FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 406 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA) (7 U.S.C. 7626), as reauthorized by Section 7306 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) (Public Law 110-246), authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to establish a competitive grants program that provides funding for integrated, multifunctional agricultural research, extension, and education activities. Subject to the availability of appropriations to carry out this program, the Secretary may award grants to colleges and universities [as defined by section 1404 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. 3103)], as amended, on a competitive basis for projects that address priorities in United States agriculture and involve integrated research, education, and extension activities, as determined by the Secretary in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board (NAREEEAB). Section 7129 of the FCEA amended section 406(b) of AREERA (7 U.S.C. 7626(b)), adding Hispanic-serving agricultural colleges and universities (HSACUs) as eligible entities for competitive funds awarded under this authority (see Part III.B. of RFA for more information).

, Public Law 89-106, 7 U.S.C 7626; Competitive, Special, and Facilities Research Grant Act, Public Law 89-106, 7 U.S.C 450i; Title V of the Rural Development Act of 1972, Public Law 92-419, 7 U.S.C 2204a.

OBJECTIVES:

GENERAL:

NIFA Integrated Programs provide support for integrated research, education, and extension activities. Integrated, multi-functional projects are particularly effective in addressing important agricultural issues through the conduct of problem-focused research that is combined with education and extension of knowledge to those in need of solutions. These activities address critical national, regional, and multi-state agricultural issues, priorities, or problems. Integrated Programs hold the greatest potential to produce and disseminate knowledge and technology directly to end users while providing for educational opportunities to assure agricultural expertise in future generations. See individual program Requests for Applications for additional information about the topics.

SEVERAL PROGRAMS ARE FUNDED UNDER CFDA 10.303. SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

(1) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: National Integrated Water Quality Program
The goal of the National Integrated Water Quality Program is to improve the quality of our Nation's surface water and groundwater resources through research, education, and extension activities. Projects funded through this program will facilitate achieving this goal by advancing and disseminating the knowledge base available to agricultural and rural communities. Funded projects should lead to science-based decision-making and management practices that improve the quality of the Nation's surface water and groundwater resources in agricultural and rural watersheds. See RFA for priority areas.

(2) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: National Integrated Food Safety Initiative
The purpose of the National Integrated Food Safety Initiative is to support food safety projects that demonstrate an integrated approach to solving problems in applied food safety research, education, or extension. Various models for integration of applied research, education, and extension will be considered for funding. Applications describing multi-state, multi-institutional, multidisciplinary, and multifunctional activities (and combinations thereof) are encouraged. Applicants are strongly encouraged to address at least two of the three functional areas of research, education, and extension (i.e., research and extension, research and education, or extension and education).

(3) Integrated Research, Education, And Extension Competitive Grants Program: Regional Integrated Pest Management Centers

The goal of the Regional Integrated Pest Management Centers (IPM Centers) is to promote the development and implementation of IPM by facilitating collaboration across states, disciplines, and purposes. IPM Centers will establish and maintain information networks, build partnerships to address pest management challenges and opportunities, evaluate the impact of IPM implementation, communicate positive outcomes to key stakeholders, and manage funding resources effectively. Successful applicants to this program will demonstrate the capacity and commitment necessary to advance the goals of the National Roadmap for Integrated Pest Management (www.ipmcenters.org/IPMRoadMap.pdf), and evaluate the progress of this advancement. The IPM Roadmap addresses pest management needs for production agriculture, natural resources and recreational environments, and residential and public areas.

(4) Integrated Pest Management: Crops at Risk Program
The goal of the CAR program is to enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically based sustainable IPM system(s). Preferably, this should involve a diversity of tactics and approaches for a single or specific food or fiber commodity in commercial production for pre- and/or post-harvest system(s). The program addresses either a major acreage or high value crop commodity such as key fruits and vegetables. The primary emphasis is on crop productivity and profitability, while addressing critical environmental quality and human health issues. The CAR program will fund integrated multifunctional/multidisciplinary research, education, and extension projects for crops with high priority IPM needs as identified by stakeholders.

(5) Integrated Pest Management: Risk Avoidance and Mitigation Program
The goal of the Risk Avoidance and Mitigation (RAMP) program is to enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically based sustainable IPM strategies and system(s) for (a) multi-crop food and fiber production systems; (b) an area-wide or a landscape scale agroecosystem; or (c) a documented pesticide impact on water, human or environmental health. RAMP applications may address major acreage agricultural production systems, high value crops such as key fruit and vegetable systems, or other agroecosystems. The primary emphasis of the application should be on productivity and profitability while addressing critical environmental quality and human health issues. The intent of RAMP is to fund medium-term projects that emphasize systems approaches.

(6) Integrated Research, Education, and Extension Competitive Grants Program: Integrated Pest Management: Methyl Bromide Transitions Program
The goal of the Methyl Bromide Transitions (MBT) program is to support the discovery and implementation of practical pest management alternatives to methyl bromide uses or minimize methyl bromide emissions for which the United States is requesting critical use exemptions. The program is focused on integrated commercial or field scale research that targets short- to medium-term solutions.

(7) Integrated Organic Program
The purpose of the Integrated Organic Program is to solve critical organic agriculture issues, priorities, or problems through the integration of research, education, and extension activities. The Organic Transitions Program (ORG) funds the development and implementation of research, extension, and higher education programs to improve the competitiveness of organic producers and producers who are adopting organic practices. Funding opportunities for the ORG Program is included in the same Request for Applications (RFA) as the Organic Research and Extension Initiative (OREI).

PLEASE NOTE: THIS PROGRAM DOES NOT FUND START UP BUSINESSES.

(8) Regional Rural Development Centers (RRDCs):
The RRDCs play a unique role in USDA's service to rural America. They link the research and educational outreach capacity of the nation's public universities with communities, local decision makers, entrepreneurs, families, and farmers and ranchers to help address a wide range of development issues. They collaborate on national issues that span regions-like e-commerce, the changing interface between rural, suburban, and urban places, and workforce quality and jobs creation. Each tailors programs to address particular needs in its region.

(F) Methyl Bromide Transition (MBT) Program:

For FY 2014:

A $443,727 project was funded to study non-chemical methods for sustainable management of strawberry diseases. This project is using a systems approach to combine the natural crop protection allyl isothiocyanate, crop rotation with broccoli cover crops, and chitin soil amendments. If successful, this approach could be used by both organic and conventional farmers to manage diseases of this important specialty crop.

A $475,638 project was funded to study integrated pest management option to manage red flour beetle in rice mills. These insects cause direct losses through damage and consumption of rice and significant losses when contaminating food which lead to rejected shipments and lost sales. This impacts groups in the Rice Millers Association, National American Millers Association, and pet food manufacturers.

A $498,956 project was funded to study the use of radio-frequency as a methyl bromide alternative for treatment of wood packaging materials. This work would aid in preventing the entrance of invasive insects on wood packing materials, such as Asian Longhorn Beetle was introduced.

(G) Organic Transition Risk Assessment Program (ORG):

2014 Funded Projects

2014-03385: Agroecological strategies for balancing tradeoffs in organic corn and soybean production. This project is intended to improve organic crop production by developing practical cover cropping and crop rotation strategies that overcome tradeoffs between short-term profitability and long-term sustainability. Project will establish a new transition-to-organic field experiment at research stations in New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland to test advanced cover crop-based management systems. The project will compare cover crop interseeding and rotational no-till strategies to standard organic crop production practices to quantify differences in profitability and ecosystem services including crop performance, soil health, greenhouse gas emissions, weed seed predation, and nectar provisioning for pollinator conservation. While it has broader implications for addressing problems with greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and water quality, this project is organic farmer-focused and builds on stakeholder interest in diverse cover crop mixtures and interseeding cover crops using aerial applicators and spinner spreaders at layby cultivation.

2014-03365: Promoting Native Bee Health and Pollination Services on Diversified Organic Produce Farms

This proposal will evaluate the effects of transitioning to organic farming on native bee community health and pollination services. The First Component will evaluate farm characteristics that promote healthy native bee communities on long-term organic and transitioning produce farms. The Second Component will determine if habitat augmentation expedites the development of healthy native bee communities on long-term organic and transitioning farms. The Third Component will develop an extension program to provide farmers with the tools to maintain native bee communities in their farming systems and ensure the projects influence endures.

2014-03386: Implementation of non-antibiotic programs for fire blight control in organic apple and pear in the western United States. Recently, the National Organic Program established a sunset date of October 2014 for antibiotics for fire blight suppression in organic pome fruit, requiring a transition to non-antibiotic methods in 2015. This project will help move non-antibiotic fire blight control from development to implementation. It will: a) refine non-antibiotic control programs to maximize fruit finish quality; b) continue evaluation of other non-antibiotic materials with potential for adoption in organic pome fruit; c) adapt non-antibiotic control recommendations to disease risk models; d) monitor commercial organic orchards for establishment of a biocontrol agent, for presence of the pathogen, and for disease severity; and e) teach and extend information on non-antibiotic control to the organic tree fruit community.

2014-03354: A Natural Approach to Human-Pathogen Suppression: Can Biodiversity Fill the Gaps? The goal of this project is to provide organic growers with practical ways to reduce the risk of harboring human pathogens (e.g., E. coli O157:H7) on their farms by conserving and augmenting beneficial coprophagous insects and microbes. Working on mixed-vegetable farms varying in their levels of livestock integration, the project will: (1) Quantify biodiversity of feces-feeding arthropods (e.g., dung beetles, flies) through intensive field sampling; (2) Assess functional-genetic diversity of soil microbes, focusing on genes likely to be active in feces digestion; and (3) Relate biodiversity among coprophagous arthropods and microbes to rates of feces removal and E. coli suppression.

If successful, this approach could be used by both organic and conventional farmers to manage diseases in this important specialty crop.

A $488,444 project will be funded to promote the adoption of supplemental fumigation strategies to manage soilborne pests and pathogens that take into account the importance of vertical and horizontal pest management zones. This supplemental strategy will aid Florida's small fruit and vegetable growers.

A $499,998 project will be funded to improve pest management in the dry cured pork and artisan cheese industries during the aging process.

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

The National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) solicits proposals to fund existing and new cooperative agreements through a request for application process.

All RFAs are published on the Agency's website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2002, a panel of USDA scientists knowledgeable in the Nation's plant and animal disease diagnostic capability, recommended to the Secretary a plan of initiating a comprehensive national network of laboratories for the rapid detection and diagnosis of plant and animal diseases. The institutions selected by the panel for initial inclusion in the network were recommended using the following criteria:

- (1) Existing scientific capacity;
- (2) Existing laboratory capacity which could be modified to meet Biosafety Level 3 requirements;
- (3) Both animal and plant diagnostic capabilities;
- (4) Geographical location meeting one or more of the following requirements: located in an area with a high risk of disease/pest incursions; located in an area with high concentration of vulnerable agricultural activity; complements or supplements regional Federal laboratory activity or is in an area not effectively served by an existing Federal facility;
- (5) State-of-the-art communication and information technology systems. Must be capable of managing secure communications with other laboratories and central reporting unit; and
- (6) An effective outreach/extension system.

These recommendations were utilized to select the original cooperative agreement recipients and are annually evaluated by USDA/NIFA in network planning.

Proposals are subject to a merit review process conducted by NIFA staff members.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

For FY 2014:

This program supported three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. The agency made 30 award renewals based on 30 proposals to support the networks.

EDEN - More than 21 million people are better served in 26 states because local leaders are better prepared for food or agricultural disasters. The 3,000 Extension educators have more resources at their disposal through the EDEN network and webpage. EDEN became 20 years old and now celebrates national recognition and leadership in disaster education. And an example, the Emergency Management Institute called on EDEN when they wanted to develop a national, disaster exercise on agriculture. They have become adept with social media. In 2014, an exercise was conducted that indicated 1.4 million people can be reached in minutes with a single communication. The potential return on that investment was estimated at nearly $800 for each dollar invested. They trained about 3000 university staff and volunteers via webinar and had more than 200 views of YouTube videos addressing disaster response topics.

NPDN Several regional hub and state laboratories obtained or extended their APHIS certification to diagnose citrus greening and/or sudden oak death, supporting our mission to be prepared for surge samples that threaten US agricultural security. Several states utilized the surge capacity of the regional centers during the 2014-2015 year. Several states also obtained certification for Phytophthora ramorum. Diagnosticians improved their proficiency for high-risk pathogens such as Ralstonia solanacearum R3B2, Citrus Greening, Zebra Chip, and Phytophthora ramorum plus topics such as Bioinformatics, and Laboratory Accreditation through the STAR-D accreditation system. The network continues to build relationships with homeowners and agricultural professionals that serve as additional eyes in the field to recognize agrosecurity threats early in an incursion.

NAHLN Several labs obtained full accreditation with the American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians (AAVLD) in 2014. Critical tests are supported to address the mission of safeguarding public health, enhancing the health of all animals and improving the economic well-being of livestock producers nationwide. Laboratories have completed or maintained proficiency certification for several important endemic and foreign animal diseases, including: avian influenza, Newcastle disease, John's disease, classical swine fever, foot and mouth disease, bovine spongiform encephalopathy, leptospirosis, bovine leukemia virus, bluetongue, chronic wasting disease, and equine infectious anemia. The current situation with avian influenza speaks to the importance of such a network. Thousands of samples are processed for some pathogens and tens of thousands for some of the more common disease organisms. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

For FY 2015:

This program supported three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. The agency is in the process of making 30 award renewals based on 30 proposals. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

For FY 2016:

This program, the Food and Ag Defense Initiative supports three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. A new cooperative agreement will be set in 2016 for the National Plant Diagnostic Network. It is anticipated that the changes will be minor since continuity is an important consideration in agrosecurity. The agency expects to make about 30 awards or award renewals based on 30 new or existing cooperative agreements.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

Thirty award renewals were processed.

National Animal Health Laboratory Network: Arizona

Regional Center Plant Diagnostic Facility

NPDN National Database/National Network of Diagnostic Centers National Animal Health Laboratory - NAHLN:LA

Washington Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory Participation as a Core Laboratory in the National Animal Health Laboratory Network. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

The purpose of one project is to further integrate and expand Extension's educational role before, during and after a disaster, using the all-hazards approach adopted by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. This project helped EDEN provide strategic guidance and support to NIFA, USDA, and member institutions in disaster education. Specifically, with this project, EDEN continued use of its network and communication tools to distribute educational materials and information aimed at reducing the impacts of disasters. This project made Extension a more effective partner in food and agricultural defense education by continuing maintenance, promotion, and use of previously developed EDEN materials and the development of new materials.

One project addressed the coordination and collection of diagnostic information from land grant universities and state departments of agriculture in a standardized manner insuring the quality of information. The purpose of this project was to enable complex pattern analysis of diagnostic information collected in order to detect anomalies, thus allowing recognition of new outbreaks earlier than is currently possible.

Five different projects enabled regionally diverse institutions to host regional diagnostic centers for the National Plant Diagnostics Network (NPDN). The NPDN, working together with various federal and state agencies, has the overall goal of enhancing national agricultural security from bioterrorist attack through the protection of health and productivity of plants in agricultural and natural ecosystems in the U.S. The specific purpose of this network is to provide a functional nationwide network of public agricultural institutions with a cohesive, distributed system to quickly detect high consequence pests (here defined as arthropods and weeds) and biological pathogens (here defined as plant microbial disease agents and nematodes) that have been introduced intentionally or accidentally into agricultural and natural ecosystems, identify them, and immediately report them to appropriate responders and decision makers.

Twenty eight projects supported National Animal Health Laboratory Network

(NAHLN) laboratories. The NAHLN has implemented national surveillance systems for highly pathogenic avian influenza, classical swine fever, bovine spongiform encephalopathy, and other important animal diseases. These surveillance programs have been used, among other things, to demonstrate freedom from disease in support of international trade, resulting in increased trade income. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

This program is intended to support three multi-institutional homeland security networks via non-competitively awarded cooperative agreements: The National Plant Diagnostic Network, the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and the Extension Disaster Education Network. The agency plans to make 35 award renewals based on 35 existing cooperative agreements.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2002, a panel of USDA scientists knowledgeable in the Nation's plant and animal disease diagnostic capability, recommended to the Secretary a plan of initiating a comprehensive national network of laboratories for the rapid detection and diagnosis of plant and animal diseases. The institutions selected by the panel for initial inclusion in the network were recommended using the following criteria:

- (1) Existing scientific capacity;
- (2) Existing laboratory capacity which could be modified to meet Biosafety Level 3 requirements;
- (3) Both animal and plant diagnostic capabilities;
- (4) Geographical location meeting one or more of the following requirements: located in an area with a high risk of disease/pest incursions; located in an area with high concentration of vulnerable agricultural activity; complements or supplements regional Federal laboratory activity or is in an area not effectively served by an existing Federal facility;
- (5) State-of-the-art communication and information technology systems. Must be capable of managing secure communications with other laboratories and central reporting unit; and
- (6) An effective outreach/extension system.

These recommendations were utilized to select the original cooperative agreement recipients and are annually evaluated by USDA/NIFA in network planning.

10.305 INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE AND EDUCATION GRANTS (ISE)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 229 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA) amended Section 1459 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. Section 3292b) to authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make competitive grants to colleges and universities in order to strengthen United States economic competitiveness and to promote international market development. Section 7141 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (7 U.S.C. 8701 note) authorized the International Science and Education Competitive Grants Program (ISE).

, 7 U.S.C 3292b.

OBJECTIVES:

The purpose of ISE is to support the internationalization of food, agriculture and related programs at U.S. universities and colleges. It is intended that ISE will improve the ability of American students, business people, and community members to compete more effectively in the global world of agriculture. ISE projects are to strengthen the global competence and competitiveness of American colleges, universities and businesses in the food, agriculture, and related sectors. In addition, ISE projects must be directed to agricultural research, extension, and/or teaching activities that enhance the capabilities of American colleges and universities to conduct international collaborative research, extension and teaching. Our success in the global arena will increasingly require U.S. colleges and universities to produce graduates who can operate competently in domestic and international settings. Through their outreach efforts, universities and colleges also play a critical role in helping U.S. producers successfully operate in foreign markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funded projects will respond to specific needs and strengths of the university or college that will enable it to strengthen the global competence of students, faculty and staff in agriculture and related areas and enhance business performance in international agriculture and related sectors through extension, research and/or teaching programs. Each institution may submit no more than two proposals as the lead institution. No institution acting as the principal or lead institution will receive more than one grant during the current competition.

Therefore, institutions are encouraged to establish on-campus quality control mechanisms to ensure that only the highest quality proposals are submitted for consideration.

Program funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities (i.e., greenhouses, laboratories, or other structures).

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, amended the National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), limiting indirect costs to 22 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by colleges and universities and defined in section 1404 of NARETPA. The terms college and university mean an educational institution in any State which (1) admits as regular students only persons having a certificate of graduation from a school providing secondary education, or the recognized equivalent of such a certificate; (2) is legally authorized within such State to provide a program of education beyond secondary education; (3) provides an education program for which a bachelor's degree or any other higher degree is awarded; (4) is a public or other nonprofit institution; and (5) is accredited by a nationally recognized accrediting agency or association.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Colleges and universities; public or other nonprofit institutions.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs).

Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

All RFAs are published on the Agencies website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process. Please see the following Grants.gov link for more information: http://www.grants.gov/applicants/get_registered.jsp. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA.

Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
- (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;
- (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;
- (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and
- (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

Evaluation Criteria will be delineated in the RFA.

(Biodiesel Fuel Education Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 9006 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (Public Law 110-246), amended the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8101 et seq.) to re-establish the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program which requires that the Secretary make competitive grants to eligible entities to educate governmental and private entities that operate vehicle fleets, other interested entities (as determined by the Secretary), and the public about the benefits of biodiesel fuel use. The Secretary delegated this authority to the Chief Economist, who in turn delegated this authority to the Director of the Office of Energy Policy and New Uses (OEPNU). OEPNU has joined with NIFA for assistance in administering Biodiesel Education under the authorities found in the Economy Act (31 U.S.C. 1535) and Section 1472 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3318). Specific Biodiesel Education administrative provisions are found in 7 CFR 2903., 7 U.S.C 3318.

OBJECTIVES:

The goals of the Biodiesel Fuel Education Program as originally established in Section 9004 of the Farm Security Investment Act of 2002 (7 U.S.C. 8104) were to stimulate biodiesel consumption and to stimulate the development of a biodiesel infrastructure. The information and outreach activities to raise awareness of the benefits of biodiesel fuel use complemented the incentives provided by the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (EPA) (Public Law 109-58), and the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (Public Law 110-140). As a result of increased awareness and consumption of biodiesel over the past 5 years, the FY 2008 Biodiesel Education program will focus on educational programs which will support advances in infrastructure, technology transfer, fuel quality, fuel safety and increasing feedstock production.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

This funding is used for education and outreach activities. Program funds may not be used for renovation or refurbishment or research space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition or construction of buildings or facilities. Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved research and extension objectives. Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Funds made available under Biodiesel Education shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligibility is restricted to nonprofit organizations or institution of higher education (as defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001)).

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Nonprofit organizations or institutions of higher education (as defined in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001)).

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

All RFAs are published on the Agencies website and Grants.gov. Applicants must complete the Grants.gov registration process. An environmental impact statement is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.Gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;
- (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields;
- (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs;
- (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations;
- (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the Request for Application (RFA).

10.307 ORGANIC AGRICULTURE RESEARCH AND EXTENSION INITIATIVE

(OREI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 7206 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (FCEA) amended section 1672B of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade (FACT) Act of 1990 (7 U.S.C. 5925b) amending and re-authorizing the Organic Agriculture Research and Extension Initiative (OREI). The FACT Act, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture, in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board (NAREEEAB), to make competitive grants to support research and extension activities regarding organically grown and processed agricultural commodities for eight legislatively-defined goals. See RFA Part I.B. for further general information and specific details. , 7 U.S.C 5925b.

OBJECTIVES:

Facilitate the development of organic agriculture production, breeding, and processing methods.

Functionally identify soil microbial communities and ways to manage microbial dynamics to enhance nutrient cycling and disease suppression;

Develop systemic approaches to weed, insect and disease management;

Prevent, control, and treat internal and external parasites in various livestock species; and Breed crops for disease and insect resistance, good yield in a biologically diverse system, compatibility with intercrops, good response to organic fertility sources, horizontal resistance (traits determined by multiple genes).

Evaluate the potential economic benefits to producers and processors who use organic methods.

Analyze potential economic costs, returns and risks of organic production systems;

Use environmental valuation tools to quantify externalities of producing food, and compare externalities of producing organic and conventional food; -

Analyze price and market structures, including ability of small, medium-, and large-scale growers to access different markets, in order to frame policies that minimize concentration within the industry; and

Analyze marketing channels to document how organic food is distributed, what share of the organic food dollar is returned to the farmer, and the implications of large-scale manufacturers entering the organic market.

Explore international trade opportunities for organically grown and processed agricultural commodities.

Compare compatibility of certification standards used in different parts of the world, with the ultimate goal of harmonization and reciprocity;

Undertake marketing studies of international consumer demand for U.S. produced organic goods; and Perform Welfare analyses (quantified gains and losses for producers and consumers) of trade policies affecting international competitiveness, including implementation of the National Organic Program, domestic support programs such as the Conservation Security Act, country of origin labeling, GMO labeling, etc.

Determine desirable traits for organic commodities.

Examine relationships between nutrients in the soil and nutrients in the food grown on that soil, including long-term soil nutrient and crop nutrient profiles under conventional and organic management;

Perform comparisons of nutrient levels between organic and conventional crops and relationship, if any, between taste and nutrient profile; Investigate the role of post-harvest handling and treatment in the maintenance of quality in fresh market organic products; and Determine the reasons for consumer preferences for organic goods. Identify marketing and policy constraints on the expansion of organic agriculture.

Analyze opportunities and constraints to organic agriculture resulting from provisions of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002;

Investigate specific barriers to markets, such as scale-based regulations that restrict family farm access to processors and/or markets;

Study negative lender perception of organic farming and ways to change this; and Analyze regulatory barriers, such as lack of access to Federal farm programs, and developing solutions to these challenges.

Conduct advanced on-farm research and development that emphasizes observation of, experimentation with, and innovation for working organic farms, including research relating to production and marketing and to socioeconomic conditions.

(Note: Many topics from other goal areas can be conducted on working farms.)

Develop rigorous on-farm systems research designs; and Conduct long-term, interdisciplinary systems research.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Integrated Organic Program is particularly interested in proposed projects that emphasize research and outreach that assist farmers and ranchers with whole farm planning and ecosystem integration.

Projects should plan to deliver applied production information to producers.

Fieldwork for both program areas must be done on certified organic land or on land in transition to organic certification, as appropriate to project goals and objectives. Refer to the USDA National Organic Program (<http://www.ams.usda.gov/nop>) for organic production standards. NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

Section 7132 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act amended section 1462 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 3310), increasing the limit on recovery of indirect costs from 19 percent to 22 percent of total Federal funds provided under the award.

Therefore, the recovery of indirect costs on awards made by NIFA under this program area may not exceed the lesser of the institution's official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 22 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

*Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions. Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. For example, if an awardee's indirect costs are capped at 22 percent pursuant to section 1462(a) of NARETPA (7 U.S.C. 3310(a)), the awardee may request 11 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution. Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 22 percent.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals. For both ORG and OREL, all award recipients may subcontract to organizations not eligible to apply provided such organizations are necessary for the conduct of the project.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

State agricultural experiment stations, all colleges and universities, other research institutions and organizations, Federal agencies, national laboratories, private organizations or corporations, and individuals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors:

- (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities;

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

2014 Funded Project

2014-05381: Farmer Designed Systems to Reduce Tillage in Organic Vegetables This is an integrated research and extension project that will increase the successful adoption of reduced tillage by organic farmers by 1) identifying weed and cover crop management practices to optimize soil health benefits while preventing pest problems; 2) identifying strategies to reduce tillage and labor use in permanent beds used on very small farms; 3) evaluating complementary soil fertility management practices to insure optimum crop performance; 4) adapting equipment and practices to suit the scale and resources of various organic farm sizes; and 5) documenting biological and economic benefits relative to their costs to help growers identify situations where adoption is most beneficial.

2014-05340: Breeding Non-commodity corn for organic production systems. The project will develop inbred lines and open pollinated corn varieties with the following breeding targets: Pollen exclusion systems for non-GMO corn, improved nutritional quality, including high methionine corn for poultry and Quality Protein Maize for livestock feed and Blue corn for novelty food products.

2014-05326: Evaluation of the Milk and Meat Residues of Organic Therapies for Mastitis. Organic dairy farmers must use alternatives to proven antibiotics to treat one of the most costly diseases in dairy production: mastitis. The proposed project will be informed by a regional stakeholder advisory panel and will evaluate 3 organic mastitis treatments with antibacterial potential, and disseminate the results via short courses, web seminars, and fact sheets. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

The use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility is not allowed under this program. With prior approval, and in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, some grant funds may be used for minor alterations, renovations, or repairs deemed necessary to retrofit existing teaching or research spaces in order to carry out a funded project.

However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that the alterations, renovations, or repairs are essential to achieving the major purpose of the project.

Grant funds may not be used for endowment investing. Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award.

Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Fully discretionary.

(1) Effective FY '13, Appropriations for the Resident Instruction Grants (RIIA CFDA 10.308) and Distance Education Grants (DEG CFDA 10.322) were consolidated under Research & Education Activities, Grants for Insular Areas Program. However, different legislative authorities are applicable and separate Requests for Applications (RFAs) were issued under the respective CFDA numbers.

For FY 2015 the proposed budget of $1.8m will consolidate RIIA and DEG program into Grants for Insular Areas Program. Further, in the hope to continue building capacity across two oceans, DEG and RIIA RFAs request regular applications only. This will certainly empower institutional ownership and responsibility since 2005 in managing its own budget in furthering educational needs based on local culture, human and natural resources. (SCRI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Specialty Crop Research Initiative (SCRI) is authorized by Section 7311 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, which added section 412 to the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA). Section 412 of AREERA establishes a specialty crop research and extension initiative to address the critical needs of the specialty crop industry by developing and disseminating science-based tools to address needs of specific crops and their regions. , Public Law 105-185, 7 U.S.C 7632.

OBJECTIVES:

The Specialty Crop Research Initiative (SCRI) was established to solve critical industry issues through research and extension activities. SCRI will give priority to projects that are multistate, multi-institutional, or trans-disciplinary; and include explicit mechanisms to communicate results to producers and the public. Projects must address at least one of five focus areas: research in plant breeding, genetics, and genomics to improve crop characteristics; efforts to identify and address threats from pests and diseases, including threats to specialty crop pollinators; efforts to improve production efficiency, productivity, and profitability over the long term; new innovations and technology, including improved mechanization and technologies that delay or inhibit ripening; and methods to prevent, detect, monitor, control, and respond to potential food safety hazards in the production and processing of specialty crops including fresh produce.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved research and extension objectives. Funds shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees). Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents. INDIRECT COSTS: Not to exceed 22% of Federal Funds awarded. Applicants may use both the unrecovered indirect costs associated with the Federal Budget and the unrecovered indirect costs associated with the Non-Federal Budget to meet their matching requirements.

Indirect costs may not be recovered on third-party matching contributions.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by Federal agencies, national laboratories, colleges and universities, research institutions and organizations, private organizations or corporations, State agricultural experiment stations, individuals, or groups consisting of two or more of these entities.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Applications may be submitted by Federal agencies, national laboratories, colleges and universities, research institutions and organizations, private organizations or corporations, State agricultural experiment stations, individuals, or groups consisting of two or more of these entities.

Credentials/Documentation:

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

At the end of July 2014, a peer-review panel evaluated 75 applications requesting a total of $191,176,448, which were received in this years competition for the traditional SCRI program. The peer panel include faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, industry scientists, and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

After peer review, 22 new awards were made as Standard Research & Extension Projects, Planning Grants, and Coordinated Agricultural projects, which totaled to approx. $51.7M. The funding rate for this program in FY14 was 29% for new awards.

The SCRI citrus greening program peer review panel was completed in November, 2014, with 43 applications evaluated, requesting a total of approx. $154.6M. Following peer review, 7 awards were made for: one Coordinated Agricultural Project and six Standard Research & Extension Projects, totaling approx. $23.5M. The funding success rate for FY 2014 was 16%. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

For the FY 2015 award cycle, NIFA anticipates that approximately $72,000,000 will be available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. This amount is divided into two programs: $49,000,000 for the traditional SCRI program and $23 million for a program specific for citrus greening disease.

Pre-applications were solicited and subject to a stakeholder relevancy review, during which reviewers selected 57 pre-applications to be invited for full applications. Full applications will be evaluated by a peer-review panel in August 2015. The peer panel will include faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, industry scientists, and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

NIFA anticipates funds will be available to support approximately 15-30 new awards as Standard Research & Extension Projects, Planning Grants, and Coordinated Agricultural Projects. The funding rate for this program in FY15 will be between 15-40% for new awards.

The SCRI citrus greening program will use the same two-stage review process: relevancy review and scientific peer review. The relevancy review as held in July 2015 and the scientific review will be held in fall 2015. NIFA anticipates funds available to support 5-10 new awards, with a funding success rate of 10-25%.

Funded projects address one or more of the following legislatively mandated focus areas: (a) Research in plant breeding, genetics, and genomics to improve crop characteristics; (b) Efforts to identify and address threats from pests and diseases, including threats to specialty crop pollinators (c) Efforts to improve production efficiency, productivity, and profitability over the long term (including specialty crop policy and marketing); (d) New innovations and technology, including improved mechanization and technologies that delay or inhibit ripening; and (e) Methods to prevent, detect, monitor, control, and respond to potential food safety hazards in the production and processing of specialty crops, including fresh produce. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: For the FY 2016 award cycle, NIFA anticipates that approximately $76,800,000 will be available for project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. This amount is divided into two programs: $52,800,000 for the traditional SCRI program and $24 million for a program specific for citrus greening disease.

Pre-applications will be solicited and subject to a stakeholder relevancy review, during which reviewers will select those applications to be invited for full applications. Full applications will be evaluated by a peer-review panel. The peer panel will include faculty from land grant and non-land grant colleges and universities, industry scientists, and practitioners from the food and agricultural sciences community.

NIFA anticipates funds will be available to support approximately a total of 15-30 new awards as Standard Research & Extension Projects, Planning Grants, Coordinated Agricultural Projects, and eXtension Projects. The funding rate for this program in FY16 will be between 15-30% for new awards.

The SCRI citrus greening program will use the same two-stage review process: relevancy review and scientific peer review. NIFA anticipates funds available to support 5-10 new awards, with a funding success rate of 10-25%.

Funded projects address one or more of the following legislatively mandated focus areas: (a) Research in plant breeding, genetics, and genomics to improve crop characteristics; (b) Efforts to identify and address threats from pests and diseases, including threats to specialty crop pollinators (c) Efforts to improve production efficiency, productivity, and profitability over the long term (including specialty crop policy and marketing); (d) New innovations and technology, including improved mechanization and technologies that delay or inhibit ripening; and (e) Methods to prevent, detect, monitor, control, and respond to potential food safety hazards in the production and processing of specialty crops, including fresh produce.

STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT OF MULTIPLE DISEASES IN STRAWBERRY NURSERIES AND PRODUCTION FIELDS IN THE EASTERN U.S. 2014-51181-22377

Lack of coordination between disease management in nurseries and fruit production plantings is a weak link in commercial strawberry production. Our research indicates that current nursery practices often produce plants cryptically infected by one or more destructive pathogens, which may possess greatly elevated resistance to one or more key fungicides. Our project proposes a systems approach to disease management that links practices across the propagation to production continuum. We propose to do so by developing new, non-chemical technologies, including aerated steam, nighttime applications of UV-B, and novel use of LED lighting to suppress a broad array of destructive pathogens. We propose to manage the critical issue of fungicide resistance, combining resistance profiles and the best molecular tools with an epidemiological analysis of historical use patterns to warn nurseries and fruit producers of impending problems before loss occurs. Warnings will be delivered through an expansion of the highly successful Strawberry Advisory System (SAS). The project may lead to breakthroughs in strategic management and non-chemical suppression of plant diseases.

SCALE NEUTRAL HARVEST AID SYSTEM AND SENSOR TECHNOLOGIES TO IMPROVE HARVEST EFFICIENCY AND HANDLING OF FRESH MARKET HIGHBUSH BLUEBERRIES

The U.S. blueberry industry accounts for almost two thirds of the world's production, constituting an important engine of economic growth in rural communities across the nation. Despite its remarkable growth in the past three decades, a shortage of labor for hand harvesting, the increasingly high labor costs, and low harvest efficiencies are becoming bottlenecks for sustainable development of the fresh market industry. Current mechanical harvesters substantially reduce harvesting costs but still result in significant yield losses, poor fruit quality, and are unaffordable for small- to medium-sized producers. Therefore, an affordable harvesting system that maintains fruit quality and reduces ground loss would be embraced by stakeholders of all farm sizes. This project includes four major themes: (i) achieving high fruit quality and low yield loss by developing an affordable and efficient semi-mechanical, ergonomically optimized harvest-aid and conveyance system; (ii) aiding accelerated breeding for mechanical harvestability by developing high-throughput phenotyping systems using imaging techniques; (iii) developing the next generation berry impact recording device to better understand and improve harvest and postharvest handling systems; and iv) describing the dynamics of potential microbial contamination in the new harvest system. A cross-cutting goal is to conduct outreach, as well as economic and ergonomic studies to promote grower adoption.

CLEAN WATER3 - REDUCE, REMEDIATE, RECYCLE: INFORMED DECISION MAKING TO FACILITATE USE OF ALTERNATIVE WATER RESOURCES 2014-51181-22372

Access to high quality water for irrigation is increasingly limited, but reluctance to use recycled water is motivated by the presence of pathogens and agrichemical contaminants, and the lack of readily available information about treatment technologies in terms of economic viability and efficacy. Our objectives are to: (1) publish an online decision support system (system-wide model) to aid growers with identification and implementation of innovative technologies to recycle water for reuse or release from containerized crop production systems, (2) reduce contaminant loading into recycled water sources; (3) identify and develop biological and physical treatment technologies; and (4) effectively communicate project outputs to stakeholders to encourage adoption of defined practices to reduce, remediate, and recycle production runoff. Direct project outcomes include development of a decision support system model(s), a web-based clearinghouse, treatment technologies installed at grower facilities, and informed and educated stakeholders and students. Long-term project outcomes involve helping producers of nursery and floriculture crops to obtain and retain sustainable, alternative sources of water, enhancing their long-term economic viability while decreasing dependence on potable water.

GENOME DATABASE FOR ROSACEAE: EMPOWERING SPECIALTY CROP RESEARCH THROUGH BIG-DATA DRIVEN DISCOVERY AND APPLICATION IN BREEDING 2014-51181-22376

This project will further expand the Genome Database for Rosaceae and provide scientists working on almond, apple, cherry, peach, pear, raspberry, strawberry and other members of this family with centralized access to all of the publicly available trait, genes and marker data as well as querying tools needed to enable their research. It will also further develop the generic database system tripal and provide educational resources for industry stakeholders and the public on research in this important family of crops.

DEVELOPING AN INFRASTRUCTURE AND PRODUCT TEST PIPELINE TO DELIVER NOVEL THERAPIES FOR CITRUS GREENING DISEASE

U.S. citrus growers have a critical need for grove-deployable management practices that keep healthy citrus from becoming infected and infected trees from becoming symptomatic. We present a systems-based pipeline approach delivering commercial, grove-deployable solutions using a novel therapeutic delivery strategy and citrus transgenics. A data integration and analysis platform combining existing complex -omics/biological data with molecular/cellular research will steer hypothesis-driven testing of inhibitors of multiple molecular pathways to provide solutions that can be optimized by combinatorial delivery to citrus. The proposed delivery system has negligible environmental impact, is economical in comparison to current control strategies and is highly tractable, allowing it to function as a delivery vehicle for different solution strategies. Co-delivery with bactericides (previously shown to be effective against HLB through laborious injection methods) will be evaluated as complementary methods of control. To translate these therapeutic treatments into long-term solutions, transgenic research will be initiated to produce interdiction molecules expressed in the phloem. By engaging stakeholders in design and testing stages, and educating the public, we will deliver acceptable solutions that are applicable to citrus greening and extensible to a wide variety of related economically important pathogens of citrus and other specialty crops. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

It is estimated that SCRI will expend approximately $72,000,000 million, with $23 million designated to be available for citrus greening disease. The remaining funded projects will address one or more of the following legislatively mandated focus areas: (a) Research in plant breeding, genetics, and genomics to improve crop characteristics; (b) Efforts to identify and address threats from pests and diseases, including threats to specialty crop pollinators (c) Efforts to improve production efficiency, productivity, and profitability over the long term (including specialty crop policy and marketing); (d) New innovations and technology , including improved mechanization and technologies that delay or inhibit ripening; and (e) Methods to prevent, detect, monitor, control, and respond to potential food safety hazards in the production and processing of specialty crops, including fresh produce. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

It is estimated that SCRI will expend approximately $76,800,000 million, with $24 million designated to be available for citrus greening disease. The remaining funded projects will address one or more of the following legislatively mandated focus areas: (a) Research in plant breeding, genetics, and genomics to improve crop characteristics; (b) Efforts to identify and address threats from pests and diseases, including threats to specialty crop pollinators (c) Efforts to improve production efficiency, productivity, and profitability over the long term (including specialty crop policy and marketing); (d) New innovations and technology , including improved mechanization and technologies that delay or inhibit ripening; and (e) Methods to prevent, detect, monitor, control, and respond to potential food safety hazards in the production and processing of specialty crops, including fresh produce.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grant funds must be used for allowable costs necessary to conduct approved fundamental and applied research, extension and education objectives to address food and agricultural sciences. The competitive grants program shall address the following areas:

- A) Plant health and production and plant products;
- B) Animal health and production and animal products;
- C) Food safety, nutrition, and health;
- D) Renewable energy, natural resources, and environment;
- E) Agriculture systems and technology; and
- F) Agriculture economics and rural communities.

Funds shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees). Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents. Funds shall not be used for the construction of a new building or facility or the acquisition, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of an existing building or facility (including site grading and improvement, and architect fees).

Funds may not be used for any purposes other than those approved in the grant award documents.

Indirect cost is not allowable if awarded as an equipment, conference, or post-doc fellowship grant.

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded. Special Note on Indirect Costs as in-kind matching contributions:

Indirect costs may be claimed under the Federal portion of the award budget or, alternatively, indirect costs may be claimed as a matching contribution (if no indirect costs are requested under the Federal portion of the award budget). However, unless explicitly authorized in the RFA, indirect costs may not be claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution, unless the total claimed on both the Federal portion of the award budget and as a matching contribution does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less. An awardee may split the allocation between the Federal and non-Federal portions of the budget only if the total amount of indirect costs charged to the project does not exceed the maximum allowed indirect costs or the institutions negotiated indirect cost rate, whichever is less.

For example, if an awardees' indirect costs are capped at 30 percent pursuant to FY 2012 appropriated funds, Section 720 of the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2012 (Division A of Pub. L. 112-55), the awardee may request 15 percent of the indirect costs on both the Federal portion of the award and as a matching contribution.

Or, the awardee may request any similar percentage that, when combined, does not exceed the maximum indirect cost rate of 30 percent. Fully discretionary.

(B) FOOD SECURITY:

For FY 2014:

A human behavioral approach to reducing the impact of livestock pest or disease incursions of socio-economic importance. This strengthening Coordinated Agricultural Program (CAP) award was made because understanding the human behavioral dimensions of the introduction, spread, identification, reporting, and containment of new, emerging and foreign pests and diseases of livestock is critically important for developing effective strategies to sustain a productive, profitable and secure food animal sector. Integrated Pest Information Platform for Extension and Education (iPIPE). This CAP award will set up a national infrastructure so private and public professionals who routinely monitor crop health and pest incidence can report, detect, and manage the emergence of pests. The iPIPE provides cyberage tools, information products, and expert commentary for detection and management of new, foreign, or emerging target pests and endemic pests that threaten U.S. crops. By categorizing pests, data, and users, it enables sharing observations while protecting the privacy of individuals, companies, and government agencies.

(F) CHILDHOOD OBESITY PREVENTION:

For FY 2014:

Salud Para Usted y Su Familia [Health for You and Your Family]: Family-Focused Childhood Obesity Prevention

The long-term goal of Salud Para Usted y Su Familia [Health for You and Your Family] (SPUSF) is to reduce the incidence of overweight and obesity among Mexican-heritage children from limited-resource colonias/neighborhoods along the Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas borders with Mexico through a Promotora-led, family-based obesity prevention program that integrates research, education, and extension to target food and beverage consumption, physical activity, and screen-time by changing individual and family behaviors and the home environment in a coordinated manner.

Healthy Bodies Project: Modifying Family and Preschool Environments to Prevent Obesity

This project is designed to examine behavioral and environmental factors that are potential targets for obesity prevention. Specifically, using an experimental approach, we will test an approach to prevent childhood obesity by altering aspects of children's environments in ways that increase food literacy, increase exposure to and intake of vegetables, and increase time spent in active play. We will also determine whether providing guidance to childcare providers and caregivers on practices that promote healthy eating and activity patterns in children bolsters the effects of the classroom environmental modifications. Lastly, we will examine the efficacy of a component designed to increase children's self-regulatory capacity.

Technology and Design Innovation to Support 21st Century School Nutrition

This integrated education, Extension, and research project addresses the need for school-based solutions to address childhood obesity by testing innovative 21st-century student-centered strategies based on behavioral economics to increase student participation in the school lunch program and reduce plate waste. Building upon several successful pilots, the project will be led by university-based child obesity and nutrition researchers in collaboration with Cooperative Extension and school district administration and staff. Using a cluster-randomized controlled trial design, we will assess the 2-year impact of implementing a 3-pronged intervention involving a SmartMeal technology platform, distributed points of sale, and staff promotion of school meals. We will assess impacts on school lunch participation and intake of fruits and vegetables by students.

(H) ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION OF INFECTIOUS DISEASES:

This program was not been recently funded.

(I) PLANT FEEDSTOCK GENOMICS FOR BIOENERGY:

This program was not been recently funded.

(J) WATER FOR AGRICULTURE:

1. The use of Big Data to solve critical water issues:

Recent extreme weather events provide insight into future challenges for agricultural systems across parts of the US due to increasing climate variability. Growing irrigation demand, significant declines in groundwater levels across the High Plains, and inefficient use of fertilizers leading to nitrate leaching, N₂O emission, and pollution of surface water are threats to the U.S. corn-soybean-wheat systems and the industries and ecosystems that depend on them. A consortium of universities led by Michigan State University was awarded $1 M over the next five years to: i) develop and improve management strategies for a water-, nutrient-, and climate-smart agriculture; ii) create and disseminate decision-support tools to help farmers use Big Data (e.g., yield maps and UAV sensors) to adapt to climate variability and increase their resiliency; iii) evaluate the economics of smart agriculture technologies and practices.

2. Sustainability of tile-drained agricultural enterprises:

Drained lands, which comprise about 25% of US cropland, include some of the most productive lands in the world and can experience both water excess and water deficit within any given year.

Storing drained water within the landscape could increase the sustainability of water for agriculture, particularly as intense rainfall and prolonged summer drought are expected to increase under future climate change. Funded at $1 M per year for five years, Purdues team of researchers and extension specialists from eight states has a vision of transformation in the process of designing and implementing agricultural drainage to include storage. To move towards this vision, they will first determine economic and environmental benefits and costs of storing drainage water at individual sites by monitoring nine field sites and synthesizing results with a rich network of data from 33 existing/historic sites. Modeling will be used to extend their field results temporally to include future climate change, and spatially across the region. They will develop tools to apply the research findings in decision-making on the farm, in watersheds, and in state and national policy, through an iterative process of interaction with stakeholders. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015:

(A) AGRICULTURAL AND NATURAL RESOURCES SCIENCE FOR CLIMATE VARIABILITY AND CHANGE:

In FY 2015, an anticipated $1,937,025 continuation award will be made to support a study to increase Southern Great Plains beef-grazing systems resilience to climate variability and climate change mitigating their environmental footprint of agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors: (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities; (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields; (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs; (d) the need to include

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA) (Public Law 111-5) reauthorizes and amends the TAAF Program to provide both technical assistance and cash benefits to eligible producers of raw agricultural commodities and fishermen impacted by increased imports contributing to a specific decrease in the national average price, or quantity of production, or value of production of, or cash receipts for the agricultural commodity or fishery products compared to the average of the three (3) preceding marketing years. ARRA amendments to the TAAF program add certain classes of fisherman, increase the reporting requirements and overall transparency of the program, clarify eligibility determinations and associated processes, and clarify the roles and responsibilities of the applicants and the Federal partners., Public Law 107-210, 19 U.S.C 2401-2401g.

Producers of commodities certified by the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) and who meet the eligibility requirements by USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) are eligible for TAAF program participation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

FAS has established a website for TAAF which is now linked to USDA, FSA, NIFA, AMS websites and can be found at: <http://www.fas.usda.gov/ITP/TAA/taa.asp>. Implementing regulations governing the TAAF program (including specific requirements for the provision of training and technical assistance) are expected to be published shortly in the Federal Register (as a Final Rule).

- o Assistance to TAAF-eligible producers with developing an initial business plan based on the initial technical assistance training that can be approved in accordance with the requirements that will be set out in 7 CFR 1580.32. An approved plan must reflect the skills gained by the producer through the intensive technical assistance courses, and demonstrate how the producer will apply those skills to make adjustments to its business and marketing plans and operations with the goal of enhancing its farm profitability and ability to adjust to imports; and Nonfederal entities that expend less than $500,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in Circular No. A-133. This program is also subject to audit by the cognizant Federal audit agency and the USDA Office of Inspector General.

TAFS Codes:

Fiscal Year 2014: Past Fiscal Year: 2014

Projection:

NIFA anticipated a total of 1,373 producers of catfish, asparagus, shrimp, lobster, and blueberry producers who have remained in the Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers program since their eligibility was confirmed would complete all four phases of the training and technical assistance on schedule in the remainder of FY2013 and in FY2014.

Of the 10,983 eligible producers, 90% completed the initial orientation and 93% completed intensive training. Of these, almost all (100%) submitted an acceptable initial business plan. Then 95% of participating producers worked with business planning consultants to complete a business adjustment plan. Overall, 88% of the producers initially approved for TAAF completed all program requirements. This is a prodigious completion rate considering the large number of eligible producers, their diverse demographics, and the big difference in financial incentives between 2010 and 2011.

In the one-year follow up evaluation, about 90% of the producers reported they still participate in producing their commodity. About 74% of the producers indicated that their satisfaction with their business had improved, and 78% made their business more efficient as a result of participating in TAAF. While 64% of TAAF participants rated their experience as favorable or extremely favorable in initial evaluations, in the one-year follow up, 95% rated the program worth their time and 75% would participate in the program again if offered in the future.

The economic stimulus objectives of TAAF were unique for an Extension program. TAAF financial assistance payments had multiple objectives: to entice producer participation, to offset producer surplus loss, to provide financial assistance for producers to invest in their business, and to use TAAF as an economic stimulus program to meet ARRA objectives. The majority of the TAAF participants indicated that they used the financial assistance to invest in needed changes in business operations, purchase equipment to make their business more efficient, or expand their business operations. For 3,339 reporting producers, the average estimated financial impact was $17,151 with a standard deviation of $20,531.

The ARRA also had the objective to increase employment. Not all TAAF participants hire workers, but 1,448 producers were able to retain workers they might have had to furlough, and 424 producers hired additional workers as a result of the TAAF program. These participants were able to retain 3,430 workers and hire 1,085 additional workers. Furthermore, TAAF supported the retention and hiring of Extension educators and business planning consultants.

Extension programs are increasingly being challenged to deliver high impact programs across ethnically and socially diverse audiences using a multitude of education technologies with competitive grant funding. The TAAF program presents a model for future Extension program delivery. Not only did it successfully achieve typical Extension outcomes at a national scale, it also provided a positive example that linking program payments to education is more economically efficient than direct payments alone. TAAF may be the first Extension program that directly linked education achievement to government program payments. TAAF provided over $65 million in financial assistance to help producers adjust to import competition. This financial assistance was tied to business education that targeted improved production efficiency and profitability and was used by participants primarily to invest in their businesses. By using the Extension education system as a policy tool tied to producer financial assistance, we anticipate the gains from this economic stimulus will have greater longer-term impacts compared to a simple spending transfer payment. Overall TAAF was highly effective in meeting its legislative objectives of educating producers to adjust to import competition and to provide economic and employment stimulus. TAAF demonstrates that the Extension system can have major impacts in a rapidly changing economy and can deliver a major outreach program at a national level.

The TAAF program as designed was dependent on the Extension system of Risk Management Education Centers and Extension specialists across the nation to provide curriculum development and delivery. During the planning phase there was great uncertainty which commodities would be TAAF eligible. The Extension system was essential to design and deliver commodity-specific curriculum within the legislatively mandated time constraints. TAAF provided a unique opportunity to evaluate Extension delivery methods. The effectiveness of online program delivery was a major unknown, but the program demonstrated a 58% online completion rate, with 54% highly rating AgPlan, and an increase from 37% to 55% in preference for receiving training online. Despite the relatively older age, lower educational attainment, and potential language barriers of participants, online delivery was highly effective. Fiscal Year 2015: Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers sunsets September 30, 2014. There are no projected FY 2015 expenses, however additional accomplishment reports may be forthcoming as a result of extensive program evaluation efforts that continue. Fiscal Year 2016: Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers sunsets September 30, 2014. There are no projected FY 2015 expenses, however additional accomplishment reports may be forthcoming as a result of extensive program evaluation efforts that continue.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors: (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities; (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields; (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs; (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations; (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application. Producer Stories

Several participating producers have made improvements in their operations through developing operational plans that, through analysis of benchmark variances, lead to targeted areas for improving their business. Examples of these improvements, producers working with the center said:

My feed costs were way over the average of all other ranchers, with a dollar goal to work towards and some grazing and crop planning, I was able to graze my cows throughout the winter. I didn't start my tractor all winter, and it only took 20 minutes every-other day to limit feed the cows with an electric fence. The management plan to reduce feed costs was a HOME RUN, I am planning to expand next year and already have interested neighbors wanting to winter feed their cows the same way.

My Utah Department of Agriculture and Food ARDL loan officer was surprised that a small livestock and farm operation such as mine had a QuickBooks generated Profit and Loss that was balanced and accurate. He was impressed that I knew where the strengths and weaknesses of my business were and that through the FINBIN analysis and benchmarking (www.FINBIN.umn.edu) I had developed a workable plan that addressed in a very meaningful way my production and financial weaknesses.. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015, NIFA announced the availability of grant funds and requests applications for the Farm Business Management and Benchmarking (FBMB) Competitive Grants Program for fiscal year (FY) 2015 to improve the farm management knowledge and skills of agricultural producers; and maintain a national, publicly available farm financial management database to support improved farm management. The amount available for support of this program in FY 2015 is approximately $1.35 million. The grant deadline was May 20, 2015. A panel of reviewers reviewed proposals on July 7, 2015. It is anticipated that four projects were awarded. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: It is estimated that $1.4 million will be available.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

The four funded Farm Business Management and Benchmarking (FBMB) projects maintained and expanded the existing national online farm financial database. Award programs facilitated and increased collaboration with existing farm management associations and farm and ranch business management education programs and will work to help emerging farm benchmarking efforts successfully help producers. Collaboration through funded efforts increased opportunities to use the national database for research purposes.

Benchmarking is an important and growing tool used to improve producers abilities to successfully manage the high risk and price volatility currently being experienced by farmers and ranchers throughout the U.S. The FBMB project improved the profitability and competitiveness of small and mid-sized U.S. farms and ranches by making benchmarking resources available to all U.S. producers. Benchmarking practices used by producers compared their individual farm or ranch data with their peers. Through such comparisons, producers are able to identify strengths and weaknesses within their operations, learn what other producers are doing to increase profits, and make changes within their businesses. Specifically this project restructured some of the underlying database so that the data will be more accessible to researchers; provide training on enhancing data integrity and uniformity and developing greater efficiencies delivering farm financial analysis to producers; develop a file repository that will simplify the process of reviewing farm level files for accuracy and allow real-time uploading of the files to the database; develop formal protocols to allow researcher access to the database; and redesign the user interface for the entire database website. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015: The Center for Farm Financial Management (CFFM) has extensive experience coordinating national educational programs and developing large online databases for public use. Educational programs and software are used in every state in the country by more than 80,000 educators, lenders and producers annually. CFFM has relationships with and delivers programs to diverse agricultural communities including African Americans, Native Americans, women in agriculture, specialty crop producers, organic producers, and traditional producers. CFFM has established the online national farm financial benchmarking database called FINBIN, www.FINBIN.umn.edu. The FINBIN database allows producers and educators to evaluate cost of production data from actual farm data. FINBIN is the largest online farm financial database in the U.S. and currently contains data from more than 3,500 farms representing more than 3.3 million acres of crop land, nearly over 165,000 dairy cows, 105,000 beef animals, and over 1 million pigs. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: Information is not yet available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Only land-grant institutions are eligible to receive AAEP awards. Eligible land-grant institutions include all 1862, 1890, and 1994 land-grant institutions. All consortia members must be land-grant institutions.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

The Afghanistan Agricultural Extension Project (AAEP) represents a single, one-time funding opportunity. NIFA received funding for the project in 2011 from USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service under a reimbursable agreement. A single award was made to a lead institution for to a consortium of universities in November, 2012. The period of performance for the award went through September 30, 2014, at which time all project activities ended.

There has been no recent funding for this Program. However, the award(s) have not yet reached the Statutory Time Limit and/or the project(s) have not yet been closed out.

Hence, NIFA does not wish to archive this CFDA Program.

Range and Average of Financial Assistance:

If minimum or maximum amounts of funding per competitive project grant or cooperative agreement are established, these will be announced in the program announcement or Request for Application (RFA).

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: Training workshops related to priority needs continued in the initial four provinces where AAEP is working. Due to demand from neighboring provinces, AAEP expanded into an additional 13 provinces in FY 2014. The development of inter-provincial working groups strengthened so that Afghanistan can build a network of expertise within their own country. As USDA and NIFA transition out of this project, AAEP will continue to work closely with USAID as there are plans for the universities to continue their activities for an additional three years. USDA's participation in this project, however, will end September 30, 2014.

Fiscal Year 2015: This phase of the project, and NIFAs involvement in it, ended on September 30, 2014. Therefore, there are no projected activities/accomplishments in FY 2015. Fiscal Year 2016: This phase of the project, and NIFAs involvement in it, ended on September 30, 2014. Therefore, there are no projected activities/accomplishments in FY 2016.

PGGP award funds may not be used to support the salaries of U.S. government employees. The purchase of equipment is limited to that which is required for training, teaching, extension demonstration, and other relevant project activities.

Indirect Costs:

The lead and consortium institutions are expected to contribute resources to the accomplishment of project objectives and are encouraged to cost share in order to maximize programmatic impact by limiting indirect cost to ten percent (10%) of total federal funds awarded. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible applicants are State agricultural experiment stations, State cooperative extension services, all colleges and universities, other research or education institutions and organizations, Federal and private agencies and organizations, non-profit organizations, individuals, and any other contractor or recipient.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:
Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Applications should be submitted as outlined in the RFA. Applications must follow the instructions provided per Grants.gov and in the Agency guide to submitting applications via Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Each application will be evaluated in a 2-part process. First, each application will be screened to ensure that it meets the administrative requirements as set forth in this RFA. Second, applications that meet these requirements will be technically evaluated by a review panel. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors: (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities; (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields; (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs; (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations; (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application.

The details of these reporting requirements are included in the award terms and conditions.

Grantees will also be expected to provide a mid-term and final narrative report, complete with photographs, suitable for posting on the National Extension Master Gardener Weblog at <http://blogs.extension.org/mastergardener>. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

1) INCREASING GRADUATE EDUCATION CAPACITIES TO MEET EMPLOYMENT DEMANDS IN AGRICULTURE THRU A COOPERATIVE MASTER'S DEGREE IN AGRICULTURE. This planning project aims to lay the groundwork for creating a cooperative master's degree in agriculture that links Non-Land-Grant Universities with an 1862 Land-Grant University and linking with industries, agencies, and associations combined with a variety of nonconventional delivery systems. It will also investigate expanding non-traditionally utilized professionals and private funding sources. The primary audience will focus on undergraduate students interested in pursuing a master's degree in agriculture, industry leaders with a need for graduate students in agriculture, and faculty with an interest in research and advising graduate students. A committee of members from participating institutions and industry employers will identify the strengths and capabilities for graduate education, determine curriculum and thesis options for such a degree, as well as identify courses, faculty, resources, and teaching methods needed. At the end of the planning project the following products will be developed: 1) Curriculum in graduate education for a master's degree in agriculture that can be completed at a distance with both a thesis and non-thesis option; 2) List of current courses that meet curriculum needs at each institution; 3) List of additional courses needed, with faculty and proposed delivery method identified; and 4) List of research, field experiences, internships and laboratory opportunities.

2) SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURAL SYSTEMS (SAS): CURRICULUM ENRICHMENT TO PREPARE UNDERREPRESENTED GRADUATE STUDENTS FOR CAREERS. The intent of this project is to address a need identified by the USDA wherein the number of underrepresented students who complete agricultural sciences degrees, through STEM-focused learning, is increased. The objectives are to: 1. Recruit underrepresented students into a graduate program in Sustainable Food Systems. 2. Develop a science-based graduate program in sustainable agriculture. 3. Provide an opportunity for experiential learning for students through research using modern laboratory technologies and field research. 4. Provide supportive opportunities for student learning through internships and an international perspective. Products: A new MS degree program in Sustainable Food Systems, which will educate underrepresented students with new graduate courses that emphasize the sustainable production of food and fiber to prepare them (i) for employment in the agricultural sector, or (ii) to enter into Ph.D. programs in agriculture. Outcome/Impact: The intended outcomes for participants are (i) an increased knowledge of sustainable food and fiber production, (ii) increased abilities to conduct biological research, (iii) improved critical thinking skills, (iv) demonstrate the ability to conduct field research, (v) the ability to analyze and publish scientific findings, (vi) an enhanced appreciation of cultural diversity, (vii) the desire to work in agriculture. The impact of the project will be students with a graduate degree in SFS that are employed in the agriculture sector with knowledge, skills and competencies to enhance food security and reduce hunger.

3) DEVELOPING TOMORROW'S AGRIBUSINESS LEADERS THROUGH THE CREATION OF THE PIONEER UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH & COMMODITIES EDUCATION (PURCE) LAB. This project aims to build capacity by creating a commodity trading laboratory in the School of Agriculture. This interdisciplinary project will focus on education, research, and outreach. The projects objectives and goals will be met by: 1) expanding student career and learning opportunities through curriculum development, and instructional delivery systems. The PURCE lab will enhance learning opportunities and decision making skills by providing state-of-the-art trading platforms and simulations; 2) by involving students in undergraduate research efforts in the areas of inter-market analysis, spread analysis, hedging, basis charts development and price forecasting etc.; and 3) by fostering strong outreach and engagement of undergraduate students. Students will contribute knowledge to the community through publications such as scholarly articles, research reports and poster presentations. Industry people, visitors, commodity groups, and brokers will be invited to visit the lab and through these visit we will build private and public relationships. The lab will create hands-on educational experiences where students can assume the roles of agricultural commodity producers, buyers, processors, traders and/or speculators. Additionally, the lab will house the resources such as training materials, videos, test preparation and coaching materials, and trade publications for student use. The lab will provide access to several commodity exchanges and brokerage houses that host free or paid webinars and training seminars.

4) CAPACITY BUILDING ACROSS UPPER MID-SOUTH INSTITUTIONS: ENHANCING TEACHING AND RESEARCH (ETR) THROUGH COVER CROP MANAGEMENT. It is proposed to conduct research and educational activities to enhance the sustainability of agriculture through agroecology and cover crop systems in an effort to enhance soil health. Enhanced soil health has the potential to reduce nutrient runoff that would otherwise contribute to water quality impairment, increase water holding capacity that would reduce irrigation pumping and water use, increase rooting depth that would enhance nutrient use efficiency. This multidisciplinary, multi-institutional project will target university faculty, undergraduate students, high school students, farmers, and extension agents in this highly intensive agricultural region. This project will establish a sustainable agriculture field course, regional cover crop fact sheets, cross institutional course sharing, and a course sharing model. Results from the research on cover crop adaptiveness and function will be published and disseminated widely in order to assist producers in selecting specific cover crops for particular desired function in the soil. This has the potential to reduce costly inputs as well as reduce adverse effects to the environment, especially water quality impairment from nutrient runoff. Undergraduate students in agriculture will increase their awareness of cover crop functions and management strategies in the agricultural ecosystem.

5) SOWING THE SEEDS FOR A MULTICULTURAL 21ST CENTURY IN THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR. This project seeks to: 1) inform high school students of the value of agriculture education and career opportunities in related fields, 2) train high school students in important leadership and soft skills to make them college and career ready, 3) provide professional development training to prepare undergraduate students to be career ready, and 4) provide mentors to the student participants. The audience is approximately 1,600 undergraduate students including some 37% are reported from underrepresented groups 3,000 high school students who attend recruiting events, and 20 high school participants in the project leadership program. The expected outcomes are: 1) One hybrid leadership curriculum for high school students that instills leadership and soft skills training for high school students and exposes them to the rigor and expectations of college level work and one hybrid professional development course integrated across the college to provide skills needed to transition from college to work, 2) a mentoring network, 3) recorded bilingual accessible informational videos to improve recruitment of prospective students. The broad impact of the proposed project is the capacity to create a pipeline of students from high school to college and prepare them to be college and career ready upon graduation. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015: Descriptions of funded projects will be available the first quarter of FY 2016. Information is not yet available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016:

10.327 COMMON BEAN PRODUCTIVITY RESEARCH FOR GLOBAL FOOD SECURITY COMPETITIVE PROGRAM

Bean Productivity Research

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Economy Act, 31 U.S.C 1535; Consolidated Appropriations Act 2010, Public Law 111-117; Section 632(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, 22 U.S.C 2151.

OBJECTIVES:

To develop approaches and/or methods that can address challenges to common bean production among small holder producers in food insecure countries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

In collaboration with and using funding provided by the U.S. Agency for International Development, NIFA is seeking research proposals to develop approaches and/or methods to address challenges to common bean production among smallholder producers. Applications are being solicited for the BPR under the following areas:

- (1) Reducing Production Constraints from Soil Borne Pathogens: Soil borne pathogen pressure on common bean is a significant constraint to production. Such pathogens and associated root rots already reduce production in areas with high rainfall. As rainfall increases, as is expected around the equatorial zone in Africa, in particular East Africa, pathogen-related production constraints may become even more limiting.
- (2) Improving Transformation Technologies in Common Bean: Although success in transforming common bean has been limited to date, it is a promising strategy to address key production constraints. Developing and/or improving the methodologies and approaches necessary to efficiently transform this recalcitrant species is necessary to removing roadblocks to transformation. Grant funds may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established (i.e., approved) by its cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a current negotiated rate, the applicant should request a rate from the Federal agency from which the applicant receives the most funding. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible U.S. public or private research or educational institutions or organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

U.S. organizations or organizations in Feed the Future countries.

Credentials/Documentation:

A Data Universal Number System (DUNS) number must be obtained - A DUNS number is a unique number that identifies an organization. It has been adopted by the Federal government to help track how Federal grant money is distributed. If your organization does not have a DUNS number, call the special Dun & Bradstreet hotline at 1-866-705-5711 to receive one free of charge. You will receive a DUNS number within several days of your request. Please note, individual proprietorships (i.e. farmers, ranchers) can request and receive a DUNS number, but must register with Grants.gov as an organization, not as an individual.

Registration with Central Contractor Registry (CCR) is required - The CCR is the central government repository for organizations working with the Federal government. If your organization is not already registered, identify the primary contact who should register your organization. When your organization registers with CCR, it will be required to designate an e-Business Point of Contact (e-Business POC). The e-Business POC authorizes individuals to submit grant applications on behalf of the organization and creates a special password called a Marketing Partner ID Number (M-PIN) to verify individuals authorized to submit grant applications for the organization. Visit the CCR Web site at <http://www.ccr.gov> to begin this process. It may take several days to collect the information needed for your organizations registration. The CCR Assistance Center can be reached at 888-227-2423. This information collection is approved under OMB Control No. 0524-0039, NIFA Application Kit for Research and Extension Programs.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:
Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under a RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). This information collection is approved under OMB Circular Control No. 0524-0026, Assurance of Compliance with the Department of Agriculture Regulations Assuring Civil Rights, Compliance and Organization Information.. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards.

Award Procedure:

Applications are subjected to a system of peer and merit review in accordance with section 103 of the Agricultural Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 1613) by a panel of qualified scientists and other appropriate persons who are specialists in the field covered by the proposal. Within the limit of funds available for such purpose, the NIFA Authorized Departmental Officer (ADO) shall make grants to those responsible, eligible applicants whose applications are judged most meritorious under the procedures set forth in the RFA. Reviewers will be selected based upon training and experience in relevant scientific, extension, or education fields, taking into account the following factors: (a) The level of relevant formal scientific, technical education, or extension experience of the individual, as well as the extent to which an individual is engaged in relevant research, education, or extension activities; (b) the need to include as reviewers experts from various areas of specialization within relevant scientific, education, or extension fields; (c) the need to include as reviewers other experts (e.g., producers, range or forest managers/operators, and consumers) who can assess relevance of the applications to targeted audiences and to program needs; (d) the need to include as reviewers experts from a variety of organizational types (e.g., colleges, universities, industry, state and Federal agencies, private profit and non-profit organizations) and geographic locations; (e) the need to maintain a balanced composition of reviewers with regard to minority and female representation and an equitable age distribution; and (f) the need to include reviewers who can judge the effective usefulness to producers and the general public of each application. Evaluation Criteria will be delineated in the RFA.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: This program represents a Reimbursable Agreement with one (1) year funding, some projects have FY 2016 expiration dates .

There were no newly funded projects. However, the following represents on-going activities for FY 2014:

The genetic and phenotypic characterization of pathogen isolates collected in bean producing regions of Uganda and Rwanda will elucidate the population diversity of major pathogenic forms, and identify specific isolates for screening breeding populations derived from interspecific crosses between P. vulgaris x coccineus, P. acutifolius, and P. dumosus under controlled conditions at CIAT; Promising materials will be tested under field conditions in natural hot spots in Uganda and Rwanda; RNA seq. of root and hypocotyl tissue of resistant and susceptible genotypes inoculated with individual and multiple pathogens would be conducted in combination with QTL studies on recombinant inbred line populations to identify genomic regions contributing to resistance. The wider impact strategy of the CIAT/Pan-Africa Bean Research Alliance (PABRA) will also be used to deliver integrated root rot management options to farmers in Rwanda and Uganda.

Additionally small rural farm households in the East African highlands are being targeted for Biochar development and use. These households are generally not self sufficient in the staple crops of maize and beans, because of their inability to afford fertilizer inputs, continuous cropping on shrinking landholdings, degraded and infertile soils and a concomitant decline in overall system productivity. Students and farmers are being brought on board. Fiscal Year 2015: NOTE:

This program represents a Reimbursable Agreement with one (1) year funding. Some projects have FY 2016 expiration dates.

There were no newly funded projects. However, the following represents projected on-going activities for FY 2015:

On-going developments in Common Bean resistance to pathogens in the East Africa context. Improvements in Common Bean cropping systems and germplasm are projected. Fiscal Year 2016: NOTE:

This program represents a Reimbursable Agreement with one (1) year funding. Some projects have FY 2016 expiration dates.

10.328 NATIONAL FOOD SAFETY TRAINING, EDUCATION, EXTENSION, OUTREACH, AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE COMPETITIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance (aka FSMA)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Drug Cosmetic Act, 21 U.S.C. 391 et seq. Section 209 of FSMA added section 1011, Subsection (d) entitled National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach and Technical Assistance Program. Paragraph (d)(1) requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services to enter into a Memorandum of Understanding or cooperative agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to establish a competitive grant program within the National Institute of Food and Agriculture. This program will award competitive grants to organizations to provide food safety training, education, extension, outreach, and technical assistance to owners and operators of small and medium-sized farms, beginning farmers, socially-disadvantaged farmers, small processors, or small fresh fruit and vegetable merchant wholesalers. The authority for the National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance Competitive Grants Program is under Section 405 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7625).

OBJECTIVES:

The National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance Program will award grants that increase the understanding and adoption of established food safety standards, guidance, and protocols. Grants awarded through this program will be carried out in a manner that facilitates the integration of food safety standards and guidance with a variety of agricultural production and processing systems, including conventional, sustainable, organic, and conservation and environmental practices carried out by the eligible entities. The assistance provided by these programs shall be coordinated with and delivered in cooperation with similar services or assistance by other federal agencies or programs serving those eligible entities.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The new National Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance proposals are expected to describe Regional Centers that have a leading role in coordinating the development of FSMA-related training, education, and outreach programs and resources for small and medium-sized farms, beginning farmers, socially disadvantaged farmers, small processors, and/or small fresh fruit and vegetable merchant wholesalers. An outreach plan for conducting education and training to a cadre of regional FSMA trainers must be developed, along with an implementation plan for extending both training and technical assistance to the targeted audiences of farmers, processors and vendors in the respective regions.

In addition, the Regional Centers must work collaboratively with a National Coordination Center for Food Safety Training, Education, Extension, Outreach, and Technical Assistance to ensure that training curricula and resources cover core competencies across all funded regional centers, and to provide annual reports to NIFA on overall program objectives. Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriation Act, 2014, limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their request for the recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of the institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

When NIFA is not the cognizant Federal agency. The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established by its cognizant Federal agency (the agency that provides the most funds). If awarded, the applicant will be required to produce a negotiated indirect cost rate agreement from the cognizant agency in order to recover indirect costs. Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the Request for Application, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. NIFAs indirect cost website provides several sample indirect cost rate calculations. NIFAs website is found at: http://nifa.usda.gov/business/indirect_cost_process.html.

During the application process, the applicant is not required to complete the entire indirect cost package identified on NIFAs website. Rather, the applicant need only calculate an indirect cost rate to serve as a basis for requesting indirect costs. If awarded, the applicant will be required to submit a complete Indirect Cost Proposal (ICP) package as explained on NIFAs indirect cost website.

Grantees may not use grant funds awarded under this authority to renovate or refurbish research, education, or extension space; purchase or install fixed equipment in such space; or the plan, repair, rehabilitate, acquire, or construction of buildings or facilities. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

The Cooperative Extension Service for a U.S. state or territory;

A non-profit community-based or non-governmental organization representing owners and operators of farms, small food processors, or small fruit and vegetable merchant wholesalers that has a commitment to public health and expertise in administering programs that contribute to food safety;

An institution of higher education (as defined in Section 101(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001(a)) or a foundation maintained by an institution of higher education;

Federal, State, Local, or Tribal Agencies,

A collaboration of two or more eligible entities; or

Such other appropriate entity, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A collaboration of two or more eligible entities; or

Such other appropriate entity, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). 10.329 CROP PROTECTION AND PEST MANAGEMENT COMPETITIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

Crop Protection and Pest Management (CPPM)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2014 (H.R. 3547) provided NIFA with funding for competitive grants programs authorized under section 406 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7626), including the Crop Protection and Pest Management Program. These funds are available to support integrated, multifunctional agricultural research, extension, and education activities. Subject to the availability of appropriations to carry out this program, the Secretary may award grants to colleges and universities (as defined by section 1404 of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977 (NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. 3103)), as amended, on a competitive basis for projects that address priorities in United States agriculture and involve integrated research, education, and extension activities, as determined by the Secretary in consultation with the National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board., 7 U.S.C 7626.

OBJECTIVES:

CPPM was created to consolidate five previous NIFA programs with related purposes. CPPM will provide funding to address critical state, regional and national integrated pest management (IPM) needs to ensure food security and effectively respond to other major societal challenges.

The CPPM program supports projects that address high priority IPM challenges with coordinated state, regional, and national research and extension efforts. The impact of these research and extension efforts will be increased by the establishment of communication networks and stakeholder participation in setting priorities.

Effective FY 2014, the CPPM program provided support for projects to conduct applied research and development, extension implementation, and regional coordination.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The new CPPM program provides support for three linked programs that emphasize research (discovery), extension (translation) of that knowledge, and enhanced coordination, collaboration and communications among related CPPM programs and grantees. The three program areas are:

Applied Research and Development Program Area (ARDP)

To enhance the development and implementation of innovative, ecologically-based, sustainable IPM tactics and strategies that address regional and/or national IPM priorities.

Extension Implementation Program Area (EIP)

To assure the implementation of IPM through extension activities and coordination with other EIP grantees and other CPPM program areas based on defined state, multi-state, regional, national, or international needs.

Regional Coordination Program Area (RCP)

To increase coordination and improve efficiency of IPM research and extension efforts; facilitate collaboration across states and disciplines; and promote further development and adoption of IPM through regional pest management information networks, collaborative team building and broad-based stakeholder participation. Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriation Act, 2014, limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, you should limit your request for the recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of your institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

When NIFA is not the cognizant Federal agency. The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established by its cognizant Federal agency (the agency that provides the most funds). If awarded, the applicant will be required to produce a negotiated indirect cost rate agreement from the cognizant agency in order to recover indirect costs. Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the Request for Application, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. NIFAs indirect cost website provides several sample indirect cost rate calculations. NIFAs website is found at: http://nifa.usda.gov/business/indirect_cost_process.html.

During the application process, the applicant is not required to complete the entire indirect cost package identified on NIFAs website. Rather, the applicant need only calculate an indirect cost rate to serve as a basis for requesting indirect costs. If awarded, the applicant will be required to submit a complete Indirect Cost Proposal (ICP) package as explained on NIFAs indirect cost website.

Grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used to renovate or refurbish research, education, or extension space; purchase or install fixed equipment in such space; or the plan, repair, rehabilitate, acquire, or construction of buildings or facilities. Fully discretionary.

Applicant Eligibility:

Colleges and universities (as defined in section 1404 of NARETPA) (7 U.S.C. 3103) are eligible to submit applications for the CPPM program. RELATED PROGRAMS:

10.310 Agriculture and Food Research Initiative (AFRI)

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For FY 2014:

The root system is the fundamental means for plants to explore the soil environment and acquire the water and mineral nutrients needed for growth. New crop cultivars that can more efficiently capture resources from the soil are needed for future low-input, high-yield agricultural production systems. In alfalfa, root system architecture (RSA) is believed to affect stand persistence and crop yield. However, selection for persistence and yield has focused on aboveground plant traits, largely ignoring the potential contribution of the root system for crop improvement. The goal of this project is to gain an understanding of root system development in alfalfa for developing germplasm with improved nutrient acquisition and water use to increase persistence and productivity of the crop. Rapid methods will be developed and markers identified to be used to accelerate breeding improved cultivars of alfalfa.

Alfalfa possesses the ability to produce high yields of nutrient dense forage, has excellent drought tolerance, and is an aggressive N fixer. Even so, alfalfa production has declined in the Mid-Atlantic Region from 1 million acres in the mid-1990s to 0.5 million acres in 2013. One way to expand this acreage is to increase exports, as has been successfully done in the western US. If this project is fully implemented, alfalfa acreage in the Mid-Atlantic region could expand by more than 250,000 acres. The development of a successful alfalfa export market in the humid eastern United States is highly dependent upon the production of large quantities of uniform, properly cured, high quality alfalfa hay and containerizing that hay for shipping abroad. This project will evaluate the impact of using hay preservatives (propionic acid and anhydrous ammonia) on the quality and stability of containerized alfalfa hay and develop and implement an alfalfa production school and informational website that specifically targets and supports alfalfa producers in the Mid-Atlantic Region.

Alfalfa provides high quality animal feed and offers numerous environmental benefits to agroecosystems, including nitrogen fixation, control of soil erosion, and disruption of pest and weed cycles. Yield is a critical trait for alfalfa, yet long selection cycles due to the perennial nature of the plant limit genetic gain. Total annual yield can be increased by accelerating the selection cycle and by modulating fall dormancy so that plants grow into the autumn and early winter. This extended growing season enhances total production, provided the fall growth does not negatively impact winter survival. This project will evaluate the genetic gain for biomass yield obtained from two cycles of genomic selection based on genome-wide SNP markers generated using genotyping-by-sequencing. This is the first attempt at using genomic selection in alfalfa, and will indicate what benefit, if any, we can expect from using this selection method. In addition, this project will assess the possibility of characterizing fall dormancy in sward plots, testing an alternative method of characterizing fall dormancy.

Alfalfa is the fourth highest economic value crop in the U.S. and 48% of the nations alfalfa hay is produced under irrigated conditions. However, rapidly diminishing water resources threaten this productive sector. Deficit irrigation strategies are needed to adjust to periodic droughts while sustaining yield, and to improve alfalfa varieties and irrigation methods to sustain production under water deficits. This project team will 1) develop deficit irrigation strategies to conserve water under drought conditions; 2) quantify the interactions between variety and irrigation strategy and assist in developing new germplasm adapted to periodic water deficits; 3) document the practicality and performance of Subsurface Drip Irrigation (SDI) in controlled studies, and on farmers fields; and 4) conduct extension activities and outreach to improve farmer expertise in water management, SDI, and specifically how to deal with periodic water limitations.

This project will do a comprehensive investigation of the biology and management of Lygus bug populations infesting fields of western US alfalfa produced for seed. The team will investigate pest and beneficial arthropod species constituency and abundance, predatory insect feeding behaviors, and dispersal patterns of Lygus. Simultaneously the team will investigate the genetic basis of insecticide resistance, using techniques recently developed. This information will be inserted into a matrix with seasonal insecticide recommendations, based on efficacy on Lygus and safety to beneficial arthropods and pollinators. The material will be made available to growers via traditional and state-of-the-art electronic push extension technologies. Fiscal Year 2015: For FY 2015: These projects are not yet under contract. Awards have not yet been finalized.

Information is not yet available. Pertinent details to be provided by Program at a future date. Fiscal Year 2016: For FY 2016: We expect this year to have similar project types since we do not anticipate that the subject matter will change.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Within guidelines established for the program as described in the RFAs.

10.331 FOOD INSECURITY NUTRITION INCENTIVE GRANTS PROGRAM

Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive Program (FINI)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

National Institute of Food and Agriculture, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

The Agricultural Act of 2014 (Pub. L. 113-79) amended Section 4405 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (7 U.S.C. 7517) and established the competitive grant program, the Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive program (FINI).

OBJECTIVES:

The Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive (FINI) grant program is a competitive program. Projects funded under this program provide incentives to low-income consumers participating in the supplemental nutrition assistance program (SNAP) to purchase fruits and vegetables at the point of sale. The projects supported by this program have the support of State agencies and include use of effective and efficient benefit redemption technologies that can serve as a replicable model for benefit redemption.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The FINI grant program projects will provide incentives to low-income consumers participating in SNAP to increase their purchase of fruits and vegetables. These projects will be evaluated for their success in increasing the purchase of fruits and vegetables and improving nutrition and health outcomes. Proposals must have the support of the State agency, provide incentives at the point of sale, and include effective and efficient technologies for benefit redemption systems that could be replicated.

All FINI grant program recipients will be required to participate in a comprehensive FINI program evaluation conducted by an independent evaluator and conduct a self-evaluation of their own project. The applicant shall perform a substantive portion of the project and no more than 50 percent of FINI Projects (FP), FINI Pilot Projects (FPP), and FINI Large Scale Projects (FLSP) as determined by budget expenditures, may be subawarded.

NIFA will allow applicants to indicate in their proposal if they intend to subgrant more than 50% of the award. This deviation will require NIFA approval.

Projects may divide their budget allocations between partners as it fits their work plan. (For additional knowledge or expertise that is not available within the applicant organization, funds for expert consultation may be included in the All Other Direct Costs section of the proposed budget.)

When preparing budgets, applicants should limit their request for the recovery of indirect costs to the official negotiated indirect cost rate or the de minimis rate of 10% of modified total direct costs (MTDC).

Any non-Federal entity that has never received a negotiated indirect cost rate may elect to charge a de minimis rate of 10% of modified total direct costs (MTDC). (2 C.F.R. 200.414(f)).

When NIFA is not the cognizant Federal agency. The applicant should use the current negotiated indirect cost rate established by its cognizant Federal agency (the agency that provides the most funds). If awarded, the applicant will be required to produce a negotiated indirect cost rate agreement from the cognizant agency in order to recover indirect costs. Applicants may request (i.e., budget) indirect costs using the lesser of: (a) the negotiated rate; or (b) the maximum statutory rate stated in the RFA, if any. If unable to obtain a negotiated rate from its cognizant agency, the applicant is not permitted indirect cost reimbursement. Rather, the applicant may only be reimbursed for allowable direct costs. Violation of Cost Accounting Standards is not permitted when re-budgeting or charging costs to awards.

When NIFA is the cognizant Federal agency. If the applicant does not have a negotiated rate, and NIFA is the cognizant agency, the applicant must calculate an indirect cost rate in order to request indirect costs. NIFAs indirect cost website provides several sample indirect cost rate calculations. NIFAs website is found at: http://nifa.usda.gov/business/indirect_cost_process.html.

During the application process, the applicant is not required to complete the entire indirect cost package identified on NIFAs website. Rather, the applicant need only calculate an indirect cost rate to serve as a basis for requesting indirect costs. If awarded, the applicant will be required to submit a complete Indirect Cost Proposal (ICP) package, as explained on NIFAs indirect cost website

In the case of a for-profit entity, the non-Federal share of the award cannot include services of an employee, including salaries paid or expenses covered by the employer.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible entities include governmental agencies and nonprofit organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Eligible entities include governmental agencies and nonprofit organizations.

Dun and Bradstreet Universal Numbering System (DUNS) Number and System for Award Management (SAM) - each applicant (unless excepted under 2 CFR 25.110(b) or (c), or has an exception approved by the Federal awarding agency under 2 CFR 25.110(d)) is required to: (i) Be registered in SAM before submitting its application; (ii) provide a valid DUNS number in its application; and (iii) continue to maintain an active SAM registration with current information at all times during which it has an active Federal award or an application or plan under consideration by a Federal awarding agency. It also must state that the Federal awarding agency may not make a Federal award to an applicant until the applicant has complied with all applicable DUNS and SAM requirements and, if an applicant has not fully complied with the requirements by the time the Federal awarding agency is ready to make a Federal award, the Federal awarding agency may determine that the applicant is not qualified to receive a Federal award and use that determination as a basis for making a Federal award to another applicant.

Applicants must furnish the information required in the request for applications (RFAs). Successful applicants recommended for funding must furnish the information and assurances requested during the award documentation process. These include, but are not limited to the following:

Organizational Management Information - Specific management information relating to an applicant shall be submitted on a one time basis, with updates on an as needed basis, as part of the responsibility determination prior to the award of a grant identified under this RFA, if such information has not been provided previously under this or another NIFA program. NIFA will provide copies of forms recommended for use in fulfilling these requirements as part of the preaward process. Although an applicant may be eligible based on its status as one of these entities, there are factors which may exclude an applicant from receiving Federal financial and nonfinancial assistance and benefits under this program (e.g., debarment or suspension of an individual involved or a determination that an applicant is not responsible based on submitted organizational management information). FEDERAL AGENCY:

Rural Housing Service, Department of Agriculture

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Loans can be used to construct, or to purchase and substantially rehabilitate rental or cooperative housing or to develop manufactured housing projects. Housing as a general rule will consist of multi-units with two or more family units and any appropriately related facilities. Funds may also be used to provide approved recreational and service facilities appropriate for use in connection with the housing and to buy and improve the land on which the buildings are to be located. Loans may not be made for nursing, special care, or institutional-type homes. Grants are in the form of rental assistance for some units within the underwritten property. The term for an initial Section 515 loan is 30 years with a 50-year amortization period. Each loan is made at a note rate established by the Agency as prescribed in RD Instruction 440.1. Borrowers approved for initial and/or subsequent loans receive interest credit, which reduces the effective interest rate for the Agency's financing, thereby lowering the property's rents. In return for this below-market rate financing, the borrower agrees to lease the projects rental units to income-eligible households at rents approved by the Agency. Borrowers operate on a nonprofit or limited-profit basis.

Applicant Eligibility:

Applicants may be individuals, cooperatives, nonprofit organizations, State or local public agencies, profit corporations, trusts, partnerships, limited partnerships, and be unable to finance the housing either with their own resources or with credit obtained from private sources. 10.435 STATE MEDIATION GRANTS

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Farm Service Agency, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Agricultural Credit Act of 1987.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States in establishing and administering mediation programs and services for agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable), and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are to be used for the operation and administration of a State's mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of the Farm Service Agency (FSA) as meeting the requirements of Section 501 (c) of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (U.S.C. 510), as amended. A grant will not exceed 70 percent of the total fiscal year funds that a qualifying State requires to operate and administer its mediation program, or $500,000, whichever is less. Eligible costs are limited to those that are reasonable and necessary to carry out the mission of the State's mediation program and may include activities related to the intake and scheduling of cases, the provision of background and selected information regarding the mediation process, financial advisory and counseling services, and the mediation session.

Applicant Eligibility:

State governments.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Agricultural producers, creditors of producers (as applicable) and persons directly affected by actions of the Department of Agriculture.

Credentials/Documentation:

Have a mediation program which has been certified by the Administrator of FSA, and for which certification has not been withdrawn; provide evidence to justify the estimated costs of operating and administering the State's mediation program. The Governor of a State or head of an entity designated by the Governor of a State must make a written request to FSA on or before August 1 of each year to receive a matching grant during the fiscal year commencing on October 1, of that same year. Request for certification are accepted after August 1 of each year; however, the State will be considered in order of date received for reserved grant funds. Costs will be determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. To be certified as a qualifying State, the mediation program of the State must mediate issues involving agricultural loans (regardless of whether the loans are made or guaranteed by the Secretary of Agriculture or made by third party); and may provide mediation services for disputes involving wetlands determinations, compliance with farm programs including conservation programs, rural water loan programs, grazing on National forest system lands, pesticides, and such other issues, under the jurisdiction of the Secretary meeting the requirements of Section 501 of Title V of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 (7 U.S.C. 510), as amended. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Award Procedure:

Grant funds will be distributed on a first come, first served basis to qualifying States. If, however, when funds for a fiscal year become available, there are not sufficient funds to give all qualifying States 70 percent of their justified estimated expenses for the fiscal year, the percentage allocation will be reduced so as to give all States the same percentage of their expenses. FSA views the use of grant funds to provide financial advisory or other services in an advocacy context to be inconsistent with the premise of a mediation program, which is to provide a neutral forum for resolution of disputes.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

OBJECTIVES:

Risk Management Agency's (RMA) mission is serving America's agricultural producers through effective, market-based risk management tools and solutions to strengthen the economic stability of agricultural producers and rural communities. To carry out this mission, RMA operates and manages the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

INSURANCE

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) is a wholly owned government corporation created February 16, 1938 (7 U.S.C. 1501.) The program was amended by Public Law (P.L.) 96-365, dated September 26, 1980, to provide for nationwide expansion of a comprehensive crop insurance plan. FCIC is administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA), and promotes the national welfare by improving the economic stability of agriculture through a secure system of crop insurance. FCIC provides an actuarially sound risk management program that protects against agricultural production losses due to unavoidable causes such as drought, excessive moisture, hail, wind, hurricane, tornado, lightning, and insects. In addition to these causes, revenue insurance programs are available under which producers of certain crops are protected against loss of revenue stemming from low prices, poor yields, or a combination of both. Federal crop insurance is available to producers through private insurance companies that market and service policies and also share in the risk. Thus, the program delivery is a joint effort between the Federal government and the private insurance industry. Federal government subsidizes insurance premiums at a variety of levels depending on level of insurance coverage.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: Over the past seven decades, Federal crop insurance has been the primary product provided by the FCIC (administered by the Risk Management Agency (RMA)) and consists of various alternatives designed to improve the economic stability of agriculture. Recent legislative mandates have prompted significant program growth and the development of many large and complex new programs. RMA continuously strives to provide adequate risk protection for our Nations agricultural producers and to identify and address concerns about Federal crop insurance.

RMA continues to evaluate risk management products, review and approve private sector products to be reinsured by FCIC, and ensure delivery of these products to agricultural producers. Risk management products can help producers protect themselves from yield risks, market risks, or both. Examples of more recent, new and innovative insurance tools are Stacked Income Protection (STAX), Supplemental Coverage Options (SCO), whole farm, and Pasture Rangeland and Forage (PRF). For 2014, with over 2.21 million policies on over 294 million net acres, the program provided nearly $109.46 billion in risk protection. Fiscal Year 2015: Fiscal Year 2015: NA. (f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC
Sections 208 of the District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act provides, in pertinent part, that In the administration of the Act of August 30, 1890 (7 U.S.C. 321-326, 328) (known as the Second Morrill Act), the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301-305, 307, 308) (known as the First Morrill Act); and the term "State", is used in the laws and provisions of law listed in the preceding paragraphs of this section shall include the District of Columbia. In the administration of the Act of May 8, 1914 (7 U.S.C. 341-346, 347a-349) (known as the Smith-Lever Act) the University [of the District of Columbia] shall be considered to be a university established for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts in accordance with the provisions of the Act of July 2, 1862 (7 U.S.C. 301- 305, 307,308); and the term "State" as used in such Act of May 8, 1914, shall include the District of Columbia, except that the District of Columbia shall not be eligible to receive any sums appropriated under section 3 of such Act. (a) Renewable Resources Extension Act

The Renewable Resources Extension Act of 1978 (P.L. 95-306, 92 Stat. 349, 16 U.S.C. 1671 et seq.) provides for an expanded and comprehensive extension program for forest and rangeland renewable resources. The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects which have served to expand comprehensive extension programs for forest and rangeland renewable resources on a national, regional, or multi-institutional scale through better program coordination, innovative technologies, and extension models that can be easily duplicated.

(b) Rural Health and Safety

The authority for this program is under Section 502 (i) of Title V of the Rural Development Act of 1972, as amended (7 U.S.C. 2662). The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I. The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Program addresses the Individual and Family Health Education component of the authorization.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

This program is authorized under Section 534(b) of the Equity in Educational Land-Grant Status Act of 1994 (7 U.S.C. 201 note), as amended by the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (AREERA) (7 U.S.C. 7601). This section amends Section 3 of the Act of May 8, 1914 (Smith-Lever Act) (7 U.S.C. 341 et seq.), as amended. Under this authority, appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions (hereinafter referred to as 1994 institutions) for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Title VI Section 604 of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7642) states that -The Secretary of Agriculture shall continue operation of the Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database program (referred to in this section as the FARAD program) through contracts, grants, or cooperative agreements with appropriate colleges or universities.

L. 110-246) grants will be awarded under the Facilities Grants Program to the 1890 land-grant institutions, including Tuskegee University and West Virginia State University. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 appropriates funds under Division A, Title I.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnership Grants Program (aka ARPA and RME):

Section 133 of the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 (ARPA), (Pub. L.

106-224), amended the Federal Crop Insurance Act to add section 524(a)(3); [7 U.S.C. Section 1501 as amended by section 132(a) and section 524]; which requires the Secretary, acting through the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA), to establish a competitive grants program for the purpose of educating agricultural producers about the full range of risk management activities.

, 7 U.S.C 341-349.

OBJECTIVES:

GENERAL: [As reflected in Part I.B. of the Request for Applications (RFA) or Capacity Requests for Applications (Capacity RFA)]

I. Smith-Lever (3b) & (c) Capacity Grants (formerly known as Formula Funds)

a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (formerly known as 3b & c Formula Funds)

These funds are used by institutions eligible to receive funds under the Act of Congress approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled An Act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts (Twelfth Statutes at Large, page five hundred and three) (1862 Land-grant Institutions), for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending or resident in 1862 Land-grant Institutions in the several communities, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

The purpose of this funding is to conduct agricultural extension work.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs)

The purpose of this funding is to increase the level of agricultural extension work. These funds are used to support extension activities identified in the eligible institutions approved 5-Year Plan of Work. Special Needs funds are allocated to a State Cooperative Extension Service to fulfill a purpose or overcome a condition peculiar to the State, as compared to the country as a whole, or for a purpose not normally a part of the continuing extension program.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program

Funds support innovative extension education approaches to addressing risks, hazards and disasters. The Cooperative Extension Service (CES) has an important role in reducing the impact of disasters through extension education. The Extension Special Needs program sponsors targeted projects that enable CES to assist in preparing for, providing an educational response to, and recovering from disasters. Education programming funded by this program will help communities, families and individuals become more self-sustaining by strengthening and increasing their resiliency to disaster. Some types of hazards and disaster related events funded in previous years include uncertainties caused by losses of economic infrastructure, severe weather or other natural disasters, security breaches, human disease, or high consequence animal diseases and plant pests.

There has been an increase in public awareness regarding the number and severity of disaster type critical incidents involving earthquakes, tsunamis, tornadoes, wildfire, drought, contagious disease, and terrorist events. The National Academy of Sciences Committee on Environment and Natural Resources and the Subcommittee on Disaster Reduction of the National Science and Technology Council have acknowledged the many effective roles that the Cooperative Extension System (CES) has played in disaster preparedness, response and remediation.

Within the states and territories, the CES has repeatedly served as the trusted community organization that has helped to enable families, communities, and businesses to successfully prepare for, respond to and cope with disaster losses and critical incidents. Once a disaster has occurred, the local extension outreach includes: 1) Communicating practical science-based risk information, 2) Developing relevant educational experiences and programs, 3) Working with individuals and communities to open new communication channels, and 4) Mitigating losses and facilitating recovery. Never was this more evident than after hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma in 2005 and during the 2008 Midwestern Summer flooding. During and after these incidents, local Extension agents served as a critical communication node throughout affected urban and rural areas, particularly when traditional communication systems were temporarily overwhelmed or destroyed.

The Extension Special Needs RFA encourages proposals that specifically address one or more of the following six key target areas:

1. Education and Technical assistance through inter-disciplinary and multi-state disaster training programs and demonstration projects for problem solving, especially those which build upon already existing strengths, contribute to or expand the EDEN and/or eXtension educational materials related to disaster preparation, mitigation, response and recovery;
2. Collaboration with Federal, state and local agencies and other disaster relief organizations to support education and service activities that enhance recovery of impacted rural communities, schools, businesses and agricultural-based activities;
3. Long range family, community and regional planning projects that will enhance implementation of programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after emergency situations within impacted States and across impacted regions;
4. Communication delivery of key information that meets end-users needs in a timely fashion with consideration of potentially limited communication channels due to disaster situations;
5. Dissemination of credible, science-based information that is reliable and easily accessible even if electronic access is compromised; and
6. Integrated Research and Extension Planning Projects (up to $15,000) are intended to provide assistance to applicants in bringing together teams for the development of highly competitive grant proposals where extension personnel would apply for large grants (in excess of $250,000) from other grant programs (e.g., the Agriculture and Food Research Initiative and etc) and lead nationally important disaster prevention, protection and mitigation projects.

Fundable projects should support education and extension activities which:

1. Reduce risk through planning, disaster preparedness and emergency response by improving communication between the public, community leaders, state and Federal agencies;
2. Develop strategies and educational materials and/or programming in the area of emergency planning, infrastructure design and disaster recovery operation;
3. Develop community networks that provide real-time disaster education information; and/or
4. Develop or expand educational materials regarding disaster issues suitable for use and distribution by the Extension Disaster Education Network (EDEN) or the eXtension Community of Practice working with disaster planning.

(d) CSRS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET CSRS Retirement) Capacity grants (formerly known as "Formula") authorized under the CSRS Retirement Contributions Program. These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

Fiscal Year 2014 represented the last year that NIFA published a RFA for this program.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement)
These grants are used to defray the FERS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

(f) District of Columbia Public Postsecondary Education Reorganization Act Program (Cooperative Extension Programs) aka EUDC

These funds are used by the University of the District of Columbia for the development of practical applications of research knowledge and giving of instruction and practical demonstrations of existing or improved practices or technologies in agriculture, uses of solar energy with respect to agriculture, home economics, and rural energy, and subjects relating thereto to persons not attending the University of the District of Columbia, and imparting information on those subjects through demonstrations, publications, and otherwise and for the necessary printing and distribution of information in connection with the subjects.

2. Agricultural Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, Including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and (newly designated) Central State University (Section 1444)

The purpose of this funding is to support agricultural and forestry extension activities at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions, including Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University and Central State University.

(d) CSRS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET CSRS Retirement):

These grants are used to defray the CSRS Retirement costs to the 1862 land-grant institutions for the former Schedule A Appointments who conduct agricultural extension work.

Funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2007. The amount available for this program is reduced each fiscal year by $1,473,658 and the same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individuals appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staffs time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12-month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division (HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team within Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002) to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) The Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FEGLI);

- 3) The Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) The Federal Employee Retirement System (CSRS);
- 5) The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) The Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institutions annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FELGI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

Fiscal Year 2014 represented the last year that NIFA published a RFA for this program.

(e) FERS Retirement Contributions Program (aka ERET FERS Retirement):

Federal funds are provided for the retirement costs of the former Schedule A Appointments at the 1862 land-grant institutions. These funds are allocated to the 1862 land-grant institutions with former Schedule A Appointments based on each institutions relative share of the total payments to OPM during the previous year.

The separate allocation of funds for this purpose is being phased out over a 10-year period, beginning in FY 2008. The amount available for this program is reduced each year by $376,826 and this same amount is added to the funds available for distribution under the Smith-Lever Act, Section 3(b) and (c), statutory formula.

The Schedule A 213.3113 (a) (1) was issued by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) to employ individuals in the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) as a joint appointment between USDA and the land-grant institution. The official title of Schedule A appointees includes the title Agent (e.g., Agent/Cooperative Extension Director; Agent/Cooperative Extension Educator) as by law only agents with a Schedule A appointment were eligible to participate in the Federal benefit plan(s).

Employment is dependent upon an individuals appointment in the CES at the university. The appointment must be a regular position with at least 50 percent of the staffs time dedicated to extension projects, and the appointee must work and be paid over a 12 month period.

Agents in the Cooperative Extension program are not classified under the General Schedule (GS) classification system or any other Federal pay system. The positions are classified by the employing land-grant institution, and the salary is established according to policies and procedures at the institution.

The OPM has the authority and responsibility for issuing rules and regulations covering Schedule A appointments and resulting benefits. OPM has delegated to the USDA the responsibility for overseeing and managing Cooperative Extension Schedule A appointments and the accompanying Federal benefits, (e.g., retirement and insurance plans). The Human Resources Division

(HRD)/Cooperative Extension Service (CES) Team with Administrative and Financial Management (AFM) of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) carries out this function for USDA.

Effective January 31, 2003, the authority to grant Schedule A Excepted Appointments to CES employees was terminated. Public Law 107-171, Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, dated May 13, 2002, Section 7220, terminated the Schedule A appointing authority used by USDA to grant a companion Federal appointment and Federal benefits to state/university employees of the Cooperative Extension Service. The law allowed the CES Federal appointees that were employed on the day before the date of the enactment of the Act, (i.e., May 12, 2002), to: a) continue to accrue Federal creditable service for retirement; and b) participate in the following benefits as long as the employees continued their employment with the Cooperative Extension Service:

- 1) The Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHB);
- 2) The Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Program (FEGLI);
- 3) The Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS);
- 4) The Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS);
- 5) The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP); and
- 6) The Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP).

The Federal Office of Workers Compensation Program (OWCP) is the only Federal program that will not continue as it is not a program that the dual appointee was vested in. Claims already on file with the Department of Labor (DOL) Office of Workers Compensation Office will continue to be processed by the DOL. Using a formula based in the prior years injury or illness claims, NIFA will pay these claims on behalf of each institution and charge that institution by reducing its annual retirement allocation by the amount remitted. If the amount of claims paid exceeds the institutions annual retirement allocation, NIFA will bill the institution for any OWCP costs in excess of the annual retirement allocation.

Changes and new features for the current Federal Benefits programs such as FEHB, FELGI, TSP and FLTCIP will be offered to the CES organizations and employees that are eligible to participate in the affected program(s). However, former Federal appointees cannot participate in new Federal benefit programs that were not in effect as of May 12, 2002.

Effective January 31, 2003, CES can no longer grant Schedule A Federal appointments to new employees because they no longer have a Federal appointment authority available to make new Federal appointments. Former CES Schedule A appointees may be reappointed to another CES organization and continue their benefits as long as they do not have a break in service.

Notwithstanding [redistributing the funds], the Secretary may waive the matching funds requirement ... above the 50 percent level for any fiscal year for an eligible institution of a State if the Secretary determines that the State will be unlikely to satisfy the matching requirement.

4. OTHER EXTENSION ACTIVITIES - - Funding Restrictions:

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA)

The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects (RREA-NFF).

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(b) Rural Health and Safety

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant.
However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

Indirect costs are unallowable costs, and no funds will be approved for this purpose. Costs that are a part of the institutions indirect cost pool may not be reclassified as direct costs for the purpose of making them allowable.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development or RYD Grants)

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary.
In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of facility space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

(e) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (FARAD)

Pursuant to Sec. 604 of the Agricultural research extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 [7 USC 7642(d)], applicants requesting recovery of indirect costs should limit their requests to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect costs rate or the equivalent of 19 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

(f) Federal Administration (DIRECT APPROPRIATION) - Extension Activities

Section 720 of the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act, 2012 (Pub.L. No. 112-55) limits indirect costs to 30 percent of the total Federal funds provided under each award. Therefore, when preparing budgets, applicants should limit their requests for recovery of indirect costs to the lesser of their institutions official negotiated indirect cost rate or the equivalent of 30 percent of total Federal funds awarded.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447):

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2009 NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No. 95-113).

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities.

In accordance with NAREPTA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

Further, in accordance with Section 7129 of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (House Conference Report 113-333, to accompany H.R. 2642), Central State University has the Designation as 1890 Institution.

(h) Agriculture Risk Management Education Partnerships Grants Program (aka ARPA, ERME & RME)

For Fiscal Year 2014 appropriated funds, Section 716 of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2014 (HR 3547 Pub.L. 113-76) stipulates that indirect costs are not to exceed 30% of total Federal Funds provided under each award.

Other pertinent details will be provided at a future date. Some funds are Fully Discretionary. Some funds are Mandatory. Some funds are formula-based.

1. SMITH-LEVER 3(b) & (c):

(a) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [(aka 3b & c Capacity Grants (formerly known as "Formula" Funds))]:

States are eligible for funds appropriated under this Act according to the following formula: Out of each annual allocation, each State will be entitled to receive a sum of money equal to the sums available from Federal cooperative extension funds for the fiscal year 1962, and subject to the same requirements as to furnishing of equivalent sums by the State, except that amounts heretofore made available to the Secretary for allotment on the basis of special needs shall continue available for use on the same basis. Further, the University of Guam and the University of the Virgin Islands will receive $100,000 each in addition to the sums appropriated for the several States of the United States and Puerto Rico under the provisions of sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act. Of the remainder so appropriated for each fiscal year 20 per cent will be paid to the several States in equal proportions, 40 per cent will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the rural population of each bears to the total rural population of the several States as determined by the census, and the balance will be paid to the several States in the proportion that the farm population of each bears to the total farm population of the several States as determined by the census. Any appropriation made under sections 3(b) and 3(c) of the Smith-Lever Act will be allotted in the first and succeeding years on the basis of the decennial census current at the time the appropriation is first made, and as to any increase, on the basis of decennial census current at the time such increase is first appropriated.

Cost Sharing or Matching

Section 3(e)(1) of the Smith-Lever Act (7 U.S.C. 343(e)(1)) states, with regard to institutions in the 50 states, no allotment shall be made to a State under subsection (b) or (c), and no payments from the allotment shall be made to a State, in excess of the amount that the State makes available out of non-Federal funds for cooperative extension work. However, section 3(e)(4) of the Smith-Lever Act (U.S.C. 343(e)(4)) provides that Effective beginning for fiscal year 2003, in lieu of the matching funds requirement of paragraph (1), the insular areas of [American Samoa,] the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, [Micronesia, the Northern Marianas Islands,] and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the formula funds distributed by the Secretary to each of the insular areas, respectively, under this section..... The Secretary may waive the matching fund requirement [of 50 percent] for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year.

(b) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions (Special Needs) :

Funds will be distributed to the institutions on a quarterly basis. See Appendix A of the Capacity Request for Applications (RFA) for the specific allocation.

Cost Sharing or Matching

1862 Land-grant Institutions in the 50 States must match 100 percent of the Special Needs funds they receive with funds from non-Federal sources such as State or county appropriations. The matching must be in the form of cash. Matching funds must be used for extension activities approved in the eligible institutions 5-Year Plan of Work.

(c) Smith-Lever Special Needs Program :

In-kind and third party contributions are not allowed for the Smith-Lever Special Needs program. Grant awards cannot be issued until ALL required matching has been documented and verified.

2. Matching Alternative. Extension Directors may certify an offset of guaranteed non-Federal funds to your application. The signed certification of offset must be scanned and included as a PDF attachment (see Part IV.,B.,2.,c.,(1) for specific instructions).

3. Matching Exception. Insular Areas: In lieu of the matching funds requirement, the insular areas of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources in an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of the grants awarded. The Secretary may waive this matching fund requirement for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines that the government of the insular area will be unlikely to meet the matching requirement for the fiscal year. Insular applicants may submit a waiver request as a PDF attachment to the application (see Part IV.,B.,2.,c.,(2) for specific instructions).

For all projects:

Cost Sharing or Matching

NARETPA section 1449 (7 U.S.C. 3222d) states that the State shall provide matching funds from non-Federal sources. Such matching funds shall be for an amount equal to not less than ... 100 percent of the formula [capacity grant] funds to be distributed to the eligible institution for fiscal year 2007 and each fiscal year thereafter. ... Finally, it defines qualifying educational activities as programs that address food and agricultural sciences components of an eligible institution.

7 CFR 3419.6 states that The required matching funds for the formula programs shall be used by an eligible institution for agricultural research and extension activities that have been approved in the plan of work required under sections 1444(d) and 1445(c) of the National Agricultural Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977... or for .. qualifying education activities.

4. OTHER EXTENSION ACTIVITIES:

(a) Renewable Resources Extension Act (RREA):

The majority of the appropriated funds are distributed to eligible institutions based on a formula that considers the geographic extent, ecosystem productivity, economic contribution, and population for each state.

Since FY 2002, a small amount of these funds have been used to fund National Focus Fund Projects. (RREA-NFF).

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

(b) Rural Health and Safety (RHSE):

The Rural Health and Safety Education Competitive Grants Program provides funds to meet national goals for addressing the health and access needs of rural Americans.

NIFA does not require matching or cost sharing support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of research, education, or extension space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

(c) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (TCEP):

Appropriated funds are to be awarded to the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions for Extension work and funds are to be distributed on the basis of a competitive application process.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

Under the TCEP, the use of grant funds to plan, acquire, or construct a building or facility, or to acquire land, is not allowed. With prior approval, in accordance with the cost principles set forth in OMB Circular No. A-21, grant funds may be used to purchase equipment, or for improvements, alterations, renovations, or repairs to land, buildings, or equipment, deemed necessary to retrofit existing spaces and resources in order to carry out a funded project under this grant. However, requests to use grant funds for such purposes must demonstrate that such expenditures are incidental to the major purpose for which the grant request is made and no more than twenty-five percent of the project budget may be used to purchase equipment. Any equipment purchased with Federal funds is the property of the grantee or the subgrantee, as appropriate.

(d) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (RYD):

Title IV of the Agricultural Research, Extension, and Education Reform Act of 1998 (7 U.S.C. 7630) authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make grants to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA), the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), the National 4-H Council (4-H Council), and the National FFA Organization (FFA). Section 7309 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act (FCEA) of 2008 reauthorized 7 U.S.C. 7630, which was also amended to provide additional flexibility in content delivery to each organization receiving funds and to allow recipients to redistribute all or part of the funds to individual councils or local chapters without further need of approval from the Secretary. In FY 2009, Terms and Conditions of these awards should facilitate the redistribution without further need of approval. The Omnibus Appropriations Act, 2009 (Pub. L. 111-8) appropriates funds under Division A, Title I for grants to youth organizations pursuant to 7 U.S.C. 7630.

There are no matching requirements associated with the Rural Youth Development program, and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

NIFA has determined that grant funds awarded under this authority may not be used for the renovation or refurbishment of facility space; the purchase or installation of fixed equipment in such space; or the planning, repair, rehabilitation, acquisition, or construction of buildings or facilities.

(g) 1890 Facilities (Section 1447):

NIFA assessed four percent (4%) of the appropriated amount for Federal Administration, distributed sixty percent (60%) of the balance equally, and distributed the remaining forty percent (40%) based on the formula found in Section 1444 of NAREPTA of 1977, as amended (Pub. L. No. 95-113).

Within each institution, the research, teaching and extension programs must each receive at least 20 percent of the annual allocation. The remaining 40 percent may be allocated based on institutional needs for research, teaching, or extension. No more than 60 percent of the total allocation should be directed to research, teaching, or extension. However, if there are unique situations in your institution which warrant a deviation from these guidelines, we will consider requests for reallocation. Such reallocations must be justified by the submission of a situation statement which describes the research, teaching, and extension facilities needs in your institution and how previously available Federal funds were utilized.

NIFA does not require matching support for this program and matching resources will not be factored into the review process as evaluation criteria.

The obligation and expenditure of funds awarded under these grants are limited to equipment, land, buildings and other related costs which are or will be used in the administration and conduct of approved research, teaching and extension activities. In accordance with NARETPA Section 1447 (e), funds provided for this program may not be used for the payment of any overhead costs of the eligible institutions.

Further, in accordance with Section 7129 of the Agricultural Act of 2014 (House Conference Report 113-333, to accompany H.R. 2642), Central State University has the Designation as 1890 Institution. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For Fiscal Year 2014:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Capacity (formerly known as Formula)] Grants Programs:

This formula based program allocation was $286,171,980 with funds being provided to land-grant institutions in each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. Insular Areas. A matching requirement is a key component of the program.

(B) Cooperative Extension at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever Special Needs] Grants Program:

The purpose of this funding is to increase the level of agricultural extension activities and reaching out to new audiences. This special needs formula based program allocation was $1,029,979 with funds being provided to land-grant institutions in selected states of the country.

A matching requirement is a key component of the program.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs [Sections 3 (b) & (c)] Competitive Grants Program:

The Smith Lever Special Needs projects funded the development of educational programs and demonstration activities focusing on disaster preparedness, mitigation, response, and recovery. The projects must support innovative, education-based approaches to addressing emergency preparedness and specific responses related to natural and human-made disasters.

Eight applications were received for FY2014 funding.

The range of proposal requests was from $15,000 to $115,504 and the total allocation available is approximately $462,000.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and (newly designated) Central State University (aka 1890 Capacity Building and/or CBG) Grants Program:

For FY 2015, $43,920,000, was appropriated for this program; of that amount, $42,163,200 was used to support for extension work in 17 states. Individual awards ranged from $1,179,123 to $4,399,907.

The program required a 1:1 dollar match of total funds awarded to each institution.

In FY 2014, half of the institutions were granted matching waivers, which did not exceed 50% of the total amount of funds awarded. Justifications for the waivers varied per institution and state.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and/or ENUT] Grants Program:

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) brings together federal, state, and local resources to target two primary audiences: low-income families with young children and low-income youth. The program is delivered by the 1862 and the 1890 Land-Grant Institutions. It operates in over 800 counties throughout the 50 states, six U.S. territories, and the District of Columbia. Each year, more than one half million new participants complete the program.

In FY 2014, EFNEP received $67,934,000 in federal funding. EFNEP reached 121,850 adults and 392,563 youth directly and over 360,000 family members indirectly. 85% of EFNEP participants who reported income were at or below 100% of poverty, earning $23,850 a year or less for a family of four. At least 72% of all EFNEP adults are minorities. This is significant because poor health disproportionately affects minority and low-income populations. As well, educational opportunities and resources are limited.

EFNEP consistently demonstrates strong results. FY 2014 data confirms adult graduates:

Improve their diets: 94% report more closely following dietary recommendations, including consuming an extra 1/2 cup of fruits and vegetables.

Improve their nutrition practices: 89% improve nutrition practices, such as making healthier food choices and reading nutrition labels.

Stretch their food dollars farther: 84% improve food resource management practices, such as planning meals and shopping with a grocery list.

Handle food more safely: 66% improve food safety practices, such as storing and thawing food properly.

Increase their physical activity rates: 38% increase their physical activity level by 30 minutes or more.

FARM SAFETY COMBINED PROGRAMS (G), (H) & (W):

(G) Farm Safety;

(H) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Program (aka YFSEC); and

(W) Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities - National AgrAbility Project:

In FY 2012, Congress consolidated Extension 3(d) line items Farm Safety (AgrAbility) and Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification into a single line item.

In FY 2014, approximately $4,422,450 was available for project awards (after subtracting administrative and panel costs) to support AgrAbility and Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification (YFSEC) projects.

Of this amount, $334,265 was made available for one 1 continuation award for YFSEC, approximately $1,574,532 for seven 7 AgrAbility continuation awards (including State and Regional AgrAbility Projects and National AgrAbility Project), and $2,513,653 was available for 14 new State AgrAbility awards.

As in the past, the AgrAbility program maintained its focus on supporting state and regional projects that increase the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbility) customers) will become more successful.

Through the YFSEC program, NIFA made a continuation award to Pennsylvania State University for Year 2 of the project initiated in FY 2013 to develop a national training curriculum that lessens agricultural hazards to youth workers. The training will align with Career Cluster Standards (CCS) of the National Council for Agricultural Education for a unified approach to a national farm safety education and curricula-certification program for youth. The project will establish a national steering committee to engage the Department of Education, Department of Labor, FFA, Farm Bureau, Farmers Union, Ag Safety and Health Council of America, National Council for Ag Education, and other relevant partners.

The committee will work to identify curriculum and testing gaps, certification needs and industry-recognized credentials. Curriculum materials will be placed on the eXtension website in the Ag Safety and Health CoP to be used in both formal and non-formal settings. A national outreach strategy will promote use of the curriculum from youth and farm safety instructors to parents and 4-H youth programs.

Additionally, the project will determine the resources required to sustain a clearinghouse for national youth farm safety and education curriculum, state certification requirements and testing. Penn States partners on this project include the Ohio State University, University of Kentucky, Utah State University, and CareerSafe. NIFA made the award through the YFSEC Program, which was established in 2001 in response to the need for alignment between youth vocational agricultural program curricula and youth agricultural safety and health standards.

(I) New Technologies at Ag Extension (aka NTAE):

In FY 2014 the major accomplishment was the development and vetting of a new Strategic Plan for the eXtension Initiative that is partially funded by NTAE funds. The new plan offers more focus on innovation, professional development, and a new financial model. Entering into the implementation phase, eXtension issued an RFP for Innovation Projects, receiving 49 proposals and funding nine. The hiring process for a new Foundation Chief Executive Officer began. Five eXtension Fellows were engaged with State and Local Value Enhancement activity from Purdue University, Fort Valley State University, University of Delaware, University of Vermont, and Virginia Tech. Three Learning Networks were launched around Educational Technology, Women in Agriculture, and Climate Science.

The 2016 National eXtension Conference is being planned and the Australian project continues to expand. Four new user communities have been launched around Big Data, Virtual Reality, Unmanned Aerial Systems, and Wearable Technologies.

For the FY 2014 award cycle, $995,525 will be available for CYFAR-Professional Development and Technical Assistance (PDTA) project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. For this PDTA award, one university was awarded this new continuation award. The funded project is designed to address the professional development and technical assistance needs of the CYFAR SCP grantees.

The CYFAR PDTA Center was developed and serves as a mechanism to support the success of the CYFAR initiative through the development and provision of Project Coaching, Proactive evaluation & technical assistance, and Resources and Tools. Strategic Leadership Team, Advisory Committee, and Subject Matter Experts serve as representatives across the land-grant system representative of 1862, 1890, 1994, and Hispanic-serving Institutions. The PDTA Center supports CYFERnet.org and CYFERnetSEARCH.org.

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education-Professional Development (aka Chapter 3 and/or SARE-PD):

The FY 2014 Appropriations Act consolidated this funding line with the CFDA 10.215 funding line for Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program (aka SARE Chapter 1).

Proposals were expected to be community-based, outreach education programs, such as those conducted through Human Science extension outreach, that provides individuals and families with:

- Information as to the value of good health at any age;
- Information to increase individual or family motivation to take more responsibility for their own health;
- Information regarding rural environmental health issues that directly impact on human health;
- Information about and access to health promotion and educational activities; and
- Training for volunteers and health services providers concerning health promotion and health care services for individuals and families in cooperation with state, local, and community partners.

In order to achieve these program goals, the RHSE program focused on supporting new individual RHSE projects and projects scaling-up existing Extension Programs to State/Regional Levels.

Proposed budgets for new individual projects were capped at $150,000. Proposed budgets for partnership projects that would scale-up existing programs to State or Regional levels could not exceed $300,000.

Of the 21 proposals that underwent panel review, 12 New Individual Projects were recommended for funding. No proposals met RFA requirements for consideration as a Partnership Project.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program and Tuskegee and (newly designated) Central State University (aka Section 1447):

For FY 2014:

Congress appropriated $19,730,000 to support this program. The funding allocation to the states was $18,940,800, which reflects adjustments for administrative costs. In 2014 a new school was designated as an 1890 Land-Grant Institution, bringing the total to 19, which includes Tuskegee University, West Virginia State University, and Central State University. This funding will support the second year of the five-year Plan of Work at 18 of the 1890 Land-Grant Institutions.

In support of the newly designated 1890 Land-Grant Institution, a four-year plan of work and a one-year funding application was requested through a Request for Application with a closing date of August 1, 2014.

The range of funding was $806,696 to $1,510,916 which was distributed to the 19 institutions on a formula basis.

Facilities funds are being used for the acquisition and improvement of agricultural and food sciences facilities and equipment, as well as libraries, so the 1890 land-grant institutions may participate fully in the development of human capital in the food and agricultural sciences.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

For the FY 2014 award cycle, Congress appropriated $1,250,000 to support FARAD, which is funded under its own line item authority.

Four applications were received and evaluated under competition waiver administrative processes. FARAD applications were merit reviewed internally by National Program Staff and all four entities were funded. This 30-year-old high performing integrated consortium of collaborating institutions includes at each Land-Grant campus a lead PD and his/her respective scientific staff.

The funding ratio for this program in FY 2014 was 100% due to the competition waiver process.

FARAD is a university-based national program that serves as the primary source for scientifically-based recommendations regarding safe withdrawal intervals of drugs (used off-label) and chemicals in food-producing animals. As such, FARAD is a key resource for protection of our nation's food supply, including meat, milk, and eggs, against accidental contamination of animal-derived foods with violative residues of drugs, pesticides, or other agents that could compromise food safety.

RENEWABLE RESOURCES EXTENSION ACT COMBINED PROGRAMS (N) & (O) :

(N) Renewable Resources Extension Act (aka RREA); and
(O) Renewable Resources Extension Act-National Focus Fund Projects (aka RREA-NFF):

The accomplishments for FY 2015 are expected to be similar to the impacts and accomplishments in FY 2014. RREA Capacity funds are being distributed to 72 land-grant institutions. These funds support extension programs that address the pressing and urgent issues facing rangeland and forestland resources and their owners and managers. Upon completion of the peer review panel in the 4th Quarter of FY 2015, the RREA-NFF will support four projects at a regional or national scale.

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive) Grants Program (aka RHSE):

In FY 2015, approximately $1.4 million is available for this program. The proposed projects must not exceed $350,000 total for a two-year project period. Only one application per region (for a total of four) will be recommended for funding. All funded projects must have a strong project outcomes evaluation component.

Projects funded through the RHSE program in FY15 are expected to be health education projects that provide individuals and families living in rural areas with:

- Information as to the value of good health at any age;
- Information to increase individual or family's motivation to take more responsibility for their own health;
- Information regarding rural environmental health issues that directly impact on human health;
- Information about and access to health promotion and educational activities; and
- Training for volunteers and health services providers concerning health promotion and health care services for individuals and families in cooperation with state, local, and community partners.

Proposed projects were expected to have a health education focus and Extension outreach strategy guided by an existing health framework/model (e.g., Cooperative Extensions National Framework for Health and Wellness), as well as to identify health outcome indicators and lead to measurable changes in health knowledge, attitudes and behaviors for project participants.

Prospective applicants were also encouraged to coordinate efforts with state offices of rural health to avoid duplication of activities, partner with Regional Rural Development Centers on outcome indicators, measures, and communication of project impacts, and to enlist for their projects evaluators/individuals skilled in conducting program outcome evaluations and reporting.

Of the 14 proposals reviewed by the FY2015 RHSE panel, the regional distribution was as follows: two proposals from North East, three proposals from North Central, nine proposals from South, and no proposals from West. Processing of panel reviews and funding recommendations is currently under way.

The program expects to make four awards.

Applications have been received from 19 Institutions. Awards will be made on or about September 30, 2016.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

For the FY 2015 award cycle, Congress appropriated $1,250,000 to support FARAD, which is funded under its own line item authority.

A total of four applications have been submitted. These applications are in the process of being merit reviewed internally by National Program Staff but recommendations for funding have not yet been determined as of the date of this report.

This 30-year-old high performing integrated consortium of collaborating institutions includes at each Land-Grant campus a lead PD and his/her respective scientific staff. The institutions involved are UC Davis, NCSU, UFL, and KSU.

The funding success ratio for this program in FY 2015 is not yet known.

FARAD is a university-based national program that serves as the primary source for scientifically-based recommendations regarding safe withdrawal intervals for drugs used off-label and for chemicals in food-producing animals. As such, FARAD is a key resource for protection of our nation's food supply, including meat, milk, and eggs, against accidental contamination of animal-derived foods with violative residues of drugs, pesticides, or other agents that could compromise food safety.

For FY 2015:

In the Urban Families, Youth and Communities program area, the Land Grant Programs continue to sponsor community events in support of urban agriculture and urban sustainability such as the Quality of Life Day Festival and the Urban Agricultural Fair.

The Quality of Life Day Festival is held in various wards of the city and is a day-long activity that includes demonstrations, presentations, hands-on experiences, handouts, food, and fun for city residents.

The Urban Agricultural Fair is hosted at the Station's Muirkirk Research Farm in Beltsville, Maryland and is attended by participating DC Public Schools, grades four through seven. Students, along with teachers and parents, spend a day at the farm to learn more about their natural, built, and social environment.

Various stations are provided, including but not limited to: Wetlands on Wheels; Horticulture; Sustainable Agriculture; Water Quality and Research; Weather Station; Sustainable Communities; Youth Leadership; Nutrition and Health; Arts and Crafts; Marine Science; Basic Soils; and Junior Master Gardeners. The fair is held each year in mid-May.

In the Sustainable Energy program area, an experimental digester was built that converts cow manure and agricultural waste into methane-rich biogas that can be used as alternate energy resources to generate electricity or thermal energy. The research in this study focuses on the feasibility of the design of an operational digester; the monitoring and control of the different biodegradation process variables and experiments to boost or maximize the gas production; and the analysis of the biogas produced, using a Gas Chromatograph (CG) with Flame Ionization Detector (FID) to separate the methane from carbon dioxide.

The economic viability of this technology, advantages, and the production cost compared to other renewable energy resources are also compared. Technology will be promoted for community based sustainable energy projects in the District of Columbia. Fiscal Year 2016: For Fiscal Year 2016:

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: For Fiscal Year 2014:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Capacity (formerly known as Formula)] Grants Programs:

Below are examples of progress from FY 2014 annual reports:

1. Food Safety Concerns for the Consumer:

Demand for artisanal cheeses, including raw milk cheeses, is increasing in the United States. This research addressed food safety concerns for the consumer. Project took three transdisciplinary approaches to understand and manage artisanal cheese food safety, including on-farm and consumer research addressing raw fluid milk marketed direct to consumers and raw milk products produced on farms. Results of the first approach identified pathogen epidemiology and testing, food safety concerns and practical risk management practices at the site of dairy product production. The second approach sought to understand consumer attitudes, beliefs, and practices related to raw milk products. The third approach integrated the findings from the research efforts to develop outreach materials targeting artisanal cheese producers and stakeholders.

2. Sustainable Energy

Evaluation studies were conducted at the annual oilseed producer meeting and online as well. This survey was conducted on oil seed producers to identify if information generated and delivered by the oil seed program has improved yield and quality of the crop. Results of the studies were as follows: 33% indicated that extension work helped to improve their oilseed yields; 75% indicated that their work helped to improve weed control insects and diseases; 100% indicated that extension work helped them to reduce harvest losses through fine-tuned harvest and drying practices.

3. Climate Change

Over 360 participants were polled regarding use and value of extension information. Results showed that 86% use the information in the weed control guide for effective weed management, 66% use the information disseminated through the List Serve, and 96% have improved their weed management practices by using information provided by extension specialists. 31% claim extension service as their primary source of pest management information. 75% indicated that they will use extensions recommendation to use soil applied herbicides in addition to post-applied glyphosate. 51% of workshop participants are willing to use the most disdained extension recommendation to use hand weeding to remove individual plants or small patches of herbicide-resistant weeds to prevent increase in infestation across an entire field.

4. People and Their Well Being

Food Smart Families: Helping Youth Make Healthier Choices. More than 1000 hours were devoted to teaching healthy living programs to over 14,000 youth across the state. This program reached 2,945 youth. As part of this undertaking, 14 youth ambassadors were trained to assist with presentations. Sessions were conducted at 11 sites. Because of program participation, 96% youth learned what foods they should eat every day; 94% learned how to make healthy food choices; 90% thought their families prepared healthier meals; 86% learned cooking skills; and 80% learned skills for buying food on a budget.

5. Economics, Markets and Policy

Evaluation from a survey conducted with 10 participants working with an agricultural program resulted as follows:

67% indicated they will increase their record keeping;
50% will change how they keep electronic records;
83% indicated they have now analyzed production practices and size, financial position and natural resources and conservation;
80% indicated they were now more confident in making decisions;
40% have now written short-term and mid-term goals; and 20% now have long term written goals.

6. Childhood Obesity

Rural communities provide an excellent context to examine the fruits and vegetables consumption patterns of Youth at Risk while also engaging youth in production work within their own communities. By engaging low-income youth in the construction and maintenance of gardens and in harvesting and marketing organically grown produce, studies found that youth not only consume more produce, but they also become more visible and engaged in their communities. One project found that the increased visibility of youth participating at local farmers markets can lead to other economic opportunities for youth.

(B) Cooperative Extension at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever Special Needs] Grants Program:

Below are five examples of progress from 2014 annual reports:

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs [Sections 3 (b) & (c)] Competitive Grants Program:

For FY 2014:

This program continued to meet critical needs to address: 1) Education and Technical assistance and multi-state disaster training programs; 2) Collaboration with Federal, state and local agencies and other disaster relief organizations to support education and service that enhance recovery of impacted rural communities, schools, businesses and agricultural based activities; 3) Long range family, community and regional planning projects that enhance implementation of programs that serve public needs in preparation for, during and after emergency situations within impacted states and regions. The project funding was determined by availability of an allocation to support innovative, education-based approaches to addressing emergency preparedness and specific responses related to natural and human-made disasters.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and (newly designated) Central State University (aka 1890 Capacity Building and/or CBG) Grants Program:

For FY 2014:

One administrative project was awarded to each of the 18 1890 institutions. The following describes some of the work that was accomplished:

1. This extension initiative is expanding educational outreach in the STEM/STEAM areas for youth and college students that will increase the enrollment of limited resource families and communities who are at or below poverty and who qualify for support services. Programmatic content will be distributed through workshops. Extension staff conducted field days, demonstrations, agricultural leadership sessions, etc., to offer information to producers and potential producers. Information provided to citizens will enhance their knowledge of food, nutrition, quality, availability, pesticide laws and applications, risk management, and agriculture advocacy.

2. The Adult Leadership and Community Development Program provides communities with leadership training, financial management, business development, family and consumer education capacity that creates opportunities for continuous and sustained growth. With a focus on resource building, education and training, leadership, strategic and sustainability planning, the 1890 Extension Program assists socially disadvantaged and economically depressed communities in building their potential to enhance their own resource development capacity from the inside out.

(E) Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever 3d EFNEP and/or ENUT] Grants Program:

For FY 2014:

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is funded as a national program, not as individual projects. All 75 1862 and 1890 Land-Grant Institutions receive EFNEP funding each year, and these are the only entities eligible for EFNEP funding. EFNEP is designed to assist limited resource audiences in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and changed- behavior necessary for nutritionally sound diets, and to contribute to their personal development and the improvement of the total family diet and nutritional well-being. Although EFNEP lessons may be tailored to meet the needs of participants, all programming follows the same model: lessons are taught by peer educators using an evidence-based, interactive, culturally appropriate approach. Participant entry and exit data are collected on diet quality, physical activity, food safety, and food resource management practices, all of which influence health.

(F) Regional Integrated Pest Management Competitive Grants Programs:

(F-1) North Central Region (aka NC-RIPM):

This program was not funded in FY 2014.

(F-2) Northeastern Region (aka NE-RIPM):

This program was not funded in FY 2014.

(F-3) Southern Region (aka S-RIPM):

FARM SAFETY COMBINED PROGRAMS (G), (H) & (W):

(G) Farm Safety;

(H) Farm Safety and Youth Safety Education and Certification Program (aka YFSEC); and

(W) Assistive Technology Program for Farmers with Disabilities - National AgrAbility Project:

For FY 2014:

The AgrAbility program increases the likelihood that individuals with disabilities and their families engaged in production agriculture (AgrAbility customers) become more successful. The program provides up to four years of funding to support cooperative projects in which State Cooperative Extension Services (CES) based at either 1862 or 1890 land-grant universities or the University of the District of Columbia subcontract to private, non-profit disability organizations. Measures of success may include improvements in customers financial stability or access to life activities and in the capacity of the states and regions to deliver services this population requires in a timely and satisfying manner.

To address the specialized needs of AgrAbility customers, the program builds service capacity on national, regional, state, and local levels through education and networking. In the absence of capacity, projects provide assistance to customers. The primary function of the National AgrAbility Project is to support the state and regional projects in developing their capacity to meet these objectives. AgrAbility Projects use marketing activities to direct the public to initiatives in these three priority areas, described below:

In FY 2014, Farm Safety funding line supported 14 new awards and continued support for eight previously-funded projects.

Continuation Awards:

7 AgrAbility continuation awards;

1 Youth Farm Safety Education and Certification award.

FY14 Continuation Awards:

3 continuation awards to support 4th (final) year of State AgrAbility projects originally funded in FY2011;

1 continuation award for the 3rd year of funding for the National AgrAbility Project (originally funded in FY2012);

4 continuation awards for the 2nd year of funding (includes YFSEC award).

(I) New Technologies at Ag Extension (aka NTAE):

In FY 2014 for example, NTAE funds assisted in the launch of the Climate Learning Network in support of the USDA Regional Climate HUBS. This Learning Network is implemented through the CES eXtension initiative and provides outreach and education to farmers, ranchers, forest landowners, and natural and agriculture resource managers on science-based risk management

CHILDREN, YOUTH, AND FAMILIES (CYFAR) COMBINED PROGRAMS (J), (U) & (V) :

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk and/or CYFAR);

(U) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP); and

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP);

For FY 2014:

The Alabama A & M CYFAR Project is in its fifth year of operation at two sites in Madison County. The program is implemented using the CYFAR National Outcome Parent/Family. The program impacts both youth and parents' reading skills. The program is designed to impact the cognitive, emotional and social development skills of youth ages 4-9 given that 82% of Alabamas low income youth in grade four performed below national reading standards. The program is designed for parents to develop appropriate reading strategies to assess their child's progress using the Journeys core curriculum and to increase parents' knowledge and skills of reading strategies to assist in improving their children's reading ability.

Thirteen parents are:

learning the five essential elements of reading;

learning at least 10 different reading strategies/activities for each element; and demonstrating the use of at least seven different reading techniques.

Thirteen children are: being exposed to at least seven different reading strategies/activities for each essential element of reading.

During the second year of the Michigan State University CYFAR funding, several goals of the project were accomplished, including developing the online class and resources; providing a new venue allowing MI families across the state to access research-based early childhood development and parenting information through the website; providing access to a comprehensive, research-based website focused on educational resources for parenting the young child that included opportunities for structured interaction with peers through online chat forums and weekly live touch-base meetings via technology. Eight videos were created based on helping parents understand social-emotional development of young children and were posted on the Michigan State University (MSU) YouTube channel.

Through the use of the online class, MSU was able to increase capacity to reach high-risk families in both urban and rural areas without having access to local staff thereby expanding program reach. The two face-to-face sites were able to reach high-risk families in both rural and urban communities with resources and research-based information to help change and inform their parenting practices. Preliminary evaluation results of the first wave of participants suggests positive changes, pre to post participation in the BEES parenting session, in the quality of parenting, including emotionally supportive parenting, knowledge about early social-emotional development and parenting, and parental functioning.

Effect sizes were generally small with the exception of decreases in parenting stress, which yielded a large effect size. More participants are needed to show statistically significant changes but preliminary results are positive and showing that workshops are helping to build skills and strategies for dealing with issues and challenges high risk families face in raising their children as well as educating parents of young children on developmental stages and needs of young children.

The North Carolina 4-H Very Important Parents Sustainable Community Project has a concentrated program that addresses the well-being of children, youth and families by integrating 4-H life skills. The program design develops teens parenting and life skills; cultivate their child's developmental and educational success; and, incorporates technology to foster young parents' identification and use of credible parenting information. The project reports increases in character, increases in nurturing attitudes and appropriate parenting practices.

The project, in its fifth year, is set to accomplish the prescribed program goals. Some 76 teen parents began the 4-H Very Important Parents face-to-face classes increasing their knowledge of quality parenting practices. Teen parents who attended the 4-H Very Important Parents program increased their perception of parenting as evidenced by increased post-survey scores on the CYFAR common measure for parenting.

Teen parents increased their technology literacy including use of mobile technology devices, blogger, Facebook, and online evaluation tools. Community partnerships are being developed and enhanced to foster program sustainability. Focus groups were conducted with childcare providers to provide the foundation for a childcare provider training on using technology to engage parents.

The University of Arizona Teens Advocating Sustainable Change (TASC) Project functions at two sites: Pima and Cochise Counties. The project has been successful by means of collaborations with the school system, extension and multiple community organizations. The project offers training for participants in health and wellness, which takes place at the Tucson Village farm.

The Primary CYFAR Outcome is teens demonstrating knowledge, skills, attitudes and behaviors necessary to fulfill contributing lives. The project has been successful with reaching diverse audiences. The project has realized sustainability by collaborating with specified County Health departments. The Project Director has completed the appropriate reports and is on target for accomplishing the project goals. This project is approved for continuation.

The TASC had a successful year during which this project grew from four high schools to five and from 105 to 150 youth participants. Evaluation results from year one were used to identify program improvements in year two. Pre/post evaluations showed increased willingness to eat healthy food as reflected in the NYRB Dietary Intake section. Youth also reported increases in actual frequency of consuming healthier foods. At the beginning of the program using pre-surveys, youth reported eating healthier foods 3-6 times over the past seven days. At the end of the project year they reported eating healthier foods twice per day over the past seven days. Progress has been made in integrating student wellness into the school environment. Student wellness events have been instituted at participating high schools and students are disseminating information through blogs and other social media.

The TASC program has used Cooperative Extension facilities to provide training for youth participants including Tucson Village Farm, The Garden Kitchen, and the 4-H High Ropes Course. In addition, the local YMCA was used to provide leadership training to youth participants. Students participated in a Healthy Living Youth Summit.

The University of Connecticut CYFAR Project is entitled Tools for Healthy Living. The project is in its third year and reaches 60 youth annually. One of the purposes is to develop a healthy home environment curriculum for youth grades six through eight. The goal of the curriculum is designed to address the lack of curriculum that exists for this age group to reduce health hazards in the home. Part of the sustainability plan is engagement of youth participants living at the 50% level in the 4-H clubs.

The club sites are in New Britain and Hartford, Connecticut. The Healthy Homes App was also completed by our technology specialist and is undergoing licensing. It is being piloted by youth at several sites in the project. A webpage has also been developed and is undergoing approval through the University. This evaluation relates to knowledge and/or skills gained on healthy homes content. In 2014, evaluation data indicated that youth gained awareness, knowledge and skills in a number of healthy homes content areas including food safety, mold, asthma, lead, and pests. In 2015, it is anticipated that youth will show similar results. Common measures data (technology and youth demographics) has also been collected on enrolled youth at each site. Six urban 4-H clubs have been sustained at sites after this year's project.

For the FY 2014 award cycle, $995,525 was available for CYFAR-PDTA project grant awards after subtracting administrative costs. One university was awarded a PDTA continuation award.

The funded project is designed to address the professional development and technical assistance needs of the CYFAR-SCP grantees.

The CYFAR PDTA Center was developed and serves as a mechanism to support the success of the CYFAR initiative through the development and provision of: Project Coaching, Proactive evaluation & technical assistance, Resources and Tools. Strategic Leadership Team, Advisory Committee, and Subject Matter Experts serve as representatives across the land-grant system representative of 1862, 1890, 1994, and Hispanic-serving Institutions. The PDTA Center supports CYFERnet.org and CYFERnetSEARCH.org

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education-Professional Development (aka Chapter 3 and/or SARE-PD):

For FY 2014:
Project types formerly funded under this line will now be supported and reported under CFDA 10.215

NOTES:

(1) Effective Fiscal Year 2014, Programs under Sustainable Agriculture (research, education and extension) were merged into a single program under the research account.

(2) See CFDA Number 10.215 for all pertinent details.

(L) Federally-Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

For FY 2014:
In 2014, the Muscogee (Creek) Nation youth participated in 4-H with two Muscogee youth serving as Northeast District Officers and many more serving as county officers. In Muskogee County, the educator reached over 400 children with his robotics, straw rockets, and liquid nitrogen workshops. Livestock management and an archery camp complete this effort, which serves 4,400 youth. The program assistants introduced Muscogee youth to a new curriculum called Take a Stand, an anti-bullying curriculum. School systems within the Muscogee Nation boundaries have been excited about the opportunity to provide this type of information to their students. Other programs will continue as described.

All three South Dakota FRTEP programs are working collectively to address the lack of access to nutritious food on their reservations where many rely on convenience stores which have very little fresh food. All three South Dakota

FRTEP projects are partners on a 2014 Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program to stimulate local food production in each FRTEP service area. The Pine Ridge and Cheyenne River projects worked with United Tribes Technical College on an agriculture and food program for Lakota Nations Education conference. Rosebud and Pine Ridge also provided Risk Management Education programs and agro-enterprise meetings between tribal partners SDSU and State of South Dakota.

EXTENSION AT 1994 INSTITUTIONS COMBINED PROGRAMS (M) & (BB) :

(M) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (aka Tribal Colleges Extension Program and/or TCEP); and

For FY 2014:

Projects representing continuation awards and examples of funded projects:

The Oglala Lakota Extension office collaborated with South Dakota State University and the Oglala Sioux Tribe provided producer workshops and events aimed at enhancing farm productivity. Student and faculty from the colleges math and science department provided technical assistance to producers in hydrology, GIS positioning and land management. The college offered nutrition and garden outreach to the community as well. The college built an Ag Expo Center where it can conduct workshops and events on Lakota agriculture, career development and family life. Part of this grant was used to plan and promote the new center.

White Earth Tribal and Community College used a NIFA special emphasis award for a project that combines gardening and traditional Anishinaabeg foods, with the addition of video and social media to promote traditional agriculture and provide instruction to a wider audience. The project director also led an effort to create a food asset map for the White Earth community. The food map laid a foundation for enhanced local production so that more families have access to fresh produce. Local experts on gardening and traditional foods mentored families as they explore gardening as a means to better health.

This project seeks to reduce inter-generational poverty by encouraging children of the Lummi Nation to seek higher education while teaching them financial management skills. Educators plan to reach 600 youth in grades 7 through 12. The curriculum was developed in partnership with the Lummi Nation School, Lummi Nation Youth Enrichment, and local Social Services programs. The financial literacy training built math skills while training youth on how to set and reach financial and educational goals. A train-the-trainer effort expanded the programs reach.

RENEWABLE RESOURCES EXTENSION ACT COMBINED PROGRAMS (N) & (O) :

(N) Renewable Resources Extension Act (aka RREA); and
(O) Renewable Resources Extension Act-National Focus Fund Projects (aka RREA-NFF):

For FY 2014:

Examples of the impacts that RREA capacity funds provide (69 of 72 institutions reporting to date):

Number of forest and rangeland Extension educational events 2,360+
Number of landowners adopting at least one new management practice 13,695 925+
Number of forest and rangeland acres impacted 5,595,459 +
Number of forest management plans developed 2 358

For the FY 2014 funding cycle, $300,000 was available for competitive National Focus Funds projects. Two awards were made:
eXtension Community of Practice Climate, Forests, and Woodlands; Discovering Our Nations Rangelands

(P) Rural Health and Safety Education (Competitive) Grants Program (aka RHSE):

RHSE projects funded in FY 2014 are focusing on a diversity of rural health and safety issues, from diabetes education, obesity prevention, and physical activity and healthy nutrition education, to zoonoses prevention, eco-healthy child care promotion, and rural expansion of 4-H Healthy Living program.

(Q) 1890 Facilities Grant Program and Tuskegee and (newly designated) Central State University (aka Section 1447):

For FY 2014:

The second year of funding under the Five-Year Plan of Work (2013-2017) was requested through a renewal RFA. Examples of funded projects are as follows:

Funds are being used to continue construction activities associated with the newly proposed Research and Education Center that will house teaching, research, and extension. The new facility will feature an auditorium, two classrooms, two conference rooms, ten offices, space for administrative support staff, and general and specialized laboratories. Recent progress includes the appointment of a facility committee to plan and evaluate the specific needs of the relevant departments and to demonstrate how the new facility will best meet the needs of the land-grant components of the university. Also, funding is being used to purchase additional farm land and buildings.

This project will support the construction of a Regional Technical Resource Center that will serve as the primary building for administrative functions of the land-grant mission. It will house units that coordinate field research activities by faculty and students, work with regional farmers, student scholarship and internship placement, and coordination with external agencies.

The FY 2014 timeline indicates that the university will acquire the necessary land and hire an architectural firm that will prepare plans for the engineering phase, building design, and pre-construction administration.

In FY 2014 the facilities grant was used to complete the construction and equipping of the Environmental Ecology and Natural Resources Center and to complete an existing research facility to a food processing lab and product development center. A Research and Extension Center was also completed in FY 2014.

Funds are being used to support the expansion of office, lab, and greenhouse space to accommodate the plant pathology program and the pest management research program:

- 1) The plant pathology program includes developing statewide research and extension programs that are geared towards formulating fact-based diagnosis and identification of vegetable and small fruit disease;
- 2) the development of pest management methods to effectively suppress major insects requires a multitude of field, greenhouse, and laboratory investigations of pest biology and hosts/pest/climate interactions to identify vulnerable cropping systems and vulnerable states in the pest life cycle.

(R) Food Animal Residue Avoidance Database Program (aka FARAD):

For FY 2014:

Funded Project Network Node 1: Coordinate national program, develop pharmacokinetic modeling approaches and provide pharmacokinetic support to FARAD components, and on a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provide responses to emergency queries (telephone, internet) from the FARAD Hotline.

Funded Project Network Node 2: maintains the pharmacokinetic, bibliographic and call center databases and web-based access to the kinetic and bibliographic citation files. On a rotating basis with other network nodes, this node also provides responses to drug and contaminant residue questions submitted to FARAD.

Funded Project Network Node 3: Collects and enters data for the U.S. Approved Animal Drugs Database (US-AADD), maintains internet websites for FARAD, creates and supports platforms for mobile devices to access the Veterinarian's Guide to Residue Avoidance Management (VetGRAM) and other mobile-friendly applications, and distributes electronic alerts and updates via email, Twitter, and other electronic formats.

Funded Project Network Node 4: On a rotating schedule with other network nodes, provides responses to emergency telephone calls from the FARAD hotline. Collaboration between all institutions occurs on research.

(S) Grants to Youth Serving Institutions (aka Rural Youth Development and/or RYD Grants Program):

For FY 2014:

620 youth in 53 targeted rural communities participated in state and local leadership teams, working with 253 adults to develop youth-adult partnerships. These teams engaged an additional 3,020 youth and 546 adults to implement action plans to solve priority community issues.

Through community youth adult partnerships, youth learned and applied work and life skills such as: organizing groups and information, leading discussions, planning programs, teamwork, communication, creativity and innovation, critical thinking, problem solving, decision making, goal setting, collaboration, and working with diverse populations.

A Native American community started a project to begin local vegetable production. Tribal members wanted to increase local food production as a way to support healthy eating, creating a local farmers market and generating more interest in traditional foods of the tribe. Tribal members constructed a Hoop House and planted cover crops for full production. This partnership has developed a reconnection between youth and tribal elders and a rekindled pride in the reservation community.

A group of high school seniors planned an education activity for their peers about risky behaviors. Student participants experienced the effects of life altering situations, like driving drunk, being arrested, becoming a teenage parent, or contracting a sexually-transmitted disease. Post-event surveys showed that 91 % of respondents agreed that they would change their behavior as a result of this experience. Furthermore, 87 % of respondents agreed that their friends will change their behavior as a result of this experience.

A group of youth and adults in partnership conducted community forums that encouraged both the youth and adults in these communities to improve critical community capitals through the acquisition of knowledge, skills, and positive attitudes.

(T) Agriculture Risk Management Education Program (aka ARPA, ERME and/or RME Program):

For FY 2014:

The College of Agriculture, Urban Sustainability and Environmental Sciences (CAUSES) embodies the land-grant tradition, offering cutting edge academic programs in environmental science, urban sustainability, water resources management, nutrition and dietetics, urban architecture and community planning. Funds are being used to carry out educational programs and research in Climate Change; Global Food Security and Hunger; Health, Nutrition and Childhood Obesity Prevention; Urban Families, Youth and Communities; and Sustainable Energy through the University of the District of Columbia (UDCs) two essential land-grant components, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service, including five land-grant centers:

- (1) Center for Urban Agriculture & Gardening Education,
- (2) Center for Sustainable Development,
- (3) Center for Nutrition, Diet & Health,
- (4) Center for 4H & Youth Development, and
- (5) Architectural Research Institute. Fiscal Year 2015: For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Capacity (formerly known as Formula)] Grants Programs:

As outlined in the 2015 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

1. Global Food Security and Hunger

Interest in and commitment to finding solutions for global food security and hunger continues to guide research and Extension to develop animal and crop production systems that thrive in variable conditions; advance new and improved systems of agricultural production that meet the needs of producers and consumers; enhance the value of agricultural products; improve access to high quality foods especially for consumers with limited resources; and increase food variety and value by developing new and enhanced food products.

2. Food Safety

Work in this area will focus on the development of methods, techniques, or processes to maintain or improve quality or functionality, stabilize or preserve foods, or prepare foods for further processing. Work in this area also includes understanding of food quality losses during preservation, storage, distribution, and marketing to enhance the quality and quantity of food delivered to consumers, minimize food costs, and enhance profitability for food producers and marketers. In addition, this area includes work on pathogenic food-borne microorganisms and parasites in raw, minimally processed, or inadequately processed and preserved foods.

3. Climate Change

Through the adoption of innovative technologies and cultural practices, agricultural producers, landscape designers, homeowners, and public land managers have the opportunity to lead and mitigate many influences of climate change. Projects work with agricultural producers to select low water use alternative crops, integrating applied research and extension to solve problems related to climate change.

4. Sustainable Energy

Global and domestic demands for sources of sustainable energy can be addressed through the production of bio-fuel crops. Research and extension programs bring together plant biochemists and ecologists and economists to study basic and applied approaches for the efficient production of non-food feed-stocks from forested and rangelands with limited freshwater availability as sustainable and renewable sources for biofuel generation with regional production systems.

5. Childhood Obesity, Nutrition and Health

The prevalence of childhood obesity has dramatically increased nationwide. Almost one-third of children in the U.S are overweight, obese, or at-risk for obesity; increasing their probability of developing chronic illnesses such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and Type 2 diabetes. The underlying causes of being overweight range from genetic propensity to socio-economic cultural and environmental influences resulting in unhealthful eating and low physical activity practices. Many of these issues stem from poverty-stricken nutrition. To effectively address obesity and malnutrition, programs are designed to effect change within families and communities. The project will address issues of weight management, nutritional intervention, educational methodology and common development for healthier environments.

(B) Cooperative Extension at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever Special Needs] Grants Program:

As outlined in the 2015 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs [Sections 3 (b) & (c)] Competitive Grants Program:

For FY 2015:

Smith Lever Special Needs grants will address critical issues relating to preventing outbreaks of Avian Influenza, preparing the rural poor for disasters, preparedness and decision making for coastal areas, preparedness for migrant and seasonal farm workers, and other issues related to disaster preparedness, mitigation, response, and recovery.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and (newly designated) Central State University (aka 1890 Capacity Building and/or CBG) Grants Program:

For FY 2015:

One administrative project was awarded to each of the 18 1890 institutions. The following describes proposed activities as outlined in the respective Plans of Work:

1. One project is to:

- A) Conduct social, psychological, marketing, and economic impact surveys to develop profiles of communities and their economic landscape;
- B) Develop educational bulletins, manuscripts, and documentation of findings and disseminate results and models to promote food security, community development, and empowerment of residents;
- C) Conduct educational programs, events, and activities on leadership development and E-commerce strategies to facilitate economic and community development; and
- D) Conduct educational programs, events, and activities to facilitate workforce development and financial management opportunities for limited-resource audiences.

2. The goal of this extension effort is to improve personal financial management skills, practices, and knowledge to enhance economic well-being for families. This is done directly by specialists and through training of agents to deliver research-based best information. Faculty will develop a long range plan for early intervention in financial, literacy and consumer education in targeted areas. The program will target consumer advocacy organizations and form partnerships with approximately 50 additional collaborators for program goal enhancement, program funding, and coalition.

CHILDREN, YOUTH, AND FAMILIES (CYFAR) COMBINED PROGRAMS (J), (U) & (V) :

(J) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk (aka Youth at Risk and/or CYFAR);

(U) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP); and

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

For FY 2015:

The Alabama A & M CYFAR Project is in its fifth year of operation at two sites in Madison County. The program is implemented using the CYFAR National Outcome Parent/Family. The program impacts both youth and parents' reading skills. The program is designed to impact the cognitive, emotional and social development skills of youth ages 4-9 given that 82% of Alabamas low-income youth in grade four performed below national reading standards.

The program is designed for parents to develop appropriate reading strategies to assess their child's progress using the Journeys core curriculum. The program is on target for accomplishing the targeted goals.

The Clemson University CYFAR SCP project serves youth at risk in both rural and urban settings. This fifth-year project serves two Spartanburg Elementary Schools. The project is designed to increase the delivery of an evidence-based science technology curriculum. The five year work plan indicates the following objectives: establishment of community partnerships, recruitment of volunteers, curriculum delivery, data collection, and pursuit of project sustainability.

New Yorks CYFAR project entitled Youth Community Action Network (CAN) is designed to promote civic engagement and workforce development. This is the second year of operation for the CAN project. The project is implemented under the Teen CYFAR National Outcome. It operates in two sites: Buffalo and Albany. The program is designed to assist youth in their college aspirations related to the STEM fields. As well, the teen leadership component will serve the project through paid internships in line with their career aspirations. The Project Director has completed the appropriate required NIFA reports; the project is therefore recommended for continued funding.

The University of Nebraska CYFAR Project is in its second year of implementation. The goals of the project include youth engagement in healthy diet and physical activity and helping families develop skills to provide an environment that can access safe, nutritious, and balanced meals while incorporating physical activity. The program uses four curricula which includes: BodyWorks, SPARK, Fast Foods, and Kidquest. The project has presented a viable work plan for year two which includes the recruitment of additional community partners. The program is on target for accomplishing the targeted goals. The Project Director has completed the appropriate required NIFA reports; the project is therefore recommended for continued funding.

The Alaska CYFAR Project focuses on life skill development and workforce preparation. The project seeks to reduce the homelessness and unemployment among teens aging out of state custody at two sites in Alaska. The program will address the needs of youth in foster care. The featured curricula includes Build Your Future and STEPS to a Healthy Teen.

(K) Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education-Professional Development (aka Chapter 3 and/or SARE-PD):

Project types formerly funded under this line will now be supported and reported under CFDA 10.215

NOTES:

(1) Effective Fiscal Year 2014, Programs under Sustainable Agriculture (research, education and extension) were merged into a single program under the research account.

(2) See CFDA Number 10.215 for all pertinent details.

(L) Federally-Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

For FY 2015:

NIFA continued, the Muscogee (Creek) Nation youth participated in 4-H with two Muscogee youth serving as Northeast District Officers and many more serving as county officers. In Muskogee County, the educator reached over 400 children with his robotics, straw rockets, and liquid nitrogen workshops. Livestock management and an archery camp complete this effort, which serves 4,400 youth.

The program assistants introduced Muscogee youth to a new curriculum called Take a Stand, an anti-bullying curriculum. School systems within the Muscogee Nation boundaries have been excited about the opportunity to provide this type of information to their students. Other programs will continue as described.

All three South Dakota FRTEP programs are working collectively to address the lack of access to nutritious on their reservations where many rely on convenience stores which have very little fresh food. All three South Dakota FRTEP projects are partners on a 2014 Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program to stimulate local food production in each FRTEP service area. The Pine Ridge and Cheyenne River projects worked with United Tribes Technical College on an agriculture and food program for Lakota Nations Education conference. Rosebud and Pine Ridge also provided Risk Management Education programs and agro-enterprise meetings between tribal partners SDSU and State of South Dakota.

EXTENSION AT 1994 INSTITUTIONS COMBINED PROGRAMS (M) & (BB) :

(M) Extension Services at the 1994 Institutions (aka Tribal Colleges Extension Program and/or TCEP); and

In FY 2015 DinCollege provided in-depth training to 25 farmers and ranchers on the Navajo Reservation. The project is a partnership with tribal grazing officials and farm boards. Three trainings have been held so far including one on livestock reproduction conducted with New Mexico State University and a farm taxation workshop presented by Utah State University. The Land Grant Staff have been conducting one-on-one visits monthly with the producer to continue to work toward their management goals. The in-depth mentoring will allow this select group of producers to share their knowledge and spread best-management practices over a wider area. A garden Cottonwood Days School began in the spring of 2015.

Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute was the first 1994 Land Grant to use special emphasis funding to combine workshops in indigenous arts and crafts with business plan training so that tribal members with talent in indigenous arts could choose to earn an income from their talent. The model has now been embraced by other tribal schools. The workshop on developing an artist's portfolio drew 99 participants. An American Indian photographer visited the campus to take photos of artisans' work that they can use for marketing. In addition, 134 reservation citizens received financial literacy and business skills information.

For FY 2015:

In the Urban Families, Youth and Communities program area, the Land Grant Programs continue to sponsor community events in support of urban agriculture and urban sustainability such as the Quality of Life Day Festival and the Urban Agricultural Fair. The Quality of Life Day Festival is held in various wards of the city and is a day-long activity that includes demonstrations, presentations, hands-on experiences, handouts, food, and fun for city residents. The Urban Agricultural Fair is hosted at the Station's Muirkirk Research Farm in Beltsville, Maryland and is attended by participating DC Public Schools, grades four through seven. Students, along with teachers and parents, spend a day at the farm to learn more about their natural, built, and social environment. Various Stations are provided, including but not limited to: Wetlands on Wheels; Horticulture; Sustainable Agriculture; Water Quality and Research; Weather Station; Sustainable Communities; Youth Leadership; Nutrition and Health; Arts and Crafts; Marine Science; Basic Soils; and Junior Master Gardeners. The fair is held each year in mid-May.

In the Sustainable Energy program area, an experimental digester was built that converts cow manure and agricultural waste into methane-rich biogas that can be used as alternate energy resources to generate electricity or thermal energy. The research in this study focuses on the feasibility of the design of an operational digester; the monitoring and control of the different biodegradation process variables and experiments to boost or maximize the gas production; and the analysis of the biogas produced, using a Gas Chromatograph (CG) with Flame Ionization Detector (FID) to separate the methane from carbon dioxide. The economic viability of this technology, advantages, and the production cost compared to other renewable energy resources are also compared. Technology will be promoted for community based sustainable energy projects in the District of Columbia.

For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Capacity (formerly known as Formula)] Grants Programs:

As outlined in the 2015 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

1. Global Food Security and Hunger

Interest in and commitment to finding solutions for global food security and hunger continues to guide research and Extension to develop animal and crop production systems that thrive in variable conditions; advance new and improved systems of agricultural production that meet the needs of producers and consumers; enhance the value of agricultural products; improve access to high quality foods especially for consumers with limited resources; and increase food variety and value by developing new and enhanced food products.

2. Food Safety

Work in this area will focus on the development of methods, techniques, or processes to maintain or improve quality or functionality, stabilize or preserve foods, or prepare foods for further processing. Work in this area also includes understanding of food quality losses during preservation, storage, distribution, and marketing to enhance the quality and quantity of food delivered to consumers, minimize food costs, and enhance profitability for food producers and marketers. In addition, this area includes work on pathogenic food-borne microorganisms and parasites in raw, minimally processed, or inadequately processed and preserved foods.

3. Climate Change

Through the adoption of innovative technologies and cultural practices, agricultural producers, landscape designers, homeowners, and public land managers have the opportunity to lead and mitigate many influences of climate change. Projects work with agricultural producers to select low water use alternative crops, integrating applied research and extension to solve problems related to climate change.

4. Sustainable Energy

Global and domestic demands for sources of sustainable energy can be addressed through the production of bio-fuel crops. Research and extension programs bring together plant biochemists and ecologists and economists to study basic and applied approaches for the efficient production of non-food feed-stocks from forested and rangelands with limited freshwater availability as sustainable and renewable sources for biofuel generation with regional production systems.

5. Childhood Obesity, Nutrition and Health

The prevalence of childhood obesity has dramatically increased nationwide. Almost one-third of children in the U.S are overweight, obese, or at-risk for obesity; increasing their probability of developing chronic illnesses such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and Type 2 diabetes. The underlying causes of being overweight range from genetic propensity to socio-economic cultural and environmental influences resulting in unhealthful eating and low physical activity practices. Many of these issues stem from poverty-stricken nutrition. To effectively address obesity and malnutrition, programs are designed to effect change within families and communities. The project will address issues of weight management, nutritional intervention, educational methodology and common development for healthier environments.

The five year work plan indicates the following objectives: establishment of community partnerships, recruitment of volunteers, curriculum delivery, data collection, and pursuit of project sustainability.

New Yorks CYFAR project entitled Youth Community Action Network (CAN) is designed to promote civic engagement and workforce development. This is the second year of operation for the CAN project. The project is implemented under the Teen CYFAR National Outcome. It operates in two sites: Buffalo and Albany. The program is designed to assist youth in their college aspirations related to the STEM fields. As well, the teen leadership component will serve the project through paid internships in line with their career aspirations. The Project Director has completed the appropriate required NIFA reports; the project is therefore recommended for continued funding.

The University of Nebraska CYFAR Project is in its second year of implementation. The program assistants introduced Muscogee youth to a new curriculum called Take a Stand, an anti-bullying curriculum. School systems within the Muscogee Nation boundaries have been excited about the opportunity to provide this type of information to their students. Other programs will continue as described.

All three South Dakota FRTEP programs are working collectively to address the lack of access to nutritious on their reservations where many rely on convenience stores which have very little fresh food. All three South Dakota FRTEP projects are partners on a 2014 Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program to stimulate local food production in each FRTEP service area. The Pine Ridge and Cheyenne River projects worked with United Tribes Technical College on an agriculture and food program for Lakota Nations Education conference. Rosebud and Pine Ridge also provided Risk Management Education programs and agro-enterprise meetings between tribal partners SDSU and State of South Dakota.

(BB) Tribal Colleges Extension-Special Emphasis (TCEP-SE):

In FY 2015 DinCollege provided in-depth training to 25 farmers and ranchers on the Navajo Reservation. The project is a partnership with tribal grazing officials and farm boards. Three trainings have been held so far including one on livestock reproduction conducted with New Mexico State University and a farm taxation workshop presented by Utah State University. The Land Grant Staff have been conducting one-on-one visits monthly with the producer to continue to work toward their management goals. Various Stations are provided, including but not limited to: Wetlands on Wheels; Horticulture; Sustainable Agriculture; Water Quality and Research; Weather Station; Sustainable Communities; Youth Leadership; Nutrition and Health; Arts and Crafts; Marine Science; Basic Soils; and Junior Master Gardeners. The fair is held each year in mid-May.

In the Sustainable Energy program area, an experimental digester was built that converts cow manure and agricultural waste into methane-rich biogas that can be used as alternate energy resources to generate electricity or thermal energy. The research in this study focuses on the feasibility of the design of an operational digester; the monitoring and control of the different biodegradation process variables and experiments to boost or maximize the gas production; and the analysis of the biogas produced, using a Gas Chromatograph (CG) with Flame Ionization Detector (FID) to separate the methane from carbon dioxide. Technology will be promoted for community based sustainable energy projects in the District of Columbia.

For Fiscal Year 2015:

(A) Cooperative Extension Programs at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions [aka Smith-Lever 3 (b) & (c) Capacity (formerly known as Formula)] Grants Programs:

As outlined in the 2015 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

1. Global Food Security and Hunger

Interest in and commitment to finding solutions for global food security and hunger continues to guide research and Extension to develop animal and crop production systems that thrive in variable conditions; advance new and improved systems of agricultural production that meet the needs of producers and consumers; enhance the value of agricultural products; improve access to high quality foods especially for consumers with limited resources; and increase food variety and value by developing new and enhanced food products.

2. Food Safety

Work in this area will focus on the development of methods, techniques, or processes to maintain or improve quality or functionality, stabilize or preserve foods, or prepare foods for further processing. Work in this area also includes understanding of food quality losses during preservation, storage, distribution, and marketing to enhance the quality and quantity of food delivered to consumers, minimize food costs, and enhance profitability for food producers and marketers. In addition, this area includes work on pathogenic food-borne microorganisms and parasites in raw, minimally processed, or inadequately processed and preserved foods.

3. Climate Change

Through the adoption of innovative technologies and cultural practices, agricultural producers, landscape designers, homeowners, and public land managers have the opportunity to lead and mitigate many influences of climate change. Projects work with agricultural producers to select low water use alternative crops, integrating applied research and extension to solve problems related to climate change.

4. Sustainable Energy

Global and domestic demands for sources of sustainable energy can be addressed through the production of bio-fuel crops. Research and extension programs bring together plant biochemists and ecologists and economists to study basic and applied approaches for the efficient production of non-food feed-stocks from forested and rangelands with limited freshwater availability as sustainable and renewable sources for biofuel generation with regional production systems.

5. Childhood Obesity, Nutrition and Health

The prevalence of childhood obesity has dramatically increased nationwide. Almost one-third of children in the U.S are overweight, obese, or at-risk for obesity; increasing their probability of developing chronic illnesses such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and Type 2 diabetes. The underlying causes of being overweight range from genetic propensity to socio-economic cultural and environmental influences resulting in unhealthy eating and low physical activity practices. Many of these issues stem from poverty-stricken nutrition. To effectively address obesity and malnutrition, programs are designed to effect change within families and communities. The project will address issues of weight management, nutritional intervention, educational methodology and common development for healthier environments.

(B) Cooperative Extension at 1862 Land-Grant Institutions Capacity [(formerly known as Formula) aka Smith-Lever Special Needs] Grants Program:

As outlined in the 2015 Plans of Work, the following are five examples of anticipated outcomes:

1. Global Food Security and Hunger

Interest in and commitment to finding solutions for global food security and hunger continues to guide research and extension to develop animal and crop production systems that thrive in variable conditions; advance new and improved systems of agricultural production that meet the needs of producers and consumers; enhance the value of agricultural products; improve access to high quality foods especially for consumers with limited resources; and increase food variety and value by developing new and enhanced food products.

2. Food Safety

Work in this area will focus on the development of methods, techniques, or processes to maintain or improve quality or functionality, stabilize, or preserve foods or prepare foods for further processing. Work in this area also includes understanding of food quality losses during preservation, storage, distribution and marketing to enhance the quality and quantity of food delivered to consumers, minimize food costs, and enhance profitability for food producers and marketers. In addition, this area includes work on pathogenic food-borne microorganisms and parasites in raw, minimally processed, or inadequately processed and preserved foods.

3. Climate Change

Through the adoption of innovative technologies and cultural practices, agricultural producers, landscape designers, homeowners, and public land managers have the opportunity to lead and mitigate many influences of climate change. Projects work with agricultural producers to select low water use alternative crops, integrating applied research and extension to solve problems related to climate change.

4. Sustainable Energy

Global and domestic demands for sources of sustainable energy can be addressed through the production of bio-fuel crops. Research and extension programs bring together plant biochemists and ecologists and economists to study basic and applied approaches for the efficient production of non-food feed-stocks from forested and rangelands with limited freshwater availability as sustainable and renewable sources for bio-fuel generation with regional production systems.

5. Childhood Obesity, Nutrition and Health

The prevalence of childhood obesity has dramatically increased nationwide. Almost one-third of children in the U.S are overweight, obese, or at-risk for obesity; increasing their probability of developing chronic illnesses such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and Type 2 diabetes. The underlying causes of being overweight range from genetic propensity to socio-economic cultural and environmental influences resulting in unhealthy eating and low physical activity practices. Many of these issues stem from poverty-stricken nutrition. To effectively address obesity and malnutrition, programs are designed to effect change within families and communities. The project will address issues of weight management, nutritional intervention, educational methodology and common development for healthier environments.

(C) Smith-Lever Special Needs [Sections 3 (b) & (c)] Competitive Grants Program:

For FY 2015:

Smith Lever Special Needs grants will address critical issues relating to preventing outbreaks of Avian Influenza, preparing the rural poor for disasters, preparedness and decision making for coastal areas, preparedness for migrant and seasonal farm workers, and other issues related to disaster preparedness, mitigation, response, and recovery.

(D) Extension at 1890 Land-Grant Institutions and (newly designated) Central State University (aka 1890 Capacity Building and/or CBG) Grants Program:

For FY 2015:

One administrative project was awarded to each of the 18 1890 institutions. The following describes proposed activities as outlined in the respective Plans of Work:

I. One project is to:

- A) Conduct social, psychological, marketing, and economic impact surveys to develop profiles of communities and their economic landscape;
- B) Develop educational bulletins, manuscripts, and documentation of findings and disseminate results and models to promote food security, community development, and empowerment of residents;
- C) Conduct educational programs, events, and activities on leadership development and E-commerce strategies to facilitate economic and community development; and
- D) Conduct educational programs, events, and activities to facilitate workforce development and financial management opportunities for limited-resource audiences.

2. The goal of this extension effort is to improve personal financial management skills, practices, and knowledge to enhance economic well-being for families. This is done directly by specialists and through training of agents to deliver research-based best information. Faculty will develop a long range plan for early intervention in financial, literacy and consumer education in targeted areas. The program will target consumer advocacy organizations and form partnerships with approximately 50 additional collaborators for program goal enhancement, program funding, and coalition.

(V) Children, Youth, and Families at Risk - Sustainable Community Projects (aka CYFAR-SCP):

For FY 2015:

The Alabama A & M CYFAR Project is in its fifth year of operation at two sites in Madison County. The program is implemented using the CYFAR National Outcome Parent/Family. The program impacts both youth and parents' reading skills. The program is designed to impact the cognitive, emotional and social development skills of youth ages 4-9 given that 82% of Alabamas low-income youth in grade four performed below national reading standards.

The program is designed for parents to develop appropriate reading strategies to assess their child's progress using the Journeys core curriculum. The program is on target for accomplishing the targeted goals.

The Clemson University CYFAR SCP project serves youth at risk in both rural and urban settings. This fifth-year project serves two Spartanburg Elementary Schools. The project is designed to increase the delivery of an evidence-based science technology curriculum. The five year work plan indicates the following objectives: establishment of community partnerships, recruitment of volunteers, curriculum delivery, data collection, and pursuit of project sustainability.

New Yorks CYFAR project entitled Youth Community Action Network (CAN) is designed to promote civic engagement and workforce development. This is the second year of operation for the CAN project. The project is implemented under the Teen CYFAR National Outcome. It operates in two sites: Buffalo and Albany. The program is designed to assist youth in their college aspirations related to the STEM fields. As well, the teen leadership component will serve the project through paid internships in line with their career aspirations. The Project Director has completed the appropriate required NIFA reports; the project is therefore recommended for continued funding.

The University of Nebraska CYFAR Project is in its second year of implementation. The goals of the project include youth engagement in healthy diet and physical activity and helping families develop skills to provide an environment that can access safe, nutritious, and balanced meals while incorporating physical activity. The program uses four curricula which includes: BodyWorks, SPARK, Fast Foods, and Kidquest. The project has presented a viable work plan for year two which includes the recruitment of additional community partners. The program is on target for accomplishing the targeted goals. The Project Director has completed the appropriate required NIFA reports; the project is therefore recommended for continued funding.

The Alaska CYFAR Project focuses on life skill development and workforce preparation. The project seeks to reduce the homelessness and unemployment among teens aging out of state custody at two sites in Alaska. The program will address the needs of youth in foster care. The featured curricula includes Build Your Future and STEPS to a Healthy Teen.

(L) Federally-Recognized Tribes Extension Program (aka FRTEP):

For FY 2015:

NIFA continued, the Muscogee (Creek) Nation youth participated in 4-H with two Muscogee youth serving as Northeast District Officers and many more serving as county officers. In Muskogee County, the educator reached over 400 children with his robotics, straw rockets, and liquid nitrogen workshops. Livestock management and an archery camp complete this effort, which serves 4,400 youth.

The program assistants introduced Muscogee youth to a new curriculum called Take a Stand, an anti-bullying curriculum. School systems within the Muscogee Nation boundaries have been excited about the opportunity to provide this type of information to their students. Other programs will continue as described.

All three South Dakota FRTEP programs are working collectively to address the lack of access to nutritious on their reservations where many rely on convenience stores which have very little fresh food. All three South Dakota FRTEP projects are partners on a 2014 Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program to stimulate local food production in each FRTEP service area. The Pine Ridge and Cheyenne River projects worked with United Tribes Technical College on an agriculture and food program for Lakota Nations Education conference. Rosebud and Pine Ridge also provided Risk Management Education programs and agro-enterprise meetings between tribal partners SDSU and State of South Dakota.

(BB) Tribal Colleges Extension-Special Emphasis (TCEP-SE):

In FY 2015 DinCollege provided in-depth training to 25 farmers and ranchers on the Navajo Reservation. The project is a partnership with tribal grazing officials and farm boards. Three trainings have been held so far including one on livestock reproduction conducted with New Mexico State University and a farm taxation workshop presented by Utah State University. The Land Grant Staff have been conducting one-on-one visits monthly with the producer to continue to work toward their management goals. The in-depth mentoring will allow this select group of producers to share their knowledge and spread best-management practices over a wider area. A garden Cottonwood Days School began in the spring of 2015.

Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute was the first 1994 Land Grant to use special emphasis funding to combine workshops in indigenous arts and crafts with business plan training so that tribal members with talent in indigenous arts could choose to earn an income from their talent. The model has now been embraced by other tribal schools. The workshop on developing an artist's portfolio drew 99 participants. An American Indian photographer visited the campus to take photos of artisans' work that they can use for marketing. In addition, 134 reservation citizens received financial literacy and business skills information.

FEDERAL AGENCY:

AUTHORIZATION:

-In the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, in Section 17(a)(1) gives the Secretary authority to make grants related to delivering nutrition-related benefits.

OBJECTIVES:

-The Food and Nutrition Services Supplemental Nutrition assistance Program (SNAP) provides funding for the SNAP Nutrition Education Program (SNAP-Ed). SNAP-Ed is central to SNAPs efforts to improve nutrition and prevent and reduce obesity among SNAP recipients. The Food Stamp Act of 1977 mandated creation and distribution of nutrition education materials to program participants. Subsequent legislation has expanded upon this requirement. The Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act (HHFKA) of 2010 established SNAP-Ed as a Nutrition Education and Obesity Prevention Program and changed its financial structure to that of 100 percent Federal grant funding to States with no State contribution or match.

The goal of SNAP-Ed is to improve the likelihood that persons eligible for SNAP will make healthy food choices within a limited budget and choose physically active lifestyles consistent with the current Dietary Guidelines for Americans and MyPlate.

FNS encourages States to center their efforts on the following behavioral outcomes for SNAP-Ed participants:

Make half your plate fruits and vegetables, at least half your grains whole grains, and switch to fat-free or low-fat milk products.

Increase physical activity and reduce time spent in sedentary behaviors as part of a healthy lifestyle.

All sub-grantee projects must include a needs assessment in their community, along with strategies to address identified needs. Sub-grantees will also receive training on effectively implementing and managing projects from the RCPNC team, and will also be responsible for working with the RCPNC evaluation team to provide quarterly status updates and obtain and collect relevant evaluation data, including common measures across projects. Funds must be used to support projects in the persistently poor counties in the 15 States with the highest number of persistently poor counties (see list in Appendix A of RFA).

The panel presented their recommendation to the selecting official based on this ranking. Awards were considered based on rank order, however, the selection official reserved the right to make an award out of rank order to meet agency priorities, program balance, geographical representation, or project diversity. OBJECTIVES:

To assist States in providing a nutritious nonprofit breakfast service for school children, through cash grants and food donations.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Formula Grants (Apportionments)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Federally appropriated School Breakfast Program funds are available to each State agency to reimburse participating public and nonprofit private schools, of high school grade and under, including residential child care institutions, for breakfasts meeting the nutritional requirements prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, served to eligible children. The rates of reimbursement are adjusted on an annual basis to reflect changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for all Urban Consumers. All participating schools must agree to serve free and reduced price meals to eligible children. Please refer to regulations: 7 CFR Part 210 -- National School Lunch Program; 7 CFR Part 215 -- Special Milk Program; 7 CFR Part 220 -- School Breakfast Program; 7 CFR Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense; 7 CFR Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

State and U.S. Territory agencies (except territories subject to the requirements to the Compact of Free Association); public and nonprofit private schools of high school grade and under; public and nonprofit private residential child care institutions, except Job Corps centers. All schools that participate must agree to serve free and reduced price meals to eligible children, and operate a nonprofit breakfast program that is available to all children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

All children attending schools where this program is operating may participate. Breakfast is served free to children who are determined by local education agencies to have household income levels at or below 130 percent, and at a reduced price to children from households with incomes higher than 130 but at or below 185 percent of the Federal poverty line, respectively. Meals served to non-needy children also get cash assistance. Such determinations are made in accordance with income eligibility guidelines prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture and cross reference household income with household size. The Secretary prescribes these income eligibility guidelines by July 1. The statistical source used in making such revisions is the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines.

Children from households certified to receive benefits through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations, or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, and children in Head Start programs are automatically eligible for free meals. Homeless children, children in certain runaway and homeless youth grant programs, migrant children, and foster children are automatically eligible for free meals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicant organizations must furnish evidence of nonprofit status. Costs will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Part 3015 or 3016 and 3019). 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Public schools in all States make application to the State education agency unless the State applies or is approved for a waiver to designate an alternate agency. Appropriate forms may be obtained from this agency. Nonprofit private schools should also apply to the State education agency in most States. In some States, however, the State education agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application will be referred to the alternate State agency or the appropriate Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) regional office.

Award Procedure:

When an application is approved, the school makes a written agreement with the appropriate agency.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Effective upon approval by the State Agency.

Appeals:

The State agency is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for cash assistance is set forth in section 4 of the Child Nutrition Act, 42 U.S.C. 1773, on a performance basis by: (1) multiplying the number of paid breakfasts served to eligible children during the fiscal year by a National Average Payment (NAP) prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture; (2) multiplying the number of breakfasts served free to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for free breakfasts; and, (3) multiplying the number of reduced price breakfasts served to eligible children by a NAP prescribed by the Secretary for reduced priced breakfasts. The amount of Federal funds given the grantee is the sum of the products obtained from these three computations.

Schools with a high percentage of needy may receive additional payments. The statistical factors used in this formula are: (1) The NAPs; (2) the number of paid breakfasts served; and (3) the number of breakfasts served free or at reduced price to eligible children. The NAPs are prescribed by the Secretary and adjusted each July 1, in accordance with the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. The source of this adjustment factor is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The source of the numbers of breakfasts served, including the number served free or at reduced price, is the monthly programmatic reports submitted to FNS.

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement on a fiscal year basis. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

State Agencies, schools, and institutions file monthly reports on the number of meals served, by type, to claim program funds. Schools and institutions must submit final meal claims to the State no later than 60 days after claiming month. States must submit final program reports to FNS no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. States must submit a final fiscal year grant closeout report to FNS no later than 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503.

Records:

Schools must maintain full and accurate records of their breakfast programs. AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1751 1760, 1779.

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States, through cash grants and food donations, in providing a nutritious nonprofit lunch service for school children and to encourage the domestic consumption of nutritious agricultural commodities

The primary goal of the project is to increase household response to school district verification requests in order to decrease unnecessary loss of benefits and improve verification data quality.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Federally appropriated National School Lunch Program funds are available to each State agency to reimburse participating public and nonprofit private schools, of high school grades or under, including residential child care institutions, for lunches meeting the nutritional requirements prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, served to eligible children. Schools meeting eligibility criteria may be reimbursed for snacks served to children enrolled in eligible after school hour care programs. Participating schools are reimbursed at rates that are adjusted on an annual basis to reflect changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. All participating schools must agree to serve free and reduced price meals to eligible children.

National School Lunch School Breakfast verification project

FNS is testing the effectiveness of alternate Local Educational Agencies communication protocols with households through randomized controlled trials, conducted in cooperation with the White House Social and Behavioral Science Team. The project will also provide FNS with the information necessary to assess the cost effectiveness of the interventions and allow FNS to estimate the aggregate cost of scaling successful interventions. The assistance will only be used to reimburse school districts material costs of participation in the project. Specifically, FNS is offering to offset the extra cost of postage-paid return envelopes and a reasonable amount for color printing expenses that many districts do not incur in their usual verification processes. To simplify payment, FNS will provide a fixed $55 for every 50 households (or fraction) that districts contact for verification. Please refer to regulations: 7 CFR Part 210 -- National School Lunch Program and 7 CFR Part 245 Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

State and U.S. Territory agencies (except territories subject to the Compact of Free Association), public and nonprofit private schools of high school grade and under; public and nonprofit private residential child care institutions, except Job Corps centers, residential summer camps that participate in the Summer Food Service Program, and private foster homes. Schools and residential child care institutions that participate must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

All children enrolled in schools where this program is operating may participate. Lunch is served free to children who are determined by local educational agencies to have household income levels at or below 130 percent of poverty, and at a reduced price to children from households with incomes higher than 130 but at or below 185 percent of the poverty line respectively. Such determinations are made in accordance with income eligibility guidelines prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture and cross reference household income with household size. The Secretary announces these income eligibility guidelines by July 1. The statistical source used in making such revisions is the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines.

Children from households certified to receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits, the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, and children in Head Start Programs are automatically eligible for free meals. Homeless children, children in certain runaway and homeless youth grant programs, migrant children, and foster children are also automatically eligible for free meals.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicant organizations must furnish evidence of nonprofit status. Costs will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (for FY 2016, at 2 CFR Part 200 applies to this program). 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

The application forms as furnished by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) or the State agency, as applicable, must be used for this program. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-102 applies to this program. OMB Circular No. A-110 applies to this program. Public schools in all States make application to the State educational agency unless the State applies and is approved for a waiver to designate an alternate agency. Appropriate forms may be obtained from this agency. Nonprofit private schools should also apply to the State educational agency in most States. In some States, however, the State educational agency is prohibited by statute from disbursing Federal funds to nonprofit private schools. In such instances, the application should be submitted to the alternate State agency or the appropriate FNS Regional Office.

Award Procedure:

The State agency reviews the written application of a school or a residential child care institution and, upon determination of eligibility, makes a written agreement with the school or institution for participation in the program.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Effective upon approval by the State agency or regional office as applicable.

Appeals:

The State agency or regional office, as applicable is responsible for determining a school's eligibility.

Renewals:

Permanent, amended as necessary.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: The funding formula for the general cash for food assistance phase of this program is set forth in section 4 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1753; the formula for special cash assistance is described in section 11 of the Act, 42 U.S.C.1759a. This program is funded on a performance basis. For every lunch served during the applicable fiscal year, the State receives a payment from funds made available under section 4. In addition, the State receives a payment from section 11 funds for each lunch served to a child eligible for free or reduced price lunches. The amounts of such per lunch payments are determined by "National Average Payment" (NAP) factors. The amount due the State under this program is obtained by: (1) multiplying the total number of eligible paid lunches and free and reduced price lunches served during the fiscal year by the section 4 NAP factor for lunches; (2) multiplying the number of free lunches served by the section 11 NAP factor for free lunches; (3) multiplying the number of lunches served at reduced price by the Section 11 NAP factor for reduced price lunches; (4) multiplying the total number of lunches served during the fiscal year in school food authorities which served 60 percent or more free or reduced price lunches in the second preceding school year by $.02; and (5) adding together the four products obtained thereby. The NAP factors are prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with sections 4 and 11, respectively, of the Act; the numbers of lunches are obtained from programmatic reports submitted to FNS. In addition to the NAP factors, lunches certified as meeting updated meal patterns and nutrition standards receive an additional 6 cents in reimbursement. The funding formula for snacks in after school care programs is described in section 17A of the Act, 42, U.S.C. 1766a. Section 11(a)(3) of the Act requires that the NAP factors be adjusted annually, according to changes in the Food Away From Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers; the source is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Each State must appropriate from State revenues and use, for program purposes, an amount equal to 30 percent of the section 4 funds made available to the State in the 1980-81 school year. Also, commodity schools are eligible to receive donated commodities equal in value to the sum of section 6 and section 4 assistance rates, except that up to 5 cents of this amount may be received in cash for processing and handling commodities. In addition, commodity schools are eligible for section 11 free and reduced price meal reimbursements. This program has no matching requirements.

This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. See funding agency for further details.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement on a fiscal year basis. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

State agencies and schools file monthly reports on the number of meals served, by type, to claim program funds. School food authorities must submit final meal claims to the State no later than 60 days after the claiming month, and States must submit final program reports to FNS no later than 90 days after the claiming month. States must submit final fiscal year grant close out reports to FNS within 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. Annually, school food authorities must report, to their State agency, the most common charge for lunches served to children who do not qualify for free or reduced price lunches. School food authorities report the price charged at the elementary, middle and high levels, as applicable. In turn the State agency submits this information to FNS for publication. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. States must submit final fiscal year grant close out reports to FNS within 120 days after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133.

Records:

Schools must maintain full and accurate records of their lunch programs. Such records shall be retained for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain, except that if audit findings have not been resolved, the records shall be retained beyond the 3-year period as long as required for the resolution of audit findings. School food authorities must maintain records for State agency review relating to the average price they charge for full-price school lunches relation to the requirement for paid lunch pricing equity. TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available to State agencies to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children in public and private nonprofit schools of high school grade and under, public and private nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar nonprofit institutions devoted to the care and training of children, except Job Corps centers, provided that these schools and institutions do not participate in a meal service program authorized under the National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. The Child Nutrition Amendments of 1986 expanded eligibility to include children in split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs in nonprofit schools and institutions that do not have access to the Federal meal service program operating in schools the children attend. Disbursement to States is made on the basis of the number of half-pints of milk served to non-needy children, using a reimbursement rate specified by law. Milk served free to eligible needy children is reimbursed at the average cost of a half-pint of milk. Please refer to regulations: 7 CFR Part 215 -- Special Milk Program; 7 CFR Part 235 -- State Administrative Expense; 7 CFR Part 245 -- Free and Reduced Price Eligibility.

Applicant Eligibility:

Russell National School Lunch Act or the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. This generally includes nonprofit nursery schools, child care centers, settlement houses and summer camps. Schools with split session kindergarten and pre-kindergarten programs can receive subsidies for milk served to children in the split session kindergartens and pre-kindergartens that do not have access to another meal service program operating in the school. All schools and child care institutions that participate must agree to operate this program on a nonprofit basis for all children without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, age or disability.

10.557 SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS, AND CHILDREN

(WIC Program)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17, 42 U.S.C. 1786. Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 7 U.S.C 1746.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide low-income pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children to age five who have been determined to be at nutritional risk, supplemental nutritious foods, nutrition education, and referrals to health and social services at no cost. WIC also promotes breastfeeding as the feeding method of choice for infants, provides substance abuse education and promotes immunization and other aspects of healthy living.

For Formula Grants, the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) makes funds available to participating State health agencies and Indian Tribal Organizations (ITOs) that, in turn, distribute the funds to participating local agencies. State and local agencies use WIC funds to pay the costs of specified supplemental foods provided to WIC participants, and to pay for specified nutrition services and administration (NSA) costs, including the cost of nutrition assessments, blood tests for anemia, nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion, and health care referrals.

For Project Grants, funding for the competitive Loving Support grant is available for formative research and educational material development in the campaign for breastfeeding promotion and support. This project will effectively build on the successes of the existing Loving Support campaign to inform, motivate and persuade the audience in an effective manner that continues to increase breastfeeding rates among WIC participants and increase support for breastfeeding among those who most influence breastfeeding mothers (their family and friends, health care providers, WIC staff, and relevant community partners).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS; Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

WIC Program Formula grants are made to State health departments or comparable agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils, or groups recognized by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Funds are expended to pay for supplemental foods, nutrition education, breastfeeding promotion and support, health care referrals for participants, and other client services including certification, as well as administrative costs. State agencies are provided Federal funds according to legislative and regulatory formulas. Only local agencies qualifying under State agency applications with formal agreements may operate WIC programs.

The Loving Support Project grant is available to small businesses, nonprofits having a 501(c)(3) status with the IRS, WIC State agencies, institutions of higher education and for profit organizations other than small businesses, public and State controlled institutions of higher education and private institutions of higher education. Qualified applicants are expected to update the existing USDA breastfeeding promotion campaign or update and develop breastfeeding training for WIC staff. The campaign update will be based on a comprehensive social marketing plan with an emphasis on formative research, appropriately framed educational messages, innovative campaign strategies, and updated promotional materials. WIC breastfeeding training curricula for staff fall under the umbrella of the Loving Support campaign. Grant awards are contingent upon availability of funding.

Applicant Eligibility:

A local agency is eligible to apply to deliver locally the services of the WIC Program, provided that: (1) it serves a population of low-income women, infants, and children at nutritional risk; and (2) it is a public or private nonprofit health or human service agency. The Loving Support grant is available to small businesses, Nonprofits having a 501(c)(3) status with the IRS, institutions of higher education and for profit organizations other than small businesses, public and State controlled institutions of higher education and private institutions of higher education. All applications must be submitted via the Grants.gov portal.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children up to 5 years of age are eligible if: (1) they are individually determined by a competent professional to be in need of the special supplemental foods supplied by the program because of nutritional risk; and (2) meet an income standard, or receive or have certain family members that receive benefits under the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance, Medicaid or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families Programs. They must also reside in the State in which benefits are received.

Credentials/Documentation:

Individuals are certified as meeting an income standard, or as participating in certain other means-tested Federal programs. Certification regarding nutritional need for supplemental foods is determined by local level professionals. As of April 1999, all State agencies were using uniform criteria to determine nutrition risk. Costs are determined in accordance with OMB Circular No. A-87 for State and local governments. The State designated official responsible for ensuring that the program is operated in accordance with program requirements must sign the State Plan and Federal-State Agreement pursuant to program regulations. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Project Grants are posted to grants.gov and applicants must follow the procedures noted in the Request For Application. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. To assist States, through grants-in-aid and other means, to initiate and maintain nonprofit food service programs for children and elderly or impaired adults enrolled in nonresidential day care facilities, children attending afterschool care programs in low-income areas, and children residing in emergency shelters. This program provides aid to child and adult care institutions and day care homes for the provision of nutritious foods that contribute to the wellness, healthy growth, and development of young children, and the health and wellness of older adults and chronically impaired disabled persons.

Funds are also made available to the States for expenses associated with CACFP administration.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible institutions to reimburse their costs in providing meals and snacks to children and adults enrolled in nonresidential day care, children attending afterschool care programs, and children residing in emergency shelters. Disbursement is made on the basis of the number of breakfasts, lunches, suppers, and snacks served, using annually adjusted reimbursement rates specified by law. This program allows reimbursement for up to two meals and one snack served each day to children through the age of 12, children of migrant workers through the age of 15, and persons with disabilities, in child care centers and day care homes. Adult day care centers receive reimbursement for up to three meals served each day to enrolled adults who are functionally impaired or age 60 and older. This program also provides reimbursement to emergency shelters for up to three meals served each day to residents age 18 and younger. In at-risk afterschool care programs, reimbursement is available for one snack and an additional meal served each day, during the regular school year, to children through the age of 18. All program meals must meet the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to States for administrative expenses related to program staffing and oversight, as well as for audit expenses associated with CACFP administration.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each institution that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Institutions must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children and adult participants regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Approved institutions providing nonresidential day care services may participate in this program. Eligible public and nonprofit private organizations may include day care centers, outside-school-hours care centers, settlement houses, family and group day care homes, Head Start programs, and institutions providing day care services to children with disabilities. Private for-profit centers may also participate if at least 25 percent of the children in care (enrolled or licensed capacity, whichever is less) are eligible for free or reduced price school meals or receive benefits under Title XX of the Social Security Act. Also eligible for participation are nonprofit centers which provide nonresidential adult day care, and private for-profit centers if the center receives compensation under Title XIX of the Social Security Act or Title XX, and at least 25 percent of the adults enrolled in the center receive benefits under Title XIX, Title XX, or a combination of both. Emergency shelters which provide shelter and meals to children experiencing homelessness, and at-risk after school care programs in low-income areas are also eligible. Any eligible institution may participate in this program upon request with State agency approval.

Credentials/Documentation:

The allowability of costs incurred by States in administering this program will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019). Applicants that are not public or proprietary institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process required by the State. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Institutions apply to the responsible State agency. This program is subject to the provisions of USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019).

Award Procedure:

When the application is approved, the institution signs an agreement with the administering State agency.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The State agency must make a decision within 30 calendar days of receiving a complete application from the institution.

Appeals:

The administering agency must provide a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Section 17(b) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1766, describes the funding formula for cash assistance. Program funds are provided to the States through letters of credit. The States, in turn, use the funds to reimburse institutions for costs of food service operations and to support State administrative expenses. Appropriate rates of reimbursement, multiplied by the number of meals served to enrolled participants, represent the basic program payment that an institution receives for each meal served. The assigned rates of reimbursement are adjusted annually on July 1. For child care centers, adult day care centers, emergency shelters, and at-risk after school care programs, the annual adjustment reflects changes in the Food Away from Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. For day care homes, the adjustment reflects changes in the Food at Home series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers. Donated foods or cash in lieu of donated foods are also made available. Program payments to child care or adult day care centers depend on the number and types of meals served to enrolled participants, multiplied by the appropriate rate of reimbursement. Rates for meals served to enrolled children and eligible adults in day care centers are determined by the participants' eligibility for free, reduced price, or paid meals using USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines. All resident children age 18 and younger in eligible emergency shelters receive free meals without application. At-risk after school care programs, which must be located in low-income areas, are reimbursed at the free rate for all meals and snacks served to children through age 18. Sponsoring organizations of day care homes are reimbursed at a national administrative rate based on the number of homes they operate. The level of reimbursement for meals served to enrolled children in day care homes is determined by economic need based on either the location of the day care home, the income of the day care provider, or the income of an individual child's household. Meals served in day care homes to the provider's own children are reimbursable only if those children are determined eligible for free and reduced price meals, and at least one other nonresident child is participating in the meal service. The reimbursement for food service is passed on by the sponsoring organization to the day care facility. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program does not have MOE requirements.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

For the period covered by the agreement. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

Institutions file monthly reports on program operations to claim reimbursement for meals served. They must submit final meal claims no later than 60 days after the claiming month. States must then submit final program reports to the Food and Nutrition Service no later than 90 days after the claiming month. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. No expenditure reports are required. No performance monitoring is required.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Audits may be conducted less frequently under conditions specified in OMB Circular No. A-133. For-profit institutions are subject to audit by their administering State agencies.

Records:

Institutions must maintain full and accurate records of program operations for a period of 3 years after the end of the fiscal year to which they pertain. However, where there are unresolved audit findings, records must be retained until there is satisfactory resolution of all audit issues.

10.559 SUMMER FOOD SERVICE PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN (SFSP)FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, Sections 9, 13 and 14, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1758, 1761 and 1762a; Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act of 2010, P.L. 111-80, Section 749(g)(1).

OBJECTIVES:

To assist States, through grants-in-aid and other means, to conduct nonprofit food service programs for children. This program operates in partnership with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), State agencies, and local organizations to provide free meals to eligible children during the summer months and at other approved times, when school is not in session.

In addition there are discretionary grant initiatives to improve access and test alternative methods for feeding children over the summer. The methods being tested through these demonstrations are:

1. Extending Length of Operation: Eligible SFSP sponsors received an additional 50 percent lunch served if they operated for 40 or more days during the summer.
2. Activity Incentive: Eligible sponsors received a mini-grant of varying amounts to provide activities to children at their SFSP meal service sites.
3. Summer Home Delivery: Meals are delivered to homes or community drop-off sites for children eligible for free or reduced-price school meals to consume at home during the summer.
4. Food Backpacks: Bags containing meals are provided to children attending SFSP sites for them to take home to consume on the days that traditional SFSP sites are not open, typically weekends and holidays.
5. Summer Electronic Benefits Transfer for Children (SEBTC)-Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP): Free and reduced-price eligible children receive a per month SNAP EBT benefit that their families can use to purchase food during the summer.
6. SEBTC-Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC): Free and reduced-price eligible children receive a per month WIC EBT benefit that their families can use to purchase food during the summer.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds are made available for disbursement to eligible service institutions (sponsors) which provide free meals to children in areas where at least 50 percent of the children meet the income eligibility criteria for free and reduced price meals. Meals may be served to children 18 and younger, and to individuals over 18 who participate in State-approved school programs for persons with disabilities.

This program generally operates during the months of May through September at site locations where regularly scheduled food services are provided for children. Sites may also participate in this program from September through May if an area school is closed because of an emergency situation. Sponsors operating food programs for children on school vacation under a continuous year-round calendar may apply for participation in other months.

Reimbursement may be paid for one meal and one snack or two meals per child each day. Camps and sites primarily serving children of migrant workers may be approved to serve up to three reimbursable meals each day. Meals must meet USDA standards to be eligible for reimbursement. Funds are also paid to participating State agencies for administrative expenses related to program staffing, operation, and oversight.

Summer demonstration projects either address funding limitations that restrict participation or provide an alternate approach to summer feeding needed by children unable to access traditional congregate feeding sites. Assistance must be used for specific activities authorized by Child Nutrition legislation. There may be restrictions as required by the legislation.

1. Extending Length of Operation: Only sponsors operating for 40 or more days during the summer were eligible.
2. Activity Incentive: SFSP sponsors were required to apply for selection by the State to receive the mini-grant.
3. Summer Home Delivery: Sponsors had to apply for a competitive grant selection process conducted by FNS. Sponsors in three States were selected to participate in this demonstration project. Only children certified eligible for free and reduced-price school meals were eligible to receive meals through this demonstration.
4. Food Backpacks: Sponsors had to apply for a competitive grant selection process conducted by FNS. Sponsors were only eligible if they had successfully operated SFSP the previous year. Sponsors in three States were selected to participate in this demonstration project.

5. SEBTC-SNAP: Only States that formally applied and were selected by FNS were eligible to implement this. Only free and reduced-price eligible children whose families consented to participation were eligible to receive benefits.

6. SEBTC-WIC: Only States that formally applied and were selected by FNS were eligible to implement this. Only free and reduced-price eligible children whose families consented to participation were eligible to receive benefits.

Applicant Eligibility:

The State or U.S. Territory agency applies for and signs an agreement to receive Federal funds for disbursement. The State agency enters into an agreement with each sponsor that has been approved for participation. The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements. Sponsors must agree to operate a nonprofit food service that is available to all eligible children regardless of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or disability.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A service institution that conducts a regularly scheduled program for children from areas in which poor economic conditions exist is eligible to participate as a sponsor in this program. Sponsors include public or private nonprofit school food authorities; public or private nonprofit colleges or universities operating the National Youth Sports Program during the months of May to September; units of local, municipal, county, or State governments; and other faith or community-based private nonprofit organizations.

Public or private nonprofit residential or nonresidential summer camps may also participate. However, at camps, reimbursement will only be paid for meals served to enrolled children who are individually determined to be eligible for free and reduced price school meals under USDA Income Eligibility Guidelines.

Credentials/Documentation:

The allowability of costs incurred by States in administering this program will be determined in accordance with USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019). 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Service institutions may apply directly to the responsible State agency. Applicants that are not public institutions must furnish evidence of tax-exempt status under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. This program is subject to the provisions of USDA Uniform Federal Assistance Regulations (7 CFR Parts 3016 and 3019).

Award Procedure:

When an application is approved, the sponsor signs an agreement with the administering agency.

States were selected for the Summer EBT for Children (SEBTC) SNAP and WIC models based on a formal grants selection process.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

The State agency must make a decision within 30 calendar days of receiving a complete and correct sponsor application. If an incorrect application is received, the State agency must notify the applicant within 15 days and provide technical assistance to complete the application.

Appeals:

The State agency must have a hearing procedure for local institution grievances.

Renewals:

The agreement is permanent and may be amended as necessary to ensure compliance with all Federal requirements.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Sections 13(b) and (k) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1761, describe the funding formulas for cash assistance. Cash reimbursement to States under this program is the product obtained by multiplying the number of meals served by maximum rates of reimbursement established by USDA. State agencies use the cash assistance to reimburse sponsors for eligible meals served to eligible children. Since all meals are served free, all meals of the same type are funded at the same rate. Rates are adjusted annually on January 1, to reflect changes in the "Food Away from Home" series of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers.

Matching requirements are not applicable to this program.

This program does not have MOE requirements.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: During July 2014, the peak month of program operations, approximately 2.63 million children participated in the program on an average day, an increase from the 2.43 million children that participated in July 2013. During FY 2014, 44,806 feeding sites provided 160.1 million meals to needy children through the SFSP. This is a 6 percent increase from the 151 million meals provided in FY 2013. There were increases in all types of meals, but the largest numerical increases were in breakfasts (2.9 million) and lunches (5.0 million). Suppers increased 10.8 percent (0.6 million). Compared to FY 1990, meals have increased 75.5 percent from 91.2 million. Fiscal Year 2015: The current estimate projects 169 million SFSP meals served in FY 2015. Additional funding in the FY 2015 budget allows FNS to continue the SEBTC-SNAP project in counties in existing States. Fiscal Year 2016: The current estimate projects 177.4 million meals, which would be a 5 percent increase above the FY 2015 estimate. An increase in SEBTC funding in FY 2016 will help participating States reach the large number of low-income children who do not have access to SFSP and will enable FNS to evaluate whether SEBTC is a viable option to address childhood hunger during the summer over an expanded area.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Section 7(a) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1776, describes the funding formula for cash assistance. For the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program, and Special Milk Program, funds are allocated on the basis of an amount equal to one percent of the total funds used in the State for these programs during the second preceding year based on FNS program and fiscal data. However, no State receives less than $200,000 or the amount it received in fiscal year 1981, whichever is larger. For the Child and Adult Care Food Program, a sliding grant is made based on FNS program and fiscal data. In addition, the Secretary of Agriculture has discretionary authority to provide funds to States for program improvement, based on FNS program and fiscal data. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. Any reduction of funds from State sources below the fiscal year 1977 level will result in a withdrawal of Federal funds under this grant.

USDA Foods can only be made available to eligible beneficiaries and cannot be sold, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of without prior specific approval by the Department.

Healthy Hunger Free Kids Act of 2010, Public Law 111-296, 106 Stat. 281; Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Section 17(m), 42 U.S.C. 1786.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide fresh, nutritious, unprepared, locally grown fruits and vegetables from farmers markets to women, infants, and children who participate in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC); and to expand the awareness and use of farmers' markets and increase sales at such markets.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants are made to State health, agriculture and other agencies, Indian tribes, bands, or intertribal councils or groups recognized by the Department of the Interior, or the Indian Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program. Participating State agencies must provide program income or State, local, or private funds for the program in an amount that is equal to at least 30 percent of the administrative cost of the program except Indian Tribal Organizations which may provide a negotiated match contribution that is less than 30 percent but not less than 10 percent. The matching requirement may be satisfied from State contributions that are made for similar programs. Federal FMNP benefits (coupons) may be issued only to participants in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) or to persons who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits. A minimum of 83 percent of grant funds may be used to support the costs of the foods that are provided under the FMNP but no more than seventeen percent may be used for administrative cost of the program.

Applicant Eligibility:

All State agencies that desire to receive a FMNP grant must submit, for each Federal fiscal year, a State Plan to the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), USDA. New State agencies are selected based on the availability of funds after base grants for currently participating State agencies are funded. Local FMNP sites are selected by participating State agencies based on concentration of eligible WIC participants and access to farmers' markets.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

WIC participants (i.e., pregnant, postpartum or breastfeeding women; infants over 4 months of age; and children up to 5 years of age) and (at the State's discretion) those who are on a waiting list to receive WIC benefits are eligible to receive FMNP coupons. State agencies may also designate subcategories of WIC participants, e.g., pregnant and breastfeeding women only, to be FMNP recipients.

Credentials/Documentation:

A signed and executed Federal/State Agreement (FNS-339) is necessary before funds can be allocated to a participating FMNP State agency. Costs will be determined in accordance with 7 CFR Part 3016, and FNS guidelines and instructions. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Application is made through submission of a "State Plan of Program Operation and Administration" as required by law. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Farmers or farmers' markets (depending on whether State agencies have agreements with farmers or markets) located in communities with WIC Program sites may apply to be authorized to accept FMNP coupons under the program. The State agency reviews the applications for completeness and compliance with authorization requirements. The State agency contacts the farmer/farmers' market to inform them of qualification. Individual participants apply for FMNP benefits at approved local WIC agencies.

Award Procedure:

Funds are awarded by the Department on the basis of funding formulas to State agencies. If the available funds are insufficient to meet the base grant levels for current FMNP grantees, a pro-rata reduction will be applied to the grant levels awarded to all participating FMNP State agencies. If additional funds become available for the FMNP, such funds would first be distributed evenly among the current grantees to make whole their base grants for that fiscal year. Grant payments are made by a letter of credit.

Deadlines:

Nov 15, 2014 FMNP State Plans for the current fiscal year are due to the appropriate FNS Regional office by November 15.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

As required by law (at Section 1786(m)(6)(A) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended), the Secretary must inform each FMNP State agency of the award of funds by February 15 of each year.

Appeals:

All decisions by the FNS are final.

Team Nutrition is an initiative of the USDA Food and Nutrition Service to support their Child Nutrition Programs through training and technical assistance for foodservice, nutrition education for children and their caregivers, and school and community support for healthy eating and physical activity.

Team Nutrition Training Grants for Healthy School Meals have been identified in USDA's national Strategic Plan for Training and Technical Assistance as one of the anchor delivery systems for supporting the implementation of USDA's nutrition requirements and the Dietary Guidelines for Americans in Child Nutrition programs. Team Nutrition's (TN) goal is to improve children's lifelong eating and physical activity habits by using the principles of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the USDA Food Guidance System.

TN Training Grants are awarded to State agencies on a competitive basis to establish or enhance sustainable infrastructures for implementing TN's three behavior-focused strategies: (1) provide training and technical assistance to child nutrition food service professionals to enable them to prepare and serve nutritious meals that appeal to students; (2) promote nutrition curriculum and education in schools through multiple communication channels (i.e., food services initiatives, classroom activities, school wide events, home activities, community programs and events, and media events and coverage) to reinforce positive nutrition messages and encourage students to make healthy food and physical activity choices as part of a healthy lifestyle; and (3) build school and community support for creating healthy school environments that are conducive to healthy eating and physical activity.

Non-competitive grants were awarded in FY 2014 for training and technical assistance to help schools use Behavioral Economics to create Smarter Lunchrooms, increasing student selection and consumption of fruits, vegetables, legumes, and whole grains. States were able to opt, under the grant announcement, to apply for the competitive and/or non-competitive Team Nutrition Training Grants. States could apply for a total of $350,000, either solely as a competitive grant, or a combination of competitive and non-competitive grants. The maximum amount a state could apply for in non-competitive grants was $50,000.

The HealthierUS School Challenge (HUSCC) is a voluntary certification initiative established to recognize those schools participating in the National School Lunch Program that have created healthier school environments through promotion of nutrition and physical activity. Effective in FY 2016, HUSCC will be listed under its own CFDA number, 10.543, and will no longer be listed under the TN Training Grants.

EBT Planning grants funds are provided to WIC State agencies to assess the feasibility of EBT for their State, as well as to perform a cost analysis to verify EBT affordability. The planning process is a WIC requirement prior to EBT implementation and looks at WIC Information System capabilities, retailer capabilities, and baseline paper cost compared to EBT operational cost within the State to better prepare for the challenges of EBT implementation. WIC State agencies must analyze both on-line and off-line EBT technologies to assess the most cost-effective solution.

5. WIC Technical Innovation Grants (competitive). WIC Technical Innovation grant funds are provided to WIC State agencies for the development of standardized reporting, retailer certification test scripts, and development of a web-based Internet system that will allow WIC participants to access grocer's websites, select WIC approved foods and purchase them with their EBT card from the convenience of their homes.

10.586 SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS AND CHILDREN; NUTRITION EDUCATION INNOVATIONS

WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, WIC Periconceptional Grant

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

National Agriculture Research, Extension, and Teaching Policy Act of 1977, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C. 3102, Section 1403(8), 7 U.S.C 3102.

OBJECTIVES:

These awards enable Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) to enter into grants and cooperative agreements with States and local governments, universities, hospitals and non-profit organizations to identify, develop, and undertake projects to meet FNS program needs and the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants. The grantees and recipients are expected to work cooperatively with FNS to:

- Support researcher-initiated projects that use a common approach to reporting findings to ensure transparency and facilitate a meta-analysis of all projects;
- Coordinate activities among researchers;
- Effectively use technology and digital media to achieve desired outcomes; and
- Advance communication and coordination to improve target behaviors.

The grants and cooperative agreements plan to enable FNS to be more responsive to program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of FNS program participants.

The objective of the WIC Periconceptional Grant is to establish a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate the impacts of WIC on periconceptional nutrition. FNS focus for this project is the direct and indirect effects of WIC participation by one or more family members during the periconceptional period and the implications for service delivery. During the periconceptional period the time period immediately prior to conception and in the first few days and weeks following conception nutrition can impact placental and embryonic development with critical lifelong implications. This project supports a university-based grant series for researcher-initiated projects to demonstrate creative approaches to evaluate WIC impacts on periconceptional nutrition, coordinate activities among researchers, and widely disseminate findings from current research.

The WIC Nutrition Education Innovations' Grant's objective is to enhance the effort to identify, develop, evaluate, and disseminate innovative and effective WIC nutrition education interventions. This is to be accomplished by providing grant funding for a university-based center with this charge, including a program of sub-grants to support development and evaluation of WIC-focused researcher-initiated innovations from researchers across the nation.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For both the WIC Periconceptional Grant and the WIC Nutrition Education Innovations Grant, the following uses and use restrictions apply:

Cooperative Agreement Grants will be made to State and local governments, universities, hospitals, and non-profit organizations for awarding cooperative agreements, and grants to design, develop and evaluate innovative approaches for Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) programs, such as WIC, to meet FNS program needs and to strengthen their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grant and cooperative agreement recipient is task with:

- making sub-grants,
- coordinating efforts among sub-grantees,
- evaluating impact of FNS programs, such as WIC, on food, nutrition and health,
- providing a summary and syntheses of these and related efforts, such as meta-analysis on the results,
- composing and coordinating a conference on observations and findings, and
- providing FNS with cost neutral approaches to improving FNS programs.

FNS' primary objective for these grants and cooperative agreements is to support interest in exploring better ways to improve and assess Food and Nutrition Service program needs and their impact on the food, nutrition and health of program eligible participants. The grants should enhance knowledge and further research activities by the academic community, FNS and others. See the RFP. The grant and cooperative agreement funds are provided to recipients (grantees) responsible to spend the funds in accordance with what is set forth in the grant or cooperative agreement, and applicable Federal circulars such as A-110. The source and use of the funds for the grants and cooperative agreements will be tied to a project of interest to one or more of FNS' program areas. FNS has the discretion to select (through competition) what institution will receive the funds and to what research endeavors they will be applied, assuming that research is not specified in the law or other directive.

Applicant Eligibility:

The grant is to be used to establish grants and cooperative agreements to identify, develop and undertake projects to meet Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) program needs and the food, nutrition, and health needs of program eligible participants.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Cooperative agreements are awarded to State and local governments, hospitals, non-profit organizations and accredited colleges/universities offering advanced degrees at the PhD level in biological and social sciences such as sociology, psychology, education, nutrition, public health and economics. This is a requirement for the selected recipient of the grants and cooperative agreements, not the sub-grantees. Cooperative agreement recipients are to award sub-grants to researchers to identify, develop, and evaluate interventions and innovative approaches to strengthen the impact of Food and Nutrition Service programs, such as WIC, on the food, nutrition, and health of program eligible participants.

10.587 NATIONAL FOOD SERVICE MANAGEMENT INSTITUTE ADMINISTRATION AND STAFFING GRANT (ICN)FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 1751, 1758, 1759a, 1761, 1765, 1766, 1769, 1772, 1773, 1779; School Breakfast Program (SBP); Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended, Public Laws 108-265, 104-193, 100-435, 99-661, 97-35; Special Milk Program (SMP); Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended; Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP); 89 Stat. 522-525, Summer Food Service Program (SFSF); American Recovery Act and Reinvestment Act of 2009, Public Law 111-5. The 2010 Agriculture Appropriations Act (Public Law 111-80).

OBJECTIVES:

The Institute of Child Nutrition (ICN), formerly known as the Institute of Child Nutrition (ICN) is part of the School of Applied Science at The University of Mississippi, and is the only federally funded national center dedicated to applied research, education and training, and technical assistance for Child Nutrition Programs. The Institute was established and authorized by Congress, in 1989, and funded at The University of Mississippi in 1991 by a grant administered through the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service (FNS). In 1994, the Institute was permanently authorized. The specific duties (described below) of the Institute can be found in section 21 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, 42 U.S.C. 1769b-1.

Administration and Staffing Grant:

The Institute receives $5,000,000 through a non-competitive grant each year as stipulated in section 21 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act, as amended and reauthorized, for activities that include training, applied research, preparation of informational materials and maintenance of an information clearinghouse. The grant funds staff positions in the Institute's four divisions: Education and Training, Information Services, Applied Research and Administration.

General Education Cooperative Agreement:

The Institute receives $800,000 for general education through a non-competitive cooperative agreement. The general education agreement supports activities under Team Nutrition. Team Nutrition is a USDA initiative to support the Child Nutrition Programs through training and technical assistance for foodservice, nutrition education for children and their caregivers, and school and community support for healthy eating and physical activity. In addition the FNS Office of Food Safety provides funding to support its mission of increasing awareness, visibility, and impact of food safety on USDA nutrition assistance programs. The Institute provides support to the FNS Office of Food Safety for developing food safety education programs and materials and conducting applied research related to food safety education (non-competitive). A complete description is at CFDA 10.585 FNS Food Safety Grants.

Chefs Move to Schools Cooperative Agreement:

In addition, $500,000 is provided to support the Chefs Move to Schools program. The overall goal is to continue the efforts of establishing the Chefs Move to Schools as a national volunteer movement that encourages Chef and School partnerships across the US to educate and empower children to develop healthier eating habits. Schools that sign up to partner with chefs receive menu ideas, culinary training and help teaching students about the importance of healthy meals.

Professional Standards Cooperative Agreement:

Also, $2,000,000 is provided to support Professional Standards. The Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act (HHFKA) of 2010, Section 306, directed the United States Department of Agriculture to establish minimum national professional standards for all school nutrition employees who manage and operate the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs. These new standards will ensure that school nutrition personnel have the training and tools they need to plan, purchase and prepare safe, nutritious and enjoyable school meals. The rule institutes minimum hiring standards for the selection of State and local school nutrition program directors; and requires all personnel in these programs to complete annual continuing education/training. The standards are effective July 1, 2015. The principal benefit of this rule is to ensure that key school nutrition personnel are meeting minimum professional standards in order to adequately perform the duties and responsibilities of their positions.

Mission and Vision:

The Institute's mission is to provide information and services that promote the continuous improvement of Child Nutrition Programs. The vision is to be the leader in providing education, research, and resources to promote excellence in Child Nutrition Programs. The Institute serves anyone connected with the Child Nutrition Programs: National School Lunch, School Breakfast, Summer Food Service, and Child and Adult Care Food Programs. As a national center, and to fulfill its mission, the Institute develops educational resources, and offers training and technical assistance using appropriate technology for child nutrition professionals across the nation and conducts applied research. It is the training and technical assistance arm of the Child Nutrition Programs.

The Agricultural Act of 2014, Section 4022, Public Law 113-79, 7 U.S.C 2025(h)(1)(F).

OBJECTIVES:

Pilot projects to reduce dependency and increase work requirements and work effort under SNAP: The purpose of these pilots is to develop and test methods that raise the number of work registrants under section 6(d) of the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008, as amended, who obtain unsubsidized employment, increase the earned income of the registrants, and reduce the reliance of the registrants on public assistance, so as to reduce the need for SNAP benefits.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Act provides funding for ten pilot projects that develop and test methods, including operating work programs with certain features comparable to work programs operated under the TANF program, for employment and training programs to raise the number of SNAP work registrants who obtain unsubsidized employment, increase the earned income of the registrants, and reduce the reliance of the registrants on public assistance. The Act requires an independent, rigorous evaluation to measure the impact of each pilot on participants employment, income, and other measures of well-being to inform implementation of SNAP E&T programs.

In accordance with section 16(h)(4) of the FNA and 7 CFR 273.7(d)(ii), E&T funding, including E&T pilot funds, cannot be used for certification procedures, including determining whether an individual must be work registered, the work registration process, or any further screening performed during the certification process, nor for sanction activities.

Allowable use of funds includes, but is not limited to, personnel costs; training; translation of forms; other supplies; printing, duplication, and dissemination of materials; and technology (both hardware and software) necessary and allocable for operating the pilot project and/or participating in the evaluation of the pilot project.

Applicant Eligibility:

Only State agencies that currently administer the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) Employment and Training (E&T) program are eligible for these grants.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Only State agencies that currently administer the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) Employment and Training (E&T) program are eligible for these grants.

Credentials/Documentation:

The Act requires that State agencies interested in applying must commit to maintain at least the amount of State funding for SNAP E&T programs that they expended in FY 2013 for each year of the pilot. The Act also requires that funds made available through this funding opportunity shall be used only to supplement, not to supplant, non-Federal funds used for existing E&T activities or services. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

10.597 SCHOOL WELLNESS POLICY COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Local Wellness Policy Grant

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 204 of the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010 added Section 9A to the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (NSLA) (42 U.S.C. 1758b), Local School Wellness Policy Implementation, in order to strengthen wellness policies of LEAs by placing greater emphasis on implementation and evaluation efforts.

OBJECTIVES:

The Local Wellness Policy Surveillance System will allow us to monitor, collect, and analyze state law and local district policy data and their effects on the implementation of HHFKA legislation and rules and student health outcomes. This competitive cooperative agreement solicits applications for a national-level surveillance system that will address the current gaps in surveillance by current federally and non-federally funded systems and surveys.

Three major federal-level surveillance systems and surveys are currently in place and are scheduled to continue for at least the next 2-3 years, if not indefinitely. Each of these surveillance systems and surveys is funded by a government agency, and each collects detailed data on the breadth and depth of existing state laws, district policies, and related school practices; the implementation of said laws, policies, and practices; and their effects on student health outcomes. The next section describes the strengths, primary areas of focus, periodicity, and other key characteristics for each of three major national surveillance systems and surveys. In so doing, it also highlights important gaps in what they cover, individually and collectively, and areas where linkage with other relevant surveys or research efforts would provide a more detailed picture of school wellness policies and their effects.

1. School Nutrition and Meal Cost Study/School Nutrition Dietary Assessment
The School Nutrition Dietary Assessment (SNDA) is administered by the USDAs Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) every 5 years and collects and analyzes nationally representative data on school meals and the school meal environment (including competitive foods) at the district- and school-levels, with individual-level dietary information collected every 10 years. 14 SNDA-V will be administered as the School Nutrition and Meal Cost Study (SNMCS) in SY 2014-2015 and will include SNDA-type, meal assessment data as well as data on meal cost, dietary recall, plate waste, and meals compliance with standards.

SNDA/SNMCS is the only assessment that examines specifically the nutritional quality of school meals, how and if those meals are meeting the new standards, and meal cost. Examining SNDA/SNMCS data together with state law and district policy data, which SNDA does not currently collect, has the potential to demonstrate how the laws and policies at the state- and district-level are being implemented in, or affecting, lunchrooms (with regard to meal planning and meal environment) and students (with regard to meal cost and diet).

2. Classification of Laws Associated with School Students
The National Cancer Institutes Classification of Laws Associated with School Students (C.L.A.S.S.) is a policy classification system that can be used to evaluate state-level codified laws for nutrition and physical education in schools across all 50 states and the District of Columbia by grade level. C.L.A.S.S. uses state law as the data source and scores the concordance between state laws and national school wellness policy mandates. Currently, C.L.A.S.S. measures are collected annually, with the next cycle beginning in 2014. C.L.A.S.S. data are publicly available for use by researchers, policy makers, and school administrators to obtain information on state laws associated with childhood obesity, track policy changes over time, test relationships between law and behavior, associate C.L.A.S.S. scores with state- and school district-policies, and link to information about obesity and other cancer-related behaviors. C.L.A.S.S. also offers two data visualization tools: (1) a map function that depicts the strength of specific policy areas by grade level across states, and (2) a profile function that depicts policy scores across grade levels within each state by year.

While C.L.A.S.S. is the only classification system that objectively scores state laws on nutritional and physical activity, it does not identify specific elements of the state laws. Therefore, additional, complementary research is required to parse out and examine relationships between individual policy components (e.g., addressing sugar or fat content in school foods) and related school practices and student outcomes (e.g., diet, physical activity, BMI).

3. School Health Policies and Practices Study
The Centers for Disease Control and Preventions School Health Policies and Practices Study (SHPPS) is a national, comprehensive survey conducted to assess school wellness at the state-, district-, school-, and classroom-levels. SHPPS surveys cover health education, physical education, health services, mental health and social services, nutrition services, healthy and safe school environments, and faculty and staff health promotion. Due to the comprehensive design of SHPPS, wellness policy data may be linked with other school health data. SHPPS data are collected every two years, alternating school- and classroom-level data collection with district-level data collection. In its next cycle (2014), SHPPS will collect school- and classroom-level data, and in the following cycle (2016) it will collect district-level data. Beginning in 2016, SHPPS will no longer collect state-level data.

SHPPS is unique in monitoring both school health policies and school wellness policies, which is essential for linking LWPs to student health outcomes such as services received, safety, and environments. The multi-level aspect of SHPPS assessments presents the opportunity for linking this data with state law data in order to show the effects of state laws on LWPs, and the effects of LWPs on overall health. However, SHPPS data are not collected annually.

Great progress has been made in adopting school wellness policies and in developing surveillance systems to monitor their implementation and impact. Yet continued progress in school wellness, school wellness policy development, and positive impacts will require surveillance that provides a fuller understanding of the strengths and limitations of current policies, and that chart the course for evidence-based improvements. This competitive cooperative agreement solicits applications for a national-level surveillance system that will address the most important gaps in the coverage of the existing school wellness policy surveillance systems and surveys. Applicants seeking funding under this School Wellness Policy Cooperative Agreement should consider, at a minimum, the following specific capabilities when developing their proposals:

The capability to link enacted school district wellness policy and related state law data with data being collected through other existing surveillance systems (e.g., SEDA, CLASS, SHPPS) in 2014-2015 (i.e., data collection occurring at various levels as outlined above);

The capability to conduct a nationwide evaluation of the scope of on-the-books (enacted) school district wellness policies and related state laws;

The ability to collect and analyze qualitative data that can explore the implementation of and compliance with HHFKA policies across various stakeholders (e.g., administrators, school food authorities, parents, children, etc.);

The capacity to develop and disseminate timely policy briefs, fact sheets, and other translation products (e.g., infographics) to inform the USDA, Congress, and the research field of key school wellness policy surveillance results and gaps as well as to produce papers for peer-reviewed publication; and

The focus of single or multiple-entity agency funding for the winning proposal(s) should be minimally to compile on-the-books wellness policy data for a nationally representative sample of public school districts and concomitant state laws using an innovative approach that encompasses the above-listed potential areas of focus and other policy opportunities. The Grantees (Recipients) shall work cooperatively with FNS on the study design and evaluation.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: n/a. Fiscal Year 2015: The University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) was awarded this cooperative agreement. The overall goal of this Cooperative Agreement will be for the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) to work with USDA to conduct a National Wellness Policy Study (NWPS). The proposed NWPS builds directly off of the UIC's nearly 8 years of experience conducting similar work through support from USDA's partners in the National Collaborative on Childhood Obesity Research (NCCOR) including the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF), the National Cancer Institute (NCI), and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The team will be led by UIC and includes researchers from the Rudd Center for Food Policy and Obesity now at the University of Connecticut (Rudd Center) and Action for Healthy Kids (AFHK).

The overarching goal of the NWPS is to conduct the necessary state law and district wellness policy surveillance in order to examine the implementation of these laws and policies on schools and students nationwide, both from a quantitative and qualitative perspective. Key activities to be conducted include: (1) conducting on-the-books wellness and related policy collection for a nationally representative sample of districts that will be sampled for USDA's planned School Nutrition and Meal Cost Study (SNMCS); (2) conducting primary legal research to obtain school wellness-related codified statutory and administrative (regulatory) laws for all 50 states; (3) conducting an in-depth analysis of the district policies and state laws using the UIC enhanced adaptation of the WellSAT coding tool; (4) conducting a quantitative evaluation of the implementation of the state laws and district policies on school-level implementation using the school level data from SNMCS; (5) examining the multi-level association between state laws, district policies, school level implementation and student outcomes (also obtained from SNMCS); (6) quantitatively examining the impact of state laws on school and classroom practices using CDC's School Health Policies and Practices Study (SHPPS); (7) conducting focus groups with key stakeholders (including district officials, school administrators, food service managers, parents/PTA, students, community members, and athletics/booster groups) to understand barriers and facilitators to wellness and related policy implementation; and (8) developing a wide range of tailored end products for dissemination across stakeholder groups, policy researchers, and the scientific community. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: See Obligation (section 122)

KY

DCBS is applying for funds to enhance efforts to uncover, investigate, disqualify, and prosecute individuals who engage in SNAP trafficking activities. This project will create innovative pilot strategies to combat SNAP trafficking in Kentucky by: increasing funding and coordination with local and state police agencies to uncover and prevent resale of goods purchased with SNAP benefits; increasing monitoring of, and response to individuals attempting to sell SNAP benefits on social media outlets, such as Facebook, craigslist, and eBay; training state and local law enforcement to better identify possible instances of SNAP trafficking; coordinating with court officials to create custom reports regarding SNAP disqualification cases; investing in legal consultation for DCBS to improve administrative disqualification hearing processes; training loss prevention personnel at retailers to spot possible SNAP trafficking activities occurring in or near their stores; and, increasing efforts to work closely with USDA OIG to coordinate simultaneous retailer and recipient investigations.

TY

The TDHS PIU will use BPR techniques to improve efforts to address SNAP recipient trafficking. The approach will consist of four phases: assessment, testing and implementation, sustainability and evaluation. During each phase, the TDHS SNAP Trafficking Project Team will perform specific tasks designed to bring consistency and efficiency to the PIUs ability to detect, investigate, and prosecute SNAP recipient trafficking. In addition, each phase and each task entails detailed analysis, development, and evaluation to ensure the impact and sustainability of the program.

MO

Missouri will use the funding to: increase the number of investigations for person-to-person EBT/SNAP trafficking and solicitation in targeted Missouri locations; disqualify and/or prosecute more traffickers; develop an investigative framework that specifically addresses person-to-person trafficking that can be used for future investigative work; and, foster and support collaborations with key partners as a means to increase the success for reducing person to person trafficking.

Missouri SNAP investigators will identify at least 100 stores in a Missouri throughout the State that have the highest likelihood of person to person trafficking. Of these, they will select at least 40 stores willing to participate in the project. They will work with retailer associations and individual store management to establish an on-site presence at the store to detect persons in the act of soliciting to sale or to purchase EBT/SNAP benefits. At project conclusion, they will convene a forum of lessons learned to brief stakeholders on non-confidential aspects of the pilot project.

WA

Washington will hire two additional Office of Fraud and Accountability (OFA) investigators to conduct investigations statewide. In addition, since OFA investigators in Washington are unarmed and cannot conduct undercover operations without the assistance of armed officers, funds will be used to provide reimbursement to the Washington State Patrol (WSP), assuring a reliable source of commissioned officers (WSP detectives) to support OFA investigators in undercover operations. The three OFA investigators (one current plus two funded by this project) will be located in different regions of the state to increase the geographic reach of SNAP trafficking investigations and prosecution. This team effort to combat SNAP trafficking is a similar model to efforts to combat drug trafficking: Multiple law enforcement agencies leverage resources to accomplish work that each cannot do on its own. Fiscal Year 2015: See Obligation (Section 122). Nevada-Grant funds will be used to create and coordinate Statewide SNAP Trafficking Prevention Team of state agencies to remove barriers to address SNAP trafficking. They will also go toward implementing an outreach program that will actively inform participants of how to properly utilize benefits and the consequences of trafficking. The SNAP Trafficking Prevention Team will be led by the Division of Welfare and Supportive Services (DWSS) and a cooperative partnership of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), Department of Public Safety Investigation Division (DPSID), Parole and Probation Division (P&P), and the Nevada Office of the Attorney General (OAG). Fiscal Year 2016: No Current Data Available

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The review panel will score and rank applications using Technical Review Criteria which includes: (1) Soundness or Merit of Project Design; (2) Implementation and Evaluation; (3) Budget Appropriateness and Economic Efficiency; (4) Staff Capability and Management.

10.610 EXPORT GUARANTEE PROGRAM

The GSM-102 Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Foreign Agricultural Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Agricultural Trade Act of 1978, Executive Order 7 U.S.C. 5602, 5622, 5661, 5662, 5663, 5664, 5676; 15 U.S.C. 714b(d), 714c(f), Executive Order 13175, Title 7, Part 1493, Section A, 15 U.S.C 714; OMB 7 CFR 1493.

OBJECTIVES:

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. The program guarantees credit extended by the private banking sector in the U.S. (or, less commonly, by the U.S. exporter) to approved foreign banks using dollar-denominated, irrevocable letters of credit for purchases of U.S. food and agricultural products by foreign buyers. USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) administers the program on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), which issues the credit guarantees. GSM 102 covers credit terms of up to three year; maximum terms may vary by country.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Guaranteed/Insured Loans

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

CCC guarantees payments due from approved foreign banks to exporters or financial institutions in the U.S. However, the financing must be obtained through normal commercial sources. Typically, 98 percent of principals and a portion of interest are covered by a guarantee. Because payment is guaranteed, financial institutions in the U.S. can offer competitive credit terms to the foreign banks, usually with interest rates based on the London Inter Bank Offered Rate (LIBOR). Any follow-up on credit arrangements between the foreign bank and the importer are negotiated separately and are not covered by the CCC guarantee.

Applicant Eligibility:

Export Credit guarantee Program (GSM-102) provides credit guarantees to encourage financing of commercial exports of U.S. agricultural products, while providing competitive credit terms to buyers. By reducing financial risk to lenders, credit guarantees encourage exports to buyers in countries-mainly developing countries- that have sufficient financial strength to have foreign exchange available for scheduled payments. This Program provides guarantees to lenders.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Exporters or the exporters assignee are the direct beneficiaries and must meet the applicant eligibility requirements. Interested parties, including U.S. exporters, foreign buyers, banks, may request that the CCC establish a GSM-102 program for a country or region. Prior to announcing the availability of guarantees, the CCC evaluates the ability of each country and foreign bank to service CCC guaranteed debt.

Credentials/Documentation:

No Credentials or documentation are required. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. CCC must qualify exporters for participation before accepting guarantee applications. An exporter must have a business office in the U.S. and must not be debarred or suspended from any U.S. government program. Financial institutions must meet established criteria and be approved by CCC. CCC sets limits and advises each approved foreign bank on the maximum amount CCC will guarantee for that bank. The

Award Procedure:

The CCC-approved foreign bank issues a dollar-denominated, irrevocable letter of credit in favor of the U.S. exporter, ordinarily advised or confirmed by the financial institution in the U.S. agreeing to extend credit to the foreign bank. The U.S. exporter may negotiate an arrangement to be paid as exports occur by assigning to the U.S. financial institution to the right to process that may become payable under the CCC's guarantee. Under this arrangement, the exporter would also provide transaction-related documents required by the financial institution, including a copy of the export report, which must also be submitted to CCC.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Please contact the headquarters or regional office for additional approval information.

Appeals:

Not Applicable.

Renewals:

Not Applicable.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 7, Chapter 14, Part 1493. CCC will review documents submitted under a claim. If all information and documents are in good order and meet the requirements of the regulations, CCC will pay to the exporter (or the exporter's assignee) the lesser of 1) the guarantee value stated in the payment guarantee, plus eligible interest; 2) the guaranteed percentage, indicated in the payment guarantee, of the exported value as indicated in the Evidence of Export, plus eligible interest. Matching requirements are not applicable to this program. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The payment guarantee applies to a credit period established in the application, and coverage begins either on the date(s) of export or the date when interest begins to accrue, whichever is earlier. Coverage will continue during the credit term specified in the payment guarantee. However, the payment guarantee does not become effective until the date of export. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: by letter of credit.

Reports:

No reports are required.

Audits:

This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements. Recipients under this program are subject to audit by the Office of the Regional Inspector General, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Records:

For CCC audit purposes, the U.S. exporter must obtain documentation to show that the commodity arrived in the eligible country, and the exporter or the exporter's assignee must maintain all transaction documents for five years from the date of completion of all payments.

Account Identification:

10.665 SCHOOLS AND ROADS - GRANTS TO STATES

Payments to States

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Secure Rural Schools and Community Self Determination Act of 2000, Division C, Section 601(a), 16. U.S.C. 7101-7153; 16 U.S.C. 500.

OBJECTIVES:

To share receipts from the National Forests and supplemental mandatory appropriations with States in which the National Forests are situated.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

FORMULA GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

For Federal fiscal years 2008 through 2011, reauthorized one year for FY 2012, reauthorized one year for FY 2013, and reauthorized for two years in 2015 to provide for payments in FY 2015 and FY 2016. The Secure Rural Schools Act allows counties in which national forests are situated to elect to share in the State payment (based on a formula in the Act) or to share in the state's 25-percent payment (based on the 7-year rolling average of receipts from national forests in the State). The fiscal year 2014 payment was made to states in May 2015. The 25-percent payments to states are to be used for the benefit of public schools and public roads in the counties in which national forests are situated. An eligible county that elects to receive a share of the State payment (based on the formula in the Act) must under some circumstances allocate a portion of that payment for title II special projects on national forests or title III county projects, or both. The portion of the Secure Rural Schools Act State payments not allocated for these purposes are to be used to benefit public schools and public roads in counties in which national forests are situated. The payments to benefit schools and roads are commonly called title I funds. Funds allocated by counties for title II special projects are reserved in a special account in the General Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for projects that improve the maintenance of existing infrastructure, enhance forest ecosystems, and restore and improve land health and water quality on national forests. Funds allocated by counties for title III county projects may be used only to: (1) carry out activities under the Firewise Communities program to provide homeowners in fire sensitive ecosystems education on, and assistance with implementing, techniques in home siting, home construction, and home landscaping that can increase the protection of people and property from wildfires; (2) reimburse the participating county for search and rescue and other emergency services, including firefighting, that are performed on a national forest after the date on which the use was approved, and paid for by the participating county; and (3) develop community wildfire protection plans in coordination with the Forest Service acting on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Applicant Eligibility:

Title I payments are made to States or territories of the United States to be allocated to counties in which national forests are situated. Title II project funds are reserved in special account in the U.S. Treasury and may be used by the Secretary of Agriculture for the purpose of entering into and implementing cooperative agreements with willing Federal agencies, State and local governments, private and nonprofit entities, and landowners. (16 U.S.C 7122). Title III funds are paid to respective states to be passed-through to participating counties.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

A beneficiary of title II special project funds is a person or entity that receives a grant or enters into a cooperative agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to carry out a project for protection, restoration, and enhancement of fish and wildlife habitat, and other resource objectives consistent with the purposes of the Secure Rural Schools Act on national forests and on non-national forest land where projects would benefit the resources on national forests. (16 U.S.C. 7122)

A beneficiary of title III funds is a participating county in which a national forest is situated that has elected to allocate a portion of its State payments for title III county projects.

Credentials/Documentation:

OMB circulars apply to title II special projects. No Credentials or documentation are required for title I or title III payments. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Statutory Formula: Statutory Formula: Under title I - Secure Payments for States and Counties Containing Federal Land, each county in an eligible state elected to receive one of the following payments: a share of the states 25- percent rolling average payment, or a share of the State payment calculated using the formula in the Secure Rural Schools Act. The payment to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act is the sum of the county elections in that state. The 25-percent payments to states, is an amount equal to the annual average of 25-percent of amounts received for the applicable fiscal year and each of the preceding 6 fiscal years from each national forest. This amount is used to calculate a county's share of the states 25-percent payment. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act. State payments for fiscal years 2008 through 2014 were calculated using a complex formula with multiple factors, including acres of proclaimed national forest within an eligible county, the average 3 highest 25-percent payments made to each eligible State for each eligible county for the eligibility period 1986 through 1999, and the annual per capita personal income for each county. The sum of shares for counties that elect to receive this payment is paid to the state under the Secure Rural Schools Act.

Matching Requirements: There are no matching requirements for the 25-percent payment to states or for the State payment. Acquisition management regulations and procedures applicable to the Forest Service for purchases, contracts, grants, and agreements may impose matching requirements on title II projects. 10.676 FOREST LEGACY PROGRAM (FLP)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978, 16 U.S.C. 2101, et. seq., as amended by the 1990 Farm Bill, Section 1217 of Title XII of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990, Public Law 101-624, 104 Stat. 3359, 16 U.S.C. 2103c; later amended by the 1996 Farm Bill, Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996; Public Law 104-127; Title III, Conservation; Subtitle G Forestry; Section 374, Optional State Grants for Forest Legacy Program.

OBJECTIVES:

To effectively protect and conserve environmentally important forest areas threatened by conversion to nonforest uses, through conservation easements or fee simple purchase. The Forest Legacy Program (FLP) is a voluntary private land conservation partnership between the Forest Service, participating States, land trusts, private landowners, and others. The Program works with State partners and operates on a willing seller and willing buyer basis and is completely nonregulatory in its approach. No eminent domain authority or adverse condemnation is authorized for this Program.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

PROJECT GRANTS

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Landowner participation in the program is voluntary and consists of two components: (1) conveying land or interests in land to achieve land conservation objectives and (2) preparing and periodically updating a Forest Stewardship Management Plan or a multi-resource management plan, when the participation is through conservation easement. State lead agencies must first evaluate and approve projects as Forest Legacy eligible before competing for Forest Service funding.

Applicant Eligibility:

Projects are evaluated and prioritized by State lead agencies, in consultation with the State Forest Stewardship Coordinating Committees. All States and territories participate except North Dakota, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and Guam.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

State agency, landowners of private forest lands, and land trust organizations.

Credentials/Documentation:

Each State must prepare a State Forest Action Plan (Statewide Assessment and Resource Strategy, including Assessments of Need incorporated by reference) in order to be eligible for program funds. The FS Regional, Area, or Institute Responsible Official must concur with the State's Forest Action Plan. Requirements for an eligible project are: (1) within an approved Forest Legacy Area and fits within the priorities of a State's AON; (2) complies with FLP State and National criteria; (3) a completed grant application; (4) an approved Forest Stewardship Plan or a multi-resource management plan, if applicable; (5) negotiated terms of a conservation easement, if applicable; (6) an approved appraisal, meeting Federal acquisition appraisal standards as outlined in the Uniform Appraisal Standards for Federal Land Acquisitions; and, (7) adequate non-Federal cost share. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Preapplication coordination is required, including negotiation of terms for the conservation easement or acquisition. Applicants should proceed with initial appraisal and Forest Stewardship Plan development, as due diligence is one of several key factors in project evaluation and ranking. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application requirements must comply with the Code of Federal Regulations (7 CFR 3016), Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Cooperative Agreements to State and Local Governments. Individual participating States have application duties and procedures.

Award Procedure:

The Forest Service conducts an annual project selection process to arrive at a prioritized national project list for inclusion in the President's budget. The Forest Service then issues grants to states for the project specific Congressional set-aside designated in the Congressional appropriations bills. The Forest Service then issues grants to states based on the amounts provided in Congressional appropriations and the prioritized national project list.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program.

Matching Requirements: Funding for the Cooperative Forest health Protection program is provided to states to help support a base level of professional forest health expertise for non-federal forest managers. Grants for this program are allocated to states using a formula that is based on the number of acres of non-federal forest land within the states, other factors, and amount of funding available through annual appropriations.

Applicant matching for cooperative Forest Health Protection programs and projects that treat specific forest health problems on non-federal lands is required and is 50%. In cases where it is mutually agreed upon that an applicant will treat federal lands as part of a cooperative project or program, the Forest Service reimbursement is 100% for the federal portion. However, applicant matching rates may be adjusted in emergency or extraordinary situations. Forest Service cost-share rates for activities involving development of new and improved forest health protection methods and technologies, and the conduct of special projects and evaluations are negotiated on a project-by-project basis with the grantee. Exceptions from the 50% cost-share requirement must be approved by the Deputy Chief for State and Private Forestry. The applicant share of cooperative programs may be in the form of cash, services, or in-kind contributions. If a state elects to consolidate the annual Forest Service financial assistance, in lieu of functional cost sharing mechanisms, the total consolidated payment to any state during any fiscal year may not exceed the total amount of non-federal funds expended to implement its state forest resources program during that year. 10.681 WOOD EDUCATION AND RESOURCE CENTER (WERC)

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Law 105-277, Div. A, Section 101(e) Title III, Section 343, 112 Stat. 2681-231, 2681-297; Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978, as amended, 16 USC 2101 et, seq.; Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Act of 1978, as amended, 6 USC 1600-1614.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide technical assistance and funds, on a cost-share basis, for projects that enhance opportunities for sustained forest products production for primary and secondary wood industries located in the eastern hardwood forest region of the United States. In order to maintain and improve the health and stewardship of our Nation's forests, local wood-using industries need to be vibrant and able to utilize a wide variety of resources from the forest. Priorities include:

Maintain the economic competitiveness of primary and secondary wood industries. Examples include:

- 1) Encouraging the adoption of new technology to improve competitiveness and profitability,
- 2) Bringing information and technology about processing, marketing, and business-related skills as well as urban wood utilization to existing and emerging businesses, and
- 3) Developing utilization options that improve forest stewardship and health.
- 4) Support activities that maintain or enhance harvesting industry capacity to serve the wood industry.

Increase the knowledge and information about how the wood industry can contribute to the green building movement. Examples include chain of custody certification for sustainable wood products as well as life cycle analysis for a range of wood products.

Increase the knowledge, information, and promotion of how carbon sequestration by wood products can provide a competitive edge to a sustainable forest products industry. An example includes developing specific carbon storage factors for a range of wood products.

Develop technology and markets to address urgent issues on a global or domestic scale, including:

- 1) Sanitizing wood packaging materials, firewood, and similar products to eliminate these pathways for the transport of insect and disease pests, and
- 2) Developing markets for and using unexpected increases in the volume of urban and rural wood due to new pest introductions (for example, emerald ash borer) and weather events such as tornadoes and ice storms.

Increase the sustainable use of woody biomass to meet our Nations needs for energy, raw materials, and reductions of hazardous fuels. Examples include public/private partnerships for using woody biomass in heating and cooling, process energy, cogeneration, district energy systems, and solid and liquid fuel production. Projects may also develop or maintain local markets and forest industry infrastructure by using woody biomass for both energy and value-added products. Provide key information to address the economic, social and ecological aspects of woody biomass production and use: including sustainable supplies, harvesting techniques, forest management, plantation development, and environmental implications.

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: The National Fish and Wildlife Foundation (NFWF) is an independent 501(c)(3) charity established by Congress in 1984 that protects, restores, and enhances the Nation's fish, wildlife, plants, and habitats. The Foundations greatest asset is its position at the nexus of the conservation community. Its myriad conservation partnerships connect it with potentially every federal and state agency, key industry leaders, concerned private citizens, and nonprofit leadership from the international to the local level. Since its establishment, NFWF has awarded more than 11,000 grants to 3,700 organizations in the United States and abroad and leveraged more than $650 million in federal and private funds into more than $1.7 billion for on-the-ground conservation.

NFWF began its relationship with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service in 1988 with a $30,000 challenge grant to restore trout habitat ravaged by flooding in the Monongahela National Forest. In 1995, the partnership expanded when Forest Service provided funds to the Foundation to launch a grant program focused on improving the ecological health of our National Forests. To date, NFWF has entered into 27 funding agreements with the Forest Service with a total agreement value of over $49.2 million. The Foundation has undertaken more than 1,229 projects in partnership with the Forest Service and has leveraged more than $44 million in Forest Service funds with more than $251 million for targeted, on-the-ground conservation. Foundation grants have been made in more than 100 National Forests and Research Stations in all nine regions of the Forest Service.

Additionally, NFWF and the FS have entered into a number of new Cooperative Agreements that include the multi-agency Monarch Conservation Fund, Youth Engagement Initiative, the Urban Waters Initiative and Longleaf Pine Restoration Fund. These new collaborations have been extremely successful in leveraging limited federal funds with non-federal funds and performing high-priority conservation work on the ground.

For example, in Fiscal Year 2012, 20 projects were funded representing a FS investment of $1,762,508, matched by $20,683,527 of non-federal funds for a leverage of nearly 1:11. Additional projects will be funded with FY2012 funds over the next 4 years until the expiration of the Cooperative Agreement in 2017. Fiscal Year 2015: Projected data not available. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: No Current Data Available Fiscal Year 2015: Forest Service funding is apportioned between NFWF strategic keystone initiatives, and targeted charter grant programs. Among each program, a handful of high-priority projects are selected for funding each fiscal year. The following list summarizes the emphasis areas for fiscal years 2014 and 2015

Strategic Keystone Initiatives Starting in 2008, the Foundation realigned its grant making to be more targeted and conservation outcome-based. Keystone Initiatives were designed to achieve a measurable conservation outcome in a five to ten year timeframe. Specific goals and strategies are identified for each initiative through the development of business plans that serve as guides for the types of projects that will be considered for funding by NFWF. Each year, approximately 60% of the Forest Service contributions support these keystone initiatives.

1. Wildlife and Landscape Scale Habitat Keystone: Addresses conservation needs for mammals, reptiles, amphibians, invertebrates, and native plants. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Sierra Nevada Wet Meadow restoration and Northern Rockies Wildlife Corridors (eastern Idaho and western Montana).

2. Freshwater Fish and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on high-priority species and habitat for freshwater fish and associated aquatic life such as mussels, crayfish, and invertebrates. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on Eastern Brook Trout (Virginia and West Virginia) and Apache Trout (Arizona).

3. Bird and Habitat Keystone: Focuses on migratory and resident bird species and their habitat. The Foundation is currently working with the Forest Service on to promote the conservation of Gunnison Sage Grouse (Colorado and Utah) and a wide variety of Southeastern grassland birds such as bobwhite quail and Bachmans sparrow.

Charter Grant Programs FS Funds (approximately 40% of Forest Service funding) are also awarded through targeted Charter Grant Programs which include:

Bring Back the Natives seeks to implement the National Fish Habitat Initiative Action Plan by supporting on the ground watershed restoration and native fish

Pulling Together Initiative is a unified effort by NFWF and DOI and DOA to fund and implement effective, long-term invasive plant management at the local level.

Sustain Our Great Lakes Grant Program funds organizations working to protect, restore, or enhance the habitat for fish, wildlife, and plants of the Great Lakes watershed.

Chesapeake Bay Small Watershed Grant Program provides grants to organizations and local governments working on a community level to protect and improve watersheds in the Chesapeake Bay basin.

Upper Mississippi River Watershed Fund supports projects benefiting forest stewardship and the restoration of watersheds in the Upper Mississippi River drainage. Fiscal Year 2016: No Current Data Available

10.690 LAKE TAHOE EROSION CONTROL GRANT PROGRAM

FEDERAL AGENCY:

Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

AUTHORIZATION:

Lake Tahoe Restoration Act, Public Law 106-506, as amended by Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2004, Public Law 108-108.

OBJECTIVES:

To make annual payments to the governing bodies of each of the political subdivisions (including public utilities) located in the Lake Tahoe Basin to be used primarily for erosion control and water quality projects. The goal of the program is to provide federal assistance to address urban stormwater runoff pollution, the primary source of pollutants (fine sediment and nutrients) affecting the clarity of Lake Tahoe. This program addresses urban runoff from public roads and right of ways.

To fund a competitive grant award program for research projects high in technical merit and relevant to land management and regulatory agencies working in the Tahoe Basin. The goal of the program is to promote applied, timely, relevant research that addresses natural resource management needs in the basin. Research funded through this program addresses key management questions, includes input from agencies, produces decision-support tools that are useful and accessible, fosters collaboration and communication, builds on previous research, and ultimately addresses the science needs identified in the Lake Tahoe Environmental Improvement Program. The environmental goals of the Lake Tahoe Environmental Improvement Program are defined using thresholds that were established to protect the natural environment and maintain public health and safety within the basin. The threshold categories are: 1) water quality, 2) wildlife, 3) soil conservation, 4) scenic resources, 5) air quality, 6) recreation, 7) vegetation, 8) noise, and 9) fisheries.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements; Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Only after water quality and soil conservation thresholds have been achieved, funds may be used to address other environmental threshold categories. Payments shall be used only to carry out a project or proposed project that is part of the environmental improvement program adopted by the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency in 1998.

Applicant Eligibility:

Eligible applicants for National Forest System awards includes State Forestry or equivalent agencies, tribes, non-profits, and municipalities in the local governing bodies of political subdivisions in the Lake Tahoe basin.

Eligible applicants for competitive research awards includes State Agricultural Experiment Stations, universities and colleges, State and local governments, U.S. Territories, nonprofit research institutions or organizations, international organizations, individuals, and for-profit organizations.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Beneficiary eligibility for National Forest System awards include governing bodies of each of the political subdivisions (including public utilities) located in the Lake Tahoe Basin.

Beneficiary eligibility for competitive research awards include organizations and scientists involved in basic and applied research activities related to forest and rangeland renewable resources.

Credentials/Documentation:

No credentials or documentation are required. 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Submittal of an annual list of priority projects, along with written proposals for each of the identified priority projects. The USFS has chosen to adopt the State guidelines for the format of these proposals, since they meet all the needs for project narratives for federal grant considerations, with one additional requirement. That additional requirement is clear identification of sources and amounts of proposed match funding.

Implementation of construction projects under awarded grants are not allowed until a signed project decision under NEPA has been made, allowing the use of federal grant funds for implementation. Local Office monitors grant awards to assure compliance of this restriction. Planning, design, and monitoring grants do not require an environmental impact assessment. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program.

For competitive research awards, applicants must adhere to the requirements of the current Request for Proposals as stipulated by the Pacific Southwest Research Station. An environmental impact assessment is required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Project narratives submitted through the pre-application process are reviewed by an interagency technical advisory committee convened by the Federal grants program managers. Projects are then identified for award, along with instructions for any needed revisions to the project narratives. At that time, eligible applicants submit revised narratives along with standard application forms and assurances to the Local Office, as furnished by the Federal agency.

For competitive research awards, a complete proposal must be submitted following guidelines provided by the Pacific Southwest Research Station. The proposal must explain in detail the work to be undertaken, the qualifications of key personnel involved in the work, other resources such as equipment, facilities, and services available or needed, and a proposed budget for each fiscal year during the life of the proposed grant. A short biographical sketch of the principal investigator and a list of his or her principal publications should be included.

Award Procedure:

National Forest System will send an award letter to grantee, with identification of grant requirements, in letter from Local Office.

Research award proposals must compete for priority, showing technical competence and demonstrating the ability to meet regional needs. Research grants cooperative agreements are made only in support of forestry research and monitoring of the Lake Tahoe Basin. Unsolicited proposals can be awarded for innovative or unique approaches to the proposed project.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional office, as appropriate, for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 90 to 120 days. For competitive research grants or cooperative agreements contact Pacific Southwest Research Station's Tahoe Science Coordinator.

Appeals:

Contact Research Station for guidance regarding competitive research grants or cooperative agreements.

Renewals:

From 60 to 90 days. Extensions can be made for individual grants as long as end dates do not exceed five years post award date.

For competitive research awards requests for continued support will be considered as equal in importance and in competition with pending proposals. Applications submitted for continued support should be identical to a new proposal, except that a resume of progress to date must be added.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formulas are not applicable to this program. Matching Requirements: Percent: 50.%. For National Forest System awards, notwithstanding section 9(b) of Public Law 106 506, funds hereinafter appropriated under Public Law 106506 shall require matching funds from non-Federal sources on the basis of aggregate contribution to the Environmental Improvement Program, as defined in Public Law 106506, rather than on a project by-project basis, except for those activities provided under section 9(c) of that Act, to which this amendment shall not apply.

For competitive research awards, as authorized by Public Law 106506 section 6(b) and 6(d), the applicant's contribution is negotiated for grants. The proposed budget by fiscal year shows the estimated cost of the complete project from grant funds and value of resources to be contributed by the applicant. Salaries of academic personnel for periods when they receive salary for teaching should not be included for payment from grant funds. The minimum matching contribution for Cooperative Agreements must constitute at least 20-percent of the estimated total cost of the project. MOE requirements are not applicable to this program.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Grants are awarded for a period not to exceed 5 years. Invoices may be submitted no more frequently than monthly. See the following for information on how assistance is awarded/released: Payments made based on authorization and negotiation of provisions with cooperator.

Reports:

Accomplishment reports are required at least annually, but not more than quarterly as detailed in the applicable OMB Circulars and the grant award. A final accomplishment report, financial expenditures report, and final as-built project design drawings are required within 90 days of project completion.

For competitive research awards, in addition to project-specific reports and products, all funded projects are required to submit quarterly project updates in January, April, July, and October and annual accomplishments reports to comply with the requirements of the Tahoe Science Program. Proposals must account for these reports in the project budgets and timelines. A final progress report showing all tasks complete and a final accomplishments report must be submitted along with the final project report and/or products. The final invoice and the final federal financial report (SF-425) must be submitted within 90 days of the Pacific Southwest Research Station agreement end date. No cash reports are required. No progress reports are required. Financial expenditures reporting is required. SF-425. Performance monitoring is not applicable.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, non-Federal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Grants must address planning, construction, or monitoring of projects identified in the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency environmental improvement program (EIP). Projects submitted from this list are selected based on the annual priority list provided by the eligible local governments, and direction provided in the LTRA: 1) The total amounts appropriated for payments under this subsection shall be allocated by the Secretary of Agriculture based on the relative need for and merits of projects proposed for payment under this section. 2) To the maximum extent practicable, for each fiscal year, the Secretary of Agriculture shall ensure that each political subdivision in the Lake Tahoe basin receives amounts appropriated for payments under this subsection.

The Pacific Southwest Research Station (PSW) will complete an administrative review of all submitted proposals to ensure that proposal specifications as outlined in the Request for Proposals are met. Proposals passing the administrative review will be forwarded to the Tahoe Science Consortium (TSC). The TSC will coordinate technical reviews of the proposals. Proposals passing technical review will be forwarded to Tahoe Basin agency personnel for relevancy reviews. The TSC will coordinate a synthesis of the results from the technical reviews and agency relevancy reviews to create a list of proposals recommended for funding. PSW will review the suite of recommended proposals to finalize funding allocations; proposals recommended for funding are not guaranteed funding due to constraints on funding allocations. Final funding allocations for recommended proposals will be determined by the number of projects recommended for funding and individual project budgets. Some projects may be identified as alternates to receive support should funds become available during the negotiation of awards. PSW reserves the right to negotiate scopes of work, budget amounts, and deliverables with Principal Investigators based upon feedback from the review process and to comply with Forest Service policies. Projects may be required to modify their proposed indirect cost rates and/or demonstrate cost share contributions. Once the recommendations and funding allocations have been finalized, PSW will forward the package of recommended projects to the Tahoe Regional Executive Committee (TRES) and to the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) for final approval.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

Fiscal Year 2014: Arkansas School for Mathematics, Sciences and the Arts: Rural Development funds will be used to purchase servers and video application software that will fortify a high-technology high-capability distance learning hub at the Arkansas School for Mathematics, Sciences and the Arts location in Hot Springs. This server farm will be used to manage and coordinate the distance learning activities between the 16 high schools in the project and the individual academic relationships that each school has with ASMSA teachers and mentors. The servers and their functional software will be specifically applied to support the target high schools of the project, located in the Delta region, with a strong focus on sciences, technologies, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). The projected end result is to create a high availability environment for STEM instructors and their classes (live or streamed), for content management, and collaboration providing students from the Delta Region with a strong STEM background and experience.

Gonzales Healthcare Systems Foundation

Rural Development funds will be used to update Gonzales Hospitals teleradiological equipment and related data and imaging information management systems. Critical teleradiological services provided by Gonzales Hospital (serving 18,000 patients per year that require radiological diagnostics) have recently come to a halt because of the obsolete functionality of the existing equipment and inoperable data formats for radiological imaging in its various modalities. With the new system in place radiologists (located many hours away) will be able to resume services in reading the hospitals transmitted images. Clinical specialties such as cardiology, endoscopy, mammography, orthopedic, neurology, vascular, gastroenterology and bronchoscopy rely on the hospitals radiological capacity to transmit visual data and accompanying information. The benefits of the upgrade will have a major impact on the hospitals overall level of care and effectiveness in serving its patients. Fiscal Year 2015: Reviews for the current Fiscal Year are ongoing, and we cannot pre-judge who will receive awards. If history is any indication, it will be approximately 60-70 awards with a mixture of Distance Learning and Telemedicine purposes. Fiscal Year 2016: No Current Data Available
