TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The purpose of the Resident Instruction Grants Program for Institutions of Higher Education in Insular Areas (RIIA) is to promote and strengthen the ability of Insular Area Institutions to carry out teaching and education programs within the broadly defined food and agricultural sciences-related disciplines. Food and agricultural sciences include programs in agriculture, food and fiber, renewable energy and natural resources, forestry, aquaculture, veterinary medicine, family and consumer sciences, home economics, nutrition and dietetics, rural human ecology, rural economic and community development, and other higher education activities and fields of study related to the production, processing, marketing, distribution, conservation, utilization, consumption, research, and development of food and agriculturally-related products and services. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research, extension and education objectives to address food and agricultural sciences.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

The use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility is not allowed under this program. With prior approval, and in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, some grant funds may be used for minor alterations, renovations, or repairs deemed necessary to retrofit existing teaching or research spaces in order to carry out a funded project. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that the alterations, renovations, or repairs are essential to achieving the major purpose of the project. Grant funds may not be used for endowment investing.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

The Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that each eligible institution, prior to receiving grant funds under subsection (a), shall have a significant demonstrable commitment to higher education programs in the food and agricultural sciences and to each specific subject area for which grant funds under this section are to be used. (2) The Secretary of Agriculture may require that any grant awarded under this section contain provisions that require funds to be targeted to meet the needs identified in section 1402.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

1. To increase the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural sciences, or other STEM fields closely related to the food and agricultural sciences, and for FY 2012, encourage study in areas that contribute to any of the five NIFA Priority Areas listed directly above in Part I, A; and

2. To enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs.

. Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $861,079 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

One application requesting a total of $850,000 was received in this years competition. In May 3, 2012, a five-member combined panel with the RIIA and ANNH programs evaluated the applications. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and federal employees. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: The continuing outbreaks of food-borne diseases associated with fresh and fresh-cut produce have reduced consumer confidence in the microbiological safety of these products and has prompted calls for objective metrics that ensure that growers and processors are implementing good food safety practices. The long term goals of this grant are to: (a) provide scientific and technological knowledge and data needed by the produce industry and government agencies to develop/modify and validate scientifically supportable, consensus produce safety metrics that are applicable in a variety of growing regions and countries, (b) provide scientific and technological knowledge to develop other consensus metrics important to enhancing produce safety, and (c) identify improved approaches and techniques that allow the attainment of the metrics to be verified simply and cost effectively.

The brown marmorated stink bug (BMSB) is an invasive insect native to East Asia that has emerged as a pest of unprecedented importance to specialty crops in the United States. However, there is no established detection method, treatment threshold, or control strategy for BMSB in any cropping system. Therefore, this project aims to: (1) establish biology and phenology of BMSB in specialty crops; (2) develop monitoring and management tools for BMSB; (3) establish effective management programs for BMSB in specialty crops; and (4) integrate stakeholder input and research findings to form and deliver practical outcomes.

Ten years ago, acrylamide (a neuro-toxin) was discovered in carbohydrate rich foods processed at high temperatures, such as potato chips, French fries and other processed products, that together account for over half of US potato consumption. The highest priority of the US potato industry is the need to introduce new varieties that reduce the acrylamide content of processed products and minimize health concerns related to their consumption. Project objectives are structured so that research and extension specialists across the US work with commercial potato growers, processing companies and end-users to address system-wide challenges related to new variety development and adoption. Areas of emphasis include research in potato breeding and genetics to improve potato quality, appearance, texture and taste to processor and end user specifications; identifying potato varieties that will reduce health concerns related to acrylamide in the production and processing of potatoes; and economic analysis focused on improving production efficiency, and profitability for growers and processors over the long term.

One of the most significant obstacles to sustainability in the container specialty crops industry is the nearly universal reliance of present systems on containers (pots) made from non-renewable petroleum-based plastics. Materials scientists and engineers will create prototypes of specialty crop containers for evaluation of container-crop performance, container storage stability, biodegradation rate, and environmental and economic impact. Evaluations will include prototypes constructed from all suitable emerging bioplastics and existing non-petroleum alternative containers. The bioplastic containers and practices developed and released through this project will provide viable alternatives for replacing non-sustainable petroleum-based container systems and will initiate a shift of resource revenue from foreign petroleum to domestic biorenewables while eliminating the harmful environmental effects of petroleum-based plastic containers.

Consumption of wholesome foods is increasing as more people recognize the need for a healthful lifestyle. For these reasons, a considerable amount of research has characterized the nutrients and bioactives found in almonds, which has given marketers a valuable tool to describe the healthfulness of this tree nut. Consumers have taken note, resulting in increased sales of almonds and almond-containing products. Similar data are lacking for the benefits of pecans. Applying the most advanced techniques available to profile the phenolic constituents and to characterize the antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, and anti-glycation capacities of US pecan cultivars will take the research into an important direction where information is lacking, consumer interest is high, and potential impact (both from health and economic perspectives) is great. This project will provide consumers with a better understanding of the nutrients as well as the phytonutrients of US pecan cultivars. Data from this study will furnish stakeholders with scientific and economic information to allow the industry to increase per capita consumption of pecans through targeted marketing efforts. Fiscal Year 2012: Most fruit, nut, and vegetable crops require insect-mediated pollination for optimal yields. While honey bees provide the majority of crop pollination, they are at risk from colony collapse disorder, diseases, and mites. Unmanaged native bees are proposed as managed pollinators, thereby diversifying pollinator sources and improving long-term crop yields. This project will integrate entomology, pollination biology, sociology, economics, and extension approaches to develop region- and crop-specific Integrated Crop Pollination strategies for diversifying pollination sources for consistent crop yields. Field studies will be replicated across major U.S. production regions to compare the contribution of honey bees and native bees in fields receiving standard pollination practices and in fields augmented with bee habitat or alternative managed bees. This project will estimate the value of native bees and honey bees for U.S. specialty crops, identify farming practices that affect bee abundance and pollination levels, evaluate habitat management practices for enhancing bees and crop pollination, and test alternative species as managed pollinators. ICP approaches will be integrated into extension programs and regional and crop-specific recommendations will be distributed electronically. This project will support sustainability of U.S. agriculture by enhancing specialty crop producers ability to manage their farms for improved pollination and yield.

Lawns and grass areas define urban landscapes in the United States. The challenge is breeding cultivars that respond to market demands for viable specialty products, consumer demand for low-input products, and government leaders demand for effective and efficient vegetation that supports their mandate to protect the public good as well as new initiatives to create sustainable cities. This project supports the use of low-input fescue cultivars in sustainable landscapes. To achieve that end, it: (1) evaluates the motivations and barriers public land managers would have for converting to low-input fescue cultivars; (2) explores the role public officials could play in supporting resident conversion to low-input fescue; (3) evaluates homeowners assessment of diverse grass traits, their grass seed purchasing behaviors, and message delivery technologies; and, (4) based on the preceding findings, develops new fescue cultivars that blend desired existing traits with enhanced potential to withstand wear, heat, and important turfgrass diseases, and designs effective outreach and message delivery technologies for consumers. The ultimate outcome of this project will be enhancement of long-term environmental, economic, and societal benefits resulting from reduced use of inputs such as water, fertilizer, pesticide, and labor.

Improved efficiency, productivity, and profitability for the vegetable production and processing industry require an improved understanding of the role of consumer markets. Movement toward this outcome will require addressing shorter-term objectives, beginning with an empirical demand assessment to identify specific attributes that resonate within a consumer market for sustainably labeled sweet corn and green beans. Next is the development of regionally-appropriate, whole-farm, and crop specific sustainability metrics, while also giving attention to potential barriers to grower adoption of these tools. On-farm trials and field research will test credibility for sustainability claims relative to environmental and economic impacts in several regions of the U.S. Traditional outreach techniques will be integrated with innovative media favored by growers and the processing industry. Examples include a grower workbook to accompany assessment tools, and a conference designed for growers and the vegetable processing industry to showcase and document lessons learned. We anticipate this project will serve as a model for other crops or production regions that want to pursue metric-driven sustainability, based on an increased understanding of the consumer market.

Dormant pruning is a vital practice in specialty crop production, but is also very costly. In addition, the continued availability of labor is uncertain, adding considerably to the risk of fruit production. Replacing the current labor-intensive pruning operations, which heavily rely on a large seasonal workforce, with more mechanized and automated techniques is critically needed for the U.S. specialty crop industry to remain competitive in the global market. This project will develop technologies to automate dormant pruning of specialty crops using modern sensors, computers, and robotic manipulators. Research will focus on automating dormant pruning of two major specialty crops: grape, and apple by carrying out four integrative project goals to: 1) formulate and evaluate rules that describe optimal pruning in terms of measurable physical attributes of canopy structure; 2) develop 3D imaging, decision system, and robot control technologies for automating dormant pruning operations; 3) determine social and economic impacts of the proposed autonomous pruning system; and 4) communicate results and involve growers and industry groups, so they can adopt these technologies and incorporate the knowledge gained into their orchards, vineyards, and businesses.

Developing alternative disease and pest control tactics away from the few remaining pesticides is critical to ensuring the mushroom industry's long-term economic viability. Similarly, understanding the role of substrate (compost) conditions in the development of fungal diseases and the flies that spread disease will help growers to better manage this pest/disease complex. Our objective is to transition the management of fungal pathogens and flies that vector these pathogens from short-term reliance on a dwindling number of pesticides to more sustainable strategies. Two major goals have been identified: (1) transition the management of fungal pathogens and flies beyond short-term reliance on pesticides by enhancing epidemiological and bio-rational tactics and (2) synergize information developed in this project with existing knowledge to provide the extension tools needed to encourage changes in grower practices. The primary outcomes are the identification of substrate characteristics that influence the incidence and severity of a major disease, Trichoderma Green Mold and the identification of alternative biopesticides that can be developed to help control fungal pathogens and insects. Fiscal Year 2013: Program is subject to Farm Bill reauthorization in FY 2012. Based on current Congressional drafts, the agency anticipates $25 million in available funds. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents. Funds shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Indirect cost is not allowable if awarded as an equipment, conference, or post-doc fellowship grant.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: (A) Agricultural and Natural Resources Science for Climate Variability and Change:

For FY 2011, there was no Request for Applications published and no new awards were made. Funds totaling $59,538,026 were provided by AFRI to fund continuation awards made in 2010. Of this total $28,503,494 was provided by AFRI to fully fund all sustainable bioenergy standard research continuation awards; $1,925,034 was provided by AFRI to fund the 2nd year of two education awards; and $29,109,498 was provided by AFRI to fund the 2nd year of 6 sustainable bioenergy coordinated agriculture projects (CAPs), and one for the National Loblolly Pine Genome Sequencing CAP.

(B) Food Security:

N/A - No projects were awarded.

(C) Food Safety:

For the FY 2011 award cycle, $31,438,128 was available for funding both continuation and standard grant awards in the AFRI Food Safety Challenge Area program. However, both FY2011 and FY2012 funds were used to fund these grants. Details on which FY funds were used are detailed below.

FY2010 Food Safety Challenge Area continuation awards were funded in FY2011 using FY2011 funds. The programs that were funded include: program codes: A4101 (1 award, total funds dispersed: $4,999,638), A4141 (5 awards, total funds dispersed: $5,203,271), A4111 (3 awards, total funds dispersed: $4,373,514), A4131 (3 awards, total funds dispersed $2,999,384), A4151 (1 award, total funds dispersed: $1,963,436) and A4121 (1 award, total funds dispersed: $4,992,558). A total of 14 continuation awards were funded for a total of $24,538,881.

Two program areas were solicited in the FY2011 Food Safety Challenge Area RFA: 1) Addressing Critical and Emerging Food Safety Issues (Program Code A4141), and 2) Prevention and Control of Salmonella and Campylobacter in Poultry Flocks and Poultry Products, including Eggs (Program Code A4161). Program A4141 awarded standard research grants and program A4161 awarded integrated continuation grants (up to 5 years of funds for up to $500,000 per year; limit of $2,500,000 per continuation award). FY2012 funds were used for the award of all grants in these two programs. A total of 17 awards were recommended for funding between these two programs for a total of $6,899,247.

1) For program A4141, a total of 78 proposals were received in this years competition. In February 2012, a 16-member peer review panel evaluated these proposals for scientific merit, fit to the program priority, and importance to U.S. agriculture. The peer panel included faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, including 1890 schools, and scientists from the federal government and industry.

Funds were available to support a total of 11 awards in the following Project Types: 9 research grants for a total of $4,489,860 and 2 strengthening grants for a total of $164,937. The overall amount requested for this program was $4,654,797.00. The funding ratio for this program was 14%

2) For program A4161, a total of 33 proposals were received in this years competition. In February 2012, a 13 member peer review panel evaluated these proposals for scientific merit, fit to the program priority, and importance to U.S. agriculture. The peer panel included faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, including 1890 schools, and scientists from the federal government and industry.

A total of 6 awards were recommended for funding based on the peer panel review and included the following project types: 4 integrated continuation grants for a total of $1,945,579 and 2 strengthening grants for a total of $298,873. The overall amount requested for this program was $2,244,452. The funding ratio for this program was 9%.

(D) Sustainable Bioenergy:

For FY 2011, there was no Request for Applications published and no new awards were made. Funds totaling $59,538,026 were provided by AFRI to fund continuation awards made in 2010. Of this total $28,503,494 was provided by AFRI to fully fund all sustainable bioenergy standard research continuation awards; $1,925,034 was provided by AFRI to fund the 2nd year of two education awards; and $29,109,498 was provided by AFRI to fund the 2nd year of 6 sustainable bioenergy coordinated agriculture projects (CAPs), and one for the National Loblolly Pine Genome Sequencing CAP.

(E) NIFA Fellowship Grant Program:

NOTE: The FY 2011 competition and FY 2012 competition were combined in FY 2012.

(F) Childhood Obesity Prevention:

Number of Proposals 99
Number Recommended for Award 14 (including one conference)
Success rate 13% (not including conference grant)
Average Award Size - $2.2M. Fiscal Year 2012: (A) Agricultural and Natural Resources Science for Climate Variability and Change:
For FY 2012, a Request for Applications (RFA) was published on September 21, 2011 with a proposal submission deadline of December 15, 2011. Funds totaling $10,000,000 were provided by AFRI for new awards and $2,000,000 for Interagency Programs. Delays in the release of the AFRI budget delayed the panel reviews and decisions. Decisions for awards are forthcoming and will include 21 standard research awards, 2 conference grants and one seed grant totaling $8,000,000; one coordinated agricultural project totaling $2,000,000; and two grants for the related interagency program, Plant Feedstock Genomics for Bioenergy. Funds totaling $1,948,733 were provided by AFRI to fund the 3rd year of continuation for the 2010 Education Awards.

The AFRI Sustainable Bioenergy Program funded grants that target vital topical areas related to the development of regional systems for the sustainable production of bioenergy, biopower and biobased products. These programs will, where appropriate, align with existing Regional Bioenergy Coordinated Agricultural Projects (CAP) to promote NIFAs goal and mission of economic, environmental, and rural community sustainability.

Demand for biomass continues to increase as additional targets for heat, transportation fuels, power, and biobased products are realized. Current policies are designed to provide agricultural support, rural enhancement, reduced dependence on foreign sources of energy, climate change mitigation/adaptation, and environmental sustainability. Policy developments often are identified as drivers of production decisions in the biofuels and bioenergy industries. New policies will need to take into full account associated risks/uncertainties and unintended consequences of feedstock production systems on natural resource and ecosystem service sustainability. Research is not well developed around the implications of current and alternative regulatory policies, fuel and portfolio standards, market distorting and other production subsidies, tax credits, and agricultural assistance programs on both bioenergy and agricultural markets and production decisions, which are subject to further evaluations of environmental and other indirect effects.

To meet these identified needs, the long-term outcome for this program is to implement regional systems that materially deliver liquid transportation biofuels to help meet the Energy Independence and Security Act (EISA) of 2007 goal of 36 billion gallons/year of biofuels by 2022 and reduce the National dependence on foreign oil and, as appropriate, produce biopower and biobased products. Projects are expected to employ a systems approach to address the stated Program Area Priorities which collectively contribute to the achievement of the following goals:

1. Deployment of superior genotypes of regionally-appropriate dedicated energy crops.
2. Refinement and implementation of sustainable regional feedstock production practice.
3. Seamless feedstock logistics.
4. Scalable, sustainable conversion technologies that can accept a diverse range of feedstocks.
5. Regional marketing and distribution systems.
6. Regional sustainability analyses, data collection and management, and tools to support decision-making.
7. A well trained workforce with the capacity to fill the cross-disciplinary needs of the biofuels industry.

In FY 2010, the NIFA solicitation resulted in the establishment of five Regional Bioenergy CAPs that focus on dedicated energy crops including energy cane, perennial grasses, sorghum, woody biomass, and oil crops (oilseeds and algae). These sustainable crops serve as feedstocks for the production of advanced non-ethanol, infrastructure-compatible fuels and biobased products through a systems-oriented approach that links feedstock development, production, logistics, conversion and markets. NIFA supports programs that are trans-disciplinary and integrate genetic crop development; sustainable agronomic and silvicultural practices; pest and beneficial species management; coordinated energy-efficient logistics; flexible and scaleable sustainable conversion and refining technologies; effective marketing and distribution systems; provide sustainable ecosystem services and rural community prosperity. In FY 2012, NIFA will support one additional Regional Bioenergy CAP that focuses on the production and delivery of Regionally Sustainable Biomass Feedstocks. While the focus will be on feedstocks, competitive proposals will present their feedstock development and production concepts in the context of a complete regional supply chain.

(B) Food Security:

For the FY 2012 award cycle, approximately $1,500,000 was available for project grant awards.

Thirteen applications requesting a total of $43,352,050 were received in this years competition. In April 2012, a 7-member peer review panel (plus one ad hoc reviewer) evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and one retired NIFA NPL.

Funds were available to support research, education and extension efforts for two awards that addressed the management of arthropod- and nematode-vectored plant pathogens.

The funding ratio for this program in FY12 was 15.4%.

(C) Food Safety:

For the FY 2012 award cycle, $5,000,000 is available for grant awards in three different program priorities. The three program priority areas are: Addressing Critical and Emerging Food Safety Issues (Program Code A4141), Effective Mitigation Strategies for Antimicrobial Resistance (Program Code A4171), and Improving the Safety of Fresh and Fresh-Cut Produce (Program Code A4181).

(D) Sustainable Bioenergy:

In addition, 168 proposals were received for the Postdoctoral Program. The success rate was 36%. Sixty proposals were funded. Applications addressed the development of technical and functional competence for predoctoral students, and the research independence and teaching credentials of postdoctoral scientists in the agriculture, forestry, and food sciences that are within NIFAs challenge and foundational program areas through well-developed and highly interactive mentoring and training activities.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: (A) Agricultural and Natural Resources Science for Climate Variability and Change:

A five-year Coordinate Agriculture Project is targeting preparing the Pacific Northwest (PNW) for a 2015 introduction of a 100% infrastructure compatible biofuels industry that meets the region's pro-rata share of Renewable Fuels Standard (RFS2) targets using sustainably grown regionally appropriate woody energy crops, thereby helping to revitalize the region's agriculture/forestry sectors with establishment of a sustainable advanced biofuels industry that supports both large and small growers and brings jobs to rural communities in the region. We will complete a three prong integrated program of research, extension and education to achieve this goal. The desired actions (medium term outcomes) for the three project components are: RESEARCH - Mitigate technology risks along the entire supply chain so that a woody energy crop-based biofuels industry, which makes significant contributions towards RFS2 targets, can be built in the PNW. EXTENSION - Build a critical mass of competent small- and medium-size growers to provide the industry with timely supply of purpose-grown woody energy crops, and address the needs and concerns of stakeholders that will be impacted by an advanced biofuels industry in the PNW. EDUCATION - Build a critical mass of well-trained workers capable of filling the cross-disciplinary needs of the biofuels industry. Capstone activities for the project are: 1. GreenWood Resources, the Nation's larger grower of hybrid poplar, will establish and operate four 200-acre energy farms managed with low-input silviculture. 2. ZeaChem Inc., a leading biorefinery developer, will modify its 10 ton(dry)/day biorefinery in Boardman, OR to produce multiple 8,000 gallon truckloads of biobased gasoline and jet/diesel, which will be distributed to consumers on a test basis by Valero Energy Corporation. 3. Deployment of sustainability, extension and education programs by world-class regional institutions will lead to the establishment of a critical mass of well-trained growers and workers. Successful completion of these activities will lead to the desired actions of adequate risk reduction to allow the financing, construction, and operation of multiple biorefineries in the region.

An education project with the overarching goal to develop a model for supporting teachers and students learning of both sustainability and bioenergy concepts, and their understanding that these concepts can be explored, explained and applied during decision-making using multiple perspectives. This project builds cross-cultural collaborations and honors both tribal ways of knowing and learning together, and scientific ways of knowing to construct integrated perspectives on sustainability that can advance agricultural practices and promote energy solutions for the future. The project supports middle, high school, and undergraduate students and their teachers as well as science researchers to deepen their understanding of scientific processes and social, environmental and economic issues related to sustainable bioenergy development.

A research project focusing on multiple enhanced-value co-products from regionally important oilseed feedstock received the full funding for the project in 2011. This project addresses creating enhanced-value products from one feedstock of particular importance to the Pacific Northwest, oilseeds. Brassicaceae oilseed crops including rapeseed, mustard, and camelina exhibit rotational and environmental quality benefits making them excellent choices as rotational crops for the production of advanced liquid biofuel feedstocks, however unacceptable grower returns limit feedstock production. Value-added co-product development is the only avenue available for developing a liquid biofuels industry from oilseeds grown. The overall goal is to ensure economic viability of liquid biofuels production from rapeseed, mustard, and camelina by developing enhanced-value co-products from the seed meals remaining after oil expression and glycerol generated during biodiesel production.

A research project assessing the effects of conversion of marginal lands to perennial grass biofuel crops is underway in the Northeast US to provide accounting for the long-term sustainability of this approach received its 2nd year of funding in FY 2011. This project is characterizing key metrics that strongly affect the biofuel production system emissions footprint: 1) soil carbon (C) accumulation and sequestration, and 2) nitrous oxide (N2O) and methane (CH4) emissions. These impacts-along with crop yields-will be determined under current production practices on shallow, wetness-prone marginal soils for which little relevant research exists and which comprise the primary land base for these bioenergy crops in the NE. The overarching goal of the project is to develop an understanding of near-term (<5 year) and mid-term (5-10 year) soil C trends and potential N2O and CH4 emissions from perennial grass bioenergy feedstocks grown in the NE. Tradeoffs involving suitabilities and comparative potential impacts of warm season vs. cool season perennial grass feedstocks and management choices will be better known and available to producers, planners and policymakers. These results - particularly yield which governs potential petroleum offsets and together with soil C sequestration comprises the primary C sinks, and N₂O flux which represents the primary system emission - will provide the most important (and to date largely missing) data inputs for assessing perennial grass bioenergy system impacts in the NE, which will enable development of bioenergy systems with minimized adverse and maximized positive impacts for the region.

(B) Food Security:

N/A - No projects were awarded.

(C) Food Safety:

FY10 Program A4121: Human noroviruses are the most common cause of foodborne disease. This Coordinated Agriculture Project will use an integrated, multidisciplinary approach to develop improved tools, skills, and capacity to study foodborne viruses, identifying risk factors and developing management strategies for reducing contamination in pre- and post-harvest environments.

FY12 Program A4141: Low moisture foods such as chocolate and peanut products are under researched food vehicles that have been associated with illnesses and deaths. Survival of Salmonella on these foods is not well understood. This study aims to investigate the impact of water mobility and fat content on bacteria survival, with a view to determining appropriate strategies to destroy Salmonella in these foods.

FY12 Program A4161: Poultry products have been frequently implicated in reported cases of salmonellosis. The goal of this proposal is to develop and communicate a safe, effective and economical Salmonella control program for protecting the safety of the food supply and the health of consumers. To achieve this goal, the proposed studies will develop a novel Salmonella control strategy that promotes the establishment of an intestinal microbiota in chicken that prevents colonization by pathogenic bacteria and enhances the mucosal immune response to Salmonella vaccination and challenge.

(E) NIFA Fellowship Grant Program:

NOTE: FY 2011 competition and FY 2012 competition were combined in FY 2012.

(F) Childhood Obesity Prevention:

Childhood overweight is of great concern to our population because this overweight tends to continue into adulthood and may greatly increase the risk of developing diseases such as type 2 diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and some cancers. Not only does this significantly burden the healthcare system, but is also decreases the quality of life of individuals suffering from these diseases. One potentially important time to intervene and change lifelong habits may be in early infancy. The reason for thinking this is that babies who grow rapidly tend to also be babies who become overweight children. Babies who are exclusively breastfed tend to be somewhat protected from this later risk. Though no one knows whether or not formula contributes directly to a rapid weight gain, it is possible that some babies who are formula fed can be overfed. Caregivers may or may not be aware that they are overfeeding their babies. For example, if formula has too little water, the baby will be taking in a high-calorie bottle. If the formula has too much water, the baby may still feel hungry and cry and the caregiver may believe the baby needs more food. Another way a caregiver may overfeed a baby is to add infant cereal to the bottle. Depending on how much is added, this can add a large number of calories to the bottle of formula and also changes the proportion of carbohydrate, fat and protein. Formula is specifically designed to give these nutrients in the right proportion. Changes in these nutrients may change the growth of the baby. Research from this lab has indicated that ~25% of mothers are over-diluting infant formula, and that upwards of 90% of low-income women in East Tennessee are adding infant cereal to bottles of formula. It is critical that we demonstrate how these behaviors impact rate of weight gain and then develop strategies for reducing these behaviors. The goal of this project is to discover and use genome resources of tospoviruses, thrips vectors, and plants to mitigate crop losses due to thrips and tospoviruses, while educating new scientists with interdisciplinary perspectives on vector/virus/plant biology.

The goal of this project is to develop an accurate forecasting model that will address the mite-virus disease complex in wheat and improve the growers ability to anticipate and take action to improve sustainability of wheat production systems. The model also will be deployed through Extension and educational curricula.

BRDI

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Collaboration between Department of Energy (DOE) and Department of Agriculture (USDA) on a Biomass Research and Development Initiative is directed under various statutory authorities, primarily the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) and the Energy Policy

Act of 2005 (EPAAct 2005)(Public Law 109-58; Section 941). USDAs authorization appears in Section 9008 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) which replaced section 9008 of the Farm Security, and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (FSRIA) (Public Law 107-171) [7 U.S.C. 8108]; thereby amending section 307 of the Biomass Research and Development Act of 2000 (BRDA) (7 U.S.C. 7624 note, and 7 U.S.C. 8101 note; Public Law 106224). Pursuant to Executive Order 13134, BRDA can be found at (7 U.S.C. 8601 et seq). BRDA authorizes the Biomass Research and Development. , Public Law 109-58, 7 U.S.C 8606.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: FY 2011 Activities:

USDA-NIFA and DOE collaborated to make five to seven awards in FY2011 (NIFA is finalizing five awards and DOE is finalizing one to two).

Collaboration between DOE and USDA on BRDI is directed under Section 9008(e)(1) of FSRIA, as amended, (7 U.S.C. 8108(e)(1)). DOE administers the Pre-Application process and USDA administers the Full Application process.

BRDI technology priorities are broad and are not prescriptive. The program solicits for technologies that are largely driven by trends in biomass-based energy and materials markets. The program affords the flexibility for the balance of investment to shift toward technical challenges of increasing importance in the market. The program objectives are defined in the Farm Bill section 9008(e)(2):

- a) Technologies and processes necessary for abundant commercial production of biofuels at prices competitive with fossil fuels;
- b) high-value bio-based products to enhance the economic viability of biofuels and biopower, to serve as substitutes for petroleum-based feedstocks and products, and to enhance the value of coproducts produced using the technologies and processes; and
- c) a diversity of economically sustainable domestic sources of renewable biomass for conversion to biofuels, bioenergy, and bio-based products. Fiscal Year 2012: NIFA and DOE are in the process of administering the FY 2012 competitive program. Fiscal Year 2013: FY 2013 BRDI program is contingent upon the re-authorization of the Farm Bill.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Project will retrofit an existing corn starch ethanol plant to add value to its byproducts, which will be marketed to the non-ruminant feed markets and to the biodiesel industry. This project enables creation of diverse product streams from this facility, opening new markets for the cooperative and contributing to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's goals for cellulosic ethanol production and use.

Project will optimize rapeseed/canola, mustard and camelina oilseed crops for oil quality and yield using recombinant inbred lines. Remote sensing and crop modeling will enhance production strategies to incorporate these crops into existing agricultural systems across four ecoregions in the Western United States. The oils will be hydrotreated to produce diesel and jet fuel.

Guayule is a hardwood perennial natural rubber-producing shrub grown in the semi-arid southwestern United States. This project will optimize production and quality of guayule rubber using genomic sequencing and development of molecular markers. The extracted rubber will be used in tire formulations, and the remaining plant residue will be evaluated for use in biopower and for conversion to jet fuel precursors.

Project will utilize dairy manure as a source of fiber and fertilizer. Fiber will be converted to ethanol, manure used for fertilizer, and oil from the crops will be converted to biodiesel used in farm equipment. The project goal is to develop closed-loop systems with new product streams that benefit the environment.

Project will optimize the production of grasses in Hawaii, including napier grass, energycane, sugarcane and sweet sorghum. Harvest and preprocessing will be optimized to be compatible with the biochemical conversion to jet fuel and diesel. Fiscal Year 2012: Work is in progress. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2013: FY 2013 BRDI program is contingent upon the re-authorization of the Farm Bill.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.217 Higher Education Challenge Grants

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Establish a consortium with First Quality of Anderson, SC, and Abitibi Bowater of Catawba, SC, to meet the growing demand for skilled workers, specifically in the pulp and paper industry, in their respective rural service areas. The consortium will accomplish this by developing innovative programs to meet the new technological requirements of a paper manufacturing workforce that will expand the global competitiveness of these two rural-based companies, contribute toward the economic development of the distressed region, and advance the quality of applied research in this area. Specifically, this collaboration will create customized pulp and paper manufacturing technology hybrid curriculum to a) support the creation of a highly skilled workforce for pulp and paper manufacturing and bio-energy and b) improve information-sharing capacity in this subject area, a NIFA priority for these rural communities; thus, advancing both the industry and the economy simultaneously.

The creation of a pulp and paper training program to address the apparent that gaps exist within an existing program and the expressed needs and priorities of the pulp and paper industries in the surrounding communities in the northeast region of Minnesota. The gap analysis speaks to the need for advancing the training and knowledge amongst current and future worker-learners with regards renewable energy and pulp and paper manufacturing. In addition, there is a need to advance the current curriculum delivery system for maximum access and capture the experience of a retiree workforce by training them as instructors. The project audience will be prospective traditional and non-traditional students for the pulp and paper technology program at a local community college, employers and incumbent workers for the pulp and paper industry, and retiree employees interesting in teaching the necessary skills required for this program.

Development of an associate degree and certificate program that can be replicated across those regions of the country where bioenergy technologies have been adopted by businesses and organizations, thus having an impact on local and state economies across the country. The primary audience for this initiative will include traditional students entering postsecondary education upon high school graduation and/or non-traditional students who seek a change in career or occupation. Initially, emphasis will center on recruiting and enrolling a minimum of 40 individuals from the aforementioned populations into an associate degree or credit certificate program. To support the growth and expansion of the program over time, outreach materials will be developed to provide professional development opportunities targeted towards secondary educators. The curriculum development processes will include other institutions either with existing bioenergy educational programs or those who aspire to create such a program. A curriculum development ideation workshop will be conducted to involve relevant educational institutions and members of the bioenergy industry in better defining the needs of a robust educational program. Fiscal Year 2012: N/A Not funded by Congress. Fiscal Year 2013: Funding is not anticipated for FY 2013.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the RFAs.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: The purpose of the Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers program is to provide eligible U.S. farmers, ranchers, fishers who have been adversely affected by imports with the knowledge, skills and tools needed to make adjustments to their operations, thereby enhancing their business profitability and resilience to import competition. Producers of commodities certified by the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) and who meet the eligibility requirements in application to the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) are eligible for TAAF training and technical assistance, as well as a pro-rated cash benefit to implement short- and long-term business adjustment plans.

NIFA administers the competitive award which established the National TAAF Training Coordination Center (TAAF Center). This multiyear award went to the Center for Farm Financial Management at the University of Minnesota. The TAAF Center is responsible for the development and delivery of training and technical assistance to TAAF-eligible producers. NIFA also provides management oversight through the TAAF Center, the Extension Risk Management Education regional centers, and local Extension partners who provide all training and technical assistance, including business planning for production efficiency, enterprise diversification, and marketing, as well as other beneficial subjects as needed to aid producers in adjusting to the impact of imported commodities.

The TAAF Center employed a rapid response approach to program delivery by partnering with the four regional Extension Risk Management Education Centers and establishing a network of TAAF contacts in every state. This partnership and network mobilized to quickly deliver initial training and technical assistance in every state when commodities were approved. The TAAF Center developed the infrastructure and delivery procedures to effectively deliver all four phases of training and technical assistance, including the initial orientation, intensive technical assistance workshops, training on initial business plans, and individualized instruction and consultation for development of each producers long-term business adjustment plan. The training has focused on improving yield and marketing of the impacted commodity; evaluating the feasibility of substituting the production of alternative commodities for the impacted commodity; and writing initial business plans and long-term business adjustment plans that document the steps the business will implement to adjust to import competitions. The TAAF Center also developed an online reporting database to track all activities and accomplishments of this training and technical assistance to fully comply with the reporting requirements of the ARRA. The TAAF Center has been integral to USDA efforts to promote the availability of TAAF to commodity organizations and producers.

Six commodities have been certified for TAA for Farmers eligibility: asparagus, catfish, and shrimp in the 2010 petition application year, and shrimp, lobster, and wild blueberries in the 2011 petition application year. The program received 4,289 producer applications in 2010 and 5,994 producer applications in 2011. Fiscal Year 2012: Nearly all program participants have completed the initial orientation, and most have completed the requisite 12 hours of specialized training and their initial business plans. Indeed, some participants have found the training so beneficial that they have taken 30 hours or more of training. Initial payments are now flowing from the Farm Service Agency so these farmers and fishers can implement their short-term business plan as they proceed to develop their long-range business plan with the assistance of a personally-assigned Business Planning Consultant. Many participants are now in this final phase of the program, and a significant number have completed all program components and await their final FSA payment to implement their long-term business adjustment plans. Fiscal Year 2013: As of June, 2012, 5,732 participants had completed their Long-Term Business Adjustment Plans, while 4,108 participants are still engaged in the programs final phases. Of this 4,108, those yet to complete all 12 hours of intensive training number 1,719, those yet to complete their initial business plan number 167, and those currently working to complete their long-term business adjustment plan number 2,222.

Participants approved for the program in the first round of applications have until June 24, 2013, while those approved in the second round have until September 23, 2012 to complete all phases of the program in order to qualify their final FSA payment to implement their long-term business adjustment plans.

Fiscal Year 2011: A project was awarded to develop and operate the HUFED Center in 2009.

The Center's goals are to develop socially and economically equitable access to healthy foods in communities with healthy food deficits; to support small- and mid-sized producers; to promote and support market-based enterprises with high likelihoods of addressing structural deficits in the food distribution system; and to document the strategies used to accomplish these results to enable communities nationwide to effectively adapt or replicate the strategies to meet similar needs. Fiscal Year 2012: The Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, Public Law 112-55, did not provide funding for the HUFED program in FY 2012; therefore, NIFA did not offer the funding opportunity this fiscal year. (Per NIFAs website - <http://www.nifa.usda.gov/fo/healthyurbanfoodenterprisedevelopmentcenter.cfm>). Fiscal Year 2013: HUFED is neither in NIFAs budget, nor the presidents budget for FY 13. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: There is a sole awardee for the HUFED Center. The Center awards sub-grants, provides technical assistance and capacity building, and is growing a network designed to increase overall effectiveness and ensure sustainability. Fiscal Year 2012: The Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, Public Law 112-55, did not provide funding for the HUFED program in FY 2012; therefore, NIFA did not offer the funding opportunity this fiscal year. (Per NIFAs website - <http://www.nifa.usda.gov/fo/healthyurbanfoodenterprisedevelopmentcenter.cfm>). Fiscal Year 2013: HUFED is neither in NIFAs budget, nor the presidents budget for FY 13. Hence, future funding for this program is not anticipated.

10.318 WOMEN AND MINORITIES IN SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, AND

WAMS; Women and Minorities in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics Fields (STEM) program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7204 of the Food Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) amends section 1672 of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (FACT) (7 U.S.C. 5925) to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities. The Secretary shall make these grants in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education, and Economics Advisory Board.

OBJECTIVES:

The Women and Minorities (WAMS) in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Fields program was authorized to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary. The goal of the WAMS program is to develop and implement robust partnerships to increase the representation, participation, and entrepreneurship of women in STEM careers, thereby contributing to national economic prosperity. The purpose of the grant program is to support projects that: Provide STEM knowledge, skills and competency to Women and Minorities from Rural Areas with successful placement (a) in the workforce in STEM fields, or (b) as innovators and entrepreneurs adding value to the STEM fields in areas that have relevancy to the USDA Secretarys priorities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research and extension grants to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary. Program funds may only be used for research and extension activities in the training, outreach and mentoring of rural women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in STEM fields relevant to USDA mission.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Funds made available for grants in this program shall not be used for scholarship or fellowship purposes, the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (P.L. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: For the FY 2011 award cycle, $378,915 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 11 applications requesting a total of $1,968,106 were received in this years competition. In August 2011, a four-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

Funded projects should address one or more of the following WAMS Grants Program Goals:

1. Develop successful academic recruitment and retention programs increasing the number of women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas who will pursue and complete a postsecondary degree in science, technology, engineering or mathematics (STEM) disciplines funded by the U.S Secretary of Agriculture, and for FY 2011, encourage projects focused on any of the five NIFA Challenge Areas listed in Part I, B;

2. Foster partnerships among academic institutions and employers that develop sustainable research or extension initiatives to increase the participation of women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in experiential learning opportunities leading to STEM-related careers in disciplines funded by the U.S Secretary of Agriculture, and for FY 2011, encourage projects focused on any of the five NIFA Challenge Areas. Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $382,875 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 14 applications requesting a total of $696,668 were received in this years competition; however only four met the WAMS RFA requirements satisfactorily to be panel reviewed. In June 2012, a four-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Review Background:

The amount available for support of this program in FY 2011 was approximately 1.4 million. After subtracting business cost an estimated amount of 1.398 million was awarded.

Twelve proposals were submitted. Six proposals were not accepted in GAC. All six were incomplete.

Six proposals were reviewed and ranked by six panel reviewers. Three programs received low scores and were not considered for funding. Three programs were considered for funding. Two programs needing minor changes and one program was recommended for funding as is. The Panel accepted two of these three programs to receive funding. Fiscal Year 2012: NIFA announced the availability of grant funds and requests applications for the Farm Business Management and Benchmarking (FBMB) Competitive Grants Program for fiscal year (FY) 2012 to improve the farm management knowledge and skills of agricultural producers; and maintain a national, publicly available farm financial management database to support improved farm management. The amount available for support of this program in FY 2012 is approximately $1.3 million. Grant deadline was June 15, 2012. Eight proposals will be reviewed by reviewers of a panel in August 2012. Fiscal Year 2013: It is estimated that $1.4 million will be available. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: This project will maintain and expand the national, publicly available online farm financial database that any U.S. producer can use for benchmarking and improving their farm management. It will improve the profitability and competitiveness of small and mid-sized U.S. farms and ranches by developing and providing benchmarking resources using high-quality farm financial management data. To develop and expand this database, increased collaboration between existing state-level farm management associations and farm and ranch business management education programs will be facilitated. Benchmarking is an important and growing tool used to improve producer's abilities to successfully manage the high risk and price volatility currently being experienced by farmers and ranchers throughout the U.S. This project will provide benchmarking capabilities to help producers manage risk, volatility and financial stress. Numerous researchers have indicated a desire to use the national farm financial benchmarking database to conduct research on cost of production, key determinants of farm profitability, and analyses of farm policy proposals. In conjunction with the national database, this project will develop a statistical tool that will allow researchers to conduct research without compromising the confidentiality of individual producer data. Benchmarking allows producers to compare their performance to farms and ranches of similar size that produce the same products. The benchmarking database helps producers identify their businesses strengths and weaknesses. The national database will be publicly available to all U.S. producers. Use of the database for benchmarking will improve producers' abilities to successfully manage risk and financial challenges and to become more globally competitive. If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the annual program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: For the FY 2011 award cycle, $718,560 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 6 applications requesting a total of $2,217,422 were received in this years competition. In May 2011, a seven-member peer review panel evaluated these applications and three proposals were funded for $716,566. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

Applications submitted to this grants program must state how the funded project will address the two DEG Program Goals:

1. To increase the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural sciences, or other STEM fields closely related to the food and agricultural sciences, and for FY 2012, encourage study in areas that contribute to any of the five NIFA Priority Areas listed directly above in Part I, A; and
2. To enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs. Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $720,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

One application was received this years application requesting $750,000. In May 3, 2012, a five-member combined panel with the RIIA and ANNH programs evaluated the application. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities and federal employees. Fiscal Year 2013: Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Providing students with alternate methods of learning to broaden their student experience and allow them to select the alternate method of learning that supports the evidence on learning styles theories. The outcomes of the project include increased satisfaction among students enrolled in the Program as a result of providing them with alternate methods of learning, as well as opportunities to reduce their time to complete the Program and become more proficient in the use of technology.

Addressing the lack of access of UPRU students and faculty, and of local high school science teachers and students, to centers of high scientific activity in STEM areas. The project seeks to achieve this goal by promoting the integration of distance education (DE) technologies in the academic instruction of life and agricultural sciences at the University of Puerto Rico-Utuado (UPRU) and high schools of central Puerto Rico. The project's target objectives are to: a) train UPRU faculty and science high school teachers in DE technologies; b) designate one classroom of UPRU's Agricultural Technology building to DE activities; c) promote the interaction of high school science teachers and UPRU faculty; d) develop a pilot seminar course that incorporates DE technologies and agricultural science topics of global interest; and e) evaluate the effect of incorporating DE technologies in agricultural science classes in student performance and motivation. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Award was made to a university consortium led by the University of California-Davis during the last weeks of FY 2011, therefore no program accomplishments to report this year. Fiscal Year 2012: U.S. university faculty were recruited, hired, and placed in 4 provinces in Afghanistan. They established offices and began training provincial and district-level extension staff. Train-the-trainer workshops on a wide range of technical issues were implemented in all four provinces. These included post-harvest storage of grains, conservation agriculture, mitigating & treating plant pests/diseases, efficient irrigation techniques, and improved horticultural practices. A special emphasis was placed on developing extension programs for Afghan women that focused on home gardening, small-scale poultry operations, nutrition, food safety, and food preservation. Much time and effort was also placed on ensuring that the Afghanistan Ministry of Agriculture was an active partner in all plans and implemented activities. Fiscal Year 2013: Training workshops will continue and be expanded into new technical areas and geographic regions, although primary emphasis will remain on the four targeted provinces. More attention will be paid to monitoring and evaluating how Afghan extension personnel are using the AAEP training to change how they deliver information to rural clientele. More US university faculty will participate in the in-country training programs through short-term assignments to Afghanistan. The project will continue to collaborate with other agricultural organizations (US & foreign) to maximize program effectiveness and avoid duplication. AAEP will continue to emphasize building capacity of the Ministry of Agriculture extension staff at the national, provincial and district levels.

10.327 COMMON BEAN PRODUCTIVITY RESEARCH FOR GLOBAL FOOD SECURITY COMPETITIVE PROGRAM

Bean Productivity Research

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Economy Act (31 U.S.C.1535), 31 U.S.C 1535; Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2010 (P.L. 111-117), Public Law 111-117; Section 632(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2151), 22 U.S.C 2151.

OBJECTIVES:

To develop approaches and/or methods that can address challenges to common bean production among small holder producers in food insecure countries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

In collaboration with and using funding provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development, NIFA is seeking research proposals to develop approaches and/or methods to address challenges to common bean production among smallholder producers. Applications are being solicited for the BPR under the following areas:

- (1) Reducing Production Constraints from Soil Borne Pathogens: Soil borne pathogen pressure on common bean is a significant constraint to production. Such pathogens and associated root rots already reduce production in areas with high rainfall. As rainfall increases, as is expected around the equatorial zone in Africa, in particular East Africa, pathogen-related production constraints may become even more limiting.
- (2) Improving Transformation Technologies in Common Bean: Although success in transforming common bean has been limited to date, it is a promising strategy to address key production constraints. Developing and/or improving the methodologies and approaches necessary to efficiently transform this recalcitrant species is necessary to removing roadblocks to transformation. Grant funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established (i.e., approved) by its cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a current negotiated rate, the applicant should request a rate from the Federal agency from which the applicant receives the most funding. Fully discretionary.

Section 514/516 funds are divided between off-farm housing and on-farm housing. The off-farm program provides loans and grants to organizations that assist farm workers at off-farm locations with no restrictions that workers be employed on a particular farm. Under new regulations effective June 1999, preapplications for the off-farm program funds must be submitted in response to a Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) published in the Federal Register every year. RHS scores the preapplications, using a ranking process to determine which applicants will be invited to submit formal applications. The on-farm program makes loans to eligible farmers (or a group of farmers) to provide Housing, usually for their own laborers. Preapplications for on-farm units, or for repair And rehabilitation of existing off-farm units, may be submitted at any time are processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Loans are usually made for 33 years at 1 percent interest. Grants may cover up to 90 percent of development cost. The balance may be (and usually is) a Section 514 loan. 10.435 STATE MEDIATION GRANTS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Farm Service Agency, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Agricultural Credit Act of 1987.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States in establishing and administering mediation programs and services for agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable), and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are to be used for the operation and administration of a State's mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of the Farm Service Agency (FSA) as meeting the requirements of Section 501 (c) of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (U.S.C. 510), as amended. A grant will not exceed 70 percent of the total fiscal year funds that a qualifying State requires to operate and administer its mediation program, or $500,000, whichever is less. Eligible costs are limited to those that are reasonable and necessary to carry out the mission of the State's mediation program and may include activities related to the intake and scheduling of cases, the provision of background and selected information regarding the mediation process, financial advisory and counseling services, and the mediation session.

Applicant Eligibility:

State governments.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable) and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

Have a mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of FSA, and for which certification has not been withdrawn; provide evidence to justify the estimated costs of operating and administering the State's mediation program. The Governor of a State or head of an entity designated by the Governor of a State must make a written request to FSA on or before August 1 of each year to receive a matching grant during the fiscal year commencing on October 1, of that same year. Request for certification are accepted after August 1 of each year; however, the State will be considered in order of date received for reserved grant funds. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. To be certified as a qualifying State, the mediation program of the State must mediate issues involving agricultural loans (regardless of whether the loans are made or guaranteed by the Secretary of Agriculture or made by third party); and may provide mediation services for disputes involving wetlands determinations, compliance with farm programs including conservation programs, rural water loan programs, grazing on National forest system lands, pesticides, and such other issues, under the jurisdiction of the Secretary meeting the requirements of Section 501 of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (7 U.S.C. 510), as amended. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

The standard application forms as furnished by the Federal agency and required by 7 CFR part 3016, must be used for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Grant funds will be distributed on a first come, first served basis to qualifying States. If, however, when funds for a fiscal year become available, there are not sufficient funds to give all qualifying States 70 percent of their justified estimated expenses for the fiscal year, the percentage allocation will be reduced so as to give all States the same percentage of their expenses. FSA views the use of grant funds to provide financial advisory or other services in an advocacy context to be inconsistent with the premise of a mediation program, which is to provide a neutral forum for resolution of disputes.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The rates of reimbursement are adjusted on an annual basis to reflect changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for all Urban Consumers. For the period July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2012, the rates of reimbursement are 27.0 cents for paid breakfasts, 121.0 cents for each reduced price breakfast, and 151.0 cents for each free breakfast. Schools serving 40 percent or more free and reduced price lunches in the second preceding school year get up to 150.0 cents and 180.0 cents for each breakfast served to children qualifying, respectively, for a reduced price and a free breakfast. All participating schools must agree to serve free and reduced price meals to eligible children, and to operate the program on a nonprofit basis for all children regardless of race, sex, color, National origin, age, or disability. $1 million was appropriated for State agencies to expand the School Breakfast Program (SBP). School aged children receive one of three benefit levels based on an application used to determine need.

Please refer to Program Regulations (CFR)

Part 210 -- National School Lunch Program

Part 215 -- Special Milk Program

Part 220 -- School Breakfast Program

Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense

Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility

The purpose of the School Breakfast Program expansion grants is to provide subgrants, not to exceed $10,000, to local educational agencies (LEA) for qualifying schools to establish, maintain, or expand the SBP. $1 million was appropriated to award grant funds on a competitive basis to selected States using the following criteria: SBP participation compared to participation in the National School Lunch Program (NSLP); percentage of severe need schools in the State; SBP growth in Free/Reduced Price participation in relation to the Free/Reduced Price NSLP participation; and the State-level unemployment rate.

Applicant Eligibility:

State and U.S. Territory agencies; (except territories subject to the requirements to the Compact of Free Association) public and nonprofit private schools of high school grade and under; public and nonprofit private residential child care institutions, except Job Corps Centers. Schools desiring to participate must agree to operate a nonprofit breakfast program that is available to all children regardless of race, sex, color, National origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

All children attending schools where the breakfast program is operating may participate. Breakfast is served free to children who are determined by local educational agencies to have household income levels at or below 130 percent, and at a reduced price to children from households with incomes higher than 130 but at or below 185 percent of the federal poverty line, respectively. Meals served to non-needy children also get cash assistance. Such determinations are made in accordance with income eligibility guidelines prescribed by the Secretary and cross reference household income with household size. The Secretary prescribes these income eligibility guidelines by July 1; the statistical source used in making such revisions is the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines.

Children from households certified to receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families and some children in Head Start Programs are automatically eligible for free meals. Homeless children, children in certain runaway and homeless youth grant programs, migrant children, and foster children are automatically eligible for free meals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicant organizations must furnish evidence of nonprofit status. Costs will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Part 3015 or 3016 and 3019). OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Public schools in all States make application to the State Educational Agency unless the State applies or is approved for a waiver to designate an alternate agency. Appropriate forms may be obtained from this agency. Nonprofit private schools should also apply to the State Educational Agency in most States. In some States, however, the State Educational Agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application will be referred to the alternate State agency or the appropriate Food and Nutrition Service regional office.

Award Procedure:

When application is approved, schools make agreements with appropriate agency.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Agreements become effective upon approval by the State Agency or FNSRO, where applicable.

Appeals:

None. The State Agency or Food and Nutrition Service regional office, where applicable, is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Federal funds are made available for breakfast assistance in accordance with Section 4 of the Child Nutrition Act on a performance basis by: (1) multiplying the number of paid breakfasts served to eligible children during the fiscal year by a National Average Payment (NAP) prescribed by the Secretary; (2) multiplying the number of breakfasts served free to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for free breakfasts; and, (3) multiplying the number of reduced price breakfasts served to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for reduced-priced breakfasts. The amount of Federal funds given the grantee is the sum of the products obtained from these three computations, plus an additional 6 cents for every breakfast served. Schools with a high percentage of needy may receive additional payments. The statistical factors used in this formula are: (1) The NAP's; (2) the number of paid breakfasts served; and (3) the number of breakfasts served free or at reduced price to eligible children. The NAP's are prescribed by the Secretary and adjusted each July 1, in accordance with the Food Away From Home component of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. The source of this adjustment factor is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The source of the numbers of breakfasts served, including the number served free or at reduced price, is the monthly programmatic reports submitted to Food and Nutrition Service. This program has no maintenance of effort (MOE) requirements.

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement on a fiscal-year basis. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

States must submit a final fiscal year grant closeout report to the Food and Nutrition Service no later than 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133.

Records:

Schools must maintain full and accurate records of the breakfast program. Such records shall be retained for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain, except that if audit findings have not been resolved, records shall be retained beyond the 3 year period until audit findings have been resolved.

Appeals:

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for the general cash for food assistance phase of the program is set forth in Section 4 of the National School Lunch Act, as amended; the formula for special cash assistance is described in Section 11 of the Act. The program is funded on a performance basis. For every lunch served during the applicable fiscal year, the State receives a payment from funds made available under Section 4. In addition, the State receives a payment from Section 11 funds for each lunch served to a child eligible for free or reduced price lunches. The amounts of such per-lunch payments are determined by "National Average Payment" (NAP) factors. The amount due the State under this program is obtained by: (1) multiplying the total number of eligible paid lunches and free and reduced price lunches served during the fiscal year by the Section 4 NAP factor for lunches; (2) multiplying the number of free lunches served by the Section 11 NAP factor for free lunches; (3) multiplying the number of lunches served at reduced price by the Section 11 NAP factor for reduced price lunches; (4) multiplying the total number of lunches served during the fiscal year in school food authorities which served 60 percent or more free or reduced price lunches in the second preceding school year by $.02; and (5) adding together the four products obtained thereby. The NAP factors are prescribed by the Secretary in accordance with Sections 4 and 11, respectively, of the Act; the numbers of lunches are obtained from programmatic reports submitted to Food and Nutrition Service. In addition, the funding formula for snacks in after school care programs is described in Section 17 A of the Act. Section 11(a)(3) of the Act requires that the NAP factors be adjusted annually, according to changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers; the source is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Each State must appropriate from State revenues and use, for program purposes, an amount equal to 30 percent of the Section 4 funds made available to the State in the 1980-81 school year. Also, commodity schools are eligible to receive donated commodities equal in value to the sum of section 6 and section 4 assistance rates, except that up to 5 cents of this amount may be received in cash for processing and handling commodities. In addition, commodity schools are eligible for Section 11 free and reduced price meal reimbursements.

This program has no matching requirements.

This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

OBJECTIVES:

To provide subsidies to schools and institutions to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available to State agencies to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children in public and private nonprofit schools of high school grade and under, public and private nonprofit nursery schools, child-care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar nonprofit institutions devoted to the care and training of children, except Job Corps Centers, provided that these schools and institutions do not participate in a meal service program authorized under the National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. The Child Nutrition Amendments of 1986 expanded eligibility in the program to include children in split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs in nonprofit schools and institutions who do not have access to the Federal meal service program operating in schools the children attend. Disbursement to States is made on the basis of the number of half pints of milk served to non-needy children, using a reimbursement rate specified by law. Milk served free to eligible needy children is reimbursed at the average cost of a half pint of milk. Please refer to Program Regulations (CFR): Part 215 -- Special Milk Program Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

Any State or U.S. Territory (except territories subject to the requirements of the Compact of Free Association). This generally includes nonprofit nursery schools, child-care centers, settlement houses and summer camps. Schools with split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs can receive subsidies for milk served to children in the split session kindergartens and pre-kindergartens who do not have access to another meal service program operating in the school. All schools and child care institutions which participate must agree to operate the program on a nonprofit basis for all children without regard to race, sex, color, National origin, age or disability.

WIC Program grants are made to State health departments or comparable agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils, or groups recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. These agencies distribute funds to participating local public or nonprofit private health or welfare agencies. Funds are expended to pay for supplemental foods, nutrition education and health care referrals for participants, as well as specified nutrition services and administrative costs, including certification services. State agencies are provided Federal funds according to legislative and regulatory formulas. Only local agencies qualifying under State agency applications with formal agreements may operate WIC programs.

Applicant Eligibility:

A local agency is eligible to apply to deliver locally the services of the WIC Program, provided that: (1) it serves a population of low-income women, infants, and children at nutritional risk; and (2) it is a public or private nonprofit health or human service agency. All local agencies must apply through the responsible State, Indian Tribal Organization or U.S. Territory agency.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children up to 5 years of age are eligible if: (1) they are individually determined by a competent professional to be in need of the special supplemental foods supplied by the program because of nutritional risk; and (2) meet an income standard, or receive or have certain family members that receive benefits under the Food Stamp, Medicaid or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families Programs. They must also reside in the State in which benefits are received.

Credentials/Documentation:

Individuals are certified as meeting an income standard, or as participating in certain other means-tested Federal programs. Certification regarding nutritional need for supplemental foods is determined by local level professionals. As of April 1999, all State agencies were using uniform criteria to determine nutrition risk. Costs are determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. The State designated official responsible for ensuring that the program is operated in accordance with program requirements must sign the State Plan and Federal-State Agreement pursuant to program regulations. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. Local agencies and retailers must apply to the State agency in writing. Individual participants apply for WIC benefits at an approved local agency. State agencies must submit required documentation to FNS.

Award Procedure:

WIC Program funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies for distribution to approved local agencies subject to available funds.

Deadlines:

Aug 15, 2012 A State plan for the next fiscal year is required by August 15. Only substantive changes to the currently approved State plan must be submitted.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Approval determination for the WIC Program is made within 30 days of submission of a completed plan or amendment.

Appeals:

For the WIC Program, local agency or food vendor appeals: The State agency provides a hearing appeal procedure for a food vendor or local agency adversely affected by certain State or local agency actions. The adverse action may be postponed until a hearing decision is reached. Participant appeals: The State agency provides a hearing appeal procedure for any individual that receives a State or local agency action that results in a claim for repayment of the cash value of improperly issued benefits, denial of participation, or disqualification from the WIC Program.

Renewals:

The WIC program is authorized through September 30, 2015; it presently operates under the authority of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 7, Part 246, Public Law Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended. Grants are allocated on the basis of formulas determined by the Department of Agriculture which allocate funds for food benefits, nutrition services and administration costs.

This program has no matching requirements. No matching funds are required but some States contribute nonfederal funds in support of a larger WIC Program in their State.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

For fiscal year 2011, FNS approved the operation of the WIC Program in 90 State agencies. This figure includes 50 States, 34 Indian agencies, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas and the District of Columbia. During fiscal year 2011, an average of approximately 8,960,586 women, infants and children received WIC benefits every month. Although food package costs varied widely among the States, the monthly average food package cost for fiscal year 2011 was approximately $46.67 per person.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: In FY 2011, WIC provided nutritious foods, nutrition education and referrals for health and social services to an average of 8,960,587 women, infants and children under the age of five. Numerous studies have shown that pregnant women who participate in WIC have longer pregnancies leading to fewer premature births; have fewer low and very low birth-weight babies; experience fewer fetal and infant deaths; seek prenatal care earlier in pregnancy and consume more of such key nutrients as iron, protein, calcium and Vitamins A and C. WIC helped ensure infants and children's normal growth, reduced levels of anemia, increased immunization rates, improved access to regular health care/social services and improved diets. Breastfed infants tend to be healthier since they receive antibodies from the breast milk, which protects them against infection. Fiscal Year 2012: No Current Data Available. Fiscal Year 2013: No Current Data Available.

OBJECTIVES:

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible institutions to reimburse their costs in providing meals and snacks to children and adults enrolled in nonresidential day care, children attending afterschool care programs, and children residing in emergency shelters. Disbursement is made on the basis of the number of breakfasts, lunches, suppers, and snacks served, using annually adjusted reimbursement rates specified by law. The program allows reimbursement for up to two meals and one snack served each day to children through the age of 12, children of migrant workers through the age of 15, and persons with disabilities, in child care centers and day care homes. Adult day care centers receive reimbursement for up to three meals served each day to enrolled adults who are functionally impaired or age 60 and older. The program also provides reimbursement to emergency shelters for up to three meals served each day to residents age 18 and younger. In at-risk afterschool care programs, reimbursement is available for one snack and an additional meal served each day, during the regular school year, to children through the age of 18. All program meals must meet minimum requirements of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). Funds are also paid to participating State agencies for administrative expenses related to program staffing and oversight.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Approved institutions providing nonresidential day care services may participate in the program. Eligible public and nonprofit private organizations may include day care centers, outside-school-hours care centers, settlement houses, family and group day care homes, Head Start programs, and institutions providing day care services to children with disabilities. Private for-profit centers may also participate if at least 25 percent of the children in care (enrolled or licensed capacity, whichever is less) are eligible for free or reduced price school meals or receive benefits under Title XX (of the Social Security Act). Also eligible for participation are nonprofit centers which provide nonresidential adult day care, and private for-profit centers if the center receives compensation under Title XIX (of the Social Security Act) or Title XX, and at least 25 percent of the adults enrolled in the center receive benefits under Title XIX, Title XX, or a combination of both. Emergency shelters which provide shelter and meals to children experiencing homelessness, and at-risk afterschool care programs in low-income areas are also eligible. Any eligible institution may participate in the Child and Adult Care Food Program upon request with State agency approval.

Credentials/Documentation:

The allowability of costs incurred by States in administering the program will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019). Applicants that are not public or proprietary institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Institutions apply to the responsible State agency. This program is subject to the provisions of USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019).

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Not Applicable.

Appeals:

The administering agency must provide a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Program funds are provided to the States through letters of credit to reimburse institutions for costs of food service operations, including administrative expenses. Appropriate rates of reimbursement, multiplied by the number of meals served to enrolled participants, represent the basic program payment that an institution receives for each meal served. The assigned rates of reimbursement are adjusted annually on July 1. For child care centers, adult day care centers, emergency shelters, and at-risk afterschool care programs, the annual adjustment reflects changes in the Food Away from Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. For day care homes, the adjustment reflects changes in the Food at Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Donated foods or cash in lieu of donated foods are also made available. Program payments to child care or adult day care centers depend on the number and types of meals served to enrolled participants, multiplied by the appropriate rate of reimbursement. Rates for meals served to enrolled children and eligible adults in day care centers are determined by the participants' eligibility for free, reduced price, or paid meals using USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines. All resident children age 18 and younger in eligible emergency shelters receive free meals without application. At-risk afterschool care programs, which must be located in low-income areas, are reimbursed at the free rate for all meals and snacks served to children through age 18. Sponsoring organizations of day care homes are reimbursed at a gradational administrative rate based on the number of homes they operate. The level of reimbursement for meals served to enrolled children in day care homes is determined by economic need based on either the location of the day care home, the income of the day care provider, or the income of an individual child's household. Meals served in day care homes to the provider's own children are reimbursable only if those children are determined eligible for free and reduced price meals, and at least one other nonresident child is participating in the meal service. The reimbursement for food service is passed on by the sponsoring organization to the day care facility. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

Institutions file monthly reports on program operations to claim reimbursement for meals served. They must submit final meal claims no later than 60 days after the claiming month. States must then submit final program reports to FNS no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. No expenditure reports are required. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133. For-profit institutions are subject to audit by their administering State agencies.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 106 Stat. 281; Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17(m), 42 U.S.C. 1786.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide fresh, nutritious, unprepared, locally grown fruits and vegetables from farmers markets to women, infants, and children who participate in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC); and to expand the awareness and use of farmers' markets and increase sales at such markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are made to State health, agriculture and other agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils or groups recognized by the Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program.

Applicant Eligibility:

All State agencies that desire to receive a FMNP grant must submit, for each Federal fiscal year, a State Plan to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), USDA. New State agencies are selected based on the availability of funds after base grants for currently participating State agencies are funded. Local FMNP sites are selected by participating State agencies based on concentration of eligible WIC participants and access to farmers' markets.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

WIC participants (i.e., pregnant, postpartum or breastfeeding women; infants over 4 months of age; and children up to 5 years of age) and (at the State's discretion) those who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits are eligible to receive FMNP coupons. State agencies may also designate subcategories of WIC participants, e.g., pregnant and breastfeeding women only, to be FMNP recipients.

Credentials/Documentation:

A signed and executed Federal/State Agreement (FNS-339) is necessary before funds can be allocated to a participating FMNP State agency. Costs will be determined in accordance with 7 CFR Part 3016, and FNS guidelines and instructions. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Application is made through submission of a "State Plan of Program Operation and Administration" as required by law. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Farmers or farmers' markets (depending on whether State agencies have agreements with farmers or markets) located in communities with WIC Program sites may apply to be authorized to accept FMNP coupons under the program. The State agency reviews the applications for completeness and compliance with authorization requirements. The State agency contacts the farmer/farmers' market to inform them of qualification. Individual participants apply for FMNP benefits at approved local WIC agencies.

Award Procedure:

Funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies. If the available funds are insufficient to meet the base grant levels for current FMNP grantees, a pro-rata reduction will be applied to the grant levels awarded to all participating FMNP State agencies. If additional funds become available for the FMNP, such funds would first be distributed evenly among the current grantees to make whole their base grants for that fiscal year. Grant payments are made by a letter of credit.

Deadlines:

Nov 15, 2012 FMNP State Plans for the current fiscal year are due to the appropriate FNS Regional office by November 15.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

As required by law (at Section 1786(m)(6)(A) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended), the Secretary must inform each FMNP State agency of the award of funds by February 15 of each year.

Appeals:

All decisions by the FNS are final.

Renewals:

This Program is authorized through September 30, 2015.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Statutory formula can be found at Section 17(m)(3) of the Child Nutrition Act. As a prerequisite to the receipt of Federal funds, a State agency must agree to contribute program income or State, local or private funds equal to at least 30 percent of its administrative program cost. Provided that sufficient funds are available, each current State agency will be funded at its most recent year's level. Remaining funds are divided between current States for expansion and new States, based on a 75 to 25 percent ratio, respectively. Matching Requirements: Percent: 30%. As a prerequisite to the receipt of Federal funds, a State agency must agree to contribute program income or State, local or private funds equal to at least 30 percent of its administrative program cost. To provide grants to WIC State agencies to plan, design, implement, enhance or transfer management information (MIS) systems. Please note the following grant activities:

1. WIC EBT Amendments (non-competitive). Grant funds for WIC EBT amendments are provided to WIC State agencies to support on-going EBT planning or implementation projects. These projects were originally funded through a competitive process using WIC technology or American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funds. Many WIC State agencies received only partial funding in their original grant award and amendments provide the additional funds needed to ensure all activities are completed and projects are successful.
2. WIC EBT Implementation (non-competitive). Implementation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies to enhance and modify current management information systems to support EBT, conduct cost evaluations, and develop retailer management plans.
3. WIC SAM Amendments (non-competitive). Grant funds for WIC SAM amendments are provided to support WIC State agencies that are either part of the original SAM consortia, or those that need additional funding to complete implementation of a SAM transfer system. These funds are used by WIC State agencies for implementation completion as well as system enhancements through the SAM user group process.
4. WIC EBT Planning Grants (non-competitive). EBT Planning grants funds are provided to WIC State agencies to assess the feasibility of EBT for their State, as well as to perform a cost analysis to verify EBT affordability. The planning process is a WIC requirement prior to EBT implementation and looks at WIC Information System capabilities, retailer capabilities, and baseline paper cost compared to EBT operational cost within the State to better prepare for the challenges of EBT implementation. WIC State agencies must analyze both on-line and off-line EBT technologies to assess the most cost-effective solution.
5. WIC Technical Innovation Grants (competitive). WIC Technical Innovation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies for the development of standardized reporting, retailer certification test scripts, and development of a web-based Internet system that will allow WIC participants to access grocer's websites, select WIC approved foods and purchase them with their EBT card from the convenience of their homes.
6. WIC SAM Transfers Grants (non-competitive). SAM Transfer grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies that have completed their planning activities, and have an approved Alternatives Analysis document that justifies a SAM as their choice of system transfer. Funds are used for implementation activities.
7. WIC MIS Amendments (non-competitive). Grant funds for WIC MIS amendments are provided to support WIC State agencies that have already received grant funding for their MIS projects. This includes planning for and transferring of an existing system, or developing a new system.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: The Indiana Department of Education (IDOE) applied for an ART Method II implementation grant to create a comprehensive Coordinated Review Effort (CRE) Review Module for integration with its CNPweb system. The developed software will automate the CRE process on PC Tablet/Laptop based systems. The results of the review will be synchronized with their CNP web portal, allowing school food authorities (SFAs) to view and respond to findings online. Reviews will be scheduled through the system also, using the date of last review as well as an analytical profile subsystem that will identify SFAs with data reporting, claiming and compliance problems. Grant funds will be used to improve program reporting, automate the workflow tasks for the corrective action process, and provide a seamless integrated environment between on-site review processes and backend program operations. SFAs and internal staff will be trained to effectively utilize the new system. Data collected will be used to enhance future SFA reviews, and training at all levels.

The Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education office applied for an ART Method II implementation grant to implement a data driven integrated technology system that will allow the state to identify local education agencies (LEAs) and schools that are at-risk or error-prone for child nutrition program administrative errors. The State proposes to establish an online system that will capture and organize data and provide comprehensive analysis, benchmarking, and reporting tools. The system will allow the state to develop key performance indicators for buildings and LEAs, compare peer schools, and monitor program performance in real time. Missouri will also implement an e-learning system to enhance its ability to provide needed program training.

The Connecticut State Department of Education applied for an implementation grant to help them meet or exceed USDA benchmarks for direct certification rates through system enhancements to create and implement a fully automated, state-level direct certification and matching system that is highly responsive to state and local educational agency (LEA) needs. The intent is to optimize the quality of student data and accuracy of matching by: 1) creating a state-level online portal solution for non-public school student administration, public school case management matching reconciliation and the dissemination of direct certification information which provides LEAs with access to student data and direct certification matches; 2) incorporating unique identifiers for public and non-public school students to meet matching system data mapping; 3) standardizing and expanding system match capabilities between LEAs and multiple state agencies; 4) providing LEAs with monthly direct certification updates based on SNAP and Temporary Family Assistance (TFA) eligibility to permit sponsors to continually certify students directly; and 5) provide training and technical assistance to LEAs, with an emphasis on system integration and use by private schools. Fiscal Year 2012: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2013: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Applications are initially reviewed for eligibility and sufficiency, as defined in the RFA. Those applications that meet the criteria are reviewed by a technical panel based on specific criteria outlined in the RFA. The panel makes recommendations to the selecting official based on scoring results. The selecting official makes the final award decisions.

10.583 HUNGER FREE COMMUNITIES

Hunger-Free Communities Grants

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

These grants will be awarded under authority provided by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, Section 4405, 7 U.S.C. 8701. This section allows the Secretary of Agriculture to award grants to meet the hunger free communities goals described in the H. Con. Res. 302 (102nd Congress), Public Law 102-PIL 110-246, 8701 U.S.C 4405.

OBJECTIVES:

As defined in the H.Con.Res. 302(102nd Congress), the 14 goals of the Hunger-Free Communities initiative are:

1. Having a community-based emergency food delivery network that coordinates the services of programs such as food pantries, food banks, and congregate meals facilities.
2. Assessing food insecurity problems and evaluating existing services in the community to determine necessary strategies for responding to unmet needs.
3. Establishing a group of individuals, including low-income participants, to develop and to implement policies and programs to combat food insecurity, to monitor responsiveness of existing services, and to address underlying causes and factors related to hunger.
4. Participating in federally assisted nutrition programs that should be easily accessible to targeted populations, such as the Federal programs that provide school breakfast, school lunch, summer food, child care food, and food for homeless and older individuals.
5. Effectively integrating public and private resources, including local businesses, to alleviate food insecurity.

6. Having an education program about food needs of the community and the need for increased local citizen participation in activities to alleviate food insecurity.
7. Having available information and referral services for accessing both public and private programs and services.
8. Having initiatives for alleviating food shopping constraints through the development of creative food resources such as community gardens, buying clubs, food cooperatives, community-owned and operated grocery stores, and farmers' markets.
9. Carrying out activities to identify and target food services to high-risk populations.
10. Having adequate transport and distribution of food from all resources.
11. Coordinating food services with park and recreation programs and other community-based outlets to which residents of the area would have easy access.
12. Improving public transportation, human service agencies, and food resources.
13. Having nutrition education programs for low-income citizens to enhance good food-purchasing and food-preparation skills and to heighten awareness of the connection between diet and health.
14. Having a program for collecting and distributing nutritious food, either agricultural commodities in farmers' fields or foods that have already been prepared, that would otherwise be wasted.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Applications that meet the screening requirements will be referred to an appropriate technical review panel. Each panel member will rank the applications assigned to them by score from highest to lowest. Applications are scored based on the defined community's need for the project, a comprehensive project design, organizational capacity for successfully completing the project combined with strong community partnerships, and budget criteria.

The selection official will consider each panel's recommendations; however he or she may consider other USDA or FNS priorities such as geographic, demographic or socioeconomic diversity, and agency priorities in addition to the scores assigned by the technical review panels. The selection official may also determine that, based on their scores, few of the applications are of technical merit. In such a case, FNS may make fewer awards or smaller awards than expected or make no awards. In addition, FNS reserves the option to select one or more lower rated applications in order to achieve a diversity of projects and regional representation.

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE:

XII. ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS

Debarment and Suspension 2 CFR Part 180 and 2 CFR Part 417

A recipient chosen for an award shall comply with the non-procurement debarment and suspension common rule implementing Executive Orders (E.O.) 12549 and 12669, Debarment and Suspension, codified at 2 CFR Part 180 and 2 CFR Part 417. This common rule restricts sub-awards and contracts with certain parties that are debarred, suspended or otherwise excluded from or ineligible for participation in Federal assistance programs or activities. The approved grant recipient will be required to ensure that all sub-contractors and sub-grantees are neither excluded nor disqualified under the suspension and debarment rules prior to approving a sub-grant award by checking the Excluded Parties List System (EPLS) found at www.epls.gov.

Universal Identifier and Central Contractor Registration 2 CFR Part 25

Effective October 1, 2010, all grant applicants must obtain a Dun and Bradstreet (D&B) Data Universal Numbering System (DUNS) number as a universal identifier for Federal financial assistance. Active grant recipients and their direct sub-recipients of a sub-grant award also must obtain a DUNS number. To request a DUNS number visit: <http://fedgov.dnb.com/webform>.

The grant recipient must also register its DUNS number into the Central Contractor Registration (CCR) system, which is the repository for standard information about applicants and recipients. Current registration must be maintained in the CCR throughout the performance period of the grant award. CCR registration can be accessed at <https://www.uscontractorregistration.com/>

FNS may not make an award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with the requirements described in 2 CFR 25 to provide a valid DUNS number and maintain an active CCR registration with current information.

Reporting Sub-award and Executive Compensation Information 2 CFR Part 170

The Federal Funding Accountability and Transparency Act (FFATA) of 2006 (Public Law 109282), as amended by Section 6202 of Public Law 110252 requires primary grantees of Federal grants and cooperative agreements to report information on sub-grantee obligations and executive compensation. FFATA promotes open government by enhancing the Federal Governments accountability for its stewardship of public resources. This is accomplished by making Government information, particularly information on Federal spending, accessible to the general public.

Primary grantees, including State agencies, are required to report actions taken on or after October 1, 2010, that obligates $25,000 or more in Federal grant funds to first-tier sub-grantees. This information must be reported in the Government-wide FFATA Sub-Award Reporting System (FSRS). In order to access FSRS a current CCR registration is required. A primary grantee and first-tier sub-grantees must also report total compensation for each of its five most-highly compensated executives. Every primary and first-tier grantee must obtain a DUNS number prior to being eligible to receive a grant or sub-grant award. Additional information will be provided to grant recipients upon award.

Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act of Fiscal Year 2009, Public Law 110-417

Section 872 of this Act requires the development and maintenance of a Federal Government information system that contains specific information on the integrity and performance of covered Federal agency contractors and grantees. The Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System (FAPIIS) was developed to address these requirements. FAPIIS contains integrity and performance information from the Contractor Performance Assessment Reporting System, information from the CCR database, and suspension and debarment information from the EPLS. FNS will review and consider any information about the applicant reflected in FAPIIS when making a judgment about whether an applicant is qualified to receive an award.

XIII. CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS AND OTHER GOVERNMENT REQUIREMENTS

This grant will be awarded and administered in accordance with the following regulations and the corresponding OMB Circulars that establish the principles for cost determination found at 2 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Subtitle A, Chapter II: Part 220, Education Institutions (OMB Circular A-21); Part 225, State, Local and Indian Tribal Governments (OMB Circular A-87); and Part 230, Non-Profit Organizations (OMB Circular A-122). Any Federal laws, regulations, or USDA directives released after this RFA is posted will be implemented as instructed.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Center of Excellence for Food Safety in Child Nutrition Programs FNS awarded a grant to Kansas State University in April 2011 to establish a Center of Excellence to conduct research related to food safety in Child Nutrition Programs. There is no research entity that focuses on food safety research in schools, child care, and other FNS programs, yet there is a need for science-based research to provide the basis for food safety education programs.

NFSMI Food Safety Cooperative Agreement In FY 2012 NFSMI will continue to conduct program research, develop training resources, and conduct evaluations in the area of food safety. FNS also is working with NFSMI to develop educational materials on inventory tracking and management for district and school level foodservice employees.

Norovirus Outbreak Prevention FNS analysis of data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) found that norovirus is the leading cause of food borne illness outbreaks in schools. FNS and NFSMI have developed norovirus educational resources for school foodservice staff, including fact sheets, mini-posters, and a video.

Food Defense Awareness FNS initiated a food defense project following four years of nationwide awareness training conducted by FNS. The awareness training encouraged State and local program operators to develop food defense plans and identified resource materials to assist in the development of the plans. The next step is to provide State and local program operators with a resource to test their plans. In FY 2011, a draft tabletop exercise (TTX) resource kit was piloted at three sites. Also in FY 2011, FNS worked with NFSMI to develop and train a cadre of facilitators who can work with school districts to conduct a TTX.

Produce Safety FNS worked with the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) and the National Food Service Management Institute (NFSMI) to offer the Produce Safety University (PSU) to support the growing interest and participation in fresh produce programs in schools, such as the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program, farm-to-school initiatives, and school gardens. PSU is a week-long course in produce safety for State agency staff and local school district directors for the NSLP. Training addresses food safety risks associated with fresh produce; good agricultural, handling, and manufacturing practices of fresh produce; hands-on training for fresh whole and fresh cut produce in various states of wholesomeness; fresh produce purchasing, receiving, storage, preparation and service. Fiscal Year 2012: Center of Excellence for Food Safety in Child Nutrition Programs The Center is starting projects such as an expansion of the school food cooling study and an evaluation of the guidance for developing a school food safety plan based on Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points principles.

NFSMI Food Safety Cooperative Agreement In FY 2012 NFSMI will continue to conduct program research, develop training resources, and conduct evaluations in the area of food safety. FNS also is working with NFSMI to develop educational materials on inventory tracking and management for district and school level foodservice employees.

Norovirus Outbreak Prevention FNS and NFSMI are also working on employee health and hygiene educational materials for schools and child care that will help minimize the likelihood of norovirus and other foodborne illness infections to be spread from ill food handlers.

Food Defense Awareness In FY 2012, the tabletop exercise (TTX) resource kit is being field tested at three additional sites. The project will culminate in the release of a turnkey package that State agencies or school food authorities can use to conduct a school food defense TTX. The final field-tested resource kit is projected to be released in Fall 2012.

Produce Safety FNS and NFSMI are currently developing train-the-trainer materials designed to help course attendees train others to extend the reach of the Produce Safety University. FNS also awarded a grant to the School Nutrition Foundation to develop four produce safety webinars, to be conducted in FY 2012

Food Allergies FNS and NFSMI are collaborating to develop a series of fact sheets on the eight major food allergens and related topics, such as roles and responsibilities of school foodservice staff and preventing cross-contamination. In FY 2011, a grant was awarded to the National Education Association Health

10.586 SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS AND CHILDREN; NUTRITION EDUCATION INNOVATIONS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C. 3102, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C 3102.

OBJECTIVES:

To enable Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to enter into grants and cooperative agreements with States and local governments, universities, hospitals and non-profit organizations to identify, develop and undertake projects to meet FNS program needs and the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants. The grantees and recipients would work cooperatively with FNS to:

- Support researcher-initiated projects that use a common approach to reporting findings to ensure transparency and facilitate a meta-analysis of all projects;
- Coordinate activities among researchers;
- Effectively use technology and digital media to achieve desired outcomes; and
- Advance communication and coordination to improve target behaviors.

The grants and cooperative agreements are to enable FNS to be more responsive to program needs and the food, nutrition and health needs of FNS program participants.

The objective of the WIC Perioconceptional Grant's is to establish a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate the impacts of WIC on periconceptional nutrition. FNS focus for this project is the direct and indirect effects of WIC participation by one or more family members during the periconceptional period and the implications for service delivery. During the periconceptional period the time period immediately prior to conception and in the first few days and weeks following conception nutrition can impact placental and embryonic development with critical lifelong implications. This project shall support a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate WIC impacts on periconceptional nutrition, coordinate activities among researchers, and widely disseminate findings from current research.

The WIC Nutrition Educations Innovations' Grant's objective is to enhance the effort to identify, develop, evaluate and disseminate innovative and effective

WIC nutrition education interventions. This is to be accomplished by providing grant funding for a university-based center with this charge, including a program of sub-grants to support development and evaluation of WIC-focused researcher-initiated innovations from researchers across the nation. The up to approximately $2.0 million grant is to enable the selected institution-/organization to establish the USDA Center for WIC Nutrition Education Innovations."

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For both the WIC Periconceptional Grant and the WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, the following uses and use restrictions apply:

Cooperative Agreement Grants will be made to State and local governments, universities, hospitals, and non-profit organizations for awarding cooperative agreements, and grants to design, develop and evaluate innovative approaches for Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) programs, such as WIC, to meet FNS program needs and to strengthen their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grant and cooperative agreement recipient is task with:

- making sub-grants,
- coordinating efforts among sub-grantees,
- evaluating impact of FNS programs, such as WIC, on food, nutrition and health,
- providing a summary and syntheses of these and related efforts, such as meta-analysis on the results,
- composing and coordinating conference on observations and findings, and
- providing FNS with cost neutral approaches to improving FNS programs.

FNS' primary objective for these grants and cooperative agreements is to support interest in exploring better ways to improve and assess Food and Nutrition Service program needs and their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grants should enhance knowledge and further research activities by the academic community, FNS and others. See the RFP. The grant and cooperative agreement funds will be provided to recipients (grantees) who will be responsible to spend the funds in accordance with what is set forth in the grant or cooperative agreement, and applicable Federal circulars such as A-110. The source and use of the funds for the grants and cooperative agreements will be tied to a project of interest to one or more of FNS' program areas. FNS has the discretion to select (through competition) what institution will receive the funds and to what research endeavors they will be applied, assuming that research is not specified in the law or other directive.

Applicant Eligibility:

The assistance is to be used to establish grants and cooperative cooperative agreements to identify, develop and undertake projects to meet Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) program needs and the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Cooperative agreements are to be awarded to State and local governments, hospitals, non-profit organizations and accredited colleges/universities offering advanced degrees at the PhD level in biological and social sciences such as sociology, psychology, education, nutrition, public health and economics. This is a requirement for the selected recipient of the grants and cooperative agreements, not the sub-grantees. Cooperative agreement recipients are to award sub-grants to researchers to identify, develop and evaluate interventions and innovative approaches to strengthen the impact of Food and Nutrition Service programs, such as WIC, on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants.

10.588 ASSESSMENT OF ALTERNATIVES TO FACE-TO-FACE INTERVIEWS IN SNAP

Assessment of Face-to-Face Interviews

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Food Stamp Act of 2008 , Section 17 (a)(1).

OBJECTIVES:

To examine how/if eliminating the client interview for SNAP benefits affects administration of the SNAP program and client outcomes.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Assistance shall be used to defray the cost for the states to implement the demonstrations and participate in the evaluation of the demonstrations.

Applicant Eligibility:

Allowable use of funds includes, but is not limited to, personnel costs; office and research supplies; travel for data collection; and technology (both hardware and software) necessary for operating the Cooperative Agreement.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

This project will be beneficial to both state and local SNAP offices, as it will inform them of how eliminating the face-to-face interview for SNAP applicants affects the administration of the program. The clients, in turn, will benefit from the project because the findings of the study will be used by the state and local offices to improve their administration of the program.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Applicants will submit their response to the RFA through grants.gov. FNS will prescreen all applications to ensure that they contain the required documents and information. If an application does not include all appropriate information, FNS will consider the application to be non-responsive and will eliminate it from further evaluation.

Following the initial screening process, FNS will assemble a panel to review and determine the technical merits of each application based on how it addresses the required application components. The panel will award the grants to applicants whose application best demonstrates the capacity to implement and operate the pilots. Preference will be given to those applications that address all of the criteria completely, explain in detail how the pilot will be designed and implemented, and show capacity and willingness to cooperate fully with the data collection and evaluation. In addition, the applications that best detail a process for collecting the necessary information from clients to verify cases with minimal contact under the no interview model will merit higher scores. Additional points will also be given to states applying for the regular evaluation but have the capacity to conduct more than the minimum suggested QC-like reviews at the pilot site.

The selection official will consider the panels recommendations. The selection official may consider other FNS priorities, such as geographic, demographic, socioeconomic diversity or size of QC sample in addition to the scores assigned by the technical review panel. FNS reserves the option to select one or more lower-rated applications in order to achieve a diversity of projects and regional representation.

10.602 CCC'S DAIRY EXPORT INCENTIVE PROGRAM

The DEIP Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990; the Uruguay Round Agreement Act of 1995; and the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996., Title 7, Part CFR, Section 1494.

OBJECTIVES:

The major objective of the program is to develop export markets for dairy products where U.S. products are not price competitive and thereby, make sales in targeted overseas markets for the purpose of market development or where competitor countries are making subsidized sales.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Dairy Export Incentive Program helps exporters of US dairy products meet prevailing world prices for targeted dairy products and destinations. Under the program, the US Department of Agriculture pays cash to exporters as bonuses, allowing them to sell certain US dairy products at prices lower than the exporter's costs of acquiring them.

Applicant Eligibility:

All sales under the DEIP are made by the private sector, not the U.S. government. An invitation for offers issued by USDA may be one of two types: those inviting exporters to submit a competitive offer for a bonus, and those inviting exporters to apply for an announced bonus. Once an invitation for offers is issued, it is up to agricultural exporters to contact prospective buyers in eligible countries and negotiate a sales contract covering price, quantity, quality, delivery, and other terms. The sale may be contingent on USDAs approval of a bonus. Each prospective exporter submits an offer to USDA requesting a bonus that would allow the sale to take place at the agreed price. Under an invitation for competitive offers, USDA reviews all bids for the competitiveness of the bonus value requested and compares the bids with offers from other U.S. exporters and with sales of competitor countries. Under an announced bonus, compliant offers meeting all program requirements are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. USDA has the right to reject any or all bids.

Once USDA accepts a bid, the exporter and USDAs Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) enter into an agreement. USDA notifies exporters submitting offers of the acceptance or rejection of their offers by 10 a.m. Eastern U.S. time the next business day after the date the offers were submitted for consideration. USDA also makes the information available in a program announcement on the FAS Web site.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Who Benefits

The DEIP, administered by USDAs Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), helps U.S. agricultural producers, processors, and exporters gain access to foreign markets.

Eligible Products

Commodities eligible under DEIP initiatives are milk powder, butterfat, and various cheeses.

Participation

An exporter interested in participating in the DEIP must provide specific information.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Receiving the Bonus: The bonus is paid to the U.S. exporter in cash. The CCC determines the bonus payment by multiplying the bonus specified in the agreement by the net quantity of the commodity exported. Once an exporter furnishes USDA with evidence that the specified commodity has been exported to the target destination under the terms of the agreement, the exporter can request payment of the bonus.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: QSP Serves As Catalyst For Wool Sales To India:

With the assistance of the USDA Foreign Agricultural Services (FAS) Quality Samples Program (QSP), the American Sheep Industry (ASI) set to introduce U.S. wool to one of the worlds largest vertical manufacturing knitwear companies located in India. QSP is designed to encourage the development and expansion of export markets for U.S. agricultural commodities by assisting U.S. entities in providing commodity samples to potential foreign importers to promote a trial usage of U.S. products that provide. As a large knitwear producer, the company was most familiar with Australian wool and had never tried U.S. wool. A trial was necessary to learn how to process U.S. wool. QSP funds helped to convince the buyer to conduct a trial by offsetting the cost of this initial trial run. QSP was used in conjunction with the Market Access Program and the Foreign Market Development program, which was used to cover travel costs and technical assistance and trade servicing. As a result, U.S. sheepskin exports to China have increased significantly to 1.1 million pieces from the previous year. It was the largest purchase by the company to date; additional purchases are expected at or above this level as the buyer now understand the quality of U.S. wool and how it processes. While ASI is responsible for 80 percent of the U.S. wool exports are to India, success in the market would not be possible without the assistance of market development funding. Fiscal Year 2012: QSP Builds Demand for U.S. Cranberries In Korea: Using funding from the Quality Sample Program (QSP), the Cranberry Marketing Committee (CMC) accomplished its goal to increase the number of cranberry food manufacturers and U.S. cranberry products available for retail in the Korean market. South Korea, a key target of CMC efforts, saw the total number of cranberry products available at retail increase to 145, surpassing the previous year level by 23 percent, while the number of bakery outlets offering U.S. cranberry products rise 66 percent. In addition, the number of manufacturers offering U.S. cranberry products doubled, from 11 to 22 as a result. On a value basis, exports of cranberry products to Korea grew 14 percent compared to the previous year, to reach $2.44 million. QSP activities included presentations kits containing samples of dried cranberry product that were distributed to CMCs industry targets who experimented with the new products. Also, as part of CMCs Market Access Program activities, technical consultations were conducted with each contact to provide insight on how cranberries are utilized in new product development. The QSP program has played an important role in expanding demand for U.S. cranberries by allowing Korean manufactures the opportunity to experiment with U.S. dried cranberries, expand their product lines and improve their formulations. 10.609 TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE

(TAA)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Trade Act of 1974, as amended, Trade Act of 2002, and reauthorized by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009.

OBJECTIVES:

Under the program, the Department of Agriculture (USDA) provides technical assistance and cash benefits to eligible farmers and fishermen if increased imports contributed importantly to a production or price decline of greater than 15 percent. Technical assistance under the program provides access to a wide variety of resources from USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), their county Extension Service, and their education contractor, the University of Minnesota's Center for Farm Financial Management (CFFM), to assist producers in exploring alternative crops or improved marketing techniques for their current enterprise. The program's goal is to help producers respond proactively to import competition through training and cash benefits.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS WITH UNRESTRICTED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This program makes cash payments and provides technical assistance to eligible farmers, ranchers, and fishermen competing with like or directly competitive imported products.

Applicant Eligibility:

The TAA review process is two-tier and consists of a petition application process and a producer application process. First, group petitions must demonstrate, using data for the most recent, full marketing year or full official marketing season, a greater than 15-percent decline in at least one of the following factors: national average price, quantity of production, value of production, or cash receipts. In addition, petitions must also demonstrate that the decline in one of the cited factors be importantly caused by an increase in imports. If a petition is certified, individual producers may apply at their local FSA field office. Producers must demonstrate they produced the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of three preceding marketing years. Producers must also demonstrate that they experienced a decrease in the production or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Producers of raw commodities who have been adversely affected by import competition and are covered by a certification of eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation:

When applying, producers must provide documentation that they produced the commodity during the most recent marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of the three marketing years preceding that marketing year. To be eligible for cash payments, producers also must certify that they experienced a decrease in the quantity or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years. If eligible, a producer may receive no more than $12,000 during the 36-month period following the certification of a group petition. Producers may receive no more than $65,000 in combined counter-cyclical and TAA payments. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. A group of producers or an association representing a group of producers must first file a petition with USDA's FAS to establish eligibility for assistance. Petitions may be filed by a group of three or more producers or an authorized representative. If a petition is certified, individual producers must file an application at their local FSA field office. Producers who are approved are eligible to receive, at no cost, trade adjustment technical assistance from the CFFM and cash benefits.

TAA petition and application forms may be found on the Internet at <http://www.fas.usda.gov/itp/taa/taforms.asp>. Forms may also be obtained from a USDA Farm Service Agency county office, or requested by phone at (202) 690-0633, or by writing to USDA, Foreign Agricultural Service, Trade Adjustment Assistance, STOP 1021, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW,

Washington, DC 20250-1021.

The TAA regulation defines articles like or directly competitive as products falling generally under the same number in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTS). Links to the HTS and a U.S. trade database can be found at <http://www.fas.usda.gov/itp/us-tariff-sch.asp>. When preparing petitions, producers are encouraged to seek advice from the Trade Adjustment Assistance Office regarding how best to identify their commodity by HTS number.

The CFFM will provide information regarding the feasibility of substituting one or more alternative commodities and improve the competitiveness of the production and marketing of the adversely affected commodity.

Award Procedure:

FAS determined the eligibility of producers of raw commodities who have been adversely affected by import competition based on all information and supporting documentation provided. The CFFM will make available to all producers who apply for TAA free technical assistance within 180 days of the petition certification date. The CFFM will contact applicants with the times and dates of scheduled training sessions or online classes. Once an applicant has met all program requirements, they will receive a cash benefit of up to $4,000 based upon the completion of an Initial Business Plan, and an additional $8,000 based upon the completion of a Final Business Plan. The Farm Service Agency will make a direct deposit payment to the eligible applicant's checking account. The maximum cash benefit is $12,000 over a 36-month period. Applicants may receive less if total applications exceed TAA funding levels.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Petition filing to establish eligibility, on the average, will take 40 days from the date that the petition is accepted and published in the Federal Register. The CFFM will make available to all producers who apply for TAA free technical assistance within 180 days of the petition certification date.

Appeals:

Any person may obtain reconsideration and review of determinations made with respect to applications for program benefits by filing an administrative appeal with USDAs Foreign Agricultural Service within 30 days of FAS's denial and, if upheld, within 60 days to the U.S. Court of International Trade.

Renewals:

TAA may be available in subsequent years if imports keep increasing, producer prices remain below the 85-percent threshold, and if legislative approval is granted.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: An eligible applicant will receive a monetary cash benefit of up to $4,000 based upon the completion of an Initial Business Plan and up to an additional $8,000 based upon the completion of a Long-Term Business Plan. Payment limitations exist for applicants who have received $65,000 in counter cyclical payments. Monetary cash benefits may be less than $12,000 if total TAA payments exceed available funds. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

10.610 EXPORT GUARANTEE PROGRAM

The GSM-102 Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

OMB 7 CFR 1493, Part A; Agricultural Trade Act of 1978.

OBJECTIVES:

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. The program guarantees credit extended by the private banking sector in the U.S. (or, less commonly, by the U.S. exporter) to approved foreign banks using dollar-denominated, irrevocable letters of credit for purchases of U.S. food and agricultural products by foreign buyers. USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) administers the program on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), which issues the credit guarantees. GSM 102 covers credit terms of up to three year; maximum terms may vary by country.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Guaranteed/Insured Loans

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

CCC guarantees payments due from approved foreign banks to exporters or financial institutions in the U.S. However, the financing must be obtained through normal commercial sources. Typically, 98 percent of principals and a portion of interest are covered by a guarantee. Because payment is guaranteed, financial institutions in the U.S. can offer competitive credit terms to the foreign banks, usually with interest rates based on the London Inter Bank Offered Rate (LIBOR). Any follow-up on credit arrangements between the foreign bank and the importer are negotiated separately and are not covered by the CCC guarantee.

Applicant Eligibility:

Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. This Program provides guarantees to lenders.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Exporters or the exporters assignee are the direct beneficiaries and must meet the applicant eligibility requirements. Interested parties, including U.S. exporters, foreign buyers, banks, may request that the CCC establish a GSM-102 program for a country or region. Prior to announcing the availability of guarantees, the CCC evaluates the ability of each country and foreign bank to service CCC guaranteed debt.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. CCC must qualify exporters for participation before accepting guarantee applications. An exporter must have a business office in the U.S. and must not be debarred or suspended from any U.S. government program. Financial institutions must meet established criteria and be approved by CCC. CCC sets limits and advises each approved foreign bank on the maximum amount CCC will guarantee for that bank. The

Award Procedure:

The CCC-approved foreign bank issues a dollar-denominated, irrevocable letter of credit in favor of the U.S. exporter, ordinarily advised or confirmed by the financial institution in the U.S. agreeing to extend credit to the foreign bank. The U.S. exporter may negotiate an arrangement to be paid as exports occur by assigning to the U.S. financial institution to the right to process that may become payable under the CCC's guarantee. Under this arrangement, the exporter would also provide transaction-related documents required by the financial institution, including a copy of the export report, which must also be submitted to CCC.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Please contact the headquarters or regional office for addition approval information.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The payment guarantee applies to a credit period established in the application, and coverage begins either on the date(s) of export or the date when interest begins to accrue, whichever is earlier. Coverage will continue during the credit term specified in the payment guarantee. However, the payment guarantee does not become effective until the date of export. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

10.665 SCHOOLS AND ROADS - GRANTS TO STATES

Payments to States

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Secure Rural Schools and Community Self Determination Act of 2000, Division C, Section 601(a), 16. U.S.C. 7101-7153; 16 U.S.C. 500.

OBJECTIVES:

To share receipts from the National Forests with States in which the National Forests are situated.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For Federal fiscal years 2008 through 2011, the Secure Rural Schools Act allows counties in which national forests are situated to elect to share in the State payment (based on a formula in the Act) or to share in the state's 25-percent payment (based on the 7-year rolling average of receipts from national forests in the state). The fiscal year 2011 payment was made to states in January 2012.

The 25-percent payments to states are to be used for the benefit of public schools and public roads in the counties in which national forests are situated.

An eligible county that elects to receive a share to the State payment (based on the formula in the Act) must under some circumstances allocate a portion of that payment for title II special projects on national forests or title III county projects, or both. The portion of the Secure Rural Schools Act State payments not allocated for these purposes are to be used to benefit public schools and public roads in counties in which national forests are situated. The payments to benefit schools and roads are commonly called title I funds.

Funds allocated by counties for title II special projects are reserved in a special account in the General Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for projects that improve the maintenance of existing infrastructure, enhance forest ecosystems, and restore and improve land health and water quality on national forests.

Funds allocated by counties for title III county projects may be used only to:
(1) carry out activities under the Firewise Communities program to provide homeowners in fire sensitive ecosystems education on, and assistance with implementing, techniques in home siting, home construction, and home landscaping that can increase the protection of people and property from wildfires;
(2) reimburse the participating county for search and rescue and other emergency services, including firefighting, that are performed on a national forest after the date on which the use was approved, and paid for by the participating county; and
(3) develop community wildfire protection plans in coordination with the Forest Service acting on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Applicant Eligibility:

Title I payments are made to States or territories of the United States in which national forests are situated.

Title II project funds are reserved in special account in the U.S. Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for the purpose of entering into and implementing cooperative agreements with willing Federal agencies, State and local governments, private and nonprofit entities, and landowners. (16 U.S.C. 7122)

Title III funds are paid to respective states to be passed-through to participating counties.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A beneficiary of title II special project funds is a person or entity that receives a grant or enters into a cooperative agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to carry out a project for protection, restoration, and enhancement of fish and wildlife habitat, and other resource objectives consistent with the purposes of the Secure Rural Schools Act on national forests and on non-national forest land where projects would benefit the resources on national forests. (16 U.S.C. 7122)

A beneficiary of title III funds is a participating county in which a national forest is situated that has elected to allocate a portion of its State payments for title III county projects.

Credentials/Documentation:

OMB circulars apply to title II special projects. No Credentials or documentation are required for title I or title III payments. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Contact a near-by national forest resource advisory committee coordinator for information about awards or other implementation of title II projects recommended by a resource advisory committee prior to the deadline.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

For title II, within 30 days of a rejection decision the Forest Supervisor shall notify the resource advisory committee in writing of the rejection and the reasons for the rejection.

Appeals:

A decision to reject a title II project is not subject to administrative appeal or judicial review. (16 U.S.C 7124).

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Under title I - Secure Payments for States and Counties Containing Federal Land, each county in an eligible state elected to receive one of the following payments: a share of the states 25-percent rolling average payment, or a share of the State payment calculated using the formula in the Secure Rural Schools Act. The payment to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act is the sum of the county elections in that state.

The 25-percent payments to states, is an amount equal to the annual average of 25-percent of amounts received for the applicable fiscal year and each of the preceding 6 fiscal years from each national forest. This amount is used to calculate a county's share of the states 25-percent payment. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act.

State payments for fiscal years 2008 through 2011 were calculated using a complex formula with multiple factors, including acres of proclaimed national forest within an eligible county, the average 3 highest 25-percent payments made to each eligible State for each eligible county for the eligibility period 1986 through 1999, and the annual per capita personal income for each county. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act.

Matching Requirements: There are no matching requirements for the 25-percent payment to states or for the State payment. Acquisition management regulations and procedures applicable to the Forest Service for purchases, contracts, grants and agreements may impose matching requirements on title II projects.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The 25-percent payments and State payments for amounts allocated to title I and title III are made by December 31st each year after the close of the applicable fiscal year.

Title II funds are not paid to the state but are reserved in a special account in the General Treasury available for projects recommended by a resource advisory committee and approved by the Forest Supervisor acting on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The authority for each resource advisory committee to recommend title II projects terminated on September 30, 2011. Funds unobligated in one fiscal year remain available in the following fiscal year until September 30, 2012 by which time title II funds must be obligated or be returned to the U.S. Treasury.

The authority for each county to initiate title III projects terminated on September 30, 2011. Funds unobligated in one fiscal year remain available in the following fiscal year until September 30, 2012 by which time title III funds must be obligated for authorized uses or be returned to the U.S. Treasury. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Method of awarding/releasing assistance for title I and title III is lump sum. Submit SF-424(A) with SF 424 application to amend the allotment amount or length of commitment; other requirements may be established by the Regional, Area or IITF Office.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.

Matching Requirements: Funding for the Cooperative Forest health Protection program is provided to states to help support a base level of professional forest health expertise for non-federal forest managers. Grants for this program are allocated to states using a formula that is based on the number of acres of non-federal forest land within the states, other factors, and amount of funding available through annual appropriations.

Applicant matching for cooperative Forest Health Protection programs and projects that treat specific forest health problems on non-federal lands is required and is 50%. In cases where it is mutually agreed upon that an applicant will treat federal lands as part of a cooperative project or program, the Forest Service reimbursement is 100% for the federal portion. However, applicant matching rates may be adjusted in emergency or extraordinary situations.

Forest Service cost-share rates for activities involving development of new and improved forest health protection methods and technologies, and the conduct of special projects and evaluations are negotiated on a project-by-project basis with the grantee. Exceptions from the 50% cost-share requirement must be approved by the Deputy Chief for State and Private Forestry. The applicant share of cooperative programs may be in the form of cash, services, or in-kind contributions.

If a state elects to consolidate the annual Forest Service financial assistance, in lieu of functional cost sharing mechanisms, the total consolidated payment to any state during any fiscal year may not exceed the total amount of non-federal funds expended to implement its state forest resources program during that year. Treatment funds and activities cannot be a part of the consolidated payment and must stand alone to meet the 50% match requirement (See FSM 3431.22).

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Grants are typically awarded for one or two years and may be extended on request and with the approval of the program manager. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Payments made based on authorization and negotiation of provisions with cooperator.

10.681 WOOD EDUCATION AND RESOURCE CENTER (WERC)

(WERC)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Law 105-277, Div. A, Section 101(e) Title III, Section 343, 112 Stat. 2681-231, 2681-297; Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978, as amended, 16 USC 2101 et. seq.; Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Act of 1978, as amended, 6 USC 1600-1614.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide funds, on a cost-share basis, for projects that focus on enhancing opportunities for sustained forest products production for primary and secondary hardwood industries located in the eastern hardwood forest region. In order to maintain and improve the health and stewardship of our eastern hardwood forests, local wood-using industries need to be vibrant and able to utilize a wide variety of resources from the forest. Priorities include:

Maintain the economic competitiveness of primary and secondary hardwood industries. Examples include:

- 1) Encouraging the adoption of new technology to improve competitiveness and profitability,
- 2) Bringing information and technology about processing, marketing, and business-related skills as well as urban wood utilization to existing and emerging businesses, and
- 3) Developing utilization options that improve forest stewardship and health.

Increase the knowledge and information about how the hardwood industry can contribute to the green building movement. Examples include chain of custody certification for sustainable wood products as well as life cycle analysis for a range of wood products.

Increase the knowledge, information, and promotion of how carbon sequestration by wood products can provide a competitive edge to a sustainable hardwood industry. An example includes developing specific carbon storage factors for a range of wood products.

Develop technology and markets to address urgent issues on a global or domestic scale, including:

1) Sanitizing wood packaging materials, firewood, and similar products to eliminate these pathways for the transport of insect and disease pests, and

2) Developing markets for and using unexpected increases in the volume of urban and rural wood due to new pest introductions (for example, emerald ash borer) and weather events such as tornadoes and ice storms.

Increase the sustainable use of woody biomass to meet our Nations needs for energy and raw materials. Examples include public/private partnerships for using woody biomass in heating and cooling, process energy, cogeneration, district energy systems, and solid and liquid fuel production. Projects may also develop or maintain local markets and forest industry infrastructure by using woody biomass for both energy and value-added products. Provide key information to address the economic, social and ecological aspects of woody biomass production and use: including sustainable supplies, harvesting techniques, forest management, plantation development, and environmental implications.

Project details can be found at the following web sites: <http://woodworkcareer.org> and <http://skillstandards.wikispaces.com>.

Illinois Conservation Foundation, Springfield, IL, completed a WERC funded project (Award number 07-DG-226) titled, Ash Reclamation Project for Illinois. The primary goal of the project was to develop a successful urban wood/ash utilization initiative in Illinois. Project partners developed an informative web site (www.illinoisurbanwood.org) that includes project accomplishments, informational materials and an interesting Powerpoint presentation that can be viewed at: http://www.illinoisurbanwood.org/documents/BBBcommunitywood_000.pdf.

The Natural Resources Research Institute, University of Minnesota Duluth, recently completed a WERC funded project (Award number 08-DG-100) titled, Heat Treatment of Firewood: Meeting the Phytosanitary Requirements. The Hardwood Leaders Forum consisted of two forums held in Charlotte, NC, each with its own goals and objectives for strengthening the U.S. hardwood industry. On August 10-11, 2010, 77 hardwood industry leaders met to identify the most pressing barriers and challenges to achieving that vision. On December 7, 2010, 98 industry leaders, academicians, State and Federal agency representatives, researchers, and trade association executives met to 1) review existing programs that address the industry's highest-priority challenges and 2) begin to look for opportunities to better address these challenges through strengthened and/or new programs. The Hardwood Leaders Forum was sponsored by the Hardwood Publishing Co. Inc., located in Charlotte, NC, and jointly funded by the S.H. Conger Foundation for Hardwood Marketing, Hardwood Publishing Co. Inc., and a grant from the Wood Education and Resource Center (Award number 2010-DG-085). PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: The National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF) is an independent 501(c)(3) charity established by Congress in 1984, that protects, restores, and enhances the Nation's fish, wildlife, plants, and habitats. The Foundations greatest asset is its position at the nexus of the conservation community. Its myriad conservation partnerships connect it with potentially every federal and state agency, key industry leaders, concerned private citizens, and nonprofit leadership from the international to the local level. Since its establishment, NFWF has awarded more than 11,000 grants to 3,700 organizations in the United States and abroad and leveraged more than $650 million in federal and private funds into more than $1.7 billion for on-the-ground conservation.

NFWF began its relationship with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service (FS) in 1988 with a $30,000 challenge grant to restore trout habitat ravaged by flooding in the Monongahela National Forest. In 1995, the partnership expanded when FS provided funds to the Foundation to launch a grant program focused on improving the ecological health of our National Forests. To date, the Foundation has undertaken more than 900 projects in partnership with the FS and has leveraged more than $30 million in FS funds with more than $150 million for targeted, on-the-ground conservation. Foundation grants have been made in more than 125 National Forests and Research Stations in all nine regions of the FS. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: FS funding is apportioned between NFWF strategic keystone initiatives, and targeted charter grant programs. Among each program, a handful of high-priority projects are selected for funding each FY. The following list summarizes the emphasis areas for FYs 10 and 11.

Strategic Keystone Initiatives Starting in 2008, the Foundation realigned its grant making to be more targeted and outcome-based. Keystone Initiatives were designed to achieve a measurable conservation outcome in a five-ten year timeframe. Specific goals and strategies are identified for each Initiative through the development of Business Plans that serve as guides for the types of projects that will be considered for funding by NFWF. ($1.5MM in FY10 and FY 11)

- Wildlife and Landscape Scale Habitat Keystone: Addresses conservation needs for mammals, reptiles, amphibians, invertebrates, and native plants. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Sierra Nevada Wet Meadow restoration and Northern Rockies Wildlife Corridors (eastern Idaho and western Montana).

- Freshwater Fish and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on high-priority species and habitat for freshwater fish and associated aquatic life such as mussels, crayfish, and invertebrates. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Eastern Brook Trout (Virginia and West Virginia) and Apache Trout (Arizona).

- Bird and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on migratory and resident bird species and their habitat. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service to promote the conservation of Gunnison Sage Grouse (Colorado and Utah) and a wide variety of Southeastern grassland birds such as bobwhite quail and Bachmans sparrow.

Charter Grant Programs Funds ($1.5MM in FY10 and FY 11) are also awarded through targeted Charter Grant Programs which include:

- Pulling Together Initiative is a unified effort by NFWF and DOI and DOA to fund and implement effective, long-term invasive plant management at the local level. ($450K in FY10 and FY 11)

- Bring Back the Natives seeks to implement the National Fish Habitat Initiative Action Plan by supporting on the ground watershed restoration and native fish projects. ($350K in FY10 and FY 11)

- Chesapeake Bay Small Watershed Grant Program provides grants to organizations and local governments working on a community level to protect and improve watersheds in the Chesapeake Bay basin. ($200K in FY10 and FY 11)

- Upper Mississippi River Watershed Fund supports projects benefiting forest stewardship and the restoration of watersheds in the Upper Mississippi River drainage. ($200K in FY10 and FY 11)

- The Great Lakes Watershed Restoration Program funds organizations working to protect, restore, or enhance the habitat for fish, wildlife, and plants of the Great Lakes watershed. (200K in FY10 and FY 11)

- Native Plant Conservation Initiative supports on-the-ground conservation projects that protect, enhance, and restore native plant communities on public and private lands. ($100K in FY10 and FY 11). Fiscal Year 2012: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2013: No Current Data Available

Rural Utilities Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, as amended, Section 306, Public Law 92-419, 7 U.S.C. 1926.

OBJECTIVES:

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Loans; Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds may be used for the installation, repair, improvement, or expansion of a rural water facility including distribution lines, well pumping facilities and costs related thereto, and the installation, repair, improvement, or expansion of a rural waste disposal facility including the collection, and treatment of sanitary, storm, and solid wastes. Grant funds may not be used to pay: interest on loans, operation and maintenance costs, or acquisition or refinancing of an existing system. No maximum loan amount is established by statute. The maximum term on all loans is 40 years. However, no repayment period will exceed any statutory limitation or the organization's borrowing authority or the useful life of the improvement or facility to be financed. There are currently three interest rates for direct loans: a poverty rate that is 60 percent of market rate when the loan is required to meet health or sanitary standards and the median household income of the service area is below the higher of the poverty line or 80 percent of the statewide nonmetropolitan median household income; an intermediate rate that is 80 of market rate if the median household income of the service area is not more than 100 percent of the nonmetropolitan median household income of the State; and a market rate for those applicants that do not qualify for the poverty rate or the intermediate rate. The law authorizing the program allows a maximum repayment period of 40 years. However, the repayment period cannot exceed the useful life of the facilities financed or any statutory limitation on the applicants borrowing authority. 10.861 PUBLIC TELEVISION STATION DIGITAL TRANSITION GRANT PROGRAM

Public Television Station Digital Transition Grant Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Rural Utilities Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2006; Title III, Rural Development Programs; Rural Utilities Service; Distance Learning, Telemedicine, and Broadband Program; Public Law 109-97.

OBJECTIVES:

As part of the nation's transition to digital television, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) required all television broadcasters to convert their transmitters to broadcast digital signals by June 12, 2009. The goal of this conversion is a television system that makes more efficient use of the radio spectrum. By decreasing the use of spectrum by television channels, this frees up spectrum to enable the introduction of new wireless telecommunications services such as mobile wireless Internet access. In order to allocate spectrum to new uses, stations had to transition their main transmitter to the new broadcast system and digital no later than June 2009. While stations must broadcast their main transmitter signal in digital, many rural stations have yet to complete a full digital transition of their stations across all equipment. Rural stations often have translators serving small or isolated areas. The 2009 FCC deadline did not apply to translators; in 2011 the FCC adopted a final deadline for analog-to-digital conversion of all translators by September 1, 2015. Because of this, translators have been allowed to continue broadcasting in analog, and stations are still in the process of converting some of their translators to digital. Because the FCC deadline did not apply to translators, they are allowed to continue broadcasting in analog. Some rural stations also have not fully converted their production and studio equipment to digital, which has impaired their ability to provide the same quality local programming that they provided in analog. The digital transition has also created some service gaps where households that received an analog signal are now unable to receive a digital signal. For rural households the digital transition has meant in some cases diminished over-the-air public television service. These rural households are the focus of the Agency's Public Television Station Digital Transition Grant Program.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants may be used to install digital television facilities through purchase or lease (up to three years of lease costs); and for associated engineering and environmental studies. All broadcast facilities acquired under this program must be capable of delivering both digital television (DTV, sometimes called standard definition) and high definition television (HDTV) at both the interim and final channel power authorizations. Grant funds may be used to fund facilities directly connected to the digital transition of the broadcast signal such as: digital transmitters; digital translators; transmitting antennas; new towers or improvements to existing towers necessary for antenna installation; tower ground infrastructure such as land, buildings, fencing, standby power, and where commercial power is unreliable, power generation and conditioning facilities; studio to transmitter/translator communication links; television program production and management equipment; datacasting equipment; and subject to RUS approval, other facilities directly necessary for the digital transition of the broadcast signal. Grants shall not be used: to fund operations or for facilities not owned by the applicant (except for leased facilities as described above); for salaries, wages, and other public television employee benefits (unless they are for construction or installation of eligible facilities); for construction performed or expenditures made prior to the application deadline; or for facilities funded under other grants. Grants shall not be used: to fund operations or for facilities not owned by the applicant (except for leased facilities as described above); for salaries, wages, and other public television employee benefits; for construction performed or expenditures made prior to the application deadline; or for facilities funded under other grants.

Applicant Eligibility:

The applicant must be a public television station that serves a rural area regardless of whether they also serve an urban area. (Rural area means any area of the United States not included within the boundaries of any incorporated or unincorporated city, village, or borough having a population in excess of 20,000 inhabitants.) The applicant must also be required to convert from analog to digital transmission under the rules of the FCC. For the purpose of this grant program, a public television station must be an organization which (1) qualifies for Federal funding under Section 396(k) of the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967, and (2) which is either: (a) under the rules and regulations of the FCC in effect on November 2, 1978, eligible to be licensed as a noncommercial educational broadcast station and which is owned and operated by a public agency or nonprofit private foundation, corporation, or association; or (b) owned and operated by a municipality and which transmits only noncommercial programs for education purposes.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Anyone who receives the improved digital television signal from a rural public television station or attends an educational institution that uses public television in its curriculum.

Credentials/Documentation:

The applicant must provide evidence demonstrating that it meets the definition of a public television station in section 81, above. The applicant must also provide evidence that the FCC has authorized the initiation of digital broadcasting at each of the Applicant's transmitter and translator sites. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. An applicant must submit an application in accordance with the Program's application guide. In addition to Government-wide requirements, the applicant shall provide a description of the project including: an executive summary, a project cost spreadsheet, broadcast coverage maps, a complete narrative description, and an environmental assessment.

Award Procedure:

All complete applications from eligible applicants that meet the application deadline will be scored in a competitive process to determine which projects are funded. There are three scoring categories. The first is rurality, a measure of the rural character of the applicant's digital television coverage area. Up to 50 points can be earned in this category. The second uses the National School Lunch Program eligibility percentage as a measure of the economic need of the people in the applicant's coverage area. This category earns up to 25 points. Finally, up to 25 points can be awarded based on critical need.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Applications are approved each fiscal year for which funding is made available.

10.922 HEALTHY FORESTS RESERVE PROGRAM (HFRP)

Healthy Forests Reserve Program (HFRP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Healthy Forest Restoration Act of 2003, Title V, Section 501, Public Law 108-148, 117 Stat. 1911, 16 U.S.C 6571-6578.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist landowners in restoring and enhancing forest ecosystems to: promote the recovery of threatened and endangered species; improve biodiversity; and enhance carbon sequestration.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS FOR A SPECIFIED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

HFRP restoration agreements and easements are designed for working Agricultural lands. HFRP is a voluntary program to assist landowners in restoring, enhancing and maintaining forest ecosystems on private lands through easements, contracts and restoration agreements. Easements, contracts, and restoration agreements shall be maintained in accordance with HFRP goals and objectives for the duration of the restoration agreement and easement including the restoration, protection, enhancement, maintenance, and management of habitat for listed species within a forest ecosystem's functions and values. For the duration of its term, the easement shall require, at a minimum, that the landowner, and the landowner's heirs, successors and assigns, shall cooperate in the restoration, protection, enhancement, maintenance, and management of the land in accordance with the easement and with the terms of the HFRP restoration plan. In addition, the easement shall grant to the United States, through the NRCS: a right of access to the easement area; the right to permit compatible uses of the easement area, if such use is consistent with the long-term protection and enhancement of the purposes for which the easement was established; the right to determine compatible uses on the easement area and specify the amount, method, timing, intensity and duration of the compatible use; the rights, title and interest to the easement area as specified in the conservation easement deed; and the right to perform restoration, protection, enhancement, maintenance, and management activities on the easement area. The landowner shall convey title to the easement which is acceptable to the NRCS. The landowner shall warrant that the easement granted to the United States is superior to the rights of all others, except for exceptions to the title which are deemed acceptable by the NRCS.

Applicant Eligibility:

To be eligible to enroll an easement or restoration agreement in the HFRP, a person must: be the landowner of eligible private land for which enrollment is sought; agree to provide such information to the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) as the Agency deems necessary or desirable to assist in its determination of eligibility for program benefits and for other program implementation purposes.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Only landowners.

Credentials/Documentation:

Be the landowner of eligible land for which enrollment is sought; and agree to provide such information to NRCS as the agency deems necessary or desirable to assist in its determination of eligibility for program benefits and for other program implementation purposes. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Any owner meeting eligibility criteria may submit an application for participation. Applications are accepted in local USDA Service Center Offices during announced enrollment sign-up periods. USDA will establish criteria to evaluate and rank applications for easement and restoration agreement enrollment, criteria will be detailed in the sign-up notice. NRCS will identify through a sign-up notice process the geographic scope and ranking priorities for that particular sign-up. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. Applications are accepted in local USDA Service Center Offices during announced enrollment sign-up dates. Applicants are required to provide general information about the location of the project, contact information for the applicant, and designate the type of enrollment desired by the applicant (i.e., 10 year restoration agreement, 30 year easement or 99 year easement). Applications can be obtained through local USDA Service Center.

Award Procedure:

NRCS will not acquire any easement unless the landowner accepts the amount of the easement payment which is offered by NRCS. The easement payment may or may not equal the fair market value of the interests and rights to be conveyed by the landowner under the easement. By voluntarily participating in the program, a landowner waives any claim to additional compensation based on fair market value.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Within a Federal fiscal year (October 1 September 30) based on funding availability.

Appeals:

A person participating in the HFRP may obtain a review of any administrative determination concerning eligibility for participation utilizing the administrative appeal regulations provided in 7 CFR Part 614.

The land offered may be re-offered in a future sign-up unless land or landowner is ineligible.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.
Matching Requirements: Easement payments may be made in a single payment or not more than 10 annual payments of equal or unequal size, as agreed to between NRCS and the landowner.
MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Land may be enrolled in HFRP in accordance with a 10-year restoration cost-share agreement, a 30-year easement, a 30-year contract, or a permanent easement or the maximum duration permitted by State law. 30-year contracts are only available to acreage owned by Indian Tribes. Financial assistance for easement acquisition is provided at closing. For restoration agreements, payments are made annually on the agreement anniversary date of USDA approval. For easements, contracts, and restoration agreements, if restoration activities are required, financial assistance for such activities is provided when required practices are established. 10.923 EMERGENCY WATERSHED PROTECTION PROGRAM

(Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, Public Law 111-5, 123 Stat. 117; Section 216 of the Flood Control Act of 1950, Section 216, Public Law 81-516, 33 U.S.C 701b; the Agricultural Credit Act of 1978, Section 403, Public Law 95-334, 33 U.S.C 701B-1; Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996, Title III, Part Subtitle H, Section 382, Public Law 104-127, 110 Stat. 1016, 16 U.S.C 2203.

OBJECTIVES:

The objective of the EWP Program is to assist sponsors, landowners, and operators in implementing emergency recovery measures for runoff retardation and erosion prevention to relieve imminent hazards to life and property created by a natural disaster that causes a sudden impairment of a watershed.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

All EWP work must reduce threats to life and property and must be economically, environmentally, and socially defensible and sound from a technical standpoint. NRCS may bear up to 75 percent (90 percent within limited resource areas as identified by the U.S. Census data) of the construction cost of emergency measures. The remaining 25 percent (10 percent within limited resource areas) must come from local sources as cash or in-kind services. EWP funds have restrictions. EWP cannot solve problems that existed before the disaster or to improve the level of protection above that which existed before a disaster. It cannot fund operation and maintenance work or repair private or public transportation facilities or utilities. The work cannot adversely affect downstream water rights and funds cannot be used to install measures not essential to the reduction of hazards. In addition, funds cannot be used to perform work on measures installed by another federal agency.

Applicant Eligibility:

Public and private landowners are eligible for assistance but must be represented by a project sponsor. Project sponsor means a State government or a State agency or a legal subdivision thereof, local unit of government, or any Native American tribe or tribal organization as defined in section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b), with a legal interest in or responsibility for the values threatened by a watershed emergency; is capable of obtaining necessary land rights, and permits; and is capable of carrying out any operation and maintenance responsibilities that may be required. Sponsors are also responsible for furnishing the local cost share and for accomplishing the installation of work. Work can be done either through Federal or local contracts. Emergency watershed protection is authorized in the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and American Samoa.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

None.

Credentials/Documentation:

Sponsors must submit a formal request to the State Conservationist for assistance within 60 days of the natural disaster occurrence, or 60 days from the date when access to the sites becomes available. Requests must include a statement that the sponsors understand their responsibilities and are willing to pay its cost-shared percentage as well as information pertaining to the natural disaster, including the nature, location, and scope of the problems and the assistance needed. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Potential sponsors submit formal requests for assistance to the NRCS state conservationist.

Award Procedure:

Project sponsors seeking EWP assistance must apply to the STC in writing within 60 days of the natural disaster occurrence. Project sponsors may use SF 424 Application for Federal Assistance but must ensure that following information is provided: (1) A description of the problems encountered; (2) Assistance needed, including the following: Nature of the problem; Location; Scope of the problem; Commitment by the sponsor to assume the following responsibilities: local cost-share; Land rights; acquisition; Permits; Operations and Maintenance (O and M), A statement indicating that funds have either been exhausted or are insufficient to provide adequate recovery measures from the applicable hazards; A statement identifying any other State or Federal funding received or application submitted. On receipt of a formal request for EWP assistance, the State Conservationist or designee shall immediately investigate the emergency situation to determine whether EWP is applicable and to prepare an initial cost estimation for submission to the NRCS Chief or designee. The cost estimation will be submitted no later than 60 days from receipt of the formal request from the sponsor. NRCS may not commit funds until notified by the Chief, or designee, of the availability of funds. Before the release of financial assistance, NRCS will enter into a Cooperative Agreement with a sponsor that specifies the responsibilities of the sponsor under this part, including any required operation and maintenance responsibilities. NRCS will not provide funding for activities undertaken by a sponsor prior to the signing of the agreement between NRCS and the sponsor.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Timeline is dependent upon when funding is appropriated. The EWP program is not a line-item funded program and is reliant upon emergency supplemental appropriations.

Appeals:

Only NRCS decisions relating to eligibility for the EWP Program can be appealed. These decisions may be appealed in accordance with 7 CFR Part 614 and 7 CFR 11, as applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 75%. NRCS may bear up to 75 percent (90 percent within limited resource areas as identified by the US Census data) of the construction cost of emergency measures. The remaining 25 percent (10 percent within limited resource areas) must come from local sources as cash or in-kind services.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Continues until all EWP Program recovery measures are installed or their installation is terminated by mutual agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Reports:

Program reports are not applicable. Cash reports are not applicable. Final reports are prepared for each project within 90 days of completion. A benefit and accomplishment report is prepared for the fiscal year based upon final reports. Expenditure reports are not applicable. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133.

10.904 Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Not Applicable.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

EWP projects are eligible when it is determined that the current condition of the land or watershed impairment poses a threat to health, life, and property. Assistance includes EWP practices that provide runoff retardation and soil erosion prevention, safeguard lives and property, and relieve an imminent threat that is a result of a sudden impairment of a watershed due to a natural disaster.

10.924 CONSERVATION STEWARDSHIP PROGRAM

Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Food Security Act of 1985
, Public Law 106-224, Stat. , 16 U.S.C 3838h.

OBJECTIVES:

Through CSP, NRCS will provide financial and technical assistance to eligible producers to conserve and enhance soil, water, air, and related natural resources on their land. Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest lands, agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe, and other private agricultural land (including cropped woodland, marshes, and agricultural land used for the production of livestock) on which resource concerns related to agricultural production could be addressed. Participation in the program is voluntary.

CSP encourages land stewards to improve their conservation performance by installing and adopting additional activities, and improving, maintaining, and managing existing activities on agricultural land and nonindustrial private forest land. The NRCS will make CSP available nationwide on a continuous application basis.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

CSP is available on Tribal and private agricultural lands, as well as nonindustrial private forest lands in all 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the Caribbean and Pacific Islands Areas. The entire operation must be enrolled and must include all eligible land that will be under the applicant's control for the term of the proposed contract that is operated substantially separate from other operations. Land enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1410), Wetlands Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1467), Grasslands Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1415), and Conservation Security Program (CFR part 1469) are ineligible for CSP. The 2008 Act limits eligibility to private agricultural land; as such, land that is owned by a Federal, State, or local unit of government, with the exception of agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian Tribe, is ineligible, regardless of the status of the operator. Additionally, a participant may not receive payment for land used for crop production after June 18, 2008, that had not been planted, considered to be planted, or devoted to crop production for at least four of the six years preceding that date, unless the land was: previously enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program; maintained using long-term rotations, such as hayland in rotation; or incidental to the operation but needed for the efficient management of the operation. An example of land considered incidental to the operation that may be eligible for payment is land that had once been used for buildings and is now being used for crop production to square up a cropland field.

Applicant Eligibility:

The program provides equitable access to all producers, regardless of operation size, crops produced, or geographic location. Individual producers, legal entities, corporations, and Indian Tribes may be eligible for the program.

Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest land, and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.53 and 1470.6b). As stated in the Federal Register, 1470.6a, Applicants must be the operator of record in the USDA farm records management system for the eligible land being offered for enrollment; have documented control of the land for the term of the proposed contract; include the eligible land in their entire operation as represented for other USDA programs; and be in compliance with the highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions of 7 CFR Part 12, and adjusted gross income provisions of 7 CFR part 1400. The applicants operation must also meet a stewardship threshold (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.54).

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The program provides equitable access to all producers, regardless of operation size, crops produced, or geographic location. Individual producers, legal entities, corporations, and Indian Tribes may be eligible for the program.

Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest land, and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.53 and 1470.6b). As stated in the Federal Register, 1470.6a, Applicants must be the operator of record in the USDA farm records management system for the eligible land being offered for enrollment; have documented control of the land for the term of the proposed contract; include the eligible land in their entire operation as represented for other USDA programs; and be in compliance with the highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions of 7 CFR Part 12, and adjusted gross income provisions of 7 CFR part 1400. The applicants operation must also meet a stewardship threshold (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.54).

Credentials/Documentation:

The participant must have control of the land offered for the length of the contract period. NRCS requires all program payments be made by direct deposit unless the participant requests a waiver as described in 31 CFR Part 208.4, paragraph (a). This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

A programmatic environmental assessment has been prepared in association with this rulemaking. The analysis has determined that there will not be a significant impact to the human environment and as a result an Environmental Impact Statement is not required to be prepared (40 CFR part 1508.13). An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. A programmatic environmental assessment has been prepared in association with this rulemaking. The analysis has determined that there will not be a significant impact to the human environment and as a result an Environmental Impact Statement is not required to be prepared (40 CFR part 1508.13).

Award Procedure:

Once applicant and land eligibility are determined, the NRCS field office will assist the producer with completing the CMT resource inventory. CMT will estimate the level of environmental benefit to be achieved by the applicant. The CMT conservation performance scoring will enable NRCS to determine if the stewardship threshold requirement is met, rank applications, and establish payments.

Applicants will be ranked relative to other applicants who face similar resource challenges in State-established ranking pools using conservation performance ranking scores. For approved applicants, NRCS will conduct on-site field verification to substantiate that conservation activity and production system information represented by the applicant was accurate. After the conservation system information is verified, NRCS and the applicant proceed to develop the conservation stewardship plan and contract. Upon approval, the contract will obligate the participant to achieve a higher level of conservation performance by installing additional activities scheduled in their conservation stewardship plan and to maintain the level of existing conservation performance identified at the time of application.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 60 to 90 days.

Appeals:

A participant may obtain administrative review in accordance with 7 CFR parts 11 and 614 for an adverse decision. Participants cannot appeal payment rates, payment limits, and cost-share percentages, eligible conservation practices, or other matters of general applicability. Before a participant can seek judicial review, the participant must exhaust all administrative appeal procedures.

Renewals:

At the end of an initial conservation stewardship contract, NRCS will allow a participant to renew the contract to receive payments for one additional five year period, subject to the availability of funds. To be considered for contract renewal, the participant must be in compliance with the terms of their initial contract as determined by NRCS; add any newly acquired eligible land that is part of the agricultural operation and meets minimum treatment criteria as established and determined by NRCS; meet stewardship thresholds for additional priority resource concerns as determined by NRCS; and agree to adopt conservation activities as determined by NRCS.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Subject to the availability of funds, NRCS will offer participants two potential types of payment. As outlined in 508.90, an annual payment will be made for installing and adopting additional conservation activities, and improving, maintaining, and managing existing activities. A supplemental payment can also be made to a participant receiving annual payments, who also agrees to adopt a resource-conserving crop rotation. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

NRCS will make payments as soon as practicable after October 1 of each fiscal year for activities carried out in the previous fiscal year. CSP payments to a person or legal entity may not exceed $40,000 in any year and $200,000 during any 5-year period. Each CSP contract will be limited to $200,000 over the term of the initial contract period. The above limitations exclude funding arrangements with federally recognized Indian tribes or Alaska Native corporations as described in CPM 440, Part 508, Section 508.95(C). Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Reports:

Program reports are not applicable. Cash reports are not applicable. The Designated Conservationist will review contract implementation with the participant annually. Annual reviews will be completed early enough in the year to allow for completion of any necessary corrective actions prior to issuance of the annual payment. Expenditure reports are not applicable. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-133. Recipients are subject to audit by the Office of Inspector General, USDA.

Records:

As stipulated in 508.76 B, the applicant must make available to NRCS upon request appropriate records documenting applied conservation activity and production system information. NRCS will request records when conducting field verification with pre-approved applicants. The designated conservationist does not need to collect, store, or re-calculate the data contained in the applicants records, but instead will examine the field conditions and records to determine whether or not they substantiate the CMT resource inventory information provided by the applicant during the application process. As covered in 508.76 C, NRCS will request written records and conduct on-site field verification to substantiate that the conservation activity and production system information represented by each approved applicant during the CMT resource inventory was accurate.

OBJECTIVES:

AWEP as part of the Environmental Quality Incentives Program, promotes ground and surface water conservation and improved water quality on agricultural lands. As authorized by Congress, this is not a grant program to eligible partners. This is a program whereby approved, eligible partners will enter into multi-year agreements with NRCS to promote ground and surface water conservation, or improve water quality on eligible agricultural lands.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Technical assistance is provided for conservation planning, design and implementation of conservation practices for eligible participants. Financial assistance is provided for implementation of structural, and land management practices. Cost-share payments may be made to implement one or more eligible structural or vegetative practices. Incentive payments can be made to implement one or more land management practices.

Applicant Eligibility:

Partners representing agricultural producers who face serious threats to soil, water, and related natural resources, or who need assistance with complying with Federal and State environment laws. A participant may be an owner, landlord, operator, or tenant of eligible agricultural lands or non-industrial forestlands. Limited resource producers, small-scale producers, social disadvantaged individuals, federally recognized Indian tribal governments, Alaska natives, and Pacific Islanders are encouraged to apply.

Eligible partners include: Federally recognized Indian Tribes, States, units of local government, agricultural or silvicultural associations or other groups of such producers, or other nongovernmental organization with experience working with agricultural producers.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

To be eligible the agricultural producers must be in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions and in compliance with the Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) payment limitations.

Credentials/Documentation:

Evidence that applicant has control over land to be entered into contract and submits an acceptable conservation plan for the farm or ranch unit of concern that incorporates needed natural resource conservation practices and provide either a social security number or individual tax identification number of all proposed beneficiaries. Applicants claiming either limited resource producer or beginning farmer classification may be asked to provide documents to justify their claim. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Under AWEP, the NRCS enters into partnership agreements with eligible entities and organizations that want to promote ground and surface water conservation or improve water quality on agricultural lands. After the Chief has announced approved AWEP project areas, eligible agricultural producers may submit a program application. Each fiscal year, NRCS may make AWEP financial and technical assistance available to eligible owners and operators of agricultural lands who participate in approved AWEP project areas.

Partners may assist NRCS by identifying producers in the project area. Partners may also assist producers in submitting applications for the program. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. OBJECTIVES:

The Chesapeake Bay Watershed Program (CBWP) helps agricultural producers improve water quality and quantity, and restore, enhance, and preserve soil, air, and related resources in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed through the implementation of conservation practices. These conservation practices reduce soil erosion and nutrient levels in ground and surface water; improve, restore, and enhance wildlife habitat; and help address air quality and related natural resource concerns. CBWP encompasses all tributaries, backwaters, and side channels, including their watersheds, draining into the Chesapeake Bay.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture, uses CBWP funds to enter into contracts with eligible producers to share the costs of the applicable conservation treatment on agricultural lands in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed. NRCS provides payments for approved conservation practices and systems and land use adjustments within a time schedule specified by the conservation plan. The CBWP contracts may be modified to increase funds provided the increased cost is the result of a valid contract modification within the original contract scope and intent. The modification must follow the rules of the conservation program used to apply the conservation treatment.

Applicant Eligibility:

Only agricultural producers owning or operating within the Chesapeake Bay Watershed are eligible to participate in CBWP. In addition, NRCS applies the eligibility requirements of the particular natural resource program used to implement CBWP (e.g., the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) (16 U.S.C. 3839aa et seq.), the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) (16 U.S.C. 3839bb-1)). Limited resource producers, small-scale producers, beginning farmers and ranchers, socially-disadvantaged producers, and federally recognized Indian tribes are encouraged to apply.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

To be eligible, the agricultural producers must be in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions at 7 CFR part 12, and in compliance with the Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) payment limitations at 7 CFR part 1400.

Credentials/Documentation:

Evidence that applicant has control over land to be entered into contract and submits an acceptable conservation plan for the farm or ranch unit of concern that incorporates needed natural resource conservation practices and provide either a social security number or individual tax identification number of all proposed beneficiaries. Applicants claiming either limited resource producer or beginning farmer classification may be asked to provide documents to justify their claim. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

The participant develops a CBWP plan of operations that identifies what conservation practices they are proposing to implement. Technical assistance and conservation payments may be provided to apply needed conservation practices and land use adjustments within a time schedule specified by the conservation CBWP plan of operations. A contract with a participant may apply one or more land management practices or one or more structural practices.

Award Procedure:

NRCS applies the ranking and selection requirements of the particular natural resource program used to implement CBWP (e.g., EQIP, WHIP). NRCS will give special consideration to applicants that address priority natural resource concerns designated. Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

: Approximately 150 to 210 days after the proposal submission deadline.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

Renewals:

Extension requests will be considered by the federal program office only if the recipient has submitted all required performance reports. At least sixty days prior to the end of the award, recipients must discuss with their federal program officer expected reprogramming and extensions requests. After preliminary negotiation on proposed projects and extensions, formal written reprogramming and extension requests should be received by the federal program office 45 days prior to the end date of the award. The federal program office will not recommend approval for any retroactive extension request (received after the end date of the award). Recipients should make every effort to submit one extension request for all projects needing an extension (when possible, multiple extension requests should be avoided). With sufficient justification, the federal program office will recommend approval of a six-month extension for the first extension request. First time or cumulative extension requests for more than six months but less than 12 months, will need more compelling justification as to why the project was not completed on time or could not be completed within the first six-month extension. Although the federal program office discourages extensions of more than 12 months, the federal program office will recommend approval in cases where the funds are already obligated. Renewal of an award to increase funding or extend the period of performance is at the total discretion of the Department.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: In collaboration with the National Oceanographic Partnership Program (NOPP), U.S. IOOS and partnering agencies National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), Office of Naval Research (ONR) and the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) requested proposals to continue the development of a fully integrated, operational coastal and ocean observing system. Additionally, proposals were solicited for several related topic areas such as sensor verification and validation, sea surface temperature and renewable energy. A total of 29 proposals were received of which 14 were funded resulting in 3 or 5 year cooperative agreements. Fiscal Year 2012: Continued implementation and development of the regional coastal, ocean and Great Lakes component of U.S. IOOS under the 3 or 5 year cooperative agreements. Fiscal Year 2013: The ICOOS Act required the creation of certification criteria to establish eligibility for integration into the U. S. IOOS. These criteria assure the necessary policies, standards, data, information, and services associated with IOOS are appropriately established, coordinated, overseen and enforced. It is anticipated that the eleven Regional Associations will develop and submit the necessary documentation, via the cooperative agreements established in FY2011, to apply for and be certified as U.S. IOOS Regional Information Coordination Entities under the ICOOS Act.

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE:

Allowable costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular A-87 for State and local governments and Indian Tribes; OMB Circular A-122 for nonprofit and for-profit organizations; OMB Circular A-21 for institutions of higher education; and 48 CFR Part 31 for commercial organizations. Financial assistance management will be in accordance with 15 CFR Part 14 for institutions of higher education, hospitals, and other non-profit and commercial organizations, and with 15 CFR Part 24 for state and local governments. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: U.S. IOOS awarded a 2-year cooperative agreement funding a Testbed which accelerates the transition of advances from the coastal ocean modeling research community to improved operational ocean products and services. The award has facilitated rigorous comparisons of inundation models in the Gulf of Mexico and Maine and improved forecasting tools and techniques for hypoxia in the Gulf of Maine and the Chesapeake Bay region. Fiscal Year

2012: The U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) continues to integrate U.S. IOOS high frequency (HF) radar data into its Search and Rescue system for the mid-Atlantic region. USCG intends to expand usage throughout all its Sector and District Operation Centers by 2013. This nationwide expansion is part of a collaborative project between NOAA, the U.S. Coast Guard, and U.S. IOOS partners in Southern California and the Mid-Atlantic. By continuing to fund HF radar activities, these enhancements will also benefit NOAA's Office of Response and Restoration (OR&R) by providing a more effective data product for use by OR&R in its spill trajectory forecast models. Fiscal Year 2013: NOAA intends to establish a program to develop improved marine sensors. Competitive, extramural awards will be made to teams of U.S. IOOS Regions, industry, academia, and Federal partners for the development, demonstration, testing, and evaluation of a variety of biological, chemical, and physical marine sensor technologies. Demonstrations will focus on topics with potential to result in significant improvements to meet National Ocean Policy priorities related to informing decisions and improving understanding, water quality and observations, mapping, and infrastructure. The competitions will be coordinated with the National Oceanographic Partnership Program to leverage other agency investments intended to address the Nations needs for ocean information and will focus on transitioning technologies into operations.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals are subject to office evaluations, technical reviews, administrative reviews, and externals reviews, if applicable, taking into consideration primarily scientific merit and application to the goals of NOAA and the relevant federal program office.

11.302 ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT_SUPPORT FOR PLANNING ORGANIZATIONS

Planning Investments and Comprehensive Economic Development Strategies

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended (PWEDA) (42 U.S.C. 3121 et seq.).

OBJECTIVES:

Through the Planning program, EDA provides assistance to eligible recipients to create regional economic development plans in order to stimulate and guide the economic development efforts of a community or region. As part of this program, EDA supports Partnership Planning investments to facilitate the development, implementation, revision, or replacement of Comprehensive Economic Development Strategies (CEDs), which leverage the unique assets of their respective regions to help create and retain higher-skill, higher-wage jobs, particularly for the unemployed and underemployed in the Nation's most economically distressed regions.

To facilitate CEDs, EDA provides Partnership Planning grants to the designated planning organization (e.g., District Organization) serving EDA-designated Economic Development Districts (EDDs) throughout the Nation. These planning organizations are typically recognized by the State in which they reside as multi-jurisdictional councils of governments, regional commissions, or planning and development centers. Partnership Planning grants enable planning organizations to manage and coordinate the development and implementation of CEDs. In addition, EDA provides Partnership Planning grants to Indian Tribes to help organize and assist with the implementation of economic development activities within their areas. The majority of funding under the Planning program is for Partnership Planning grants for Indian Tribes and EDA-designated EDDs.

The Planning program also helps support planning organizations and other eligible recipients, including District Organizations and Indian Tribes, with Short-Term and State Planning efforts in order to stimulate and guide the creation and/or retention of higher-skill, higher-wage jobs, particularly for the unemployed and underemployed in the Nation's most economically distressed regions. For example, EDA might provide Short-Term Planning funding to a coalition of Tribal and regional organizations to plan a coordinated response to the sudden loss of a major employer in the affected area(s).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

EDA Planning investments support the preparation of CEDs that guide EDAs Public Works and Economic Adjustment Assistance implementation investments, including Revolving Loan Funds. Sound local planning also attracts other Federal, state, and local funds plus private sector investments to implement long term development strategies. In this way, EDAs Planning program plays a foundational role in helping communities develop important strategies that inform future economic development decisions.

Comprehensive, market-based, local and regional planning is an essential component of successful economic development. Effective planning creates a road map for community growth and development with a focused approach towards creating higher-skill, higher-wage jobs. The Planning Program provides a foundation for EDAs infrastructure investments, which are designed to stimulate economic growth in distressed regions. The planning process supports an assessment of the regions economic conditions and the development of a CEDs to guide resource allocation and project development. The key value of this process is that it is locally determined and involves participation from all the diverse interests in the community. Planning activities supported by these Investments must be part of a continuous process involving the active participation of Private Sector Representatives, public officials and private citizens, and include:

- (a) Analyzing local economies;
- (b) Defining economic development goals;
- (c) Determining Project opportunities; and
- (d) Formulating and implementing an economic development program that includes systematic efforts to reduce unemployment and increase incomes. All EDA grants are discretionary grants. EDA does not award any formula grants.

Applicant Eligibility:

Pursuant to PWEDA, eligible applicants for and recipients of EDA investment assistance include a(n): (a) District Organization (as defined in 13 CFR 304.2); (b) Indian Tribe or a consortium of Indian Tribes; (c) State, city, or other political subdivision of a State, including a special purpose unit of a State or local government engaged in economic or infrastructure development activities, or a consortium of political subdivisions; (d) institution of higher education or a consortium of institutions of higher education; or (e) public or private non-profit organization or association acting in cooperation with officials of a political subdivision of a State. See section 3 of PWEDA (42 U.S.C. 3122) and 13 CFR 300.3. As used in this paragraph, State includes the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, the Federated States of Micronesia, and the Republic of Palau. See 13 CFR 300.3 and 301.2.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

EDA Planning investments provide support to Planning Organizations for the development, implementation, revision, or replacement of a CEDS. They also may provide support for related short-term planning investments and State plans designed to create and retain higher-skill, higher-wage jobs, particularly for the unemployed and underemployed in the nation's most economically distressed regions.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

In addition to evaluating applications based on EDA's mission, funding priorities, and the evaluation criteria laid out in the applicable FFO, EDA also considers:

- (1) The proposed scope of work for the development, implementation, revision or replacement of the CEDS, or the relation of the CEDS to the proposed short-term planning activities or the State plan;
- (2) The qualifications of the applicant to implement the goals and objectives resulting from the CEDS, short-term planning activities or the State plan;
- (3) The involvement of the Region's business leadership at each stage of the preparation of the CEDS, short-term planning activities or State plan;
- (4) The extent of broad-based representation and involvement of the Region's civic, business, labor, minority and other interests in the proposed economic development activities; and
- (5) The feasibility of the proposed scope of work to create and retain high-skill, higher-wage jobs through implementation of the CEDS.

In addition, for continuation awards, funded recipients are evaluated on the basis of the extent of continuing economic distress within the Region, their past performance, and the overall effectiveness of their CEDS.

For Planning Investment awards to a State, EDA will also consider the extent to which the State will integrate and coordinate its CEDS with local and Economic Development District plans.

11.303 ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

National Technical Assistance; Local Technical Assistance; University Centers

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended (PWEDA) (42 U.S.C. 3121 et seq.).

OBJECTIVES:

EDA oversees three technical assistance programs (National, Local and University Center) that promote economic development and alleviate unemployment, underemployment, and out-migration in distressed regions. These programs provide grants or cooperative agreements to: (1) invest in institutions of higher education to establish and operate University Centers to support initiatives that are focused on advancing: regional commercialization efforts; entrepreneurship; and a high-skilled regional workforce. provide technical assistance to public and private sector organizations with the goal of enhancing local economic development; (2) support innovative approaches to stimulate economic development in distressed regions; (3) disseminate information and studies of economic development issues of national significance; and (4) finance feasibility studies and other projects leading to local economic development. These programs aid the long-range economic development of regions with severe unemployment and low per capita income.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Cooperative Agreements)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Technical assistance is used to provide information, data, resources and toolkits which practitioners and policymakers can utilize when evaluating, shaping and implementing specific projects and programs to promote economic development efforts in their respective economically distressed regions. EDA announces opportunities to compete for funding to support University Centers through its annual Federal Funding Opportunity (FFO) on University Centers, and the intent to support local technical assistance through its annual FFO on planning and local technical assistance. EDA may identify specific training, research or technical assistance projects it will fund under National Technical Assistance, which will be subject to competition. Ordinarily, these projects are specified in a FFO, which will provide the specific requirements, timelines and the appropriate points of contact and addresses.

The EDA-supported University Center (UC) sub-program is specifically designed to marshal the resources located within colleges and universities to support job creation and economic growth in regions experiencing economic distress. UCs, which EDA considers long-term partners in economic development, are required to devote the majority of their funding to respond to technical assistance requests originating from organizations located in the economically distressed portions of their service regions. EDA-sponsored University Centers provide strategic technical assistance to regional partners; including, tribal entities, local governments, and public and private sector organizations; conduct economic impact assessments; support cluster development and conduct cluster studies; facilitate regional collaboration; support commercialization and technology transfer efforts; and undertake other activities with the goal of enhancing regional economic development by promoting a favorable business environment to attract private capital investment and higher-skill, higher-wage jobs. EDA University Center competitions are held once every five years in each EDA Region. The project must be consistent with the CEDS of the region in which it is located, if applicable. At least eighty (80) percent of EDA funding under a University Center Economic Development award must be allocated to direct costs of program delivery; unrecovered indirect costs are not chargeable to the award without EDAs express approval. All EDA grants are competitive: EDA does not award formula grants.

The Local Technical Assistance (Local TA) sub-program, one of EDAs smallest programs in terms of funding, is an extremely flexible and useful economic development tool. The most common purpose of a Local TA project has been to analyze the feasibility of a potential economic development project, such as an industrial park or a high-technology business incubator, or to support other critical studies necessary for economic development professionals to make informed business decisions, including economic impact assessments.

The National Technical Assistance sub-program is designed to provide economic development professionals with access to tools and resources on cutting edge economic development concepts that can inform their decision-making and help support good decision making which will lead to strong, vibrant economic development and regional prosperity. Through this program, EDA provides a wide array of resources, including a cluster mapping tool (<http://clustermapping.us>), a website to identify innovation index of self-selected communities and compare against other geographies (www.statsamerica.org/innovation/), and a resource to help support best practices among venture development organizations (VDOs) (<http://regionalinnovation.org/>). The project must be consistent with the CEDS of the region in which it is located, if applicable. All EDA grants are discretionary. EDA does not award formula grants.

Applicant Eligibility:

Most technical assistance recipients are private or public nonprofit organizations and educational institutions. As defined in 13 C.F.R. 300.3, 'eligible recipients' include a State, city, county, or other political subdivision of a State, including a special purpose unit of a State or local government engaged in economic or infrastructure development activities, or a consortium of such political subdivision, an institution of higher education or a consortium of institutions of higher education, an Economic Development District organization, a private or public nonprofit organization or association, including a faith-based nonprofit organization, acting in cooperation with officials of a political subdivision of a State, or an Indian Tribe, or a consortium of Indian Tribes. Individuals, companies, corporations, and associations organized for profit are not eligible. As used in this paragraph, 'State' includes the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, the Federated States of Micronesia, and the Republic of Palau. Program funds cannot be awarded to individuals and for profit organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Investments are intended to finance projects that would be useful in alleviating or preventing conditions of excessive unemployment or underemployment.

Credentials/Documentation:

To be considered for EDA investment assistance, applicants must first submit a complete EDA application package, as specified by the applicable Federal Funding Opportunity, which generally includes requirements for project narratives, budget narratives, and the resumes of key personnel. Non-profit applicants applying for technical assistance may be asked to provide additional documentation, including documentation of Good Standing in the State in which they operate. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

This program is eligible for coverage under Executive Order (E.O.) 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." Award Procedure:

EDA will award investment assistance in accord with the procedures set forth in the applicable announcement of federal funding opportunity (FFO).

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

For National Technical Assistance and University Center competitions, the deadlines are set forth in the applicable FFO. For Local Technical Assistance, regional offices accept applications on a rolling basis. Approval or disapproval of an application is generally made within 4 months; in many cases, the timeline for award announcement is set forth in the applicable FFO.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

Renewals:

Each fiscal year, two EDA regional offices will provide a five-year project period for each University Center selected for funding under the requisite competition, with the initial award being made for the first year of the project period. Funding beyond the initial year is dependent upon the availability of funds and satisfactory performance, as determined by EDA and expressed in written notice. The servicing EDA regional office will contact current University Center operators regarding the procedures for applying for continuation funding. National and Local Technical Assistance projects are typically funded for a single project period without any pre-set expectation of renewal. Renewal of an award to increase funding or extend the period of performance is at EDA's sole discretion.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula. Matching Requirements: Generally, the amount of the EDA award may not exceed 50 percent of the total cost of the project. Projects may receive an additional amount that shall not exceed 30 percent, based on the relative needs of the region in which the project will be located, as determined by EDA. See section 204(a) of PWEDA (42 U.S.C. 3144) and 13 C.F.R. 301.4(b)(1). The Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development has the discretion to establish a maximum EDA investment rate of up to one-hundred (100) percent where the project (i) merits and is not otherwise feasible without an increase to the EDA investment rate; or (ii) will be of no or only incidental benefit to the recipient. See section 204(c)(3) of PWEDA (42 U.S.C. 3144) and 13 C.F.R. 301.4(b)(4). In-kind contributions, fairly evaluated by EDA, may provide the non-federal share of the total project cost. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Generally, the University Center Program funds applications on a five-year basis with continuation awards made for each of the three years within a project period. The length of the project period for National and Local Technical Assistance projects varies, but is usually for a period of one to two years. Funds are disbursed as required. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: In accordance with the grant terms and conditions.

EDA requires the submission of the SF-425 Federal Financial Report. EDA reviews progress and financial reports for compliance with all award terms and conditions, as well as EDA regulations. EDA reserves the right to conduct site visits on an as-needed basis.

11.313 TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE FOR FIRMS

Trade Adjustment Assistance for Firms

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce

AUTHORIZATION:

Trade Act of 1974, as amended (19 U.S.C. 2341 et seq.).

OBJECTIVES:

The Trade Adjustment Assistance for Firms (TAAF) program helps economically distressed U.S. business in building strategies to increase exports and thereby create jobs. The program provides technical assistance to U.S. businesses that have lost sales and employment due to increased imports of similar goods and services. Technical assistance is provided through a nationwide network of eleven Economic Development Administration (EDA) funded Trade Adjustment Assistance Centers (TAACs).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Under Chapters 3 and 5 of Title II of Trade Act of 1974, as amended (19 U.S.C. 2341 et seq.), a firm may apply to the applicable TAAC supported by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the Department of Commerce for certification of eligibility to apply for trade adjustment assistance (TAA) related technical assistance. Interested firms that believe they meet the requirements set forth in 13 CFR part 315 may contact EDA or one of the EDA-funded TAACs. TAACs will assist firms, at no cost, in completing and submitting a petition (Form ED-840P or any successor form) to EDA. Before a firm receives technical assistance under the program, the firm must have an adjustment proposal approved by EDA. Usually the adjustment proposal, which includes an unbiased diagnostic of the firm's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats, is prepared by the TAAC in cooperation with the certified firm. The adjustment proposal also identifies technical assistance tasks, which when implemented, will guide the firm toward economic recovery. The adjustment proposal must also demonstrate that the implementation of the technical assistance tasks has a reasonable chance helping the firm recover. The firm must pay at least 25 percent of the cost of preparing the adjustment proposal. After a firm's adjustment proposal is accepted by EDA, the firm is authorized to apply for technical assistance to implement the recovery strategy. The technical assistance is usually provided by a private consultant, who is jointly hired by the certified firm and the TAAC. The certified firm and the TAAC each typically pay one half of the consultant's fees. Actual provision of TAA will depend on the feasibility of the firm's adjustment proposal, compliance with the requirements of the Trade Act, EDA's regulations and guidelines, and the availability of funds. Organizations representing trade-injured industries are eligible under the Trade Act to apply to EDA for industry-wide assistance.

Applicant Eligibility:

Section 253 of the Trade Act (19 U.S.C. 2343(b)) provides that grants may be awarded to "intermediary organizations (including Trade Adjustment Assistance Centers)" to provide assistance to trade-injured firms. For an industry association or other organizations to be eligible for industry assistance under section 265 of the Trade Act (19 U.S.C. 2355(a)), the applicant must submit evidence demonstrating that the industry faces import competition and includes a substantial number of Trade Act-certified firms or worker groups.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Only firms certified by EDA on behalf of the Secretary of Commerce are eligible for assistance under the TAAF program. Industries that can demonstrate they have been injured by imports and have a substantial number of Trade Act certified firm or worker groups may also benefit. The principal benefit is cost-shared technical assistance: the TAA program pays up to one-half of the cost of assistance by private-sector consultants and contractors for operational improvements at certified firms.

Credentials/Documentation:

The TAACs act as intermediaries for this program between EDA and the firm. Entities seeking industry-wide assistance must contact EDA staff to discuss their needs, describe the import injury and determine if funding is available for industry-wide projects. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. The nationwide network of 11 TAACs apply to EDA each year for funding for the coming fiscal year. Industry associations or other organizations seeking industry assistance must submit adjustment proposals to the applicable TAAC center.

Award Procedure:

Awards to TAACs are made based upon submitted applications, previous performance under cooperative agreements with EDA, and the availability of funds. Acceptance of an application or amended application for a cooperative agreement does not ensure funding by EDA.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

EDA is statutorily required to review petitions for certification of eligibility under the program within 40 days of petition acceptance; and has 60 days to make a final determination on an adjustment proposal.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

11.426 FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR NATIONAL CENTERS FOR COASTAL OCEAN SCIENCEFEDERAL AGENCY:

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Department of Commerce

AUTHORIZATION:

National Ocean Pollution Planning Act of 1978, Section 6, Public Law 95-273; Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act of 1972, Title II, Section 201, Public Law 95-532; Executive Order 13158.

OBJECTIVES:

NCCOS provides research, scientific information and tools to help balance the Nations ecological, social and economic goals. Our partnerships with local and national coastal managers are essential in providing science and services to benefit communities and the Nation. The research and tools we provide are central to addressing coastal issues raised in legislation and NOAAs priorities. We seek to help coastal communities protect themselves from harmful algae, contamination and the implications of changing climate. We also provide the research necessary for communities to develop effective and sustainable management of their resources. Through competitive research funding, NCCOS also engages the nations best talent to develop cutting-edge science for coastal management applications. The research and tools we provide are central to addressing coastal issues raised in legislation and NOAAs priorities. We seek to help coastal communities protect themselves from harmful algae, contamination and the implications of changing climate. We also provide the research necessary for communities to develop effective and sustainable management of their resources. Through competitive research funding, NCCOS also engages the nations best talent to develop cutting-edge science for coastal management applications. NCCOSs four major research priorities:

Science to Manage Threats of Harmful Algal Blooms - Harmful algal blooms (HABs) present one of the most scientifically complex and economically significant coastal management issues facing the nation today. Reported in every coastal state, HAB impacts have caused an estimated $1 billion in losses to coastal economies that rely on recreation, tourism, and seafood harvesting. Authorized by the Harmful Algal Bloom and Hypoxia Research and Control Act (HABHRCA), NCCOS provides leading research to forecast, detect, prevent, control, and mitigate HABs.

Understanding Impacts of Coastal Contamination - Contaminated coastal waters degrade habitats, increase the occurrence of waterborne diseases, and impact human health: all symptoms of a decline in the quality of our coastal environment. NCCOS is a national leader in advancing the science of contaminant monitoring, research, and impact assessment in coastal ecosystems. NCCOS is home to the Nations longest running coastal pollution monitoring and assessment enterprise.

Advancing Research on Climate Change Impacts to Coastal Ecosystems - Climate change is expected to dramatically affect the health, productivity, and biodiversity of coastal and marine ecosystems and the communities who live along our shores. With state-of-the-art laboratories located in regions on the frontier of climate change, NCCOS is investigating how changes in sea levels, ocean chemistry, and temperature affect coastal ecosystems and the services they sustain.

Science for Coastal Ecosystem Management - Competition among many users of our coasts has been on the rise for decades and will continue to increase. For over 25 years, NCCOS and its predecessors have developed innovative ecosystem maps, models, and assessments to guide communities in managing their valuable coastal ecosystems.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2011: Identified ciguatoxin, for the first time, in a marine mammal. Ciguatoxin was confirmed by mass spectrometry in the endangered Hawaiian monk seal, and quantified in free ranging animals collected by Pacific Islands Fisheries Science Center. A larger study is underway to monitor ciguatoxins in other marine mammal species in Hawaii.

NCCOS and the Monterey Bay Aquarium Research Institute published the first study describing use of an autonomous molecular analytical and ocean observing network to characterize harmful algal bloom dynamics. Underwater sensors for HAB species and toxins, along with AUV surveys and satellite-based remote sensing provided an unprecedented, near-real time view of HABs and the environment.

Completed 2-day workshop with Gulf of Mexico state, local, NGO and federal participants to assess and develop well-being indicators and measurements that span the range of health domains, are appropriate to the entire Gulf coast areas, and can be used across agencies. This workshop is a component of a larger social science research project supported through DWH supplemental funds

NCCOS was awarded $1.9M by DOD, Strategic Environmental Research and Development Program, to conduct an Ecological Risk Assessment of Munitions Compounds on Coral and Coral Reef Health. The project, conducted over the next 4 years, consists of a series of laboratory exposure-response studies followed by field assessments in Guam and/or the Mariana Islands.

NCCOS scientists have solved a century old problem by using NMR to characterize 8 toxins from the HAB species Prymnesium parvum. Its toxicity mechanism has been difficult to chase down with reports going as far back as the very early 1900s. Its toxicity is similar in some respects to Pfiesteria as its activity is augmented in the presence of metal co-factors. Three publications will result from this seminal work. Fiscal Year 2012: Resource managers will have access to important data to help them make informed decisions.

Strengthen resource managers scientific capacity and knowledge through activities such as providing technical advice on proposals and projects and responding rapidly to specific research questions.

Offer timely technical expertise to advise resource managers and assist them in addressing critical management issues. Fiscal Year 2013: Using mathematical models based firmly in results from monitoring and assessment, work to predict trajectories likely to be taken by various ecosystems under scenarios of global climate change and management regimes. This allows identification of future potentially threatened species and components of the ecosystem, as well as possible outcomes of various management/conservation actions.

OBJECTIVES:

To maintain a cooperative university/Federal partnership to conduct joint research and development on pressing surface water hydrology issues common to National, regional, local operational offices, private consulting hydrologists, and academics.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds can be used to support research and development on issues related to the forecasting of surface hydrologic conditions. Specific restrictions, other than those mandated for grants, are evaluated on an individual grant or program basis. The program office may support non-competitive awards by direction from legislative language or unsolicited projects that are individually qualified.

Eligible applicants are Federally recognized institutions of higher learning, agencies of State or local governments, quasi-public institutions such as water supply or power companies, hydrologic consultants and companies involved in using and developing hydrologic forecasts (either for reducing flood damages or for water management decisions).

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Since the benefits of the overall program are for a reduction in loss of life and damage resulting from flooding and drought, and improved utilization of water supply and water dependent industries, benefits accrue from these projects to: (1) Federal agencies responsible to forecast, assess, manage, disperse, project economic conditions based on projections of water supply for agriculture and industry, and control water resources; (2) interstate commissions to control and allocate surface waters; (3) State agencies responsible for allocating and controlling water resources and for making projections for the use of water for industry and agriculture and for planning and developing infrastructure within the State that is impacted by rivers and lakes; (4) local agencies dependent on water for economic planning, emergency preparedness, and public water supply; (5) all businesses and industries depending all or in part upon surface water supplies or adequate water in lakes for recreation, in rivers to generate power, or in production or dispersion of products or who must take action in order to ameliorate damage during flood situations, (6) wildlife interests at all levels that are dependent upon water management for managing the environment; (7) homeowners or farmers who must plan for proper responses to flooding or inadequate water supply; and (8) academic institutions which are funded for programs dealing with the studies of hydrologic science.

Credentials/Documentation:

Proposals with statement of work, estimated budget, and curriculum vitae. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular Nos.
