corridor Alternatives. The grant funded the study of the five-mile South Central Corridor centered on Central Avenue from Washington Street to Baseline Road. The study area included downtown Phoenix, Central Avenue high-rise offices, and southwest Phoenix, and will explore bus rapid transit, modern streetcar and light rail alternatives. This project allowed Valley Metro, Phoenix transit agency, to develop preliminary ridership forecasts and cost ranges, and identified engineering and community issues and constraints, as well as explore transit-supportive land use and economic development opportunities in the corridor. Another example is $480,000 for the North Line (SR 400 Corridor) Alternatives Analysis in Atlanta, GA. The grant provided funding to study options for extending high capacity rail transit service along the highly congested 11.7-mile State Road 400 corridor from the North Springs MARTA Station to Windward Parkway, with a link to a potential high capacity rail line along I-285. Formerly a bedroom community, the area became home to the Perimeter Business District, the regions largest employment center in northern DeKalb County and one of the states largest concentrations of medical facilities. Also located in the study area is North Fulton County, one of the fastest growing sub-regions in the metropolitan Atlanta region, where large employers like AT&T, Verizon Communications, United Postal Service, Georgia State University (North Campus), and Comcast, that had no direct access to rail transit. Fiscal Year 2016: The Moving Ahead for Progress in the 21st Century (MAP-21) eliminated the Alternatives Analysis Program. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: No new funds are available for this program, however, since 2009, the TIGGER program has invested in numerous innovative transit projects from installing solar panels to buying into market fuel-cell and hybrid powered buses and allowing for the development of energy efficient facilities supporting sustainability. A total of $75 million was available for FTA's TIGGER program and $81 million for the Clean Fuels Grant program. In response to the NOFA, FTA received a total of 274 proposals requesting over $1.4 billion in program funds. The project proposals were evaluated based on the criteria detailed in the April 13, 2010 Notice of Funding Availability. Fiscal Year 2016: A total of 42 TIGGER applications were awarded and 22 remain active. Currently, 52% of the projects are complete. Fiscal Year 2017: : It is anticipated that 11% of the TIGGER projects will be active in FY 2017.

20.500 Federal Transit_Capital Investment Grants; 20.507 Federal Transit_Formula Grants

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: No new funds are being awarded to this program.

2015 Example: Remote 3rd Rail Heaters Monitoring and Control System: Install wireless control points linked to 3rd rail heaters in two phases. The project will allow these 3rd rail heaters to be remotely monitored and turned on and off from a central control location depending on weather conditions, thus minimizing electricity use and eliminating wasted energy. TIGGER will fund the labor portion of the project only. Material is being financed and procured through the New York Power Authority.

2015 Example: Hale Street Solar Photovoltaic system: The installation of a photovoltaic panel array on the roof of the Hale Street garage facility owned by the LRTA. The facility is used by the LRTA to store, fuel, maintain, and repair transportation vehicles (buses, vans, tow trucks etc.) as well as administrative and dispatch services. The facility is a 70,000 square foot building located in an industrial zone in Lowell, Massachusetts.

2015 Example: Two 40-foot zero-emission (12 meter) electric buses and a fast charge system have been purchased by a transit agency after a one-year trial period. The agency has the pre-arranged option to purchase up to 200 more buses and additional fast charge systems. Proterra Inc. delivered the equipment to the transit agency. The ability to test and deploy more electric vehicle buses supports the transit agency goal to achieve a full service operation of all-electric and hybrid fleet. Fiscal Year 2016: No new funds are being awarded to this program. Expanding its existing all-electric fleet, in the Wenatchee and East Wenatchee area; in operation on a full-time basis are five new electric trolleys, two ultra quick charging stations, and one overnight charging station. The manufacturer of the trolleys was EBus of Downey, California. The trolleys are 22 feet long, with a capacity of 22 seated passengers and 10 standing passengers.

2016 Example: Four energy conservation projects were identified and funded by a grant: Those projects were as follows: (1) Service Building Unit Heater Replacement; (2) Operations Building Boiler Replacement; (3) Service Building and Operations Building HVAC Controls Upgrade; and (4) Service Building Snow Melt Controls Upgrade.

2016 Example: Awarded funds to retrofit as many as 70 buses with an innovative electric engine cooling fan system (mini-Hybrid Thermal System-MH8) that is cost effective and lowers pollutant emissions. Energy savings are anticipated with a nine percent reduction in fuel consumption. The original idea for the cooling system is developed from military vehicles and now being applied to transit buses. Fiscal Year 2017: No new funds are being awarded to this program. We anticipate 11% or 5 projects to still be underway.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals were selected based on the following criteria as published in the Notices of Funding Availability (NOFA): energy savings of the project and/or greenhouse gas emission reductions of the project; innovation; cost; national applicability, project readiness, project management capabilities, return on investment, and geographic diversity.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Discretionary); Project Grants (Special)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The ER Program allows FTA to make grants for eligible public transportation capital and operating costs in the event of a catastrophic event, such as a natural disaster, that affects a wide area, and, as a result of which, the Governor of a State has declared an emergency or the President has declared a major disaster under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act. Eligible projects include emergency operations, emergency repairs, permanent repairs, actual engineering and construction costs on eligible projects, and resiliency projects designed to protect rolling stock, equipment, facilities and infrastructure from future damage. Funds may only be used for capital and operating costs incurred by public transportation systems in response to a catastrophic event, such as a natural disaster, that affects a wide area, and, as a result of which, the Governor of a State has declared an emergency or the President has declared a major disaster under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act. Reimbursable costs include emergency operations, emergency repairs, permanent repairs, actual engineering and construction costs on eligible projects, and resiliency projects designed to protect rolling stock, equipment, facilities and infrastructure from future damage. Funds may not be used for project costs for which funds are already obligated in a grant, for which FEMA or another federal agency has already provided emergency funding, or for which the applicant has received insurance proceeds. Funds are awarded to eligible agencies based on the demonstrated costs of responding to and recovering from an emergency or major disaster. Funds are also awarded to affected agencies for projects that improve the resiliency of public transportation assets and infrastructure to future emergencies or disasters.

Applicant Eligibility:

An entity that operates public transportation service in an area impacted by an emergency or major disaster, as defined by a gubernatorial or presidential declaration of such an emergency or disaster, and that receives federal transit funds directly from FTA.

Fiscal Year 2016: On March 16, 2016 FTA published a Final Rule for the SSO program that significantly strengthens state safety oversight and enforcement authority to prevent and mitigate accidents and incidents on rail transit systems. It applies to States where a rail transit system operates, and carries out several explicit Federal statutory requirements, including that a State must submit its State Safety Oversight (SSO) program to FTA for certification and that the designated SSO Agency must have financial and legal independence from the rail transit agencies it oversees. In addition, the final rule requires that a State must ensure that the SSO Agency adopts and enforces relevant Federal and state safety laws, has investigatory authority, and has appropriate financial and human resources for the number, size and complexity of the rail transit systems within its jurisdiction. Furthermore, SSO Agency personnel responsible for performing safety oversight activities must have proper training and certification. Within three years of the effective date of this final rule, States with an operating rail transit system must have a SSO program certified by FTA. FTA has already certified two of the affected 30 States as being compliant: California and Massachusetts. Most of the remaining 28 States have also already taken some actions toward compliance with these critical safety requirements. Fiscal Year 2017: Funding for this program will continue. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Fifteen new transit bus models were tested in 2015. The Bus Testing Facility also initiated the refurbishment of a compressed hydrogen fueling station, achieved accreditation to the ISO 17025 standard, and started adjusting the internal administrative and technical processes associated with the implementation of the Pass/Fail rule. Fiscal Year 2016: The Bus Testing Facility will conduct standardized tests and prepare test reports for up to twenty new transit bus models and will also bring a compressed hydrogen fueling station on-line in June of 2016 to enable the testing of new hydrogen fuel cell bus models. Overall, the Bus Testing Program has proven to be valuable to the transit industry. As of March 31, 2016 testing has been completed on 444 buses with a total of 9,324 bus failure modes were identified since the programs inception. Of those failure modes, 44 could have resulted in serious injuries or significant property damage had they occurred in revenue service. Another 175 failure modes would have resulted in the bus being stranded on its route had they occurred in actual service. Many of the other malfunctions identified would adversely impact transit service (e.g., resulting in road calls stranding passengers), and all would increase maintenance costs by requiring corrective maintenance actions. The Bus Testing Program ensures that by testing new bus models before they are purchased, recipients and manufacturers can often address problems before the fleet is built, potentially saving the federal government and grant recipients considerable money and time and avoiding inconveniencing passengers. Fiscal Year 2017: The Bus Testing Facility will implement the new program requirements outlined in the new Bus Testing Pass/Fail rulemaking. The demand for testing services is expected to remain strong with additional zero-emission bus models expected to enter the marketplace.

- k. Alternative fuels;
- l. The environment and energy efficiency;
- m. Safety improvements; or
- n. Any other area that is important to advance the interest of public transportation.

To accomplish this, the Secretary may make grants and enter into contracts, cooperative agreements, and other agreements for research, development, demonstration, and deployment projects, and evaluation of research and technology of national significance to public transportation, that the Secretary determines will improve public transportation.

Innovations and Development: Total amount apportioned under this clause multiplied by the ratio of the number of low-income individuals residing on an Indian tribes lands divided by the total number of low-income individuals on tribal lands on which more than 1,000 low-income individuals reside. No recipient shall receive more than $300,000 of the amounts apportioned in a fiscal year. Activities shall focus on:

- a. the development of public transportation research projects that received assistance that were successful;
- b. planning and forecasting modeling and simulation;
- c. capital and operating efficiencies;
- d. advanced vehicle design;
- e. advancements in vehicle technology;

- h. any other area that is important to advance the interests of public transportation.

Demonstration, Deployment and Evaluation: The Secretary may make agreements with an entity to promote the early deployment and demonstration of innovation in public transportation that has broad applicability. A demonstration, deployment, or evaluation project that receives assistance shall seek to build on successful research, innovation, and development efforts to facilitate:

- a. the deployment of research and technology development resulting from private efforts or Federally funded efforts; or
- b. the implementation of research and technology development to advance the interests of public transportation; or
- c. the deployment of low or no emission vehicles, zero emission vehicles, or associated advanced technology

A comprehensive evaluation must be conducted within 2 years from the date a demonstration or deployment project receives assistance; to evaluate the success or failure of the project and to describe any plans for broad-based implementation of the innovation promoted by successful projects.

Low or No Emission Vehicle component Testing (Low-No Testing): The Secretary may enter into an agreement with at least one institution of higher education that shall be competitively selected to operate and maintain a facility to conduct testing, evaluation, and analysis of low or no emission vehicle components intended for use in low or no emission vehicles. The institution(s) shall have:

- I. the capacity to carry out transportation-related advanced component and vehicle evaluation;
- II. laboratories capable of testing and evaluation; and
- III. direct access to or a partnership with a testing facility capable of emulating real-world circumstances in order to test low or no emission vehicle components installed on the intended vehicle. Component testing is voluntary; however, a low or no emission bus model must still comply with Section 5318 Bus Testing.

On October 1, 2015, the Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP) was repealed and incorporated into 5312 by Congress under the Fixing Americas Surface Transportation (FAST) Act. Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP): Through a cooperative agreement, the National Academy of Science will administer a public transportation cooperative research program. An independent governing board will continue to recommend public transportation research, development and technology transfer activities.

Depending on the specific funding program, the eligibility of recipients, projects, and federal share may vary. A prohibition exists such that no grants can be made for the demonstration, deployment, or evaluation of a vehicle that is in revenue service unless the Secretary determines that the project makes significant technological advancements in the vehicle. To the extent FTA allocates the funding through a competitive notice of funding availability, FTA will specify eligibility and requirements in a notice of funding availability (NOFA). Government share of costs shall not exceed 80% except for Section 5312(h) which is 50% and Section 5312 (i) where there is no match required funding for TCRP is at 100%. Demonstration and deployment projects must have a comprehensive evaluation of the success or failure of the funded projects within 2 years after the date on which a project received assistance.

EXAMPLES OF 2016 FUNDED PROJECTS:

Mobility on Demand: Mobility on Demand (MOD) is a vision for a multimodal, integrated, and connected transportation system in which personal mobility is viewed as the objective. MOD enables the use of on-demand information, real-time data, and predictive analysis to efficiently utilize existing infrastructure and design constraints to provide individual travelers with transportation choices that serve their needs and their circumstances. Simply put, the goal is to move people efficiently and safely with as high quality of service as possible. With overarching goals of efficiency, effectiveness and quality, MOD components for FY16 include $5 million for MOD Sandbox (additional funding to strengthen FY15 efforts), $750K for MOD Sandbox evaluations, $250K for MOD Dashboard (MOD key performance indicators), $1 million for MOD Deployment Accelerators (i.e., deployment planning grants for partnership and plan development), $500K for MOD Fuel Tank (MOD information and data clearinghouse), $500K for MOD program strategic planning, $500K for MOD data specification and prototype testing, $500K for MOD simulation and modeling.

LoNo Component Testing Center: A new program established by the FAST Act to support low or no emission vehicle deployment, Section 5312(h). This research project will establish a testing program to assess low or no emission vehicle components. A higher education organization(s) will be competitively selected to operate and maintain a facility to test, evaluate, and analyze LoNo vehicle components.

Transit Cooperative Research Program (TCRP): Section 5312(i) to the National Academies of Science as a cooperative agreement to carry out activities to support FTAs public transportation innovation projects, especially relating to ensuring research to practice and projects recommended by an independent governing board.

Safety, Resiliency and All Hazards Recovery Program (SRER) Program: Safety is the highest priority at U.S. DOT, and FTA is committed to support research and demonstration projects that keep public transportation as one of the safest ways to travel in the United States. This program should be established as an annual, open competition, program to build a portfolio of demonstration projects focus in assisting transit agencies at a) improving operational safety, b) strengthen infrastructure resiliency and c) All-Hazard Emergency Response and Recovery (2-5 project per year). Fiscal Year 2017: $28M.

OBJECTIVES:

To develop, support and maintain State gas and hazardous liquid pipeline safety programs.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Federal Pipeline Safety Law authorizes Federal reimbursement of up to 80 percent of a State's expenditure during the year for personnel, equipment, and activities reasonably required by the State agency for the conduct of its pipeline safety program. The Law further stipulates the State expenditures in any given year, without Federal assistance, cannot be less than the average amount expended by the State for gas and hazardous liquid safety programs for the 3 fiscal years prior to the fiscal year in which the Secretary makes the payment, except when the Secretary waives this requirement. The State agency must also agree to provide the remaining cost of the safety program(s). Within these limitations, the available funds are allocated by a method designed to reflect the degree to which a State has met certain established goals. The allocation is determined by assigning point values to the States for having achieved certain levels of program participation, dividing this point score by the sum of the States' point scores, and multiplying this ratio by the funding amount available for the distribution. PHMSA distributes remaining funds according to certain criteria designed to seek improvements in State programs. The criteria used by PHMSA is the extent of intrastate jurisdiction, inspector qualifications, recommended number of inspection person-days, State adoption of applicable Federal regulations, and other relevant criteria. In 2014, the Federal allocations represented 71.75 percent of the total estimated State requests in the natural gas program. The Federal allocation in the hazardous liquid program represented 71.75 percent of the total estimated State requests. Funds must be dedicated to the Certified Pipeline Safety Program and are based on the State performance scores.

Applicant Eligibility:

State must have a 60105 Certification or 60106 Agreement with PHMSA. The Department provides Federal funds, up to 80 percent of the State's total program costs to any State agency with a certificate under Section 60105 of Title 49, United States Code, an agreement under Section 60106 of Title 49, United States Code, or to any State acting as a DOT agent on interstate pipelines. estimated budgets and Certification/Agreements are reviewed by State Program Staff for reasonableness and completeness. Applications are due by September 30th of each year. All State Programs Certifying to PHMSA they are meeting the program requirements applications are accepted. The Certification and/or Agreement requirements are specified in 49 USC Sections 60105(b) and 60106(a). Award Procedure:

Awards are made by the Secretary of Transportation by approving the grant award amounts. PHMSA makes the Grant Application available to each state agency in August of each year. The deadline for filing this application is September 30th. (Note: This deadline is established in 49 USC 60107). Grant Applications are submitted on-line through the Federal State Tracking and Reporting FedSTAR database. Grant Applications are reviewed by PHMSA State Program staff to assure the costs submitted are necessary and reasonable expenses for the proper and efficient administration of the pipeline safety program. The appropriated grant funding, contingent on an enacted budget, is allocated (awarded) to individual State Pipeline Safety Programs in May based on each States most recent Program Evaluation and Progress Report scores and the grant allocation formula.

Payment Agreements are sent to the individual state agencies in May notifying them of the amount of the State Base Grant available to them to pay the individual states cost for the calendar year. States may request reimbursement of their program costs based on actual expenses "to date" in June (Mid-year Payment). In January of each year, PHMSA makes available through FedSTAR the OMB Standard Form 270 - Request for Advance or Reimbursement to each State agency for submission of their total pipeline safety program costs for the previous calendar year. Requests for reimbursement (End of Year Payments) submitted by each State agency are reviewed and approved by PHMSA before being forwarded to the DOT accounting office for payment. Grant funds will be electronically deposited into a bank account established for receipt of Federal funds.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: There are 49 State Pipeline Safety Programs that participated in the grant resulting in safety oversight for over 2 million miles of pipeline. The State Base Grant is to support State Pipeline Safety Programs which are certified through PHMSA to inspect and enforce the pipeline safety regulations under the States safety authority. All States currently participate in the pipeline safety program except Alaska and Hawaii. This is a recurring grant which has been in place for over 30 years. The Grantees are provided with specific notification of the grant availability and webinars supporting their grant applications. Fiscal Year 2016: No current data is available. Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

All reasonable expenses from Certified State pipeline safety regulatory agencies are considered for funding to the limit of available grant funding. This is a formula grant and funding is distributed among Certified State Pipeline Safety Programs based on their performance scores.

Pipeline Safety Grants are awarded based on the following formula:

Grant Award = State Budget Amount*State Performance Score*Percent Allocation

Where Percent Allocation(80%Maximum)= Total Available Funding/Sum of All Programs (State Score*State Budget)

State Budget Amount = Calendar Year Budget Estimate Submitted by each State with Grant Application

Annual State Performance Score Outlined in Section 9.7.2

Percent Allocation This is the maximum percentage of total program costs that can be applied to each grantee. There is an 80% maximum funding limited required by Section 60107 of the Pipeline Safety Act. This formula provides for an equal distribution of available funds in the event appropriated funding is less than required for maximum funding.

Total Available Funding - This is the annual funding provided by congressional appropriation. This would also include any unexpended (carryover) funds available from previous fiscal years.

The combined sum of each State Performance Score multiplied by each State Budget Estimate for all Natural Gas and Hazardous Liquid programs.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

In keeping with Congressional intent, PHMSA developed proposal evaluation criteria to be used to rate and select competing applications. Each criterion will be weighted equally and is intended to align with the challenges and strategies in PHMSA's Strategic Plan. Submission of an application is not a guarantee of award. The evaluation criteria are as follows: 1. The extent to which the Applicants project scope establishes clear goals and objectives that focus on areas where a pipeline failure could pose a significant risk to people or to unusually sensitive environmental areas (see definition in 49 C.F.R 195.6); 2. The extent to which the Applicants project scope identifies specific pipeline safety concerns or risks that affected pipelines pose to the affected geographic areas to stakeholders and/or communities; 3. The extent to which the proposal demonstrates the Applicants experience with and commitment to foster open communication with affected operators and other key members of the community to ensure project success. 4. The extent to which the Applicants proposal aligns with the challenges and strategies in PHMSA's Strategic Plan and seeks to improve performance and safety over time in areas such as engineering, damage prevention, land use, public education, emergency response, and community awareness; 5. The extent to which the Applicants project plan clearly establishes resources, milestones, and estimated project costs that align with project goals and objectives; 6. The extent to which the Applicants project plan identifies measurable results and deliverables and specifies how results will be evaluated and disseminated to affected stakeholders; and 7. The extent to which the Applicants project scope provides the potential for learning or technology transfer to other groups and communities.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Evaluation Criteria. The State Damage Prevention grant application process is competitive. Applications will be evaluated against the selection criteria listed below as well as against each other. Submission of an application is not a guarantee of award. PHMSA may award a grant based on an application in its entirety, award only portions of a grant application, or not award an application at all. Each Application will be reviewed against the criteria listed below. The criteria are weighted as follows: Criterion 1. is most heavily weighted; criterion 2 is second most heavily weighted; criterion 3 is third most heavily weighted; criterion 4 is fourth most heavily weighted; criterion 5 is fifth most heavily weighted. An effective damage prevention program as stated in 49 U.S.C. 60134 (b) includes one or more of the nine (9) elements below. Grant funding is available to assist state in aligning with one or more of these nine elements. The number of elements addressed in an application will not affect the evaluation of the application. Criterion 1. Relevance to the Nine Elements - This criterion will be used to evaluate proposed work under each element addressed on the application. This criterion will be used to evaluate proposed projects that: Clearly link results to one or more of the nine elements. Have merit for advancing implementation or continued support of one or more of the nine elements within the state. Align with the meaning and intent of the nine elements as described in PHMSAs Damage Prevention Assistance Program (DPAP) Guide (available at <http://primis.phmsa.dot.gov/comm/publications/DPAP-Guide-FirstEdition-20080911.pdf?nocache=6648>). Proposed work under each element will be evaluated separately. Criterion 2. Costs, Results, and Schedule This criterion will be used to evaluate proposed work under each element addressed in the application. This criterion will be used to evaluate proposed projects that: Will produce tangible results within the proposed project period. Establish clear goals, objectives, milestones, and estimates of project costs. Have deliverables that do not overlap with the deliverables of any other PHMSA grant award. Use funds efficiently and effectively. Proposed work under each element will be evaluated separately. Criterion 3. States Commitment to the Nine Elements - This criterion will be used to evaluate the applicants description of existing damage prevention activities as they relate to the nine elements. This criterion will be used to evaluate applications that demonstrate the State has made substantial progress toward, or has clear and concrete plans for, implementing the nine elements. Criterion 4. - States Commitment to Damage Prevention Program Effectiveness. This criterion will be used to evaluate the applicants description of any legislative or regulatory actions (including studies, etc.) taken by the State within the past five (5) years pertaining to damage prevention program improvement. This criterion will be used to evaluate applications that demonstrate the States commitment to ensuring lasting damage prevention program effectiveness and continuing improvement, including any legislative and/or regulatory actions taken within the past five years or other significant activities, such as efforts of study groups or task teams established to analyze the States damage prevention program. Criterion 5. Past Performance. This criterion will be used to evaluate past performance of applicants who have received a PHMSA State Damage Prevention grant in the past. Past performance includes fulfillment of grant agreements in a timely manner and compliance with grant terms and conditions. Applicants who received funding previously for a project that is ongoing and are requesting grant funding for the continuation of that project should provide a summary of accomplishments and tasks completed during the previous grant period. The information provided should include measurable results and deliverables, and also include any information about tasks that were not completed or other challenges encountered during the grant period. Evaluation of applications from applicants who have not received a PHMSA State Damage Prevention grant in the past will not be affected positively or negatively by this criterion.

20.724 PIPELINE SAFETY RESEARCH COMPETITIVE ACADEMIC AGREEMENT PROGRAM (CAAP)

CAAP Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration, Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

Pipeline Safety Improvement Act of 2002, Public Law 107-355, 49 U.S.C 60101 note.

OBJECTIVES:

The CAAP initiative is intended to spur innovation by enabling an academic research focus on high-risk and high pay-off solutions for the many pipeline safety challenges. It will potentially deliver solutions that can be hand-offs to PHMSAs core research program of demonstration and deployment. The goal would be to validate proof of concept of a thesis or theory all the way to commercial penetration into the market. Further, the pipeline industry and federal/state regulators are experiencing low numbers of applicants to entry level positions that are technically focused. As such, another goal of the CAAP program is to expose graduate and PhD research students to subject matter that is common to pipeline safety challenges and to illustrate how their engineering or technical disciplines are highly needed in the field. The ultimate benefit would be to cultivate new talent in all aspects of pipelining, similar to how programs at other Federal Agencies and non-profit organizations have encouraged talent to consider a career in a certain field.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Awards will be made in the form of cooperative agreements, which will play a role in finding the solutions to national, regional and local pipeline operational safety and environmental challenges. Some of these challenges involve having the best technology to efficiently and effectively meet or exceed Federal and State regulatory requirements. Other challenges are in keeping critical industry consensus standards fresh with the latest knowledge and know-how so that people, property and the environment are protected. Section 32 (f) of The Pipeline Safety, Regulatory Certainty, and Job Creation Act of 2011, signed into law in January 2012 (P.L. 11290 January 3, 2012) amends Section 12 of the Pipeline Safety Improvement Act of 2002 (49 U.S.C. 60101 note) by amending section(d) to add: (d)(3)(C) Funding From Non-Federal Sources. The Secretary shall ensure at least 30 percent of the costs of program-wide research and development activities are carried out using non-Federal sources. The 2011 Act also amends Section 12 of the Pipeline Safety Improvement Act of 2002 (49 U.S.C. 60101 note), subsection (f), by striking 2003 through 2006. and inserting 2012 through 2015.. The following are minimum requirements that all applicants must meet in order to be considered. Failure to meet these requirements at any time pre- or post-award will result in either removing an application from further consideration or grounds for termination of the agreement. The application must include a letter on the submitting institutions letterhead that certifies these minimum requirements are understood and will be met. The letter must be signed by the Dean or equivalent level of that college, department or program and inserted as Appendix A to the technical application. 1) Eligible applicants are non-profit institutions of higher education located in the United States or a U.S. territory or possession. 2) The academic research agreement will be with the institution and not with individual students. 3) The research scope must be executed by undergraduate, graduate and/or PhD research students. Institution faculty/staff should design the scope and oversee student execution of the scope. Applications that do not propose student involvement will be deemed non-responsive and will be removed from consideration. 4) Institution faculty, staff and students that are proposed to be involved with the research agreement must be U.S. citizens, permanent residents, or possess visas that will allow them to remain in the country long enough to complete the research project. 5) Federal funding is solely for allowable charges such as institution overhead and the procurement of expendables and any required labor necessary for executing the research scope. Furnishing of new or existing testing equipment will not be permitted with Federal funds. Also, Federal funding cannot be used toward construction of new facilities or refurbishing of existing facilities. Post-delivery financial audits may occur. 6) Applications must meet the required cost sharing threshold of 20%. Applications that fail to meet this requirement may be removed from consideration. Discretionary funds in the amount of $2,000,000 are available for this program in FY 2015. Applications will be evaluated and awards made to the entities whose applications demonstrate the highest merit.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applicants must be non-profit institutions of higher education located in the United States or a U.S. territory or possession.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Solutions from academic research agreements to non-profit institutions of higher education will benefit the American public who has a stake in safe, reliable and environmentally friendly pipeline transportation of hydrocarbons.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applications must include a letter on the submitting institutions letterhead that certifies minimum requirements are understood and will be met. The letter must be signed by the Dean or equivalent level of that college, department or program and inserted Appendix A to the technical application. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

PHMSA will use the following evaluation criteria to rate and select amongst competing applications. These criteria are intended to identify projects that target high-risk areas; offer well-defined plans; and produce results that are measurable and transferable to further investigations in the CAAP Program or PHMSA's core research program. The two (2) technical evaluation criteria are as follows:

Criterion 1: Scientific Merit and Quality

1. To what extent does the proposed project suggest/explore creative and original concepts and/or scientific/engineering principles to describe the challenges? 2. To what extent does the proposed research describe how the output result advances a potential solution toward an identified pipeline challenge(s)? 3. To what extent does the proposed research describe how the quality of results will be peer reviewed? 4. To what extent does the proposed research involve partnering to validate/demonstrate scientific results and/or quantify engineering principles?

Criterion 2: Feasibility of Management Plan, Work Task, Budget and Schedule. 1. How well are the scope of work, tasks and milestones defined? Are the specific assigned tasks that will be performed by student(s) defined? 2. How well are the research goals or objectives defined? 3. Does the institution have access to appropriate facilities to conduct the proposed work? 4. How well is the project schedule defined and tied to the management plan? 5. How detailed is the plan to oversee students regularly by academic organization faculty/staff with the relevant knowledge and experience in the proposed area? In addition, PHMSA expects the proposed results of the projects to be factual, unbiased, verifiable, and repeatable to the extent practicable. Applicants should also be aware that a cooperative agreement will not convey any authority to recipients to secure information or cooperation from pipeline operators.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Construction Reserve Fund (CRF), authorized under 46 USC 1161, is a financial assistance program which provides tax deferral benefits to U.S. flag operators. Also the CRF allows the accumulation of earnings from operations of vessels documented in the U.S., or the earnings from the investment of the Fund. The ability to accumulate funds and the tax deferral provision have enabled fundholders to construct or

Applicant Eligibility:

A Construction Reserve Fund (CRF) may be established by any citizen of the United States who owns, in whole or in part, a vessel or vessels operating in the foreign or domestic commerce of the U.S., or in the fisheries. Additionally, any citizen who is operating such vessel or vessels owned by another individual may establish a CRF.

Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Three criteria will be considered in the evaluation process, which were established in the final rule. This information will have been provided by applicants during the project designation process. No additional applicant input is required to address these criteria. These criteria establish the degree to which projects are expected to:

1. Reduce external cost and provide public benefit,
2. Offer a lower-cost alternative to increasing land-based capacity in the Corridor, and
3. Demonstrate the likelihood of becoming self-supporting in a specified and reasonable timeframe.

Applicants may, however opt to provide additional information specific to the above criteria if they desire. In evaluating this option, applicants should consider paragraph (g)(2)(B) of section 3515 of the National Defense Authorization Act of 2010, which requires that, in order to receive a grant under the program, the following factors will be taken into consideration:

1. Applicants shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary that the funds received will be spent efficiently and effectively,
2. Applicants shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary that a market exists for the services of the proposed project as evidenced by contracts or written statements of intent from potential customers,
3. An applicant shall provide at least 20 percent costs from non-Federal sources, and,
4. In awarding grants or cooperative agreements under the program, the Secretary shall give preference to those projects or components that present the most financially viable transportation services and require the lowest percentage Federal share of the costs.

While the criteria above were generally addressed in the original Marine Highway Project application requirements (Section 393.4(e)1(G); Proposed Project Timeline; and (F)(ii) and (i); Business Planning, respectively), these more specific requirements may warrant submission of additional information in response to this Notice of Funding Availability. It is important that this information is available to the Department during the grant evaluation process.

Fiscal Year 2015: The three facilities are conducting verification and certification testing of ballast water management systems. Also, collaborating with the USCG and RDC for verification of variable fluorescent fluorometers for ballast water compliance monitoring. The goal of the project is to determine what portable tools can be used by inspectors when conducting a compliance inspection. A specific aquatic species of concern is not an issue as the focus is on the USCG ballast water numerical standard. The geographical area is not specific; in this case the effort will be conducted in brackish and other water determined by the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science and the Naval Research Lab. Fiscal Year 2016: The three facilities are continuing their work with conducting verification and certification testing of

20.930 PAYMENTS FOR SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE DEVELOPMENT

Small Community Program or SCASDP Payments for Small Community Air Service Development

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Office of the Secretary (OST) Administration Secretariate, Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Reform Act for the 21st Century (AIR-21), reauthorized by the FAA Modernization and Reform Act of 2012, Public Law 106-181, 49 U.S.C 41743.

OBJECTIVES:

To help small communities enhance their air service and increase access to the national transportation system.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants for specified use, provided on a reimbursable basis. Grant funds can be used to cover a variety of expenses depending on the approved project. For example, funds can be expended for marketing, advertising or promotional activities associated with current or new or existing air service, studies designed to measure air service deficiencies, or to measure traffic loss or diversion to other communities; and employment or use of consulting firms, universities, public relations firms, and new, dedicated air service development staff. In addition, grant funds may be used for financial incentives, including revenue guarantees to cover the air carrier's prospective operating loss, or to ground service providers in providing access to air transportation services.

Applicant Eligibility:

The following eligibility criteria apply:

1. The airport serving the community is not larger than a small hub airport, according to FAA hub classifications effective on the date of service of the Departments RFP Order (for 2016, March 28, 2016), or as of calendar year 1997, the airport serving the community was not larger than a small hub airport;
2. The community has insufficient air carrier service or unreasonably high air fares,
3. The airport serving the community presents characteristics, such as geographic diversity or unique circumstances that demonstrate the need for, and feasibility of, grant assistance from the Small Community Program;
4. An applicant may not receive an additional grant to support the same project from a previous grant;
5. An applicant may not receive an additional grant, prior to the completion of its previous grant;
6. No more than 4 communities or consortia of communities, or a combination thereof, from the same State may be selected to participate in the program in any fiscal year; and
7. No more than 40 communities or consortia of communities, or a combination thereof, may be selected to participate in the program in each year for which the funds are appropriated.

In addition to the statute, the Department applies the following eligibility conditions:

Communities without existing air service. Communities that do not currently have commercial air service are eligible.

Essential Air Service communities. Small communities that meet the basic SCASDP criteria and currently receive subsidized air service under the Essential Air Service (EAS) program are eligible to apply for SCASDP. However, grant awards to EAS-subsidized communities are limited to marketing or promotion projects that support existing or newly subsidized EAS. Grant funds will not be authorized for EAS-subsidized communities to support any new competing air service. Furthermore, no funds will be authorized to support additional flights by EAS carriers or changes to those carriers existing schedules. These restrictions are necessary to avoid conflicts with the mandate of the EAS program.

Alternate Essential Air Service communities. Small communities that meet the basic SCASDP criteria and currently receive assistance under the Alternate Essential Air Service Pilot Program (49 U.S.C. 41745(a)) are eligible to apply for SCASDP funds. Since the Alternate EAS Pilot Program is a substitute/alternative to traditional EAS, the Department considers applications from communities receiving assistance under the Alternate EAS Pilot Program only for marketing or promotion projects. If the community is already receiving Department support for marketing projects, per the community's proposal under the Alternate EAS Pilot Program, the community's project would not be considered for a SCASDP grant.

Consortium applications. The statute permits individual communities and consortia of communities to apply for grant awards under this program. An application from a consortium of communities must be one that seeks to facilitate the efforts of the communities working together toward a joint grant project. In other words, the application must set forth one grant project, with one joint objective, and establish one entity to ensure that the joint objective is accomplished according to the terms of a grant agreement. For example, several communities surrounding an airport may apply together to improve air services at that airport, with a joint objective of securing new or additional service to that airport. Or, surrounding airports may apply together in support of a regional plan to lower fares or reverse a decline in traffic.

Multiple Applications: A community may file only one application for a grant, either individually or as part of a consortium.

Prior grant recipients. Communities or members of a consortia, that were awarded grants in previous years and want to apply for a grant this year should be aware that they are precluded from seeking new funds for projects for which they have already received an award under the Small Community Program.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The legal sponsor of the proposed project must be a government entity. If the applicant is a public-private partnership, a public government member of the organization must be identified as the community's sponsor to receive project cost reimbursements. A community may designate only one government entity as the legal sponsor, even if it is applying as a consortium that consists of two or more local government entities. Private organizations may not be designated as the legal sponsor of a grant under the Small Community Program. The community has the responsibility to ensure that the recipient of any funding has the legal authority under state and local laws to carry out all aspects of the grant.

Credentials/Documentation:

Communities must apply for the grant program by submitting a project proposal with required data to justify its proposal in accordance with the Department-issued Request for Proposals. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. A request for proposals (RFP) soliciting applications from eligible communities is issued each year. The RFP can be accessed on the internet through <http://www.grants.gov>. Additionally, the solicitation is published in the Federal Register and served on the Council of Mayors, the National League of Cities, the National Governors Association, the National Association of State Aviation Officials, the Association of County Executives, the American Association of Airport Executives (AAAE), and the Airports Council International-North America (ACI).

Award Procedure:

Applications will be evaluated according to factors established in the RFP and under the guidance of the FAA Modernization and Reform Act of 2012, Public Law 112-95, and the Vision 100-Century in Aviation Reauthorization Act, Public Law 108-176.

Deadlines:

May 02, 2016 Applications due to www.grants.gov no later than 5:00 PM EDT on May 2, 2016.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Can vary from year to year. However, the target is to award grants within 120 days from the established application deadline.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

Renewals:

Application procedures are repeated each year. However, grant recipients are precluded by statute from seeking additional grants in support of the same project. A community can only have one Small Community Program grant at any time. 49 U.S.C. Section 41743(c)(4).

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

This program has no matching requirements.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The period of time for awards will vary with the complexity of the project. Minimum grant duration is one year. The statute limits use of grant funds for air carrier subsidy to a maximum period of three years. The same limitation applies to other forms of ongoing support for air carrier programs. Financial assistance is provided on a reimbursable basis; cash advances will not be made. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: quarterly.

Reports:

Quarterly progress reports, and a final report are required. Cash reports are not applicable. Each grantee must submit quarterly reports on the progress made during the previous quarter in implementing its grant project. In addition, each community will be required to submit a final report on its project to the Department, prior to release of the final 10% of the grant funding. Agency requires reimbursement request using electronic form that self calculates prorated government obligation. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. SCASDP also is subject to the A-123 review process.

Records:

The grant recipient is expected to retain all documents relevant to the grant award for a period of 3 years from completion of all projects undertaken pursuant to the Grant Agreement and receipt of final reimbursement from the Treasury.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Eleven awards were made to communities proposing a revenue guarantee and/or marketing support as means to attract new carriers, restore lost service or capacity, and/or provide air travelers with access to additional markets.

Two grants were made to be used by EAS communities to market their existing EAS service.

Three grants were made to communities to market existing air service at their airports. Fiscal Year 2016: All of the awards were made to communities proposing revenue guarantees, or revenue guarantees with marketing support, as a means to attract new service or to restore lost service. Fiscal Year 2017: N/A.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

There are two categories of selection criteria: Priority Selection Criteria and Secondary Selection Criteria. Applications that meet one or more of the priority selection criteria will be viewed more favorably than those that do not meet any priority selection criteria.

Priority Selection Criteria:

1. Air fares are higher than the national average air fares for all communities. The Department will compare the local community's air fares to the national average air fares for all similar markets. Communities with market air fares significantly higher than the national average air fares in similar markets will receive priority consideration. The Department calculates these fares using data from the Bureau of Transportation Statistics (BTS) Airline Origin and Destination Survey data. The Department evaluates all fares in all relevant markets that serve a SCASDP community and compares the SCASDP community fares to all fares in similar markets across the country. Each SCASDP applicant's air fares are computed as a percentage above or below the national averages. The report compares a community's air fares to the average for all other similar markets in the country that have similar density (passenger volume) and similar distance characteristics (market groupings). All calculations are based on 12-month ended periods to control for seasonal variation of fares.

2. The community or consortium will provide a portion of the cost of the activity from local sources other than airport revenue sources. DOT will consider whether a community or consortium proposes local funding for the proposed project. Applications providing proportionately higher levels of cash contributions from sources other than airport revenues will be viewed more favorably. Applications that provide multiple levels of contributions (state, local, airport, cash and in-kind contributions) will also be viewed more favorably.

3. The community or consortium has established or will establish a public-private partnership to facilitate air carrier service to the public. DOT will consider a community or consortium's commitment to facilitate air carrier service in the form of a public-private partnership. Applications that describe in detail how the partnership will actively participate in the implementation of the proposed project will be viewed more favorably.

4. The assistance will provide material benefits to a broad segment of the traveling public, including businesses, educational institutions, and other enterprises, whose access to the national air transportation system is limited DOT will consider whether the proposed project would provide, to a broad segment of the communities traveling public, important benefits relevant to the community. Examples include service that would offer new or additional access to a connecting hub airport, service that would provide convenient travel times for both business and leisure travelers that would help obviate the need to drive long distances, and service that would offer lower fares.

5. The assistance will be used in a timely manner The Department will consider whether a proposed project provides a well-defined strategic plan and reasonable timetable for use of the grant funds. In the Departments experience, a reasonable timetable for use of grant funds includes a year to complete studies, two years for marketing and promotion of the airport, community, carrier, or destination, and three years for projects that target a revenue guarantee, subsidy, or other financial incentives. Applicants are asked to describe how their projects can be accomplished within this timetable, including whether the airport and proposed air service provider have the requisite authorities and certifications necessary to carry out the proposed projects. In addition, because of this emphasis placed on timely use of funds, applicants proposing new service are asked to describe the airport and whether it can support the proposed service, including whether the airport holds, or intends to apply for, an airport operating certificate issued under 14 C.F.R. Part 139. Air service providers proposed for the new service must have met or be able to meet in a reasonably short period of time, all Department requirements for air service certification, including safety and economic authorities.

6. Multiple communities cooperate to submit a regional or multistate application to consolidate air service into one regional airport DOT will consider whether a proposed project involves a consortium effort to consolidate air service into one regional airport. This is a new statutory priority criterion, added pursuant to Section 429 of the FAA Modernization and Reform Act of 2012 (P.L. 112-95).

Secondary Selection Criteria:

1. Innovation DOT will consider whether an application proposes new and creative solutions to the transportation issues facing the community, including: the extent to which the applicants proposed solution(s) to solving the problem(s) is new or innovative, including whether the proposed project utilizes or encourages intermodal or regional solutions to connect passengers to the communitys air service (i.e., cost-effective inter/intra city passenger bus service, marketing of intermodal surface transportation options also available to air travelers, or projects that have a positive impact on travel and tourism); and whether the proposed project, if successfully implemented, could serve as a working model for other communities.

2. Community Participation DOT will consider whether an application has broad community participation, including: whether the proposed project has broad community support; and the communitys demonstrated commitment to and participation in the proposed project.

3. Location DOT will consider the location and characteristics of a community: the geographic location of each applicant, including the communitys proximity to larger centers of air service and low-fare service alternatives; the population and business activity, as well as the relative size of each community; and whether the communitys proximity to an existing or prior grant recipient could adversely affect either its proposal or the project undertaken by the other recipient.

4. Other Factors DOT will also consider: whether the proposed project clearly addresses the applicants stated problems; the communitys existing level of air service and whether that service has been increasing or decreasing; whether the applicant has a plan to provide any necessary continued financial support for the proposed project after the requested grant award expires; the grant amount requested compared with total funds available for all communities; the proposed federal grant amount requested compared with the local share offered; any letters of intent from airline planning departments or intermodal surface transportation providers on behalf of applications that are specifically intended to enlist new or expanded air service or surface transportation service in support of the air service in the community; whether the applicant has plans to continue with the proposed project if it is not self-sustaining after the grant award expires; and equitable and geographic distribution of available funds.

Full community participation is a key goal of this program as demonstrated by the statutes focus on local contributions and active participation in the project. Therefore, applications that demonstrate broad community support will be more attractive. For example, communities providing proportionately higher levels of cash contributions from other than airport revenues will have more attractive proposals. Communities that provide multiple levels of contributions (state, local, airport, cash and in-kind contributions) also will have more attractive proposals. Similarly, communities that demonstrate participation in the development and execution of the proposed air service project will enhance the attractiveness of their proposals.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Under this program, $1,500,000,000 was available through September 30, 2011, for the Department to make grants on a competitive basis for projects that would have a significant impact on the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region.

Projects eligible for funding provided under this program included, but were not limited to, highway or bridge projects eligible under title 23, United States Code, including interstate rehabilitation, improvements to the rural collector road system, the reconstruction of overpasses and interchanges, bridge replacements, seismic retrofit projects for bridges, and road realignments; public transportation projects eligible under chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code, included investments in projects participating in the New Starts or Small Starts programs that would expedite the completion of those projects and their entry into revenue service; passenger and freight rail transportation projects; and port infrastructure investments, including projects that connect ports to other modes of transportation and improve the efficiency of freight movement. The Department also used an amount not to exceed $200,000,000 for the purpose of paying the subsidy and administrative costs of projects eligible for federal credit assistance under chapter 6 of title 23, United States Code, if the Department finds that such use of the funds would advance the purposes of this program. In distributing funds available under this program, the Department must take measures to ensure an equitable geographic distribution of funds and an appropriate balance in addressing the needs of urban and rural communities. Grants provided under this program generally were not less than $20,000,000 and not greater than $300,000,000, however, the Department waived the $20,000,000 minimum grant size for the purpose of funding significant projects in smaller cities, regions, or States. Not more than 20 percent of the funds made available under this program would be awarded to projects in a single State. The grants for National Infrastructure Investments in the FY 2015 Appropriations Act are for capital investments in surface transportation infrastructure grants to be awarded to a State, local, or Tribal governments, including U.S. territories, tribal governments, transit agencies, port authorities, metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs), other political subdivisions of State or local governments, and multi-State or multijurisdictional groups applying through a single lead applicant on a competitive basis for surface transportation projects (including, but not limited to: (1) Highway or bridge projects eligible under title 23, United States Code; (2) public transportation projects eligible under chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code; (3) passenger and freight rail transportation projects; and (4) port infrastructure investments) that will have a significant impact on the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Under the FY 2015 Appropriations Act TIGER Discretionary Grants, $500,000,000 is available through September 30, 2017, for the Department to make grants on a competitive basis for projects that will have a significant impact on the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region. Projects eligible for funding provided under this program include, but are not limited to, highway or bridge projects eligible under title 23, United States Code, including interstate rehabilitation, improvements to the rural collector road system, the reconstruction of overpasses and interchanges, bridge replacements, seismic retrofit projects for bridges, and road realignments; public transportation projects eligible under chapter 53 of title 49, United States Code, including investments in projects participating in the New Starts or Small Starts programs that will expedite the completion of those projects and their entry into revenue service; passenger and freight rail transportation projects; and port infrastructure investments, including projects that connect ports to other modes of transportation and improve the efficiency of freight movement. The Department may also use an amount not to exceed $100,000,000 for the purpose of paying the subsidy and administrative costs of projects eligible for federal credit assistance under chapter 6 of title 23, United States Code, if the Department finds that such use of the funds would advance the purposes of this program. In distributing funds available under this program, the Department must take measures to ensure an equitable geographic distribution of funds and an appropriate balance in addressing the needs of urban and rural communities. Grants provided under this program shall generally be not less than $5,000,000 and not greater than $100,000,000, however, projects located in rural areas, the minimum grant size shall be $1,000,000. The FY 2015 Appropriations Act directs that not less than $100 million of the funds provided for TIGER Discretionary Grants be used for projects located in rural areas. Further, DOT will take measures to ensure an equitable geographic distribution of grant funds, an appropriate balance in addressing the needs of urban and rural areas, and investment in a variety of transportation modes. The Federal share of the costs for which an expenditure is made under this program may be up to 80 percent, however, the Department may increase the Federal share of costs above 80 percent for projects located in rural areas. The Department will give priority to projects that require a contribution of Federal funds in order to complete an overall financing package. The Department has developed selection criteria and requirements for this program. Information about selection criteria and requirements is available in the Departments Notice of Funding Availability that has been published the Federal Register (available at <http://www.transportation.gov/tiger/>). Grants provided under this program shall generally be not less than $5,000,000 and not greater than $100,000,000, however, projects located in rural areas, the minimum grant size shall be $1,000,000. The Federal share of the costs for which an expenditure is made under this program may be up to 80 percent, however, the Department may increase the Federal share of costs above 80 percent for projects located in rural areas. 100% of the funding is discretionary. These is credit assistance available under the Transportation Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act (TIFIA) loan program..

Applicant Eligibility:

State, local, and tribal governments, including U.S. territories, transit agencies, port authorities, metropolitan planning organizations (MPOs), other political subdivisions of State or local governments, and multi-State or multi-jurisdictional groups applying through a single lead applicant (for multi-jurisdictional groups, each member of the group, including the lead applicant, must be an otherwise eligible applicant as defined in this paragraph.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The ultimate benefits of this program may be received by, among others, States or local governments, transit agencies, builders/contractors/developers, major metropolises, and other urban, suburban, or rural areas.

Credentials/Documentation:

Recipients and their first-tier sub-awardees will be required to have a DUNS number (www.dnb.com) and a current registration in the Central Contractor Registration (www.ccr.gov) submitted as part of the submitted application. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Applicants must submit a complete application package through Grants.gov by the Application Deadline, which is April 29, 2016, at 8:00 p.m. EDT. Grants.gov Apply function will open on March 28, 2016, allowing applicants to submit applications. You are encouraged to submit applications in advance of the Application Deadline, but applications will not be evaluated, and selections for awards will not be made, until after the Application Deadline. Applications must be submitted through Grants.gov. To apply for funding through Grants.gov, you must be properly registered. Complete instructions on how to register and submit applications can be found at www.grants.gov. Please be aware that the registration process usually takes 2-4 weeks and must be completed before an application can be submitted. If interested parties experience difficulties at any point during the registration or application process, please call the Grants.gov Customer Support Hotline at 1-800-518-4726, Monday-Friday from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. EDT. Additional information on applying through Grants.gov is available in Information about Applying for Federal Grants through Grants.gov at www.transportation.gov/TIGER.

To help ensure that applicants submit only those applications that are most likely to align well with the departments selection criteria, each applicant may submit no more than three applications for consideration under the TIGER Discretionary Grant Program. While applications may include requests to fund more than one project, applicants should not bundle together unrelated projects in the same application for purposes of avoiding the three application limit that applies to each applicant. Please note that the three application limit applies only to applications where the applicant is the lead applicant, and there is no limit on applications for which an applicant can be listed as a partnering agency. Also, DOT will not count any application for a multistate project against the three application limit to the extent multiple states are partnering to submit the application.

Award Procedure:

DOT will award TIGER Discretionary Grants to projects that are well-aligned with one or more of the selection criteria and that satisfy the statutory distributional requirements while remaining as consistent as possible with the competitive ratings.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

TIGER Discretionary Grants will be awarded based on the selection criteria as outlined below. TIGER Discretionary Grants will be awarded based on the following selection criteria. There are two categories of selection criteria, Primary Selection Criteria and Secondary Selection Criteria. The Primary Selection Criteria include (1) Long-Term Outcomes and (2) Jobs Creation & Near-Term Economic Activity. The Secondary Selection Criteria include (1) Innovation and (2) Partnership. The Primary Selection Criteria are intended to capture the primary objective of the FY 2014 TIGER provisions of the FY 2014 Appropriations Act, which is to provide capital investments in surface transportation projects that will have a significant impact on the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region. The Secondary Selection Criteria are intended to capture the benefits of new and/or innovative approaches to achieving the programmatic objective. Information about selection criteria and requirements is available in the Departments Notice of Funding Availability that has been published the Federal Register <http://www.dot.gov/tiger/>.

1. Primary Selection Criteria:

DOT will give priority to projects that are ready to proceed quickly and have a significant impact on desirable long-term outcomes for the Nation, a metropolitan area, or a region. Applications that do not demonstrate a likelihood of significant long-term benefits in this criterion will not proceed in the evaluation process. The first five primary selection criteria are based on the priorities included in DOT's Strategic Plan for FY 2012- FY 2016. DOT is elevating project readiness as a primary selection criterion for this round of TIGER Discretionary Grants due to the legislatively-mandated timeline for obligation of TIGER Discretionary Grant funds. For more detail on DOT's long-term priorities, please refer to the Strategic Plan, which can be found at: http://www.dot.gov/sites/dot.dev/files/docs/990_355_DOT_StrategicPlan_5081owres.pdf. The long-term outcomes and readiness criteria that will be given priority are:

1. State of Good Repair: Improving the condition of existing transportation facilities and systems, with particular emphasis on projects that minimize life-cycle costs and improve resiliency. DOT will assess whether and to what extent (i) the project is consistent with relevant plans to maintain transportation facilities or systems in a state of good repair and address vulnerabilities; (ii) if left unimproved, the poor condition of the asset will threaten future transportation network efficiency, mobility of goods or accessibility and mobility of people, or economic growth; (iii) the project is appropriately capitalized up front and uses asset management approaches that optimize its long-term cost structure; and (iv) the extent to which a sustainable source of revenue is available for long-term operations and maintenance of the project.
2. Economic Competitiveness: Contributing to the economic competitiveness of the United States over the medium- to long-term by improving the national transportation system while creating and preserving jobs. DOT will assess whether the project will (i) improve long-term efficiency, reliability or cost-competitiveness in the movement of workers or goods, with a particular focus on projects that have a significant effect on reducing the costs of transporting export cargoes; (ii) increase the economic productivity of land, capital or labor at or between specific locations, particularly in Economically Distressed Areas; or (iii) result in job creation and practicable opportunities, particularly for low-income workers or for people in Economically Distressed Areas, and practicable opportunities for small businesses and disadvantaged business enterprises, including veteran-owned small businesses and service disabled veteran-owned small businesses.

3. Livability: Increasing transportation choices and access to transportation services for people in communities across the United States. DOT will consider whether the project furthers the six livability principles developed by DOT with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as part of the Partnership for Sustainable Communities. DOT will give particular consideration to the first principle, which prioritizes the creation of affordable and convenient transportation choices, particularly for economically disadvantaged populations, non-drivers, senior citizens, and persons with disabilities. Further, DOT will prioritize projects developed in coordination with land-use planning and economic development decisions, including through programs like TIGER II Planning Grants, the Department of Housing and Urban Developments Regional Planning Grants, or the Environmental Protection Agency's Brownfield Area-Wide Planning Pilot Program as well as technical assistance programs focused on livability or economic development planning.
4. Environmental Sustainability: Improving energy efficiency, reducing dependence on oil, reducing greenhouse gas emissions and benefitting the environment. DOT will assess the projects ability to (i) reduce energy use, air or water pollution; (ii) avoid adverse environmental impacts to air or water quality, wetlands, and endangered species; or (iii) provide environmental benefits, such as brownfield redevelopment, wetlands creation or improved habitat connectivity. Applicants are encouraged to provide quantitative information that demonstrates the existence of substantial existing transportation-related costs related to energy consumption and adverse environmental effects and evidence of the extent to which the project will reduce or mitigate those costs.
5. Safety: Improving the safety of U.S. transportation facilities and systems. DOT will assess the projects ability to reduce the number, rate, and consequences of surface transportation-related crashes, serious injuries, and fatalities among drivers and/or non-drivers in the United States or in the affected metropolitan area or region, and/or the projects contribution to the elimination of highway/rail grade crossings, the protection of pipelines, or the prevention of unintended releases of hazardous materials.
6. Project Readiness: For projects that receive funding in this round of TIGER, DOT is required to obligate funds to those projects by September 30, 2014, or the funding will expire. Priority will be given to projects that can meet all local, State, and federal requirements by June 30, 2014. This is a shorter period of time for obligation of funds than the comparable period for any prior round of TIGER, and is therefore a primary concern to DOT that will be treated as such during the evaluation and selection process. DOT will assess whether a project is ready to proceed rapidly upon receipt of a TIGER Discretionary Grant.

2. Secondary Selection Criteria(a) Innovation

Use of innovative strategies to pursue the long-term outcomes outlined above. DOT will assess the extent to which the project uses innovative technology (such as, intelligent transportation systems, dynamic pricing, value capture, rail wayside or on-board energy recovery, smart cards, active traffic management, or radio frequency identification) to pursue one or more of the long-term outcomes outlined above and/or to significantly enhance the operational performance of the transportation system. DOT will also assess the extent to which the project incorporates innovations in transportation funding and finance, leverages both existing and new sources of funding through both traditional and innovative means, and demonstrates how the TIGER grant would serve to complete the projects financing package and allow for expedited project completion. Further, DOT will consider the extent to which the project utilizes innovative practices in contracting, project delivery, congestion management, safety management, asset management, or long-term operations and maintenance. Projects integrating creative uses of technology to improve capacity or performance as part of an overall project to construct or replace traditional transportation facilities have been competitive in previous rounds, and DOT expects projects which intelligently use technology and other innovations to continue to be competitive..

(b) Partnership

Demonstrating strong collaboration among a broad range of participants, integration of transportation with other public service efforts, and/or projects that are the product of a robust planning process.

20.934 NATIONALLY SIGNIFICANT FREIGHT AND HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Fostering Advancements in Shipping and Transportation for the Long-term Achievement of National Efficiencies (FASTLANE) Grants

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Office of the Secretary (OST) Administration Secretariate, Department of Transportation

AUTHORIZATION:

The Fixing Americas Surface Transportation Act (FAST Act), Section 1105 Nationally Significant Freight and Highway Projects (NSFHP) program, Pub. L. 114-94, section 1105 (23 U.S.C. 117), Public Law 114-94, 23 U.S.C 117.

OBJECTIVES:

The Nationally Significant Freight and Highway Projects (NSFHP) program will provide Federal financial assistance to projects of national or regional significance.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The FAST Act authorizes the Nationally Significant Freight and Highway Projects program at $4.5 billion for fiscal years (FY) 2016 through 2020, including $800 million for FY 2016 to be awarded by DOT on a competitive basis to projects of national or regional significance that meet statutory requirements. NSFHP grants may be used for the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, acquisition of property (including land related to the project and improvements to the land), environmental mitigation, construction contingencies, equipment acquisition, and operational improvements directly related to system performance. NSFHP grants may also fund developmental phase activities, including planning, feasibility analysis, revenue forecasting, environmental review, preliminary engineering, design, and other preconstruction activities, provided the project meets statutory requirements including that they are based on the results of preliminary engineering. All projects funded with NSFHP grants must be reasonably expected to begin construction not later than 18 months after the date funds are obligated for the project. The Department will divide grants under the NSFHP program into large and small projects. For large projects, the FAST Act specifies that NSFHP grants must be at least $25 million. For small projects, the grants must be at least $5 million. For both large and small projects, maximum NSFHP awards may not exceed 60 percent of future eligible project costs. Ten percent of available funds, approximately $76 million in FY 2016, are reserved for small projects. Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit applications only for eligible award amounts. Pursuant to the FAST Act, not more than $500 million in aggregate of the $4.5 billion authorized for NSFHP grants over fiscal years 2016 to 2020 may be used for grants to freight rail, water (including ports), or other freight intermodal projects that make significant improvements to freight movement on the National Highway Freight Network. Only the non-highway portion(s) of multimodal projects count toward the $500 million maximum. Improving freight movement on the National Highway Freight Network may include shifting freight transportation to other modes, thereby reducing congestion and bottlenecks on the National Highway Freight Network. The Federal share for projects that count toward the $500 million maximum may fund only elements of the project that provide public benefit. Grade crossing and grade separation projects do not count toward the $500 million maximum for freight rail, port, and intermodal projects. The FAST Act directs at least 25 percent of the funds provided for NSFHP grants, $190 million in FY 2016, are to be used for projects located in rural areas, as defined in Section C.3.iv. If the Department does not receive enough qualified applications to fully award the 25 percent reserved for rural projects, the Department may use the excess funding for non-rural awards. DOT must consider geographic diversity among grant recipients, including the need for a balance in addressing the needs of urban and rural areas. The FAST Act allows an NSFHP grant recipient to use NSFHP funds granted to pay the subsidy and administrative costs necessary to receive credit assistance for the associated project under the Transportation Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act of 1998 (TIFIA) program. NSFHP Funding is limited to the list of eligible applicants for eligible projects as described in Section 1105 of the FAST Act. $800 million in NSFHP Funding is 100% Discretionary Grant Funding. The FAST Act allows an NSFHP grant recipient to use NSFHP funds granted to pay the subsidy and administrative costs necessary to receive credit assistance for the associated project under the Transportation Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act of 1998 (TIFIA) program.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible applicants for NSFHP grants are 1) a State or group of States; 2) a metropolitan planning organization that serves an urbanized area (as defined by the Bureau of the Census) with a population of more than 200,000 individuals; 3) a unit of local government or group of local governments; 4) a political subdivision of a State or local government; 5) a special purpose district or public authority with a transportation function, including a port authority; 6) a Federal land management agency that applies jointly with a State or group of States; 7) a tribal government or a consortium of tribal governments; or 8) a multi-State or multijurisdictional group of public entities. Multiple States or jurisdictions that submit a joint application must identify a lead applicant as the primary point of contact. Each applicant in a joint application must be an Eligible Applicant. Joint applications must include a description of the roles and responsibilities of each applicant and must be signed by each applicant.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 23, Chapter 202, Part 117, Public Law 114-94 section 1105. NSFHP grants may be used for up to 60 percent of future eligible project costs. Other Federal assistance may satisfy the non-Federal share requirement for an NSFHP grant, but total Federal assistance for a project receiving an NSFHP grant may not exceed 80 percent of the future eligible project costs. Unless otherwise authorized in statute, local cost-share that exceed the 80 percent Federal-share maximum will not be considered matching funds if the source of those funds is ultimately a Federal program. Non-Federal sources include State funds originating from programs funded by State revenue, local funds originating from State or local revenue funded programs, private funds or other funding sources of non-Federal origins. Funds from the Tribal Transportation Program (23 U.S.C. 202), TIFIA, a Federal land management agency, or other Federal source that is expressly authorized in statute may be used for the non-Federal share. Unless otherwise authorized in statute, local cost-share may not be counted as non-Federal share for both the NSFHP and another Federal program. For any project, the Department cannot consider previously incurred costs or previously expended or encumbered funds towards the matching requirement. Matching funds are subject to the same Federal requirements as awarded funds.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

FY 2016 NSFHP Funding must be awarded no later than September 30, 2016. Once awarded, the Department must obligate the awarded funding no later than September 30, 2019. Once the NSFHP Funding is obligated, the project sponsor will have until September 30, 2024, to expend all of the NSFHP awarded. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Funding can be awarded through the approval of an allocation of funding to a State Department of Transportation, a metropolitan planning organization, or through the successful execution of a grant agreement.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

30.001 EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION_ TITLE VII OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

AUTHORIZATION:

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-352), as amended, 42 U.S.C. section 2000e et seq.

OBJECTIVES:

Title VII prohibits employment discrimination against applicants or employees based on race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, gender and sexual orientation), and national origin. Title VII also prohibits retaliation against applicants or employees who oppose employment practices that discriminate based on race, color, religion, sex or national origin, who filing an employment discrimination charge, or who file a charge, testify, or participate in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under Title VII.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

ADVISORY SERVICES AND COUNSELING; Federal Employment; INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Individuals are protected from discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity and sexual orientation) and national origin by employers with 15 or more employees, including state and local governments, employment agencies, labor organizations and the federal government. The EEOC Assessment System, available at <https://egov.eeoc.gov/eas/>, enables individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding discrimination, harassment or retaliation. Charges of discriminatory employment practices can be filed at the field office by or on behalf of an individual or group of individuals claiming to be aggrieved. Mediation may be offered to the parties involved. If mediation is not used or is not successful, further investigation may ensue. If after its investigation the Commission does not find reasonable cause, the charging party is issued a right to sue letter to the party who filed the charge, giving him or her the right to file a civil action in federal court within 90 days. If the Commission determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that discrimination has occurred, it will attempt to resolve the charge informally through conciliation. If conciliation proves to be unsuccessful and the employer is not a state or local government, the Commission may bring a civil action against respondent(s) named in the charge or issue a right to sue letter to the party who filed the charge, giving him or her the right to file a civil action in federal court within 90 days. If conciliation fails on a charge against a state or local government, EEOC refers the case to the Department of Justice for consideration of litigation or issuance of a right to sue letter. A federal government applicant or employee who believes that his or her employment rights have been violated under this statute and wants to make a claim against a federal agency must file a complaint with that agency and follow the procedures set forth at 29 C.F.R. part 1614.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any aggrieved individual, or any individual, organization, or agency filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual, who has reason to believe that an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of Title VII, as amended, has been committed by an employer with 15 or more employees, a state or local government entity, an employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee controlling apprenticeship or other training or retraining, including on-the-job training programs. Any aggrieved individual who believes he or she has been retaliated against for opposing employment practices that discriminate, or who testifies, or participates in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under Title VII.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applicants, current employees, or former employees of the named respondent(s) who have been subjected to employment practices based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin by the named respondent(s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for opposing discrimination or participating in a Title VII investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

A claim of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made in person, by mail or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and/or notarized when necessary to meet state or local requirements. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons at all field offices of the Commission. Individuals may also consult EEOC's website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm> for detailed information about filing a charge. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office. Federal government applicants or employees should consult EEOC's website at http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed_employees/complaint_overview.cfm for details about filing an employment discrimination complaint against a federal agency. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. A charge may be filed by any aggrieved individual, any individual on behalf of an aggrieved individual, or by any organization, i.e., labor union, association, legal representative, etc., either as an aggrieved entity or on behalf of an aggrieved individual. Charges may be filed in person, by mail or by fax at the nearest field office of the EEOC. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office.

Award Procedure:

A charge is sufficient when the Commission receives from the person making the charge a written signed statement that includes an allegation of discrimination, the name(s) of the parties involved, and a request that the EEOC act to protect the applicant or employees rights or otherwise settle a dispute between the applicant or employee and the employer. The charge must also be verified either by oath or signed under penalty of perjury.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Title VII requires that charges be filed within 180 days of the date of the alleged violation or, within 300 days if the charge is also covered by a state or local anti-discrimination law and there is a state or local entity with the authority to enforce the law, or within 30 days after the receipt of notice of termination of state or local proceedings, whichever is earlier. If the evidence does not establish that discrimination occurred, charging parties will be given written notice of their right to sue. A charging party may file a lawsuit within 90 days after receiving a notice of a right to sue from EEOC, as stated above. Under Title VII, a charging party also can request a notice of right to sue from EEOC 180 days after the charge was first filed with the Commission, and may then bring suit within 90 days after receiving this notice. When a right to sue letter is issued at the request of the charging party, EEOC usually stops its investigation. Federal employees must generally contact the agency's EEO Counselor within 45 days from the date the discrimination occurred.

30.008 EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION_AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENTFEDERAL AGENCY:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

AUTHORIZATION:

Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967,(P.L. 90-202), as amended, 29 U.S.C. section 621 et seq.

OBJECTIVES:

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) prohibits discrimination based on age (40 or older) with respect to any term, condition, or privilege of employment, including hiring, firing, promotion, layoff, compensation, benefits, job assignments, training and harassment. The ADEA also prohibits retaliation against an individual for opposing employment practices that discriminate based on age or for filing an age discrimination charge, testifying, or participating in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under the ADEA.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

ADVISORY SERVICES AND COUNSELING; Federal Employment; INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Individuals 40 years of age or older are protected from age discrimination by employers with 20 or more employees, all state and local governments, employment agencies, labor organizations and the federal government. It is unlawful for covered employers to post advertisements indicating any preference, limitation, or specification based on age. Limited exceptions apply: in situations in which age is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operation of the business; in situations in which the differentiation is based on reasonable factors other than age; or if an otherwise prohibited practice is in observance of the terms of a bona fide seniority system or employee benefit plan (except that no such seniority system or employee benefit plan shall excuse the failure to hire, or require or permit the involuntary retirement of any covered individual). Exemptions and exceptions also apply for highly compensated employees, public officials, firefighters and law enforcement officers. The EEOC Assessment System, available at <https://egov.eeoc.gov/eas/>, enables individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding their specific claims of discrimination, harassment or retaliation. If a charge is filed, mediation may be offered to the parties involved. If mediation is not used or is not successful further investigation may ensue. The Commission will attempt to eliminate any alleged unlawful practice by informal methods of conciliation, conference and persuasion. If conciliation fails, the charging party will be notified that he or she can file a civil action within 90 days. If the Commission's proceedings with regard to a charge are terminated, the Commission will notify the complainant who shall then have the right to bring a civil action within 90 days.

A federal government applicant or employee who believe that his or her employment rights have been violated under this statute and wants to make a claim against a federal agency must file a complaint with that agency and follow the procedures set forth at 29 C.F.R. part 1614.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any aggrieved individuals age 40 and over, or any individual, organization, or agency filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual who has reason to believe that a covered employer has committed an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of the ADEA, as amended.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applicants, current employees, or former employees of the named respondent(s) who are age 40 or older and who have been subjected to unlawful employment practices based on age by the named respondent(s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for opposing age discrimination, filing a charge of discrimination, or participating in an ADEA investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

An allegation of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made in person, by mail or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and notarized when necessary to meet state or local requirements. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons from all field offices of the Commission. Individuals may also consult EEOCs website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm> for detailed information about filing a charge. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office. Federal government applicants or employees should consult EEOCs website at http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed_employees/complaint_overview.cfm for details about filing an employment discrimination complaint against a federal agency. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. A charge may be filed by any aggrieved individual or by any organization, i.e. labor union, association, legal representative, etc., either as an aggrieved entity or on behalf of an aggrieved individual. Charges may be filed in person, by mail or by fax at the nearest field office of the EEOC.

Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office.

Award Procedure:

A charge is sufficient when the Commission receives from the person making the charge a written signed statement that includes an allegation of discrimination, the name(s) of the parties involved, and a request that the EEOC act to protect the applicant or employees rights or otherwise settle a dispute between the applicant or employee and the employer.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The ADEA requires that charges be filed within 180 days of the date of the alleged violation, within 300 days if the charge is also covered by a state or local anti-discrimination law and a state or local entity enforcing the law, or within 30 days after the receipt of notice of termination of state proceedings, whichever is earlier. A civil action may be commenced at any time 60 days after a charge has been filed with the EEOC. If the evidence does not establish that discrimination occurred, charging parties will be given written notice of their right to sue. A charging party may file a lawsuit within 90 days after receiving a notice of a right to sue from EEOC, as stated above. If the charging party files an ADEA lawsuit, EEOC usually stops its investigation.

Federal employees must generally contact the agency's EEO Counselor within 45 days from the date the discrimination occurred.

30.010 EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION EQUAL PAY ACT

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

AUTHORIZATION:

Equal Pay Act of 1963, (P.L. 88-38), as amended, 29 U.S.C. section 206(d).

OBJECTIVES:

The Equal Pay Act (EPA) prohibits sex discrimination in the payment of wages to men and women performing jobs that require substantially equal skill, effort and responsibility, under similar working conditions within the same establishment. The EPA also prohibits retaliation against applicants or employees who oppose compensation practices that discriminate based on sex or who file a discrimination charge, testify, or participate in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under the EPA.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

ADVISORY SERVICES AND COUNSELING; Federal Employment; INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Employers engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce (i.e. subject to The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, 29 U.S.C. 201, et seq.), including the federal government, and state and local governments, are prohibited from paying unequal wages to men and women performing jobs that require substantially equal skill, effort and responsibility, under similar working conditions, and within the same establishment. Labor organizations representing employees of a covered employer are prohibited from causing or attempting to cause employers to violate the Act. Exceptions are permitted only where payment is made pursuant to a seniority system, a merit system, a system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production, or a differential based on any other factor other than sex. The EEOC Assessment System, available at <https://egov.eeoc.gov/eas/>, enables individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding their specific claim of wage discrimination or retaliation. The Commission may investigate allegations of violations of the Act and may initiate and conduct litigation. A federal government applicant or employee who believes that his or her employment rights have been violated under this statute and wants to make a claim against a federal agency must file a complaint with that agency and follow the procedures set forth at 29 C.F.R. part 1614.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any aggrieved individual, or any individual, organization, or agency filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual, who has reason to believe that a covered employer has committed an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of the EPA. An employee who believes he or she has been retaliated against for opposing compensation practices that discriminate based on sex or who files a discrimination charge, testifies, or participates in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under the EPA.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applicants, current employees, or former employees of the named respondent (s) who have been subjected to unlawful compensation practices based on gender by the named respondent (s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for filing a charge of discrimination, for opposing gender-based compensation discrimination or participating in an EPA investigation, proceeding, or for litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

The EPA does not require aggrieved parties to file a charge of discrimination with EEOC before filing a private lawsuit. However, since many EPA claims also raise Title VII sex discrimination issues, it may be advisable to file a charge of discrimination under both laws within the appropriate time limit (see section on Deadlines 095). An allegation of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made in person, by mail or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and/or notarized when necessary to meet state or local requirements. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons from all field offices of the Commission. Individuals may also consult EEOCs website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm> for detailed information about filing a charge. Complaints against the Federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office. Federal government applicants or employees should consult EEOCs website at http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed_employees/complaint_overview.cfm for details about filing an employment discrimination complaint against a federal agency. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. The EPA does not require aggrieved parties to file a charge of discrimination with EEOC before filing a private lawsuit. However, since many EPA claims also raise Title VII sex discrimination issues, it may be advisable to file a charge of discrimination under both laws within the appropriate time limit (see section on the range of approval/disapproval times). A charge may be filed by any aggrieved individual, any individual on behalf of an aggrieved individual, or by any organization, i.e., labor union, association, legal representative, etc., either as an aggrieved entity or on behalf of an aggrieved individual. Charges may be filed in person, by mail or by fax at the nearest EEOC field office. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office.

Award Procedure:

A charge is sufficient when the Commission receives from the person making the charge a written signed statement that includes an allegation of discrimination, the name(s) of the parties involved, and a request that the EEOC act to protect the applicant or employee's rights or otherwise settle a dispute between the applicant or employee and the employer.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The EPA does not require aggrieved parties to file a charge of discrimination with EEOC before filing a private lawsuit. The time limit for filing an EPA charge with the EEOC and the time limit for going to court are the same: within two years of the alleged unlawful compensation practice or in the case of a willful violation, within three years. However, since many EPA claims also raise Title VII sex discrimination issues, it may be advisable to file a charge of discrimination under both laws within the appropriate time limit. (Title VII requires that charges be filed within 180 days of the date of the alleged violation, or within 300 days if the charge is also covered by a state or local anti-discrimination law and there is a state or local entity with authority to enforce the law, or within 30 days after the receipt of notice of termination of state or local proceedings, whichever is earlier.) A charging party may file a lawsuit within 90 days after receiving a notice of a right to sue from EEOC, as stated above. Under Title VII, a charging party also can request a notice of right to sue from EEOC 180 days after the charge was first filed with the Commission, and may then bring suit within 90 days after receiving this notice. When a right to sue letter is issued at the request of the charging party, EEOC usually stops its investigation. Federal employees must generally contact the agency's EEO Counselor within 45 days from the date the discrimination occurred.

30.011 EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION_TITLE I OF THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

AUTHORIZATION:

Americans with Disabilities Act, Title I & V, as amended Public Law 101-336, Public Law 110-325 42, U.S.C. 12101-12117; 12201-12213; Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, 29 U.S.C. 791-794a.

OBJECTIVES:

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) prohibits employment discrimination against applicants or employees based on disability. The ADA also prohibits retaliation against an individual for opposing employment practices that discriminate based on disability or for filing a discrimination charge, testifying, or participating in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under the ADA. The Rehabilitation Act provides federal employees with the same protections.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

ADVISORY SERVICES AND COUNSELING; Federal Employment; INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Individuals are protected from discrimination on the basis of disability by employers with 15 or more employees, state and local governments, employment agencies, and labor organizations. Federal employees and applicants are covered under section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which applies the same standards as the ADA. The EEOC Assessment System, available at <https://egov.eeoc.gov/eas/>, enables individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding their specific claims of discrimination, harassment or retaliation. Charges of discriminatory employment practices can be filed by or on behalf of an individual or group of individuals claiming to be aggrieved. Mediation may be offered to the parties involved. If mediation is not used or is not successful, further investigation may ensue. If after its investigation, the Commission does not find reasonable cause, the charging party is issued a right to sue letter and may file a lawsuit within 90 days. If the Commission determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that discrimination has occurred, it will attempt to resolve the charge informally through conciliation. If conciliation proves to be unsuccessful and the employer is not a state or local government, the Commission may bring a civil action against respondent(s) named in the charge or issue a right to sue letter to the charging party who may then file a civil action in federal court within 90 days. If conciliation fails on a charge against a state or local government, EEOC refers the case to the Department of Justice for consideration of litigation or issuance of a right to sue letter.

A Federal employment applicant or employee who believes that his or her employment rights have been violated under Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act must file a complaint with that agency and follow the procedures set forth at 29 C.F.R. part 1614.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any aggrieved individual, or any individual, or any organization, or agency filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual, who has reason to believe that an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of Title I of the ADA has been committed by an employer with 15 or more employees, including state or local governments, an employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee controlling apprenticeship or other training or retraining, including on-the-job training programs. Any aggrieved individual who believes he or she has been retaliated against for opposing employment practices that discriminate based on disability or who files an ADA charge, testifies, or participates in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under the ADA. Federal employees are protected from disability discrimination under section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applicants, for employment, current employees, and former employees of the named respondent(s) in a charge who have been subjected to unlawful employment practices based on disability by the named respondent (s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for filing a charge of discrimination, for opposing disability discrimination or for participating in an ADA or Rehabilitation Act investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

A claim of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made in person, by mail or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and/or notarized when necessary to meet State or local requirements. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons from all field offices of the Commission. 30.013 EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION-TITLE II OF THE GENETIC INFORMATION NONDISCRIMINATION ACT OF 2008

GINA Title II

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

AUTHORIZATION:

The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008, Title II, Public Law 110-233, 42 U.S.C 2000ff.

OBJECTIVES:

Title II of GINA prohibits the use of genetic information in making employment decisions, restricts employers and other entities covered by Title II (employment agencies, labor organizations and joint labor-management training and apprenticeship programs) from requesting, requiring or purchasing genetic information, and strictly limits the disclosure of genetic information. Title II of GINA also prohibits retaliation against applicants or employees for filing a charge of discrimination, participating in a discrimination proceeding (such as a discrimination investigation or lawsuit), or otherwise opposing discrimination. Genetic information includes information about an individual's genetic tests and the genetic tests of an individual's family members, as well as information about the manifestation of a disease or disorder in an individual's family members (i.e. family medical history). Genetic information also includes an individual's request for, or receipt of, genetic services, or the participation in clinical research that includes genetic services by the individual or a family member of the individual, and the genetic information of a fetus carried by an individual or by a pregnant woman who is a family member of the individual and the genetic information of any embryo legally held by the individual or family member using an assisted reproductive technology.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Advisory Services and Counseling; Federal Employment; Investigation of Complaints

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Individuals are protected from discrimination on the basis of genetic information by employers with 15 or more employees, federal agencies, employment agencies, labor organizations, and joint labor-management training and apprenticeship programs. The EEOC has an assessment tool, available at <https://egov.eeoc.gov/eas/>, to enable individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding discrimination, harassment, or retaliation at the hands of a private sector employer or state or local government. Charges of discriminatory employment practices by a private sector employer or a state or local government can be filed by or on behalf of an individual or group of individuals claiming to be aggrieved. Mediation may be offered to the parties involved. If mediation is not used or is not successful, an investigation may ensue. If, after its investigation, the Commission determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that discrimination has occurred, it will attempt to resolve the charge informally through conciliation. If conciliation proves to be unsuccessful and the employer is not a state or local government, the Commission may bring a civil action against the respondent(s) named in the charge or issue a right to sue letter to the party who filed the charge, giving him or her the right to file a civil action in federal court. If conciliation fails on a charge against a state or local government, EEOC refers the case to the Department of Justice for consideration of litigation or issuance of a right to sue letter. If based upon its investigation, the EEOC is unable to conclude that the information obtained establishes violations of the statutes, the charge is dismissed and the charging party is issued a Notice of Right to Sue. This does not certify that the respondent is in compliance with the statutes.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any aggrieved individual, or any individual, labor union, association, legal representative, or organization filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual, who has reason to believe that an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of Title II of GINA has been committed by an employer, federal agency, an employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee controlling apprenticeship or other training or retraining, or on-the-job training programs. Any aggrieved individual who believes that he or she has been retaliated against for opposing employment practices that discriminate on the basis of genetic information or who files a charge of discrimination, testifies, or participates in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under Title II of GINA.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applicants, current employees, or former employees of the named respondent(s) who have been subjected to employment practices based on genetic information by the named respondent(s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for filing a charge of discrimination, opposing discrimination or participating in a Title II of GINA investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

A claim of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made in person, by mail, or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and verified; the charge may also need to be notarized when required by state or local laws. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons from field offices of the Commission. Individuals may also consult EEOCs website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm> for detailed information about filing a charge. Federal government applicants or employees should consult EEOCs website at http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed_employees/complaint_overview.cfm for details about filing an employment discrimination complaint against a federal agency. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. A charge may be filed by any aggrieved individual, any individual on behalf of an aggrieved individual, or by any organization, i.e., labor union, association, legal representative, etc., either as an aggrieved entity or on behalf of an aggrieved individual. Charges may be filed in person, by mail, or by fax at the nearest field office of the EEOC. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office.

Award Procedure:

A charge is sufficient when the Commission receives from the person making the charge a written signed statement that includes an allegation of discrimination, the name(s) of the parties involved, and a request that the EEOC act to protect the applicant or employees rights or otherwise settle a dispute between the applicant or employee and the employer.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Title II of GINA requires that charges be filed within 180 days of the date of the alleged violation, within 300 days if the charge is also covered by a state or local anti-discrimination law, or within 30 days of receipt of notice of termination of state or local proceedings, whichever is earlier. If the evidence does not establish that discrimination occurred, charging parties will be given written notice of their right to sue. A charging party may file a lawsuit within 90 days after receiving a notice of a right to sue from the EEOC. Under Title II of GINA, a charging party also can request a notice of right to sue from EEOC 180 days after the charge was first filed with the Commission, and may then bring suit within 90 days after receiving this notice. When a right to sue letter is issued at the request of the charging party, EEOC usually stops its investigation. Federal job applicants or employees must generally contact the agency's EEO Counselor within 45 days from the date the discrimination occurred.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: 15-PA/I-001
Architectural Glass Institute (AGI)
IUPAT District Council 21

Glaziers Local Union 252 (LU252)
Architectural Glass and Metal Association (AGMA)
Philadelphia, PA
Amount awarded: $104,410

Problem: There is a need to create and provide tools and programs that reinforce the collaboration and communication among design and construction professionals. This project will utilize collaborative efforts to promote the use of glazing systems installed by AGI contractors and craft workers.

Strategy: Provide discussion forums and team building programs for labor and management personnel. Establish a peer group between specification writers and glazing contractor estimating personnel. Develop technical tools and programs to assist the architectural/engineering community in the design of glazing systems. Redevelop AGIs website and implement a social media strategy that promotes the use of glazing systems installed by AGI contractors and craftworkers. Attend a glazing conference focused on global innovations in glass technology to further the development of the glass and glazing industry in the U.S.

Results: Data collected through the forum with AGI stakeholders will enable AGI to assess and expand the scope and amount of work performed by AGI contractors and their workforce. Also the project will provide support to retain those markets by demonstrating the value of collaboration for the industry's competitiveness, on-time completion of work, quality of work, shop supervision as well as workers cooperation, training and professionalism.

15-IL/I-002
Helen Miller Member Education and Training Center
Service Employees International Union Health Care Illinois & Indiana (SEIU HCLC)
Chicago, IL
Amount awarded: $116,536

Problem: There is a need to engage front-line hospital employees and hospital managements in jointly identifying areas for improvement to transition health care delivery into new, performance-based systems that reward patient satisfaction, successful health care outcomes and efficient delivery of services.

Strategy: Identify those hospital functions, performed by front-line hospital workers, that are not delivering desirable patient health care outcomes, patient satisfaction results or efficient delivery of services as measured by health care outcomes metrics. Prioritize which problematic functions are most likely to be amenable to improvement or other cost savings through discussion and review of the experience of other hospitals. Outline strategies/changes needed to accomplish improvements, again using relevant information from other hospitals. Expected strategies will include specific types of staff training, changes to protocols and procedures and new/different resources.

Results: The partnership projects will lead to stronger performance on value-based purchasing (and HCAHPS scores) and performance metrics; this will lead to reduction of payment reimbursement penalties by Medicare and Medicaid.

15-DC/I-003
International Association of Fire Fighters (IAFF)
International Association of Fire Chiefs (IAFC)
Washington, DC
Amount Awarded: $111,629

Problem: The traditional adversarial labor-management relationship that had characterized fire departments for nearly 50 years was proving to be less than fully satisfying for the fire chief, the union-represented workers, the government, the fire service, and the community. Good labor-management and customer relations are crucial to ensuring that the fire department leaders have maximum impact on decisions that affect their working environment, health and safety.

Strategy: Highly experienced and successful fire chief and union-represented firefighter leaders facilitate this program to help fire departments build and enhance positive, cooperative labor-management relationships. The labor-management initiative (LMI)-labor-management alliance (LMA) is recommended for new fire chiefs and union leaders to help them build a comprehensive foundation in this vital area. This technical assistance program is designed for fire departments that need a baseline competency in labor-management concepts, tools, best practices and principles. It will consist of a labor-management leadership personality intake, scheduling two days of facilitated discussion, followed by another two days after an interim six-month period.

Results: Engage at least nine (9) departments via the LMI-LMA program to ensure departments that lack an engaged labor-management relationship begin productive communications. Recognize that labor-management must be constantly engaged with the mutual goal of ensuring the well-being and safety of fire/EMS personnel and providing high quality service to the public.

15-IL/I-004
Manufacturing Renaissance
Chicago Federation of Labor
Chicago, IL
Amount awarded: $82,500

Problem: The manufacturing sector (NAICS 31-33) has seen a dramatic shift in the number of U.S. manufacturing jobs due to global competition, the infusion of new technologies and cost cutting efforts. From 1979 to 2009, manufacturing employment fell by 41 percent and manufacturing wages have remained historically stagnant. This, in turn, has negatively impacted communities, schools, local services, and the ability of workers to provide for their families.

Strategy: Hire a managing director to manage projects and lead recruitment of employers, labor organizations, educational institutions, community leaders and government participants. Develop a five-year strategic plan outlining deliverables and activities needed to bolster manufacturing employment and industry reputation in the Chicago area. Develop outreach and recruitment plans targeted at manufacturing businesses, labor organizations, community groups, government agencies and educational institutions.

Results: Build strategic, public-private partnerships focused on creating a vision for advanced manufacturing in the 21st century. Foster healthy communities by developing collaborative, locally tailored programs to fuel manufacturing innovation and competitiveness. Help to create a society that is economically, socially and environmentally sustainable, and ultimately restorative through manufacturing competitiveness and jobs.

15-MI/PS-005
Michigan Technological University
United Auto Workers Local 5000 (UAW)
Office of WorkLife Connections
Houghton, MI
Amount awarded: $22,750

Problem: Career advancement opportunities for union-represented clerical or administrative support staff are limited at many higher education institutions, in part due to rapidly changing competency needs within the field. Additionally, challenges relating to effective work-life integration, faced by clerical and administrative staff, contribute to the difficulty such staff face in developing and advancing in their careers at Michigan Technological University.

Strategy: Form a collaborative Labor-Management Staff Mentoring Programming Committee to develop a campus-wide staff mentoring program. The project envisions a program modeled after a whole-life approach to career progression through partnership with union-represented clerical and administrative support staff at Michigan Tech. Professional development does not occur in isolation but in the context of the employees personal and family needs, which change over the life course (Litano and Major, 2015).

Results: Develop a staff mentoring program and mentor training program, based on the Whole-Life Model of Career Progression. Recruit and train a cohort of 10-15 new staff mentors. Develop outreach programming for supervisors and managers. Provide advanced training to key Michigan Tech employees who are identified as integral to implementing and maintaining the mentor program. Proactively share the Michigan Tech adaptation of the whole-life approach with the outside community.

Harrisburg, PA
Amount awarded: $103,915

Problem: Nursing homes are being inundated with standards, regulations, best practice guidelines for efficient processes, and many other obligations or recommendations set forth by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and the Affordable Care Act (ACA) that are intended to improve patient safety but can have a potentially negative impact on the flow of work if labor and management are not communicating.

Strategy: Create and train a Quality Assurance and Performance Improvement (QAPI) committee at each participating facility that includes both management and front-line staff members. Committee members will be required to attend a 3-day kick-off training focused on communication, collaboration, and an introduction to process improvement tools. Each QAPI committee will identify a specific topic(s) to address based on each committees identification of an ideal area in need of process improvement.

Results: With front-line worker engagement in the QAPI committees, the three (3) facilities will improve employee satisfaction, work flow and patient outcomes; improve results on a DOH survey; and have a more positive assessment of labor-management relationships by workers and management. Measurable, successful results will be demonstrated by factors such as waste reduction.

15-NY/I-007

Shortman, Thomas Training Scholarship and Safety Fund
Local 32BJ Service Employees International Union (SEIU)
Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations
New York, NY
Amount awarded: $103,390

Problem: The City of Pittsburgh recently passed The Safe and Secure Building Act, requiring all security officers to attend 40 hours of pre-employment training and 8 hours of annual refresher training. The Act also requires that other building service workers, such as office cleaners and handypersons, receive 15 hours of safety and security awareness training. This legislation will impact thousands of workers and require rigorous training.

Strategy: Collaboratively develop, deliver and evaluate the training program for Pittsburgh. Create a committee that first will provide an environment conducive for relationship building, allowing labor and management representatives to work together on topics presenting a progression of complexity. A program coordinator and the Shortman staff will educate the committee on existing training models in use with similar populations in other locations across the country to better shape a program in Pittsburgh.

Results: Create ways for security contractors new to the union environment to come up to speed quickly to meet the needs of the employers, workers and the city of Pittsburgh. After initial security officer and cleaner service training pilots, incorporate results from an industry needs assessment to shape the final industry-wide curriculum. Use committee approved curriculum to train 220 security officers and 360 office cleaners. The end result of this committee will be to engage stakeholders to create professionalized security/cleaning industry curricula and training program framework that is uniquely suited to address the needs of the industry in Pittsburgh.

15-PA/I-008

Three Rivers Area Labor Management Committee (TRALMC)
Pittsburgh, PA
Amount awarded: $105,925

Problem: There is a lack of a labor-management collaborative approach for contractors and unions to resolve issues of mutual concern and the absence of a prescribed cooperative process for guiding the implementation of specific construction projects.

Strategy: TRALMC will form a new building and construction industry committee that will oversee the implementation of Built-Rite, as a subordinate committee of TRALMC. Other labor-management committees will help shape the new committee. The local FMCS office will assign a Commissioner to attend meetings, provide necessary training and serve on the subordinate labor-management committee of TRALMC.

Results: TRALMC will provide opportunities for contractors, unions and users to become more aware of issues that affect the regions construction industry. Participants in the process will become more aware of issues such as safety protocols, future construction opportunities, job training resources and the overall economic climate of the region. The Built-Rite program will enhance communication on construction projects with a focus on improving project outcomes. Built-Rite projects will be accomplished with better safety outcomes, better quality outcomes and better on-time and on-budget results. Fiscal Year 2016: $400,000. Fiscal Year 2017: 5,000,000.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program where they will be reviewed if they meet NSF proposals preparation requirements. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with the oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officers discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal.

All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board (NSB)-approved merit review criteria: intellectual merit and the broader impacts of the proposed effort. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities.

The two NSB-approved merit review criteria are listed below. The criteria include considerations that help define them. These considerations are suggestions and not all will apply to any given proposal. While proposers must address both merit review criteria, reviewers will be asked to address only those considerations that are relevant to the proposals being considered and for which the reviewer is qualified to make judgments. Relevant questions are: (1) What is the intellectual merit of the proposed activity?; (2) How important is the proposed activity to advancing knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields?; (3) How well qualified is the proposer (individual or team) to conduct the project? (If appropriate, the reviewer will comment on the quality of the prior work.); (4) To what extent does the proposed activity suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?; (5) How well conceived and organized is the proposed activity?; (6) Is the sufficient access to resources?; (7) What are the broader impacts of the proposed activity?; (8) How well does the activity advance discovery and understanding while promoting teaching, training, and learning?; (9) How well does the proposed activity broaden the participation of underrepresented groups (e.g., gender, ethnicity, disability, geographic, etc.)?; (10) To what extent will it enhance the infrastructure for research and education, such as facilities, instrumentation, networks, and partnerships?; (11) Will the results be disseminated broadly to enhance scientific and technological understanding?; and (12) What may be the benefits of the proposed activity to society?

NSF staff will give careful consideration to the following in making funding decisions:

Integration of Research and Education One of the principal strategies in support of NSF's goals is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions provide abundant opportunities where individuals may concurrently assume responsibilities as researchers, educators, and students and where all can engage in joint efforts that infuse education with the excitement of discovery and enrich research through the diversity of learning perspectives. Integrating Diversity into NSF Programs, Projects, and Activities Broadening opportunities and enabling the participation of all citizens—women and men, underrepresented minorities, and persons with disabilities—is essential to health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports.

OBJECTIVES:

To promote the progress of the mathematical and physical sciences and thereby strengthen the Nation's scientific enterprise; to increase the store of scientific knowledge and enhance understanding of major problems confronting the Nation. Most of the research supported is basic in character. The program includes support of research project grants in the following disciplines: astronomical sciences, chemistry, materials research, mathematical sciences, physics, as well as support for symposia and conferences. Basic research in multidisciplinary areas related to these disciplines is especially encouraged. Support is also provided for state-of-the-art user facilities in astronomy, physics, and many areas of materials science; science and technology centers; institutes; undergraduate student research; faculty enhancement; curriculum development; instrumentation; laboratory improvement; and for research opportunities for women, minority, and disabled scientists and engineers.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds may be used for paying costs necessary to conduct research or studies, such as salaries and wages, permanent equipment, expendable materials and supplies, travel, participant support; publication costs, and other direct and indirect costs. Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution; the principal investigator is responsible for the scientific work. Funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the proposal.

Applicant Eligibility:

Except where a program solicitation establishes more restrictive eligibility criteria, individuals and organizations in the following categories may submit proposals: Universities and colleges; Non-profit, non-academic organizations; for-profit organizations; State and local governments; and unaffiliated individuals. See the NSF Grant Proposal Guide, Chapter I.E. for a full description of eligibility requirements: <http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pubsumm.jsp?odskey=gpg>.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Not applicable.

Credentials/Documentation:

Proposals must be signed electronically by an official authorized to commit the institution or organization in business and financial affairs and who can commit the organization to certain proposal certifications. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular Nos. A-21 (2 CFR Part 220) for educational institutions, No. A-87 (2 CFR Part 225) for State and local governments, and A-122 (2 CFR Part 230) for nonprofit organizations. Applicants for fellowship support must show evidence of ability such as academic records, letters of recommendation, graduate record examination scores, and grade point average. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination may be required. Environmental impact information may be required for this program. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. By electronic submission via FastLane or Grants.gov of a formal proposal, and, in some programs, a preliminary proposal, describing the planned project and the proposed amount of the grant. For guidelines, see specific funding opportunities and the Grant Proposal Guide; <http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pubsumm.jsp?odskey=gpg>.

Award Procedure:

NSF staff members review and evaluate all proposals based on a set of criteria established by the National Science Board and, if applicable, solicitation-specific review criteria. In most cases reviews are undertaken with the advice of scientist, engineers, educators, and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the fields covered by the proposals. NSF makes awards on a competitive basis. Notification of an award is transmitted electronically to the submitting organization by a NSF Grants and Agreements Officer in the Division of Grants and Agreements.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

After scientific, technical and programmatic review and consideration of appropriate factors, the NSF Program Officer recommends to the cognizant Division Director whether the proposal should be declined or recommended for award. NSF is striving to be able to tell applicants whether their proposals have been declined or recommended for funding within six months. The time interval begins on the deadline or target date, or receipt date, whichever is later.

The interval ends when the Division Director accepts the Program Officer's recommendation.

Appeals:

The principal investigator may request, in writing, within 90 days of a declination or return, that NSF reconsider its action in declining or returning any proposal or application.

Renewals:

A renewal proposal competes with all other proposals and must be developed fully as though the proposer is applying for the first time. Renewal proposals must be submitted at least six months before additional funding is required or consistent with an established deadline, target date or submission window. Principal investigators are encouraged to discuss renewal proposals with the NSF program officer prior to submission.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

This program has no matching requirements. Mandatory cost sharing will only be required for NSF programs when explicitly authorized by the NSF Director, the National Science Board, or legislation. In those rare instances, cost sharing requirements will be clearly identified in the program solicitation. Inclusion of voluntary, committed cost sharing is prohibited.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Award duration of up to 5 years. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: Standard or continuing grant, fellowship, or cooperative agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included as GPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundations merit review process is available on the NSF website at:

<http://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/meritreview/>.

Proposal review is one step in the NSF program planning and implementation process. Embedded in this process are core strategies that are fundamental to the fulfillment of NSF's mission. More information about NSF's mission and strategies can be found in Empowering the Nation Through Discovery and Innovation: NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2011-2016. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities.

A. Merit Review Principles and Criteria

The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes. NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects.

1. Merit Review Principles

These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply:

All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge.

NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified.

Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities.

These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria

All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities.

The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (GPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d.(i) contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal.) Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including GPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d.(i), prior to the review of a proposal.

When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria:

Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes.

The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria:

1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to:
 - a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and
 - b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)?
2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?
3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success?
4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities?
5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities?.

Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular Nos. A-21 (2 CFR Part 220) for educational institutions, No. A-87 (2 CFR Part 225) for State and local governments, and A-122 (2 CFR Part 230) for nonprofit organizations. Applicants for fellowship support must show evidence of ability such as academic records, letters of recommendation, graduate record examination scores, and grade point average. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination may be required. Environmental impact information may be required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. By electronic submission via FastLane or Grants.gov of a formal proposal, and in some programs, a preliminary proposal, describing the planned project and the proposed amount of the grant. For guidelines, see specific funding opportunities and the Grant Proposal Guide: http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pub_summ.jsp?ods_key=gpg.

Award Procedure:

NSF staff members review and evaluate all proposals based on a set of criteria established by the National Science Board and, if applicable, solicitation-specific review criteria. In most cases reviews are undertaken with the advice of scientists, engineers, educators, and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the fields covered by the proposals. NSF makes awards on a competitive basis. Notification of an award is transmitted electronically to the submitting organization by a NSF Grants and Agreements Officer in the Division of Grants and Agreements.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

After scientific, technical and programmatic review and consideration of appropriate factors, the NSF Program Officer recommends to the cognizant Division Director whether the proposal should be declined or recommended for award. NSF is striving to be able to tell applicants whether their proposals have been declined or recommended for funding within six months. The time interval begins on the deadline or target date, or receipt date, whichever is later. The interval ends when the Division Director accepts the Program Officer's recommendation.

Appeals:

The principal investigator may request, in writing, within 90 days of a declination or return, that NSF reconsider its action in declining or returning any proposal application.

Renewals:

A renewal proposal competes with all other proposals and must be developed fully as though the proposer is applying for the first time. Renewal proposals must be submitted at least six months before additional funding is required or consistent with an established deadline, target date or submission window. Principal investigators are encouraged to discuss renewal proposals with the NSF Program Officer prior to submission.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. This program has no matching requirements. Mandatory cost sharing will only be required for NSF programs when explicitly authorized by the NSF Director, the National Science Board, or legislation. In those rare instances, cost sharing requirements will be clearly identified in the program solicitation. Inclusion of voluntary, committed cost sharing is prohibited. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included as GPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundations merit review process is available on the NSF website at:

<http://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/meritreview/>.

Proposal review is one step in the NSF program planning and implementation process. Embedded in this process are core strategies that are fundamental to the fulfillment of NSF's mission. More information about NSF's mission and strategies can be found in Empowering the Nation Through Discovery and Innovation: NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2011-2016. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities.

A. Merit Review Principles and Criteria

The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes. NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects.

1. Merit Review Principles

These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply:

All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge.

NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified.

Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities.

These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria

All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities.

The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (GPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d.(i) contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal.) Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including GPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d.(i), prior to the review of a proposal.

When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria:

Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes.

The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria:

1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to:
 - a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and
 - b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)?
2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?
3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success?

4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities?

5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities?.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program where they will be reviewed if they meet NSF proposals preparation requirements. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with the oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officers discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal.

All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board (NSB)-approved merit review criteria: intellectual merit and the broader impacts of the proposed effort. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities.

The two NSB-approved merit review criteria are listed below. The criteria include considerations that help define them. These considerations are suggestions and not all will apply to any given proposal. While proposers must address both merit review criteria, reviewers will be asked to address only those considerations that are relevant to the proposals being considered and for which the reviewer is qualified to make judgments. Relevant questions are: (1) What is the intellectual merit of the proposed activity?; (2) How important is the proposed activity to advancing knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields?; (3) How well qualified is the proposer (individual or team) to conduct the project? (If appropriate, the reviewer will comment on the quality of the prior work.); (4) To what extent does the proposed activity suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?; (5) How well conceived and organized is the proposed activity?; (6) Is the sufficient access to resources?; (7) What are the broader impacts of the proposed activity?; (8) How well does the activity advance discovery and understanding while promoting teaching, training, and learning?; (9) How well does the proposed activity broaden the participation of underrepresented groups (e.g., gender, ethnicity, disability, geographic, etc.)?; (10) To what extent will it enhance the infrastructure for research and education, such as facilities, instrumentation, networks, and partnerships?; (11) Will the results be disseminated broadly to enhance scientific and technological understanding?; and (12) What may be the benefits of the proposed activity to society?

NSF staff will give careful consideration to the following in making funding decisions:

Integration of Research and Education One of the principal strategies in support of NSF's goals is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions provide abundant opportunities where individuals may concurrently assume responsibilities as researchers, educators, and students and where all can engage in joint efforts that infuse education with the excitement of discovery and enrich research through the diversity of learning perspectives. Integrating Diversity into NSF Programs, Projects, and Activities Broadening opportunities and enabling the participation of all citizens women and men, underrepresented minorities, and persons with disabilities is essential to health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program where they will be reviewed if they meet NSF proposals preparation requirements. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with the oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officers discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal.

All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board (NSB)-approved merit review criteria: intellectual merit and the broader impacts of the proposed effort. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities.

The two NSB-approved merit review criteria are listed below. The criteria include considerations that help define them. These considerations are suggestions and not all will apply to any given proposal. While proposers must address both merit review criteria, reviewers will be asked to address only those considerations that are relevant to the proposals being considered and for which the reviewer is qualified to make judgments. Relevant questions are: (1) What is the intellectual merit of the proposed activity?; (2) How important is the proposed activity to advancing knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields?; (3) How well qualified is the proposer (individual or team) to conduct the project? (If appropriate, the reviewer will comment on the quality of the prior work.); (4) To what extent does the proposed activity suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?; (5) How well conceived and organized is the proposed activity?; (6) Is the sufficient access to resources?; (7) What are the broader impacts of the proposed activity?; (8) How well does the activity advance discovery and understanding while promoting teaching, training, and learning?; (9) How well does the proposed activity broaden the participation of underrepresented groups (e.g., gender, ethnicity, disability, geographic, etc.)?; (10) To what extent will it enhance the infrastructure for research and education, such as facilities, instrumentation, networks, and partnerships?; (11) Will the results be disseminated broadly to enhance scientific and technological understanding?; and (12) What may be the benefits of the proposed activity to society?

NSF staff will give careful consideration to the following in making funding decisions:

Integration of Research and Education One of the principal strategies in support of NSF's goals is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions provide abundant opportunities where individuals may concurrently assume responsibilities as researchers, educators, and students and where all can engage in joint efforts that infuse education with the excitement of discovery and enrich research through the diversity of learning perspectives. Integrating Diversity into NSF Programs, Projects, and Activities Broadening opportunities and enabling the participation of all citizens—women and men, underrepresented minorities, and persons with disabilities—is essential to health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports.

47.076 EDUCATION AND HUMAN RESOURCES

(EHR)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Science Foundation

AUTHORIZATION:

National Science Foundation Act of 1950, as amended, 42 U.S.C 1861 et seq.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide leadership and ensure the vitality of the Nation's science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education enterprise. The Education and Human Resources (EHR) component of the National Science Foundation sponsors programs that support the development of models and strategies for providing all students with access to high-quality STEM education, and research about those models and strategies. In addition EHR supports scholarships and fellowships for STEM students. The portfolio of EHR programs in STEM education comprises efforts spanning pre-K to 12, undergraduate, graduate and post-doctoral levels, as well as informal education and life-long learning. Long-term goals include: supporting infrastructure and institutional capacity building that will enable development of high-quality educational experiences for all students; ensuring that our educational pathways yield an adequately educated and diverse corps of individuals for the highly technical workplace, the professional STEM community, and society; developing a cadre of professionally educated and well-trained teachers and faculty; and providing the research necessary to inform and improve educational practice. Many EHR programs are conducted in partnership with NSF's other directorates. Programs include research and development support for improving STEM learning and learning environments, including learning technologies, both in formal and informal learning settings; STEM workforce development, including the development of teachers; and broadening participation. EHR programs are subject to continuous improvements based on program reviews, evaluation, dissemination of best practices, and educational research.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds may be used for costs necessary to conduct research, educational activities or studies, including salaries and expenses, permanent equipment, expendable materials and supplies, travel, publication costs, and other direct and indirect costs. Some programs provide funds for undergraduate scholarships managed by the awardee institution. Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution. Funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the award. Graduate fellowships provide for stipends and allowances to be paid to the awardee through his/her institution; a fixed cost-of-education allowance is paid directly to the institution.

Applicant Eligibility:

Except where a program solicitation establishes more restrictive eligibility criteria, individuals and organizations in the following categories may submit proposals: Universities and colleges; Non-profit, non-academic organizations; For-profit organizations; State and local governments; and unaffiliated individuals. See the NSF Grant Proposal Guide Chapter I.E. for a full description of eligibility requirements:

<http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pubsumm.jsp?odskey=gpgg>.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Not applicable.

Credentials/Documentation:

Proposals must be signed electronically by an official authorized to commit the institution or organization in business and financial affairs and who can commit the organization to certain proposal certifications. Applicants for fellowship support must show evidence of ability such as academic records, letters of recommendation, graduate record examination scores, and grade point average. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination may be required. Environmental impact information may be required for this program. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. By electronic submission via FastLane or Grants.gov of a formal proposal, and in some programs, a preliminary proposal, describing the planned project and the proposed amount of the grant. For guidelines, see specific funding opportunities and the Grant Proposal Guide: <http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pubsumm.jsp?odskey=gpgg>.

Award Procedure:

NSF staff members review and evaluate all proposals based on a set of criteria established by the National Science Board and, if applicable, solicitation-specific review criteria. In most cases reviews are undertaken with the advice of scientists, engineers, educators and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the fields covered by the proposals. External reviewers, who are conversant with the fields covered by the applications, review and evaluate all graduate fellowship applications. NSF makes awards on a competitive basis. Notification of an award is transmitted electronically to the submitting organization by a NSF Grants and Agreements Officer in the Division of Grants and Agreements.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

After scientific, technical and programmatic review and consideration of appropriate factors, the NSF Program Officer recommends to the cognizant Division Director whether the proposal should be declined or recommended for award. NSF is striving to be able to tell applicants whether their proposals have been declined or recommended for funding within six months. The time interval begins on the deadline or target date, or receipt date, whichever is later. The interval ends when the Division Director accepts the Program Officer's recommendation.

Appeals:

The principal investigator may request, in writing, within 90 days of a declination or return, that reconsider its action in declining or returning any proposal or application.

Renewals:

A renewal proposal competes with all other proposals and must be developed fully as though the proposer is applying for the first time. Renewal proposals must be submitted at least six months before additional funding is required or consistent with an established deadline, target date or submission window. Principal investigators are encouraged to discuss renewal proposals with the NSF Program Officer prior to submission.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. This program has no matching requirements. Mandatory cost sharing will only be required for NSF programs when explicitly authorized by the NSF Director, the National Science Board, or legislation. In those rare instances, cost sharing requirements will be clearly identified in the program solicitation. Inclusion of voluntary, committed cost sharing is prohibited. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Award durations of up to 5 years. Method of awarding assistance: Standard or continuing grant, fellowship, or cooperative agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Information about reporting requirements is contained in the Award and Administration Guide: <http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pubsumm.jsp?odskey=aag>. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. These institutions provide abundant opportunities where individuals may concurrently assume responsibilities as researchers, educators, and students and where all can engage in joint efforts that infuse education with the excitement of discovery and enrich research through the diversity of learning perspectives. Integrating Diversity into NSF Programs, Projects, and Activities Broadening opportunities and enabling the participation of all citizens women and men, underrepresented minorities, and persons with disabilities is essential to health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included as GPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundations merit review process is available on the NSF website at:

<http://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/meritreview/>. Proposal review is one step in the NSF program planning and implementation process. Embedded in this process are core strategies that are fundamental to the fulfillment of NSF's mission. More information about NSF's mission and strategies can be found in Empowering the Nation Through Discovery and Innovation: NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2011-2016. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. A. Merit Review Principles and Criteria; The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes. NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles; These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project.

With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria. All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (GPG Chapter II.C.2.d.(i) contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal.) Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including GPG Chapter II.C.2.d.(i), prior to the review of a proposal.

When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria:

Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes.

The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria:

1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to: a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)?
2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts?
3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success?
4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities?
5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities?.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution; the project director or principal investigator is responsible for the execution of the research activities. Grants are made on a competitive basis. For all programs, funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the proposal. EPSCoR Funds may be used to pay the costs of conducting research, product development, resources, tools and services, as salaries and wages, equipment and supplies, travel, publication costs, other direct costs, and indirect costs. Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution. Funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the proposal.

Applicant Eligibility:

For non-EPSCoR grants, except where a program solicitation establishes more restrictive eligibility criteria, individuals and organizations in the following categories may submit proposals: Universities and colleges; Non-profit, non-academic organizations; For-profit organizations; State and local governments; and unaffiliated individuals. See the NSF Grant Proposal Guide, Chapter I.E., for a full description of eligibility requirements: http://www.nsf.gov/publications/pub_summ.jsp?ods_key=gpg.

EPSCoR eligibility is based on two primary considerations: (1) a jurisdiction's demonstrated commitment to develop its research bases and to improve the quality of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) research conducted at its universities and colleges, and (2) a jurisdiction's most recent three-year history of research funds awarded by NSF relative to the Foundations total research budget for that same period. Regarding the second consideration, a jurisdiction is eligible to participate in EPSCoR programs if its level of research support is equal to or less than 0.75 percent of the total NSF research budget for that same period. Adjustments are made in the rare instances where a single large NSF-funded national or international facility skews the data.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Except where a program solicitation establishes more restrictive eligibility criteria, individuals and organizations in the following categories may submit proposals: Universities and colleges; Non-profit, non-academic organizations; for-profit organizations; State and local governments; and unaffiliated individuals. A portion of the funding also helps Easter Seals expand their Veteran outreach services deeper into rural Maine.

The Nebraska Association of Local Health Directors trains local health departments and community organizations to address Veteran-specific needs, so they can provide more comprehensive, patient-centered care to Veterans and their families. Project coordinators also link Veterans to other benefits.

The New Mexico Department of Veteran Services arranges job counseling, benefits advice, and free mental health services to transitioning Veterans and their families. 64.051 SPECIALLY ADAPTED HOUSING ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY GRANT PROGRAM

Specially Adapted Housing Assistive Technology (SAHAT) Grant Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs

AUTHORIZATION:

Veterans Benefits Act of 2010 , Public Law 111-275, 38 U.S.C 2108.

OBJECTIVES:

Pursuant to the Veterans Benefit Act of 2010, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs (Secretary), through the Loan Guaranty Service (LGY) of the Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA), is authorized to provide grants of financial assistance to develop new assistive technology. The objective of the grant, known as the Specially Adapted Housing Assistive Technology (SAHAT) Grant Program, is to encourage the development of new assistive technologies for specially adapted housing.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) acknowledges there are many emerging technologies that could improve home adaptations or otherwise enhance a Veterans or Servicemembers ability to live independently, such as voice-recognition and voice-command operations, living environment controls, and adaptive feeding equipment. Therefore, VA has defined new assistive technology as an advancement the Secretary determines could aid or augment the ability of a Veteran or Servicemember to live in an adapted home. Grantees will be expected to leverage grant funds to plan, develop, manage, and implement new assistive technologies for specially adapted housing.

Since the new program would also be open to individuals and private entities, some of the applicants will not meet the definition of non-Federal entity or recipient, as defined under part 200, and certain provisions of part 200 may not be applicable to all applicants in this technology grant program. Where the Secretary determines a provision is not applicable or where the Secretary determines that additional requirements are necessary due to the uniqueness of a situation, the Secretary would apply the same standard applicable to exceptions under 2 CFR 200.102.

Although part 200 does not define the term exception, Sec. 200.102 is clear that an exception can relax an existing requirement or make additional, more restrictive requirements on a participant. Section 200.102 requires that if an exception is more restrictive on a certain class of participants than that which is otherwise provided in part 200, VA must receive approval from OMB. If an exception is less restrictive than what is provided in part 200, Sec. 200.102 authorizes VA to grant the exception on a case-by-case basis. It is impossible to anticipate every way in which the Secretary can or should exercise oversight authority. The purpose of this provision is to ensure that a loophole in a regulation does not unduly hinder the Secretary's ability to protect the public interest or prevent private individuals or organizations from participating because of technicalities related to oversight.

Applicant Eligibility:

As authorized by 38 U.S.C. 2108, the Secretary may award grants to a person or entity for the development of specially adapted housing assistive technologies. In order to foster competition and best serve the needs of Veterans and Servicemembers, VA is placing no restrictions on the types of eligible entities outside of threshold criteria listed in the NOFA.

All technology grant recipients, including individuals and entities formed as for-profit entities, will be subject to the rules of the Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Agreements With Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and other Non-profit Organizations, as found at 2 CFR Part 200. Where the Secretary determines that 2 CFR Part 200 is not applicable or where the Secretary determines that additional requirements are necessary due to the uniqueness of a situation, the Secretary will apply the same standard applicable to exceptions under 2 CFR 200.102.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Projects funded under this announcement must involve new assistive technologies the Secretary determines could aid or enhance the ability of a Veteran or Servicemember to live in an adapted home. However, projects funded under this announcement must not be used for the completion of activities which were to have been completed under a prior grant.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicants shall provide proof of individual or organizational ability to engage in the development of assistive technologies for specially adapted housing. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

The VA will publish, in the Federal Register, Grants.Gov, or authorized equivalent, a notice of funding availability, soliciting applications for the grant program and information on applications for requesting eligibility to receive grant funds. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. The VA will publish, in the Federal Register, Grants.Gov, or authorized equivalent, a notice of funding availability, soliciting applications for the grant program and information on applications for requesting eligibility to receive grant funds. Environmental impact information is not required for this program.

Forms furnished by VA must be used for the program. Applications will only be accepted when received within the timeframe and meeting the requirements described in a notice of funding availability published in the Federal Register.

Award Procedure:

Formal approval of the award of assistance is made by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs or those staff with delegated authority. Pursuant to 36 CFR 36.4412, each VA employee appointed to or lawfully fulfilling any of the following positions is hereby delegated authority, within the limitations and conditions prescribed by law, to exercise the powers and functions of the Secretary with respect to the SAHAT Grant Program authorized by 38 U.S.C. 2108:

1. Under Secretary for Benefits
2. Deputy Under Secretary for Economic Opportunity
3. Director, Loan Guaranty Service
4. Deputy Director, Loan Guaranty Service.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 30 to 60 days.

Appeals:

Decisions of the Secretary are final and the Secretary does not have a duty to assist technology grant applicants in obtaining a grant.

Renewals:

Renewal grants to provide new assistive technology will not be considered under this announcement.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program. This program has no matching requirements. There is no cost sharing, matching, or cost participation for the SAHAT Grant Program. However, leveraged resources will be considered as an evaluation criterion during the application review process. Leveraged resources are not included in the approved budget for the project and need not be an eligible and allowable cost under the grant. Any form of proposed leveraging that is evaluated must be included in the application and the application must describe how the technology grant applicant will obtain the leveraged resources and what role VA funding will play in the overall project. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Length-of-time limitations are established in the notice of funding availability. Grantees will receive payments electronically through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Payment Management System (HHS PMS). Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Reports:

PAYMENTS TO STATES FOR PROGRAMS TO PROMOTE THE HIRING AND RETENTION OF NURSES AT STATE VETERANS HOMES

FEDERAL AGENCY:

VA Health Administration Center, Department of Veterans Affairs

AUTHORIZATION:

Title 38: Pensions, Bonuses, and Veterans' Relief Chapter 1, Part 53, Title 38, Part 53, Section 101.

OBJECTIVES:

In accordance with the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 1744, this part sets forth the mechanism for a State to obtain payments to assist a State Veterans Home (SVH) in the hiring and retention of nurses for the purpose of reducing nursing shortages at that SVH.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

- (a) VA will make payment to a State Veterans Home (SVH) for an employee incentive program to reduce the shortage of nurses at the SVH, when the following conditions are met:
- (1) The State representative applies for payment in accordance with the provisions of 53.20;
 - (2) The SVH receives per diem payments from VA under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 1741 for one or more of the following: Adult day health care, domiciliary care, or nursing home care;
 - (3) The SVH has a nursing shortage that is documented by credible evidence, including but not limited to SVH records showing nursing vacancies, SVH records showing nurse overtime use, and reports documenting that nurses are difficult to hire in the local area and difficult to retain as employees at the SVH;
 - (4) The SVH does not use payments under this part to pay for all or part of a nurse's standard employee benefits, such as salary, health insurance, or retirement plan;
 - (5) The SVH provides to the Director, Geriatrics and Extended Care Operations, documentation establishing that it has an employee incentive program that:
 - (i) Is likely to be effective in promoting the hiring and retention of nurses for the purpose of reducing nursing shortages at that home, and
 - (ii) Is in operation or ready for immediate implementation if VA payments are made under this part;
 - (6) The payment amount applied for by the State is no more than 50 percent of the funding for the employee incentive program during the Federal fiscal year;
 - (7) The SVH employee incentive program includes a mechanism to ensure that an individual receiving benefits under the program works at the SVH as a nurse for a period commensurate with the benefits provided, and, insofar as possible, the program is designed to eliminate any nursing shortage at the SVH within a 3-year period from the initiation of VA payments;
 - (8) The SVH, if it received payments under this part during a previous Federal fiscal year, has met the reporting requirements of 53.31(a) regarding such payments;
 - (9) The SVH credits to its employee incentive program any funds refunded to the SVH by an employee because the employee was in breach of an agreement for employee assistance funded with payments made under this part and the SVH credits the amount returned as a non-Federal funding source; and
 - (10) The project does not involve the construction, acquisition, expansion, remodeling or alteration of the SVH.
- (b) VA intends to allow flexibility and innovation in determining the types of employee incentive programs at SVHs eligible for payments. Programs could include such things as the provision of short-term scholarships for continuing nursing education, sign-on bonuses for nurses, student loan forgiveness programs, and improvements to working conditions. In determining whether an employee incentive program is likely to be effective, VA will consider any information available, including past performance of the SVH's program funded by payments made under this part.

Applicant Eligibility:

(a) To apply for payments during a Federal fiscal year, a State representative must submit to VA, in accordance with 53.40, a completed VA Form 10-0430 and documentation specified by the form (VA Form 10-0430 is available at VA medical centers and on the Internet at <http://www1.va.gov/geriatricsshg/> or may be obtained by contacting the Geriatrics and Extended Care Office at 202-461-6750, VHA Headquarters, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420). If the certification is based on a State law authorizing funds for the employee incentive program, a copy of the State law must be submitted with the certification.

(c) If an application does not contain sufficient information for a determination under this part, the State representative will be notified in writing (electronically and by mail) of any additional submission required and that the State has 30 calendar days from the date of the notice to submit such additional information or no further action will be taken. Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. Matching Requirements: The Clean Air Act does not prescribe a specific statutory funding formula but does direct that the factors of population, the extent and severity of the air pollution problem, and financial need, be considered in the allocation of available resources by the Agency. A revised allocation approach will be gradually implemented. State, Interstate, and Local programs may receive up to 60 % Federal funding for the total approved program costs. The Grantee must contribute a minimum of 40% as well as meet a maintenance of effort (MOE) requirement. The amount of Federal share of grant costs should be determined by reference to the criteria set forth in Section 105 of the Clean Air Act and in 40 CFR 35.145, 40 CFR 35.146, and 40 CFR 147. Not more than 10 % of the funds available shall be granted for air pollution control programs in any one State. Not less than one-half of one % of the funds are to be made available as a minimum to a State (overall) for application. However, award of these levels of funds will be made only if the agencies within the State meet the requirements of the Act and grant regulations. For Indian Tribes establishing eligibility pursuant to Section 35.573, the Regional Administrator may provide financial assistance in an amount up to 95 % of the approved costs of planning, developing, establishing, or improving an air pollution control program, and up to 95 % of the approved costs of maintaining that program. After 2 years from the date of each Tribe's initial grant award, the Regional Administrator will reduce the maximum federal share to 90 %, as long as the Regional Administrator determines that the Tribes meet certain economic indicators that would provide an objective assessment of the tribe's ability to increase its share. This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. This program does have a maintenance of effort (MOE) requirement which requires that a recipient's recurring expenditures must meet or exceed the level of the prior year's recurring expenditures.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The terms of the grant shall be determined at time of award. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Assistance agreements may be fully funded by a lump sum or funded incrementally (quarterly).

Reports:

EPA includes reporting requirements for grants and cooperative agreements in the terms and conditions of the agreements. Agreements may require quarterly, interim, and final progress reports, and financial, equipment, and invention reports. Grant and administrative reporting requirements Programmatic reporting requirements are outlined in the Uniform Grants Guidance 2 CFR 200 and in the applicable national program manager annual guidance. Requirements for the evaluation of recipient performance are discussed in 40 CFR 35.115.

Grantees are required to submit program reports in accordance with Agency policy and the Monitoring and Reporting Program Performance requirements stated in Uniform Grants Guidance 2 CFR 200. Grantees are required to submit financial reports in accordance with Agency policy and the Financial Reporting and Financial Management Systems requirements stated in Uniform Grants Guidance 2 CFR 200. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Annual emissions estimates are used as one indicator of the effectiveness of our programs. Between 1980 and 2014, gross domestic product increased 147 percent, vehicle miles traveled increased 97 percent, energy consumption increased 26 percent, and U.S. population grew by 41 percent. During the same time period, total emissions of the six principal air pollutants dropped by 63 percent. Between 1980 and 2013, CO2 emissions increased by 17 percent. Each year EPA tracks the levels of these pollutants in the air and how much of each pollutant (or the pollutants that form them) is emitted from various pollution sources. The agency looks at these numbers year after year to see how the pollutants have changed over time. EPA posts the results of our analyses at www.epa.gov/airtrends. Fiscal Year 2016: Not available. Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Continuing program grants are provided to State, Local and Tribal air pollution control agencies for the purpose of operating programs that plan and implement activities to achieve ambient air quality standards. These programs cover: planning for attainment of updated national air quality standards including fine particulates and ozone; state implementation plan development; ambient monitoring; emission inventories; air and emissions modeling; source permitting; certain compliance and enforcement activities related to mobile and non-Title V stationary and area sources; public outreach and education activities; development and implementation of air quality regulations; implementation of market-based, early action compacts and other innovative air pollution reduction or prevention strategies; technical training; risk and data analyses; information management; and program evaluation, progress reporting and other program operation and maintenance activities. Fiscal Year 2016: Not available. Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The criteria for awarding air pollution control program assistance grants are provided in the 1990 Clean Air Act, Section 105, and set forth in State and local assistance grant regulations (40 CFR 35). Some of the criteria considered for award include the following: 1) No grant may be awarded unless the program contained in the grant application meets the requirements of Section 35.140 (program purposes and associated regulations) and has been approved by the Regional Administrator. Sections 35.104 and 35.107 describe what an agency needs to do to prepare an adequate application. This usually includes the use of annual program technical and grant guidance from EPA and is generally done in consultation with the EPA Regional Office. 2) No grant may be awarded until the Regional Administrator has consulted with the official designated by the Governor(s) of the State(s) affected by such award pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Clean Air Act. Such consultation should consider the role of the applicant in the enforcement of any applicable implementation plan and confirm that the applicant's program will be generally compatible with the objectives of the applicable implementation plan. 3) The requirements of this Section shall not apply to Indian Tribes that have established eligibility pursuant to Section 35.573 and intertribal agencies made up of such Tribes. 4) No grant may be awarded unless the Regional Administrator has determined that the agency has adequate air pollution control authority and necessary regulations to implement such authority. The evaluation and selection criteria for competitive awards under this CFDA description will be described in the competitive announcement.

66.032 STATE INDOOR RADON GRANTS (SIRG)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Office of Air and Radiation, Environmental Protection Agency

AUTHORIZATION:

OBJECTIVES:

Title III of the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA), the Indoor Radon Abatement Act (IRAA), Section 306, authorizes EPA to assist States and Federally Recognized Indian Tribes to develop and implement programs to assess and mitigate radon-related lung cancer risk. In FY 2014 EPA will encourage state and tribal grant recipients to work collaboratively with their (non-EPA) Federal Departments and Agencies participating in the Federal Radon Action Plan (FRAP) - http://www.epa.gov/radon/action_plan.html.

Projects should also focus on addressing environmental justice (EJ) concerns in communities. EJ is the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people regardless of race, color, national origin, or income with respect to the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies

Funding Priority FY 2016

In FY 2016 the State Indoor Radon Grant (SIRG) program continues to emphasize radon risk reduction through increased action by home buyers and sellers, homeowners, real estate professionals, radon services professionals, homebuilders, tribes, non-governmental organizations, Federal, state and local governments, and non-governmental organizations. Projects funded by SIRG should focus on achieving the following outcomes:

- Homes built to include radon-reducing features, especially in high-radon potential areas,
- Reducing radon in existing homes to below 4pCi/L through mitigation, and
- Building new schools to include radon-reducing features, and reducing radon in existing schools to below 4pCi/L.

To achieve these outcomes and increase results, the SIRG program aims to: (1) improve the effectiveness of state-local/tribal radon programs; (2) focus on high radon potential areas, especially for new home building, building code adoption, and green and healthy homes programs; (3) encourage testing and mitigation within residential property transfers; and (4) encourage SIRG recipients to be strategic in their risk reduction efforts e.g., utilizing results data and information, by institutionalizing risk reduction practices and policies, and utilizing best practices

To achieve these outcomes and increase results, the SIRG program aims to: (1) improve the effectiveness of state-local/tribal radon programs; (2) focus on high radon potential areas, especially for new home building, building code adoption, and green and healthy homes programs; (3) encourage testing and mitigation within residential property transfers; and (4) encourage SIRG recipients to be strategic in their risk reduction efforts e.g., utilizing results data and information, by institutionalizing risk reduction practices and policies, and utilizing best practices.

Funding for these eligible activities may be used to develop State radon response programs. States may, at the Governor's direction, provide assistance to local governments for public information and educational materials, radon control programs and training. RESTRICTIONS: The statute places the following restrictions on the use of Federal funds: 1) SIRG recipients must perform satisfactorily in the preceding budget period to be eligible to receive additional funding; 2) State expenditures for measurement equipment/devices and mitigation demonstrations cannot exceed 50 percent of the grant amount in a budget period; 3) State expenditures for general overhead and program administration

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

About 90 days.

Appeals:

Disputes will be resolved under 2 CFR 1500 Subpart E, as applicable.

Renewals:

Renewals of awards will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Section 306 and the SIRG Program Handbook.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The SIRG program awarded 45 state and 8 tribal assistance agreements totaling $7,998,204; $7,727,204 to states, and $271,000 to tribes. In calendar year 2014, approximately 119,300 new single-family homes were built with radon-reducing features. Much of this progress resulted from work by coalitions and partnerships comprised of local governments, national and local non-profit organizations, industry, radon advocates and other leaders, homebuilders using radon-reducing features, and local governments adopting building codes to require radon-reducing features. The SIRG program continues to stress the importance of achieving and measuring results in: the number of homes, schools, and other buildings mitigated for radon; in the number of new homes and schools built with radon-reducing features. Recipients are required to include the SIRG results measures template in their work plans, and projects with clear risk reduction benefits are to be preferred over projects projected to have lesser risk reducing results. Persons and organizations looking for ways to participate in the national radon risk-reduction effort should visit www.RadonLeaders.org.

Accomplishments information for FY 2015 on homes mitigated may become available sometime in calendar 2016. Accomplishments information for FY 2015 on new homes built with radon-resistant features will become available in the first quarter of FY 2017. Fiscal Year 2016: Not available. OBJECTIVES:

To develop or recommend air quality implementation plans for air quality control regions designated pursuant to Section 106 (interstate pollution) or Section 111 (interstate ozone pollution) of the Clean Air Act of 1990.

The Ozone Transport Commission (OTC) will continue to provide a forum for the states within the Ozone Transport Region (New England and Middle Atlantic states) to develop and adopt air quality implementation plans for reducing ozone pollution pursuant to Section 106 of Section 111 of the Clean Air Act of 1990.

Funding Priority 2016

OTC brings together the States from Virginia to Maine, and Washington, D.C., to coordinate reductions in air pollution that benefit the entire region. The members of OTC are appointed by the Governors of these 12 States and the Mayor of Washington, D.C., and are typically the State Environmental Commissioner or Secretary for each jurisdiction, and the State Air Director.

These State officials have primary responsibility under the CAA for achieving the nation's ambient air quality standards, including the standard for ozone pollution which is caused by oxides of nitrogen and volatile organic compounds (NOx and VOC, respectively) emissions within the region and ozone transported into the region from non-OTC States. The Commission provides a forum through which States collaboratively develop and share air pollution inventories and analyses, and engage in developing harmonized regional ozone pollution reduction strategies.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The Modeling Committee continued development of the next generation, based in 2011, modeling platform. This platform corresponds with EPA's updated modeling platform and will use EPA data when appropriate to maintain consistency and reduce costs. The majority of the committee's work focused on processing the second version of EPA's emissions inventory for photochemical modeling.

The Stationary and Area Source (SAS) Committee and the Mobile Source (MSC) Committee continued to develop draft model rules for regional ozone control measures.

The Largest Contributor workgroup is working on analyzing emission inventory data to determine the sources and groups of sources that contribute to the ozone NAAQS in the Ozone Transport Region (OTR). The workgroup released a draft cost white paper for stakeholder comment detailing the associated cost of running existing controls on EGU's. Additionally, the workgroup looked into ICI boiler emissions to determine their impact on air quality in 2011 and projected to 2018.

OTC continued its coordination efforts with EPA to discuss state implementation plan development and related issues. Issues discussed with non-OTR states included the progress of ERTAC (the Eastern Regional Technical Advisory Committee) in developing a model of generation and emissions from electric generating units; how to coordinate among the RPOs on modeling work; and the need for federal measures to enable some OTC states attain the 2008 ozone standard and looking ahead to an revised 2015 Ozone NAAQS standard. Fiscal Year 2016: The OTC Modeling Committee continued to move forward with its work plan to fulfill the charge from the Commission from the OTC Fall 2015 meeting and assist the other Committees with modeling support. The OTC and its Committees activities have increased significantly given the nexus of continued development of recommendations to facilitate the work of OTC states to meet the 2008 ozone NAAQS, continued work to assist states on the 110(a)(2)(d) good neighbor provision of the CAA, working collaboratively on regionally significant national measures under development from EPA, planning for states and regional activities under the revised ozone standard finalized on October 1, 2015, and working collaboratively with states across a region encompassing the eastern United States.

The Modeling Committee continued development and testing of the next generation, 2011based, modeling platform. This platform corresponds with EPA's updated modeling platform and will use EPA data when appropriate to maintain consistency and reduce costs. The Modeling Committee has shifted its 2018 projection inventory development to include a 2017 projection year to support states attainment SIPs. The majority of the committee's work focused on processing the second version of EPA's emissions inventory for photochemical modeling. Work also began on the development of a technical support document for the modeling platform as well as documentation necessary for SIP submittal. Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: The OTC Modeling Committee continued its work plan to fulfill the charge from the Commission from the OTC Fall 2011 meeting. The Modeling Committee began planning for a second stage of the third level of CMAQ air quality screening runs focusing on an updated 2020 base case with ERTAC EGU results and shale gas inventories and a proxy 2018 case.

The Stationary and Area Source (SAS) Committee and the Mobile Source (MS) Committee continued to develop draft model rules for regional ozone control measures.

The Mobile Source Committee worked on developing a model rule for adoption of CA aftermarket catalytic converters and expanding the aftermarket catalytic converter white paper to include cost estimates of such a program. The committee also began developing a white paper looking at boutique fuels and the potential to adopt one in the OTR. The Mobile Source Committee will also continue its emission inventory analysis and work to fulfill the new charge given to it at the Fall Meeting. Fiscal Year 2016: The Modeling Committee facilitated the coordination of the photochemical modeling and emissions inventory work of the OTC States. Developed regional models of ozone concentrations: Because ozone precursors and ozone itself can travel over long distances, projecting future ozone concentrations requires a super-regional model that encompasses most of the United States east of the Mississippi River. Improved the modeling tools available: The OTC also works to improve the suite of modeling tools available in order to make the process of modeling quicker, more transparent, and more accurate. CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The evaluation and selection criteria for competitive awards under this CFDA description will be described in the competitive announcement.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Office of Air and Radiation, Environmental Protection Agency

AUTHORIZATION:

National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, Section 102(2)(F), Public Law 91-190, 42 U.S.C 4332; Clean Air Act of 1963, Section 103, Public Law 95-95, 42 U.S.C 7401.

OBJECTIVES:

To support Surveys, Studies, Research, Investigations, Demonstrations and Special Purpose assistance relating to the causes, effects (including health and welfare effects), extent, prevention, and control of air pollution to include such topics as air quality, acid deposition, climate change, global programs, indoor environments, radiation, mobile source technology and community-driven approaches to transportation and emissions reduction.

Projects should also focus on addressing environmental justice (EJ) concerns in communities. EJ is the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people regardless of race, color, national origin, or income with respect to the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies

(1) Indoor Environments. Activities will support surveys, studies, research, training, outreach, education, investigations or demonstrations performed by organizations that lead to effective outreach strategies to educate key audiences about indoor air pollutants, their associated health risks and encourage effective mitigation and control strategies. Currently, the Program focuses on several critical aspects of indoor air quality that pose significant risks to public health, and in particular, to children and other disproportionately impacted segments of society. Program focus includes, but is not limited to, reducing the exposure of children and others with asthma to indoor triggers that worsen their condition; promoting the adoption of operation and maintenance practices in schools, homes and other buildings throughout the nation to reduce the harmful effects of poor indoor air quality on the health of the public, students and staff; promoting voluntary radon testing by homeowners to identify elevated levels and fix them when they are found; as well as working with homebuilders to incorporate radon resistant construction features into new homes; and encouraging adult smokers to protect their children from the adverse health effects of environmental exposure to secondhand smoke by making a conscious decision to smoke outside and keep their homes and cars smokefree

(2) Climate Change. The Climate Change Division (CCD) supports activities relating to improving economic, technical and programmatic understanding of climate change. CCD supports technical, outreach, and education projects regarding climate change impacts, mitigation and adaptation options in order for private and public sectors may more effectively and comprehensively address their climate goals. Additionally, CCD supports projects that break down market barriers that may limit investment in technologies that reduce methane and non-CO₂ greenhouse gases; address the technical issues surrounding sequestration and carbon storage; address collection and analyses of economic data relating to climate change; and the Global Methane Initiative (GMI) that support climate technology transfer in developing and transition countries. The Global Methane Initiative is an international public-private initiative that advances cost effective, near-term methane recovery and use as a clean energy source in four sectors: agriculture, coal mines, landfills, and oil and gas systems. GMI projects reduce greenhouse gas emissions in the near term and provide a number of important environmental and economic co-benefits. Co-benefits include stimulating local economic growth, creating new sources of affordable alternative energy, improving local air and water quality with associated public health benefits and increasing industrial worker safety. CCD also supports the Greenhouse Gas Reporting program that will help facilities that participate in voluntary, state-based and federal GHG reporting programs better understand the requirements of voluntary and state GHG reporting programs in comparison to the federal rule, and identify options for how data collected through state and federal reporting requirements may be used to inform state GHG programs and facility-level efforts to identify emissions-reduction opportunities. Climate Economics Program objective is to advance the field of climate economic and integrated assessment modeling through a regular series of studies on GHG emissions and approaches to mitigating emissions and climate impacts. Climate Science Impacts objectives include leveraging studies which focus on climate impacts on environmental justice issues and tribal communities, and inform adaptation policy development and planning for tribal and environmental justice communities.

(3) Climate Protection Partnerships. EPA funds Global Climate Change programs which are voluntary government/industry partnership programs designed to capitalize on the opportunities that consumers, businesses, and organizations have for making sound investments in efficient equipment, policies and practices. The Global Climate Change program will manage a number of efforts to remove barriers in the marketplace and to deploy technology faster in the residential, commercial, and industrial sectors of the economy. Our programs work by overcoming widely acknowledged barriers to energy efficiency: lack of clear, reliable information on technology opportunities; lack of awareness of energy efficient products and services; lack of financing options to turn lifecycle energy savings into initial cost savings for consumers; and low incentives to manufacturers for efficiency research and development. In addition, our Global Climate Change programs will provide technical assistance, training, information exchange and other forms of cooperation to enhance the capabilities of governments and other stakeholders to protect human health and the environment regionally and globally.

(4) Transition Dynamics for Sustainable Transportation. Conducting multi-disciplinary research and outreach programs leading to a better understanding of the critical factors and dynamics in making the transition to sustainable transportation systems.

(5) Global Green Freight Supply Chain Demonstration. The program provides technical support, management and oversight in implementing outreach, analysis and capacity building for international green freight programs. The goal is to provide assistance to nations seeking to develop sustainable freight transport and thereby, increase efficiencies to reduce green house gases and black carbon.

Funding Priority 2017

(1) Indoor Environments. (2) Community-Scale Air Toxics Ambient Monitoring (CSATAM). The CSATAM Grant Program results in two-year projects designed to assist state, local and tribal communities in identifying and profiling air toxics sources, characterizing the degree and extent of local air toxics problems and tracking progress of air toxics reduction activities in specific local areas without reliance on often uncertain estimates of emissions and air dispersion models. Further, projects typically allow the recipient state, local and tribal air pollution control agencies to establish or enhance hazardous air pollutant monitoring networks, thus providing long term capability to investigate and assess specific local air quality scenarios of concern. The program will continue working with grant recipients that received funding in previous years.

(3) Climate Change. The Climate Change Division (CCD) supports activities relating to improving economic, technical and programmatic understanding of climate change. CCD supports technical, outreach, and education projects regarding climate change impacts, mitigation and adaptation options in order for private and public sectors may more effectively and comprehensively address their climate goals. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Indoor Air/Radon: Produced effective outreach strategies to educate key audiences about indoor air pollutants and their associated health risks, convincing them to adopt effective mitigation and control strategies. These outreach strategies focused on several critical aspects of indoor air quality that pose significant risks to public health, and in particular, to children and to other disproportionately impacted segments of society. These include: reducing the exposure of children and others with asthma to indoor triggers that worsen their condition; promoting the adoption of operation and maintenance practices in schools throughout the nation to reduce the harmful effects of poor indoor air quality on the health of students and staff; promoting voluntary radon testing by homeowners to identify elevated levels and fix them when they are found, as well as working with homebuilders to incorporate radon resistant construction features into new homes; and encouraging adult smokers to protect their children from the adverse health effects of environmental exposure to secondhand smoke by making a conscious decision to smoke outside and keep their homes and cars smokefree.

Climate Change Division: The USEPA's Global Methane Initiative Grants program provides cooperative agreements to recipients around the globe to build capacity and promote international capture and use of methane. The grants have become an integral and important capacity building instrument of the Global Methane Initiative, a public-private partnership (of more than 33 partner governments) that reduces greenhouse gas (GHG) pollution by promoting the cost-effective, near-term recovery and use of methane, a GHG that is more than 20 times more potent than carbon dioxide. Methane capture and use projects supported by the partnership through grants and other means are currently reducing emissions by more than 27.3 million metric tons of carbon dioxide equivalent ~ annually equivalent to the annual emissions from 5 million passenger vehicles. The USEPA's Greenhouse Gas (GHG) Reporting Grants program will help facilities that participate in voluntary, state-based and federal GHG reporting programs better understand the requirements of voluntary and state GHG reporting programs in comparison to the federal rule; and identify options for how data collected through state and federal reporting requirements may be used to inform state GHG programs and facility-level efforts to identify emissions-reduction opportunities.

Climate Partnership Protection: Continued to reduce GHG and improved air quality through collaborative efforts with stakeholders.

Transportation-Related Policies & Economy-Wide Impact: Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) has a model, the Emissions Predictions and Policy Analysis (EPPA) Model, a computable general equilibrium (CGE) model, which it has used during this grant to produce results that provide the public with a better understanding of: energy, land-use, and GHG emissions; emissions associated with biofuels; and global energy rebound. Fiscal Year 2016: Indoor Air/Radon: Produced effective outreach strategies to educate key audiences about indoor air pollutants and their associated health risks, convincing them to adopt effective mitigation and control strategies. These outreach strategies focused on several critical aspects of indoor air quality that pose significant risks to public health, and in particular, to children and to other disproportionately impacted segments of society. Funding Priority for 2016

EPA and Tribes, in partnership, will protect public health, the environment, and unique Tribal air resources, consistent with the CAA, its Amendments, and EPA's trust responsibilities. This program will ensure Tribes have appropriate levels of support and opportunity to understand their own air quality and take proactive measures to preserve, restore, and protect air quality for their reservations and other lands over which they have jurisdiction through CAA implementation, radiation protection, mobile source controls, and voluntary programs to address indoor and outdoor air, climate change and other concerns. Activities will ensure that all Tribes have the tools they need to understand and participate in local, regional, and national issues and to protect their air quality from changes off reservation that may impact them. Key activities include: (1) Training and Program Development - this area includes technical, administrative, and policy related training conducted in-person, on-line, and/or by any remote technological method supporting the enhancement of skills that contribute to development of tribal air quality management activities; (2) Assessment and Monitoring - activities related to assessment may include short or long term efforts to define, design, understand, and assess in a qualitative or quantitative manner (such as through an emission or source inventory) the impacts of air pollutants to human health, the environment, and items of cultural importance. Monitoring includes numerous activities that gather data about the state of the environment and measuring the concentrations and potential effects of criteria and/or toxic air pollutants; (3) Developing capacity or a plan for eligibility under the Tribal Authority Rule - developing capacity includes activities that increase the experience and expertise of tribes to understand and assess air quality, including technical, administrative, policy, regulatory, education and outreach, communication skills, training, and building contacts, networks and experience. Capacity includes carrying-out these programs and activities, interacting with the national air program and providing input, guidance, and perspective to efforts to develop policies, regulations, and guidance at the local, regional, and national level including reading, report writing, grant writing and reporting, budgeting, public speaking, developing presentations, preparing comments, editing documents, operating and maintaining equipment, and participating in meetings. Developing a plan for eligibility under the Tribal Authority Rule (TAR) includes report reading and writing, grant writing and reporting, budgeting, public speaking, presentation development, comment preparation, document editing, equipment operation and maintenance, and meeting participation; (4) Delegation or Ongoing Capability Development - This activity includes developing technical, administrative, and management skills, knowledge, and abilities through experience, training, and education to enable activities such as reading and interpreting federal regulations, operating equipment, preparing and presenting technical information and reports, interacting with tribal communities and governments, federal bureaucrats and bureaucracy, providing outreach and education, public speaking, conducting public hearings, collecting and analyzing data, developing plans and innovative approaches to pollution control in a culturally sensitive manner; and (5) Tribal Implementation Plan development - tribes may conduct all aspects of air quality management at an advanced level, including developing lists of sources by category, conducting emission inventories and emission estimating, data analysis, analyzing, interpreting and commenting on administrative and regulatory requirements and activities at local, state, regional and national levels, developing advanced technical, policy and planning document preparation, developing an enforcement and inspection program, and tribal government representation

66.039 NATIONAL CLEAN DIESEL EMISSIONS REDUCTION PROGRAM

DERA Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Office of Air and Radiation, Environmental Protection Agency

AUTHORIZATION:

Energy Policy Act of 2005, Title VII, Part G, 42 U.S.C 16131.

OBJECTIVES:

The Diesel Emissions Reduction Act, 42 U.S.C. 16131 et seq., as amended, authorization includes the authority for EPA to award grants, rebates and low-cost revolving loans to eligible entities to fund the costs of a retrofit technology that significantly reduces emissions through implementation of a certified engine configuration, verified technology, or emerging technology for buses (including school buses), medium heavy-duty or heavy heavy-duty diesel trucks, marine engines, locomotives, or nonroad engines or diesel vehicles or equipment used in construction, handling of cargo (including at port or airport), agriculture, mining, or energy production. In addition, eligible entities may also use funds awarded for programs or projects to reduce long-duration idling using verified technology involving a vehicle or equipment described above, or the creation of low-cost revolving loan programs to finance diesel emissions reduction projects. The objective of the assistance under this program is to achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions in terms of tons of pollution produced and reductions in diesel emissions exposure, particularly from fleets operating in areas designated by the Administrator as poor air quality areas.

Projects should also focus on promoting environmental justice (EJ). EJ is the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people regardless of race, color, national origin, or income with respect to the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies.

Funding Priority 2016

The National Clean Diesel Emissions Reduction Program aims to work aggressively to reduce the pollution emitted from diesel engines across the country through the implementation of varied control strategies and involvement of national, state, and local partners. Priority shall be given to projects which achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions in terms of tons of pollution produced by diesel engines and diesel emissions exposure, particularly from fleets operating at or servicing goods movement facilities located in areas designated as having poor air quality. Further, priority for funding may be given to projects which result in outcomes that benefit affected communities, those that engage local communities with respect to the design and performance of the project, and those which can demonstrate the ability to promote and continue efforts to reduce emissions after the project has ended. Poor air quality areas include areas in nonattainment or maintenance of national ambient air quality standards for PM_{2.5} and Ozone, and areas with toxic air pollutant concerns. In FY 2016, projects will be competed and funded under the Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program FY 2016 Request for Proposals, and the Tribal Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program FY 2016 Request for Proposals. Clean Diesel Emerging Technologies Program grants and SmartWay Clean Diesel Finance Program grants were not funded in FY2016.

Funding Priority for 2017

The National Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program aims to work aggressively to reduce the pollution emitted from diesel engines across the country through the implementation of varied control strategies and involvement of national, state, and local partners. Priority shall be given to projects which achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions in terms of tons of pollution produced by diesel engines and diesel emissions exposure, particularly from fleets operating at or servicing goods movement facilities located in areas designated as having poor air quality. Further, priority for funding may be given to projects which result in outcomes that benefit affected communities, those that engage local communities with respect to the design and performance of the project, and those which can demonstrate the ability to promote and continue efforts to reduce emissions after the project has ended. Poor air quality areas include areas in nonattainment or maintenance of national ambient air quality standards for PM_{2.5} and Ozone, and areas with toxic air pollutant concerns. In FY 2017, projects will likely be competed and funded under the Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program FY 2017 Request for Proposals, and the Tribal Clean Diesel Funding Assistance Program FY 2017 Request for Proposals. Clean Diesel Emerging Technologies Program grants and SmartWay Clean Diesel Finance Program grants will likely not be funded in FY2017.

FY 2010 Appropriations Act, Public Law 111-117; FY 2009 Appropriations Act, Public Law 111-8.

OBJECTIVES:

Public Law 111-8 authorizes EPA to award competitive grants to communities to develop plans and demonstrate and implement projects which reduce greenhouse gas emissions. EPA will implement this grant authority by awarding grants to local and tribal governments for Planning, Demonstrations, and Implementation Projects designed to address climate change by reducing greenhouse gas emissions. Such projects should include a plan for measuring documentable reductions in greenhouse gas emissions and exhibit the capacity for replication. Grant activities should aim to: 1) reduce emissions of greenhouse gases; 2) build capacity within local and tribal agencies to address greenhouse gas emissions within their communities; 3) create meaningful and sustainable programs and management systems to achieve ongoing reductions; 4) link climate change initiatives with broader environmental, economic, and social concerns; 5) build and leverage partnerships across multiple stakeholder groups that facilitate front-end participation by communities impacted by climate change; and 6) create models of success that can be replicated across the nation.

Projects should also focus on addressing environmental justice (EJ) concerns in communities. EJ is the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people regardless of race, color, national origin, or income with respect to the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2014/15 Projects funded will continue to 1) reduce emissions of greenhouse gases; 2) build capacity within local and tribal agencies to address greenhouse gas emissions within their communities; 3) create meaningful and sustainable programs and management systems to achieve ongoing reductions; 4) link climate change initiatives with broader environmental, economic, and social concerns; 5) build and leverage partnerships across multiple stakeholder groups that facilitate front-end participation by communities impacted by climate change; and 6) create models of success that can be replicated across the nation.

66.110 HEALTHY COMMUNITIES GRANT PROGRAM

(Healthy Communities)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Region 1, Environmental Protection Agency

AUTHORIZATION:

Indian Environmental General Assistance Program Act; Safe Drinking Water Act, Section 1442(a)&(c); Solid Waste Disposal Act, Section 8001; Marine Protection, Research, & Sanctuaries Act, Section 203; Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act, Section 20; Toxic Substances Control Act, Section 10; Clean Water Act, Section 104(b)(3); Clean Air Act, Section 103(b)(3); Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (1980), Section 104 and 105; Pollution Prevention Act of 1990; Robert T Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act(1974); Fiscal Year 2015 Omnibus, Consolidation and Further Appropriations Act, Public Law 113-235.

OBJECTIVES:

Grants are awarded to support projects that meet two criteria: 1) They must be located in and directly benefit one or more Target Investment Areas and 2) They must achieve measurable environmental and public health results in one or more of the Target Program Areas. Target Investment Areas and Target Program areas are identified in the annual competitive funding announcement. Funds for all projects should support activities to provide education, outreach, or training, in the Target Program Areas. The Regional Office will only accept submissions for projects that affect the States, Tribes, and Territories within the six New England States: Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont. Projects that are National in scope are not eligible for funding under this Regional Program.

The statutory authorities for this program restrict the use of assistance agreements to support the following activities: conducting or promoting the coordination and acceleration of research, investigations, experiments, training, demonstrations, surveys, and studies relating to the causes, effects (including health and welfare effects), extent, prevention, and elimination of water pollution. Demonstrations must involve new or experimental technologies, methods, or approaches, and it is encouraged that the results of these projects will be disseminated so that others can benefit from the knowledge gained. A project that is accomplished through the performance of routine, traditional, or established practices, or a project that is simply intended to carry out a task rather than transfer information or advance the state of knowledge, however worthwhile the project might be, is not considered a demonstration project.

In addition, for this year, the Fiscal Year 2015 Omnibus, Consolidation and Further Appropriations Act, Public Law 113-235 authorizes implementation activities to support SNECWPR priorities. Applicants interested in implementation projects to support SNECWPR must identify both the "Southeast New England Coastal Watershed Restoration" Target Program Area and the "Southeast New England Coastal Watersheds" Target Investment Area. Please note that projects identifying the Southeast New England Coastal Watershed Restoration Target Program Area must select the Southeast New England Coastal Watershed Target Investment Area and are restricted from selecting additional Target Program Areas and/or Target Investment Areas as part of the proposal. Please see Section I, C, Target Program Areas, F for the types of projects that are eligible under the "Southeast New England Coastal Watersheds" Target Program Area.

Funding Priority Fiscal Year 2015:

The Healthy Communities Grant Program is EPA New England's main competitive grant program to work directly with communities to reduce environmental risks, protect and improve human health and improve the quality of life. The Healthy Communities Grant Program will achieve this through identifying and funding projects that: target resources to benefit communities at risk [areas at risk from climate change impacts, environmental justice areas of potential concern, sensitive populations (e.g. children, elderly, tribes, urban/rural residents, and others at increased risk), and Southeast New England coastal watersheds; assess, understand, and reduce environmental and human health risks; increase collaboration through partnerships and community-based projects; build institutional and community capacity to understand and solve environmental and human health problems; Advance emergency preparedness and ecosystem resilience; and achieve measurable environmental and human health benefits in one or more of the following areas:

Capacity Building on Environmental and Public Health Issues: Projects that focus on providing training, education, outreach, and/or engagement on the causes, effects, extent, reduction, prevention and/or elimination of one or more of the following environmental and public health issues: indoor/ambient air quality, lead, asthma, pesticides, chemical risks, recycling, energy efficiency and/or conservation, pollution prevention, food waste minimization or diversion, and/or renewable energy.

Clean, Green and Healthy Schools: Projects that focus on creating clean, green and healthy school environments by promoting EPA's State School Environmental Health Guidelines, EPA's Voluntary Guidelines for Selecting Safe School Location and/or implementing replicable programs across New England serving children's environmental health at K-12 schools.

Community and Water Resource Resilience: Projects that advance the emergency preparedness and resilience of communities and water infrastructure: stormwater, wastewater and/or drinking water.

Healthy Indoor Environments: Projects that focus on reducing and/or preventing childhood lead poisoning, reducing asthma triggers, promoting integrated pest management; reducing childhood exposure to one or more toxins (PCBs, dioxin, mercury, lead, pesticides, etc.), promoting comprehensive healthy homes and/or other indoor environments.

Healthy Outdoor Environments: Projects that focus on reducing and/or preventing exposure to toxics in the air, soil and/or water by addressing the causes, effects, extent, reduction, prevention and/or elimination of pollution in rivers and/or other natural resources.

Southeast New England Coastal Watershed Restoration: Large-scale projects that focus on regional, bi-state, or watershed approaches to integrate habitat, water quality, and physical processes; facilitate a vision to address complex problems across political boundaries, including next steps for project implementation and maintenance; organize effective and sustainable partnerships for action; accelerate reduction or prevention of nutrient impacts, and promote innovations and efficiencies through integrated ecosystem management. All projects should describe the potential for transferability to other areas located within the Southeast New England Coastal Watershed region. Specific appropriation language in FY15 authorizes implementation activities to support Southeast New England Coastal Watershed Restoration priorities. Please note: Applicants that identify this Target Program Area are required to identify the "Southeast New England Coastal Watersheds" as a Target Investment Area for the proposed project. In addition, projects identifying this Target Program Area are restricted from selecting additional Target Program Areas and/or Target Investment Areas as part of the proposal.

Funding Priority Fiscal Year 2016:

Community and Water Resource Resilience: Projects that provide education, outreach, and training to manage facilities at which hazardous substances are located, advance the emergency preparedness and resilience of communities and water infrastructure through training related to the safe handling and removal of hazardous waste.

Healthy Indoor Environments: Projects that focus on reducing and/or preventing childhood lead poisoning through compliance assistance, outreach, and/or education on lead-based paint regulations and/or small drinking water systems, reducing asthma triggers, promoting integrated pest management; promoting recycling, energy efficiency and/or conservation, pollution prevention, food waste minimization and/or diversion, and/or renewable energy; reducing childhood exposure to one or more toxins (PCBs, dioxin, mercury, lead, pesticides, etc.), promoting comprehensive healthy homes and/or other indoor environments for children or other sensitive populations.

Healthy Outdoor Environments: Projects that focus on reducing and/or preventing exposure to toxics in the air, soil and/or water by addressing the causes, effects, extent, reduction, prevention and/or elimination of pollution in rivers and/or other natural resources.

Tribal Youth Environmental Program: Projects that focus on creating and conducting Tribal youth education programs for federally recognized Tribes in EPA Region 1 that build future tribal environmental leaders by improving tribal community health and sustainability through pollution prevention/source reduction for ecosystems, land, and water. Programs must address protecting ecosystem functions, goods and services; supporting ecologically sensitive land management and development; and sustaining water resources to ensure quality and availability for desired uses. The projects must prioritize and incorporate use and understanding of Tribal Environmental Knowledge and help native youth better understand their relationship to the environment, community sustainability, and community health from a landscape perspective. Projects must include a form of camp or programming for high school and/or middle school tribal students, an environmental health summit emphasizing youth initiatives and projects, and establish and/or utilize a living classroom (e.g. greenhouse, garden, etc.) on Tribal lands in partnership with one or more federally recognized Tribes in Region 1.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Region 10, Environmental Protection Agency

AUTHORIZATION:

Clean Water Act, Title III, Section 320, Public Law 94-117, 33 U.S.C 1330; Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009, Public Law 111-8; Clean Water Act, Title III, Section 320, Public Law 106-457, 33 U.S.C 1330.

OBJECTIVES:

The overall goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that would assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water.

Puget Sound has been designated as one of 28 estuaries of National Significance under 320 of the Clean Water Act. The goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that would assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water. The Puget Sound National Estuary Program's approved Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP) is the Action Agenda. The goal of the Action Agenda is to restore and maintain the Puget Sound estuarine environment by 2020 so that it will support balanced indigenous populations of shellfish, fish and wildlife and support the extensive list of recognized uses of Puget Sound.

The EPA is committed to protecting and improving water quality and minimizing the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin. These commitments include protecting the watersheds and waters of Puget Sound by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution.

EPA is committed to working with the Management Conference to protect and improve water quality and minimize the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2015 : The Region does not plan on making any solicitations under this program in FFY 2015

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2016: The Region does not plan on making any solicitations under this program in FFY 2016.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2017: The Region does not plan on making any solicitations under this program in FFY 2017.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Local and tribal governments are at various stages of developing and applying effective and robust water quality programs in their watersheds. Some need to improve their scientific understanding of their watersheds. Others understand how their watersheds work and need assistance implementing a watershed plan. Therefore, a wide range of activities will be eligible for funding under this program including, but not limited to activities that: (1) Develop, demonstrate, enhance and implement watershed protection and restoration plans, land use and transportation plans, basin plans, storm water controls and/or land development standards to maintain native vegetation and natural hydrology by protecting and restoring wetland, riparian, upland and nearshore habitats and ecological processes. (2) Promote watershed protection by enhancing local planning processes authorized by the State's Coastal Zone Management Program such as the development of watershed land use designations, development of standards and other regulations or incentive programs that protect and restore coastal watersheds. (3) Refine and implement watershed land use plans based on watershed models that predict the hydrological impacts of alternative future land cover practices and on development scenarios and their projected impacts on aquatic resources. (4) Develop, carry out and study the effectiveness of laws, ordinances and incentive programs to implement watershed programs such as systematic implementation of low-impact development in sensitive basins, land acquisition or transfer of development rights approaches and techniques.

Restrictions: All uses of these funds must be consistent with the goals and objectives of the 2020 Puget Sound Action Agenda. Activities permitted under the Clean Water Act are not eligible for funding under this program. Specifically, required activities under NPDES Phase I and II stormwater permits are not eligible for funding under this program.

Business enterprises and individuals or families will also not be eligible applicants.

However, EPA strongly encourages local and tribal governments to solicit participation from these types of entities as local collaborators. All of these types of entities are eligible to apply for subawards or subcontracts from a successful award recipient.

For certain competitive funding opportunities under this CFDA description, the Agency may limit eligibility to compete to a number or subset of eligible applicants consistent with the Agency's Assistance Agreement Competition Policy. The specific types of eligible applicants will be identified in the individual Requests for Proposals.

Copies of these procedures may also be requested by contacting the individual(s) listed as "Information Contacts." Disputes relating to matters other than the competitive selection of recipients will be resolved under 2 CFR 1500 Subpart E, as applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. Matching Requirements: The Puget Sound Watershed Management Assistance program has no statutory formula for allocating the funds. All of the grants will be for implementation projects under the Puget Sound Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP) under CWA 320(g)(2) and 320(g)(3)(ii). There is a statutory match of 50% of the total project costs for implementation project grants under CWA 320(g)(3)(ii) and CWA Section 320 allows for an aggregate match.

For awards made under the competitions conducted under this program, the Puget Sound Management Conference, represented by the Puget Sound Partnership, agreed to provide 67% of the 50% required non-federal match for successful project proposals for FFY 2009 and 2010. For future funding, this would need to be negotiated.

Match Example:

For an applicant requesting $600,000 in federal funds under a competition, the total match required would be $600,000. Under the competition, the applicant will be required to provide a match of $198,000, or 33% of the required 50% match. The remaining $402,000 ($600,000 - $198,000) of the required 50% match will be met at the aggregate level by the Puget Sound Partnership. This program does not have MOE requirements. Region 10 has allocated approximately $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 for this program from the Agency's FFY 2009 appropriation for award during Federal Fiscal Year 2010. Additional funds may be awarded under the competitions from the Agency's FFY 2010 appropriation once it is received if appropriate and consistent with Agency policy.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Assistance will be disbursed in accordance with the terms specified in the assistance agreement. Typically, assistance recipients draw funds at either monthly or quarterly intervals based on their incurred costs. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Assistance will be disbursed in accordance with the terms specified in the assistance agreement. Typically, assistance recipients draw funds at either monthly or quarterly intervals based on their incurred costs.

Reports:

No program reports are required. No cash reports are required. Progress report requirements will be a part of each assistance agreement. A schedule showing interim milestones and the outputs that will be completed by the end of the project period will also be included. Typical progress reports will discuss the progress that the assistance recipient has made towards achieving each major goal or objective identified in the approved statement of work. The report will also discuss the progress that has been made towards each interim milestone. Progress reports will discuss any difficulties or problems that the assistance recipient has encountered and how those problems have been or are being resolved. Other specific reporting requirements will be defined in the Assistance Agreement based on the statement of work described in the application. Expenditure reports will typically be required at the same time intervals as progress reports. The expenditure reports will document expenditures to date, including expenditures of any matching funds, in a manner that allows the user to confirm that matching requirements are being met and that all assistance payments (disbursements to the assistance recipient) are for costs that have been incurred in compliance with applicable cost principles. Recipients of this funding will be required to use EPA's Puget Sound Financial and Ecosystem Accounting Tracking System (FEATS), which is the primary mechanism for performance monitoring. Key grant outputs will be tracked on a semi-annual basis through FEATS, as well as progress towards project milestones and deliverables. FEATS provides linkages to EPA Puget Sound performance measures and Dashboard Indicators. FEATS allows award recipients to share challenges, solutions, lessons learned, and reflections associated with their work.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Grants and cooperative agreements are subject to inspections and audits by the Comptroller General of the United States, the EPA Office of Inspector General, other EPA staff, or any authorized representative of the Federal government. Reviews by the EPA Project Officer and the Grants Specialist may occur each year. In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-federal entities that expend $750,000 or more in a year in Federal awards shall have a single or a program specific audit conducted for that year. Non-federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503.

Records:

Financial records, including all documents to support entries on accounting records and to substantiate charges to each grant must be kept available to personnel authorized to examine EPA grant accounts. All records must be maintained until expiration of three years from the date of submission of the final expenditure report. If questions still remain, such as those raised by an audit, related records should be retained until the matter is completely resolved.

The goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that would assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water. The Puget Sound National Estuary Program's approved Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP) is the Action Agenda. The goal of the Action Agenda is to restore and maintain the Puget Sound estuarine environment by 2020 so that it will support balanced indigenous populations of shellfish, fish and wildlife and support the extensive list of recognized uses of Puget Sound.

The EPA is committed to protecting and improving water quality and minimizing the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin. These commitments include protecting the watersheds and waters of Puget Sound by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution.

The Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance Program is aimed at assisting the Indian Tribes of the greater Puget Sound basin in their efforts to carry out work critically needed for Puget Sound protection and restoration. This work includes activities identified in, or consistent with, the Action Agenda such as efforts called for by established salmon recovery plans in the Puget Sound basin. EPA has a trust responsibility to Federally recognized Indian Tribes. EPA also recognizes that Federally recognized Indian Tribes in the greater Puget Sound basin have a critical role in the protection and restoration of the ecosystem and its resources. EPA seeks to provide financial assistance to these Tribes to help them implement priority strategies and actions in or consistent with the approved Clean Water Act 320 CCMP for Puget Sound.

Funding Priority for FY 2015

Tribal Capacity ($3.500m, non-competitive)

New capacity grants issued with FFY2015 funding to support each Tribe and Consortium to participate in the Puget Sound Management Conference. Eligible tasks include representing tribal interests in Management Conference forums and processes and other activities like identifying limiting factors to habitat protection and salmon and shellfish recovery.

Tribal Project Lead Organization ($2.490m; competitive)

Eligible sub-award work includes watershed and marine/estuary habitat restoration projects. We anticipate that many of these projects will directly address salmon and shellfish recovery, consistent with the existing Tribal projects funded through the Northwest Indian Fisheries Commission (NWIFC).

Funding Priority for FY 2016: Tribal Capacity (non-competitive)

Tribal Capacity (non-competitive)

Depending on funding, capacity grants are continuing with incremental FFY2016 funding to support each Tribe and Consortium to participate in the Puget Sound Management Conference. Eligible tasks include representing tribal interests in Management Conference forums and processes and other activities like identifying limiting factors to habitat protection and salmon and shellfish recovery.

Tribal Implementation Lead (competitive)

A new cooperative agreement will be issued to a single Tribal Implementation Lead with FFY2016 funding for the purpose of making and managing a sub-award program for the 19 federally-recognized Puget Sound Tribes and authorized consortia of these eligible tribes. This cooperative agreement will support eligible sub-award work which includes watershed and marine/estuary habitat restoration projects. We anticipate that many of these projects will directly address salmon and shellfish recovery.

Tribal Capacity (non-competitive)

Depending on funding, capacity grants are continuing with incremental FFY2017 funding to support each Tribe and Consortium to participate in the Puget Sound Management Conference. Eligible tasks include representing tribal interests in Management Conference forums and processes and other activities like identifying limiting factors to habitat protection and salmon and shellfish recovery.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2017: Tribal Implementation Lead (competitive)

Depending on funding, this grant will be continuing with incremental FFY2017 funding to support eligible subaward work which includes watershed and marine/estuary habitat restoration projects. We anticipate that many of these projects will directly address salmon and shellfish recovery.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This assistance may be used by Tribes to plan for and implement work that is critically needed for Puget Sound restoration and protection. Such work includes priority actions or strategies in or consistent with the approved 320 CCMP for Puget Sound including, but not limited to, projects called for by established salmon recovery plans, except where the proposed work is inconsistent with applicable Federal law, regulation or published EPA policy.

Additional information on use restrictions, if any, for the Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance Program, will be provided in each request for proposals published on the EPA Region 10 website.

Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website:
<https://www.epa.gov/geospatial>.

Grant recipients and sub-recipients are encouraged to adopt and enforce policies that ban text messaging while driving company-owned or -rented vehicles or government-owned vehicles, or while driving privately-owned vehicles when on official government business or when performing any work for or on behalf of the government. Grant recipients and sub-recipients are encouraged to conduct initiatives of the type described in section 3(a) of the Federal Leadership on Reducing Text Messaging While Driving Executive Order that was signed on October 1, 2009. Generally this program makes Federal awards on a discretionary basis. For further information, please contact the Headquarters or regional office.

Applicant Eligibility:

All federally recognized Indian Tribes located within the greater Puget Sound basin, and any consortium of these eligible Tribes, may apply for funding under the program. The greater Puget Sound basin is defined as all watersheds draining to the U.S. waters of Puget Sound, southern Georgia Basin, and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

An eligible Intertribal consortium is one that demonstrates that: 1) a majority of its members meet the eligibility requirements for this program; 2) all members that meet the eligibility requirements authorize the consortium to apply for and receive the grant; and 3) only members that meet the eligibility requirements will benefit directly from the grant project and the consortium agrees to a grant condition to that effect.

An Intertribal consortium must have adequate documentation of the existence of the partnership and the authorization of the member Tribes to apply for and receive assistance. Documentation that demonstrates the existence of the partnership of Indian Tribal governments may consist of Tribal council resolutions, Intertribal consortia resolutions in conjunction with a Tribal council resolution from each member Tribe, or other written certification from a duly authorized representative of each Tribal government that clearly demonstrates that a partnership of Indian Tribal governments exists. Documentation that demonstrates that member Tribes authorize the consortium to apply for and receive assistance may consist of a Tribal council resolution from each Tribe or other written certification from a duly authorized representative of each Tribal government that clearly demonstrates that the Tribe authorizes the consortium to apply for and receive the grant on behalf of the Tribe. An Intertribal consortium resolution is not adequate documentation of the member Tribes' authorization of the consortium unless it includes a written certification from a duly authorized representative of each Tribal government.

Federal and state agencies, institutions of higher learning, units of local government, special purpose districts, conservation districts, watershed planning units organized pursuant to RCW 90.82.040 and 060, local management boards organized pursuant to RCW 90.88.030, salmon recovery lead entities organized pursuant to RCW 77.85.050, regional fisheries enhancement group organized pursuant to RCW 77.95.060 and nongovernmental entities are not eligible to directly receive financial assistance awards under this announcement. Business enterprises and individuals or families will also not be eligible applicants.

However, EPA strongly encourages eligible applicants to solicit participation from these types of entities as local collaborators. All of these types of entities are eligible to apply for sub-awards or subcontracts from a successful award recipient.

For certain competitive funding opportunities under this CFDA description, the Agency may limit eligibility to compete to a number or subset of eligible applicants consistent with the Agency's Assistance Agreement Competition Policy.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The beneficiary of this assistance under this program would be the Federally recognized Indian Tribes or the consortia of these Tribes that receive the assistance. Ultimate beneficiaries would include the tribal members and the general public (due to the general public's interest in restoring and protecting the resources of Puget Sound).

Credentials/Documentation:

OMB Circular A-87 has been codified at 2 C.F.R. Part 225. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

Matching Requirements: The Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance program has no statutory formula for allocating the funds. All of the assistance agreements will be for planning and implementation projects under the Puget Sound Comprehensive Conservation Management Plan (CCMP) under CWA 320(g)(2) and 320(g)(3)(ii). There is a statutory match of 50% of the total project costs for assistance agreements under CWA 320(g)(3)(ii) and CWA Section 320 allows for an aggregate match.

For the awards to be made under this program, the Puget Sound Management Conference, represented by the Puget Sound Partnership, has agreed to provide all of the required non-federal match for successful project proposals for FFY 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, and 2015 under a separate cooperative agreement with EPA. Accordingly, eligible applicants will not be required to provide any of the required non-federal match.

For the FY2016 competitive lead organization grant, please check the Request for Proposals for information on the match requirement for this grant proposal. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The assistance was awarded for FFY2010-2015 and will be awarded during FFY2016. Funds will be disbursed to assistance recipients in accordance with the terms specified in their respective assistance agreements.

With FFY2016 funding, a new Tribal lead organization cooperative agreement will be awarded. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Assistance will be disbursed in accordance with the terms of each assistance agreement. Typically, assistance recipients draw funds at either monthly or quarterly intervals based on their incurred costs.

Reports:

No program reports are required. No cash reports are required. Progress report requirements will be a part of each assistance agreement. A schedule of interim milestones and the outputs that will be completed by the end of the project period will also be included. Progress reports will typically discuss the progress that has been made on each major task and on each interim milestone identified in the approved statement of work. Progress reports will also discuss any difficulties or problems that have been encountered and how they have been or are being resolved. Other specific reporting requirements will be defined in the assistance agreement based on the statement of work described in the application. Expenditure reports will typically be required at the same time intervals as progress reports. The expenditure reports will document expenditures to date, including expenditures of any matching funds, in a manner that allows the report user to confirm that matching requirements, if any, are being met and that all assistance payments (disbursements to assistance recipients) are for costs that have been incurred in compliance with applicable costs principles. Recipients of this funding will be required to use EPA's Puget Sound Financial and Ecosystem Accounting Tracking System (FEATS), which is the primary mechanism for performance monitoring. Key grant outputs will be tracked on a semi-annual basis through FEATS, as well as progress towards project milestones and deliverables. FEATS provides linkages to EPA Puget Sound performance measures and Dashboard Indicators. FEATS allows award recipients to share challenges, solutions, lessons learned, and reflections associated with their work.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Grants and cooperative agreements are subject to inspections and audits by the Comptroller General of the United States, the EPA Office of Inspector General, other EPA staff, or any authorized representative of the Federal government. Reviews by the EPA Project Officer and the Grants Specialist may occur each year. In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-federal entities that expend $750,000 or more in a year in Federal awards shall have a single or a program specific audit conducted for that year. Non-federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503.

Records:

Financial records, including all documents to support entries on accounting records and to substantiate charges to each grant must be kept available to personnel authorized to examine EPA grant accounts. All records must be maintained until expiration of three years from the date of submission of the final expenditure report. If questions still remain, such as those raised by an audit, related records should be maintained until the matter is completely resolved.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: Example Tribal Implementation award accomplishments during FY2015:

Most of the 11 Implementation awards that began in 2010 were closed out prior to FY2015. One that came to completion during FY15, the Fall City Park Riparian Restoration and Traditional Ecological Knowledge Project, reported treating eradicating invasive plants and restoring 7 acres of riparian vegetation, with nearly 3,000 native trees and 4,500 native shrubs planted. The project also established an interpretive trail and exceeded goals for community volunteer events.

Example Tribal Capacity award accomplishments during FY 2015:

Performed planning, sampling, and analysis of Fidalgo Bay for the Fidalgo Bay Whole Watershed Assessment (Samish Indian Nation)

Engaged in the Strait of Juan de Fuca Ecosystem Restoration Network (ERN) and other Puget Sound Management Conference forums, providing data, technical and policy review of proposed restoration projects and actions (Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe)

Assessed fish and macroinvertebrate populations in the Elwha River estuary in ongoing multi-entity monitoring of the Elwha River ecosystem before and after one of the largest dam removal projects in the world (Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe)

Example Lead Organization award accomplishments during FY 2015:

Performed systematic field sampling of eelgrass (Zostera marina) presence/absence consistent with interagency project plan (subaward to Suquamish Tribe)

Completed competitive process to select consultant to complete the Keta Park Floodplain Restoration Design & Curley Creek Watershed Protection and Restoration Plan (subaward to Suquamish Tribe). Fiscal Year 2016: Accomplishments in FFY2016:

Example Tribal Capacity award accomplishments during FY 2016:

Completed aerial and historic map review as part of a channel re-alignment and fish passage feasibility and alternatives analysis of upper Boise Creek (RM 4.3 to 4.6). This task supports development of the conceptual design of this habitat restoration project to restore access by anadromous salmon including ESA-listed fish of approximately 6,000 lineal feet of stream corridor in prime salmon-bearing tributary of the White River within tribe's Usual and Accustomed fishing area. Increase in ESA-listed fish production would be an estimated 40 chinook, 15 steelhead redds and 100 coho redds. (Puyallup Tribe).

Continue to actively participate in regional and local Puget Sound Management Conference processes and forums, including the Hood Canal Coordinating Council (HCCC), the Straits Ecosystem Recovery Network (ERN), and the Salish Sea Ecosystem Conference, to discuss issues of concern for the tribe. This includes assisting in developing strategies for protecting and restoring habitats and species in Hood Canal, Admiralty Inlet and the Strait of Juan de Fuca (Port Gamble S'Klallam Tribe).

Example Lead Organization award accomplishments during FY 2016:

Completed extended sampling of nutrient sources and harmful algal blooms (HABs) for the Sequim Bay watershed (sampling extended into FY16 due to extended algae blooms), and initiated statistical analysis of sampling results (sub-award to Jamestown S'Klallam Tribe)

Continuing to lead coordination and integration of data and analyses for Skagit Watershed Salmon Recovery Plan, including working with subgroups on modeling and GIS analysis (sub-award to Skagit River System Cooperative). Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE:

For grants and cooperative agreements with local governments, tribal governments and special purpose districts, the procedures and requirements should be in conformance with the OMB's Uniform Grants Guidance (UGG) located in 2 CFR 200 (Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards). This supercedes and streamlines requirements from 40 C.F.R. Part 31 "Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Cooperative Agreements to State and Local Governments", and OMB Circular Nos. A-21, A-87, A-110, and A-122 (which had been placed in 2 CFR 220, 225, 215, and 230).

40 C.F.R. Part 35 "Environmental Program Grants-State, Interstate and Local Government Agencies" is still applicable.

OBJECTIVES:

Puget Sound has been designated as one of 28 estuaries of National Significance under section 320 of the Clean Water Act. The goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that will assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water. The Puget Sound National Estuary Program's approved Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP), the Action Agenda, has a goal to restore and maintain the Puget Sound Estuary's environment by meeting 2020 ecosystem targets.

The EPA is committed to protecting and improving water quality and minimizing the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin. These commitments include protecting the watersheds and waters of Puget Sound by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution.

This program has the following main objectives:

First, implementing the approved CCMP, the Action Agenda for Puget Sound, is the primary objective of this program. Funds are directed to the highest priority work as articulated in biennial updates to the Action Agenda work plan. The updated biennial work plan identifies specific near term actions to achieve reductions in the harmful impacts on Puget Sound and restore previously damaged aquatic ecosystem functions. A central component of the approved CCMP for Puget Sound is its Biennial Science Work plan which identifies some of the core scientific work that must be completed in order for Action Agenda implementation efforts to succeed. This program is to support implementation of priority near term actions and to support the technical studies and investigations that are needed to help direct implementation priorities.

Second, the Scientific Studies and Technical Investigations awards through this program will help support the tracking systems and evaluation approaches for implementation activities. Together with projects aimed at achievement of specific environmental outcomes, the science studies and technical investigations inform adaptive management of the program significantly contributing to the restoration and protection of Puget Sound by 2020.

Specific areas of focus for Puget Sound protection and restoration were identified in 2010 as Toxics and Nutrients, Pathogens, Marine Nearshore, Watershed Protection, and Management of Implementation of the Action Agenda. These areas of work were funded through FY2015 by awards to lead organizations in the areas of focus.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2015: No new solicitations for FFY2015 funding were conducted for these areas under the Scientific Studies and Technical Investigations program.

Priorities for the five Lead Organization awards FFY2010 through FFY2015 include:

Nearshore and Marine Lead Organization; Protecting habitat through promoting effective regulation of marine and nearshore areas; Enhancing enforcement of and compliance with regulations governing habitat alteration, including shoreline modification; Restoring habitat, including shorelines, estuaries, and feeder bluffs/drift cell function; Developing programs to reduce shoreline armoring and, where armoring is needed, promote soft armoring techniques to achieve a net gain of unarmored shoreline. Funding for chemical analyses for Toxics in Fish Vital Signs.

Watersheds (for stormwater): Focus on protection and restoration of floodplains, stream shorelines, riparian areas and primary creeks; Focus on levees and flood revetments; Enforcement of Critical Area Ordinances; Address stormwater impacts to the hydrological regime by working with local government to limit impervious surface and manage flows; Work with local governments to develop ecosystem service markets (placing value on ecosystem services and functions); Stormwater facility design and prioritization; establishment of permanent conservation easements.

Toxics and Nutrients Lead Organization: Implement key findings from the Toxics Loading Study to prevent and reduce toxic loadings to Puget Sound; Implement key findings from Ecology reports on nutrient programs in Puget Sound and address sources of nutrients on agricultural lands; Support of the Governor's Blue Ribbon Panel on Ocean Acidification.

Pathogens Lead Organization: Focus on recoverable shellfish beds; Work with local governments to create effective ordinances and enforcement programs; Develop sustainable funding in each health district for on-site septic system (OSSS) repair and maintenance programs; Complete no discharge zone designation.

Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization: Funding in support of the habitat-related efforts of the Northwest Straits Commission; Direct funding for Local Integrating Organization habitat protection and restoration projects; Integration of science into the CCMP, performance management, monitoring, and managing the required matching funds provided by the Management Conference.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2016: No new solicitations for FFY2016 funding were conducted for these areas under the Scientific Studies and Technical Investigations program.

Priorities for the five Lead Organization awards FFY2010 through FFY2016 include:

Nearshore and Marine Lead Organization; Protecting habitat through promoting effective regulation of marine and nearshore areas; Enhancing enforcement of and compliance with regulations governing habitat alteration, including shoreline modification; Restoring habitat, including shorelines, estuaries, and feeder bluffs/drift cell function; Developing programs to reduce shoreline armoring and, where armoring is needed, promote soft armoring techniques to achieve a net gain of unarmored shoreline. Funding for chemical analyses for Toxics in Fish Vital Signs.

Watersheds (for stormwater): Focus on protection and restoration of floodplains, stream shorelines, riparian areas and primary creeks; Focus on levees and flood revetments; Enforcement of Critical Area Ordinances; Address stormwater impacts to the hydrological regime by working with local government to limit impervious surface and manage flows; Work with local governments to develop ecosystem service markets (placing value on ecosystem services and functions); Stormwater facility design and prioritization; establishment of permanent conservation easements.

Toxics and Nutrients Lead Organization: Implement key findings from the Toxics Loading Study to prevent and reduce toxic loadings to Puget Sound; Implement key findings from Ecology reports on nutrient programs in Puget Sound and address sources of nutrients on agricultural lands; Support of the Governor's Blue Ribbon Panel on Ocean Acidification.

Pathogens Lead Organization: Focus on recoverable shellfish beds; Work with local governments to create effective ordinances and enforcement programs; Develop sustainable funding in each health district for on-site septic system (OSSS) repair and maintenance programs; Complete no discharge zone designation.

Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization: Direct funding for local habitat protection and restoration projects; Integration of science into the CCMP, performance management, monitoring, and managing the required matching funds provided by the Management Conference.

Beginning in FFY2016, a greater emphasis on direct implementation of near term actions, including Tribal and local priorities, will be the focus of the updated Action Agenda and the Puget Sound Program. Priority will be given to actions that fall in the three strategic initiatives of the Action Agenda and have been scientifically and technically reviewed for the likelihood of positive results to achieve targeted environmental outcomes. The three strategic initiative areas in the Action Agenda are: habitat protection and restoration for salmon and other Puget Sound aquatic species; water quality improvements to protect and improve shellfish growing areas; and control and prevention of pollution from stormwater. An RFP was issued to award FFY16 funding for these strategic initiative leads.

Also an RFP was issued to award FFY16 funding to provide support and coordination assistance to the Puget Sound National Estuary Management Conference and the Action Agenda Strategic Initiative Leads and their Teams and the Tribal Lead Organization to develop Implementation Strategies to achieve environmental results and progress related to the Puget Sound Action Agenda Vital Signs. Other activities of support include regional coordination of stewardship and social marketing, bridging of local activities and the regional recovery strategy, and other identified management conference support activities.

Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2017: Continuing in FFY2017, a greater emphasis on direct implementation of near term actions, including Tribal and local priorities, will be the focus of the updated Action Agenda and the Puget Sound Program. Priority will be given to actions that fall in the three strategic initiatives of the Action Agenda and have been scientifically and technically reviewed for the likelihood of positive results to achieve targeted environmental outcomes. The three strategic initiative areas in the Action Agenda are: habitat protection and restoration for salmon and other Puget Sound aquatic species; water quality improvements to protect and improve shellfish growing areas; and control and prevention of pollution from stormwater. Depending on FFY2017 appropriations, funding will be continued for these three strategic initiative leads.

Depending on FFY2017 appropriations, funding will be continued to provide support and coordination assistance to the Puget Sound National Estuary Management Conference and the Action Agenda Strategic Initiative Leads and their Teams and the Tribal Lead Organization to develop Implementation Strategies to achieve environmental results and progress related to the Puget Sound Action Agenda Vital Signs. Other activities of support include regional coordination of stewardship and social marketing, bridging of local activities and the regional recovery strategy, and other identified management conference support activities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Puget Sound funds were appropriated by Congress in conjunction with the Clean Water Act for development and implementation of programs that will improve water quality, air quality, and minimize the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin, including activities linked to habitat restoration projects or controlling sources or nonpoint pollution.

The assistance offered can be used to finance technical studies and investigations, as well as protection and restoration activities necessary to achieve environmental outputs and/or outcomes identified in the Action Agenda. This Action Agenda implementation work can either be funded directly or through a Strategic Initiative Lead entity which could then fund subawards for Action Agenda implementation activities. Funding may also be used to develop and carry out implementation strategies that map out steps to achieve progress and outcomes for a particular ecosystem target, management issue, or geographic area.

Assistance can be used to finance work identified in the Puget Sound Partnership's Biennial Science Work plan.

Assistance may also be used to manage, monitor, oversee, or participate in the implementation of the 2020 Action Agenda for Puget Sound, including Tribal participation in the implementation and maintenance processes of the CCMP.

Assistance can be used to study, evaluate, model, plan, and prepare for the impacts of climate change on Puget Sound ecosystem protection and restoration activities. Such assistance could include: studies to evaluate the impacts of climate change on specific activities; development of tools and models that can assist in understanding the impacts of climate change; implementation strategies that consider the impacts of climate change and increase the climate resiliency of projects; and specific modification and adaptation of design or construction components of projects to increase the climate resiliency of Puget Sound protection and restoration activities.

Additional information on use restrictions, if any, for this program, will be provided in each Request for Proposals published on the EPA Region 10 website.

Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website:

Grant recipients and sub-recipients are encouraged to adopt and enforce policies that ban text messaging while driving company-owned or -rented vehicles or government-owned vehicles, or while driving privately-owned vehicles when on official government business or when performing any work for or on behalf of the government. Grant recipients and sub-recipients are encouraged to conduct initiatives of the type described in section 3(a) of the Federal Leadership on Reducing Text Messaging While Driving Executive Order that was signed on October 1, 2009. Generally this program makes Federal awards on a discretionary basis. For further information, please contact the Headquarters or regional office.

An Intertribal consortium resolution is not adequate documentation of the member Tribes authorization of the consortium unless it includes a written certification from a duly authorized representative of each Tribal government.

The greater Puget Sound basin is defined as all watersheds draining to the U.S. waters of Puget Sound, southern Georgia Basin, and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

- For profit business entities, private individuals and families are not eligible to apply. However, all of these types of entities could partner with an eligible applicant as a subawardee.

- For certain competitive funding opportunities under this CFDA description, the Agency may limit eligibility to compete to a number or subset of eligible applicants consistent with the Agency's Assistance Agreement Competition Policy.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The direct beneficiaries would be the entities receiving the assistance. Due to the fact that the program is designed and intended to assist in the restoration and protection of the Puget Sound estuary, the ultimate beneficiaries will be the residents of the greater Puget Sound region.

Credentials/Documentation:

OMB Circular A-87 has been codified at 2 C.F.R. Part 225. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. For competitive awards, applicants will be required to submit application materials as described in the Request For Proposals.

Applicants, except in limited circumstances approved by the Agency, must submit all initial applications for funding through <http://www.grants.gov>.

Disputes relating to matters other than the competitive selection of recipients will be resolved under 2 CFR 1500 Subpart E, as applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. Matching Requirements: Matching Requirements: Clean Water Act 104(a) and 104(b) have no statutory formula for match; that is, no match is required by the statute. Therefore, for awards under this program to be made under these authorities, the EPA will not require any non-federal match by any successful applicant.

If awards are made for development of a comprehensive conservation and management plan (CCMP), or for general projects that implement the CCMP or that exercise management and oversight over the implementation of the CCMP, there will be a match requirement pursuant to CWA 320.

For development of the CCMP, the federal share of a grant to any person (including State, interstate, or regional agency or entity) under CWA 320(g)(3)(A)(i), for a fiscal year shall not exceed 75 percent of the annual aggregate costs of development of a CCMP.

For projects funded under CWA 320(g)(3)(A)(ii) the federal share of a grant to any person (including State, interstate, or regional agency or entity) shall not exceed 50 percent of the annual aggregate costs of the implementation of the plan. Under CWA 320(g)(2 and 320(g)(3)(ii) there is a statutory match of 50% of the total project costs.

CWA 320 allows for an aggregate match; that is, the match requirement for federal financial assistance for national estuary program projects applies to the estuary's Management Conference as a whole. Thus, any spending of nonfederal funds by the Management Conference within a fiscal year can be used as match for federal financial assistance.

The EPA expects to structure the Request for Proposals issued under this program so that applicants can identify expenditures of nonfederal funds on projects that implement the CCMP by themselves as well as by other Management Conference members as proposed nonfederal match for the financial assistance being requested.

Contact the EPA Regional Office contact identified in this program description for more information.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The assistance will be awarded during FFY 2010-2016. Funds will be disbursed to individual assistance recipients in accordance with the terms specified in the assistance agreement. Dependent on congressional appropriations, new funding will be available for FFY2017. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Assistance will be disbursed in accordance with the terms specified in the assistance agreement. Typically, assistance recipients draw funds at either monthly or quarterly intervals based on their incurred costs.

Reports:

No program reports are required. No cash reports are required. Progress report requirements will be a part of each assistance agreement. A schedule of interim milestones and the outputs that will be completed by the end of the project period will also be included. Typical progress reports will discuss the progress that has been made on each major task and on each interim milestone identified in the approved statement of work. Progress reports will also discuss any difficulties or problems that have been encountered and how they have been or are being resolved. Other specific reporting requirements will be defined in the assistance agreement based on the statement of work described in the application. Expenditure reports will typically be required at the same time intervals as progress reports. The expenditure reports will document expenditures to date in a manner that allows the report user to confirm that all assistance payments (disbursements to assistance recipients) are for costs that have been incurred in compliance with applicable costs principles and, for assistance agreements in which a matching contribution is required, the reports will also document expenditures of that matching contribution. Recipients of this funding will be required to use EPA's Puget Sound Financial and Ecosystem Accounting Tracking System (FEATS), which is the primary mechanism for performance monitoring. Key grant outputs will be tracked on a semi-annual basis through FEATS, as well as progress towards project milestones and deliverables. FEATS provides linkages to EPA Puget Sound performance measures and Dashboard Indicators. FEATS allows award recipients to share challenges, solutions, lessons learned, and reflections associated with their work.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Grants and cooperative agreements are subject to inspections and audits by the Comptroller General of the United States, the EPA Office of Inspector General, other EPA staff, or any authorized representative of the Federal government. Reviews by the EPA Project Officer and the Grants Specialist may occur each year. In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-federal entities that expend $750,000 or more in a year in Federal awards shall have a single or a program specific audit conducted for that year. Non-federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503.

Records:

Financial records, including all documents to support entries on accounting records and to substantiate charges to each grant must be kept available to personnel authorized to examine EPA grant accounts. All records must be maintained until expiration of three years from the date of submission of the final expenditure report. If questions still remain, such as those raised by an audit, related records shall be maintained until the matter is completely resolved.

Obligations:

(Project Grants) FY 15 Not Separately Identifiable; FY 16 Estimate Not Available; and FY 17 Estimate Not Available - EPA awarded approximately $9.0 million for scientific studies and technical investigations in FFY 2011 from FFY 2010 funds based on one competitive solicitation. The projects are identified on an annotated list at this web page:

<http://www.epa.gov/pugetsound/funding/index.html#science>

The Region also awarded nearly $4.0 million in FFY 2010 funds to the University of Washington's Puget Sound Institute pursuant to Congressional direction in the FFY 2010 appropriation.

The Region awarded $6,000,000 in FFY 2010 funds to the Puget Sound Partnership to manage the implementation of the Action Agenda, pursuant to Congressional direction in the EPA's FFY 2010 appropriation.

The Region awarded approximately $3.1 million each in four awards to state agencies to lead Puget Sound ecosystem recovery efforts. Two of these awards were to the Washington State Department of Ecology to lead efforts for both "Toxics and Nutrients" and "Watershed Protection". A third award was made to the Washington State Department of Health for "Pathogen Control". The fourth award was made to the Washington State Department of Fish and Wildlife for "Marine and Nearshore Habitat Protection".

The Region awarded approximately $5.5m in incremental funding in FFY 2011 funds to each of these ecosystem Lead Organizations, totaling $21,600,000.

In FY 2012, the Region awarded approximately $3,600,000 in incremental funding to the four ecosystem lead organizations and $3,000,000 for the Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization, totaling ~$17,400,000. The watershed Lead Organization also received an additional $1,800,000 for stormwater retrofit project prioritization and design. FY12 funding totaled $19,200,000.

In FY 2013, the Region awarded approximately $3,320,000 in incremental funding to the four ecosystem lead organizations and $2,800,000 for the Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization, totaling around $16,048,105. The watershed lead organization also received an additional, $1,200,000 for the riparian initiative. FY13 funding totaled $17,248,105.

In FY 2014, the Region awarded approximately $2,490,000 in incremental funding to each of the four ecosystem lead organizations and $2,850,000 for the Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization, totaling around $12,810,000. The watershed lead organization also received an additional $2,861,520 for the establishment of permanent conservation easements, and the marine nearshore lead organization received an additional $91,400 for chemical analyses for Toxics in Fish Vital Signs.

In FY 2015, the Region awarded approximately $2,490,000 in incremental funding to each of the four ecosystem lead organizations and $2,850,000 for the Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization, totaling around $12,810,000. The watershed lead organization also will receive an additional $2,861,520 for the establishment of permanent conservation easements, and the other lead organizations received supplemental funding for strategic initiative work. The Management of Action Agenda Implementation Lead Organization received supplemental funding for implementation strategy work, additional funding for the local implementing organizations, and funding for special projects.

FY 2016 is planned for the new Strategic Initiative Leads: Stormwater - $5,200,000; Habitat - $5,200,000 - Shellfish - $5,000,000. Also $2,800,000 will be awarded to the new Management Conference Support for Implementation Lead Organization.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

The EPA made awards for scientific and technical studies in the range of $200,000 - $700,000. Awards for implementation assistance and for managing and monitoring the implementation of the CCMP ranged from $200,000 to $6,000,000 each. Funding for the Strategic Initiative leads and the Management Conference Support for Implementation Lead will range from $2.490M to $5.500M.

Some of these awards may be incrementally funded with appropriations from future fiscal years. See under #122 for more details on the funding for the specific year.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2015: See below for a few of the FFY2014-15 accomplishments under these Lead Organization Grants.

Puget Sound is a leader in estuary recovery.

IC2 Alternatives Assessment Guide. Seven states collaborated to produce the Interstate Chemicals Clearinghouse (IC2) Alternatives Assessment Guide, a methodology to identify harmful toxins in the manufacturing process and replace them with less harmful alternatives. (Toxics and nutrients prevention, reduction and control)

NW Green Chemistry - Northwest Green Chemistry, established in large part through National Estuary Program funding, offers technical assistance to Washington companies interested in participating in the Safer Choice Program. The program helps consumers and businesses find products that are safer for families, workplaces, communities and the environment. In 2015, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) named the Washington State Department of Ecology and Northwest Green Chemistry as a Safer Choice Partner of the Year Award winner. (Toxics and nutrients prevention, reduction and control)

The Puget Sound program has made real and systemic changes that support sustainable efforts towards recovery.

■ Integrated zoning and development mapping. To provide a common foundation for land use planning decisions and facilitate cross-jurisdictional planning, the Washington State Department of Commerce developed an integrated map of zoning and development across Puget Sound. This map includes permitting data which could be valuable for counties required to complete Building Lands Reports. (Watershed protection and restoration)

■ Shoreline armoring removal. Shoreline armoring is an important indicator of ecological conditions in Puget Sound. By 2020, the goal is to remove more armoring than is added between 2011 and 2020. The Washington State Department of Natural Resources is working with local governments, non-governmental organizations and landowners to remove seawalls, bulkheads and other artificial barriers between the water and the land, helping restore Puget Sound shorelines and make beaches easier to access for all. National Estuary Program funds are used to address armoring systemically, combining direct work with homeowners with scientific advancements that address armoring and on-the-ground armor removal and restoration. It is because of this systemic approach that in 2014, for the first time, more armor was removed from Puget Sound than was installed a hopeful sign of things to come. (Marine and nearshore protection and restoration; Watershed protection and restoration)

■ No Discharge Zone. Fecal coliform in shellfish can cause illness in humans. One source of fecal coliform in the Puget Sound is sewage discharge from vessels. In order to protect public health, the Washington State Department of Ecology researched a federal "No Discharge Zone" (NDZ) designation for priority areas of Puget Sound. A draft NDZ agreement and petition were developed; over 26,000 public comments were received on the draft petition. If approved by the EPA, this would be the first NDZ in Washington State. (Pathogen prevention, reduction and control)

■ Onsite Regional Funding Program. There are more than a half million on-site sewage systems (OSS) in the Puget Sound Region. These systems are a valuable part of the region's wastewater treatment infrastructure. Like municipal wastewater treatment plants, OSS must be properly built, operated and maintained to effectively treat sewage, thereby protecting public health and water quality. Local health jurisdictions (LHJs) in the 12 Puget Sound counties implement comprehensive OSS management plans and enhanced operation and maintenance (O&M) programs to help accomplish this. Steering and Advisory Committees, made up of Washington Department of Health staff and representatives from the 12 Puget Sound counties evaluated the funding needs, key issues and optional funding mechanisms to develop strategic proposals to successfully establish and fund the two OSS programs in the Puget Sound region. (Pathogen prevention, reduction and control)

Floodplains by Design. The Nature Conservancy's multi-benefit floodplain restoration program, Floodplains by Design, has leveraged $50 in capital projects for every National Estuary Program dollar invested. (Watershed protection and restoration)

■ Floodplains by Design. The Nature Conservancy's multi-benefit floodplain restoration program, Floodplains by Design, has leveraged $50 in capital projects for every National Estuary Program dollar invested. (Watershed protection and restoration)

National Estuary Program projects are a smart investment, enabling Puget Sound communities to leverage resources wisely and support critical work few others will fund.

■ Progressive comprehensive plan updates. The City of Duvall used National Estuary Program funds to complete a comprehensive plan update. As a small city, the funding made it possible for the city to pursue a more progressive update than is typical. They created watershed overlays to help communicate resource needs to elected officials and the general public, which encouraged development of regulations and incentive-based programs to address those needs. (Watershed protection and restoration)

Innovation is innate to the Pacific Northwest, and Puget Sound recovery is no exception.

■ Transfer of Development Rights: King County's Transfer of Development Rights (TDR) program is only possible because of National Estuary Program funding. The program prevents urban sprawl by transferring development rights away from rural and resource lands to the county's Urban Areas. The Cities of Shoreline, Mountlake Terrace, Tukwila and Tacoma are now completing feasibility studies for TDR and may soon negotiate an interlocal agreement with their respective counties. (Watershed protection and restoration)

■ New ecosystem services markets: Ecosystem services markets are still a relatively new idea. The development of some markets has fallen short because outside organizations were not ready to approve a grant recipient's work. The Nisqually Tribe and City of Olympia continue to work collaboratively to develop an ecosystem services market to purchase development rights and build a community forest to protect part of Olympia's aquifer. (Watershed protection and restoration)

■ New scientific tools to inform decisions: The innovative High Resolution Change Detection project uses interactive aerial maps to show site-level changes in land cover over time. The map's analytics provide information about why the land cover changed and measure the rate of change relative to Puget Sound Vital Signs, both of which can be used to track Action Agenda progress. (Watershed protection and restoration)

Future success will be amplified by the capacity and social capital being built today.

■ Hood Canal Regional PIC Program: In Hood Canal, shellfish beds are hard-hit by multiple sources of pollution. Kitsap County has an exemplary record of addressing Pollution Identification and Control (PIC) issues, and is now partnered with (and helping mentor) Mason and Jefferson Counties and the Port Gamble S'Klallam and Skokomish Tribes to reduce pollution inputs to Hood Canal's shellfish beds. This effort is part of the Department of Health's PIC program, which is active in all 12 counties around Puget Sound and promotes collaborative efforts to identify and reduce the amount of pollution reaching shellfish beds. (Pathogen prevention, reduction and control)

■ Facilitating the use of best practices: Several Lead Organizations have provided technical assistance and mentorship around the region, and developed resources to expand the reach of this support:

A Pollution Identification and Correction Program Guidance to find, correct and prevent pollutants from entering Puget Sound

A K-12 curriculum on ocean acidification

The Northwest Straits Foundation held workshops for landowners, trained volunteers and provided free technical assistance to reduce shoreline armoring

The Department of Ecology certified over 50 landscape professionals in best management practices to reduce toxic and nutrient loading from pesticides and fertilizers. Fiscal Year 2016: No accomplishments to report with this year funding since the incremental funding was awarded in late FFY2015. Fiscal Year 2017: No Current Data Available
