Facility Snapshot/Description

The Prairieland Detention Center, a DIGSA facility is located in rural Alvarado, Texas, forty miles south-east of Dallas. The city of Alvarado, PFC Board of Directors owns the facility. The facility, which is managed and operated by LaSalle Corrections pursuant to a contract with ICE, houses adult male and female ICE detainees of all classification levels.

ICE maintains an on-site presence in the facility.

The facility design includes thirteen general population dormitories. One linear segregation unit houses male detainees. Dormitory capacities range from 36 to 82 beds. Each dormitory has a dedicated outdoor recreation area that detainees may freely access as well as a separate indoor common area for leisure time activities. Each dormitory is furnished with televisions and telephones and electronic tablets are available for detainee use. Board games and leisure reading materials are available. All detainee movement outside of the housing units is escorted.

The inspection team visited all areas of the facility and found the environment to be calm and sanitation was good in all areas. Detainees were observed interacting with each other and with facility staff. Detainees approached the inspectors without hesitation. Detainees were interviewed in groups or in a private, confidential setting in all housing areas. All detainees stated that they felt safe in the facility and a number of detainees stated that they had been housed in other facilities prior to arriving at this facility and they were very pleased with the services and treatment they are receiving now. Detainees stated that all facility staff are professional and treat them with respect. Several detainees stated that they had submitted requests to ICE for information regarding their cases and had not received any response. One detainee housed in segregation stated that he had filed several grievances with ICE and had received no response. The inspector spoke to ICE personnel who reviewed the logs and found that the detainee had submitted several requests which had been answered but that he had not filed any grievances.

Seventeen LEP detainees were interviewed individually. Fifteen were interviewed in Spanish by a bilingual inspector and two detainees speaking Russian and Mandarin were interviewed using the Language Line. All of the detainees stated that they felt safe at the facility and they were being treated well. One detainee did not like the food as it was not what he was used to. The detainee who spoke Mandarin only wanted to know when his court date was. He was advised to speak to his ICE officer.
