

Go green on Earth Day, come hear the ABJO!

Celebrate Earth Day this year with the Alan Baylock Jazz Orchestra. The band will be going "green" with selections like One Mint Julep and On Green Dolphin Street, and at least half of the band has agreed to arrive at the club in a hybrid vehicle.

Featuring some of the best jazz musicians on the East Coast, the award-winning ABJO will be showcasing music from their last two recordings, in addition to brand new music that will be featured on upcoming releases.

The New York Times calls Blues Alley, "The nation's finest jazz and supper club." Come experience the exciting sounds of the ABJO in this historic club in the heart of Georgetown. Reservations are recommended and students are half-price.

Wednesday, April 22, 2009, sets at 8pm and 10pm

Blues Alley Jazz Supper Club,
1073 Wisconsin Ave., NW, Washington, D.C.

For tickets, call 202-337-4141
or visit www.bluesalley.com