K. Whisnant Turner and Donald R. Louis. "Anticipating Changing Demographics and Including Older Adults with Developmental Disabilities." A seminal research paper, refereed by national academic and professional leaders in aging and mental retardation; and chosen for presentation at the opening session of the national White House Conference on Aging's Mini-Conference Relating to Persons with Mental Retardation. This cornerstone paper identifies problems, barriers, and potential solutions associated with providing community services to older persons with developmental disabilities. Also, it presents a planning methodology for projecting the future service needs and requirements for this population. It was published in a post-conference report: submitted to the White House Conference on Aging, Office of the President of the United States.

K. Whisnant Turner. Critical Commentary in a 1995 award-winning training video, Commitment to Giving: Volunteers for Childhood Immunization. Provided critical commentary as Project Evaluator in a training video which was developed for the replication of a federal Administration on Aging project titled "Seniors for Childhood Immunization." This project was administered by the Texas Institute for Research and Education on Aging (TIREA). This nationally recognized training video has been syndicated by TIREA and distributed at state, regional and national training conferences addressing intergenerational programming and childhood immunization.
