Spring Soar Call for Programs

Spring Soar is an extension of our First Flight welcome week program. It takes place the first week of classes during the spring semester and is intended to help new students transition to our campus. This year, Spring Soar will be Monday, January 14 – Sunday, January 20.

Program submissions will be compiled into a publication given out during our January orientation sessions and the first week of classes. Our hope is that new students will attend as many programs as they can during the first week to get better acquainted with the support services and involvement opportunities available to them. Program proposals must be submitted by Friday, November 9, to be included in the Spring Soar Publication. Please submit your programs using this link.

The logo for Spring Soar features the words "SPRING" and "SOAR" stacked vertically. Both words are written in a bold, green, sans-serif font. The letters have a slight 3D effect with a lighter green shadow underneath them.

NOTE: Classroom space will not be released until January 2019 which is too late for us to meet our printing deadline. If you are using classroom space for your programs, please submit your program by the deadline (Nov. 9) and use TBA for the location. We will update our website with program locations in January.

Every student at UNT has the potential to succeed. Despite this, the transition to college can often be difficult for students as they begin to navigate a new environment where they are now responsible for all of their decisions. In an effort to help our students better transition to UNT, Spring Soar is designed to:

- Provide students with a sense of preparedness for their first year of college (My Prep)
- Begin to build a sense of community (My Life)

- Begin to formulate beneficial physical and mental lifelong habits (My Health and Wellness)
- Begin to make plans for the future (My Future)

Please contact Aundrea.Caraway@unt.edu if you have any questions.
