(Biodiesel Fuel Education Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 9006 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (Public Law 110-246), amended the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8101 et seq.) to re-establish the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program which requires that the Secretary make competitive grants to eligible entities to educate governmental and private entities that operate vehicle fleets, other interested entities (as determined by the Secretary), and the public about the benefits of biodiesel fuel use. The Secretary delegated this authority to the Chief Economist, who in turn delegated this authority to the Director of the Office of Energy Policy and New Uses (OEPNU). OEPNU has joined with NIFA for assistance in administering Biodiesel Education under the authorities found in the Economy Act (31 U.S.C. 1535) and Section 1472 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3318). Specific Biodiesel Education administrative provisions are found in 7 CFR 2903., 7 U.S.C 3318.

OBJECTIVES:

The goals of the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program as originally established in Section 9004 of the Farm Security Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8104) were to stimulate biodiesel consumption and to stimulate the development of a biodiesel infrastructure. The information and outreach activities to raise awareness of the benefits of biodiesel fuel use complemented the incentives provided by the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (EPAct) (Public Law 109-58), and the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (Public Law 110-140). As a result of increased awareness and consumption of biodiesel over the past 5 years, the FY 2008 Biodiesel Education program will focus on educational programs which will support advances in infrastructure, technology transfer, fuel quality, fuel safety and increasing feedstock production.

10.307 ORGANIC AGRICULTURE RESEARCH AND EXTENSION INITIATIVE

(OREI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7206 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) amended section 1672B of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade (FACT) Act of 1990 (7 U.S.C. 5925b) amending and re-authorizing the Organic Agriculture Research and Extension Initiative (OREI). The FACT Act, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture, in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board (NAREEEAB), to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities regarding organically grown and processed agricultural commodities for eight legislatively-defined goals. See RFA Part I.B. for further general information and specific details. , 7 U.S.C 5925b.

OBJECTIVES:

Facilitate the development of organic agriculture production, breeding, and processing methods. Functionally identify soil microbial communities and ways to manage microbial dynamics to enhance nutrient cycling and disease suppression; Develop systemic approaches to weed, insect and disease management; Prevent, control, and treat internal and external parasites in various livestock species; and Breed crops for disease and insect resistance, good yield in a biologically diverse system, compatibility with intercrops, good response to organic fertility sources, horizontal resistance (traits determined by multiple genes). Evaluate the potential economic benefits to producers and processors who use organic methods. Analyze potential economic costs, returns and risks of organic production systems; Use environmental valuation tools to quantify externalities of producing food, and compare externalities of producing organic and conventional food; - Analyze price and market structures, including ability of small, medium-, and large-scale growers to access different markets, in order to frame policies that minimize concentration within the industry; and Analyze marketing channels to document how organic food is distributed, what share of the organic food dollar is returned to the farmer, and the implications of large-scale manufacturers entering the organic market. Explore international trade opportunities for organically grown and processed agricultural commodities. Compare compatibility of certification standards used in different parts of the world, with the ultimate goal of harmonization and reciprocity; Undertake marketing studies of international consumer demand for U.S. produced organic goods; and Perform Welfare analyses (quantified gains and losses for producers and consumers) of trade policies affecting international competitiveness, including implementation of the National Organic Program, domestic support programs such as the Conservation Security Act, country of origin labeling, GMO labeling, etc. Determine desirable traits for organic commodities. Examine relationships between nutrients in the soil and nutrients in the food grown on that soil, including long-term soil nutrient and crop nutrient profiles under conventional and organic management; Perform comparisons of nutrient levels between organic and conventional crops and relationship, if any, between taste and nutrient profile; Investigate the role of post-harvest handling and treatment in the maintenance of quality in fresh market organic products; and Determine the reasons for consumer preferences for organic goods. Identify marketing and policy constraints on the expansion of organic agriculture. Analyze opportunities and constraints to organic agriculture resulting from provisions of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002; Investigate specific barriers to markets, such as scale-based regulations that restrict family farm access to processors and/or markets; Study negative lender perception of organic farming and ways to change this; and Analyze regulatory barriers, such as lack of access to Federal farm programs, and developing solutions to these challenges. Conduct advanced on-farm research and development that emphasizes observation of, experimentation with, and innovation for working organic farms, including research relating to production and marketing and to socioeconomic conditions. (Note: Many topics from other goal areas can be conducted on working farms.) Develop rigorous on-farm systems research designs; and Conduct long-term, interdisciplinary systems research.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Integrated Organic Program is particularly interested in proposed projects that emphasize research and outreach that assist farmers and ranchers with whole farm planning and ecosystem integration. Projects should plan to deliver applied production information to producers. Fieldwork for both program areas must be done on certified organic land or on land in transition to organic certification, as appropriate to project goals and objectives. Refer to the USDA National Organic Program (<http://www.ams.usda.gov/nop>) for organic production standards. NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act amended section 1462 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310), increasing the limit on recovery of indirect costs from 19 percent to 22 percent of total Federal funds provided under the award. Therefore, the recovery of indirect costs on awards made by NIFA under this program area may not exceed the lesser of the institution's official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals. For both ORG and OREL, all award recipients may subcontract to organizations not eligible to apply provided such organizations are necessary for the conduct of the project.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $19,146,540 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 97 applications, requesting a total of $119,839,234, were received in this years competition. In June 2012, a 22-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty from land grant universities and staff from non-profit organic organizations.

Funds were available to support a total of 8 new awards.

The funding ratio for this program in FY11 was 8.2%.

Funded projects seek to solve critical organic agricultural issues, priorities, or problems through the integration of research and extension activities. They include high priority research and extension projects that will enhance the ability of producers and processors who have already adopted organic standards to grow and market high quality organic agricultural products. AUTHORIZATION:

This program is administered under the provisions of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (Section 7501 of Public Law 107-171) as reauthorized in Section 7143 of Public Law 110-246, which amended the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3101 et seq.) by providing for a program of resident instruction grants for insular areas (7 U.S.C. 3363). Funds are available for a program of competitive grants, with funds to be awarded to one or more individual, eligible institutions of higher education in Insular Areas (Insular Area Institutions) or consortia of such eligible institutions, to carry out teaching and education programs in the food and agricultural sciences., 7 U.S.C 3363.

OBJECTIVES:

In General. -The Secretary of Agriculture shall make competitive grants to eligible institutions to-

(1) strengthen institutional educational capacities, including libraries, curriculum, faculty, scientific instrumentation, instruction delivery systems, and student recruitment and retention, in order to respond to identified State, regional, national, or international education needs in the food and agricultural sciences;

(2) attract and support undergraduate and graduate students in order to educate them in identified areas of national need in the food and agriculture sciences;

(3) facilitate cooperative initiatives between two or more insular area eligible institutions, or between those institutions and units of State Government or organizations in the private sector, to maximize the development and use of resources such as faculty, facilities, and equipment to improve food and agricultural sciences teaching programs; and

(4) conduct undergraduate scholarship programs to assist in meeting national needs for training food and agricultural scientists.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The purpose of the Resident Instruction Grants Program for Institutions of Higher Education in Insular Areas (RIIA) is to promote and strengthen the ability of Insular Area Institutions to carry out teaching and education programs within the broadly defined food and agricultural sciences-related disciplines. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research, extension and education objectives to address food and agricultural sciences.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

The use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility is not allowed under this program. With prior approval, and in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, some grant funds may be used for minor alterations, renovations, or repairs deemed necessary to retrofit existing teaching or research spaces in order to carry out a funded project. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that the alterations, renovations, or repairs are essential to achieving the major purpose of the project. Grant funds may not be used for endowment investing.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the annual program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $861,079 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

Applications submitted to this grants program must state how the funded project will address the two RIIA Grant Program Goals:

1. To increase the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural sciences, or other STEM fields closely related to the food and agricultural sciences, and for FY 2012, encourage study in areas that contribute to any of the five NIFA Priority Areas listed directly above in Part I, A; and
2. To enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs.

For FY 2012, one consortium application from 8 eligible Land Grant institutions in the Insular Areas was awarded $861,079. A five-member panel reviewed the RIIA along with the DEG and ANNH programs together. The panelists were scientists from Land Grant institutions and the federal government.

RIIA funding for the 8 Insular Areas institutions has enhanced higher education programs in Agriculture and Food Science and related STEM fields and increased the number and diversity of students in 2- and/or 4-yr postsecondary degrees. Funding also assists in addressing technological needs of each institution, outreach activities to prospective students, faculty development, student scholarships, hands-on research and work-study opportunities for undergraduate students.

In 2012, a student interned in one of the 4-yr institutions during the summer. 15 students per semester will enroll in intramural practicum in developing 3 quasi-commercial agribusiness firms ornamentals, herbs, spices and vegetables. A student took a summer internship in a 2-yr institution. 10 students per semester will participate in intramural practicum to establish quasi commercial firms in laing hens and broilers, hydroponics, ornamentals, herbs and spices. Fiscal Year 2013: For FY 2013 award cycle, $1,460,018 was available for both RIIA and DEG.

Five applications (2 RIIA and 3 DEG) requested a total of $3,674,822. A 3-member panel reviewed the applications. At present one project from each program is in the process of being funded. The RIIA consortium is possibly funded between $790,000- $850,000. At the present time, one RIIA project and one DEG project are in the process of funding.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: As continued since FY 2005, this phase of the consortium of 8 institutions in the Insular Areas, funding was used to address the technological needs of each institution as well as outreach activities to prospective students, acquisition of state of the art equipment, providing for faculty development trainings, activities and salary support, reviewing and updating curricular offerings, providing scholarships to agriculture and related science students, and offering hands-on research and study opportunities for undergraduates.

Collaboration between NIFA and a institutions in this funded project supported food and agricultural sciences programs including a series of regional teaching workshops. These workshops have provided valuable opportunities for continuing education in teaching and learning and have been a source of professional renewal and development for faculty across all food and agricultural science disciplines.

This program has enhanced instruction delivery technology and effective classroom teaching and learning, new courses being developed and improved student recruitment/enrollment, engagement and retention.

Furthermore, entrepreneurial skills of students through intramural practicum and directed research have further development and readiness of students for higher education and fields of agricultural economics, agribusiness, horticulture, soil science and crop protection, to name a few. Fiscal Year 2013: One RIIA consortium project has been selected for funding. The goals and objects shall continue from previous funding periods.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Most fruit, nut, and vegetable crops require insect-mediated pollination for optimal yields. While honey bees provide the majority of crop pollination, they are at risk from colony collapse disorder, diseases, and mites. Unmanaged native bees are proposed as managed pollinators, thereby diversifying pollinator sources and improving long-term crop yields. This project will integrate entomology, pollination biology, sociology, economics, and extension approaches to develop region- and crop-specific Integrated Crop Pollination strategies for diversifying pollination sources for consistent crop yields. Field studies will be replicated across major U.S. production regions to compare the contribution of honey bees and native bees in fields receiving standard pollination practices and in fields augmented with bee habitat or alternative managed bees. This project will estimate the value of native bees and honey bees for U.S. specialty crops, identify farming practices that affect bee abundance and pollination levels, evaluate habitat management practices for enhancing bees and crop pollination, and test alternative species as managed pollinators. ICP approaches will be integrated into extension programs and regional and crop-specific recommendations will be distributed electronically. This project will support sustainability of U.S. agriculture by enhancing specialty crop producers ability to manage their farms for improved pollination and yield.

Lawns and grass areas define urban landscapes in the United States. The challenge is breeding cultivars that respond to market demands for viable specialty products, consumer demand for low-input products, and government leaders demand for effective and efficient vegetation that supports their mandate to protect the public good as well as new initiatives to create sustainable cities. This project supports the use of low-input fescue cultivars in sustainable landscapes. To achieve that end, it: (1) evaluates the motivations and barriers public land managers would have for converting to low-input fescue cultivars; (2) explores the role public officials could play in supporting resident conversion to low-input fescue; (3) evaluates homeowners assessment of diverse grass traits, their grass seed purchasing behaviors, and message delivery technologies; and, (4) based on the preceding findings, develops new fescue cultivars that blend desired existing traits with enhanced potential to withstand wear, heat, and important turfgrass diseases, and designs effective outreach and message delivery technologies for consumers. The ultimate outcome of this project will be enhancement of long-term environmental, economic, and societal benefits resulting from reduced use of inputs such as water, fertilizer, pesticide, and labor.

Improved efficiency, productivity, and profitability for the vegetable production and processing industry require an improved understanding of the role of consumer markets. Movement toward this outcome will require addressing shorter-term objectives, beginning with an empirical demand assessment to identify specific attributes that resonate within a consumer market for sustainably labeled sweet corn and green beans. Next is the development of regionally-appropriate, whole-farm, and crop specific sustainability metrics, while also giving attention to potential barriers to grower adoption of these tools. On-farm trials and field research will test credibility for sustainability claims relative to environmental and economic impacts in several regions of the U.S. Traditional outreach techniques will be integrated with innovative media favored by growers and the processing industry. Examples include a grower workbook to accompany assessment tools, and a conference designed for growers and the vegetable processing industry to showcase and document lessons learned. We anticipate this project will serve as a model for other crops or production regions that want to pursue metric-driven sustainability, based on an increased understanding of the consumer market.

Dormant pruning is a vital practice in specialty crop production, but is also very costly. In addition, the continued availability of labor is uncertain, adding considerably to the risk of fruit production. Replacing the current labor-intensive pruning operations, which heavily rely on a large seasonal workforce, with more mechanized and automated techniques is critically needed for the U.S. specialty crop industry to remain competitive in the global market. This project will develop technologies to automate dormant pruning of specialty crops using modern sensors, computers, and robotic manipulators. Research will focus on automating dormant pruning of two major specialty crops: grape, and apple by carrying out four integrative project goals to: 1) formulate and evaluate rules that describe optimal pruning in terms of measurable physical attributes of canopy structure; 2) develop 3D imaging, decision system, and robot control technologies for automating dormant pruning operations; 3) determine social and economic impacts of the proposed autonomous pruning system; and 4) communicate results and involve growers and industry groups, so they can adopt these technologies and incorporate the knowledge gained into their orchards, vineyards, and businesses.

Developing alternative disease and pest control tactics away from the few remaining pesticides is critical to ensuring the mushroom industry's long-term economic viability. Similarly, understanding the role of substrate (compost) conditions in the development of fungal diseases and the flies that spread disease will help growers to better manage this pest/disease complex. Our objective is to transition the management of fungal pathogens and flies that vector these pathogens from short-term reliance on a dwindling number of pesticides to more sustainable strategies. Two major goals have been identified: (1) transition the management of fungal pathogens and flies beyond short-term reliance on pesticides by enhancing epidemiological and bio-rational tactics and (2) synergize information developed in this project with existing knowledge to provide the extension tools needed to encourage changes in grower practices. The primary outcomes are the identification of substrate characteristics that influence the incidence and severity of a major disease, Trichoderma Green Mold and the identification of alternative biopesticides that can be developed to help control fungal pathogens and insects. Fiscal Year 2013: No additional projects were funded during FY '13. The following examples represent summaries for on-going projects which were previously funded:

Greenhouses and other structures have been used for millennia to protect crops from harsh environmental conditions. Over the last 50 years, some growers of greenhouse crops have realized that providing artificial lighting to supplement sunlight can increase commercial yield, particularly during seasons when day length is short or conditions are cloudy. A major constraint to more widespread adoption of this technology is that most lighting systems have been developed for the needs of humans. They are relatively costly to install and operate in greenhouses and do not provide the light spectrum that is most efficiently used by plants for photosynthesis.

An integrated team is investigating the use of light emitting diodes (LED) to address this problem. LED can be designed to produce the exact light quality needed by plants for optimum photosynthetic activity. The team has been able to demonstrate that LED systems produce the same yield and profitability as the current industry standard (high-pressure sodium lamps) while using a fraction of the electricity. In experiments conducted, LED systems used 75 % less electricity than the current industry standard. Currently in the U.S., there are about 4200 acres of greenhouses that use supplemental lighting. If LED systems were installed in these greenhouses, energy use would be reduced by 3.5 billion kilowatt hours. Reducing energy use by this amount would reduce carbon dioxide emissions by almost 3 million (2.87 million) tons per year, as estimated by the system used by the U.S. EPA.

Production of fresh-market onion and garlic bulbs is a billion dollar industry in the US. Growers have identified pest management as a key aspect of production, where even small improvements can have a big payoff. A team of researchers and extension specialists have developed integrated pest management on-line software that enables growers to make timely, smarter, and more economically beneficial pest control decisions. The software combines pest scouting information, weather, plant growth stage, pest and disease thresholds, and economic market monitoring to improve grower decision making. A conservative profitability improvement estimate of 5 percent (based on reduced crop losses from diseases and pests), or $52 million for US onion and garlic growers annually, results in an annual return of 50 to 1 for the original research and extension investment. Additional savings for growers include reduced application costs for pesticides (e.g., fungicides, insecticides) when insect and disease pressures are below economic or injury thresholds, as well as ecological and environmental benefits from reduced chemical use.

Broccoli is a cool-season vegetable that has high consumer demand. It is highly nutritious, with high vitamin C content. Because vitamin C is heat labile, broccoli must be kept refrigerated for maximum nutrient quality. Because broccoli grows best when average temperatures are between 55 and 65 F, commercial production has been concentrated in the coastal valleys of central California where morning fog keeps the temperature near the optimum for most of the year. A series of changes in the supply chain has made it desirable to expand broccoli production east of the Mississippi River. A major impediment to broccoli production in the eastern U.S. is the fact that modern cultivars have been selected for their adaptability to environmental and soil characteristics in the western states. These cultivars grown in the eastern U.S. do not produce commercially acceptable crowns. An integrated team representing 12 states, is working to develop and test broccoli cultivars that are suited to the climate and soils of eastern states. Conservative estimates indicate that eastern broccoli production will result in a 2/3 reduction in fuel use to transport the crop to market, saving close to 2.3 million gallons of fuel per year and reducing carbon dioxide emissions by over 51 million pounds per year. Based on economic evaluations, it is expected that growers in the region will realize increased profits of $3000 per acre per year, totaling $40 million in profit per year for the region.

An integrated project team is using wireless sensor networks to monitor the water status of nursery plants and time the application of water. By knowing which plants need water, where those plants are in the nursery, and exactly how much water is needed, the team has been able to reduce water use in commercial nurseries by 50 to 75 per cent. Plants that receive only as much water as they need are less likely to become diseased, decreasing the amount of fungicide needed. In one case, production time was also reduced by several months, freeing space and decreasing water total water needs. Coupled with reduced water use and reduced pesticide application, the operation is more economically, socially and environmentally sustainable. These results have dramatic implications for the nursery industry. Adoption estimates for wireless sensor networks applied to 75% of the nursery industry would boost profitability by $113.4 billion per year for the industry and save over 2.5 trillion gallons of water annually.

The availability, cost, and productivity of labor along with worker safety create numerous problems for specialty crop producers. Among these issues is the larger problem of US specialty crop competitiveness in the global marketplace. This project is developing and testing a driverless platform for workers that allows them to prune, thin, tie, maintain, and harvest the top part of fruit trees, while eliminating ladders and their associated cost and risk. With the appropriate implements, these platforms also enable fully autonomous spraying, mowing, crop yield estimation, and scouting for insects and disease. The project demonstrated up to 116% efficiency improvement (in non-replicated trials) and 58% (in replicated trials) for tree fruit operations when workers on autonomous orchard platforms "competed" side by side with workers on ladders. The project also showed that the vehicle can mow and spray an entire block completely unsupervised. Test results were corroborated by a financial analysis that indicates that these vehicles can be cost effective, and could be paid off in less than one year of operation for a typical orchard. If adopted in large scale, autonomous orchard vehicles could replace many injury-prone, low-skill, low-wage jobs in the workforce with better paying, higher education jobs and help reduce farms' dependence on migrant labor. This workforce change could also reduce social pressures on the surrounding communities and improve rural economies. Fiscal Year 2014: No data are available at this time. Pending program re-authorization and funding, new projects will continue to address the five mandated focus areas. Pertinent data will be provided by Program at a future date.

Indirect cost is not allowable if awarded as an equipment, conference, or post-doc fellowship grant.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: (A) Agricultural and Natural Resources Science for Climate Variability and Change:

For FY 2012, there were two competitions: Integrated Approaches to Climate Adaptation and Mitigation in Agroecosystems with approximately $17 million that received 107 applications of which 16 projects were awarded; and Regional Approaches to Climate Change with approximately $20 million that received 27 applications of which two projects of approximately $10 million each were funded. These later two awards were Coordinated Agricultural Projects that are examining the impacts of climate variability and change on dairy and beef cattle. Funds totaling $28,673,784 were provided by AFRI to fund continuation awards made in 2010-2011.

(B) Food Security:

For the FY 2012 award cycle, $23,875,000 was awarded in the Food Security Challenge Area. This included the FY 2011 funds that had not been offered in 2011. The Food Security Challenge Area included seven programs which received a total of 131 applications. Seven diverse peer review panels reviewed the applications and a total of 35 applications were funded. The majority of the awards were made through the continuation process where only the first year of funding was awarded out of current program funds. This led to an average success rate of 26.7% (and included the funding of four conferences). Funds were used to support research, education, and extension efforts in the following areas: Translational genomics for disease resistance in animals; Extension-driven disease prevention and control in animals; Translational genomics for improved fertility of animals; Minimizing diseases due to fungal pathogens; Management of Arthropod- or Nematode-vectored plant pathogens; Enhanced implementation of Integrated Pest Management (IPM) for vectored pathogens; and Sustainable food systems to improve food security.

(C) Food Safety:

Three continuation awards were granted in 2012 for a total amount of $2,998,163. No new awards were granted using FY 2012 funds.

(D) Sustainable Bioenergy:

For FY 2012, a Request for Applications (RFA) was published on September 21, 2011 with a proposal submission deadline of December 15, 2011. Funds totaling $10,000,000 were provided by AFRI for new awards and $2,000,000 for Interagency Programs. Awards include 21 standard research awards, 2 conference grants and one seed grant totaling $8,000,000; one coordinated agricultural project totaling $2,000,000; and two grants for the related interagency program, Plant Feedstock Genomics for Bioenergy. Funds totaling $1,948,733 were provided by AFRI to fund the 3rd year of continuation for the 2010 Education Awards.

The AFRI Sustainable Bioenergy Program funded grants that target vital topical areas related to the development of regional systems for the sustainable production of bioenergy, biopower and biobased products. These programs will, where appropriate, align with existing Regional Bioenergy Coordinated Agricultural Projects (CAP) to promote NIFAs goal and mission of economic, environmental, and rural community sustainability.

Demand for biomass continues to increase as additional targets for heat, transportation fuels, power, and biobased products are realized. Current policies are designed to provide agricultural support, rural enhancement, reduced dependence on foreign sources of energy, climate change mitigation/adaptation, and environmental sustainability. Policy developments often are identified as drivers of production decisions in the biofuels and bioenergy industries. New policies will need to take into full account associated risks/uncertainties and unintended consequences of feedstock production systems on natural resource and ecosystem service sustainability. Research is not well developed around the implications of current and alternative regulatory policies, fuel and portfolio standards, market distorting and other production subsidies, tax credits, and agricultural assistance programs on both bioenergy and agricultural markets and production decisions, which are subject to further evaluations of environmental and other indirect effects.

To meet these identified needs, the long-term outcome for this program is to implement regional systems that materially deliver liquid transportation biofuels to help meet the Energy Independence and Security Act (EISA) of 2007 goal of 36 billion gallons/year of biofuels by 2022 and reduce the National dependence on foreign oil and, as appropriate, produce biopower and biobased products. Projects are expected to employ a systems approach to address the stated Program Area Priorities which collectively contribute to the achievement of the following goals:

1. Deployment of superior genotypes of regionally-appropriate dedicated energy crops.
2. Refinement and implementation of sustainable regional feedstock production practice.
3. Seamless feedstock logistics.
4. Scalable, sustainable conversion technologies that can accept a diverse range of feedstocks.
5. Regional marketing and distribution systems.
6. Regional sustainability analyses, data collection and management, and tools to support decision-making.
7. A well trained workforce with the capacity to fill the cross-disciplinary needs of the biofuels industry.

In FY 2010, the NIFA solicitation resulted in the establishment of five Regional Bioenergy CAPs that focus on dedicated energy crops including energy cane, perennial grasses, sorghum, woody biomass, and oil crops (oilseeds and algae). These sustainable crops serve as feedstocks for the production of advanced non-ethanol, infrastructure-compatible fuels and biobased products through a systems-oriented approach that links feedstock development, production, logistics, conversion and markets. NIFA supports programs that are trans-disciplinary and integrate genetic crop development; sustainable agronomic and silvicultural practices; pest and beneficial species management; coordinated energy-efficient logistics; flexible and scalable sustainable conversion and refining technologies; effective marketing and distribution systems; provide sustainable ecosystem services and rural community prosperity. In FY 2012, NIFA will support one additional Regional Bioenergy CAP that focuses on the production and delivery of Regionally Sustainable Biomass Feedstocks. While the focus will be on feedstocks, competitive proposals will present their feedstock development and production concepts in the context of a complete regional supply chain.

(E) NIFA Fellowship Grant Program:

NOTE: The FY 2011 competition and FY 2012 competition were combined in FY 2012. In FY 2012, 103 applications were received for the Predoctoral Program. The success rate was 47%. Forty-eight proposals were funded. In addition, 168 proposals were received for the Postdoctoral Program. The success rate was 36%. Sixty proposals were funded. Applications addressed the development of technical and functional competence for predoctoral students, and the research independence and teaching credentials of postdoctoral scientists in the agriculture, forestry, and food sciences that are within NIFAs challenge and foundational program areas through well-developed and highly interactive mentoring and training activities.

(F) Childhood Obesity Prevention:

For the FY 2012 award cycle, approximately $5,000,000 was available for project grant awards.

Forty-one applications requesting a total of $107,547,266 were received in this years competition. In September 2012, a 10-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel includes faculty from 1862 and 1890 land grant universities, private universities, USDA-EPSCoR states, and small and mid-sized universities.

Funds were available to support research, education and extension efforts for one standard award and three strengthening awards that addressed the childhood obesity prevention program.

The funding ratio for this program in FY12 was 10%.

(G) - Foundational

There was no AFRI Foundational Program in FY 12.

(H) Ecology and Evolution of Infectious Diseases (EEID):

In FY 2012, 111 proposals were received. 25 panelists evaluated the submissions at NSF during 3 days in February 2012. Summing the US federal agency contributions and the UK BBSRCs award funds, approximately $23 million was expended on 12 awards.

(I) Plant Feedstock Genomics for Bioenergy: a Joint Research (USDA & DOE): For FY 2012 the USDA-NIFA and DOE BER Plant Feedstock Genomics for Bioenergy award cycle, a total budget of $11,512,000 (USDA $2,000,000 and DOE $9,512,000) was available to fund proposals submitted to the joint research program. Maximum award size was approximately $1,500,000. A total of 60 applications were received requesting a total of approximately $ 76,320,526. Fiscal Year 2013: (A) Agricultural and Natural Resources Science for Climate Variability and Change:

For FY 2013, a single program, Climate Change Mitigation and Adaptation in Agriculture, is being competed for a total program budget of $6 million. With a due date of 17 April 2013, the Program received 136 applications. While the panel for this program has not met, it is anticipated that six awards of $1 million each will be funded. In FY 2013 the program is considering projects that involve one or more of the three functions, research, education and extension, that focus on adaptive management to weather and climate. Priority issues to be addressed include:

1. Understanding the Biophysical Basis for Adaptation.
2. Develop and Evaluate Tools and Management Practices to Aid Adaptation.
3. Social, Behavioral and Economics Aspects of Adaptive Management.

It is expected that AFRI will provide $28,392,521 to fund continuation awards made in 2010-2012.

(B) Food Security:

$6 million is available for the FY 2013 cycle. The Food Security Challenge Area consists of two programs and a total of 100 applications are expected. Continuation awards will be made, and it is anticipated that there will be 10 awards and a 10% success rate.

(C) Food Safety:

In 2013 there was a combined 2012/2013 Challenge Area RFA. Approximately $6 million will be made available to fund new awards from the combined RFA. In addition, nine continuation awards will be granted in 2013 for a total of $14,993,174.

(D) Sustainable Bioenergy:

(D) Sustainable Bioenergy:

The Northeast has substantial demand for transportation fuels, an educated and capable rural workforce, and over 3 million acres of marginal, degraded and abandoned land that could become productive, profitable sources of biomass with improved management. Under-utilized agricultural land that can be used to grow short-rotation woody crops and perennial grasses can play important, complementary, co-evolving roles in creating a sustainable, reliable, and affordable feedstock supply for biofuels, bioenergy, and biomaterials production for the region.

The NorthEast Woody/warm-season Biomass (NEWBio) Consortium will design, implement, analyze, and evaluate robust, scalable, and sustainable value chains for biomass feedstocks from New England to West Virginia. NEWBio is a unique collaborative network of public and private universities, businesses, non-profit organizations, and government agencies organized around a set of four large-scale demonstration sites, each forming the basis of a 500 to 1200 ton/day supply chain of lignocellulosic biomass suitable for advanced transportation fuels. Each demonstration is stakeholder driven, with commercial collaborators committed to feedstock production, logistics, preprocessing and conversion. These demonstration sites will provide a real-world focus for our teams research, extension, and educational efforts in three technical thrusts: human systems; feedstock improvement; harvest, preprocessing, and logistics; with five integrating themes: sustainability systems; safety and health; extension; education; and leadership. Through an intensive program of stakeholder engagement NEWBio will:

- 1) provide the scientific and practical knowledge needed to overcome current barriers;
- 2) educate the entrepreneurs, employees, and citizens who will translate that knowledge into action; and
- 3) realize a sustainable bioenergy future.

(E) NIFA Fellowship Grant Program:

Projects were funded that will develop the next generation of leaders who will be actively engaged in agriculture, forestry, and food related research, education, and extension careers. Successful proposals focused on developing the next generation of scientists who will lead agriculture into the future by solving current and future challenges facing our society. The awarded projects also targeted talented, highly-motivated doctoral candidates and postdoctoral trainees that demonstrate remarkable promise and demonstrated the ability to increase the number of gifted agricultural scientists in the United States.

- i) developing appropriate management strategies and technologies to enhance the efficiency, sustainability and competitiveness of small and medium-sized agricultural production related operations; and
- ii) implementation of programs that assist beginning small and medium-sized farms; and
- iii) examining strategies that inform policy makers.

17) Entrepreneurship, Technology and Innovation: It is anticipated that the projects funded in 2013 will focus on enhancing the rural entrepreneurship, technology transfer and innovation to promote sustainability of small and medium-sized farms and rural communities.

18) Rural Families, Communities and Regional Development: The program anticipates on funding projects that focus on strategies protecting rural environment, promoting economic development, health, and wellbeing, and enhancing the quality of life in rural America.

19) Economics, Markets and Trade: The program anticipates on funding projects that focus on agricultural market structure, performance in the supply chain, international trade, production and resource use, consumer behavior and behavioral economics, farm labor market, immigration and policy design, technology development, and science and innovation policy.

20) Environment: It is anticipated that projects funded in FY 2013 will enhance the understanding of causes, tradeoffs, implications, or impacts of market failure on agricultural systems and rural communities.

(H) Ecology and Evolution of Infectious Diseases (EEID):

Final award recommendations are not finalized for FY 2013 and will be announced with a joint NSF, NIH, USDA, BBSRC press release in September 2013. USDA anticipates supporting two awards in FY 2013, one for an agricultural plant disease and one for an agricultural animal disease. Approximately 8 other awards are anticipated that will be funded by the other partners.

(I) Plant Feedstock Genomics for Bioenergy: a Joint Research (USDA & DOE): This is the seventh year of the joint USDA and DOE funding program. DOE's Office of Science will provide $6 million in funding for five projects, while USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) will award $2 million to fund two projects. Initial funding will support research projects for up to three years. The USDA and DOE projects are designed to improve crops to be grown for biofuels including selected trees and grasses by increasing their yield, quality and ability to adapt to extreme environments. Researchers will rely on the most advanced techniques of modern genomics to develop breeding and other strategies to improve the crops. The research will be conducted on switchgrass, poplar and pine, among other plants. The potential benefits of this research range from decreasing oil imports to increasing options for American farmers. Because these crops will be optimized to tolerate conditions such as drought and poor soils, they can be grown on marginal lands unsuitable for food crops, thereby avoiding competition with food production. A project in Texas is helping limited-resource Hispanic producers to successfully direct market their agricultural produce and products.

A non-profit organization is helping farm and ranch enterprises in Nebraska and South Dakota by providing land, skills, and education to beginning farmers and ranchers; estate and transition planning to retiring landowners; and by matching beginning producers who need land with retiring landowners who need a successor.

A project in the Western states providing classroom training and experiential learning for smaller-scale specialty crop and livestock producers, and for the non-profit partners who frequently support the production, marketing and networking that are so critical to the development of new or transitioning farm or ranch enterprises. Fiscal Year 2013: 106 projects funded in prior years are still underway and producing results, including a comprehensive clearinghouse at www.start2farm.gov. PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Biomass Research and Development (BRDI) solicits for technologies that support the production of biofuels and biobased products. The program seeks to promote technologies and processes necessary for abundant commercial production of biofuels at prices competitive with fossil fuels; produce high-value biobased products to serve as substitutes for petroleum-based counterparts; and promote a diversity of economically and environmentally sustainable feedstocks for biofuels and biobased products.

NIFA was able to support four awards in FY 2012:

1. Distributed On-Farm Bioenergy, Biofuels and Biochemicals (FarmBio3)

Development and Production via Integrated Catalytic Thermolysis

2. Lignocellulosic Biomass Conversion to Infrastructure Compatible Fuel, Products and Power

3. Bioenergy and Biofuels Production from Lignocellulosic Biomass via Anaerobic Digestion and Fisher-Tropsch Reaction

4. Enhancing Economic Viability of Camelina as BioFeedstock: Optimization and Demonstration of the Production. Fiscal Year 2013: In FY 2013, one award was made from the pool of approved for funding FY 2012 applications: Waste to Wisdom: Utilizing forest residues for the production of bioenergy and biobased products. Fiscal Year 2014: The FY 2014 program is contingent upon the re-authorization of the Farm Bill.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Distributed On-Farm Bioenergy, Biofuels and Biochemicals (FarmBio3) Development and Production via Integrated Catalytic Thermolysis ($6.9 Million):

ARS scientists will develop an on-the-farm distributed technology for converting forest residues, horse manure, switchgrass and other perennial grasses into biofuels and high-value specialty chemicals. The process will be implemented at on-the-farm scale using a patent-pending unit that will mimic the petroleum industry's catalytic cracking process. The project integrates a life cycle assessment from collection and handling of the biomass to end products and will use thermodynamic principles to assess its sustainability.

Lignocellulosic Biomass Conversion to Infrastructure Compatible Fuel, Products and Power ($6.6 Million):

This project will convert lignocellulosic biomass to infrastructure-compatible renewable diesel, biolubricants, animal feed and biopower. New hybrids of energy sorghum will be developed, and other biomass resources include switchgrass and forestry residues. The biomass will be converted to hydrocarbons (molecules that are just like petroleum based hydrocarbons but derived from biomass) using innovative pretreatment, fermentation and electrochemical technologies. These hydrocarbons will be finished into premium synthetic bio-lubricants and biofuels via commercial petroleum refinery processes. A life cycle analysis will include energy efficiency impacts and assessment of impacts on rural development.

Bioenergy and Biofuels Production from Lignocellulosic Biomass via Anaerobic Digestion and Fisher-Tropsch Reaction ($6.5 Million):

This project will result in an anaerobic digestion system for the production of liquid transportation fuels and electricity from animal manure, agricultural residues, woody biomass and energy crops. The novel anaerobic digestion system will be integrated with partial oxidation and Fisher-Tropsch technologies to produce gasoline. A life cycle analysis will incorporate thermodynamic principles to assess the resource use, energy/fuel production and the environmental impact of the conversion technologies.

Enhancing Economic Viability of Camelina as BioFeedstock: Optimization and Demonstration of the Production ($5 Million):

The goal of this project is to make the oilseed crop camelina a cost-effective biofuel and bioproduct feedstock. Camelina production will be incorporated into a cropping system with wheat-based crop rotations in Montana and Wyoming. Once harvested and processed, camelina oil and meal will be chemically converted to a variety of adhesives, coatings and composites. A life cycle analysis from agronomic production to end products will assess the feasibility of a nonfood oilseed as a sustainable resource with minimal negative impact on food crop systems or the environment and will provide needed information for decision-making on camelina production as a replacement for fallow in wheat-based systems. Fiscal Year 2013: Waste to Wisdom: Utilizing forest residues for the production of bioenergy and biobased products ($1.8 Million):

The research goal is to enhance the potential to produce bioenergy and biobased products through effective utilization of forest residues. These products, when produced using mobile biomass conversion technologies and optimized biomass operations logistics, can enhance the economic viability of forest residue utilization. The outcomes from this project will support economic development in rural, forest-dependent communities and provide increased environmental benefits through their positive impacts on the forest and energy sectors. Fiscal Year 2014: The FY 2014 program is contingent upon the re-authorization of the Farm Bill.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.217 Higher Education Challenge Grants

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: The following represents FY '12 activity for on-going projects, which were previously funded:

The consortium continues (e.g. First Quality of Anderson, SC, and Abitibi Bowater of Catawba, SC) producing skilled workers, specifically in the pulp and paper industry, in their respective rural service areas. The consortium has developed innovative programs to meet the new technological requirements of a paper manufacturing workforce which contributes to global competitiveness of these two rural-based companies, economic development of the distressed region, and advance the quality of applied research in this area. The customized pulp and paper manufacturing technology hybrid curriculum has created a highly skilled workforce for pulp and paper manufacturing and bio-energy and improved information-sharing capacity in this subject area, a NIFA priority for these rural communities; thus, advancing both the industry and the economy simultaneously.

In June 2012, 31 attendees participated in a conference co-sponsored by the partners in pulp and paper industries. Associate degree and certificate programs have been offered and are replicated by businesses and organizations across the country. Eight students participated in the Phase I Certificate program; 20 students and employees gained employment with Resolute Forest Products. There were 149 training topics for over 36,000 hrs to the industry client. Nine Pulp and Paper industry client employees are now enrolled in related courses. About 300 new hires at the pulp and paper industry. Furthermore, the Apprenticeship Program is enhanced and principal curriculum has been developed at both colleges of YTC and TCTC. Equipment has been ordered for upgrade to relevant industry laboratory training equipment.

In another funded project, American regulatory structures and innovative U.S. companies are developing and advancing biogas plants and infrastructure. The institution collaborating with the companies has produced high school appropriate labs, a demonstration video and supporting power point lectures to reach out to high school students and educators. The project is bringing greater public, educator, and student attention to and knowledge of bio-energy production as a sustainable energy source and waste management strategy with multiple industry applications.

The conference on bio-energy stimulated interest and increased networking in disseminating current information and knowledge about the field of bio-energy opportunities even in upstate NY region. This region anticipates creating a bio-energy consortium for students, employees and the community. Fiscal Year 2013: Funding is not anticipated for FY 2013. Fiscal Year 2014: Funding is not anticipated for FY 2014.

The National TAAF Training Coordination Center will design and administer the training requirements of TAAF, develop communications regarding TAAF training and technical assistance, and comply with reporting requirements as described under Part I(B) and in Part VI(D). The successful National TAAF Training Coordination Program applicant will enter into a cooperative agreement with NIFA for establishment of the National TAAF Training Coordination Center to coordinate and implement the training and technical assistance component of the TAAF program under section 296(b) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2401e). Please be advised that the following components of the TAAF program will be administered by FAS/FSA: certification of agricultural commodities eligibility certifications, approval of applications for cash benefits, and payments to implement business plans.

FAS, NIFA, FSA, and the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) will all be involved in the TAAF outreach effort. FAS has established a website for TAAF which is now linked to USDA, FSA, NIFA, AMS websites and can be found at: <http://www.fas.usda.gov/ITP/TAA/taa.asp>. Implementing regulations governing the TAAF program (including specific requirements for the provision of training and technical assistance) are expected to be published shortly in the Federal Register (as a Final Rule).

- o Assistance to TAAF-eligible producers with developing an initial business plan based on the initial technical assistance training that can be approved in accordance with the requirements that will be set out in 7 CFR 1580.32. An approved plan must reflect the skills gained by the producer through the intensive technical assistance courses, and demonstrate how the producer will apply those skills to make adjustments to its business and marketing plans and operations with the goal of enhancing its farm profitability and ability to adjust to imports; and

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: As of December 2012, 10,980 eligible producers were identified and 10,239 were approved for training and technical assistance in the Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers Program. Participation success rates for the four program phases as of this date: 10,127 have completed the initial orientation; 8,391 have completed 12 or more hours of intensive training; 8,254 have completed their initial business plan; and, 6,666 have completed their long-term business adjustment plan and are pursuing implementation. A nine-step, four-year evaluation process is underway which is providing NIFA, USDAs Tri-agency Task Force, Congress, and the USG, now and in the future, with short-term and long-term outcomes resulting from our efforts in TAA for Farmers. Fiscal Year 2013: As of May 2013, additional 596 producers of catfish, asparagus, shrimp, lobster, and blueberries had completed the required 12 or more hours of intensive training; 668 more had completed their initial business plans, and 1,410 had completed their long-term business adjustment plan and are implementing those plans. This represents 8,987 intensive training, 8922 initial business plans, and 8076 long-term business adjustment plans completions. Fiscal Year 2014: We anticipate a total of 1,373 producers of catfish, asparagus, shrimp, lobster, and blueberry producers who have remained in the Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers program since their eligibility was confirmed will complete all four phases of the training and technical assistance on schedule in the remainder of FY2013 and in FY2014. Still pending completion of the full 12 hours of required intensive training are 708 producers; another 64 are working on their initial business plans, and 601 are working on their long-term business adjustment plans. TAAF trainers and consultants will remain poised to also provide all four phases of training and technical assistance to any denied applicants whose appeals are overturned by the judicial process established to mediate program eligibility.

10.318 WOMEN AND MINORITIES IN SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, AND MATHEMATICS FIELDS

WAMS; Women and Minorities in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics Fields (STEM) program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7204 of the Food Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246) amends section 1672 of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (FACT) (7 U.S.C. 5925) to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities. The Secretary shall make these grants in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education, and Economics Advisory Board.

OBJECTIVES:

The Women and Minorities (WAMS) in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Fields program was authorized to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary. The goal of the WAMS program is to develop and implement robust partnerships to increase the representation, participation, and entrepreneurship of women in STEM careers, thereby contributing to national economic prosperity. The purpose of the grant program is to support projects that: Provide STEM knowledge, skills and competency to Women and Minorities from Rural Areas with successful placement (a) in the workforce in STEM fields, or (b) as innovators and entrepreneurs adding value to the STEM fields in areas that have relevancy to the USDA Secretarys priorities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research and extension grants to increase participation by women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics, with priority given to eligible institutions that carry out continuing programs funded by the Secretary. Program funds may only be used for research and extension activities in the training, outreach and mentoring of rural women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in STEM fields relevant to USDA mission.

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Funds made available for grants in this program shall not be used for scholarship or fellowship purposes, the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (P.L. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

State agricultural experiment stations; colleges and universities; university research foundations; other research institutions and organizations; Federal agencies; national laboratories; private organizations or corporations; individuals; or any group consisting of 2 or more of these entities.

NOTE:

In FY 2014, program is moved to the National Science Foundation and Department of Education.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant are established, these will be announced in the annual program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $383,321 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 14 applications requesting a total of $696,668 were received in this years competition. In June 2013, a four-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant, non-land grant colleges and universities and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community. Four applications met the WAMS RFA requirements satisfactorily to be panel reviewed. Based on total funding only the top two applications were selected by the panel to be funded.

Funded projects should address one or more of the following WAMS Grants Program Goals:

1. Develop successful academic recruitment and retention programs increasing the number of women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas who will pursue and complete a postsecondary degree in science, technology, engineering or mathematics (STEM) disciplines funded by the U.S Secretary of Agriculture, and for FY 2011, encourage projects focused on any of the five NIFA Challenge Areas listed in Part I, B;

2. Foster partnerships among academic institutions and employers that develop sustainable research or extension initiatives to increase the participation of women and underrepresented minorities from rural areas in experiential learning opportunities leading to STEM-related careers in disciplines funded by the U.S Secretary of Agriculture, and for FY 2011, encourage projects focused on any of the five NIFA Challenge Areas.

In one of the funded projects, students engaged in mentored experiences during the semester and remaining college career. Minorities and female students were recruited, enrolled and matched depending on the students interest. The students selected were in Animal Sciences and Industry, Agricultural Economics, and Agronomy. One of the students paired with a professor/mentor in Equine Nutrition in the Department of Animal Science and Industry presented a poster on her research work during the semester finale. She was also selected to present her research results at the 6th European Equine Health and Nutrition Congress in Belgium, March 2013.

The SciGirls STEM Network accomplished their goals in: professional development to 4-H leaders, a touring program to rural and tribal communities in a state, and participated in key conferences, webinars and events nationwide.

Target Audience Girls ages 8-13 Rural communities met their expectations through this program. Workshops, conferences, STEM learning events and experiences stimulated hands-on activities even reaching the students families. After school programs at all schools in the area helped raise low science scores of students. STEM summits also opened to elementary and middle school students and teachers. 50,000+ attendees at one of these educational events is phenomenal as multiple educational systems in varied school districts joined forces for student STEM learning experiences. Fiscal Year 2013: In FY 2013 award cycle, $353,074 was available for project awards. One project is guaranteed funding and possibly two. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2014: NOTE:

In FY 2014, program is moved to the National Science Foundation and Department of Education.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Increasing the successful placement of women and underrepresented minorities into higher education and the workforce in food and agriculture-related STEM fields; increase their involvement as innovators and entrepreneurs adding value to those fields in addressing modern challenges; and to contribute to the development of sustainable and renewable energy for the future of the State of Hawaii and the world. The project will engage the interest of secondary and post-secondary students in the real-world challenges of sustainable energy, current STEM-related career opportunities in food and agricultural sciences, and related education.

Creation of a mentored Transfer Student BRIDGE program for women and underrepresented minority students. This includes an opportunity to experience campus and work on research with faculty members before transferring into the College of Agriculture. It is a chance to participate in individualized and group e-mentoring programs throughout the remainder of their undergraduate program and to be successfully placed in the STEM workforce.

The 2012 funded projects developed human capacity through mentoring of under-represented women and minority graduate students in STEM careers in Agriculture and Life Sciences. Further, undergraduate students conduct research in agricultural land assessment for sustainable energy. Fiscal Year 2013: Possibly two awards in the total amount of $353,074 are being processed.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: This program will maintain and expand the national, publicly available online farm financial database that any U.S. producer can use for benchmarking and improving their farm management. It will improve the profitability and competitiveness of small and mid-sized U.S. farms and ranches by developing and providing benchmarking resources using high-quality farm financial management data. To develop and expand this database, increased collaboration between existing state-level farm management associations and farm and ranch business management education programs will be facilitated. Benchmarking is an important and growing tool used to improve producer's abilities to successfully manage the high risk and price volatility currently being experienced by farmers and ranchers throughout the U.S. This project will provide benchmarking capabilities to help producers manage risk, volatility and financial stress. Numerous researchers have indicated a desire to use the national farm financial benchmarking database to conduct research on cost of production, key determinants of farm profitability, and analyses of farm policy proposals. In conjunction with the national database, this project will develop a statistical tool that will allow researchers to conduct research without compromising the confidentiality of individual producer data. Benchmarking allows producers to compare their performance to farms and ranches of similar size that produce the same products. The benchmarking database helps producers identify their businesses strengths and weaknesses. The national database will be publicly available to all U.S. producers. Use of the database for benchmarking will improve producers' abilities to successfully manage risk and financial challenges and to become more globally competitive.

Three examples of funded projects are:

1. In the past year, 31,816 reports were generated through queries to the National Farm Management Benchmarking Database. The National Farm Business Management Benchmarking Database is open to the public and can be queried to provide benchmark reports by farm size, farm type, location, debt level, age of operator and several other factors. Enterprise level data can be queried by location, enterprise size, tillage method, organic vs. conventional and several other production factors.

2. A 15 state collaboration submitted 3,239 farm financial analyses to the National Farm Benchmarking Database, as of May 31, 2013. Each of the farms that submitted their financial summaries also received individualized review and analysis of their farm/ranch operations. In addition, the regional and/or state summary data has been presented at multiple local, regional and state meetings where additional producers, agricultural lenders and agribusiness leaders can access and utilize the summary reports.

3. Detailed survey of existing strategic management tools available from private and public sources or authors and accessible on various platforms. Particular focus was placed on assessing the types of performance indicators produced and the type of data required. Tools focusing on supporting dairy herd management were reviewed. Project staff met with a small set of small and medium scale dairy farm managers to establish their current practices in monitoring performance. The project has benefited from insights drawn from these interviews and meetings by establishing a firm foundation for design of a decision support tool. An initial linear programming model was developed to provide support for feed management decisions. The model was designed to be light on data requirements and to provide indicators of both herd level profits and environmental effects of decisions. The project is continuing summer and fall of 2013 to develop this model and provide access to it to a set of cooperating farm managers. Fiscal Year 2013: Not available until awards are made. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2014: Not available until awards are made. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, $720,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

One application was received requesting $750,000. In May 2012, a five-member peer review panel evaluated this application and other applications for other related programs. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant, non-land grant colleges and universities, and scientists from the food and agricultural sciences community.

Applications submitted to this grants program must state how the funded project will address the two DEG Program Goals:

1. To increase the number and diversity of students who will pursue and complete a 2- or 4-year postsecondary degree in the food and agricultural sciences, or other STEM fields closely related to the food and agricultural sciences, and for FY 2012, encourage study in areas that contribute to any of the five NIFA Priority Areas listed directly above in Part I, A; and
2. To enhance the quality of postsecondary instruction in order to help meet current and future national food and agricultural sciences workplace needs. Fiscal Year 2013: For 2013, DEG and RIIA programs have identical goals and objectives in enhancing classroom course delivery in order to increase student enrollment and graduation in food and agricultural sciences and related sciences. RIIA basically improves classroom learning while DEG improves distance learning technology for students who are unable to relocate from other islands. One DEG award is in the process of funding at approximately $700,000 to continue advance technology to reach students on other islands.

10.308 Resident Instruction Grants for Insular Area Activities

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Since DEG began in 2010, its thrust is providing students with alternate methods of learning to broaden their student experience and allow them to select the alternate method of learning that supports the evidence on learning styles theories. The outcomes of the project include increased satisfaction among students enrolled in the Program as a result of providing them with alternate methods of learning, as well as opportunities to reduce their time to complete the Program and become more proficient in the use of technology.

DEG continues addressing the lack of access of college students and faculty, and of local high school science teachers and students, to centers of high scientific activity in STEM areas. The project seeks to achieve this goal by promoting the integration of distance education (DE) technologies in the academic instruction of life and agricultural sciences in the university and high schools in the UPR system.

In 2012 the goals were reached, namely, training faculty and science high school teachers in DE technologies; a designated classroom of Agricultural Technology building to DE activities; initiated interaction of high school science teachers an university faculty; developed a pilot seminar course that incorporates DE technologies and agricultural science topics of global interest; and, evaluated the effect of incorporating DE technologies in agricultural science classes in student performance and motivation. Furthermore, 10 faculty members were trained in Moodle and other DE modalities; and, 11 courses were updated and modified. Fiscal Year 2013: It is anticipated that the same project in 2013 for the same amount of funding will continue the 2012 vision in student enrollment as well as training faculty from the island territories in Distance Education, take courses in the hybrid option and two courses in Agricultural Economics in a distance modality. The DEG and RIIA programs have increased student enrollment by 23% in 2011-2012 and 37% in 2012-2013.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: U.S. university faculty were recruited, hired, and placed in 4 provinces in Afghanistan. They established offices and began training provincial and district-level extension staff. Train-the-trainer workshops on a wide range of technical issues were implemented in all four provinces. These included post-harvest storage of grains, conservation agriculture, mitigating & treating plant pests/diseases, efficient irrigation techniques, and improved horticultural practices. A special emphasis was placed on developing extension programs for Afghan women that focused on home gardening, small-scale poultry operations, nutrition, food safety, and food preservation. Much time and effort was also placed on ensuring that the Afghanistan Ministry of Agriculture was an active partner in all plans and implemented activities. Fiscal Year 2013: In FY 2013, AAEP developed Model Training Farms in all four provinces where it is working (Kabul, Herat, Balkh, and Nangarhar). These have been used for hands-on trainings, field days, and a means to demonstrate new technologies. Farmer Field Schools have been expanded in each province. The Women In Agriculture component has 18 of these in the Kabul area. Work groups have been established around cereals, fruits, vegetables, livestock, postharvest, and other topics to share expertise within and between provinces. A storage bag technology has been introduced and more than 10,000 bags have been produced and distributed in-country to more effectively store grains, seeds and other products. Other trainings carried out have focused on such topics as soil sampling, conservation agriculture, transplanting of vegetable seedlings, Integrated Pest Management, greenhouse production, pruning fruit trees, wheat cultivation, composting, and others. In addition to such technical areas, considerable effort has been made to build agents effectiveness with trainings in leadership, communication, grant writing, etc. In the remainder of FY 2013, emphasis will be on continuing to develop the work groups and the Model Teaching Farms, extending training to the Farmer Field Schools, and expanding the project into Kunduz, Paktia and Kandahar provinces. Fiscal Year 2014: Training workshops related to priority needs will continue in all four provinces where AAEP is working, as well as the three additional provinces mentioned above. In addition, development of inter-provincial working groups will be expanded so that Afghanistan can build a network of expertise within their own country. Depending upon the Ministry of Agriculture priorities and resources available, capacity building for extension will be carried out in other provinces. During this final year of the project, collaboration with the AGREED program (see below) will increase.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: One project competed work with four diverse population community gardens to increase knowledge in communication, team building, and leadership development to create effective garden committee management. A 100 question assessment tool was developed to analyze the needs of each garden along with meetings with garden participants and Educational materials were developed, shared, and customized to address the needs of the individual community garden membership.

Another project used micro-sub-grants to provide opportunities for change in knowledge, action, and conditions within 30 grantee communities. Public officials became more supportive of planting trees in their community, city officials donated land, installed underground irrigation, and helped maintain trees during a severe drought. Community gardeners acknowledged the benefits trees bring to their projects. Throughout this pilot year, over 2,700 volunteers donated over 10,000 hours to plant over 2,000 trees and woody shrubs in the 30 grantee communities. Planting these trees provided opportunities to apply the information learned in workshops and obtain practical knowledge and skills. The necessity for continued care and harvesting of fruit and nut trees creates opportunities for continued learning and action One important "lesson learned" from the pilot year is that inherited knowledge among the general population about tree care in general and specifically the harvesting and use of fruits and nuts has been disappearing over the past 2-3 generations. The grantee will develop an action plan to address this situation as part of the new national program. One final outcome of this grant is the successfully creation of a new national fruit and nut tree program.

Named "Community Groves," this program will shortly make its 2013 debut as the first-ever national urban forestry program promoting the planting and care of fruit and nut trees. Fiscal Year 2013: Information is currently not available. The progress reports are not due until December, 2013. Fiscal Year 2014: None anticipated. Projects expected to conclude 9/1/2013.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: For the FY 2012 award cycle, a total of $4,304,284 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 26 academic institutions submitted applications requesting $9,157,418. In August 2012, a ten-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty members from postsecondary, land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, as well as practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

Funds were available to support a total of 14 awards in the following Project Types: 1 Conference/Planning: $ 27,725; 5 Regular: $815,632; 5 Joint: $1,383,081; and 3 Large-Scale Comprehensive Initiatives (LCI): $2,077,846. Joint and LCI Project Proposals requiring partnerships and sharing of grant funds between two or more institutions.

The funding ratio for this program in FY12 was 54%.

Funded projects should address at least two of the following three, capacity-building program strategies: Education, Research and/or Outreach. Also in 2012, all projects had to address one of five Priority Areas: Global Food Security and Hunger, Climate Change, Sustainable Energy, Childhood Obesity, and Food Safety. Fiscal Year 2013: For the FY 2013 award cycle, a total of $3,995,528 will be available for project grant awards. However, the panel has not yet met, and so the actual deductions for panel costs have not yet been calculated.

A total of 21 academic institutions submitted applications requesting $9,157,418. In late July, 2013, a ten-member peer review panel will evaluate these applications. The peer panel includes faculty members from postsecondary, land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, as well as practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

No Award Data is Available Peer Review Panel has not met. Fiscal Year 2014: Funding is not anticipated for FY 2014. No Projected Data Available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Strengthen institutional capacity to provide quality, dynamic, and innovative research and outreach in food and agricultural sciences. The project proposes to conduct research and outreach activities to establish Camelina sativa as a viable bioenergy crop in the region. Stakeholders include farmers, college faculty, undergraduate students, bioenergy practitioners, policy makers, extension agents, and small business owners in local areas in particular and the emerging regional bioenergy industry in general. Products from this project include a Camelina Grower Guide, with agronomic information and a crop budget, along with Fact Sheets designed to provide basic and specific information for each of the anticipated end uses. Scientific publications will describe a high-yielding, transgenic camelina line being developed. A farmer network and an oilseed cooperative will be established to sustain camelina production beyond the life of this project.

Build a collaborative program to strengthen a grape breeding program and expand the plant science curriculum within the region. This initiative promises to provide an enlarged pool of educated graduates needed to address the shortage of skilled agricultural educators, researchers and workers in the U.S. Products envisioned include a new hybrid grapes for breeding new grape varieties and for genetic analysis of agriculturally important traits. New genetic markers will be shared in the grape breeding community for marker-assisted selection. Genetic resources including the grape populations, genetic markers and grape varieties will be incorporated into Plant Breeding and Plant Biotechnology courses. The expanded curriculum will include genetics and breeding principles using both annual monocot grain crop (corn) and perennial woody fruit crop (grape) as models, as well as hands-on and field experience in making crosses, finding molecular markers and learning from field trips.

Create a virtual network of integrated teams to build capacity for the detection and elimination of Salmonella in the food supply. The project proposes to develop laboratory capacity, and to create and deliver training in detection equipment used to detect and reduce incidences of Salmonella. Graduate seminar courses will be developed and shared across collaborators and faculty will participate in international field experiences. The development of quality human capital experience in both field work and human resource management will lead to measurable decreases in Salmonella and ultimately improved human health.

Development of a multidisciplinary baccalaureate program in Food Systems and Technology with a focus on experiential learning. The new degree program will also serve as a template for outreach programming designed for the regions agricultural producers with the objective of enhancing profitability through improved marketing and land use strategies.

Strengthen institutional capacity to implement a multidisciplinary program with the purpose of addressing global food insecurity and associated natural resource issues by supporting results-oriented, applied research, broadening the student experience both locally and internationally, and providing public outreach regarding program results and food security issues.

Improve energy efficiency and expand sources of renewable energy considered as key elements in developing sustainable energy policies and resources. Funds will create a multi-faceted model involving a secondary and post secondary education pipeline that enables workforce growth in the sustainable energy sector while expanding the capacity to prepare state-of-the-art technical knowledge and experience for those Agricultural Sciences students pursuing a degree. 10.327 COMMON BEAN PRODUCTIVITY RESEARCH FOR GLOBAL FOOD SECURITY COMPETITIVE PROGRAM

Bean Productivity Research

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Economy Act, 31 U.S.C 1535; Consolidated Appropriations Act 2010, Public Law 111-117; Section 632(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, 22 U.S.C 2151.

OBJECTIVES:

To develop approaches and/or methods that can address challenges to common bean production among small holder producers in food insecure countries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

In collaboration with and using funding provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development, NIFA is seeking research proposals to develop approaches and/or methods to address challenges to common bean production among smallholder producers. Applications are being solicited for the BPR under the following areas:

- (1) Reducing Production Constraints from Soil Borne Pathogens: Soil borne pathogen pressure on common bean is a significant constraint to production. Such pathogens and associated root rots already reduce production in areas with high rainfall. As rainfall increases, as is expected around the equatorial zone in Africa, in particular East Africa, pathogen-related production constraints may become even more limiting.
- (2) Improving Transformation Technologies in Common Bean: Although success in transforming common bean has been limited to date, it is a promising strategy to address key production constraints. Developing and/or improving the methodologies and approaches necessary to efficiently transform this recalcitrant species is necessary to removing roadblocks to transformation. Grant funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established (i.e., approved) by its cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a current negotiated rate, the applicant should request a rate from the Federal agency from which the applicant receives the most funding. Fully discretionary.

Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
 - (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
 - (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;
 - (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The VAPG program offers two types of grants to support activities directly related to the processing and/or marketing of value-added agricultural products. Planning grants provide funding for activities necessary to determine the economic viability of a potential value-added venture, including development of feasibility studies and business plans. Working capital grants provide funds for the day-to-day operating expenses of the venture associated with processing and/or marketing a value-added product. An application may be for either Planning or Working Capital activities, but not both.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible applicants are independent producers, agriculture producer groups, farmer- and rancher-cooperatives, and majority-controlled producer-based businesses, as defined at 7 CFR 4284.902.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Agricultural producers.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicants must demonstrate legal capacity and provide evidence of good standing in their State of operations. Applicants for Working Capital funds must provide an independent feasibility study and business plan completed specifically for the proposed value-added project, except as otherwise noted in 7 CFR 4284.922(b)(6)(i and ii). Applicants have the option to demonstrate eligibility for Reserved Funds and/or Priority Points, as applicable. Applicants must provide a detailed budget supporting the work plan that identifies all sources and uses of funds during the project period that are without a conflict of interest. Proposed projects are subject to Intergovernmental Review. All recipients of program funds are subject to environmental requirements in 7 CFR 1940, subpart G and any successor regulation. However, due to the specified nature of activities and limited use of funds in this program, both planning and working capital grant projects are generally excluded from the environmental review process by 7 CFR 1940.333, and .309(c) and .317(g)(2), respectively. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. USDA will solicit applications on a competitive basis by publication of a notice in the Federal Register and through the Grants.gov Federal Web site. Applications must be submitted to the State Office of Rural Development in the State where the project primarily takes place, or on-line through grants.gov. Applications must contain all the information specified in 7 CFR 4284.931, and include any additional or subsequent requirements specified in official Agency notifications for the program. Unless specified otherwise, applicants must provide one copy of the proposal and all required content specified in 7 CFR 4284.931, or as otherwise instructed in the annual announcement. Each proposal must demonstrate that the customer base for the agricultural commodity or value-added product is expanded, and a greater portion of the revenue derived from the marketing or processing of the value-added product is available to the applicant producer of the agricultural commodity.

Award Procedure:

The Agency conducts an initial screening of all proposals to determine eligibility and completeness to allow for an informed review. Applications will be evaluated by experts selected by the Agency. An applicant qualifying in one of the following categories, as defined at 4284.902, may qualify for priority points; (1) Beginning Farmer or Rancher; (2) Socially-Disadvantaged Farmer or Rancher; (3) Operator of a Small or Medium Farm Structured as a Family Farm; and (4) a Farmer or Rancher Cooperative. Section 514/516 funds are divided between off-farm housing and on-farm housing. The off-farm program provides loans and grants to organizations that assist farm workers at off-farm locations with no restrictions that workers be employed on a particular farm. Under new regulations effective June 1999, preapplications for the off-farm program funds must be submitted in response to a Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) published in the Federal Register every year. RHS scores the preapplications, using a ranking process to determine which applicants will be invited to submit formal applications. The on-farm program makes loans to eligible farmers (or a group of farmers) to provide Housing, usually for their own laborers. Preapplications for on-farm units, or for repair and rehabilitation of existing off-farm units, may be submitted at any time are processed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Loans are usually made for 33 years at 1 percent interest. Grants may cover up to 90 percent of development cost. The balance may be (and usually is) a Section 514 loan. RHS rental assistance (RA) subsidy can be used to limit tenant payments to 30 percent of their income. Funds may also be used to provide approved recreational and service facilities appropriate for use in connection with the housing and to buy and improve the land on which the buildings are to be located. Borrowers operate on a nonprofit or limited-profit basis.

Applicant Eligibility:

The following basic formula criteria are to allocate program loan funds to various States: $(A \times .50 + B \times .50) \times \text{funds available} = \text{State basic formula allocation}$. Where "A" is State's percentage of national number of rural occupied units; and "B" is State's percentage of national number of rural households below 50 percent of area median income. The formula for grants is: $(A \times 1/3 + B \times 1/3 + C \times 1/3) \times \text{funds available} = \text{State basic allocation}$. Where "C" is State's percentage of national rural population 62 years of age and older. The data source for each of these criteria are based on the latest census data available.

Grants are to be used for the operation and administration of a State's mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of the Farm Service Agency (FSA) as meeting the requirements of Section 501 (c) of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (U.S.C. 510), as amended. A grant will not exceed 70 percent of the total fiscal year funds that a qualifying State requires to operate and administer its mediation program, or $500,000, whichever is less. Eligible costs are limited to those that are reasonable and necessary to carry out the mission of the State's mediation program and may include activities related to the intake and scheduling of cases, the provision of background and selected information regarding the mediation process, financial advisory and counseling services, and the mediation session.

Applicant Eligibility:

State governments.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable) and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

Have a mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of FSA, and for which certification has not been withdrawn; provide evidence to justify the estimated costs of operating and administering the State's mediation program. The Governor of a State or head of an entity designated by the Governor of a State must make a written request to FSA on or before August 1 of each year to receive a matching grant during the fiscal year commencing on October 1, of that same year. Request for certification are accepted after August 1 of each year; however, the State will be considered in order of date received for reserved grant funds. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. To be certified as a qualifying State, the mediation program of the State must mediate issues involving agricultural loans (regardless of whether the loans are made or guaranteed by the Secretary of Agriculture or made by third party); and may provide mediation services for disputes involving wetlands determinations, compliance with farm programs including conservation programs, rural water loan programs, grazing on National forest system lands, pesticides, and such other issues, under the jurisdiction of the Secretary meeting the requirements of Section 501 of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (7 U.S.C. 510), as amended. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

The standard application forms as furnished by the Federal agency and required by 7 CFR part 3016, must be used for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Grant funds will be distributed on a first come, first served basis to qualifying States. If, however, when funds for a fiscal year become available, there are not sufficient funds to give all qualifying States 70 percent of their justified estimated expenses for the fiscal year, the percentage allocation will be reduced so as to give all States the same percentage of their expenses. FSA views the use of grant funds to provide financial advisory or other services in an advocacy context to be inconsistent with the premise of a mediation program, which is to provide a neutral forum for resolution of disputes.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Thirty days from receipt of a complete application package.

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) is a wholly owned government corporation created February 16, 1938 (7 U.S.C. 1501.) The program was amended by Public Law (P.L.) 96-365, dated September 26, 1980, to provide for nationwide expansion of a comprehensive crop insurance plan. FCIC is administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA), and promotes the national welfare by improving the economic stability of agriculture through a secure system of crop insurance. FCIC provides an actuarially sound risk management program that protects against agricultural production losses due to unavoidable causes such as drought, excessive moisture, hail, wind, hurricane, tornado, lightning, and insects. In addition to these causes, revenue insurance programs are available under which producers of certain crops are protected against loss of revenue stemming from low prices, poor yields, or a combination of both. Federal crop insurance is available to producers through private insurance companies that market and service policies and also share in the risk. Thus, the program delivery is a joint effort between the Federal government and the private insurance industry. Federal government subsidizes insurance premiums at a variety of levels depending on level of insurance coverage.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Over the past seven decades, Federal crop insurance has been the primary product provided by the FCIC (administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA)) and consists of various alternatives designed to improve the economic stability of agriculture. Recent legislative mandates have prompted significant program growth and the development of many large and complex new programs. RMA continuously strives to provide adequate risk protection for our Nations agricultural producers and to identify and address concerns about Federal crop insurance.

RMA continues to evaluate risk management products, review and approve private sector products to be reinsured by FCIC, and ensure delivery of these products to agricultural producers. Risk management products can help producers protect themselves from yield risks, market risks, or both. Examples of more recent, new and innovative insurance tools are revenue insurance, forage, rangeland, specialty crops, and livestock pilots. For 2012, with approximately 1.1 million policies on 282 million acres, the program provided nearly $117 billion in risk protection. Fiscal Year 2013: NA. Fiscal Year 2014: NA.

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (FORMULA)

The Renewable Resources Extension Act of 1978 (P.L. 95-306, 92 Stat. 349, 16 U.S.C. 1671 et seq.) provides for an expanded and comprehensive extension program for forest and rangeland renewable resources. The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects which have served to expand comprehensive extension programs for forest and rangeland renewable resources on a national, regional, or multi-institutional scale through better program coordination, innovative technologies, and extension models that can be easily duplicated.

(b) Rural Health and Safety

The authority for this program is under Section 502 (i) of Title V of the Rural Development Act of 1972, as amended (7 U.S.C. 2662). The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I. The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Program addresses the Individual and Family Health Education component of the authorization.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

This program is authorized under Section 534(b) of the Equity in Educational Land-Grant Status Act of 1994 (7 U.S.C. 201 note), as amended by the

This section amends Section 3 of the Act of May 8, 1914 (Smith-Lever Act) (7 U.S.C. 341 et seq.), as amended. Under this authority, appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions (hereinafter referred to as 1994 institutions) for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Title VI Section 604 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7642) states that -The Secretary of Agriculture shall continue operation of the Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database program (referred to in this section as the FARAD program) through contracts, grants, or cooperative agreements with appropriate colleges or universities.

L. 110-246) grants will be awarded under the Facilities Grants Program to the 1890 land-grant institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 appropriates funds under Division A, Title I.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnership Grants Program (aka ARPA and RME):

Section 133 of the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 (ARPA), (Pub. L. 106-224), amended the Federal Crop Insurance Act to add section 524(a)(3); [7 U.S.C. OBJECTIVES:

GENERAL: [As reflected in Part I.B. of the Request for Applications (RFA) or Formula Grant Opportunity (FGO)]

1. Smith-Lever (3b) & (c) Formula Funds

a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (aka 3b & c Formula Funds) (FORMULA)

These funds are used by institutions eligible to receive funds under the Act of Congress approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled An Act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts (Twelfth Statutes at Large, page five hundred and three) (1862 Land-grant Institutions), for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending or resident in 1862 Land-grant Institutions in the several communities, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

The purpose of this funding is to conduct agricultural extension work.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs) aka ESPN Special Needs (FORMULA)

The purpose of this funding is to increase the level of agricultural extension work. These funds are used to support extension activities identified in the eligible institutions approved 5-Year Plan of Work. Special Needs funds are allocated to a State Cooperative Extension Service to fulfill a purpose or overcome a condition peculiar to the State, as compared to the country as a whole, or for a purpose not normally a part of the continuing extension program.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program (aka ESPN Special Needs Projects)

Funds support innovative extension education approaches to addressing risks, hazards and disasters. The Cooperative Extension Service (CES) has an important role in reducing the impact of disasters through extension education. The Extension Special Needs program sponsors targeted projects that enable CES to assist in preparing for, providing an educational response to, and recovering from disasters. Education programming funded by this program will help communities, families and individuals become more self-sustaining by strengthening and increasing their resiliency to disaster. Some types of hazards and disaster related events funded in previous years include uncertainties caused by losses of economic infrastructure, severe weather or other natural disasters, security breaches, human disease, or high consequence animal diseases and plant pests.

There has been an increase in public awareness regarding the number and severity of disaster type critical incidents involving earthquakes, tsunamis, tornadoes, wildfire, drought, contagious disease, and terrorist events. The National Academy of Sciences Committee on Environment and Natural Resources and the Subcommittee on Disaster Reduction of the National Science and Technology Council have acknowledged the many effective roles that the Cooperative Extension System (CES) has played in disaster preparedness, response and remediation.

Within the states and territories, the CES has repeatedly served as the trusted community organization that has helped to enable families, communities, and businesses to successfully prepare for, respond to and cope with disaster losses and critical incidents. Once a disaster has occurred, the local extension outreach includes: 1) Communicating practical science-based risk information, 2) Developing relevant educational experiences and programs, 3) Working with individuals and communities to open new communication channels, and 4) Mitigating losses and facilitating recovery. Never was this more evident than after hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma in 2005 and during the 2008 Midwestern Summer flooding. During and after these incidents, local Extension agents served as a critical communication node throughout affected urban and rural areas, particularly when traditional communication systems were temporarily overwhelmed or destroyed.

The Extension Special Needs RFA encourages proposals that specifically address one or more of the following six key target areas:

1. Education and Technical assistance through inter-disciplinary and multi-state disaster training programs and demonstration projects for problem solving, especially those which build upon already existing strengths, contribute to or expand the EDEN and/or eXtension educational materials related to disaster preparation, mitigation, response and recovery;

2. Collaboration with Federal, state and local agencies and other disaster relief organizations to support education and service activities that enhance recovery of impacted rural communities, schools, businesses and agricultural-based activities;

3. Long range family, community and regional planning projects that will enhance implementation of programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after emergency situations within impacted States and across impacted regions;

4. Communication delivery of key information that meets end-users needs in a timely fashion with consideration of potentially limited communication channels due to disaster situations;

5. Dissemination of credible, science-based information that is reliable and easily accessible even if electronic access is compromised; and

6. Integrated Research and Extension Planning Projects (up to $15,000) are intended to provide assistance to applicants in bringing together teams for the development of highly competitive grant proposals where extension personnel would apply for large grants (in excess of $250,000) from other grant programs (e.g., the Agriculture and Food Research Initiative and etc) and lead nationally important disaster prevention, protection and mitigation projects.

Fundable projects should support education and extension activities which:

1. Reduce risk through planning, disaster preparedness and emergency response by improving communication between the public, community leaders, state and Federal agencies;

2. Develop strategies and educational materials and/or programming in the area of emergency planning, infrastructure design and disaster recovery operation;

3. Develop community networks that provide real-time disaster education information; and/or

4. Develop or expand educational materials regarding disaster issues suitable for use and distribution by the Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN) or the eXtension Community of Practice working with disaster planning.

(d) CSRS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET CSRS Retirement) (FORMULA)

Formula grants authorized under the CSRS Retirement Contributions Program. These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

These grants are used to defray the FERS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

(f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC subjects.

2. Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University (Section 1444) (FORMULA)
The purpose of this funding is to support agricultural and forestry extension activities at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University.

(d) CSRS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET CSRS Retirement) (FORMULA)

These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

Funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2007. The amount available for this program is reduced each fiscal year by $1,473,658 and the same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individuals appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staffs time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12-month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division (HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team within Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002) to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) the Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FELGI);
- 3) the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) the Federal Employee Retirement System (CSRS);
- 5) the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) the Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institutions annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FELGI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement) (FORMULA)

Federal funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated to the 1862 land-grant institutions with former Schedule A Appointments based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2008. The amount available for this program is reduced each year by $376,826 and this same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land-grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individual's appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staff's time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12 month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land-grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division (HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team with Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002), to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) The Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FGLI);
- 3) The Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) The Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS);
- 5) The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) The Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institutions annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FELGI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

In accordance with Section 1473 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3319), Indirect costs are NOT allowable.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects (RREA-NFF).

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

Indirect costs are unallowable costs, and no funds will be approved for this purpose. Costs that are a part of the institutions indirect cost pool may not be reclassified as direct costs for the purpose of making them allowable.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development or RYD Grants)

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of facility space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Pursuant to Sec. 604 of the Agricultural research extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 [7 USC 7642(d)], applicants requesting recovery of indirect costs should limit their requests to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect costs rate or the equivalent of 19 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(f) Federal Administration (DIRECT APPROPRIATION) - Extension Activities

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447)

In Fiscal Year (FY) 09 NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No. 95-113).

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities. In accordance with NAREPTA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnerships Grants Program (aka ARPA & RME)

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date. Some funds are Fully Discretionary. Some funds are Mandatory.

1. SMITH-LEVER 3(b) & (c):

(a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (aka 3b & c Formula Funds) (FORMULA)

States are eligible for funds appropriated under this Act according to the following formula: Out of each annual allocation, each State will be entitled to receive a sum of money equal to the sums available from Federal cooperative extension funds for the fiscal year 1962, and subject to the same requirements as to furnishing of equivalent sums by the State, except that amounts heretofore made available to the Secretary for allotment on the basis of special needs shall continue available for use on the same basis. Further, the University of Guam and the University of the Virgin Islands will receive $100,000 each in addition to the sums appropriated for the several States of the United States and Puerto Rico under the provisions of sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act. Of the remainder so appropriated for each fiscal year 20 per cent will be paid to the several States in equal proportions, 40 per cent will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the rural population of each bears to the total rural population of the several States as determined by the census, and the balance will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the farm population of each bears to the total farm population of the several States as determined by the census. Any appropriation made under sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act will be allotted in the first and succeeding years on the basis of the decennial census current at the time the appropriation is first made, and as to any increase, on the basis of decennial census current at the time such increase is first appropriated.

Cost Sharing or Matching

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1)) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4)) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirement of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marianas Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section..... The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs) aka ESPN Special Needs (FORMULA)

Funds will be distributed to the institutions on a quarterly basis. See Appendix A of the Formula Grant Opportunity (FGO) for the specific allocation.

Cost Sharing or Matching

1862 Land-grant Institutions in the 50 States must match 100 percent of the Special Needs funds they receive with funds from non-Federal sources such as State or county appropriations. The matching must be in the form of cash. Matching funds must be used for extension activities approved in the eligible institutions 5-Year Plan of Work.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program (aka ESPN Special Needs Projects)

Cost Sharing or Matching

Pursuant to rules and policies governing Section 3(b) & (c) of the Smith-Lever Act, as amended through Public Law 107-293, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work.

1. To comply with the matching requirements of the Special Needs Program, applicants are required to provide 100 percent matching funds from non-federal sources for all proposed federal funds sought in the application. In-kind and third party contributions are not allowed for the Smith-Lever Special Needs program. Grant awards cannot be issued until ALL required matching has been documented and verified.

2. Matching Alternative. Extension Directors may certify an offset of guaranteed non-Federal funds to your application. The signed certification of offset must be scanned and included as a PDF attachment (see Part IV .B.,2.,c.,(1) for specific instructions).

3. Matching Exception. Insular Areas: In lieu of the matching funds requirement, the insular areas of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the grants awarded. The Secretary may waive this matching fund requirement for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year. Insular applicants may submit a waiver request as a PDF attachment to the application (see Part IV .B.,2.,c.,(2) for specific instructions).

For all projects:

Matching: Applications shall include written verification of commitments of matching support from non-federal sources. Written verification means:

The sources and the amount of all matching support from outside the applicant organization should be summarized on a separate page and placed in the application as a part of the Budget

Justification attachment (see Field K on the Form SF 424 (R&R) Budget). Include the matching amount, the budget category for the match, and detail how the matching support, from each source, will be used (e.g., salary and position supported). Additionally, all pledge agreements must be included as a PDF attachment in Field K as well.

The value of applicant contributions to the project shall be established in accordance with the applicable cost principles. Applicants should refer to OMB Circulars A-21, Cost Principles for Educational Institutions; A-87, Cost Principles for State, Local, and Tribal Governments; 2 CFR Part 215, Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Agreements With Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and Other Non-Profit Organizations (OMB Circular A110); for further guidance and other requirements relating to allowable costs.

Cost Sharing or Matching

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirements of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marian Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section. The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement) (FORMULA)

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirements of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marian Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section. The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

(f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC

There is no matching requirement for these funds.

2. Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University (Section 1444) (FORMULA)

The 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University, are eligible for funds appropriated under this Act according to the following formula: Any funds annually appropriated under NARETPA section 1444 up to the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1978, pursuant to section 3(d) of the Act of May 8, 1914, as amended, for eligible institutions, will be allocated among the eligible institutions in the same proportion as funds appropriated under section 3(d) of the Act of May 8, 1914, as amended, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1978, are allocated among the eligible institutions. Of the funds in excess of that amount, 20 per cent will be allotted among the eligible institutions in equal proportions; 40 per cent will be allotted among the eligible institutions in the proportion that the rural population of the State in which each eligible institution is located bears to the total rural population of all the States in which eligible institutions are located, as determined by the last preceding decennial census current at the time each such additional sum is first appropriated; and the balance will be allotted among the eligible institutions in the proportion that the farm population of the State in which each eligible institution is located bears to the total farm population of all the States in which the eligible institutions are located, as determined by the last preceding decennial census current at the time each such additional sum is first appropriated. For purposes of computing the distribution, the allotments to Tuskegee University and Alabama A&M University will be determined as if each institution were in a separate State.

Cost Sharing or Matching

NARETPA section 1449 (7 U.S.C. 3222d) states that the State shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources. Such matching funds shall be for an amount equal to not less than ... 100 percent of the formula [grant] funds to be distributed to the eligible institution for fiscal year 2007 and each fiscal year thereafter. ... Notwithstanding [redistributing the funds], the Secretary may waive the matching funds requirement ... above the 50 percent level for any fiscal year for an eligible institution of a State if the Secretary determines that the State will be unlikely to satisfy the matching requirement.

7 CFR 3419.1 defines matching funds as funds from non-Federal sources made available by the State to the eligible institutions ... [for] programs or activities that fall within the purposes of agricultural research and cooperative extension under sections 1444 and 1445 of NARETPA ...or [for] qualifying educational activities. Matching funds means cash contributions and excludes in-kind matching contributions. It defines non-Federal sources as funds made available by the State to the eligible institution either through direct appropriation or under any authority (other than authority to charge tuition and fees paid by students) provided by a State to an eligible institution to raise revenue, such as gift acceptance authority or user fees. Finally, it defines qualifying educational activities as programs that address food and agricultural sciences components of an eligible institution.

7 CFR 3419.6 states that The required matching funds for the formula programs shall be used by an eligible institution for agricultural research and extension activities that have been approved in the plan of work required under sections 1444(d) and 1445(c) of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977... or for .. qualifying education activities.

3. SMITH-LEVER 3(d):

(a) Expanded Food and Nutrition (EFNEP) (ENUT Nutrition Education) (FORMULA)

Section 7116 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) amended Section 1425 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3175) to accomplish the following:

Notwithstanding section 3(d) of the Smith-Lever Act of May 8, 1914 (7 U.S.C. 343(d)) for administration, technical, and other services for coordinating the extension work of the Department and the several States, Territories, and possessions the remainder shall be allocated among the States as follows:

1. 1862 Institutions shall receive a base in an amount equaling their FY 1981 allocation.

2. Four percent (4%) shall be available for administrative expenses.

3. $100,000 will be distributed to each 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institution including the University of the District of Columbia.

4. For fiscal year (FY) 2009 10 percent of funds appropriated for EFNEP in excess of funds appropriated in FY 2007 will be allocated to the 1890 Institutions in an amount that bearing the same ratio to the population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level (as prescribed by the Office of Management and Budget and as adjusted pursuant to section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C.9902(2))) in the State where the 1890 Institution is located; bears to the total population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level in all States where 1890 Institutions are located; as determined by the most recent decennial census at the time when the appropriated amount first exceeds levels appropriated for EFNEP in FY 2007. This FY 2009 rate of 10 percent is to increase by 1 percentage point annually until FY 2014 maxing out at 15 percent and remaining at that level for every year thereafter.

5. The remainder will be allocated to each 1862 Land-Grant Institutions in an amount that bears the same ratio to the total amount allocated as the population living at or below 125 percent of the poverty level in the State; bears to the total population living at or below 125 percent of poverty level in all States; as determined by the most recent decennial census at the time at which each such additional amount is first appropriated.

4. OTHER EXTENSION ACTIVITIES:

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA)

The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects. (RREA-NFF)

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act amended section 1462 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310), increasing the limit on recovery of indirect costs from 20 percent to 22 percent of total Federal funds provided under the award. Therefore, the recovery of indirect costs on awards made by NIFA under this program area may not exceed the lesser of the institution's official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(b) Rural Health and Safety

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act amended section 1462 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310), increasing the limit on recovery of indirect costs from 20 percent to 22 percent of total Federal funds provided under the award. Therefore, the recovery of indirect costs on awards made by NIFA under this program area may not exceed the lesser of the institution's official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

Indirect costs are unallowable costs, and no funds will be approved for this purpose. Costs that are a part of the institutions indirect cost pool may not be reclassified as direct costs for the purpose of making them allowable.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of facility space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, amended the National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), limiting indirect costs to 22 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded. If no rate has been established the applicant may indicate "Nonewill negotiate" and a reasonable dollar amount for indirect costs may be requested, which will be subject to approval by USDA. In the latter case, if a proposal is recommended for funding, an indirect cost rate proposal must be submitted prior to award to support the amount of indirect costs requested. NIFA will request an indirect cost rate proposal and provide instructions, as necessary. An applicant may elect not to charge indirect costs and, instead, use all grant funds for direct costs. If indirect costs are not charged, the phrase "None requested" should be written in this space.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Pursuant to Sec. 604 of the Agricultural research extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 [7 USC 7642(d)], applicants requesting recovery of indirect costs should limit their requests to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect costs rate or the equivalent of 19 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(f) Federal Administration (DIRECT APPROPRIATION)

Pertinent details will be provided at a future date.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447)

NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No. 95-113).

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities. In accordance with NARETPA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. This program is also subject to audit by the cognizant Federal audit agency and the USDA Office of Inspector General.

Obligations:

(Project Grants) FY 12 $458,984,652; FY 13 est $423,991,097; and FY 14 est $442,258,499 - The difference between the appropriation and obligation numbers reflects legislative authorized set-asides deducted as appropriate, and in some cases the availability of obligational authority from prior years.

FY 2013 estimated amounts include dollar reductions calculated pursuant to the budget sequestration order issued March 1, 2013.

SPECIAL NOTE:

2013 Enacted Appropriations language combined funding for Youth Farm Safety and Farm Safety Programs. 2013 and 2014 proposed appropriations language would maintain 2012 enacted language.

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding are established, these will be announced in the Initial and/or Final Formula Grant Opportunity (FGO).

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the annual program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: (A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions (aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Formula Grants Program:

This formula based program allocation was $275,545,652 with funds being provided to land-grant institutions in each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. Insular Areas. A matching requirement is a key component of the program.

(B) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions - (aka Smith-Lever Special Needs Formula Grants Program):

In a project at the Northern Marianas College, this program is assisting the insular area of Northern Marianas in carrying out agricultural extension work for demonstrations of improved practices or technologies in agriculture, consumer and family sciences, rural energy, and other subjects related to agriculture. Funding is being used to support extension efforts to address agricultural problems of local, state, regional or national concern.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program:

NIFA evaluated and funded Special Needs projects to implement applied scientific programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after local or regional emergency situations. The program received seven applications and the total amount allocated was $462,744. The awards ranged from $25,000 to $82,411.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and Tuskegee (aka 1890 Capacity Building formula Grants Program):

In this fiscal year, $42,592,000 was appropriated; with $40,888,320 being available to the Institutions after administrative deductions. Awards were based on a formula and ranged in size from $1,161,672 - $4,184,310. This program requires a dollar for dollar match. However, the institutions are allowed to request a waiver (up to 50% of total funds awarded to an individual institution) if it is demonstrated that the match cannot be secured. In FY 2012 10 of the 18 institutions requested waivers totaling $7,887,741.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and ENUT Formula Grants Program):

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) brings together federal, state, and local resources to target two primary audiences: low-income families with young children and low-income youth. The program is delivered by the 1862 and the 1890 Land-Grant Institutions. It operates in over 800 counties throughout the 50 states, 6 U.S. territories, and the District of Columbia. Each year, more than million new participants complete the program.

In FY 2012, EFNEP received $69,678,671 in federal funding. EFNEP reached 130,485 adults and 479,398 youth directly and over 365,000 family members indirectly. 85% of EFNEP participants who reported income were at or below 100% of poverty, earning $22,350 a year or less for a family of four. At least 73% of all EFNEP adults are minorities. This is significant because poor health disproportionately affects minority and low-income populations. As well, educational opportunities and resources are limited.

EFNEP consistently demonstrates strong results. FY2011 data confirms adult graduates:

Improve their diets: 95% report more closely following dietary recommendations, including consuming an extra cup of fruits and vegetables

Improve their nutrition practices: 90% improve nutrition practices, such as making healthier food choices and reading nutrition labels

Stretch their food dollars farther: 85% improve food resource management practices, such as planning meals and shopping with a grocery list

Handle food more safely: 66% improve food safety practices, such as storing and thawing food properly

Increase their physical activity rates: 33% increase their physical activity level by 30 minutes or more

(F) Regional Integrated Pest Management Competitive Grants:

(G) Farm Safety:

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012. See item # (W) below.

(H) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Program:

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012. See item # (W) below.

(I) New Technologies at Ag Extension:

No new projects were funded in FY 2012.

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk):

NOTE: See Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (Item # U below).

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education - Professional Development (aka Chapter 3 & SARE-PD):

For the FY 2012 award cycle, $4,507,766 was available after subtracting agency administrative costs. Of this amount $245,531 was used for communications, outreach and coordination activities at the national level and $4,262,629 was distributed equally among the four SARE Regions.

Each region uses these funds to support a State Coordinator in each state as specified in statute and a competitive grant program to support professional development training which will enable agricultural professionals to enhance their ability to teach others about sustainable agriculture principles and practices. There were 23 of these competitive grants awarded in the four regions in 2012.

(L) Federally-Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

In FY 2012, $ 3,025,196 was awarded to 36 existing FRTEP projects at 19 1862 Land Grant Institutions for Extension work in Indian Country. This was the final year of a 4-year continuation award. This grant program supports work that:

- Supplied 15,000 farmers and ranchers with information
- Supported 1,007 youth adult volunteers
- Leveraged $1.5 million in additional funds
- Helped to improve 131,000 acres of Reservation land

M) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (aka Tribal Colleges Extension Program or TCEP) and

(BB) Tribal Colleges Extension - Special Emphasis (TCEP-SE) were combined:

Funds totaling $ 4,139,520 were made available to 32 1994 Land Grant Institutions in 41 separate awards in 2012.

In 2012, NIFA Extension awards helped to fund 112 Extension Educator positions at the 1994 and 97 Intern positions. The number of youth contacts was 7,700, with approximately 1,300 farmers and ranchers getting information and $1.9 million additional funds leveraged into extension activities.

This program has two funding options an Extension Capacity option and a Special Emphasis option. The total funds were split with Extension Capacity receiving $3,404,520 and Special Emphasis receiving $735,000.

(N) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA):

Impact data for FY 2012:

Number of educational events 5,797

Number of landowners adopting at least one new management practice 106,307

Number of acres impacted 6,445,390

Number of management plans developed 1,663

Number of income-generating business created or expanded 652

(O) Renewable Resources Extension Act - National Focus Fund Projects (aka RREA-NFF):

For the FY 2012 funding cycle, approximately $120,000 was available from NIFA. Because of a FY 2012 budget cut in RREA the National Focus Funds (NFF) Competitive Program was reduced from $275,000 to $120,000. Since this was a reduction to 30% of NFF funds, national Program Leaders felt that this amount was too small to justify a formal competition. NPLs requested and were approved for a non-compete waiver. A total of three awards of $40,000 each will help to broaden the scope and fulfill missed opportunities for three Communities of Practice funded by NIFA RREA NFF during the last two funding cycles. These awards are currently in process, no other data or information is available.

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive):

In FY 2012, the program focused on:

1) Individual and Family Nutrition and Health Education Programs that provide individuals and families with:

Information as to the value of good health at any age;
Information to increase individual or family's motivation to take more responsibility for their own health;

Information about and access to nutrition and health promotion and educational activities; and

Training for volunteers and health services providers concerning nutrition and health promotion and health care services for individuals and families in cooperation with state, local and community partners.

2) Farm Safety Education Programs that provide information and training to farm worker and farm families concerning safety in the work place, including information and training concerning, but not limited to:

- The prevention of occupational injury and death rates;
- The prevention of exposure to farm chemicals; and
- The prevention of agricultural respiratory diseases and dermatitis.

3) Rural Health Leadership Development Education Programs that assist rural communities in developing nutrition and health care services and facilities that will provide the maximum benefit for the resources invested and assist community leaders and public officials in understanding their roles and responsibilities relative to rural health services and facilities, including but not limited to:

- Community decisions regarding funding for and retention of rural hospitals;
- Rural physicians and allied health professionals recruitment and retention;
- The aging rural population and senior services required to care for the population;
- The establishment and maintenance of rural emergency medical services systems; and
- The application of computer-assisted capital budgeting decision aids for rural health services and facilities.

In response to the 1890 and 1994 institution's continued interest in the program and the identified increased need for rural health and safety outreach programming in many of the communities these institutions serve, the RFA for FY2012 also created two distinct funding groups: 1862 institutions and 1890/1994 institutions.

Available funds ($1,436,750) were divided so that 60% of funds is allocated to fund successful applications submitted by 1862 Land-Grant institutions (with $200,000 funding cap per award), while 40% of available funds will be allocated to fund successful applications submitted by 1890 and 1994 Land-Grant institutions (with $150,000 funding cap per award).

Furthermore, to allow more institutions overall to successfully compete for RHSE funds, the following application restrictions were put in place:

- FY '12 RFA required that only one application per institution be submitted;
- Multiple applications from a team proposing to conduct the same project in different locations were not considered for funding; and
- Projects that have received funding through Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program for two (2) or more years in the past five (5) years were not considered.

Enhanced outreach efforts to increase the visibility of this grant opportunity and to elevate readiness of Land-Grant Institutions to apply for funding were reflected in three informational webinars targeted at 1862, 1890 and 1994 institutions were conducted, as well as an online grant-writing workshop for those prospective applicants who did not feel they had the grant-writing skills to be able to write effective, competitive proposals.

Among 11 panelists selected for FY2012 RHSE panel review, 55% were non-minority females, 9.1% were minority females and 9.1% were minority males. In addition, 27% of the panel came from minority-serving Land-Grant institutions (1890 or 1994) or agencies.

Two panels (corresponding applicant institution group 1862 or 1890/1994) were formed and panel sessions were held virtually over the course of two days, July 24-26, 2012.

A total of 39 grant applications were received, of which 32 were accepted for review eight (8) from 1890/1994 Land-Grant institutions and 24 from 1862 Land-Grant Institutions.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program (aka Section 1447):

In FY 2012, a total distribution of $18,939,700 was allocated to support facilities at each of the 1890 Land-Grant Institutions (including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University). The awards ranged from $743,075 to $1,543,693.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

For the FY 2012 award cycle, Congress appropriated $1,000,000 to support FARAD, which is funded under its own line item authority.

A total of 4 applications were received and evaluated under competition waiver administrative processes. FARAD applications were merit reviewed internally by National Program Staff and all 4 entities were funded. This 30-year-old high performing integrated consortium of collaborating institutions includes at each Land Grant campus a lead PD, and his/her respective scientific staff.

The funding ratio for this program in FY12 was 100% due to the competition waiver process.

FARAD is a university-based national program that serves as the primary source for scientifically-based recommendations regarding safe withdrawal intervals of drugs and chemicals in food-producing animals. As such, FARAD is a key resource for protection of our nation's food supply, including meat, milk and eggs, against accidental contamination of animal-derived foods with violative residues of drugs, pesticides or other agents that could compromise food safety.

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development & RYD Grants Program):

For the FY 2012 award cycle, $720,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

Based on Congressional language, only four organizations are eligible to apply for this funding: the National FFA Organization, the National 4-H Council, the Girl Scouts of the USA, and Boy Scouts of America. The Boy Scouts did not apply. Each organization could apply for up to 40 percent of the available funds.

A 3 member peer review panel comprised of program staff from the National Institute of Food and Agriculture, plus the National Program Leader who manages the grant program, reviewed the three applications. Applications were scored independently by each reviewer based on pre-determined criteria outlined in the RFA.

The reviewers submitted their scores electronically. The scores were averaged to give a total for each application. In addition, reviewers made comments about the strength and weaknesses of each scoring component. The peer review panel met face-to-face to discuss rankings and make recommendations for funding levels.

The following amounts are in the process of being awarded: 4-H, $282,132; FFA, $288,000; and GSUSA, $149,868.

In this program youth and adult teams work together in their communities to learn leadership skills. They conduct community needs assessments. Based on the results of the needs assessments, they prioritize long-term, complex community issues that they can address. Then, the teams plan, implement, and evaluate projects to meet those needs.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Program (aka RME & ARPA Program):

As a result of the 2012 competition, 71 subawards were funded by the four regional ERME Centers. Of these, 16 were in the NE region, 19 were in the NC region, 17 were in the S region, and 19 were in the W region.

Projects funded in 2012 represent a diverse portfolio of risk management topics, audiences, and geography. Projects targeted the special emphasis audiences identified in Section 12026 of the 2008 Farm Bill. Among the examples, a partnership with the University of Arizona and Native American producers resulted in development of a new set of culturally appropriate application and program materials for use by grant applicants. Building Farms in the West, a seven-state partnership of land grant extension specialists and CBO led by ERME, built business planning capacity for over 250 beginning farmer and rancher participants. And the program sponsored the Women in Agriculture Educators National Conference in 2012 that attracted more than 200 participants. Moreover, as a result of ERME funding, a series of risk management colloquia were organized to focus on specific needs of underserved producer populations and to recruit growers to participate, including African American, Native American, women, specialty crop producers, and beginning farmers and ranchers.

(U) & (J) Combined - Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (CYFAR) and CYFAR - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

Note: Also See item # J above.

For the FY 2012 award cycle, $7,296,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 22 academic institutions submitted applications requesting $10,935,382.00 in this years competition. In January 2012, a seven member peer review panel evaluated these applications.

Funds were available to support a total of seven awards in the following project types: one 4-H Military ($409,890); 43 Sustainable Community Projects ($5,228,120); four New Sustainable Community Projects ($320,000); CYFERnet ($635,500); and Liaisons ($299,950).

The funding ratio for this program in FY12 was 3%.

Funded projects should address one of the following CYFAR National Outcomes:

- a) Early Childhood

- b) School Age

(W) Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities: National AgrAbility Project

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities: National AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012.

In FY 2012 Congress consolidated Extension 3(d) line items Farm Safety (AgrAbility) and Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification into a single line item and reduced appropriations 13 percent from the FY 2011 enacted appropriations for these two line items. $4,425,600 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. Obligations to continuation grants were in excess of appropriated funds. All continuation grants were reduced by 10 percent. Approximately $482,400 was available for one competitive award for the National AgrAbility Project.

With the exception of the National AgrAbility Project, which was a new award made in FY 12, other projects funded under AgrAbility (total of 23) were continuations originally awarded in FY2009 (5 projects), FY2010 (15 projects), and FY 2011 (3 projects).

(X) Extension IPM Coordination and Support Program (aka IPM-CS):

A total of 6 new applications requesting a total of $ 243,712 for new one year awards were received in the 2012 competition. In June 2012, a four-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The virtual peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land colleges and universities. Additionally, 54 projects were funded through continuations for the final year of their multi year awards. The initial award was competed in either 2010 or 2011.

Funds were available to support a total of two new awards in the Coordination program and two new awards in the Support program. One of the new coordination awards was to an 1890 land-grant institution.

The funding ratio for the coordination program in FY12 was 100%, reflecting the substantial stakeholder input to retain a network of institutional and state-based IPM Coordination programs. The amount of the awards reflected the ranking of the application by the peer panel. The support program funded 57% of the applications.

Funded coordination projects address Extension education in one or more of the following IPM target audiences:

- 1) IPM in Agronomic Crops;

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive):

In FY 2013, RFA was revised to align the program more closely with:

- a) stakeholders feedback; and
- b) programs needs to provide guidance to future grantees regarding better capture and reporting on their projects outcomes and impacts.

FY 2013 proposals are expected to be community-based, outreach education and extension programs that provide individuals and families with:

- Information as to the value of good health at any age;
- Information to increase individual or families motivation to take more responsibility for their own health;
- Information regarding rural environmental health issues that directly impact on human health;
- Information about and access to health promotion and educational activities; and
- Training for volunteers and health services providers concerning health promotion and health care services for individuals and families in cooperation with state, local and community partners.

In order to achieve these program goals, the Rural Health and Safety Education Program will focus on supporting:

- A) Rural Health and Safety Education projects at state and regional levels. Proposed project budgets must not exceed $200,000, including indirect costs, for a project period of 1 year.
- B) One project addressing National Common Measures for Rural Health and Safety Education projects. Proposed project budgets must not exceed $50,000, including indirect costs, for a project period of 1 year. One award will be given in the form of a cooperative agreement to identify common measures for individual and family health education Extension programs from a FCS/Human Sciences perspective. These common measures will help increase capacity of the state and regional projects to: a) report on outcomes and impacts of their project objectives; and b) inform state, regional and national efforts aimed at protecting and promoting rural vitality.

To allow more institutions overall to successfully compete for RHSE funds, the following types of applications submitted to the Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Program in FY 2013 will not be considered for funding:

Projects that have received funding through Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program for 2 or more years within the past 5 years;

Proposals with a focus on research (other than evaluation related to project impacts), formal education (K-12, university), or clinical interventions.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program (aka Section 1447):

Funding appropriation for FY 2013 is $18,204,579. The anticipated funding allocation is estimated at $17,474,604, which reflects adjustments for administrative cost. This funding will support the first year of a new five-year plan of work at each of the 1890 Land-Grant Institution with a funding range of $685,690 to $1,424,220.

Facilities funds will be used for the acquisition and improvement of agricultural and food sciences facilities and equipment, as well as libraries, so the 1890 land-grant institutions may participate fully in the development of human capital in the food and agricultural sciences. Peer review panels convened on May 22 and 23 and made recommendations to program leadership staff. Awards will be made by the end of the 2013 Fiscal Year.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

For the FY 2013 award cycle, Congress appropriated $923,000 to support FARAD, which is funded under its own line item authority.

A total of 4 applications have been submitted. These applications are in the process of being merit reviewed internally by National Program Staff but recommendations for funding have not yet been determined as of the date of this report.

This 30-year-old high performing integrated consortium of collaborating institutions includes at each Land Grant campus a lead PD, and his/her respective scientific staff. The institutions involved are UC Davis, NCSU, UFL and KSU.

The funding ratio for this program in FY13 is not yet known.

FARAD is a university-based national program that serves as the primary source for scientifically-based recommendations regarding safe withdrawal intervals of drugs and chemicals in food-producing animals. As such, FARAD is a key resource for protection of our nation's food supply, including meat, milk and eggs, against accidental contamination of animal-derived foods with violative residues of drugs, pesticides or other agents that could compromise food safety.

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development & RYD Grants Program):

For the FY 2013 award cycle, $645,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

Based on Congressional language, only four organizations are eligible to apply for this funding: the National FFA Organization, the National 4-H Council, the Girl Scouts of the USA, and Boy Scouts of America. The Boy Scouts did not apply. Each organization could apply for up to 40 percent of the available funds.

A 3 member peer review panel comprised of program staff from the National Institute of Food and Agriculture, plus the National Program Leader who manages the grant program, reviewed the three applications. Applications were scored independently by each reviewer based on pre-determined criteria outlined in the RFA.

The reviewers submitted their scores electronically. The scores were averaged to give a total for each application. In addition, reviewers made comments about the strength and weaknesses of each scoring component. The peer review panel met face-to-face to discuss rankings and make recommendations for funding levels.

Final funding amounts have not been determined due to requested review team modifications in budgets, but estimated amounts are approximately: 4-H, $182,000; FFA, $258,000; and GSUSA, $206,000.

In this program youth and adult teams work together in their communities to learn leadership skills. They conduct community needs assessments. Based on the results of the needs assessments, they prioritize long-term, complex community issues that they can address. Then, the teams plan, implement, and evaluate projects to meet those needs.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Program (aka RME & ARPA Program):

ERME is a results-based competitive program. Program applicants at the regional level must identify the intended audience(s) and outcomes of their curricula and training, along with metrics to measure those outcomes. Each year, the regional Centers combined fund approximately 50 projects. All curricula and training materials developed through this investment, as well as reports on program outcomes, are archived and publicly available on the Ag Risk Library at: <http://www.agrisk.umn.edu/Library/Topics.aspx?LIB=AR>

FY 2013 marks a decade of Extension Risk Management Education programming. Since 2003, Extension Risk Management Education projects have had more than 212,000 participants. More than 966 local projects throughout all 50 states have educated Americas farmers and ranchers to manage the unique risks of producing food for the worlds table. As a result of this programming, more than 14,000 participants understand more about transitioning their farm business to the next generation and more than 3,000 have made progress development a written transition plan. Likewise, more than 26,000 participants learned more about developing a marketing plan and over 10,000 have written a marketing plan for their enterprises.

(U) & (J) Combined - Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (CYFAR) and CYFAR - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

NOTE: Also see item # J above.

For the FY 2013 award cycle, $6,728,000 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs.

A total of 21 academic institutions submitted applications requesting $13,138,695.00 in this years competition. In January 2013, an eight member peer review panel evaluated these applications.

Funds were available to support a total of seven awards in the following project types: one 4-H Military ($425,949); 40 Sustainable Community Projects ($4,457,931); and nine New Sustainable Community Projects ($720,000).

The funding ratio for this program in FY13 was 43%.

Funded projects should address one of the following CYFAR National Outcomes:

- a) Early Childhood
- b) School Age
- c) Teens and
- d) Parent/Family

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Professional Development and Technical Assistance (aka CYFAR-PDTA):

For the FY 2013 award cycle, $850,000 will be available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. For this Professional Development and Technical Assistance (PDTA) award, one university will be awarded this competitive award.

The funded project is designed to address the professional development and technical assistance needs of the CYFAR SCP grantees.

The panel review is set to occur during late July.

(W) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Programs:

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities: National AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012.

In FY 2013, approximately $3,781,786 was available for project awards (after subtracting administrative and panel costs) to support AgrAbility and Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification (YFSEC) projects. Of this amount, $300,000 was made available for one (1) new award for YFSEC, approximately $3,395,000 for AgrAbility continuation awards (including National AgrAbility Project) and $486,000 was available for new State AgrAbility awards.

As in the past, AgrAbility program maintained its focus on supporting state and regional projects that increase the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbilitys customers) will become more successful.

Through Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification (YFSEC) past funding, NIFA supported Hazardous Occupation Safety Training in Agriculture (HOSTA) projects in the past. As part of those projects, two complete curricula were developed and are available on the www.agsafety4youth.info website. These curricula are based on core competencies, as identified by agricultural safety experts. While the curricula provide a solid foundation for safety training in the agricultural workplace for both workers and instructors, they are specific to the certification requirements under the Department of Labor Hazardous Occupation Order and do not address the current need for a coordinated national approach to agricultural safety and health education for youth. The YFSEC focus within the AgrAbility and Youth Farm Safety program funding opportunity in FY2013 sought to address and respond to this need.

In winter 2012, stakeholders input was requested on the YFSEC program in order to help NIFA leadership address stakeholder needs and assure that YFSEC addresses the highest priorities authorized under this program. Stakeholders input was gathered in two ways: 1) via a public listening session, held as a webinar, on December 12, 2012; and 2) via written comments, which were accepted by email and regular mail until close of business on December 26, 2012.

Based on stakeholders feedback, the primary purpose of YFSEC is FY2013 was to develop a coordinated approach to agricultural safety and health education for youth by:

1. Connecting and enhancing existing educational resources in this area;
2. Developing a centralized location for relevant training and farm/ranch safety materials for both formal (school) and non-formal (home and ag. industry) settings; and
3. Developing a national strategy that would enhance awareness of, access to, and utilization of the farm safety materials by youth and adults who instruct and/or work with youth.

(X) Extension IPM Coordination and Support Program (aka IPM-CS):

For the FY 2013 award cycle, $ 8,135,704 was available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs ($ 7,959,181 for EIPM Coordination and $ 176,523 for EIPM Support).

A total of 60 applications requesting a total of $ 34,598,992 for the three year term of the awards ($ 11,701,148 for year one) were received in the 2013 competition. In June 2013, a 17-member peer review panel evaluated these applications. The peer panel included faculty and administrators from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities.

Funds were available to support a total of 50 awards in the Coordination program and four awards in the Support program. Seven awarded grants have collaborations between 1862 and 1890 land-grant institutions.

The funding ratio for this program in FY13 was 96%, reflecting the substantial stakeholder input to retain a network of institutional and state-0based IPM Coordination programs. The amount of the awards reflected the ranking of the application by the peer panel. The support program funded 50% of the applications.

Funded coordination projects address Extension education in one or more of the following IPM target audiences:

- 1) IPM in Agronomic Crops;
- 2) IPM in Specialty Crops;
- 3) IPM in Communities;
- 4) IPM in Animal Agriculture; and
- 5) Any of eight secondary areas (conservation, diagnostics, housing, pesticide application, public health, recreation, schools, and wide-area pest monitoring).

(Y) Extension Outreach on the Marketplace Exchanges of the Affordable Care Act:

The purpose of this grant program is to target areas of the country with high numbers of individuals that do not have health insurance and focus education and outreach efforts on these specific areas so consumers will be able to make informed decisions regarding their participation in their State Marketplace Exchange.

From internal research done by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) in 2012, we know that consumer awareness and understanding of insurance is low. A great challenge lies in educating people on their choices, where to get trusted information to base their decisions, and the terminology used by the insurance industry.

Putting accurate, timely information into the hands of people in their own communities and reaching underserved audiences can be challenging. These audiences are often typified by a lack of access to social services, educational opportunities, technology, and transportation. The Cooperative Extension professionals at the state and local level are uniquely positioned to reach out at the grassroots level to communities and underserved audiences and educate them about new programs that are the result of passage of the Affordable Care Act, as well as enhancements to existing programs such as Medicare, Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). This can be accomplished through a wide variety of educational approaches including, but not limited to workshops, webinars, meetings, conferences, exhibits, publications, electronic communication, fact sheets, newsletters, and mass media.

FY 13 MEACA requirements include:

- o Substantial involvement of NIFA in the design, development, implementation and evaluation.
- o In collaboration with NIFA and CMS, identify up to approximately 10 States that will participate in the project as sub-awardees. Sub-awardee Land Grant institutions selected to participate will be identified from this pool of eligible states: Texas, Florida, Georgia, Arizona, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Indiana, North Carolina, Louisiana, Michigan, and/or others as specified by CMS.
- o A communication plan describing the anticipated methods of communication and interaction between the Lead Institution and NIFA; and between the Lead Institution and the subcontractors should be included.
- o Coordinate education, outreach and evaluation programs among selected States. Educational and informational resources on which to base Extension outreach programs materials will be provided by CMS.
- o Conduct training events, including webinars for targeted states and provide them with the resources, materials, and support necessary to maximize opportunities to conduct outreach and provide education to people who could benefit from the programs created by the Affordable Care Act and to those people enrolled in Medicare, Medicaid and the CHIP.
- o Facilitate how selected States will connect with other local agencies and organizations, such as libraries, healthcare facilities, and community service partners to disseminate Affordable Care Act, Medicare, CHIP, and Medicaid materials and information at USDA extension educational events in the community.
- o Identify or develop appropriate evaluation tools to assess the impact of Affordable Care Act community education and information dissemination on target populations, which will include the number of people educated or trained within the targeted groups of people who are underinsured or lack insurance, people with Medicare, Medicaid, or CHIP. Conduct aggregate evaluation of all State programs.
- o Provide evaluation results and reports to NIFA quarterly and upon project completion.

o Projects are expected to lead to measurable, documented changes in knowledge, actions, behaviors or practices in relation to MEACA and result in measurable numbers of enrollees into State Marketplace Exchange programs.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: (A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions (aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Formula Grants Program:

Below are five examples of progress from 2012 annual reports:

1) Six Strategic Program Initiatives were identified to guide Extension's issue-based educational programs that acknowledge and address the current changes in the way citizens think, live, and function in their daily lives, families, communities, and businesses. In FY12, Extension has focused its efforts by addressing a number of issues to include:

Health and wellness with a focus on obesity- enhanced health and wellness through improved nutritional choices with programs such as Body Quest that is designed to improve fruit and vegetable consumption as well as enhanced physical activities among youth and adults;

Workforce development-training for workforce preparation; establishing and implementing virtual business economic development centers; and partnering with public agencies and the National Federation of Independent Businesses in delivering webinars on immigration and Affordable Health Care compliance;

Safe and secure food system- training for individual and commercial food safety and security; combined with food entrepreneurship training; Sustainable agriculture and forestry- climate change data and drought management for utilization by farmers for better crop management; optimization of new state irrigation enhancement programs; and meeting the needs of limited resources farmers through expansion of ethnic food producers;

Environmental stewardship- urban gardens, water conservation, and sustainable landscapes for individual and commercial users in urban and rural communities;

4-H youth development- in science, engineering and technology, responsible choices, leadership, and citizenship; reaching underserved youth populations through expanded partnerships with public school districts; a 16% increase in 4-H youth enrollment; and

Financial literacy- improved individual and business financial stability through financial management

2) A study about helping students cope with negative peer interactions (i.e., bullying) resulted in workshops and trainings for teachers, parents, and information was disseminated. "Just In Time Parenting" research demonstrated documented changes in use of positive parenting behaviors-- associated with lower risk for child maltreatment and improving positive outcomes for young children -- among participants. Studies were being conducted on health and mental health outcomes for children and adolescents. Direct programming to promote positive youth development provides youth with numerous times to participate in projects. Overall, over 71,500 youth were engaged in community clubs, camp programs, and school programs through the 4-H Youth Development Program. Youth participated in projects ranging from agriculture; livestock; science and engineering; and healthy living activities including food and nutrition, and physical activity.

3) Mitigation and adaptation programs on climate change; food security, food safety and childhood obesity programs were launched and supplemented programs on proper hygiene and healthy lifestyle that are important in safeguarding the well-being of citizens. Other outreach programs continued on issues ranging from food safety and quality, food security, families and youths, water quality, and managing limited natural resources and the environment. Health and nutrition programs continued on the importance of healthy lifestyles, which included physical activity and consumption of safe and nutritious local food to combat obesity, diabetes, heart diseases and other NCDs. The youth development programs provided information to increase knowledge and appreciation of marine and terrestrial flora and fauna and more students are exposed to computers, which provided the opportunity to use the Internet as an introduction to electronic connectivity and information gathering.

4) During the reporting period, 271 (which includes 45 trainees) Master Gardeners and trainees provided 9,000 hours of horticultural expertise. In addition, 13,500 direct contacts were served by the Master Gardener

Coordinator/Extension Agent. Forty-five (45) Master Gardener Trainees completed 50 hours of basic horticulture training, a final exam and 50 hours of volunteer hours. Various Master Gardener projects have been established which include schools, parks, beautification projects, landscape design, youth gardens, local and botanical gardens, a hospice/nursing home, and partnerships with non-profit organizations. Several new projects were initiated and here are the highlights:

750 pounds of produce was donated to soup kitchens.

150 hours of volunteer hours educated low income residents on a rooftop vegetable garden.

35 Raised Beds at Schools were installed, planted and maintained and used for educational purposes.

4,000 spring flowering bulbs were planted at a local school and recreation center.

8 composting sites were piloted and Master Gardener plant clinics were established.

5) Extension efforts continue to focus on improving the accessibility of food that is nutritious, safe, culturally acceptable, and affordable in both rural and urban areas. Food safety and security outreach will include strategies and programs aimed at both consumer and producer education. Extension specialists, agents and educators will continue to implement food safety programs targeted to food managers and handlers, as well as to home food and specialty farm producers and consumers.

(B) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions - (aka Smith-Lever Special Needs Formula Grants Program):

One project is working on immersing immigrants into the American culture. Becoming immersed in a new culture and living conditions can be difficult. To ease that transition, one project has developed resources in a number of languages to help new Americans deal with one aspect of their new lives: how to handle unfamiliar foods safely.

Research and extension programs in one project is focusing on five initiatives: 4-H and Youth Development, Community Development Education, Nutrition and Food Safety, Profitable and Sustainable Agriculture Systems, and Sustainable Management of Rangeland Resources.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program:

Recovery After Disaster: The Family Financial Toolkit On-Demand Video, enhanced the Recovery After Disaster: The Family Financial Toolkit (Toolkit) by incorporating on videos into the Toolkit, so individuals and families impacted by disaster will be able to make informed decisions about the implications of utilizing a range of financial resources that are available to rebuild, rehabilitate or renovate a home.

An information web portal of flood resources from 50 states, called a Flood NEIL, was designed as a resource that will be used on the Extension Disaster Education Networks website for use by extension educators. This resource center will contain multi-disciplinary projects, including Family and Consumer Sciences, Community Economic Development, Youth, Agriculture, and Business. Information, including publications, videos, news releases and social media downloads. The resources will be available in a format that permits localizing by extension educators for use in their communities.

The Ready Community Program is an educational program designed to improve several key components of disaster resilience including institutional and infrastructure capacity and community competency. This multipurpose project piloted the ReadyCommunity Program in two rural regions within a state, regionally including multiple states, and hosted a national training meeting.

Development of emergency response plans for pets in 23 local counties within one state to serve as a model that can be replicated nationally is the focus of a community emergency response plan for pet and service project. The two year pilot implementation of this model serves as a platform for personnel to develop disaster plans for pets, services, and other events such as infectious diseases including zoonotic disease spread.

A framework was created to deliver support educational materials to local government stakeholders for the purpose of improving financial disaster planning to make these governments more financially resilient to future natural disasters. A train-the-trainer model was used to deliver focused participatory tropical financial disaster resiliency training along the Western, Central, and Eastern Gulf of Mexico.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and Tuskegee (aka 1890 Capacity Building formula Grants Program):

This is an administrative project which allows the institutions to initiate Extension projects on campus after funding has been received. Currently no projects have been reported as having been initiated.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and ENUT Formula Grants Program):

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All seventy-five 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed-behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: Lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Participant entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk):

NOTE: See Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (Item U below):

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education - Professional Development (aka Chapter 3 & SARE-PD):

One example of a funded project from the Northeast region is ENE12-123: Transferring Farms and Improving Access to Farmland: A Training Program for Northeast Agricultural Service Providers.

Another example from the North Central region is ENC12-135: Growing a Network of GAPs Educators in the Upper Midwest.

A third example from the Western region is EW12-026: Technical Service Provider Training to Improve Services for Family Forest Landowners.

(L) Federally-Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

FRTEP funds are used for two primary strategic areas youth development and information to help make American Indian Farmers and Ranchers more profitable. Other project areas are developed and funded as the needs of the Tribe or Reservation dictate.

When Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe water resource professionals discovered that 60 percent of the Minnesota reservations septic systems were sub-standard or failing, they feared for the reservations health, indigenous rice fields, and fish populations. An educator with the University of Minnesota, responded with an extensive education program. She explains to homeowners how having the sanitation department pump their septic systems could protect their health and contribute to the safety of the environment and their community. She uses funds from U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Federal Recognized Tribes Extension Program (FRTEP) to conduct this outreach effort. Her program has become a model for other communities.

When members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians cant make it to their local extension office, their extension office comes to them with a gift of better health through home gardening.

Another educator developed a garden wagon to reach more members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) with community garden information. Many of the local Cherokee communities are fragmented across five of the most remote counties in the Appalachian Mountains of Western North Carolina.

The primary focus of this program has been ranch and range development. The FRTEP educator helped 33 ranchers form an informal cooperative to sell cattle at auction barns and specialty venues. The tribe is also trying to gain much-needed income by assessing grazing fees. To date, 78 of the 98 range units have been evaluated in an effort to do this. Veterinary clinics held in the spring and fall provided the Zuni Reservation $80,000 in free animal health care. The clinic provided rabies vaccination and spaying and neutering for dogs. Controlling the feral dog population has been a problem, and the FRTEP agent will assist the Zuni Tribal Rangers in finding expertise for canine population management.

M) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (aka Tribal Colleges Extension Program or TCEP) and (BB) Tribal Colleges Extension - Special Emphasis (TCEP-SE) were combined:

Unify, Integrate, and Expand Diverse Programs That Promote Self-sufficiency and Wellness Among Native Americans in the Pacific Northwest Northwest Indian College (NWIC). NWIC s Cooperative Extension Office offers many programs, including:

- 1) Traditional Plants and Foods;
- 2) Financial Literacy;

3) Cultural Arts;

4) Youth and Family Leadership Development; and

5) Professional Development.

Extension strategies include direct services, train-the-trainer workshops, the development of mentoring relationships, and the provision of one-on-one technical support, with a special effort to assist those who want to become community educators.

Salish Kootenai College Integrated Programming in Ecological and Human Health Restoration. The Salish Kootenai College Extension (SKCE) Land Grant Vision promotes restoration of Environmental resources And revitalization Of the Health status Of the Salish, Kootenai, and Pend d'Oreille people.

Extension and research projects address NIFA's societal challenge areas of climate change, food security, food safety, childhood obesity and human nutrition issues. Focus areas of natural resources, food, nutrition and health, pest management, plants and youth. SKCE strategic goals addressed are to mitigate climate change, improve food security and local food systems, and reduce childhood obesity.

(N) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA):

$3,700,000 was appropriated by Congress for the Program for FY 2012. The net amount awarded to support the different programs was $3,432,000. These funds supported a total of 72 1862 and 1890 Land Grant Institution extension programs and three territories.

Example accomplishments include:

1. Timberland improvement - 278 landowners through educational programs that will assist them with improving their timberland. This was done with several partner organizations. Following the workshop, landowners requested follow-up information and technical assistance from the forestry commission.
2. Invasive species - programs contributed to the implementation of at least one forest management practice on 3,000 acres. An additional 300 acres received improved management to prevent or control exotic invasive species.
3. Forest health - More than 200 landowners whose collective ownership is 41, 233 forested acres participated in forestry field days focused on the importance of forests to provide clean and plentiful water for domestic and agricultural uses.
4. Electronic program delivery - Participants from an average of 16 states usually participate in monthly educational webinars.. Approximately 3,409 hours of viewing presentations live or recorded have been documented, with respondents indicating that they have saved more than 77,000 miles of driving through participation in the Forest Connect series.
5. Rangeland management - A sustainable management of rangeland resources initiative produced over 267 70-second TV spots which air twice weekly on a commercial TV station. One hundred percent of the participants in rangeland resources extension program report increased awareness, knowledge, and skills of range monitoring.
6. Biomass harvesting 379 loggers participated in field days/workshops to gain information and knowledge about biomass harvesting equipment available from seven manufacturers. Participants indicated that these events provided useful information as they make preparations to meet the demand for woody biomass fuel.

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive):

In FY 2012 the following types of projects were funded:

Diabetes Self-Management Education Program for Rural African Americans -- The project consists of three key activities:

- 1) delivering culturally appropriate DSME for African-American adults,
- 2) engaging community partners to support the delivery and sustainability of the program, and 3) conducting an evaluation of the intervention and dissemination strategies.

Expanded Health Coaches for Hypertension Control -- The project uses community volunteers trained as Health Coaches to provide education, support, and access to community resources to those aged 45 years and older in order to increase the motivation and skills they need to effectively self-manage hypertension.

Nutrition and Health Education -- The project addresses needs among underserved and economically vulnerable rural residents of American Indian Reservations.

Developing Electronic and Social Media to Support Rural Safety and Health Education Programs The project addresses farm safety education needs by utilizing existing surveillance data to identify most common types of occupational illnesses, injuries, and fatalities affecting farm workers and farm families, and by developing electronic and social media resources to address those high injury-causation agents, and appropriate educational media for a variety of target audiences.

Teaching Tool Kits for Educators Working in the Field of American Indian Health, Wellness and Culture -- The project seeks to improve the general health and wellness within American Indian communities in the Pacific Northwest by building capacity for American Indian /Alaskan Native (AI/AN) students and community members to access information about traditionally based diet and lifestyle.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program (aka Section 1447):

Funds were used to continue to support the listed projects based on a Five-Year (2008-2012) Plan of Work at each of the 18 Institutions.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

Funded Project Network Node 1: Coordinate national program, develop pharmacokinetic modeling approaches and provide pharmacokinetic support to FARAD components, and on a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provide responses to emergency queries (telephone, internet) from the FARAD Hotline.

Funded Project Network Node 2: Funded Project 2: maintains the pharmacokinetic, bibliographic and call center databases and web-based access to the kinetic and bibliographic citation files. On a rotating basis with other network nodes, this node also provides responses to drug and contaminant residue questions submitted to FARAD.

Funded Project Network Node 3: Collects and enters data for the US Approved Animal Drugs Database (US-AADD), maintains internet websites for FARAD, creates and supports platforms for mobile devices to access the Veterinarian's Guide to Residue Avoidance Management (VetGRAM) and other mobile-friendly applications, and distributes electronic alerts and updates via email, Twitter and other electronic formats.

Funded Project Network Node 4: On a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provides responses to emergency telephone calls from the FARAD hotline. Collaboration between all institutions occurs on research

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development & RYD Grants Program):

Outcomes and Impact: Program evaluations, based on qualitative and quantitative data, show that as a result of the RYD program

Youth learned and applied 21st Century work and life skills such as: organizing groups and information, leading discussions, planning programs, teamwork, communication, creativity and innovation, critical thinking, problem solving, decision making, goal setting, collaboration and working with diverse populations;

Youth gained self-confidence and efficacy. They are motivated to continue providing leadership in the future and developed a sense of belonging and connectedness to their communities;

Adults learned how to effectively partner with youth to produce individual and community outcomes; and Community leaders and stakeholders see youth as resources to help solve community issues, not as problems. Financial support has been given to youth projects and new policies support youth programs and positive community change.

Based on qualitative analysis, it is evident projects have significantly improved human, social, cultural, political, financial, natural, and built (infrastructure) capital in rural communities. A few selected examples show that youth and adults have accomplished results such as:

Organizing six public festivals that drew an estimated 10,000 tourists, spending approximately $40, bringing an income of $400,000 to a rural town.

Implementing programs that caused the opening of 6 new businesses in a rural town. It is estimated that for every dollar spent in a business, there is a return of five times that amount in taxes, wages, and purchases.

Eradicating invasive weed-like substances from local lakes threatening drinking water and boating, resulting in $9,365,900 in improved property prices at one lake, and at least double that when adding property prices around other lakes and rivers.

Harvesting and distributing 1,000 pounds of fresh vegetables to diabetics in Hispanic communities, improving blood glucose levels and healthy cooking habits for over 60 percent of the diabetic program participants.

Improving oral reading fluency test rates for 94 percent of the students in an after-school program.

Tackling hunger by providing laying hens to over 120 low income families as affordable protein options through a chicken and egg production project. Twenty-five percent of the families reported minimum savings of $5.25 a week, or about 4 percent of their weekly grocery bill.

Recycling more than 1,300 tons of materials, which has saved approximately 53 cubic yards in the community's landfill.

Leading intergenerational technology classes resulting in 65 percent of the youth teachers indicating an increased interest in science.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Program (aka RME & ARPA Program):

A selected sample of reported participant outcomes for the projects includes improve risk management practices with: farm succession and estate planning, enterprise budgets, transition to value added enterprises, herd health and handling; input cost management, contract development and management, analysis and use of production and revenue insurance products, business planning, and marketing and financial planning. Specific actions to improve farming operations included implementing computerized production record keeping and tracking systems, adopting improved methods for managing farm financial records, developing USDA inspected custom processing capacity for direct market meat enterprises and incorporating behavior changes to improve human relationships and time and stress management.

(U) and (J) - Combined Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (CYFAR) and CYFAR - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

Note: Also see item # J above.

1. The project was designed to enhance educational curricula, develop linkages to support families, provide technical assistance and training for after school staff. The project focuses on middle school-age youth and seeks to improve knowledge, skills, attitudes and behaviors necessary for fulfilling contributing lives. The program targeted school-age high risk youth who were academically challenged; youth who were potential dropouts, youth who were more likely to engage in delinquent behaviors; and, and youth who lack strong positive role models. The project served a large number of children who lived in poverty.

2. The program focused on integrating rural Hispanic youth and families into educational enrichment, school support and community leadership opportunities. The project targeted school-age youth to promote knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behaviors necessary for fulfilling contributing lives, with a specific focus on Hispanic children in rural school districts.

3. Tutoring on homework assignments provided at least one hour per day (four days per week.) Tutoring focused on English, mathematics, science and reading or in other subjects if the youth needed assistance. Targeted educational sessions were two days a week, one hour per day, on computer technology, agriculture and nutrition. All educational activities were experientially based. Participation in the program increased participants' sense of belonging, decision-making skills and self-efficacy. The project led to more self-confidence, self-awareness, and increases in academic achievement.

4. Youth demonstrated enhanced knowledge, skills in science, engineering, and technology which helped prepare them for future careers. Youth considered career goals in science, engineering, and technology. Community professionals and volunteers demonstrated enhanced knowledge and skills to use mobile technology labs with youth in their communities.

5. Utilization of a garden-based learning environment to promote positive outcomes for school age children ages nine to eleven (4th and 5th graders) was the goal of this project. Garden-based education is research tested and behavior driven. It showed the relationship between individual behavior changes that gardens inspire and the larger impacts on academics, families, schools and communities. In this model the garden is an environment, where the young person's internal strengths and their behaviors reinforced each other to improve the young person and the community.

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Professional Development and Technical Assistance (aka CYFAR-PDTA):

1. The CYFERnet Program Team served to strengthen the frontline CYFAR staff. The CYFERnet Program Team and editorial board conducted 88 workshops and conference presentations with nearly 4,000 participants throughout the country. In 2012, there were more than one million searches and browses of www.cyfernet.org. A total of 1,852 resources were peer reviewed with 1,590 accepted.

2. CYFERnet Technology worked with CYFAR to integrate technology successfully into CYFAR projects. The Technology team conducted 18 webinars during the fiscal year. The CYFERnet website averaged approximately 57,000 visits and approximately 9500 unique visitors.

3. CYFERnet Evaluation was designed to build the evaluation capacity of the CYFAR SCP projects. The Program Team provided support for common measure data collection and training and technical assistance. One of the major ways this team provided support was through cyfernetsearch.org. It is a searchable site with over 160 vetted evaluation measures and data output and reporting options for grantees participating in Common Measures Data Collection.

(W) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Programs:

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities: National AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012.

AgrAbility increases the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbility's customers) become more successful. To address the specialized needs of AgrAbility's customers, the program builds service capacity on national, regional, state, and local levels through education and networking. In the absence of capacity, projects provide assistance through assessment to customers.

In FY 2012, 23 state and regional grants were awarded to land-grant universities working in partnership with private non-profit disability programs to support these goals. Funds cannot be awarded to individuals under this authorization. The AgrAbility program supports the USDA initiative to improve the quality of life for farmers.

A 2006 study reported 86% of 493 AgrAbility clients that responded to a quality of life survey identified AgrAbility assistance as key to enabling them to live in their home on the farm/ranch. Fifty-eight percent surveyed reported being able to manage their farm/ranch independently.

State and Regional AgrAbility project staff reported serving 1,228 farmers and ranchers with disabilities during the 2011-2012 period.

To address the specialized needs of AgrAbility's customers, the program builds service capacity on national, regional, state, and local levels through education and networking. In the absence of capacity, projects provide assistance to customers.

The primary function of the National AgrAbility Project is to support the state and regional projects in developing their capacity to meet these objectives. AgrAbility Projects use marketing activities to direct the public to initiatives in these three priority areas,

(X) Extension IPM Coordination and Support Program (aka IPM-CS):

Continue the Extension IPM program in Massachusetts, where many impacts were reported for users adopting new technologies to manage pests while reducing costs, minimizing environmental impact, and Reducing human exposure to pesticides/

A project in the SW US will develop capacity for IPM practice in several diverse environments and will continuing to develop strategies to manage crop pests over a wide-area and in effect manage pesticide resistance as well as pest impact on the crop.

Push IPM will develop and implement Push Technology to keep IPM practitioners informed about high consequence pests.

Develop an app for handheld devices/smartphones to submit data to track wide-area pest threats in real-time.

Develop a new Extension IPM program at Lincoln university, gather stakeholder input and identify needs.

(Y) Extension Outreach on the Marketplace Exchanges of the Affordable Care Act:

NONE Program was not yet funded.

(Z) Military Family Readiness System (aka MFRS):

There was one project funded through this program in FY 11. The Military Family Readiness Training System (University of Arizona): The focus of the Military Family Readiness Training System (MFRS) is to develop a holistic social service delivery system model approach to provide a high quality, joint-Service Branch training resource to prepare Family Center/Family Readiness (FC/FR) program staff employed with the U.S. Military Branches to implement individual programs in specified areas to support military families through each phase of the deployment cycle.

(AA) Second Language & Culture Exposure for Children Project (aka SLCECY):

One project was funded for this program in FY 2011. No additional funds were provided for this program.

The project has been implemented in three phases: In phase one, university staff performed a literature review and collected and analyzed data from within the Department of Defense (DoD) and from outside of DoD on the subject of language and culture exposure for children 0-5 years old.

In phase two, the university reviewed, revised and created program and training materials related to language and culture exposure for 0-5 year old children.

Phase three consists of piloting materials developed under phase one and is currently underway in coordination with DoD personnel. Results to date reflect the following

NOTE: Combined with CFDA 10.500 (M) above.

(CC) District of Columbia Public Secondary Education Reorganization Act Program (CES - Formula):

Cloud-based Fuzzy Data Mining for Diabetes Gene Pathway Analysis: In support of a focus on Health, Nutrition and Childhood Obesity Prevention, UDC is researching diabetes gene analysis and found they can successfully generate and select high-quality gene pathway candidates from thousands of genes quickly taking advantage of parallel computing of a cloud platform.

4-H Clubs: UDC managed 36 clubs in schools in the District of Columbia. Members of the clubs participated in other outside programs to include the National 4-H Youth Science Day-30 4-H Youth from UDC 4-H School Clubs participated in the National Youth Science Day Program at the National 4-H Council (it was a testing day so 4th and 5th graders from Janney Elementary School and 5th and 6th graders from SEED a Private residential school participated. The youth were featured on Fox Five News.

DC Master Gardener Program: The program is designed to train volunteer horticultural educators for the University of the District of Columbia Extension- the principal outreach education unit of the University of the District of Columbia. 271 (which includes 45 trainees) Master Gardeners and trainees provided 9,000 hours of horticultural expertise to the District of Columbia. 13,500 direct contacts were served by the Master Gardener Coordinator/Extension Agent. Fiscal Year 2013: (A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions (aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Formula Grants Program:

As outlined in the 2013 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

1) The 4-H Youth Program will continue to address the youth-at-risk issues with programs in 4-H village clubs and church youth organizations in the community, clubs in the schools and summer youth programs. Using and modifying the educational materials developed for US mainland youth, these lessons will be brought to the youth on issues including but not limited to cigarette, alcohol, and drug use, teen pregnancy, suicide and high school dropout. Other topics will include parenting, entrepreneurship, sewing, arts and crafts, vegetable gardening, marketing, and Samoan culture and language projects. These lessons will be taught in workshops, in group discussions, one-to-one interventions, demonstrations, 4-H fairs, camps and summer programs and will reach youth and adults including parents, village and church women, farmers along with business people. TV and radio stations, newsletters and brochures will help to spread the word. It is hoped that with youth involvement in these programs, they will acquire knowledge and develop social, leadership, entrepreneurial and job readiness skills, obtain knowledge to start their own homebased businesses to become self-reliant, productive and contributing members of society. To address the youth at risk challenges and to align with NIFA Organizational Chart, the 4-H Youth Program will be a separate program from the Family and Consumer Science and Nutrition Program.

Additionally, a 4-H Program Manager, Specialists, and additional 4-H agents need to be hired. Finding local qualified staff has been difficult. How great the outcomes and impacts will be is dependent on the ability to hire and retain qualified personnel. Program funds need to be made available for local staff to continue their studies to obtain Bachelors, Masters and PhD degrees in counseling, youth and human development, sociology and related fields.

2) Under this 2013 Plan of Work, particular focus will be directed toward issues, problems, and/or concerns that affect people involved in agriculture; aquatic, coastal and aquaculture programs, natural resources and the environment, youth development, family and consumer sciences, energy and housing, and community. Extension has developed seven goal areas in which to focus:

Enhancing and maintaining agricultural, natural resources, and food systems
Maintaining, conserving, and enhancing natural environment
Developing responsible and productive youth through 4-H and other youth programs
Creating and maintain resource efficient landscapes: The smart way to grow
Promoting individual, family, and community well-being and economic security
Maintaining, enhancing, and establishing sustainable communities
Promoting professional development to enhance organization efficiency and effectiveness.

3) The Cooperative Extension System continues to direct efforts toward four main goals: Increasing the economic opportunities for small businesses and specifically for agriculture and natural resource related businesses in the state; enhance the sustainability of the environment through balancing economic growth with the sustainability of natural resources; advance the public health of the state through a safe and secure food system and water supply; and strengthen and support families and communities in a rapidly changing society. The youth development program will strengthen an environmental curriculum for K-12 audiences building on the IPM curriculum and on the state education standards model.. Work will continue in sustainable agricultural production including organic.

The focus of nutrition efforts target obesity, including education for children with special dietary needs and emphasizing healthy lifestyles. Strengthening and supporting families and communities in a rapidly changing environment will focus on leadership development and civic engagement leading for a strong quality of life. Programs engage pre-college youth in educational and leadership experiences, build leadership capacity in communities through training programs and building community capacity for parents, child care providers, and youth.

4) In FY 2013, programming in the areas of childhood obesity, nutrition and health will receive increased attention while programming in the Family Development (FD) and Family Resource Management (FRM) areas is being de-emphasized in adult programming but continued in youth targeted audiences. The faculty who are in FD and FRM will significantly shift their efforts to targeting the childhood obesity and nutrition and health challenges that are so prominent in the state. New ways of conducting business will become the norm to meet the ever-changing needs of our stakeholders. Increased reliance on new technologies and tools such as social media increased external funding and funding from local entities and even greater dependence on trained volunteers will become increasingly important as attempts to deliver high quality programs continue.

5) Extension Service will create learning partnerships that help adults and youth enhance their lives and communities. Extension programs will contribute to each of NIFA's five priority areas. Educational programs will contribute by improving crop productivity and adapting new crops within the area of global food security; adapting cropping systems, responding to evolving pest issues, and improving soil management in the area of climate change; assisting with the development of biofuels as sustainable energy sources; training families on nutrition and wellness to address childhood obesity; and training food handlers to minimize the risk of food borne disease. Extension programs will also continue to focus on state identified needs in the areas of agricultural and natural resources; 4-H youth development; family and consumer sciences; and community, leadership and economic development. Within these program areas, emerging areas of concern include animal welfare, response to natural disasters, transitional plans for farms and rural businesses, and rural business development and entrepreneurship.

(B) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions - (aka Smith-Lever Special Needs Formula Grants Program):

Some projects are addressing growing competition for finite water, land, and air resources in a state with a growing human population by:
educating agricultural and resource industry professionals; researching technical and economic issues related to improved resource utilization; and enhancing international competitiveness.

Cross-cutting or Cross-disciplinary Initiatives: Nutrient management and odor and dust control.

Some projects have identified the under-served and under-represented populations as one group who have participated in the issue identification process in the past that was considered in the development and orchestration of plan of work.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program:

Since the Smith-Lever Special Needs Competitive Grants Program panel will not be held until July 16, 2013; there are no examples of funded projects yet.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and Tuskegee (aka 1890 Capacity Building formula Grants Program):

One administrative project was awarded to each 1890 (18) institution.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and ENUT Formula Grants Program):

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All seventy-five 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed-behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: Lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Participant entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

(F) Regional Integrated Pest Management Competitive Grants:

NOTE: Also see CFDA 10.200.

(F - 1) - North Central Region (aka NC RIPM):

Determine the effect of fungicide application to corn and soybean plants damaged by artificial hail events. This information will equip farmers and agronomists to make more informed decisions about fungicide application at a critical time in crop production: after a major abiotic stress event.

This project will address the need for grower and industry education programs to review current rootworm management options and promote a greater understanding of rootworm biology and behavior in order to make best use of available management practices.

Assess wheat curl mite performance and wheat streak mosaic infection in wheat germplasm with genes for mite resistance and germplasm containing genes for both mite resistance and wheat streak mosaic resistance. Assess differential transmission of wheat streak mosaic by mite biotypes from different NCIPM locations.

Improve both insect and weed management in commercial cucurbit production through manipulation of cover crop surface residues in combination with reduced tillage and diversification of crop species in windbreaks.

Improve high tunnel management by incorporating beneficial predators for the sustainable biological control of arthropod pests.

(F - 2) - Northeastern Region (aka NE - RIPM):

Grant panel deliberations have not been completed yet, so no such information is available yet.

(F - 3) - Southern Region (aka S - RIPM):

Reduce losses from mite-vectored virus diseases (MVVD) of wheat by providing growers with new information and techniques for site-specific IPM.

Determine the effect of generation, condition, and developmental host on life history characteristics of the kudzu bug, Megacopta cribraria; to determine what environmental, host quality, and/or physiological factors affect the kudzu bug dispersal in the spring and fall; and to investigate the potential emigration of M. cribraria into soybeans planted at various dates and their potential impact on yield.

To develop near and mid-term management strategies for Spotted winged drosophila with an emphasis on southeastern blueberry and caneberry systems.

Develop interactive computer based curricula, which will be used to train mosquito control workers in Integrated Mosquito Management (IMM). Provide mosquito control personnel throughout the Southern United States a more in depth and interactive training on IMM, mosquito biology, identification, and habitat recognition.

Increase Integrated Pest Management adoption and improve management, especially of bed bugs, in multifamily housing.

(F - 4) - Western Region (aka W - RIPM):

Facilitate the implementation and evaluate the results of a biocontrol effort targeting invasive fireweed, a highly damaging weed of pastures and open areas in Hawaii.

Develop an Integrated Pest Management program targeting insect pests found on green onion in aquaponic and wetland taro production.

Understanding on-farm development and application of Integrated Pest Management (IPM) systems and the social learning dynamics that result in regional adoption. Quantify the benefits of rangeland IPM for multiple-ecosystem services.

Develop new poultry pest management practices.

Investigate innovative techniques for reducing fire size and return interval in cheatgrass-invaded landscapes.

(I) New Technologies at Ag Extension:

2013 Milestones: These milestones are taken from the 2011 - 2014 eXtension Strategic Roadmap, which will guide the work of eXtension through 2013. They are grouped by action plans contained within the Roadmap.

User Focus: Redesign of eXtension.org site - building a new user interface to enhance the optimization of Communities of Practice and to add value overall to the work of Cooperative Extension. A primary goal is to increase discoverability, another is to increase the reach and demographic makeup of the site visitors (younger, more diverse... new audiences). The eXtension.org design will clearly reflect its association with Cooperative Extension.

The redesign will feature an enhanced content discovery front-end to promote CES and eXtension-related programs and resources.

To produce more original content, an emphasis will be placed on producing new research-based stories.

eXtension.org will serve as the gateway for all publicly intended content and services, i.e., learning modules, certification courses, subject matter articles/curriculum, Ask an Expert, professional development programs (LEARN), and more.

The redesign will enhance the way in which Community of Practice content and programs are represented and displayed to the public.

eXtension, as an initiative of the Cooperative Extension System, needs to be more fully integrated into the way in which the System represents itself to stakeholders, partners, and most importantly those we serve, i.e. the public. eXtension will work to better reflect eXtension as a critical part of Cooperative Extension mutually reinforcing both CES and eXtension branding, in concert with the Extension Brand Value Initiative to be launched January 2013.

Conduct an external review of eXtension responsive to ECOPs recommendations to address: 1) whether eXtension has been developed in accordance with strategic plans; 2) whether the current 2011-2014 eXtension Strategic Roadmap addresses the right strategies and activities moving forward; and 3) if not, why and what needs to be different.

To continue to guarantee access to eXtension through the public's increasing number of technology choices, additional emphasis will be placed on mobile and virtual world development:

Develop a large-scale (CES) mobile application(s) targeting knowledge management at the local level. The application will focus on eXtension content and programs that will cut across all Communities of Practice, while at the same time highlighting local Extension resources. A national team will be identified to develop program criteria and guide this work.

Ask an Expert 2.0 will be further optimized as a mobile application.

The eXtension Foundation as a non-profit organization is positioned to provide CES with a national mobile development framework. This framework creates an eXtension Foundation account with Apple/Android stores for adding/upgrading applications and establishes national guidelines for development, branding, services, and more.

Provide mobile application development expertise and guidance to Communities of Practice/Learning Networks. Attention will be given to developing a template that may be used to estimate cost, platform considerations (i.e., Apple, Android), application type, branding, standards, needs assessment, and more.

Establish Virtual 3D educational content and a user base in two or more emerging open source and/or browser-based virtual worlds (Open Simulator, Cloud Party, Jibe). This is the future of virtual worlds and the path to reaching the mainstream. This is an important innovation and we need to be prepared. Develop in-house capacity for development in advanced 3D content creation to foster learning in immersive learning environments. Launch three substantial virtual learning environments involving eXtension CoPs, university and other strategic partners (e.g. CDC and DoD). Publish a comprehensive guide to the use of virtual worlds as a teaching tool for Extension educators.

Content and Program Development: eXtension will continue its efforts to support and optimize Communities of Practice and form Learning Networks.

Leadership funding will be made available again in 2013. Criteria will ensure that ongoing financial support will be tied to CoP performance and need.

To identify resource strategies moving forward, a task force will be established to identify additional support strategies.

Conduct a call to identify another group of CoPs to optimize.

Continue to support the establishment and/or enhancement of CoPs through NIFA competitive grant programs.

Continue to coach CoPs to eliminate duplicated content and make their resources more discoverable.

Encourage CoPs to use new technologies to better engage and reach their audiences.

Explore new ways of offering and sharing CES non-formal education through new learning applications and models.

Establish a national task force to assess new models for course delivery, as well as develop alternative models for packaging and making available CES programs and services.

Launch the eXtension Moodle Community Hub to facilitate the enrollment in and exchange of courses and to encourage course sharing among all Moodle-using institutions in the Cooperative Extension System and its affiliates.

Become a member of the Open Courseware Consortium (www.ocwconsortium.org) and begin offering courses through that consortium.

Partnerships and Funding:

Continue to support and integrate eXtension into NIFA competitive grant programs including coordination of RFA language in cooperation with NPLs and program managers.

Pursue partnerships and funding support from non-USDA government departments and agencies.

Pursue partnerships and funding support from private foundations and corporations

Explore partnerships with health-related organizations such as the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) who have expressed interest in developing a new learning network around the national Lets Move program. Such programming could enhance the ECOP national health initiative.

Pursue funding opportunities related to eXtension lead technology areas such as the development of virtual world learning environments, AaE and Learn.

Shared Vision State & Local Value Enhancement

Continue to add new and foster the development of active Institutional Teams.

Identify and schedule a number of institutional visits to strengthen institutional teams, communicate with administrators, and refine local institutional plans of work.

Identify and implement training opportunities focused on working differently, technology, etc.

Conduct orientation for new CES directors and administrators as needed.

Transparency & Accountability

Produce the annual Return on Investment and Metrics/Critical Success Factors report.

Conduct usability studies of eXtension.org and all online products and services.

Evaluate the effectiveness of our State and Local Value Enhancement program.

Continue the eXtension Fellowship program. The program will focus on studying a particular aspect(s) of eXtension to learn about its effectiveness and how to improve it moving forward.

Military Families Partnership

Current and new funding will support new goals and objectives associated with financial management, family advocacy, child care and network literacy programming to assist military family service providers. Also, work will continue with DoD and USDA to explore the needs of the target audience and work toward meeting those needs.

Professional Development

Increase the number of professional development opportunities to Cooperative Extension educators and faculty.

Grow Learn (learn.extension.org) making it a national collaborative center of professional development programs and activities for Cooperative Extension and the public.

Continue collaboration and co-sponsorship of professional development educational offerings with the National Association of Extension Program and Staff Development Professionals.

Work with Network Literacy to support educational programs in various local settings.

Hold a National eXtension Conference featuring (3) quarterly virtual conferences on key topics, as well as a face to face meeting.

Continue to explore the use of new and innovative technologies and systems, and apply those that can improve problem solving and learning for CES customers. Such has been the case in the implementation of virtual conferences, network literacy, Ask an Expert, eXtensions Google apps suite, and more.

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk):

institutions in each state. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

(O) Renewable Resources Extension Act - National Focus Fund Projects (aka RREA-NFF):

The accomplishments for FY 2013 are expected to have national level impacts such as the impacts from the FY 2012 RREA NFF. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive):

In FY 2013 the Rural Health and Safety Education Program will focus on supporting two types of projects:

- A) Rural Health and Safety Education projects at state and regional levels.
- B) One project addressing National Common Measures for Rural Health and Safety Education projects.

FY 2013 proposals are due July 26th.

Virtual panel session is scheduled for early August, 2013.

No further data available at this time. Pertinent detail will be provided by Program at a future date.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program (aka Section 1447):

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development & RYD Grants Program):

It is anticipated FY 2013 funding will be awarded by August or September 2013. Therefore, there are no program results for 2013 at this time. However, similar results as reported above in FY 2012 would be anticipated.. Pertinent data to be provided by Program at a future date.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Program (aka RME & ARPA Program):

The 2013 competition netted sixty-four subawards which are currently in-process; 12 in the NE region, 16 in the NC region, 19 in the S region, and 17 in the W region. This will represent an investment of more $2.6M in regional Extension Risk Management Education. Additionally, the program sponsored the 2013 Extension Risk Management Education National Conference.

Special programming in 2013 includes training and technical assistance to Native American producers on the tax implications of the Keepseagle Settlement Payment.

(U) and (J) Combined - Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (CYFAR) and CYFAR - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

Note: Also see item # J above.

1. The Project uses the Choice, Control and Change Curriculum to help at-risk youth increase their positive personal health decisions with greater autonomy. To gain greater autonomy on their personal health decisions, the middle school youth learning and practice result from engaging in science, understanding their personal food systems, and community engagement activities. Beyond after-school and school enrichment opportunities, learning and practice occur out-of-school through summer camps and summer school gardening.

The sites have significantly increased local collaborations that provide more investment of time, care, and retention of program activities within the neighborhoods. Through collaborative efforts, strong connections are evident in the communities which have created a strong path to program sustainability.

Short-term results show that these youth do benefit from their participation in the project. For example, all participants (100% of 189) could identify grain products and eat them daily and the majority of participants (87%) know and apply basic food safety facts and practices, such as hand washing became almost habitual after three weeks of food preparation.

2. The after-school program that has been implemented at two community center sites located in low-income areas. The community centers are located in neighborhoods characterized by relatively high rates of poverty and crime, and these neighborhoods tend to have higher concentrations of ethnic minority residents than other areas of the city. During its first year, the program goals were to establish working garden sites for the children and to offer sufficient programming that children would begin to be certified as Junior Master Gardeners. To date, 18 children at one site and 21 at the other have earned JMG certification.

3. The program empowers teens to be their own advocates so that they gain skills and confidence in making life choices as they thrive to be positive contributing citizens within changing social and economic environments.

Teens were able to advance their leadership and service skills by assisting with the cleaning of their local civic center, participating in a food-drive, were they collected non-perishable items for a shelter of women who are victims of domestic violence, wrote thank you cards to US soldiers, and participated in a food drive. The teens also implemented several non-bullying vignettes, and created a video to share with other teens within the community. Each of these community service projects were instrumental in engaging teens and helping them to become more involved with the community in which they live.

4. For this after school program, youth reported substantial learning as a result of the program with strongest effects on improved critical thinking skills including decision making, problem solving, comparing ideas and keeping an open mind. Youth are able to participate in field trips to learn about the science based issues impacting their community and engaged in service projects to restore shoreline habitat. The families learned from their young citizen scientists about water conservation, water contamination and environmental stewardship.

5. The program reached over 100 adults and 200 youth involved with community and school gardens. A retrospective survey approach used to measure program impact; one hundred percent of families were successful in growing food for their families. They grew over 54 different types of fruits and vegetables and harvested an estimated 9,200 pounds of produce valued at approximately $18,418. As a result of the gardens 90% (26/29), said they spent less money on food and 87% (27/31) said they were better able to provide food for themselves. One gardener said The garden really helps us save money and eat healthier especially on a tight budget! and another claimed that it was definitely cheaper than buying in grocery store.

Health benefits of the program were evident as well. Ninety-four percent (29/31) of families said that members of their household ate more fruits and vegetables, 97% (30/31) said they ate fresher, less packaged foods, 93% (27/29) said they ate new kinds of foods and learned new and healthier ways to prepare garden produce, 93% (28/30) said they learned why certain fruits and vegetables are good for them, and 90% (26/29) said they were more physically active as a result of the garden.

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Professional Development and Technical Assistance (aka CYFAR-PDTA):

The panel review has not yet convened to evaluate applicants. Pertinent data will be provided by Program at a future date.

(W) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Programs:

NOTE: Farm Safety, Youth Safety Education and Certification and Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities: National AgrAbility Programs were combined in FY 2012.

AgrAbility program increases the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbility customers) become more successful. The program provides up to 4 years of funding to support cooperative projects in which State Cooperative Extension Services (CES) based at either 1862 or 1890 land-grant universities or the University of the District of Columbia subcontract to private, non-profit disability organizations. Measures of success may include improvements in customers financial stability or access to life activities and in the capacity of the states and regions to deliver services this population requires in a timely and satisfying manner.

To address the specialized needs of AgrAbility customers, the program builds service capacity on national, regional, state, and local levels through education and networking. In the absence of capacity, projects provide assistance to customers. The primary function of the National AgrAbility Project is to support the state and regional projects in developing their capacity to meet these objectives. AgrAbility Projects use marketing activities to direct the public to initiatives in these three priority areas, described below:

In FY2013, the program anticipates making 4 new awards and continuing support for 18 previously funded-projects.

Anticipated New Awards:

3 new AgrAbility awards (recommended for funding but awards not yet made);

1 Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification award (recommended for funding but the award not yet made).

FY 2013 Continuation Awards:

14 continuation awards to support 4th (final) year of State AgrAbility projects originally funded in FY 2010 (awards made);

3 continuation awards for the 3rd year of State AgrAbility projects originally funded in FY 2011 (awards not yet made);

1 continuation award for the 2nd year of the National AgrAbility Project, originally funded in FY 2012.

(X) Extension IPM Coordination and Support Program (aka IPM-CS):

One state based project will link the resources of three universities to advocate for the use of IPM in agronomic crops, specialty crops, diagnostics, housing, pesticide application and schools. The project will focus on small farms and underserved audiences.

The Illinois coordination project will address specialty crops, an underserved community, diagnostics, school IPM and wide area monitoring of high consequence pests.

Harnessing the Power of Narrative Animation for Urban IPM Outreach will use animated stories to teach about bed bug biology and prevention.

Developing educational material for vegetable producers on high consequence pests of crops: bagrada bug, kudzu bug, and European pepper moth will develop on-line learning modules for three new high consequence pests that threaten vegetable crop production.

One project will develop education for producers threatened by the new threat from spotted wing drosophila, a new fruit fly that attacks most soft skinned small fruits..

The unit will also work with extension agents in the Sustainability Program to establish and maintain school gardens for elementary and middle schools in the District of Columbia.

The Center for Sustainable Development will focus on economic, social, and environmental sustainability. For economic sustainability, the program will include: DC MarketMaker, Financial Literacy, Cooperatives, and Entrepreneurship. Social sustainability will include: Farmers' Market and housing Justice Program. Environmental sustainability will include: Master Gardeners Training and Certification; Jr. Master Gardeners; Water Quality Education Program; Community and School Gardens; Pesticide Education and Certification Program, Integrated Pest Management, and Renewable Energy and Energy Conservation program and Home Repair and Environmental Health Training Program. Fiscal Year 2014: (A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-grant Institutions (aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Formula Grants Program:

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and ENUT Formula Grants Program):

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All seventy-five 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed-behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: Lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Participant entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

OBJECTIVES:

Improve the nutrition levels of low-income households by ensuring access to nutritious, healthful diets through the provision of nutrition education and nutrition assistance through the issuance of monthly benefits for the purchase of food at authorized retailers.

The Healthy Initiatives Pilot (HIP) is investigating the impact of making fruits and vegetables more affordable for participants in SNAP. The Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 authorized funds for pilot projects to determine if financial incentives provided to SNAP recipients at the point-of-sale increase the consumption of targeted fruits and vegetables or other healthful foods. On the basis of this legislative authority, USDA designed HIP to promote the purchase and consumption of fruits and vegetables without added sugars, fats or oils.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS FOR A SPECIFIED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Households receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits for the purchase of food at authorized retailers and use an electronic benefit transfer (EBT) card, which operates like a debit card, to redeem benefits at authorized retailers. The amount of benefits varies according to household size, expenses, and income.

Under HIP, SNAP participants earn an incentive of 30 cents for every SNAP dollars they spend on targeted fruits and vegetables. The incentive is immediately credited to the household SNAP account and may then be spent on any SNAP-eligible foods and beverages. The incentive is capped at $60 per household per month. The pilot is being implemented by the Massachusetts Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA) in Hampden County, Massachusetts. Recipients may only purchase food with their benefits and only from authorized retailers.

Applicant Eligibility:

SNAP is a Federal program administered by the States. The State or U.S. Territory agency responsible for Federally aided public assistance programs submits requests for funding to USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applications for SNAP are made through a local social services agency which determines eligibility and benefit amount. Eligibility is based on household size, income, and expenses. Eligibility is also based on assets, citizenship or legal immigration status, and other factors. A gross income test is based on 130 percent of the poverty line, and the net income (after expenses) test is based on 100 percent of the poverty line. Households with elderly and disabled members need only meet the net income test. The resource limit is $2,000 ($3,250 for a household with an elderly or disabled member). A total of 43 States use broad-based categorical eligibility to align the resource limits and gross income limits with other mean tested programs. Able-bodied adults with certain limited exceptions must meet a work requirement.

Credentials/Documentation:

Eligibility is determined by local social service offices based on National eligibility standards. Households must provide verification of identity, income, and resources. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. The Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended, requires each State agency to submit to the Food and Nutrition Service for approval, a plan of operation specifying the manner in which SNAP will be conducted in every political subdivision within the State.

Award Procedure:

The Secretary of Agriculture approves State plans of operation submitted by the State agency that operates public assistance programs.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Full implementation of the Nationwide mandate was completed in fiscal year 1975, except for certain Indian reservations which continued in the Food Distribution Program.

Appeals:

Other - Not Specified.

Renewals:

Program continues once approved, unless there is a substantial failure to comply with regulations or withdrawal on the part of the State.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

This program has no matching requirements. Necessary, reasonable, and allowable administrative expenses by State agencies are reimbursed by the Federal government at approximately 50 percent.

Applicant Eligibility:

State and U.S. Territory agencies (except territories subject to the requirements to the Compact of Free Association); public and nonprofit private schools of high school grade and under; public and nonprofit private residential child care institutions, except Job Corps centers. All schools that participate must agree to serve free and reduced price meals to eligible children, and operate a nonprofit breakfast program that is available to all children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

All children attending schools where this program is operating may participate. Breakfast is served free to children who are determined by local education agencies to have household income levels at or below 130 percent, and at a reduced price to children from households with incomes higher than 130 but at or below 185 percent of the Federal poverty line, respectively. Meals served to non-needy children also get cash assistance. Such determinations are made in accordance with income eligibility guidelines prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture and cross reference household income with household size. The Secretary prescribes these income eligibility guidelines by July 1. The statistical source used in making such revisions is the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines.

Children from households certified to receive benefits through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations, or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, and children in Head Start programs are automatically eligible for free meals. Homeless children, children in certain runaway and homeless youth grant programs, migrant children, and foster children are automatically eligible for free meals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicant organizations must furnish evidence of nonprofit status. Costs will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Part 3015 or 3016 and 3019). OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Public schools in all States make application to the State education agency unless the State applies or is approved for a waiver to designate an alternate agency. Appropriate forms may be obtained from this agency. Nonprofit private schools should also apply to the State education agency in most States. In some States, however, the State education agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application will be referred to the alternate State agency or the appropriate Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) regional office.

Award Procedure:

When an application is approved, the school makes a written agreement with the appropriate agency.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Effective upon approval by the State Agency.

Appeals:

The State agency is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for cash assistance is set forth in section 4 of the Child Nutrition Act, 42 U.S.C. 1773, on a performance basis by: (1) multiplying the number of paid breakfasts served to eligible children during the fiscal year by a National Average Payment (NAP) prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture; (2) multiplying the number of breakfasts served free to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for free breakfasts; and, (3) multiplying the number of reduced price breakfasts served to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for reduced priced breakfasts. The amount of Federal funds given the grantee is the sum of the products obtained from these three computations.

Schools with a high percentage of needy may receive additional payments. The statistical factors used in this formula are: (1) The NAPs; (2) the number of paid breakfasts served; and (3) the number of breakfasts served free or at reduced price to eligible children. The NAPs are prescribed by the Secretary and adjusted each July 1, in accordance with the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. The source of this adjustment factor is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The source of the numbers of breakfasts served, including the number served free or at reduced price, is the monthly programmatic reports submitted to FNS.

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement on a fiscal year basis. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

State Agencies, schools, and institutions file monthly reports on the number of meals served, by type, to claim program funds. Schools and institutions must submit final meal claims to the State no later than 60 days after claiming month. States must submit final program reports to FNS no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. States must submit a final fiscal year grant closeout report to FNS no later than 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133.

Records:

Schools must maintain full and accurate records of their breakfast programs. Such records must be retained for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain, except that if audit findings have not been resolved, records must be retained beyond the 3-year period until audit findings have been resolved.

Homeless children, children in certain runaway and homeless youth grant programs, migrant children, and foster children are also automatically eligible for free meals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicant organizations must furnish evidence of nonprofit status. Costs will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Part 3015 or 3016 and 3019). OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

The application forms as furnished by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) or the State agency, as applicable, must be used for this program. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Appropriate forms may be obtained from this agency. Nonprofit private schools should also apply to the State educational agency in most States. In some States, however, the State educational agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application should be submitted to the alternate State agency or the appropriate FNS Regional Office.

Award Procedure:

The State agency reviews the written application of a school or a residential child care institution and, upon determination of eligibility, makes a written agreement with the school or institution for participation in the program.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Effective upon approval by the State agency.

Appeals:

The State agency is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for the general cash for food assistance phase of this program is set forth in section 4 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1753; the formula for special cash assistance is described in section 11 of the Act, 42 U.S.C.1759a. This program is funded on a performance basis. For every lunch served during the applicable fiscal year, the State receives a payment from funds made available under section 4. In addition, the State receives a payment from section 11 funds for each lunch served to a child eligible for free or reduced price lunches. The amounts of such per lunch payments are determined by "National Average Payment" (NAP) factors. The amount due the State under this program is obtained by: (1) multiplying the total number of eligible paid lunches and free and reduced price lunches served during the fiscal year by the section 4 NAP factor for lunches; (2) multiplying the number of free lunches served by the section 11 NAP factor for free lunches; (3) multiplying the number of lunches served at reduced price by the Section 11 NAP factor for reduced price lunches; (4) multiplying the total number of lunches served during the fiscal year in school food authorities which served 60 percent or more free or reduced price lunches in the second preceding school year by $.02; and (5) adding together the four products obtained thereby. The NAP factors are prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with sections 4 and 11, respectively, of the Act; the numbers of lunches are obtained from programmatic reports submitted to FNS. In addition to the NAP factors, lunches certified as meeting updated meal patterns and nutrition standards receive an additional 6 cents in reimbursement. The funding formula for snacks in after school care programs is described in section 17A of the Act, 42, U.S.C. 1766a. Section 11(a)(3) of the Act requires that the NAP factors be adjusted annually, according to changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers; the source is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Each State must appropriate from State revenues and use, for program purposes, an amount equal to 30 percent of the section 4 funds made available to the State in the 1980-81 school year. Also, commodity schools are eligible to receive donated commodities equal in value to the sum of section 6 and section 4 assistance rates, except that up to 5 cents of this amount may be received in cash for processing and handling commodities. In addition, commodity schools are eligible for section 11 free and reduced price meal reimbursements.

This program has no matching requirements.

This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide subsidies to schools and institutions to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available to State agencies to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children in public and private nonprofit schools of high school grade and under, public and private nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar nonprofit institutions devoted to the care and training of children, except Job Corps centers, provided that these schools and institutions do not participate in a meal service program authorized under the National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. The Child Nutrition Amendments of 1986 expanded eligibility to include children in split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs in nonprofit schools and institutions that do not have access to the Federal meal service program operating in schools the children attend. Disbursement to States is made on the basis of the number of half-pints of milk served to non-needy children, using a reimbursement rate specified by law. Milk served free to eligible needy children is reimbursed at the average cost of a half-pint of milk. Please refer to regulations: 7 CFR Part 215 -- Special Milk Program; 7 CFR Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense; 7 CFR Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

Public and nonprofit private school of high school grade or under, and public and private nonprofit residential and nonresidential child care institutions, except Job Corps centers, may participate in this program upon request if they do not participate in a meal service program authorized under the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. This generally includes nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses and summer camps. Schools with split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs can receive subsidies for milk served to children in the split session kindergartens and pre-kindergartens that do not have access to another meal service program operating in the school. All schools and child care institutions that participate must agree to operate this program on a nonprofit basis for all children without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, age or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

All children enrolled in participating schools and institutions who do not have access to other Child Nutrition Programs, may participate in this program.

The reimbursement rate for each paid half-pint of milk served to children is adjusted each school year to correspond to the change in the Producer Price Index for Fluid Milk Products published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The statistical factor used for beneficiary eligibility for free milk is 130 percent of the poverty line and the source is the Federal income poverty guidelines. The cost of milk in excess of the Federal reimbursement must be borne by sources within the States (7 CFR Part 215). Disbursement to States is based on the number of half-pints served to children.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

OBJECTIVES:

To provide low-income pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children to age five who have been determined to be at nutritional risk, supplemental nutritious foods, nutrition education, and referrals to health and social services at no cost. WIC also promotes breastfeeding as the feeding method of choice for infants, provides substance abuse education and promotes immunization and other aspects of healthy living.

The Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) makes funds available to participating State health agencies and Indian Tribal Organizations (ITOs) that, in turn, distribute the funds to participating local agencies. They must also reside in the State in which benefits are received.

Credentials/Documentation:

Individuals are certified as meeting an income standard, or as participating in certain other means-tested Federal programs. Certification regarding nutritional need for supplemental foods is determined by local level professionals. As of April 1999, all State agencies were using uniform criteria to determine nutrition risk. Costs are determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. The State designated official responsible for ensuring that the program is operated in accordance with program requirements must sign the State Plan and Federal-State Agreement pursuant to program regulations. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." Individual participants apply for WIC benefits at an approved local agency. State agencies must submit required documentation to FNS.

Award Procedure:

WIC Program funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies for distribution to approved local agencies subject to available funds.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Approval determination for the WIC Program is made within 30 days of submission of a completed plan or amendment.

Appeals:

For the WIC Program, local agency or food vendor appeals: The State agency provides a hearing appeal procedure for a food vendor or local agency adversely affected by certain State or local agency actions. The adverse action may be postponed until a hearing decision is reached. Participant appeals: The State agency provides a hearing appeal procedure for any individual that receives a State or local agency action that results in a claim for repayment of the cash value of improperly issued benefits, denial of participation, or disqualification from the WIC Program.

Renewals:

The WIC program is authorized through September 30, 2015; it presently operates under the authority of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 7, Part 246, Public Law Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended. Grants are allocated on the basis of formulas determined by the Department of Agriculture which allocate funds for food benefits, nutrition services and administration costs.

10.558 CHILD AND ADULT CARE FOOD PROGRAM

CACFP

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, Sections 9, 11, 14, 16 and 17, as amended, 89 Stat. 522-525, 42 U.S.C. 1758, 1759a, 1762a, 1765 and 1766.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States, through grants-in-aid and other means, to initiate and maintain nonprofit food service programs for children and elderly or impaired adults enrolled in nonresidential day care facilities, children attending afterschool care programs in low-income areas, and children residing in emergency shelters. This program provides aid to child and adult care institutions and day care homes for the provision of nutritious foods that contribute to the wellness, healthy growth, and development of young children, and the health and wellness of older adults and chronically impaired disabled persons.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible institutions to reimburse their costs in providing meals and snacks to children and adults enrolled in nonresidential day care, children attending afterschool care programs, and children residing in emergency shelters. Disbursement is made on the basis of the number of breakfasts, lunches, suppers, and snacks served, using annually adjusted reimbursement rates specified by law. This program allows reimbursement for up to two meals and one snack served each day to children through the age of 12, children of migrant workers through the age of 15, and persons with disabilities, in child care centers and day care homes. Adult day care centers receive reimbursement for up to three meals served each day to enrolled adults who are functionally impaired or age 60 and older. This program also provides reimbursement to emergency shelters for up to three meals served each day to residents age 18 and younger. In at-risk afterschool care programs, reimbursement is available for one snack and an additional meal served each day, during the regular school year, to children through the age of 18. All program meals must meet the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to States for administrative expenses related to program staffing and oversight.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each institution that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Institutions must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children and adult participants regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Approved institutions providing nonresidential day care services may participate in this program. Eligible public and nonprofit private organizations may include day care centers, outside-school-hours care centers, settlement houses, family and group day care homes, Head Start programs, and institutions providing day care services to children with disabilities. Private for-profit centers may also participate if at least 25 percent of the children in care (enrolled or licensed capacity, whichever is less) are eligible for free or reduced price school meals or receive benefits under Title XX of the Social Security Act. Also eligible for participation are nonprofit centers which provide nonresidential adult day care, and private for-profit centers if the center receives compensation under Title XIX of the Social Security Act or Title XX, and at least 25 percent of the adults enrolled in the center receive benefits under Title XIX, Title XX, or a combination of both. Emergency shelters which provide shelter and meals to children experiencing homelessness, and at-risk after school care programs in low-income areas are also eligible. Any eligible institution may participate in this program upon request with State agency approval.

Credentials/Documentation:

The allowability of costs incurred by States in administering this program will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019). Applicants that are not public or proprietary institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process required by the State. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Institutions apply to the responsible State agency. This program is subject to the provisions of USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019).

Award Procedure:

When the application is approved, the institution signs an agreement with the administering agency.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The State agency must make a decision within 30 calendar days of receiving a complete application from the institution.

Appeals:

The administering agency must provide a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Section 17(b) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1766, describes the funding formula for cash assistance. Program funds are provided to the States through letters of credit. The States, in turn, use the funds to reimburse institutions for costs of food service operations and to support State administrative expenses. Appropriate rates of reimbursement, multiplied by the number of meals served to enrolled participants, represent the basic program payment that an institution receives for each meal served. The assigned rates of reimbursement are adjusted annually on July 1. For child care centers, adult day care centers, emergency shelters, and at-risk after school care programs, the annual adjustment reflects changes in the Food Away from Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. For day care homes, the adjustment reflects changes in the Food at Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Donated foods or cash in lieu of donated foods are also made available. Program payments to child care or adult day care centers depend on the number and types of meals served to enrolled participants, multiplied by the appropriate rate of reimbursement. Rates for meals served to enrolled children and eligible adults in day care centers are determined by the participants' eligibility for free, reduced price, or paid meals using USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines. All resident children age 18 and younger in eligible emergency shelters receive free meals without application. At-risk after school care programs, which must be located in low-income areas, are reimbursed at the free rate for all meals and snacks served to children through age 18. Sponsoring organizations of day care homes are reimbursed at a national administrative rate based on the number of homes they operate. The level of reimbursement for meals served to enrolled children in day care homes is determined by economic need based on either the location of the day care home, the income of the day care provider, or the income of an individual child's household. Meals served in day care homes to the provider's own children are reimbursable only if those children are determined eligible for free and reduced price meals, and at least one other nonresident child is participating in the meal service. The reimbursement for food service is passed on by the sponsoring organization to the day care facility. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

Institutions file monthly reports on program operations to claim reimbursement for meals served. They must submit final meal claims no later than 60 days after the claiming month. States must then submit final program reports to the Food and Nutrition Service no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. No expenditure reports are required. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133. For-profit institutions are subject to audit by their administering State agencies.

Records:

Institutions must maintain full and accurate records of program operations for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. However, where there are unresolved audit findings, records must be retained until there is satisfactory resolution of all audit issues.

10.559 SUMMER FOOD SERVICE PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN

SFSP

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, Sections 9, 13 and 14, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1758, 1761 and 1762a.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States, through grants-in-aid and other means, to conduct nonprofit food service programs for children. This program operates in partnership with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), State agencies, and local organizations to provide free meals to eligible children during the summer months and at other approved times, when school is not in session.

In addition there are discretionary grant initiatives supporting this program. The methods being tested through these demonstrations are: extending length of operation, additional funding for enrichment activities, meal delivery, weekend food backpacks, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) electronic benefit delivery system, and Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) electronic benefit delivery system.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible service institutions (sponsors) which provide free meals to children in areas where at least 50 percent of the children meet the income eligibility criteria for free and reduced price meals. Meals may be served to children 18 and younger, and to individuals over 18 who participate in State-approved school programs for persons with disabilities.

This program generally operates during the months of May through September at site locations where regularly scheduled food services are provided for children. Sites may also participate in this program from September through May if an area school is closed because of an emergency situation. Sponsors operating food programs for children on school vacation under a continuous year-round calendar may apply for participation in other months.

Reimbursement may be paid for one meal and one snack or two meals per child each day. Camps and sites primarily serving children of migrant workers may be approved to serve up to three reimbursable meals each day. Meals must meet USDA standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to participating State agencies for administrative expenses related to program staffing, operation, and oversight.

Summer demonstration projects either address funding limitations that restrict participation or provide an alternate approach to summer feeding needed by children unable to access traditional congregate feeding sites. Assistance must be used for specific activities authorized by Child Nutrition legislation. There may be restrictions as required by the legislation.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each sponsor that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Sponsors must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A service institution that conducts a regularly scheduled program for children from areas in which poor economic conditions exist is eligible to participate as a sponsor in this program. Sponsors include public or private nonprofit school food authorities; public or private nonprofit colleges or universities operating the National Youth Sports Program during the months of May to September; units of local, municipal, county, or State governments; and other faith or community-based private nonprofit organizations.

Public or private nonprofit residential or nonresidential summer camps may also participate. However, at camps, reimbursement will only be paid for meals served to enrolled children who are individually determined to be eligible for free and reduced price school meals under USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines.

Credentials/Documentation:

The allowability of costs incurred by States in administering this program will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019). OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Service institutions may apply directly to the responsible State agency. Applicants that are not public institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. This program is subject to the provisions of USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019).

Award Procedure:

When an application is approved, the sponsor signs an agreement with the administering agency.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The State agency must make a decision within 30 calendar days of receiving a complete and correct sponsor application. If an incorrect application is received, the State agency must notify the applicant within 15 days and provide technical assistance to complete the application.

Appeals:

The State agency must have a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Sections 13(b) and (k) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1761, describe the funding formulas for cash assistance. Cash reimbursement to States under this program is the product obtained by multiplying the number of meals served by maximum rates of reimbursement established by USDA. State agencies use the cash assistance to reimburse sponsors for eligible meals served to eligible children. Since all meals are served free, all meals of the same type are funded at the same rate. Rates are adjusted annually on January 1, to reflect changes in the "Food Away from Home" series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular A-133.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Section 7(a) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1776, describes the funding formula for cash assistance. For the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program, and Special Milk Program, funds are allocated on the basis of an amount equal to one percent of the total funds used in the State for these programs during the second preceding year based on FNS program and fiscal data. However, no State receives less than $200,000 or the amount it received in fiscal year 1981, whichever is larger. For the Child and Adult Care Food Program, a sliding grant is made based on FNS program and fiscal data. In addition, the Secretary of Agriculture has discretionary authority to provide funds to States for program improvement, based on FNS program and fiscal data. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. Any reduction of funds from State sources below the fiscal year 1977 level will result in a withdrawal of Federal funds under this grant.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Funding is provided each fiscal year during the period covered by the agreement. A State agency may carry over up to twenty percent of SAE funds allocated to it for obligation and expenditure during the succeeding fiscal year. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in Circular No. A-133.

Records:

Each State agency keeps records on administrative expenses conforming with the applicable SAE plan and maintains current accounting records of SAE funds that identify fund authorizations, obligations, unobligated balances, assets, liabilities, outlays, and income.

10.572 WIC FARMERS' MARKET NUTRITION PROGRAM (FMNP)

WIC Farmers' Market, or FMNP

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 106 Stat. 281; Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17(m), 42 U.S.C. 1786.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide fresh, nutritious, unprepared, locally grown fruits and vegetables from farmers markets to women, infants, and children who participate in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC); and to expand the awareness and use of farmers' markets and increase sales at such markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are made to State health, agriculture and other agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils or groups recognized by the Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program.

Applicant Eligibility:

All State agencies that desire to receive a FMNP grant must submit, for each Federal fiscal year, a State Plan to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), USDA. New State agencies are selected based on the availability of funds after base grants for currently participating State agencies are funded. Local FMNP sites are selected by participating State agencies based on concentration of eligible WIC participants and access to farmers' markets.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

WIC participants (i.e., pregnant, postpartum or breastfeeding women; infants over 4 months of age; and children up to 5 years of age) and (at the State's discretion) those who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits are eligible to receive FMNP coupons. State agencies may also designate subcategories of WIC participants, e.g., pregnant and breastfeeding women only, to be FMNP recipients.

Credentials/Documentation:

A signed and executed Federal/State Agreement (FNS-339) is necessary before funds can be allocated to a participating FMNP State agency. Costs will be determined in accordance with 7 CFR Part 3016, and FNS guidelines and instructions. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Application is made through submission of a "State Plan of Program Operation and Administration" as required by law. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Farmers or farmers' markets (depending on whether State agencies have agreements with farmers or markets) located in communities with WIC Program sites may apply to be authorized to accept FMNP coupons under the program. The State agency reviews the applications for completeness and compliance with authorization requirements. The State agency contacts the farmer/farmers' market to inform them of qualification. Individual participants apply for FMNP benefits at approved local WIC agencies.

Award Procedure:

Funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies. If the available funds are insufficient to meet the base grant levels for current FMNP grantees, a pro-rata reduction will be applied to the grant levels awarded to all participating FMNP State agencies. If additional funds become available for the FMNP, such funds would first be distributed evenly among the current grantees to make whole their base grants for that fiscal year. Grant payments are made by a letter of credit.

Deadlines:

Nov 15, 2013 FMNP State Plans for the current fiscal year are due to the appropriate FNS Regional office by November 15.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

As required by law (at Section 1786(m)(6)(A) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended), the Secretary must inform each FMNP State agency of the award of funds by February 15 of each year.

Appeals:

All decisions by the FNS are final.

Renewals:

This Program is authorized through September 30, 2015.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Statutory formula can be found at Section 17(m)(3) of the Child Nutrition Act. As a prerequisite to the receipt of Federal funds, a State agency must agree to contribute program income or State, local or private funds equal to at least 30 percent of its administrative program cost. Provided that sufficient funds are available, each current State agency will be funded at its most recent year's level. Remaining funds are divided between current States for expansion and new States, based on a 75 to 25 percent ratio, respectively. Matching Requirements: Percent: 30%. As a prerequisite to the receipt of Federal funds, a State agency must agree to contribute program income or State, local or private funds equal to at least 30 percent of its administrative program cost. Indian Tribal Organizations may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. State contributions for similar programs may satisfy the State matching requirement. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Team Nutrition Training Grants for Healthy School Meals have been identified in USDA's national Strategic Plan for Training and Technical Assistance as one of the anchor delivery systems for supporting the implementation of USDA's nutrition requirements and the Dietary Guidelines for Americans in Child Nutrition programs. Team Nutrition's (TN) goal is to improve children's lifelong eating and physical activity habits by using the principles of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the USDA Food Guidance System.

TN Training Grants offer funding to State agencies to establish or enhance sustainable infrastructures for implementing TN's three behavior-focused strategies: (1) provide training and technical assistance to child nutrition food service professionals to enable them to prepare and serve nutritious meals that appeal to students; (2) promote nutrition curriculum and education in schools through multiple communication channels (i.e., food services initiatives, classroom activities, school wide events, home activities, community programs and events, and media events and coverage) to reinforce positive nutrition messages and encourage students to make healthy food and physical activity choices as part of a healthy lifestyle; and (3) build school and community support for creating healthy school environments that are conducive to healthy eating and physical activity.

The HealthierUS School Challenge (HUSSC) is a voluntary certification initiative established to recognize those schools participating in the National School Lunch Program that have created healthier school environments through promotion of nutrition and physical activity.

These projects were originally funded through a competitive process using WIC technology or American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funds. Many WIC State agencies received only partial funding in their original grant award and amendments provide the additional funds needed to ensure all activities are completed and projects are successful.

2. WIC EBT Implementation (non-competitive). Implementation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies to enhance and modify current management information systems to support EBT, conduct cost evaluations, and develop retailer management plans.

3. WIC State Agency Model (SAM) Amendments (non-competitive). Grant funds for WIC SAM amendments are provided to support WIC State agencies that are either part of the original SAM consortia, or those that need additional funding to complete implementation of a SAM transfer system. These funds are used by WIC State agencies for implementation completion as well as system enhancements through the SAM user group process.

4. WIC EBT Planning Grants (non-competitive). EBT Planning grants funds are provided to WIC State agencies to assess the feasibility of EBT for their State, as well as to perform a cost analysis to verify EBT affordability. The planning process is a WIC requirement prior to EBT implementation and looks at WIC Information System capabilities, retailer capabilities, and baseline paper cost compared to EBT operational cost within the State to better prepare for the challenges of EBT implementation. WIC State agencies must analyze both on-line and off-line EBT technologies to assess the most cost-effective solution.

5. WIC Technical Innovation Grants (competitive). WIC Technical Innovation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies for the development of standardized reporting, retailer certification test scripts, and development of a web-based Internet system that will allow WIC participants to access grocer's websites, select WIC approved foods and purchase them with their EBT card from the convenience of their homes.

6. WIC SAM Transfers Grants (non-competitive). SAM Transfer grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies that have completed their planning activities, and have an approved Alternatives Analysis document that justifies a SAM as their choice of system transfer. Funds are used for implementation activities.

7. WIC MIS Amendments (non-competitive). Grant funds for WIC MIS amendments are provided to support WIC State agencies that have already received grant funding for their MIS projects. This includes planning for and transferring of an existing system, or developing a new system.

8. WIC MIS Implementation (non-competitive). WIC MIS Implementation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies that are implementing a new MIS, or are upgrading/enhancing their current MIS. Activities included are design and development, testing, training and data conversion.

9. WIC MIS Planning (non-competitive). WIC MIS Planning grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies to assess their current system, complete a feasibility study and cost analysis as well as prepare a Request for Proposal for an implementation contractor.

To provide grants to WIC State agencies that improve and/or enhance nutrition services of the WIC program. WIC awards State agencies the following grants:

among WIC participants. The Food and Nutrition Services long-range vision is to institutionalize peer counseling as a core service in WIC.

Res. 302 (102nd Congress), Public Law 102-PIL 110-246, 8701 U.S.C 4405.

OBJECTIVES:

As defined in the H.Con.Res. 302(102nd Congress), the 14 goals of the Hunger-Free Communities initiative are:

1. Having a community-based emergency food delivery network that coordinates the services of programs such as food pantries, food banks, and congregate meals facilities.
2. Assessing food insecurity problems and evaluating existing services in the community to determine necessary strategies for responding to unmet needs.
3. Establishing a group of individuals, including low-income participants, to develop and to implement policies and programs to combat food insecurity, to monitor responsiveness of existing services, and to address underlying causes and factors related to hunger.
4. Participating in federally assisted nutrition programs that should be easily accessible to targeted populations, such as the Federal programs that provide school breakfast, school lunch, summer food, child care food, and food for homeless and older individuals.
5. Effectively integrating public and private resources, including local businesses, to alleviate food insecurity.
6. Having an education program about food needs of the community and the need for increased local citizen participation in activities to alleviate food insecurity.
7. Having available information and referral services for accessing both public and private programs and services.
8. Having initiatives for alleviating food shopping constraints through the development of creative food resources such as community gardens, buying clubs, food cooperatives, community-owned and operated grocery stores, and farmers' markets.
9. Carrying out activities to identify and target food services to high-risk populations.
10. Having adequate transport and distribution of food from all resources.
11. Coordinating food services with park and recreation programs and other community-based outlets to which residents of the area would have easy access.
12. Improving public transportation, human service agencies, and food resources.
13. Having nutrition education programs for low-income citizens to enhance good food-purchasing and food-preparation skills and to heighten awareness of the connection between diet and health.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: Centro del Obrero Fronterizo received funds and launched the Mercado Mayapan Farmers Market in El Paso, TX. The market engaged 26 local farmers and greatly increased produce items at the SNAP-friendly market. A culturally relevant nutrition education was created and administered to the diverse population. It centered on the history and benefits of a traditional Mesoamerican diet.

North County Community Services in San Diego partnered with the Institute of Public Health at San Diego State University. A hunger resource guide was developed as well as a map of food service access points. A food policy council was created for the community whose efforts produced a 7-point action plan to end hunger for the county. Fiscal Year 2013: The Poughkeepsie Farm Project in Poughkeepsie, New York focused on an assessment of the level of food insecurity within the county. Statistically random surveys were conducted to households measuring food security, food access, and food preferences. The Poughkeepsie Plenty Food Coalition was established as the community food policy council. The efforts of the council produced a comprehensive plan for a hunger-free city titled A Just and Vibrant Food City.

The United Way of New York City coordinated an emergency food network, assessed food insecurity within the city, increased participation in federal nutrition assistance programs, integrated public and private resources, increased public awareness of food needs, and increased accessibility of information and referral services for public and private resources. One of the numerous efforts through this project focused on senior outreach. 50,000 seniors were effectively reached and connected to important federal and community resources. Fiscal Year 2014: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Applications that meet the screening requirements will be referred to an appropriate technical review panel. Each panel member will rank the applications assigned to them by score from highest to lowest. Applications are scored based on the defined community's need for the project, a comprehensive project design, organizational capacity for successfully completing the project combined with strong community partnerships, and budget criteria.

The selection official will consider each panel's recommendations; however he or she may consider other USDA or FNS priorities such as geographic, demographic or socioeconomic diversity, and agency priorities in addition to the scores assigned by the technical review panels. The selection official may also determine that, based on their scores, few of the applications are of technical merit. In such a case, FNS may make fewer awards or smaller awards than expected or make no awards. In addition, FNS reserves the option to select one or more lower rated applications in order to achieve a diversity of projects and regional representation.

WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, WIC Periconceptual Grant

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C. 3102, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C 3102.

OBJECTIVES:

These awards enable Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to enter into grants and cooperative agreements with States and local governments, universities, hospitals and non-profit organizations to identify, develop, and undertake projects to meet FNS program needs and the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants. The grantees and recipients are expected to work cooperatively with FNS to:

- Support researcher-initiated projects that use a common approach to reporting findings to ensure transparency and facilitate a meta-analysis of all projects;
- Coordinate activities among researchers;
- Effectively use technology and digital media to achieve desired outcomes; and
- Advance communication and coordination to improve target behaviors.

The grants and cooperative agreements plan to enable FNS to be more responsive to program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of FNS program participants.

The objective of the WIC Periconceptual Grant is to establish a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate the impacts of WIC on periconceptual nutrition. FNS focus for this project is the direct and indirect effects of WIC participation by one or more family members during the periconceptual period and the implications for service delivery. During the periconceptual period the time period immediately prior to conception and in the first few days and weeks following conception nutrition can impact placental and embryonic development with critical lifelong implications. This project supports a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate WIC impacts on periconceptual nutrition, coordinate activities among researchers, and widely disseminate findings from current research.

The WIC Nutrition Educations Innovations' Grant's objective is to enhance the effort to identify, develop, evaluate and disseminate innovative and effective WIC nutrition education interventions. This is to be accomplished by providing grant funding for a university-based center with this charge, including a program of sub-grants to support development and evaluation of WIC-focused researcher-initiated innovations from researchers across the nation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For both the WIC Periconceptional Grant and the WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, the following uses and use restrictions apply:

Cooperative Agreement Grants will be made to State and local governments, universities, hospitals, and non-profit organizations for awarding cooperative agreements, and grants to design, develop and evaluate innovative approaches for Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) programs, such as WIC, to meet FNS program needs and to strengthen their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grant and cooperative agreement recipient is task with:

- making sub-grants,
- coordinating efforts among sub-grantees,
- evaluating impact of FNS programs, such as WIC, on food, nutrition and health,
- providing a summary and syntheses of these and related efforts, such as meta-analysis on the results,
- composing and coordinating conference on observations and findings, and
- providing FNS with cost neutral approaches to improving FNS programs.

FNS' primary objective for these grants and cooperative agreements is to support interest in exploring better ways to improve and assess Food and Nutrition Service program needs and their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grants should enhance knowledge and further research activities by the academic community, FNS and others. See the RFP. The grant and cooperative agreement funds are provided to recipients (grantees) responsible to spend the funds in accordance with what is set forth in the grant or cooperative agreement, and applicable Federal circulars such as A-110. The source and use of the funds for the grants and cooperative agreements will be tied to a project of interest to one or more of FNS' program areas. FNS has the discretion to select (through competition) what institution will receive the funds and to what research endeavors they will be applied, assuming that research is not specified in the law or other directive.

Applicant Eligibility:

The grant is to be used to establish grants and cooperative agreements to identify, develop and undertake projects to meet Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of program eligible participants.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Cooperative agreements are awarded to State and local governments, hospitals, non-profit organizations and accredited colleges/universities offering advanced degrees at the PhD level in biological and social sciences such as sociology, psychology, education, nutrition, public health and economics. This is a requirement for the selected recipient of the grants and cooperative agreements, not the sub-grantees. Cooperative agreement recipients are to award sub-grants to researchers to identify, develop, and evaluate interventions and innovative approaches to strengthen the impact of Food and Nutrition Service programs, such as WIC, on the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants.

10.588 ASSESSMENT OF ALTERNATIVES TO FACE-TO-FACE INTERVIEWS IN SNAP

Assessment of Face-to-Face Interviews

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Food Stamp Act of 2008 , Section 17 (a)(1).

OBJECTIVES:

To examine how/if eliminating the client interview for SNAP benefits affects administration of the SNAP program and client outcomes.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Assistance shall be used to defray the cost for the states to implement the demonstrations and participate in the evaluation of the demonstrations.

Applicant Eligibility:

Allowable use of funds includes, but is not limited to, personnel costs; office and research supplies; travel for data collection; and technology (both hardware and software) necessary for operating the Cooperative Agreement.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

This project will be beneficial to both state and local SNAP offices, as it will inform them of how eliminating the face-to-face interview for SNAP applicants affects the administration of the program. The clients, in turn, will benefit from the project because the findings of the study will be used by the state and local offices to improve their administration of the program.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Applicants will submit their response to the RFA through grants.gov. FNS will prescreen all applications to ensure that they contain the required documents and information. If an application does not include all appropriate information, FNS will consider the application to be non-responsive and will eliminate it from further evaluation.

Following the initial screening process, FNS will assemble a panel to review and determine the technical merits of each application based on how it addresses the required application components. The panel will award the grants to applicants whose application best demonstrates the capacity to implement and operate the pilots. Preference will be given to those applications that address all of the criteria completely, explain in detail how the pilot will be designed and implemented, and show capacity and willingness to cooperate fully with the data collection and evaluation. In addition, the applications that best detail a process for collecting the necessary information from clients to verify cases with minimal contact under the no interview model will merit higher scores. Additional points will also be given to states applying for the regular evaluation but have the capacity to conduct more than the minimum suggested QC-like reviews at the pilot site.

The selection official will consider the panels recommendations. The selection official may consider other FNS priorities, such as geographic, demographic, socioeconomic diversity or size of QC sample in addition to the scores assigned by the technical review panel. FNS reserves the option to select one or more lower-rated applications in order to achieve a diversity of projects and regional representation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Formula Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

USDA Foods provided under this CFDA number are intended to be used to help replace foods that were diverted for Hurricane Sandy relief. USDA Foods can only be used to provide food assistance to needy persons, and may be provided for household consumption or for congregate feeding.

Applicant Eligibility:

State agencies that are designated as distributing agencies by the Governor or other appropriate State executive authority may receive and distribute USDA Foods. States can distribute these foods to eligible recipient agencies, such as food banks, food pantries, soup kitchens, and other eligible agencies, including faith-based organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Low-income and needy individuals impacted by Hurricane Sandy, including persons that are homeless, unemployed, underemployed, or receiving public assistance. The State agency must establish income based eligibility criteria to ensure the USDA Foods are provided to the low-income persons. Persons interesting in receiving TEFAP foods should contact their State agency (<http://www.fns.usda.gov/fdd/contacts/SdaContacts.htm>) for more information on how to access the program.

Credentials/Documentation:

Low-income individuals receiving USDA Foods for home consumption must establish eligibility to participate in the program on the basis of State eligibility standards. All individuals seeking food assistance at sites which serve prepared meals are presumed to be eligible to receive meals. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

All States are eligible to participate; the State does not need to complete an application.

Award Procedure:

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Allocations will only be made to applicants that present the best opportunity for developing or expanding export markets for U.S. agricultural commodities. In assessing the applicant, the following factors are considered: (1) effectiveness of program management; (2) soundness of accounting procedures; (3) the nature of the organization; (4) prior export promotion or direct export experience; (5) previous MAP funding and performance; (6) adequacy of the applicant's strategic plan; (7) past and present contribution levels; (8) export goals; and the (9) accuracy of past projected export goals. 10.602 CCC'S DAIRY EXPORT INCENTIVE PROGRAM

The DEIP Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990; the Uruguay Round Agreement Act of 1995; and the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996., Title 7, Part CFR, Section 1494.

OBJECTIVES:

The major objective of the program is to develop export markets for dairy products where U.S. products are not price competitive and thereby, make sales in targeted overseas markets for the purpose of market development or where competitor countries are making subsidized sales.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Dairy Export Incentive Program helps exporters of US dairy products meet prevailing world prices for targeted dairy products and destinations. Under the program, the US Department of Agriculture pays cash to exporters as bonuses, allowing them to sell certain US dairy products at prices lower than the exporter's costs of acquiring them.

Applicant Eligibility:

All sales under the DEIP are made by the private sector, not the U.S. government. An invitation for offers issued by USDA may be one of two types: those inviting exporters to submit a competitive offer for a bonus, and those inviting exporters to apply for an announced bonus. Once an invitation for offers is issued, it is up to agricultural exporters to contact prospective buyers in eligible countries and negotiate a sales contract covering price, quantity, quality, delivery, and other terms. The sale may be contingent on USDA approval of a bonus. Each prospective exporter submits an offer to USDA requesting a bonus that would allow the sale to take place at the agreed price. Under an invitation for competitive offers, USDA reviews all bids for the competitiveness of the bonus value requested and compares the bids with offers from other U.S. exporters and with sales of competitor countries. Under an announced bonus, compliant offers meeting all program requirements are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. USDA has the right to reject any or all bids.

Once USDA accepts a bid, the exporter and USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) enter into an agreement. USDA notifies exporters submitting offers of the acceptance or rejection of their offers by 10 a.m. Eastern U.S. time the next business day after the date the offers were submitted for consideration. USDA also makes the information available in a program announcement on the FAS Web site.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Who Benefits

The DEIP, administered by USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), helps U.S. agricultural producers, processors, and exporters gain access to foreign markets.

Eligible Products

Commodities eligible under DEIP initiatives are milk powder, butterfat, and various cheeses.

Participation

An exporter interested in participating in the DEIP must provide specific information.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110.

Award Procedure:

Receiving the Bonus: The bonus is paid to the U.S. exporter in cash. The CCC determines the bonus payment by multiplying the bonus specified in the agreement by the net quantity of the commodity exported. Once an exporter furnishes USDA with evidence that the specified commodity has been exported to the target destination under the terms of the agreement, the exporter can request payment of the bonus.

OBJECTIVES:

The primary objective of the Emerging Markets Program is to promote, enhance or expand the exports of U.S. agricultural commodities to overseas emerging markets through cost-share assistance to eligible organizations that implement an Emerging Markets Program. The program supports the activities of U.S. agricultural and agribusiness firms--particularly those that may need assistance in obtaining or maintaining access in overseas markets. The agreement creates a cooperative relationship between CCC and the implementor with each side contributing resources to support achievement of mutual goals. Program funds help finance activities such as feasibility studies, market research, sectorial assessments, orientation visits, specialized training, and business workshops. The Program is not intended for projects targeted at end-user consumers. Ineligible activities include in-store promotions, restaurant promotions, branded product promotions, administrative and operational expenses for trade shows and advertising, except in connection with specific technical assistance activities such as training seminars.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applicants must be a: (1) U. S. agricultural or agribusiness organization -- nonprofit, trade association, university, consultant group (under certain conditions), (2) State Department of Agriculture, or (3) USDA agency (or other Federal agency involved in agricultural issues).

FAS will notify each applicant in writing of the final disposition of its application. For approvals, letters will contain the notice of approval and any qualifications or adjustments made to the original proposal. For rejections, letters will contain details explaining the reasons why the proposals were not approved for funding. FAS will send an Agreement to each approved applicant. The Agreement will specify the terms and conditions applicable to the project, including the levels of program funding and cost-share contribution. An applicant who accepts the terms and conditions contained in the Agreement should so indicate by having the appropriate authorizing officer sign the Agreement and submit it to the Director, Marketing Operations Staff, FAS, USDA. The Agreement will become effective when the Deputy Administrator signs the Agreement on behalf of CCC.

10.609 TRADE ADJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE

(TAA)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Trade Act of 1974, as amended, Trade Act of 2002, and reauthorized by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009.

OBJECTIVES:

Under the program, the Department of Agriculture (USDA) provides technical assistance and cash benefits to eligible farmers and fishermen if increased imports contributed importantly to a production or price decline of greater than 15 percent. Technical assistance under the program provides access to a wide variety of resources from USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), their county Extension Service, and their education contractor, the University of Minnesota's Center for Farm Financial Management (CFFM), to assist producers in exploring alternative crops or improved marketing techniques for their current enterprise. The program's goal is to help producers respond proactively to import competition through training and cash benefits.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS WITH UNRESTRICTED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This program makes cash payments and provides technical assistance to eligible farmers, ranchers, and fishermen competing with like or directly competitive imported products.

Applicant Eligibility:

The TAA review process is two-tier and consists of a petition application process and a producer application process. First, group petitions must demonstrate, using data for the most recent, full marketing year or full official marketing season, a greater than 15-percent decline in at least one of the following factors: national average price, quantity of production, value of production, or cash receipts. In addition, petitions must also demonstrate that the decline in one of the cited factors be importantly caused by an increase in imports. If a petition is certified, individual producers may apply at their local FSA field office. Producers must demonstrate they produced the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of three preceding marketing years. Producers must also demonstrate that they experienced a decrease in the production or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Producers of raw commodities who have been adversely affected by import competition and are covered by a certification of eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation:

When applying, producers must provide documentation that they produced the commodity during the most recent marketing year for which the petition is filed and in at least one of the three marketing years preceding that marketing year. To be eligible for cash payments, producers also must certify that they experienced a decrease in the quantity or price of the agricultural commodity in the marketing year for which the petition is certified, compared to the most recent prior marketing year preceding that marketing year for which data is available, or demonstrate that USDAs county price for the petitioned commodity on the petition filing date is less than USDAs average county price for the past three consecutive marketing years. If eligible, a producer may receive no more than $12,000 during the 36-month period following the certification of a group petition. Producers may receive no more than $65,000 in combined counter-cyclical and TAA payments. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. A group of producers or an association representing a group of producers must first file a petition with USDA's FAS to establish eligibility for assistance. Petitions may be filed by a group of three or more producers or an authorized representative. If a petition is certified, individual producers must file an application at their local FSA field office. Producers who are approved are eligible to receive, at no cost, trade adjustment technical assistance from the CFFM and cash benefits.

The TAA regulation defines articles like or directly competitive as products falling generally under the same number in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTS). Links to the HTS and a U.S. trade database can be found at <http://www.fas.usda.gov/itp/us-tariff-sch.asp>.

The CFFM will provide information regarding the feasibility of substituting one or more alternative commodities and improve the competitiveness of the production and marketing of the adversely affected commodity.

Award Procedure:

FAS determined the eligibility of producers of raw commodities who have been adversely affected by import competition based on all information and supporting documentation provided. The CFFM will make available to all producers who apply for TAA free technical assistance within 180 days of the petition certification date. The CFFM will contact applicants with the times and dates of scheduled training sessions or online classes. Once an applicant has met all program requirements, they will receive a cash benefit of up to $4,000 based upon the completion of an Initial Business Plan, and an additional $8,000 based upon the completion of a Final Business Plan. The Farm Service Agency will make a direct deposit payment to the eligible applicant's checking account. The maximum cash benefit is $12,000 over a 36-month period. Applicants may receive less if total applications exceed TAA funding levels.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Petition filing to establish eligibility, on the average, will take 40 days from the date that the petition is accepted and published in the Federal Register. The CFFM will make available to all producers who apply for TAA free technical assistance within 180 days of the petition certification date.

Appeals:

Any person may obtain reconsideration and review of determinations made with respect to applications for program benefits by filing an administrative appeal with USDAs Foreign Agricultural Service within 30 days of FAS's denial and, if upheld, within 60 days to the U.S. Court of International Trade.

Renewals:

Initially expected to expire on December 31, 2010, the TAA for Farmers Program was extended until February 12, 2011, through the Omnibus Trade Act on December 29, 2010. However, given the statutory requirement of a 90-day application period, the six-week life of the new appropriation precluded the announcement of a new program. The program officially expired on February 12, 2011, but funding and operations for it remain intact and allow all approved applicants to continue to receive payments and complete their training until September 2013.

On October 12, 2011, Congress passed the Trade Adjustment Assistance Extension Act of 2011. The legislation reauthorized the TAA for Farmers Program through the first quarter of FY 2014. However, neither the House nor Senate bills provided appropriated funding for the program. As a result, no new petitions or applications have been accepted, to date.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: An eligible applicant will receive a monetary cash benefit of up to $4,000 based upon the completion of an Initial Business Plan and up to an additional $8,000 based upon the completion of a Long-Term Business Plan. Payment limitations exist for applicants who have received $65,000 in counter cyclical payments. Monetary cash benefits may be less than $12,000 if total TAA payments exceed available funds. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Payment is made by direct deposit after determining applicant eligibility, unless otherwise arranged. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Two separate cash payments are provided to applicants who complete the training requirements.

Reports:

Not later than January 30, 2010, and annually thereafter, the Secretary of Agriculture shall submit to the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives a report containing the following information with respect to adjustment assistance provided under this chapter during the preceding fiscal year: (1) A list of the agricultural commodities covered by a certification. (2) The States or regions in which such commodities are produced and the aggregate amount of such commodities produced in each such State or region. (3) The total number of agricultural commodity producers, by congressional district, receiving benefits. (4) The total number of agricultural commodity producers, by congressional district, receiving technical assistance. Cash reports are not applicable. Progress reports are not applicable. Expenditure reports are not applicable. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of OMB Circular No. A-133 (Revised, June 27, 2003), "Audits of States, Local Governments, and Non-Profit Organizations," nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $500,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. At all times during regular business hours, authorized representatives of FSA, the United States Department of Agriculture, or the Comptroller General of the United States shall have access to the premises of the producer in order to inspect, examine, and make copies of the books, records, and accounts, and other written data as specified. Audits of certifications of average adjusted gross income may be conducted as necessary to determine compliance with established requirements. As a part of this audit, income tax forms may be requested and if requested, must be supplied. If a producer has submitted information to FSA, including a certification from a certified public accountant or attorney, that relied upon information from a form previously filed with the Internal Revenue Service, such producer shall provide FSA a copy of any amended form filed with the Internal Revenue Service with 30 days of the filing.

Records:

Persons making application for benefits under this program must maintain accurate records and accounts that will document that they meet all eligibility requirements specified herein, as may be requested by FSA. Such records and accounts must be retained for 2 years after the date of the final payment to the producer under this program.

Account Identification:

Obligations:

(Salaries) FY 12 $0; FY 13 est $0; and FY 14 Estimate Not Available - Program authorized, but not funded.

10.610 EXPORT GUARANTEE PROGRAM

The GSM-102 Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

OMB 7 CFR 1493, Part A; Agricultural Trade Act of 1978.

OBJECTIVES:

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. The program guarantee credit extended by the private banking sector in the U.S. (or, less commonly, by the U.S. exporter) to approved foreign banks using dollar-denominated, irrevocable letters of credit for purchases of U.S. food and agricultural products by foreign buyers. USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) administers the program on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), which issues the credit guarantees. GSM 102 covers credit terms of up to three year; maximum terms may vary by country.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Guaranteed/Insured Loans

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

CCC guarantees payments due from approved foreign banks to exporters or financial institutions in the U.S. However, the financing must be obtained through normal commercial sources. Typically, 98 percent of principals and a portion of interest are covered by a guarantee. Because payment is guaranteed, financial institutions in the U.S. can offer competitive credit terms to the foreign banks, usually with interest rates based on the London Inter Bank Offered Rate (LIBOR). Any follow-up on credit arrangements between the foreign bank and the importer are negotiated separately and are not covered by the CCC guarantee.

Applicant Eligibility:

Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. This Program provides guarantees to lenders.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Exporters or the exporters assignee are the direct beneficiaries and must meet the applicant eligibility requirements. Interested parties, including U.S. exporters, foreign buyers, banks, may request that the CCC establish a GSM-102 program for a country or region. Prior to announcing the availability of guarantees, the CCC evaluates the ability of each country and foreign bank to service CCC guaranteed debt.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. CCC must qualify exporters for participation before accepting guarantee applications. An exporter must have a business office in the U.S. and must not be debarred or suspended from any U.S. government program. Financial institutions must meet established criteria and be approved by CCC. CCC sets limits and advises each approved foreign bank on the maximum amount CCC will guarantee for that bank. The

Award Procedure:

The CCC-approved foreign bank issues a dollar-denominated, irrevocable letter of credit in favor of the U.S. exporter, ordinarily advised or confirmed by the financial institution in the U.S. agreeing to extend credit to the foreign bank. The U.S. exporter may negotiate an arrangement to be paid as exports occur by assigning to the U.S. financial institution the right to process that may become payable under the CCC's guarantee. Under this arrangement, the exporter would also provide transaction-related documents required by the financial institution, including a copy of the export report, which must also be submitted to CCC.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Please contact the headquarters or regional office for additional approval information.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 7, Chapter 14, Part 1493. CCC will review documents submitted under a claim. If all information and documents are in good order and meet the requirements of the regulations, CCC will pay to the exporter (or the exporter's assignee) the lesser of 1) the guarantee value stated in the payment guarantee, plus eligible interest; 2) the guaranteed percentage, indicated in the payment guarantee, of the exported value as indicated in the Evidence of Export, plus eligible interest.

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The payment guarantee applies to a credit period established in the application, and coverage begins either on the date(s) of export or the date when interest begins to accrue, whichever is earlier. Coverage will continue during the credit term specified in the payment guarantee. However, the payment guarantee does not become effective until the date of export. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

No reports are required.

Audits:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-133. Recipients under this program are subject to audit by the Office of the Regional Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Records:

For CCC audit purposes, the U.S. exporter must obtain documentation to show that the commodity arrived in the eligible country, and the exporter or the exporter's assignee must maintain all transaction documents for five years from the date of completion of all payments.

Account Identification:

10.665 SCHOOLS AND ROADS - GRANTS TO STATES

Payments to States

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Secure Rural Schools and Community Self Determination Act of 2000, Division C, Section 601(a), 16. U.S.C. 7101-7153; 16 U.S.C. 500.

OBJECTIVES:

To share receipts from the National Forests with States in which the National Forests are situated.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For Federal fiscal years 2008 through 2011 and reauthorized for FY 2012, the Secure Rural Schools Act allows counties in which national forests are situated to elect to share in the State payment (based on a formula in the Act) or to share in the state's 25-percent payment (based on the 7-year rolling average of receipts from national forests in the state). The fiscal year 2012 payment was made to states in January 2013, however in March USDA was notified that the payments might be subject to sequestration. The 25-percent payments to states are to be used for the benefit of public schools and public roads in the counties in which national forests are situated. An eligible county that elects to receive a share to the State payment (based on the formula in the Act) must under some circumstances allocate a portion of that payment for title II special projects on national forests or title III county projects, or both. The portion of the Secure Rural Schools Act State payments not allocated for these purposes are to be used to benefit public schools and public roads in counties in which national forests are situated. The payments to benefit schools and roads are commonly called title I funds. Funds allocated by counties for title II special projects are reserved in a special account in the General Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for projects that improve the maintenance of existing infrastructure, enhance forest ecosystems, and restore and improve land health and water quality on national forests. Funds allocated by counties for title III county projects may be used only to: (1) carry out activities under the Firewise Communities program to provide homeowners in fire sensitive ecosystems education on, and assistance with implementing, techniques in home siting, home construction, and home landscaping that can increase the protection of people and property from wildfires; (2) reimburse the participating county for search and rescue and other emergency services, including firefighting, that are performed on a national forest after the date on which the use was approved, and paid for by the participating county; and (3) develop community wildfire protection plans in coordination with the Forest Service acting on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Applicant Eligibility:

Title I payments are made to States or territories of the United States in which national forests are situated. Title II project funds are reserved in special account in the U.S. Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for the purpose of entering into and implementing cooperative agreements with willing Federal agencies, State and local governments, private and nonprofit entities, and landowners. (16 U.S.C 7122).

Title III funds are paid to respective states to be passed-through to participating counties.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A beneficiary of title II special project funds is a person or entity that receives a grant or enters into a cooperative agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to carry out a project for protection, restoration, and enhancement of fish and wildlife habitat, and other resource objectives consistent with the purposes of the Secure Rural Schools Act on national forests and on non-national forest land where projects would benefit the resources on national forests. (16 U.S.C. 7122)

A beneficiary of title III funds is a participating county in which a national forest is situated that has elected to allocate a portion of its State payments for title III county projects.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Under title I - Secure Payments for States and Counties Containing Federal Land, each county in an eligible state elected to receive one of the following payments: a share of the states 25-percent rolling average payment, or a share of the State payment calculated using the formula in the Secure Rural Schools Act. The payment to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act is the sum of the county elections in that state. The 25-percent payments to states, is an amount equal to the annual average of 25-percent of amounts received for the applicable fiscal year and each of the preceding 6 fiscal years from each national forest. This amount is used to calculate a county's share of the states 25-percent payment. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act. State payments for fiscal years 2008 through 2012 were calculated using a complex formula with multiple factors, including acres of proclaimed national forest within an eligible county, the average 3 highest 25-percent payments made to each eligible State for each eligible county for the eligibility period 1986 through 1999, and the annual per capita personal income for each county. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act.

Matching Requirements: There are no matching requirements for the 25-percent payment to states or for the State payment. Acquisition management regulations and procedures applicable to the Forest Service for purchases, contracts, grants and agreements may impose matching requirements on title II projects.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Title II funds are not paid to the state but are reserved in a special account in the General Treasury available for projects recommended by a resource advisory committee and approved by the Forest Supervisor acting on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture. The authority for each resource advisory committee to recommend title II projects terminated on September 30, 2012. Funds unobligated in one fiscal year remain available in the following fiscal year until September 30, 2013 by which time title II funds must be obligated or be returned to the U.S. Treasury. The authority for each county to initiate title III projects terminated on September 30, 2012. Funds unobligated in one fiscal year remain available in the following fiscal year until September 30, 2013 by which time title III funds must be obligated for authorized uses or be returned to the U.S. Treasury. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Method of awarding/releasing assistance for title I and title III is lump sum. Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978, 16 U.S.C. 2101, et. seq., as amended by the 1990 Farm Bill, Section 1217 of Title XII of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990, Public Law 101-624, 104 Stat. 3359, 16 U.S.C. 2103c; later amended by the 1996 Farm Bill, Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996; Public Law 104-127; Title III, Conservation; Subtitle G Forestry; Section 374, Optional State Grants for Forest Legacy Program.

OBJECTIVES:

To effectively protect and conserve environmentally important forest areas threatened by conversion to nonforest uses, through conservation easements or fee simple purchase. The Forest Legacy Program (FLP) is a voluntary private land conservation partnership between the Forest Service, participating States, land trusts, private landowners, and others. The Program works with State partners and operates on a willing seller and willing buyer basis and is completely nonregulatory in its approach. No eminent domain authority or adverse condemnation is authorized for this Program.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Landowner participation in the program is voluntary and consists of two components: (1) conveying land or interests in land to achieve land conservation objectives and (2) preparing and periodically updating a Forest Stewardship Management Plan or a multi-resource management plan, when the participation is through conservation easement. State lead agencies must first evaluate and approve projects as Forest Legacy eligible before competing for Forest Service funding.

Applicant Eligibility:

Projects are evaluated and prioritized by State lead agencies, in consultation with the State Forest Stewardship Coordinating Committees. All States and territories participate except North Dakota, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and Guam.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

State agency, landowners of private forest lands, and land trust organizations.

Credentials/Documentation:

Each State must prepare a State Forest Action Plan (Statewide Assessment and Resource Strategy, including Assessments of Need incorporated by reference) in order to be eligible for program funds. The FS Regional, Area, or Institute Responsible Official must concur with the State's Forest Action Plan. Requirements for an eligible project are: (1) within an approved Forest Legacy Area and fits within the priorities of a State's AON; (2) complies with FLP State and National criteria; (3) a completed grant application; (4) an approved Forest Stewardship Plan or a multi-resource management plan, if applicable; (5) negotiated terms of a conservation easement, if applicable; (6) an approved appraisal, meeting Federal acquisition appraisal standards as outlined in the Uniform Appraisal Standards for Federal Land Acquisitions; and, (7) adequate non-Federal cost share. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Applicants should proceed with initial appraisal and Forest Stewardship Plan development, as due diligence is one of several key factors in project evaluation and ranking. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Individual participating States have application duties and procedures.

Award Procedure:

The Forest Service will conduct an annual project selection process to arrive at a prioritized national project list for inclusion in the Presidents budget. The Forest Service then issues grants to states for the project specific Congressional set-aside designated in the Congressional appropriations bills. The Forest Service then issues grants to states based on the amounts provided in Congressional appropriations and the prioritized national project list.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.
Matching Requirements: Funding for the Cooperative Forest health Protection program is provided to states to help support a base level of professional forest health expertise for non-federal forest managers. Grants for this program are allocated to states using a formula that is based on the number of acres of non-federal forest land within the states, other factors, and amount of funding available through annual appropriations.
Applicant matching for cooperative Forest Health Protection programs and projects that treat specific forest health problems on non-federal lands is required and is 50%. In cases where it is mutually agreed upon that an applicant will treat federal lands as part of a cooperative project or program, the Forest Service reimbursement is 100% for the federal portion. However, applicant matching rates may be adjusted in emergency or extraordinary situations. Forest Service cost-share rates for activities involving development of new and improved forest health protection methods and technologies, and the conduct of special projects and evaluations are negotiated on a project-by-project basis with the grantee. Exceptions from the 50% cost-share requirement must be approved by the Deputy Chief for State and Private Forestry. The applicant share of cooperative programs may be in the form of cash, services, or in-kind contributions. If a state elects to consolidate the annual Forest Service financial assistance, in lieu of functional cost sharing mechanisms, the total consolidated payment to any state during any fiscal year may not exceed the total amount of non-federal funds expended to implement its state forest resources program during that year. Treatment funds and activities cannot be a part of the consolidated payment and must stand alone to meet the 50% match requirement (See FSM 3431.22).
MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

2681-231, 2681-297; Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978, as amended, 16 USC 2101 et, seq.; Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Act of 1978, as amended, 6 USC 1600-1614.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide funds, on a cost-share basis, for projects that focus on enhancing opportunities for sustained forest products production for primary and secondary hardwood industries located in the eastern hardwood forest region. In order to maintain and improve the health and stewardship of our eastern hardwood forests, local wood-using industries need to be vibrant and able to utilize a wide variety of resources from the forest. Priorities include:

Maintain the economic competitiveness of primary and secondary hardwood industries. Examples include:

- 1) Encouraging the adoption of new technology to improve competitiveness and profitability,
- 2) Bringing information and technology about processing, marketing, and business-related skills as well as urban wood utilization to existing and emerging businesses, and
- 3) Developing utilization options that improve forest stewardship and health.

Increase the knowledge and information about how the hardwood industry can contribute to the green building movement. Examples include chain of custody certification for sustainable wood products as well as life cycle analysis for a range of wood products.

Increase the knowledge, information, and promotion of how carbon sequestration by wood products can provide a competitive edge to a sustainable hardwood industry. An example includes developing specific carbon storage factors for a range of wood products.

Develop technology and markets to address urgent issues on a global or domestic scale, including:

- 1) Sanitizing wood packaging materials, firewood, and similar products to eliminate these pathways for the transport of insect and disease pests, and
- 2) Developing markets for and using unexpected increases in the volume of urban and rural wood due to new pest introductions (for example, emerald ash borer) and weather events such as tornadoes and ice storms.

Increase the sustainable use of woody biomass to meet our Nations needs for energy and raw materials. Examples include public/private partnerships for using woody biomass in heating and cooling, process energy, cogeneration, district energy systems, and solid and liquid fuel production. Projects may also develop or maintain local markets and forest industry infrastructure by using woody biomass for both energy and value-added products. Provide key information to address the economic, social and ecological aspects of woody biomass production and use: including sustainable supplies, harvesting techniques, forest management, plantation development, and environmental implications.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: The National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF) is an independent 501(c)(3) charity established by Congress in 1984 that protects, restores, and enhances the Nation's fish, wildlife, plants, and habitats. The Foundations greatest asset is its position at the nexus of the conservation community. Its myriad conservation partnerships connect it with potentially every federal and state agency, key industry leaders, concerned private citizens, and nonprofit leadership from the international to the local level. Since its establishment, NFWF has awarded more than 11,000 grants to 3,700 organizations in the United States and abroad and leveraged more than $650 million in federal and private funds into more than $1.7 billion for on-the-ground conservation.

NFWF began its relationship with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service in 1988 with a $30,000 challenge grant to restore trout habitat ravaged by flooding in the Monongahela National Forest. In 1995, the partnership expanded when Forest Service provided funds to the Foundation to launch a grant program focused on improving the ecological health of our National Forests. To date, the Foundation has undertaken more than 1,229 projects in partnership with the Forest Service and has leveraged more than $40 million in Forest Service funds with more than $251 million for targeted, on-the-ground conservation. Foundation grants have been made in more than 125 National Forests and Research Stations in all nine regions of the Forest Service. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2012: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2013: Forest Service funding is apportioned between NFWF strategic keystone initiatives, and targeted charter grant programs. Among each program, a handful of high-priority projects are selected for funding each fiscal year. The following list summarizes the emphasis areas for fiscal years 2012 and 2013.

Strategic Keystone Initiatives Starting in 2008, the Foundation realigned its grant making to be more targeted and outcome-based. Keystone Initiatives were designed to achieve a measurable conservation outcome in a five to ten year timeframe. Specific goals and strategies are identified for each initiative through the development of business plans that serve as guides for the types of projects that will be considered for funding by NFWF. Each year, approximately 50% of the Forest Service contributions support these keystone initiatives.

Wildlife and Landscape Scale Habitat Keystone: Addresses conservation needs for mammals, reptiles, amphibians, invertebrates, and native plants. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Sierra Nevada Wet Meadow restoration and Northern Rockies Wildlife Corridors (eastern Idaho and western Montana).

Freshwater Fish and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on high-priority species and habitat for freshwater fish and associated aquatic life such as mussels, crayfish, and invertebrates. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Eastern Brook Trout (Virginia and West Virginia) and Apache Trout (Arizona).

Bird and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on migratory and resident bird species and their habitat. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on to promote the conservation of Gunnison Sage Grouse (Colorado and Utah) and a wide variety of Southeastern grassland birds such as bobwhite quail and Bachmans sparrow.

Charter Grant Programs Funds (approximately 50% of Forest Service funding) are also awarded through targeted Charter Grant Programs which include:

I) Pulling Together Initiative is a unified effort by NFWF and DOI and DOA to fund and implement effective, long-term invasive plant management at the local level.

II) Bring Back the Natives seeks to implement the National Fish Habitat Initiative Action Plan by supporting on the ground watershed restoration and native fish projects.

III) Chesapeake Bay Small Watershed Grant Program provides grants to organizations and local governments working on a community level to protect and improve watersheds in the Chesapeake Bay basin.

IV) Upper Mississippi River Watershed Fund supports projects benefiting forest stewardship and the restoration of watersheds in the Upper Mississippi River drainage.

V) The Great Lakes Watershed Restoration Program funds organizations working to protect, restore, or enhance the habitat for fish, wildlife, and plants of the Great Lakes watershed.

Native Plant Conservation Initiative supports on-the-ground conservation projects that protect, enhance, and restore native plant communities on public and private lands. ($100K in fiscal years 2010 and 2011). Fiscal Year 2014: No Current Data Available

10.690 LAKE TAHOE EROSION CONTROL GRANT PROGRAM

Lake Tahoe Erosion Control Grant Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Lake Tahoe Restoration Act, Public Law 106-506, as amended by Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2004, Public Law 108-108.

OBJECTIVES:

To make annual payments to the governing bodies of each of the political subdivisions (including public utilities) located in the Lake Tahoe Basin to be used primarily for erosion control and water quality projects. The goal of the program is to provide federal assistance to address urban stormwater runoff pollution, the primary source of pollutants (fine sediment and nutrients) affecting the clarity of Lake Tahoe. This program addresses urban runoff from public roads and right of ways.

To fund a competitive grant award program for research projects high in technical merit and relevant to land management and regulatory agencies working in the Tahoe Basin. The goal of the program is to promote applied, timely, relevant research that addresses natural resource management needs in the basin. Research funded through this program addresses key management questions, includes input from agencies, produces decision-support tools that are useful and accessible, fosters collaboration and communication, builds on previous research, and ultimately addresses the science needs identified in the Lake Tahoe Environmental Improvement Program. The environmental goals of the Lake Tahoe Environmental Improvement Program are defined using thresholds that were established to protect the natural environment and maintain public health and safety within the basin. The threshold categories are: 1) water quality, 2) wildlife, 3) soil conservation, 4) scenic resources, 5) air quality, 6) recreation, 7) vegetation, 8) noise, and 9) fisheries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements; Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Only after water quality and soil conservation thresholds have been achieved, funds may be used to address other environmental threshold categories. Payments shall be used only to carry out a project or proposed project that is part of the environmental improvement program adopted by the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency in 1998.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible applicants for National Forest System awards includes State Forestry or equivalent agencies, tribes, non-profits, and municipalities in the local governing bodies of political subdivisions in the Lake Tahoe basin.

Eligible applicants for competitive research awards includes State Agricultural Experiment Stations, universities and colleges, State and local governments, U.S. Territories, nonprofit research institutions or organizations, international organizations, individuals, and for-profit organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Beneficiary eligibility for National Forest System awards include governing bodies of each of the political subdivisions (including public utilities) located in the Lake Tahoe Basin.

Beneficiary eligibility for competitive research awards include organizations and scientists involved in basic and applied research activities related to forest and rangeland renewable resources.

Credentials/Documentation:

No credentials or documentation are required. OMB Circular No. A-87 applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Submittal of an annual list of priority projects, along with written proposals for each of the identified priority projects. The USFS has chosen to adopt the State guidelines for the format of these proposals, since they meet all the needs for project narratives for federal grant considerations, with one additional requirement. That additional requirement is clear identification of sources and amounts of proposed match funding.

Implementation of construction projects under awarded grants are not allowed until a signed project decision under NEPA has been made, allowing the use of federal grant funds for implementation. Local Office monitors grant awards to assure compliance of this restriction. Planning, design, and monitoring grants do not require an environmental impact assessment. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program.

For competitive research awards, applicants must adhere to the requirements of the current Request for Proposals as stipulated by the Pacific Southwest Research Station. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Project narratives submitted through the pre-application process are reviewed by an interagency technical advisory committee convened by the Federal grants program managers. Projects are then identified for award, along with instructions for any needed revisions to the project narratives. At that time, eligible applicants submit revised narratives along with standard application forms and assurances to the Local Office, as furnished by the Federal agency.

For competitive research awards, a complete proposal must be submitted following guidelines provided by the Pacific Southwest Research Station. The proposal must explain in detail the work to be undertaken, the qualifications of key personnel involved in the work, other resources such as equipment, facilities, and services available or needed, and a proposed budget for each fiscal year during the life of the proposed grant. A short biographical sketch of the principal investigator and a list of his or her principal publications should be included.

Award Procedure:

National Forest System will send an award letter to grantee, with identification of grant requirements, in letter from Local Office.

Research award proposals must compete for priority, showing technical competence and demonstrating the ability to meet regional needs. Research grants cooperative agreements are made only in support of forestry research and monitoring of the Lake Tahoe Basin. Unsolicited proposals can be awarded for innovative or unique approaches to the proposed project.

Deadlines:

The proposed budget by fiscal year shows the estimated cost of the complete project from grant funds and value of resources to be contributed by the applicant. Salaries of academic personnel for periods when they receive salary for teaching should not be included for payment from grant funds. The minimum matching contribution for Cooperative Agreements must constitute at least 20-percent of the estimated total cost of the project.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Grants must address planning, construction, or monitoring of projects identified in the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency environmental improvement program (EIP). Projects submitted from this list are selected based on the annual priority list provided by the eligible local governments, and direction provided in the LTRA: 1) The total amounts appropriated for payments under this subsection shall be allocated by the Secretary of Agriculture based on the relative need for and merits of projects proposed for payment under this section. 2) To the maximum extent practicable, for each fiscal year, the Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that each political subdivision in the Lake Tahoe basin receives amounts appropriated for payments under this subsection.

The Pacific Southwest Research Station (PSW) will complete an administrative review of all submitted proposals to ensure that proposal specifications as outlined in the Request for Proposals are met. Proposals passing the administrative review will be forwarded to the Tahoe Science Consortium (TSC). The TSC will coordinate technical reviews of the proposals. Proposals passing technical review will be forwarded to Tahoe Basin agency personnel for relevancy reviews. The TSC will coordinate a synthesis of the results from the technical reviews and agency relevancy reviews to create a list of proposals recommended for funding. PSW will review the suite of recommended proposals to finalize funding allocations; proposals recommended for funding are not guaranteed funding due to constraints on funding allocations. Final funding allocations for recommended proposals will be determined by the number of projects recommended for funding and individual project budgets. Some projects may be identified as alternates to receive support should funds become available during the negotiation of awards. PSW reserves the right to negotiate scopes of work, budget amounts, and deliverables with Principal Investigators based upon feedback from the review process and to comply with Forest Service policies. Projects may be required to modify their proposed indirect cost rates and/or demonstrate cost share contributions. Once the recommendations and funding allocations have been finalized, PSW will forward the package of recommended projects to the Tahoe Regional Executive Committee (TREX) and to the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) for final approval.

There are currently three interest rates for direct loans: a poverty rate that is 60 percent of market rate when the loan is required to meet health or sanitary standards and the median household income of the service area is below the higher of the poverty line or 80 percent of the statewide nonmetropolitan median household income; an intermediate rate that is 80 of market rate if the median household income of the service area is not more than 100 percent of the nonmetropolitan median household income of the State; and a market rate for those applicants that do not qualify for the poverty rate or the intermediate rate. The law authorizing the program allows a maximum repayment period of 40 years. However, the repayment period cannot exceed the useful life of the facilities financed or any statutory limitation on the applicants borrowing authority. 10.861 PUBLIC TELEVISION STATION DIGITAL TRANSITION GRANT PROGRAM

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Rural Utilities Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2006; Title III, Rural Development Programs; Rural Utilities Service; Distance Learning, Telemedicine, and Broadband Program; Public Law 109-97.

OBJECTIVES:

As part of the nation's transition to digital television, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) required all television broadcasters to convert their transmitters to broadcast digital signals by June 12, 2009. The goal of this conversion was a television system that makes more efficient use of the radio spectrum. Decreasing the use of spectrum by television channels freed up spectrum to enable the introduction of new wireless telecommunications services such as mobile wireless Internet access. In order to allocate spectrum to new uses, stations had to transition their main transmitter to the new broadcast system and digital no later than June 2009. While stations must broadcast their main transmitter signal in digital, many rural stations have yet to complete a full digital transition of their stations across all equipment. Rural stations often have translators serving small or isolated areas. The 2009 FCC deadline did not apply to translators; in 2011 the FCC adopted a final deadline for analog-to-digital conversion of all translators by September 1, 2015. Because of this, translators have been allowed to continue broadcasting in analog, and stations are still in the process of converting some of their translators to digital. Some rural stations also have not fully converted their production and studio equipment to digital, which has impaired their ability to provide the same quality local programming that they provided in analog. The digital transition has also created some service gaps where households that received an analog signal are now unable to receive a digital signal. For rural households the digital transition has meant in some cases diminished over-the-air public television service. These rural households are the focus of the Agency's Public Television Station Digital Transition Grant Program.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants may be used to install digital television facilities through purchase or lease (up to three years of lease costs); and for associated engineering and environmental studies. All broadcast facilities acquired under this program must be capable of delivering both digital television (DTV, sometimes called standard definition) and high definition television (HDTV) at both the interim and final channel power authorizations. Grant funds may be used to fund facilities directly connected to the digital transition of the broadcast signal such as: digital transmitters; digital translators; transmitting antennas; new towers or improvements to existing towers necessary for antenna installation; tower ground infrastructure such as land, buildings, fencing, standby power, and where commercial power is unreliable, power generation and conditioning facilities; studio to transmitter/translator communication links; television program production and management equipment; datacasting equipment; and subject to RUS approval, other facilities directly necessary for the digital transition of the broadcast signal. Grants shall not be used: to fund operations or for facilities not owned by the applicant (except for leased facilities as described above); for salaries, wages, and other public television employee benefits (unless they are for construction or installation of eligible facilities); for construction performed or expenditures made prior to the application deadline; or for facilities funded under other grants. Grants shall not be used: to fund operations or for facilities not owned by the applicant (except for leased facilities as described above); for salaries, wages, and other public television employee benefits; for construction performed or expenditures made prior to the application deadline; or for facilities funded under other grants.

Applicant Eligibility:

The applicant must be a public television station that serves a rural area regardless of whether it also serves an urban area. (Rural area means any area of the United States not included within the boundaries of any incorporated or unincorporated city, village, or borough having a population in excess of 20,000 inhabitants.) The applicant must also be required to convert from analog to digital transmission under the rules of the FCC. For the purpose of this grant program, a public television station must be an organization which (1) qualifies for Federal funding under Section 396(k) of the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967, and (2) which is either: (a) under the rules and regulations of the FCC in effect on November 2, 1978, eligible to be licensed as a noncommercial educational broadcast station and which is owned and operated by a public agency or nonprofit private foundation, corporation, or association; or (b) owned and operated by a municipality and which transmits only noncommercial programs for education purposes.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Anyone who receives the improved digital television signal from a rural public television station or attends an educational institution that uses public television in its curriculum.

Credentials/Documentation:

The applicant must provide evidence demonstrating that it meets the definition of a public television station listed above. The applicant must also provide evidence that the FCC has authorized the initiation of digital broadcasting at each of the Applicant's transmitter and translator sites. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

In addition to Government-wide requirements, the applicant shall provide a description of the project including: an executive summary, a project cost spreadsheet, broadcast coverage maps, a complete narrative description, and an environmental assessment.

Award Procedure:

All complete applications from eligible applicants that meet the application deadline will be scored in a competitive process to determine which projects are funded. There are three scoring categories. The first is rurality, a measure of the rural character of the applicant's digital television coverage area. Up to 50 points can be earned in this category. The second uses the National School Lunch Program eligibility percentage as a measure of the economic need of the people in the applicant's coverage area. This category earns up to 25 points. Finally, up to 25 points can be awarded based on critical need.

A failure of title would require the eligible entity to reimburse the United States for the Federal share of the easement value.

Applicant Eligibility:

An eligible entities is any local or State agency, county or groups of counties, municipality, town or township, soil and water conservation district, or Indian tribe or tribal organization, that has a farmland protection program that purchases conservation easements for the purpose of protecting agricultural use and related conservation values by limiting conversion to non-agricultural uses of land, and that has pending offers may apply for funds. This program is available in all 50 States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territories of the Pacific Islands.

AUTHORIZATION:

Food Security Act of 1985, Public Law 199-198.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist landowners and operators in restoring and protecting eligible grazing lands, including rangeland, pastureland and certain other lands through rental contracts and easements.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

DIRECT PAYMENTS FOR A SPECIFIED USE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

GRP easements and rental contracts are emphasize support for working grazing lands. All participants are subject to the Adjusted Gross Income Provision set forth in 7 CFR Part 1400. This limitation provides that individuals and entities that have an average adjusted gross income exceeding $1 million for the three tax years immediately preceding the year the contract is approved are not eligible to receive program benefits, unless 66.6 percent of the adjusted gross income is derived from farming, ranching, or forestry operations. Easements and rental contracts will (1) permit grazing on the land in a manner that is consistent with maintaining the viability of the native and natural grass, shrub, forest, and wildlife species adapted to the locality; (2) permit haying, mowing, or harvesting for seed production, except during the nesting and brood-rearing seasons for birds in the area that are in significant decline; (3) allow for fire rehabilitation and construction of firebreaks, fences, watering facilities and practices that protect and restore the grasslands functions and values; and (4) prohibit the production of row crops, fruit trees, vineyards, or any other agricultural commodities. Both easements and rental contracts will require that the land is managed to maintain the viability of the plant community as described in the conservation or grazing management plan.

Applicant Eligibility:

GRP is available on privately owned lands. Eligible land includes grassland, land that contains forbs, or shrubs (including rangeland and pasture land; or land that is located in an area that has historically been dominated by grassland, forbs, and shrubs; and has potential to provide habitat for animal or plant populations of significant ecological value. Incidental lands, in conjunction with eligible land, may also be considered for enrollment to allow for the efficient administration of an easement or rental contract.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Only landowners may submit applications for easements; landowners and others who have general control of the acreage may submit applications for rental contracts. Easements may also be acquired by eligible entities based on a 50 percent cost-share with the Federal government. Eligible entities are defined as units of State, local or Tribal government or nongovernmental organizations that have a charter describing a commitment to conserving ranchland, agricultural land, or grassland for grazing and conservation purposes.

Credentials/Documentation:

Eligible entities must demonstrate it has the relevant experience and resources to administer a GRP easement. Its charter or mission describes its long term commitment to conserving ranchland, agricultural land, or grassland for grazing and conservation purposes. NRCS evaluates an entities capacity to acquire, manage and enforce easements; its staffing and the ability of an entity to provide matching funds before entering into a cooperative agreement. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Any owner or operator or tenant meeting eligibility criteria may submit an application for participation. Applications are accepted in local USDA service centers at any time. USDA will establish criteria to evaluate and rank applications for easement and rental contract enrollment. Ranking criteria will emphasize support for high quality grasslands and shrublands; grazing operations; plant and animal biodiversity; and grasslands under threat of conversion to cropping or development. Individual project selection will be made by State level USDA officials. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:PROJECT GRANTS*USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

All EWP work must reduce threats to life and property and must be economically, environmentally, and socially defensible and sound from a technical standpoint. NRCS may bear up to 75 percent (90 percent within limited resource areas as identified by the U.S. Census data) of the construction cost of emergency measures. The remaining 25 percent (10 percent within limited resource areas) must come from local sources as cash or in-kind services. EWP funds have restrictions. EWP cannot solve problems that existed before the disaster or to improve the level of protection above that which existed before a disaster. It cannot fund operation and maintenance work or repair private or public transportation facilities or utilities. The work cannot adversely affect downstream water rights and funds cannot be used to install measures not essential to the reduction of hazards. In addition, funds cannot be used to perform work on measures installed by another federal agency.

Requests must include a statement that the sponsors understand their responsibilities and are willing to pay its cost-shared percentage as well as information pertaining to the natural disaster, including the nature, location, and scope of the problems and the assistance needed. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

Award Procedure:

Project sponsors seeking EWP assistance must apply to the STC in writing within 60 days of the natural disaster occurrence. Project sponsors may use SF 424 Application for Federal Assistance but must ensure that following information is provided: (1) A description of the problems encountered; (2) Assistance needed, including the following: Nature of the problem; Location; Scope of the problem; Commitment by the sponsor to assume the following responsibilities: local cost-share; Land rights; acquisition; Permits; Operations and Maintenance (O and M), A statement indicating that funds have either been exhausted or are insufficient to provide adequate recovery measures from the applicable hazards; A statement identifying any other State or Federal funding received or application submitted. On receipt of a formal request for EWP assistance, the State Conservationist or designee shall immediately investigate the emergency situation to determine whether EWP is applicable and to prepare an initial cost estimation for submission to the NRCS Chief or designee. The cost estimation will be submitted no later than 60 days from receipt of the formal request from the sponsor. NRCS may not commit funds until notified by the Chief, or designee, of the availability of funds. Before the release of financial assistance, NRCS will enter into a Cooperative Agreement with a sponsor that specifies the responsibilities of the sponsor under this part, including any required operation and maintenance responsibilities. NRCS will not provide funding for activities undertaken by a sponsor prior to the signing of the agreement between NRCS and the sponsor.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Timeline is dependent upon when funding is appropriated. The EWP program is not a line-item funded program and is reliant upon emergency supplemental appropriations.

10.904 Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Not Applicable.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

EWP projects are eligible when it is determined that the current condition of the land or watershed impairment poses a threat to health, life, and property. Assistance includes EWP practices that provide runoff retardation and soil erosion prevention, safeguard lives and property, and relieve an imminent threat that is a result of a sudden impairment of a watershed due to a natural disaster.

10.924 CONSERVATION STEWARDSHIP PROGRAM

Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Food Security Act of 1985
, Public Law 106-224, NA Stat. NA, 16 U.S.C 3838h.

OBJECTIVES:

Through CSP, NRCS will provide financial and technical assistance to eligible producers to conserve and enhance soil, water, air, and related natural resources on their land. Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest lands, agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe, and other private agricultural land (including cropped woodland, marshes, and agricultural land used for the production of livestock) on which resource concerns related to agricultural production could be addressed. Participation in the program is voluntary.

CSP encourages land stewards to improve their conservation performance by installing and adopting additional activities, and improving, maintaining, and managing existing activities on agricultural land and nonindustrial private forest land. The NRCS will make CSP available nationwide on a continuous application basis.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

CSP is available on Tribal and private agricultural lands, as well as nonindustrial private forest lands in all 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the Caribbean and Pacific Islands Areas. The entire operation must be enrolled and must include all eligible land that will be under the applicant's control for the term of the proposed contract that is operated substantially separate from other operations. Land enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1410), Wetlands Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1467), Grasslands Reserve Program (7 CFR part 1415), and Conservation Security Program (CFR part 1469) are ineligible for CSP. The 2008 Act limits eligibility to private agricultural land; as such, land that is owned by a Federal, State, or local unit of government, with the exception of agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian Tribe, is ineligible, regardless of the status of the operator. Additionally, a participant may not receive payment for land used for crop production after June 18, 2008, that had not been planted, considered to be planted, or devoted to crop production for at least four of the six years preceding that date, unless the land was: previously enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program; maintained using long-term rotations, such as hayland in rotation; or incidental to the operation but needed for the efficient management of the operation. An example of land considered incidental to the operation that may be eligible for payment is land that had once been used for buildings and is now being used for crop production to square up a cropland field.

Applicant Eligibility:

The program provides equitable access to all producers, regardless of operation size, crops produced, or geographic location. Individual producers, legal entities, corporations, and Indian Tribes may be eligible for the program.

Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest land, and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.53 and 1470.6b). As stated in the Federal Register, 1470.6a, Applicants must be the operator of record in the USDA farm records management system for the eligible land being offered for enrollment; have documented control of the land for the term of the proposed contract; include the eligible land in their entire operation as represented for other USDA programs; and be in compliance with the highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions of 7 CFR Part 12, and adjusted gross income provisions of 7 CFR part 1400. The applicants operation must also meet a stewardship threshold (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.54).

Beneficiary Eligibility:

The program provides equitable access to all producers, regardless of operation size, crops produced, or geographic location. Individual producers, legal entities, corporations, and Indian Tribes may be eligible for the program.

Eligible lands include cropland, grassland, prairie land, improved pastureland, rangeland, nonindustrial private forest land, and agricultural land under the jurisdiction of an Indian tribe (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.53 and 1470.6b). As stated in the Federal Register, 1470.6a, Applicants must be the operator of record in the USDA farm records management system for the eligible land being offered for enrollment; have documented control of the land for the term of the proposed contract; include the eligible land in their entire operation as represented for other USDA programs; and be in compliance with the highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions of 7 CFR Part 12, and adjusted gross income provisions of 7 CFR part 1400. The applicants operation must also meet a stewardship threshold (covered in 508 Subpart F, 508.54).

Credentials/Documentation:

The participant must have control of the land offered for the length of the contract period. NRCS requires all program payments be made by direct deposit unless the participant requests a waiver as described in 31 CFR Part 208.4, paragraph (a). This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

A programmatic environmental assessment has been prepared in association with this rulemaking. The analysis has determined that there will not be a significant impact to the human environment and as a result an Environmental Impact Statement is not required to be prepared (40 CFR part 1508.13). An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. A programmatic environmental assessment has been prepared in association with this rulemaking. The analysis has determined that there will not be a significant impact to the human environment and as a result an Environmental Impact Statement is not required to be prepared (40 CFR part 1508.13).

Award Procedure:

Once applicant and land eligibility are determined, the NRCS field office will assist the producer with completing the CMT resource inventory. CMT will estimate the level of environmental benefit to be achieved by the applicant. The CMT conservation performance scoring will enable NRCS to determine if the stewardship threshold requirement is met, rank applications, and establish payments.

Applicants will be ranked relative to other applicants who face similar resource challenges in State-established ranking pools using conservation performance ranking scores. For approved applicants, NRCS will conduct on-site field verification to substantiate that conservation activity and production system information represented by the applicant was accurate. After the conservation system information is verified, NRCS and the applicant proceed to develop the conservation stewardship plan and contract. Upon approval, the contract will obligate the participant to achieve a higher level of conservation performance by installing additional activities scheduled in their conservation stewardship plan and to maintain the level of existing conservation performance identified at the time of application.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 60 to 90 days.

Appeals:

A participant may obtain administrative review in accordance with 7 CFR parts 11 and 614 for an adverse decision. Participants cannot appeal payment rates, payment limits, and cost-share percentages, eligible conservation practices, or other matters of general applicability. Before a participant can seek judicial review, the participant must exhaust all administrative appeal procedures.

Renewals:

At the end of an initial conservation stewardship contract, NRCS will allow a participant to renew the contract to receive payments for one additional five year period, subject to the availability of funds. To be considered for contract renewal, the participant must be in compliance with the terms of their initial contract as determined by NRCS; add any newly acquired eligible land that is part of the agricultural operation and meets minimum treatment criteria as established and determined by NRCS; meet stewardship thresholds for additional priority resource concerns as determined by NRCS; and agree to adopt conservation activities as determined by NRCS.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Subject to the availability of funds, NRCS will offer participants two potential types of payment. As outlined in 508.90, an annual payment will be made for installing and adopting additional conservation activities, and improving, maintaining, and managing existing activities. A supplemental payment can also be made to a participant receiving annual payments, who also agrees to adopt a resource-conserving crop rotation. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

NRCS will make payments as soon as practicable after October 1 of each fiscal year for activities carried out in the previous fiscal year. CSP payments to a person or legal entity may not exceed $40,000 in any year and $200,000 during any 5-year period. Each CSP contract will be limited to $200,000 over the term of the initial contract period. The above limitations exclude funding arrangements with federally recognized Indian tribes or Alaska Native corporations as described in CPM 440, Part 508, Section 508.95(C). Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Reports:

Program reports are not applicable. Cash reports are not applicable. The Designated Conservationist will review contract implementation with the participant annually. Annual reviews will be completed early enough in the year to allow for completion of any necessary corrective actions prior to issuance of the annual payment. Expenditure reports are not applicable. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-133. Recipients are subject to audit by the Office of Inspector General, USDA.

Records:

As stipulated in 508.76 B, the applicant must make available to NRCS upon request appropriate records documenting applied conservation activity and production system information. NRCS will request records when conducting field verification with pre-approved applicants. The designated conservationist does not need to collect, store, or re-calculate the data contained in the applicants records, but instead will examine the field conditions and records to determine whether or not they substantiate the CMT resource inventory information provided by the applicant during the application process. As covered in 508.76 C, NRCS will request written records and conduct on-site field verification to substantiate that the conservation activity and production system information represented by each approved applicant during the CMT resource inventory was accurate.

10.926 CHESAPEAKE BAY WATERSHED PROGRAM (CBWP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Food Security Act of 1985, Public Law 99-198.

OBJECTIVES:

The Chesapeake Bay Watershed Program (CBWP) helps agricultural producers improve water quality and quantity, and restore, enhance, and preserve soil, air, and related resources in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed through the implementation of conservation practices. These conservation practices reduce soil erosion and nutrient levels in ground and surface water; improve, restore, and enhance wildlife habitat; and help address air quality and related natural resource concerns. CBWP encompasses all tributaries, backwaters, and side channels, including their watersheds, draining into the Chesapeake Bay.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture, uses CBWP funds to enter into contracts with eligible producers to share the costs of the applicable conservation treatment on agricultural lands in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed. NRCS provides payments for approved conservation practices and systems and land use adjustments within a time schedule specified by the conservation plan. The CBWP contracts may be modified to increase funds provided the increased cost is the result of a valid contract modification within the original contract scope and intent. The modification must follow the rules of the conservation program used to apply the conservation treatment.

Applicant Eligibility:

Only agricultural producers owning or operating within the Chesapeake Bay Watershed are eligible to participate in CBWP. In addition, NRCS applies the eligibility requirements of the particular natural resource program used to implement CBWP (e.g., the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) (16 U.S.C. 3839aa et seq.), the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) (16 U.S.C. 3839bb-1)). Limited resource producers, small-scale producers, beginning farmers and ranchers, socially-disadvantaged producers, and federally recognized Indian tribes are encouraged to apply.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

To be eligible, the agricultural producers must be in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions at 7 CFR part 12, and in compliance with the Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) payment limitations at 7 CFR part 1400.

Credentials/Documentation:

Evidence that applicant has control over land to be entered into contract and submits an acceptable conservation plan for the farm or ranch unit of concern that incorporates needed natural resource conservation practices and provide either a social security number or individual tax identification number of all proposed beneficiaries. Applicants claiming either limited resource producer or beginning farmer classification may be asked to provide documents to justify their claim. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-110. Program participation is voluntary. The applicant applies to NRCS at the local USDA Service Center on Form NRCS-CPA-1200. Applications may be filed at any time during the year. The participant develops a CBWP plan of operations that identifies what conservation practices they are proposing to implement. Technical assistance and conservation payments may be provided to apply needed conservation practices and land use adjustments within a time schedule specified by the conservation CBWP plan of operations. A contract with a participant may apply one or more land management practices or one or more structural practices.

Award Procedure:

NRCS applies the ranking and selection requirements of the particular natural resource program used to implement CBWP (e.g., EQIP, WHIP). NRCS will give special consideration to applicants that address priority natural resource concerns designated. Applications will be periodically ranked and selected for funding based on locally developed ranking process. The ranking criteria of the various Farm Bill program can be found at <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs>.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 10 to 60 days.

Appeals:

A participant may appeal any adverse determination to the State Conservationist.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

This program has no statutory formula.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 75%. Matching requirements for CBWP follow the rules for the particular natural resource program used to implement CBWP (e.g., EQIP, WHIP). Limited resource producers, social disadvantaged producers and beginning farmers and ranchers may be eligible for payments up to 90 percent of the approved practice cost. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

10.927 EMERGENCY WATERSHED PROTECTION PROGRAM - DISASTER RELIEF APPROPRIATIONS ACT

EWP - Disaster Relief (Hurricane Sandy)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Disaster Relief Appropriations Act, Public Law 113-2, 4 Stat. 127.

OBJECTIVES:

The objective of the EWP Program is to assist sponsors, landowners, and operators in implementing emergency recovery measures for runoff retardation and erosion prevention to relieve imminent hazards to life and property created by a natural disaster that causes a sudden impairment of a watershed.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Cooperative Agreements or Contracts)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

All EWP work must reduce threats to life and property and must be economically, environmentally, and socially defensible and sound from a technical standpoint. NRCS may bear up to 75 percent (90 percent within limited resource areas as identified by the U.S. Census data) of the construction cost of emergency measures. The remaining 25 percent (10 percent within limited resource areas) must come from local sources as cash or in-kind services. EWP funds have restrictions. EWP cannot solve problems that existed before the disaster or to improve the level of protection above that which existed before a disaster. It cannot fund operation and maintenance work or repair private or public transportation facilities or utilities. The work cannot adversely affect downstream water rights and funds cannot be used to install measures not essential to the reduction of hazards. In addition, funds cannot be used to perform work on measures installed by another federal agency. EWP funds from this appropriation can only be spent on damage recovery projects from Hurricane Sandy, with a Stafford ACT Designation. (This means that a certain geographical area was declared a major disaster as a result of a Presidential Declaration).

Applicant Eligibility:

For this appropriation, only applicants affected by Hurricane Sandy and only in those areas declared as a major disaster are eligible for assistance through the EWP program.

Public and private landowners are eligible for assistance but must be represented by a project sponsor. Project sponsor means a State government or a State agency or a legal subdivision thereof, local unit of government, or any Native American tribe or tribal organization as defined in section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b), with a legal interest in or responsibility for the values threatened by a watershed emergency; is capable of obtaining necessary land rights, and permits; and is capable of carrying out any operation and maintenance responsibilities that may be required. Sponsors are also responsible for furnishing the local cost share and for accomplishing the installation of work. Work can be done either through Federal or local contracts. Emergency watershed protection is authorized in the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and American Samoa.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

None.

Credentials/Documentation:

Sponsors must submit a formal request to the State Conservationist for assistance within 60 days of the natural disaster occurrence, or 60 days from the date when access to the sites becomes available. Requests must include a statement that the sponsors understand their responsibilities and are willing to pay its cost-shared percentage as well as information pertaining to the natural disaster, including the nature, location, and scope of the problems and the assistance needed. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Potential sponsors submit formal requests for assistance to the NRCS state conservationist.

Award Procedure:

Project sponsors seeking EWP assistance must apply to the STC in writing within 60 days of the natural disaster occurrence. Project sponsors may use SF 424 Application for Federal Assistance but must ensure that following information is provided: (1) A description of the problems encountered; (2) Assistance needed, including the following: Nature of the problem; Location; Scope of the problem; Commitment by the sponsor to assume the following responsibilities: local cost-share; Land rights; acquisition; Permits; Operations and Maintenance (O and M), A statement indicating that funds have either been exhausted or are insufficient to provide adequate recovery measures from the applicable hazards; A statement identifying any other State or Federal funding received or application submitted. On receipt of a formal request for EWP assistance, the State Conservationist or designee shall immediately investigate the emergency situation to determine whether EWP is applicable and to prepare an initial cost estimation for submission to the NRCS Chief or designee. The cost estimation will be submitted no later than 60 days from receipt of the formal request from the sponsor. NRCS may not commit funds until notified by the Chief, or designee, of the availability of funds. Before the release of financial assistance, NRCS will enter into a Cooperative Agreement with a sponsor that specifies the responsibilities of the sponsor under this part, including any required operation and maintenance responsibilities. NRCS will not provide funding for activities undertaken by a sponsor prior to the signing of the agreement between NRCS and the sponsor.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Timeline is dependent upon when funding is appropriated. The EWP program is not a line-item funded program and is reliant upon emergency supplemental appropriations.

Appeals:

Only NRCS decisions relating to eligibility for the EWP Program can be appealed. These decisions may be appealed in accordance with 7 CFR Part 614 and 7 CFR 11, as applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.

Matching Requirements: Percent: 75%. NRCS may bear up to 75 percent (90 percent within limited resource areas as identified by the US Census data) of the construction cost of emergency measures. The remaining 25 percent (10 percent within limited resource areas) must come from local sources as cash or in-kind services.

MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

EWP projects are eligible when it is determined that the current condition of the land or watershed impairment poses a threat to life, health and property. 10.928 EMERGENCY WATERSHED PROTECTION PROGRAM - FLOODPLAIN EASEMENTS DISASTER RELIEF APPROPRIATIONS ACT

EWP-FPE Hurricane Sandy

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Natural Resources Conservation Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Disaster Relief Appropriations Act, 2013, Public Law 113-2, 127 Stat. 4.

OBJECTIVES:

The Emergency Watershed Protection - Floodplain Easement Program (EWP-FPE) provides an alternative measure to traditional EWP recovery where it is determined that acquiring an easement in lieu of recovery measures is the more economical and prudent approach to reducing a threat to life or property (see 7 CFR Part 624). The easement must be restored to the extent practicable to the natural environment and may include both structural and nonstructural practices to restore the flood storage and flow, erosion control, and improve the practical management of the easement. Structures, including buildings, within the floodplain easement must be demolished and removed, or relocated outside the 100-year floodplain or dam breach inundation area.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

NRCS may bear up to 100 percent of costs related to easement acquisition and related acquisition costs. NRCS will determine easement compensation in accordance with applicable regulation and other law. NRCS will not acquire any easement unless the landowner accepts the amount of the easement payment that is offered by NRCS. NRCS reserves the right not to purchase an easement if the easement compensation for a particular easement would be too expensive, as determined by NRCS. NRCS may provide up to 100 percent of the restoration and enhancement costs of the easement. NRCS may enter into an agreement with the landowner or another third party to ensure that identified practices are implemented. NRCS, the landowner, or other designee may implement identified practices. Restoration and enhancement efforts may include both structural and non-structural practices. An easement acquired under this EWP-Floodplain Easement regulations shall provide NRCS with the full authority to restore, protect, manage, maintain, and enhance the functions and values of the floodplain. EWP-FPE funds from this appropriation can only be spent on eligible Floodplain Easement projects that have suffered damage from Hurricane Sandy and are located within a Stafford ACT Designation. (This means that a certain geographical area was declared a major disaster as a result of a Presidential Declaration).

Applicant Eligibility:

For this appropriation, only applicants affected by Hurricane Sandy and only in those areas declared as a major disaster are eligible for assistance through the EWP-FPE program.

Pursuant to 7 CFR 624.10(b)(2), NRCS may determine land is eligible under for EWP-FPE if any of the following apply:

1) The floodplain lands were damaged by flooding at least once within the previous calendar year or have been subject to flood damage at least twice within the previous 10 years.

- 2) Other lands within the floodplain are eligible, provided the lands would contribute to the restoration of the flood storage and flow, provide for control of erosion, or that would improve the practical management of the floodplain easement.
- 3) Lands would be inundated or adversely impacted as a result of a dam breach.

NRCS may determine that land is ineligible under this section if any of the following apply:

- 1) Implementation of restoration practices would be futile due to onsite or offsite conditions.
- 2) The land is subject to an existing easement or deed restriction that provides sufficient protection or restoration, as determined by the Chief of NRCS, of the floodplains functions and values.
- 3) The purchase of an easement would not meet the purposes of this part.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Private and non-federal landowners are eligible for EWP-FPE.

To be eligible for FPE, the NRCS will require participating landowners to

- 1) Comply with the terms of the easement.
- 2) Comply with all terms and conditions of any associated agreement.
- 3) Convey title to the easement that is acceptable to NRCS and warrant that the easement is superior to the rights of all others, except for exceptions to the title that are deemed acceptable by NRCS.

For projects that include parcels with residential dwellings or other structures on nonagricultural lands (such as flood mitigation efforts intended to assist families in moving from flood-prone areas as part of EWP recovery efforts), a local sponsor will be identified and serve as the local cooperating entity for these efforts. A sponsor will be a local or State unit of government (city, county, conservation district, watershed conservancy district, or State agency) that has a local presence and staff available to assist in the implementation of the program.

Credentials/Documentation:

The landowner must provide a copy of the vesting deed to the land. If the landowner is an entity, the entity must provide a list of the individuals who comprise the entity, including the percent of ownership for each individual, to the Farm Service Agency (FSA). The entity must provide documents to FSA and NRCS that show the entity to be legal and valid in the State and which members have the authority to sign contractual documents on behalf of the entity.

If funds are being requested for the purchase of easements on lands with residences or other nonagricultural structures, the State Conservationist (STC) must provide confirmation that the acquisition is part of a strategy that will facilitate the restoration of an entire reach of the floodplain. The relatively high cost of these transactions requires a greater level of documentation that the benefits to the floodplain outweigh the costs. In addition, the STC must provide confirmation that the project sponsor will acquire fee title to the easement area. This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-87.

Preapplication Coordination:

NRCS state offices in impacted states will submit an assessment of potential level of interest in areas with eligible lands. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-102. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Landowners may only enroll land in the Emergency Watershed Protection for Floodplain Easements (EWP-FPE) Program through a permanent easement. Landowners apply for the EWP-FPE using the Application for Long-Term Contracted Assistance.

Award Procedure:

- 1) States receive applications, gather landowner information, rank applications, conduct preliminary investigations, and determine land and landowner eligibility
- 2) The STC will list all applications received during the announced sign-up period in rank order, beginning with the highest-ranked easement first.

- 3) States will submit an Easement Request Package to NHQ that includes documentation of land eligibility, landowner eligibility, and evidence of damage related to Hurricane Sandy.
- 4) Easement Request Packages will be reviewed and project selection will be conducted by the Deputy Chief for Programs.
- 5) Selected applications will be notified, either through an intent to continue letter for projects that will be individually appraised or through the issuance of Option Agreement to Purchase for projects with easement compensation determined through the Area-wide Market Analysis and Geographic Area Rate Cap process.
- 6) When the OATP has been signed by the applicant and the STC, the acres are considered enrolled in the program. At this time, the funds are obligated to the landowner as the vendor for the easement purchase cost only. The landowner may choose to assign all or a portion of the easement acquisition payment to the closing agent through a properly executed assignment of payment provided to NRCS along with the signed OATP.
- 7) The effective period of the OATP may not exceed 12 months from the date of the STCs signature. The effective period may be extended when necessary using the Option Agreement to Purchase Amendment. The STC may delegate, in writing, the authority to sign the OATP (and amendments) to the State program manager. No further delegation of this authority is allowed.

1) In addition to the above described activities, for EWP-FPE applications on land with residences or other structures, NRCS will enter into a cooperative or project agreement with the project sponsors prior to the commencing of easement acquisition activities. The agreement must specify the reimbursable tasks to be carried out by the sponsor to expedite the easement acquisition process.

2) In order to reduce the administrative burden and easement management cost to NRCS, sponsors are required to purchase the fee simple title from the landowner and enroll properties in a strategic manner that increases the likelihood that the floodplain can be reconnected.

3) The FPE warranty easement deed is closed before the fee simple interest is conveyed to the sponsor, unless a different order of recordation is desired by NRCS and authorized by the Office of the General Counsel.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Timeline is dependent upon when funding is appropriated. The FPE program is not a line-item funded program and is reliant upon emergency supplemental appropriations.

Appeals:

Only NRCS decisions relating to eligibility for the EWP-FPE Program can be appealed. These decisions may be appealed in accordance with 7 CFR Part 614 and 7 CFR 11, as applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

EWP Floodplain easements are a long-term solution and exist for perpetuity. After initial eligibility and project selection, easement acquisition phase requires 12 to 18 months on average. Following easement acquisition phase, restoration implementation phase requires 1 to 3 years until all practices are installed and vegetative practices are considered established. Continues until all EWP-FPE Program measures are installed (relocation or demolition of structures and/or floodplain restoration practices). Maintenance and monitoring of floodplain easements continues in perpetuity. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: lump sum.

Reports:

Program reports are not applicable. Cash reports are not applicable. Easement milestones include enrollment, closing, recording, restoration completion, and monitoring. These milestones are tracked in the National Easement Staging Tool (NEST). NEST reports will be generated quarterly to track milestones. Expenditure reports are not applicable. Landowners are required to comply with the terms of the easement, comply with all terms and conditions of any associated agreement. Convey title to the easement that is acceptable to NRCS and warrant that the easement is superior to the rights of all others, except for exceptions to the title that are deemed acceptable by NRCS.

Audits:

This program is excluded from coverage under OMB Circular No. A-133. The count and condition of closed easements is reported annually in the agency's financial statement pursuant to requirements of the Statements of Federal Financial Accounting Standard 29.

These basic and objective data are necessary to maintain an orderly association between the consumption, supply, marketing, and input sectors of agriculture. NASS completed another 48 state Cropland Data Layer.

Census of Agriculture: NASS finalized an online reporting system for the Census of Agriculture improving data quality and reducing respondent burden. NASS continually researches, evaluates, and analyzes ways to improve census preparation, data collection, and processing. NASS designed an innovative computer assisted personal interviewing solution to facilitate quality and efficiency increases in the data collection program.

NASS opened a national operations center to provide an infrastructure for increased telephone data collection capacity in a centralized environment, to centralize sampling frame activities, and to improve training of telephone and field interviewers through focused and deliberate delivery of a standardized training protocol.

NASS successfully installed video conferencing capabilities (VTC) in 2010 and expanded the use of VTC meetings for communication, collaboration and decision making in real time without the travel expense. Fiscal Year 2013: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2014: No Current Data Available
