

About Our Instructors

Industry/Executive Education

Virginie Lopez-Kidwell

Virginie Lopez-Kidwell is an Assistant Professor in the College of Business, Department of Management, at the University of North Texas.

About The Instructor

Dr. Lopez-Kidwell's research interests include social networks, the role of affect in organizational behaviors and social dynamics, and power and dependence in workplace relationships. She has published in the Academy of Management Journal, Organization Science, Journal of Consumer Behavior, Journal of Organizational Behavior, Group & Organization Management, Social Networks among others

Professional Background

In addition to her work as an Assistant Professor, Dr. Lopez-Kidwell conducts consulting projects with various organizations to research, optimize, train, engage workforce and improve performance using the latest organizational psychology tools as well as social network analysis. She teaches at the undergraduate, MBA, doctoral and executive level.

Educational Background

Dr. Lopez-Kidwell received her Ph.D. in Management from the University of Kentucky. She also obtained an M.S. in economics from the University of Kentucky, and a B.S. in Finance from Virginia Tech.

Academic Interests

Emotional Intelligence / Conflict Resolution / Negotiation Skills / Power & Influence / Navigating Socio-Political Dynamics in the Workplace / Personal Effectiveness / Social Network Analysis