

Ronald M. Sekerak
Dallas, Texas

1971 University of Michigan BSE, Engineering Mechanics

1973 University of Michigan MSE, Industrial, Operations and Systems Engineering

1973-1979 Arthur Andersen & Co., Management Consulting Division
Designed, coded, and installed manufacturing control systems
Managed project and product development teams
Analyzed/implemented profit improvement programs
Provided technical support for telecommunications and data base design projects
Developed and taught manufacturing, computer, and management course material

1979-1981 Stanford University MBA
Summer 1980 Booz Allen & Hamilton, Manufacturing Consulting Division

1981-1985 Trammell Crow Company
Developed financial, management, and operations control systems
Managed Administrative Services Division, supporting local real estate offices
Researched solutions to reduce construction project interest costs
Created "new real estate business models" (e.g., telecommunications, property and suite management)

1985-1991 Markron International
Worked on a variety of hands-on and/or consulting projects, including:
-consumer videos
-office building construction management
-data matching software
-new company development
-oil field products
-investment analysis
-litigation support
-environmental waste removal
-vegetable wholesaler

1991-2000 Food Service Technologies
Founded and operated a restaurant services company providing a bio-remediation solution to control waste grease
Sold operations to a public company consolidating the liquid waste processing industry throughout the United States

2002-2014 Northwood University Chair, Entrepreneurship Studies Department (plus taught variety of classes as needed)
Taught Math (developmental, algebra, statistics), Economics (micro, macro, honors), Entrepreneurship (family business, new enterprise management, niche marketing, financing alternatives, venture capital), Finance (real estate), International Business, Management (introduction, applied, risk management, strategic planning)

2014-present University of North Texas Dallas Adjunct Instructor
Taught Developmental Math to traditional and adult students