Personal Statement:

In the space below, please provide a brief (200 word max) statement about your approach to addressing the root causes of social issues and their potential for developing innovative and collaborative strategies for addressing public problems.

Example: I first became involved in addressing issues of economic inequality by volunteering with my family at a nearby homeless shelter on Saturdays while growing up. As I got older and became more involved in addressing homelessness in local communities, I came to understand how societal systems co work together to create cycles of poverty and can make it incredibly difficult for individuals to get a new start. On campus, I lead one of our student service organizations that raises money and organizes volunteers for the homeless shelter in town. I also am involved in community efforts to resist potential legislation that would criminalize homelessness and to advocate for policy proposals that would provide greater alternative sentencing options for youth convicted of nonviolent minor crimes.

(Should you be selected for this Fellowship, this personal statement will be used for publicity purposes and will be featured on Campus Compact's website.)

Summary of Civic Engagement:

In the space below, please provide a summary (200 words max), written in third person, of how you have previously, or how you are currently implementing the following three points:

- Engaging in collaborative action with others from campus or from surrounding communities in order to create long-term social change
- Taking action in addressing issues of inequality, social injustices, or political polarization
